HOTELMEN PROVE USEFUL IN WAR EFFORT

By Professor Howard B. Meek, Head of Department of Hotel Administration

Kevin E. Howard, who received the BS in Hotel Administration at Cornell in 1931, is now in charge of the equipment and operation of Pan-American Airways bases across equatorial Africa, used in ferrying US military planes to the Near and Far East. Associated with him are ten other graduates of the Department of Hotel Administration. Adolph M. Lucha '35, with six Cornell men in his organization, is responsible for the feeding and housing of 50,000 munitions workers at the Ravenna, Ohio, ordnance plant of the Atlas Powder Co.

Many Alumni In Service

These are only two of many important projects directly connected with the war effort in which Hotel graduates are engaged. Of 544 active alumni, 145 are known to be in military service, and more are going in daily. Forty of them hold commissions in the Army and sixteen in the Navy, and fifteen are aviation cadets. The Army Quartermaster Corps and the Navy Supply Corps have naturally attracted many Hotel graduates.

Among the calls received by the Department for assistance have been requests from the Navy for a man to run the base facilities at a large Atlantic coast airfield, for two top-notch men trained and experienced in cafeteria and low-cost feeding operations, and a man to manage a large club for officers at an important shore base. The Army has drawn its officer material chiefly from those trained in the advanced ROTC, but requests have been made for men to operate various billeting and feeding projects and exchange services, and for men who could be trained as mess inspectors. Some of the Federal civilian agencies have called for men trained to tackle housing problems. And many graduates are solving feeding and housing problems associated with war industry and transportation.

These results were to be expected, because the present war is being fought by specialists supported by specialists. The specialist in hotel administration is particularly valuable, because he knows about food, its selection, purchase, storage, preparation, and service, and he is thoroughly grounded in business subjects such as accounting, business promotion, and personnel management. He has also covered a substantial program in maintenance engineering.

Of the forty-six physically eligible Hotel Seniors, thirty-two are enrolled in the armed services and have continued their studies in inactive status. Sixteen are cadet officers in the ROTC, thirteen being assigned to the Quartermaster Corps. Another sixteen are in various branches of the Navy, eight in the Supply Corps.

Department Teaches Specialists

What adaptation has been made in the Hotel Administration curriculum? What acceleration is planned? Since the coverage of the curriculum as a preparation for dealing with food and shelter problems was already as nearly complete as staff and facilities would permit, not many changes have been made. Hotel students have considerable freedom of election; twenty-four credit hours out of the 120 required are taken from the wide range of "Hotel electives" offered by the Department, and another twenty-four are chosen at will from any College of the University. Students may, therefore, shift the emphasis in their respective programs by electing subjects like mathematics that may have a definite military significance and usefulness.

Instructors, too, are making adaptations by changes in the selection of illustrations and laboratory exercises. The popularity of the course in personnel management given by Professor Andrew L. Winsor, Phd '29, has led to the organization of a new course in Military Personnel which has had enrollment of 144 this term. In foods, attention is being given to sugarless recipes, to problems of canteen operation, use of mobile kitchens, and the like.

Since the Hotel Department has always operated on a twelve-month basis, using the three summer months for required supervised practice in the industry, and since both the Army and Navy have indicated their appreciation of the value of this experience, acceleration in the usual sense is not possible.

Thirteen Seniors in Hotel Administration have received commissions as second lieutenants in the Army and will be assigned to active duty in the Quartermaster's Department immediately after Commencement. Left to right above (top row): Gordon H. Hines, Baltimore, Md.; Kenneth I. Zeigler, White Plains; Conrad Engelhardt, New York City; Douglas B. Shivers, Chipley, Fla.; Leonard W. Lefevre, Dannemora; Paul B. Handlery, Vallejo, Cal. Front row: Charles W. Jack, Rochester; H. Ward Wannop, Kingston; James S. Patterson, Washington, Pa.; J. Wilbur Wannop, Kingston; Harold W. Zimmerman, Washington Court House, Ohio. Noble E. Fields of Dodge City, Kans., and Frank A. Crowley of Worcester, Mass., are not in the picture. Fenner

No summer offerings are planned for regular undergraduate Hotel students this year. Unless they have completed the practice requirement, they are expected to spend the summer at the usual supervised employment. The longer summer made possible by the shorter fall and spring terms will, however, permit a larger number of students than usual to complete their practice in two summers rather than three, thus shortening the total elapsed time necessary to earn the degree.

Offer Two-Year Program

Further, to meet the needs of those students who expect to be called for military service before they have an opportunity to complete the requirements for the BS degree, the Department has arranged a program of courses that may be compassed in two school years (four terms) and a summer of supervised practice, upon the completion of which, with satisfactory grades, the Department will award a certificate. Holders of the certificate will be eligible for membership in the Cornell Society of Hotelmen and will receive, so far as their training and abilities warrant, the full support of the Department placement office.

The two-year-certificate program will be open to all those registered in the Department as candidates for degrees, and only to them. The certificate will be awarded on request to all those candidates who complete with satisfactory grades the specified courses. Credit in all of the courses will count toward the Bachelor's degree, so that when students are able to continue their education they may complete the remainder of the four-year program. This plan has the advantage of giving the student as strong a professional program as possible in the age interval between eighteen and twenty (respectively the customary age at graduation from high school and the age of possible military service), with a certificate at the completion thereof, and at the same time permitting normal progress toward eventual graduation with the degree of Bachelor of Science. The two-year program is not in any sense less rigorous than the regular course. It will, in fact, be more difficult, because in attempting to include as much professional work as possible in two years, some foundation courses have been omitted or postponed.

It is expected that many who complete the two-year program will be allowed to continue toward graduation because of the possibility of inactive duty with the Army or Navy through ROTC advanced course, the Navy Supply Corps, and the Navy D-V(P) and V-7 programs. A special arrangement of the curriculum with extra emphasis on mathematics and physics has been set up and approved for students in V-1, which is now prerequisite for V-7.

In summary, the story is one of gradual and increasing recognition by the Army and the Navy that in the Department of Hotel Administration they have a valuable source of supply of men trained to deal with a group of problems which, while not directly related to fire-power, have much to do with the effectiveness of fighting forces.

DANCE CLUB officers for next year are Judith L. Kobrin '44 of Brooklyn, president; Gloria D. Denzler '43 of Baldwin, vice-president; Eunice Gitlow '44 of Yonkers, secretary-treasurer.

Students in Hotel Administration get practice in planning, preparing, and serving food that makes them invaluable to the military services and in housing and supply of war industries.

About ATHLETICS

BASEBALL AT BOTTOM

The baseball team dropped to the cellar of the Eastern Intercollegiate League last week by losing twice to Pennsylvania, 5-4 and 2-0, at Philadelphia Monday and breaking even in two games, both 8-5, with Harvard at Cambridge Saturday. In between, Cornell lost a non-League game to Syracuse, 6-4, on Hoy Field Wednesday.

The Pennsylvania games were postponed from May 9, and were played without the services of several key players who returned to Ithaca for necessary class work.

Standing of the League teams:

	W	L	PC
Princeton	6	1	.857
Harvard	4	3	.571
Pennsylvania	5	5	.500
Dartmouth	3	3	.500
Yale	3	3	.500
Columbia	4	7	.364
Cornell	3	6	.333

The week's lone victory, over Harvard, was pitched by Leo Hamalian '42. At Philadelphia, he pitched a seven-hitter and struck out seven batters, but lost by one run through poor Cornell base running and failure to hit at the right time.

SIXTH IN HEPTAGONAL

The track team finished sixth in the Heptagonal Games Association's annual meet at Cambridge, Mass., last Saturday, with the host, Harvard, a surprise winner with 66 1/5 points. Yale scored 61 7/10, and the next four finishers were blanketed within a point: Dartmouth 26 1/3, Princeton 26 1/30, Pennsylvania 26, and Cornell 25 11/15. Columbia finished last with 8.

Cornell took two of the fifteen first places, each good for 6 points. Charles E. Shaw, Jr. '43 won the 100-yard dash in 10:02—slow time because of a stiff wind—and Robert A. W. Pullman '43, Captain Kenneth I. Zeigler '42, Gerald N. Bowne '43, and Arthur C. Smith '43, the mile relay in 3:25.2.

Paul M. Kelsey '43 picked up 3 points with third place in the mile; Smith, 3 more with third place in the 880-yard run; Clark R. Sanford '44, 2 points with fourth place in the hammer throw at 136 feet 9 inches; Aubrey E. Robinson '43, Ward F. Moore '44, Roe E. Wells '44, and Shaw, 2 points with fourth place in the 440-yard relay; and Captain Zeigler, 1 point with fifth in the 880.

Three Cornellians were involved in ties. John L. Haughwout '45 and Richard M. Junge '43 shared with three others third place in the pole vault at 12 feet 6 inches, picking up 2 2/5 points. Wells tied with two others for fifth place in the high jump at 5 feet 8 3/4 inches, picking up 1/3 point.

Earlier in the week, the squad elected Smith and Lyman W. Warfield '43, hurdler, co-captains for 1943.

FIVE CREWS RACE

Defeated in three earlier races, Princeton's varsity crew defeated Cornell and Yale to win the Carnegie Cup on the Housatonic River at Derby, Conn., last Saturday. Princeton, thus accomplishing the upset of the Eastern rowing season, won by three-quarters of a length over the two-mile course, with Cornell the same distance ahead of Yale, the pre-race favorite.

Cornell's Freshman and undefeated Junior Varsity crews won their races handily over the same course, with Princeton second in each race and Yale third. The Junior Varsity won by one and one-half lengths, the Freshmen by three. Times of the races:

Varsity: Princeton, 10:46.2; Cornell, 10:49.8; Yale, 10:52.8.

Junior Varsity: Cornell, 11:24.8; Princeton, 11:32.2; Yale, 11:55.

Freshman: Cornell, 11:07; Princeton, 11:19.8; Yale, 11:34.4.

Cornell's Varsity, with Richard O. Jones '44 in the stroke seat for the first time, held to a low beat until the race was almost over, rowing 29 strokes a minute from the half-mile to the mile mark and keeping at 30 and 31 strokes until a quarter-mile from the finish. By that time it was too late to overtake the surprising Princeton eight.

On Princeton's Carnegie Lake the same day, Cornell's 150-pound crew finished fourth in the Eastern Collegiate Rowing Association's annual Wright Cup regatta. Princeton won, a half-length ahead of Pennsylvania, with Harvard third. Columbia and MIT trailed Cornell. Princeton's time for the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths was 6:40.8.

Cornell's Freshman 150-pound crew won over the same course in 6:50.8, defeating Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Columbia in that order.

GOLF BREAKS EVEN

The golf team split two matches last week to finish its season with six victories and five defeats.

After a 6-3 victory over Bucknell on the University golf course Monday, the team lost, 5-4, to Syracuse at Syracuse.

The Freshman golfers played a 4 1/2-4 1/2 tie with Manlius School at Manlius.

LACROSSE TEAMS LOSE

The Varsity and Freshman lacrosse teams were defeated last Saturday, the US Naval Academy winning the varsity game at Annapolis, 7-2, and Syracuse taking a 9-3 decision in the freshman game at Syracuse.

Weather conditions cancelled the Cortland Normal and Pennsylvania tennis matches and the Syracuse freshman baseball game; gasoline rationing, the Mercersburg Academy-Freshman track meet.

The Varsity closed its season with two victories and four defeats; the Freshmen lost only one of four games.

CANCEL POUGHKEEPSIE RACE

Cancellation of the annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, held at Poughkeepsie, was announced last week. Asa S. Bushnell, secretary, said that the cancellation was only for 1942 and not for the duration.

Inability to find an acceptable date brought the action. The races were tentatively scheduled for June 6 on Onondaga Lake after the usual Poughkeepsie site was ruled out because of tidal conditions.

The Poughkeepsie regatta was cancelled during the war years of 1917-1919 and in the depression year of 1933.

COACHES JOIN NAVY

Two more coaches have been commissioned in the US Naval Reserve. Head coach of baseball, Mose P. Quinn, is now a lieutenant; Alfred B. Wolff, boxing coach, is a lieutenant, junior grade. They reported to Annapolis Monday to begin an indoctrination course to become instructors in the Navy's physical fitness program for airplane pilots.

Gregory G. Zitrides, assistant football coach, was the first to enter that branch of the service.

Carl Snavelly, head coach of football, will direct the Varsity baseball team in its three remaining games with Dartmouth and Columbia.

Quinn came to Cornell in 1936 to assist Snavelly and to coach Freshman football, basketball, and baseball. He gave up the basketball assignment to J. Russell Murphy and succeeded James M. Tatum as Varsity baseball coach in 1940. The team, which had tied Harvard for the championship the previous year, won the title that season. The 1941 team finished second to Princeton.

Wolff came to Cornell in 1937 as coach of boxing and 150-pound football. He became assistant baseball coach in 1940, directing the Freshman team that season in the absence on leave of Coach Gullion. He assisted Quinn with the Varsity squad this year. When intercollegiate boxing was given up after the 1941 season, Coach Wolff continued to direct the sport on an intramural basis.

1942 CORNELLIAN

1942 Cornellian appeared at the Library Arch for distribution May 10. It is an impressive volume, bound in white fabrikoid with red stamping and a gold seal of the University on the cover and an animated map of the Campus and vicinity printed in white on its red endpapers.

An editorial foreword explains that the theme of this year's volume is "Reflections," and this theme is carried out in the photographic division pages where the headings in block letters are pictured on mirrors. The editors explain:

"Since the events in December which precipitated the United States into a long and severe war, the University has taken on a different aspect for us. This is a time when we must examine our college life and determine its real worth. Many Cornellians will have to leave the Hill as the nation calls on them to come and serve in her armies. To all of us there comes a new awareness of the importance in our lives of the years that we have been fortunate enough to spend here."

Picture of President Day accompanies his message to the Class of '42, and Trustees, Counselors of Students, and Deans are also pictured, together with Campus scenes, members of the Senior Class, and all student organizations. There are many pictures of athletic events and teams, with the season's records, and several pages of candid pictures of Campus events and prominent Seniors.

Class History preceding the men's Senior pictures and biographies is by Frank Abbott, and that for the women, following, is by Dorothy Dodds and Madge Palmer.

Editor-in-chief of the 1942 Cornellian is Robert D. Hughes, Jr. of Dayton, Ohio. Business manager is James L. Kraker, Jr. of Beulah, Mich.

MEDICAL CENTER REPORT At Ten-Year Anniversary

Cornell University Medical College and The Society of the New York Hospital have issued an attractive illustrated brochure celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of their affiliation and the tenth anniversary of the opening of the joint Medical Center in New York City.

Titled "They Shall Be Healed," the report traces the history and contributions of the College and Hospital, outlines and pictures the present work of the Medical Center in teaching, research, and care of the sick, and shows the needs for its future development and support.

Concept of the Medical Center since it was established in 1932, the report points out, has brought a new approach to the social problems of sickness. "In this concept, health is a positive factor in individual and group life. It is attained not merely by the treatment of the sick, but by the complete integration of medical care, teaching, research, and preventive medicine. During the first ten years, the value of this integrated approach has been clearly demonstrated. It has been shown that under this system the latest developments in the scientific laboratory become available promptly to the physician and his patients. The laboratory worker benefits by a more intimate knowledge of the needs of the practicing physician. The student benefits because example is the best of all teachers. Good medical instruction demands and also insures the finest possible care of patients."

Stressing the need for additional funds to carry on essential services during war time, the report declares: "The first ten years have been only a beginning. The Medical Center still has far to go before its potentialities are completely realized. Those who see most clearly the inevitable effects of the present world crisis believe that the rate of development must be greatly accelerated."

"The work of these first ten years cannot be told in terms of figures, but these at least provide a clue to its scope: 600,000 patients have been treated for virtually every affliction known to medicine; 35,000 babies have been born; 72,000 children have been cared for; 650 doctors have graduated from the Medical College; 300 nurses have graduated from the School of Nursing; 1,400 doctors have received special or graduate training in the clinics and pavilions; and 2,500 papers have been published by the staff on problems of medical investigation."

A joint administrative board, controlling the affairs of the two institutions, is composed of President Edmund E. Day, of the University, chairman, Neal D. Becker '05, Joseph P. Ripley '12, J. Pierpont Morgan, Langdon P. Marvin, Henry S. Sturgis, and William Woodward. The report may be obtained from Cornell University Medical College, York Avenue at Sixty-eighth Street, New York City.

Newly accelerated three-year course of the Medical College, stepped up to meet wartime needs for physicians, will have eighty-five students entering July 6, it is announced. They were selected from 1,306 applicants, the largest number in the history of the College. The new students come from thirty-eight colleges and universities, from fifteen States, Hawaii, and India. Twenty-four of the candidates accepted are sons of physicians, and three are sons of alumni of the College: Robert S. Cleaver, Jr., son of Dr. Robert S. Cleaver '16; Forrest C. Eggleston, son of Dr. Cary Eggleston '07; and George M. Longbothum '43, son of Dr. George T. Longbothum '06.

REPRESENT UNIVERSITY

At the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the founding of Rhode Island State College May 23, George E. Adams '00 is the official representative of Cornell University. He is Dean Emeritus of the school of agriculture at Rhode Island State College in Kingston.

Official delegate of Cornell University at the centennial celebration of the founding of Roanoke College, Salem, Va., May 29-31 will be Dr. Harry B. Stone, of Roanoke, Va. Dr. Stone attended the Cornell Medical College in 1912.

AT WORK TO CONTROL HOOKWORM

John Yin Chieh Watt, PhD '41, works at the Medical College in New York to determine if, through diet, resistance can be developed against the hookworm which infests millions of his countrymen living in the Yangtse Valley area of China. Head of the parasitology laboratory of the Public Health Training Institute of China until the Institute was bombed out of Nanking and Hankow, Dr. Watt came back to America and entered the Graduate School in Ithaca in February, 1940. Medical College Quarterly

ROTC CLOSING ITS YEAR With President's Review

Our cover pictures the reviewing group at the President's review of the ROTC in Barton Hall May 8. It was a part of the annual War Department inspection of the Corps of some 2,500 undergraduates and fifteen Army officers detailed here.

Nearest the camera is Cadet Colonel James M. Cake, Jr. '42 of Norfolk, Va. Next is President Edmund E. Day; then Colonel Edwin R. Van Deusen recently ordered to Cornell; the War Department inspectors, Lieutenant Colonel David E. Cain, Field Artillery, Lieutenant Colonel Edward L. Sherwood, Ordnance, and Major E. Appleton, Signal Corps; Dean S. C. Hollister, Engineering; Clarence F. Morse '14, district commander of the American Legion; and Lieutenant Colonel Jewett D. Matthews, recently detailed here as Field Artillery instructor.

This year, 199 Seniors from the ROTC will receive Reserve commissions as second lieutenants and be ordered to active duty immediately.

Cadet Colonel Cake was selected to receive the Barton Cup as the student who has done the most for the advancement of the ROTC this year. The cup is awarded annually by Mrs. Barton in memory of her husband, the late Colonel Frank A. Barton '91, who was Commandant here.

Designated "honor graduates," with Cake, were Robert A. Beck of Milton, Mass., Robert M. Coors of Ithaca, James M. Goodwillie of Bethlehem, Pa., Burton T. Goulko of Ithaca, Jonathan H. Harwood, Jr. of East Greenwich, R. I., Myron S. Lewis of Rochester, Robert C. Lewis of Fulton, Joseph C. Littleton of Corning, John F. Mattern of Thompsonville, and William F. Robinson of Garden City, Field Artillery; Frank A. Bishop of Syracuse and Paul W. Leighton of Twin Falls, Idaho, Infantry; John J. Barnhardt, Jr. of Concord, N. C., and Robert T. Edmunds of New Hartford, Ordnance; and Thomas S. Carnes of New York City, Signal Corps.

Sons of the American Revolution gold medals for leadership in each branch were awarded to Payne C. Barzler, Jr. '42 of Scranton, Pa., Field Artillery; Leighton, Infantry; Peter M. Wolff '42 of Highland Park, Ill., Ordnance; and Daniel Schwarzkopf '42 of New Rochelle, Signal Corps.

Highest classroom averages in major Ordnance subjects were attained by Richard W. Eustis '43 of Birmingham, Mich., in the first-year advanced course and by B. J. Walker '42 of Erie, Pa., in the second year.

Scabbard and Blade sabers for next year were awarded to these members of the first-year advanced course as the outstanding members of their respective branches: Robert D. Ullrich '42 of Manhasset, Field Artillery; Roy V. Johnson

'43 of Tarentum, Pa., Ordnance; Robert H. Flack '43 of Ithaca, Signal Corps. Clarke Brinckerhoff '42 of Mt. Vernon and Paul J. Weaver, Jr. '43 of Ithaca received gold medals from Ithaca Post 221, American Legion, as the most valuable members of this year's ROTC rifle and pistol teams. Paul M. Kelsey '43 of Ithaca received the US Field Artillery Association medal for outstanding soldierly characteristics in the first-year advanced course.

CLUBS TO HEAR BROADCAST

Cornell Club of New England invites all nearby alumni to a Reunion Smoker May 23 in the Hotel Lenox, Boston, Mass., to hear the 7:30 Blue Network broadcast from Bailey Hall in Ithaca and from the Reunion dinner at the Hotel Astor, New York City. Other Cornell Clubs throughout the country are also expected to meet to hear this country-wide broadcast.

Speakers in Ithaca will be President Edmund E. Day and Dr. Hu Shih '14, Chinese Ambassador to the United States. The Glee Club will sing, the Chimes will ring out, and the University's war activities will be briefly dramatized. From Bailey Hall, listeners will be taken to the grand ballroom of the Astor, where more than 1,000 Cornellians of all Classes will hold a Reunion Dinner. Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Engineering, Emeritus, now with the War Production Board in Washington, will preside; prominent Cornellians will speak; and Dorothy Sarnoff '35 and Arthur Kent '28 will sing.

Class Reunion gatherings will begin at 4 in private rooms at the Astor, and alumni will dine at Class tables arranged by their local representatives. The Class gatherings and dinner in New York will largely take the place of the usual Reunions in Ithaca, which many alumni cannot attend this year.

ITHACA WOMEN ELECT

Annual meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca was May 9, at the home of Professor Frank B. Morrison, Animal Husbandry, and Mrs. Morrison. It was a silver tea for the benefit of the Federation Scholarship Fund, and the first recipient of the Scholarship, Thelma E. Emile '45, played piano selections. Guests also were Dr. Egon Petri, Pianist-in-Residence, with whom Miss Emile is studying, Mrs. Petri, and Thelma L. Brummett, Counselor of Students.

Newly elected officers of the Club are Mrs. Robert L. Webster (Alice Schade) '31, vice-president; Rebecca S. Harris '13, secretary; and Mrs. Arthur J. Masterman, MS '28, and Mrs. Paul H. Underwood (Eva Humphreys) '03 to the board of directors. Gertrude B. Dean '18 remains as president, and Mrs. William E. Bostwick (Mary North) '31 is treasurer.

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

This year, Commencement marks the spot where Youth jumps off into the dark without knowing where it is going to land. But it has always done that, and I don't believe the boys mind much—or ever have. It is their elders who have to suffer anxiety and doubt. Youth is sustained by the anodyne of youth and the spirit of excitement and adventure.

What the boys really mind is the unfamiliar responsibility of having to make vital decisions. Once they've made the decision—or have had it made for them—the rest follows along easily and without upsetting their serenity. After all, these boys are sure of a job. We weren't. That puts the Class of 1942 one up on most of its predecessors as of the date of Commencement.

I dare say that half the graduates of Cornell never heard their Commencement address because what they were thinking about at the moment was whether they'd get out in time to catch the D. L. & W.'s noon train for New York where they were going to see a man about a job.

Commencement was supposed to be over at noon. The train left the station at 12:05, an impossible connection. But through the blessed configuration of the Ithaca landscape, it took a good fifteen minutes for the Cannonball to work its way up South Hill and out of town. You could catch it, you recall, at the second switch if you got there by 12:20, a feasible ambition if your staff work had been good and your hack from the livery stable functioned properly. You had to leap from your marks at the crack of the benediction, of course, and you needed help from one of the Brothers in the Bond if you were to make it. He'd have to be waiting outside the Old Armory with your livery rig and suitcase, ready to relieve you of your cap and gown (rented for the occasion from the late Louie Bement) and later to hunt up your diploma and mail it to you. An undignified exit, to be sure, from a dignified and impressive ceremonial, but one that kept you too occupied to feel the pain of parting. A hasty farewell to the helpful Brother, a leap into one of Mr. Seaman's funeral hacks, and Youth was off into whatever the future might hold for it.

The lines and stage directions have been changed with the years, but the act itself remains essentially the same. Commencement still ends everything; starts anything. There's still the same momentary heart-gripping—an instant of poignant recollection and misgiving—when the Danby peaks shut off the view of the towers and the Lake for all time. That instant will, of course, be even more poignant this year, but I don't think you need feel sorry for the boys. If you have sympathy, save it for the parents. The boys are feeling fine, but the fathers and mothers are due to have some pretty desperate moments.

Most of the Class of 1942 will come back to live out reasonably useful, reasonably humdrum, lives. But some of them won't. The Cornell Faculty is richly sprinkled right now with men who once departed, presumably for France, on their graduation day and then came back to spend forty years teaching Physics 1, or French 5, or Philosophy 12. But there are many more men and boys whose names are carved in stone down in the cloisters at the War Memorial. It's that cloister that's going to make it hard this week for everybody.

HOTELMEN ELECT DIRECTORS

Hotel Ezra Cornell, operated by students of Hotel Administration in Willard Straight Hall May 9 and 10, brought a number of alumni among the hotelmen who attended.

Speakers at the banquet which preceded the annual dance in Willard Straight Memorial Room were Robert K. Christenberry, managing director of the Hotel Astor in New York City, President Edmund E. Day, Professor Howard B. Meek, and Frank H. Briggs '36, president of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen.

At the annual meeting of the Society, these directors were elected from the even-year Classes of the Department of Hotel Administration: Harry A. MacLennan '26, Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, Ont., Can.; Frank J. Hynes '28, Hillcrest Hotel, Tampa, Fla.; Robert W. Lewis '30, New Capital Hotel, Frankfort, Ky.; Ralph H. Bevier '32, Fairmont Hotel, Fairmont, W. Va.; David M. Connor '34, F. & M. Schaefer Brewing Co., Brooklyn; Jacob S. Fassett III '36, Jefferson Hotel, Watkins Glen; Urban A. MacDonald '38, Hotel Cadillac, Rochester; Lee E. Schoenbrunn '40, Haverford Court Hotel, Haverford, Pa.; Frederick R. Haverly '42, managing director, Hotel Ezra Cornell.

Milton R. Shaw '34, manager of dining rooms at Willard Straight Hall, was elected first vice-president of the Society; Richard D. Vanderwarker '33, Hotel Sherman, Chicago, Ill., second vice-president; and Professor John Courtney '25 was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

It is reported that at the annual picnic at Taughannock Park, the baseball team of the even-numbered Classes, captained by Albert E. Koehl '28, administered stinging defeat to the team of the odd-year Classes which was managed cooperatively (?) by Edgar A. Whiting '29 and William H. Harned '33. Neither the box-score nor details of play were to be had at press time.

WAR MEMORIAL SERVICE

Twenty-five years, to the day, after a Cornell unit carried the first American flag to the front in combat in World War I, the University will hold a memorial service at the War Memorial.

Sunday noon, May 24, in the presence of some of the alumni who were members of that first Cornell unit commanded by the late Edward I. Tinkham '16, simple ceremonies are planned rededicating Cornellians and the University to the American cause. A committee headed by Trustee Robert E. Treman '09 has invited some eighty-five living members of the Tinkham unit and other alumni who received the Congressional Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross, and top-ranking British and French decorations, to come to Ithaca for the ceremonies. A number have replied that they will be here. Attending also will be alumni of Reunion Classes, members of the Faculty, Naval Reserve officers detailed here, and Seniors and their Commencement guests.

Treman will preside, and after the National anthem by the ROTC Band and an invocation by the Rev. Edward T. Horn '29, Romeyn Berry '04 will speak briefly on behalf of the alumni.
Trustee John L. Collyer, president of the Class of '17 here for its Twenty-five-year
Reunion, will place a wreath in the War Memorial cloister as a tribute to the war dead. President Edmund E. Day will speak for the University, and the program will close with "Taps."

Twenty-two Cornellians, recruited here by Captain Tinkham as a Cornell unit of the American Field Service, sailed from New York City April 14, 1917, for duty in France. The United States having entered the war, most of these men transferred from ambulance service for which they had enlisted to that of transporting munitions for the French Army. They were joined by others, and as TMU 526 this unit, in command of Captain Tinkham, left its base camp for the Aisne front May 24, 1917, armed with carbines and driving five-ton ammunition trucks, to become the first American combat organization in active war service.

Military Records of Cornell University in the World War lists 8,851 Cornel-lians who were in the armed forces, 264 of whom lost their lives in consequence.
Incomplete records indicate that more Cornellians served as commissioned officers in the last war than the combined total from the US Military Academy at West Point and the US Naval Academy at Annapolis.

ROOMS FOR STUDENTS

Freshmen who enter the University
June 29 will be assigned rooms in the University dormitories about June 1 and thereafter as their applications are received, according to Mrs. Anna Fielden
Grace '10, Manager of Residential Halls.
For those entering next September and for present students who apply for rooms in the dormitories, drawing will be July 1.

DETAIL SUMMER PROGRAMS

Announcement of the expanded Summer Sessions may now be obtained on request to Professor Loren C. Petry, Director of the Summer Sessions. It contains complete information about the four Summer Sessions of varying terms and the fifteen-week summer term that will offer instruction continuously from Commencement Day, May 25, to September
12. Registration for the first five-week Summer Session, Professor Petry says, is more than 300, composed almost entirely of Cornell undergraduates many of whom will take technical courses in preparation for entering military service.

The Announcement contains a complete listing of the courses offered in the two Summer Sessions of five weeks each,
the regular six-weeks' Summer Session
June 29 to August 8, the eleven-week
Summer Session June 29 to September 12, and those in Chemistry, Physics, and Military Science and Tactics which will be given for the summer term of the Colleges of Engineering, Architecture, Veterinary, and the Law School.

The booklet tells also about admission requirements, fees, living accommodations, and outlines the summer program of recreation and public events. A weekly calendar of concerts, lectures, excursions, and all public events will be published
June 29 to August 8.

Alumni and their families who spend summer holidays in Ithaca are again invited to attend for a few days the public events of the Summer Sessions and some of the classes and field expeditions.

Guest cards admitting to these events
may be obtained at the Summer Sessions office in Goldwin Smith Hall after June 30.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL has decreed that there shall be no summer rushing or pledging of Freshmen. Rushing will start Sunday evening, September 27, before Freshman registration, and the system of preferential bidding at a central headquarters used last year is again prescribed.

SOPHOMORE SMOKER met with a succession of vicissitudes this year. To obviate temptation of interference with the Freshman banquet, the committee set another date than the evening the Freshman gathered. Then it was postponed, and finally announced for May 12, with Tony Galento, former heavy-weight prizefighter, as the chief attraction. The morning of the event, however, the Sun announced cancellation of the smoker because Galento could not come, and said that money paid for tickets would be refunded.

STUDENT COUNCIL, organizing last week under the new president, Roy B. Unger '43, elected Louis G. Helmick, Jr. '43 vice-president and treasurer, and Robert W. Ballard '44 secretary.

PRESIDENT DAY announced at the annual Student Council banquet last week that the University budget for next year includes an appropriation of $1,000 for the work of the Council.

ANNUAL SALE and show of Aberdeen-Angus cattle in the stock judging pavilion May 11 brought stockmen from all over the East. The sixty-five animals offered brought average price of almost $400. Manager of the sale was Myron M. Fuerst '30 of Pine Plains.

ALPHA PHI won the women's intramural tennis finals, defeating Alpha Xi Delta, 6-0, 6-4, in singles matches and 6-2 in doubles. Championship team was composed of Katharine L. Rogers '43 of Westfield, N. J., and Cynthia P. Adams '42 of Detroit, Mich., singles; and Virginia M. Lowe '45 of Jenkintown, Pa., and Mary L. Treadwell '43 of Benton, Ill., doubles.

"THE ALLEN FAMILY," a typical family in a small up-State city, and their lives in war-time have been dramatized at the University for a radio serial that will be distributed to broadcasting stations in the form of recordings. Mrs. Katharine Small, editor of the College of Home Economics and her radio committee of the College collected material on the effect of the war on a typical family. Five-minute scripts were written by Robert E. Gard, AM '38, and the radio group of the University Theatre under direction of Professor Alex M. Drummond produced them. Recordings

THEME of this year's Senior Ball is "Blues in the Night." Whether this theme was chosen because the committee likes the popular song of this title or because it typifies the feeling of the Class, was not disclosed. The dance, unlike previous Senior Balls will not be limited to Seniors only. It is May 23 in Willard Straight Memorial Room. Frederick M. Shelley III '42 is chairman of the committee.

were made by Elmer S. Phillips '32 in the Campus studios of Station WHCU. So far, eighteen episodes have been produced and sent by the State War Council to thirty-five radio stations in New York State.

CLASS OF '42 men last week elected James L. Kraker, Jr. their Class secretary. Son of James L. Kraker '12 of Beulah, Mich., he is a member of Kappa Sigma and Quill and Dagger; holder of a McMullen Regional Scholarship in Engineering; was business manager of the 1942 Cornellian. Women's Class secretary is M. Grace Agnew of Great Neck. Student in Arts and Sciences, she is a member of Pi Beta Phi, was vice-president of the Dramatic Club and president of her Junior Class.

FACULTY and Ithaca artists exhibited their paintings in the Willard Straight Hall art gallery last week. The collection included paintings of the Ithaca region by Professor William C. Baker '98, Alison M. Kingsbury (Mrs. Morris Bishop), and Tarmo A. Pasto '32, drawing instructor in Agriculture.

FORESTRY PRIZE of $50 given by the Charles Lathrop Pack Foundation for the best essay on "some subject related to forestry, treated from the public point of view," was awarded to Earl L. Stone, Jr., Grad, of Springwater. He wrote on "America's Forests, Now and After the War." A second prize of $25 went to Gaston E. Vivas-Berthier '43 of Caracas, Venezuela, whose subject was "Possibilities of Rubber Production in South America."

ROTC RIFLE TEAM received the Hearst Trophy for second place in intercollegiate matches within the Second Corps Area. Presentation was made May 16 by Colonel Edwin R. Van Deusen, USA, as one of his first official acts after he arrived in Ithaca to relieve Colonel Clinton I. McClure as Commandant of the Corps. He presented the trophy to Clarke Brinckerhoff '42, captain of the rifle team, in the presence of his team-mates, Donald L. Johnson '43, David B. Crane '44, Robert S. Doig '44, and George H. Martin '45.

NAVAL TRAINING STATION on Seneca Lake about twenty-five miles north and west of Ithaca was announced last week by the Secretary of the Navy. Construction cost will be $15,000,000, and 30,000 men will be trained there. The new Naval station will be on the east shore of Seneca Lake, north of Willard. It is one of four to be built for the Navy; the others in Idaho, Maryland, and California.

SIXTY JUNIORS in the ROTC advanced Field Artillery course spent a recent week end at Pine Camp, where they were guests of the Camp, observed artillery firing, and inspected the motorized equipment of the 4th Armored Division. They went in command of Captain Clifton W. Loomis '35 and Lieutenant Frank P. Boyle '39.

RECENT VISITOR at the University, with his wife and their eleven-year-old son, was Eduardo Luque y Diaz '23. He is chief engineer of the Mexican Power and Light Co. in Mexico City.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL decreed last week that until rushing starts September 27, members of sororities are forbidden to wear sorority pins from their arrival in Ithaca. Council members, however, will wear their Pan Hellenic badges at all times and are authorized to answer questions from Freshmen.

DRAMATIC CLUB held its annual year-end "Beano" in Willard Straight Hall May 19, with Professor Alex M. Drummond, Director of the University Theatre, and Professor Henry A. Myers, PhD '33, English, as speakers. New president of the Club is Jean M. Saks '43 of Hackensack, N. J. Mary E. Rolfs '43 of Arlington, Va., is vice-president; Margaret R. Dilts '43 of Pennington, N. J., secretary; Charlotte S. Kornit '43 of Albany, treasurer.

RAVEN AND SERPENT, Junior women's honor society, has as new president Marjorie O. Sandy of Glenshaw, Pa. Secretary-treasurer for next year is Grace M. Davis of Yonkers.

ALPHA OMEGA ALPHA, honor society in the Medical College in New York has initiated from the Class of '42 William A. Geohegan '29 of Dayton, Ohio, Bruce M. Esplin '39 of Miami Beach, Fla., O. Whitmore Burtner, Jr. of New York City, Vincent A. Gorman of Kingston, Carlton C. Hunt, Jr. of New York City, Katherine W. Swift of Whitinsville, Mass., and W. Francis Whitmore of Amityville. New members from the Class of '43 are Robert D. Deans '40 of Ridgewood, N. J., and Francis S. Green-span '40 of Perth Amboy, N. J.

Concerning THE FACULTY

PRESIDENT EDMUND E. DAY was the principal speaker May 7 at the ninety-fifth anniversary Charter Day ceremonies of the College of the City of New York. He told 2,500 students, faculty members, and alumni of City College that "Americans must recognize and defend the three great loyalties: personal, institutional and ideational loyalties upon which the nation is built . . . We may have been pushed into this fight because we were stabbed in the back in the dark, but we must pay this off. Let us know what we are fighting for and let us make no mistakes. Let us keep faith with the great loyalties that make life worth living. . . ."

LOUISA W. FARRAND, daughter of the late President Livingston Farrand and Mrs. Farrand, has gone to England as a member of the staff of Bernard S. Carter for the American Red Cross.

PROFESSOR ROBERT E. CUSHMAN, Government, has been appointed by Attorney General Biddle a member of the Enemy Alien Hearing Board, an adjunct of the Department of Justice. After apprehension of alien enemies by direction of the Attorney General, the facts bearing on their cases are reviewed by a district board, for recommendation as to internment, parole, or release. The Attorney General describes the work of these unpaid boards as "an extremely important part of our war effort."

PROFESSOR BRISTOW ADAMS, Agriculture, told college news bureau heads at their annual convention May 8 in Columbus, Ohio, that straight news is the best publicity. He also criticized the amount and form of government press releases.

DR. HERBERT M. MOORE, former University pastor of the Presbyterian Church, died May 7, 1942. Preceding Dr. Hugh A. Moran, he was University pastor from 1913-19 but was on leave much of that time doing war relief in Europe. In 1920 Dr. Moore became president of Lake Forest College, Ill., where he had received the AB in 1896. His son, C. Herbert Moore '27, is secretary of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY has awarded its eighth Schermerhorn Traveling Fellowship to Charles H. Warner, Jr., Architecture, as the result of a competition open to all graduates of the Columbia School of Architecture. His portrayal of a summer camp won the award of $1,500 which will be held for him by Columbia University to be used for travel after the war. He received the BA at Wesleyan University in 1933 and the BArch at Columbia in 1937, has been instructor in Architecture since 1940.

THE REV. FREDERICK W. BRINK, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Woodstown, N. J., will succeed Dr. Hugh Moran as University pastor for Presbyterian students, September 1. Brink received the AB at Middlebury College in 1933, the Bachelor of Theology at Princeton Theological Seminary in 1936, the Master of Sacred Theology at Temple University in 1940, and will receive the Doctorate in the department of church history at Temple in June. He is a member of Chi Psi.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

DEVOTION TO CORNELL

TO THE EDITOR:

I noticed the "personal" in the ALUMNI NEWS on the occasion of my birthday. It was very full and complete and I appreciate very much the compliment of its insertion in the News. Your statement that I had been a Trustee at Cornell for forty-one years rather startled me, but of course you are correct in your figures. I think perhaps in that time I have at least established with those who know me a reputation for steadfast devotion to Cornell. I hope so.

With good luck to you always, believe me—FRANK H. HISCOCK '75

ARMY TRAVELS

Somewhere in the South Pacific
TO THE EDITOR:

It has been a long time since I have written you and now I am writing from a long way away. I was called to active duty August 6 to Camp Forrest, Tenn. Immediately we left on maneuvers in Louisiana and returned from them the first part of October.

On December 13 I left Camp Forrest to go to Fort Sill, Okla., to the Field Artillery School there. January 13 I received a wire that my battalion was moving out of Camp Forrest, and that I was to proceed immediately to Camp Forrest myself. I was at Fort Sill with my commanding officer, and we drove together with another officer, arriving January 17. The battalion had already moved, so we left for New York where we caught up with them the night of January 21, six hours after the boat was scheduled to leave. However it hadn't done so yet, and we saw later that we had plenty of time to spare.

Finally we left New York in convoy, and arrived in Panama February 1, where we stayed for one day. We still didn't know where we were bound, but we strongly suspected that our destination was Australia. On February 27 we entered the harbor of Melbourne and sighted land for the first time in twenty-six days. Solid ground under foot was a treat for sore eyes as well as feet, which were shortly sore as we were marched five miles to a park to get away from the dock area which was considered to be dangerous due to the arrival of the convoy. Five miles, after we had been on board for five weeks, was quite a bit for soft feet.

The next day we were entrained and taken to an outlying city where we were billeted. Here we were treated as the troops of a nation have never been treated before. The Australians could not do enough for us. I was billeted with four other officers at the house of an Australian doctor. He and his wife had a little girl, Prudence, and a little boy, John, who couldn't get over the strange "accent" the American soldiers talked with. We spent one afternoon there buying the kids toys. I think we had more fun buying them than the kids ever will playing with them. The doctor's wife said she was glad we were leaving for only one reason; she was afraid we would spoil her children. And maybe she was right.

The Australians are people that are very much like our own people, and after the war we will see many American boys staying there. There are unlimited commercial opportunities and our boys won't miss them.

A week after we left Melbourne we returned and again embarked. A week later we arrived at our present station. I can write nothing in the least informative, and as that would be of the most interest to you, I might as well quit. We are healthy, happy, and have cigarettes and good food, so we'll get along.

As I remember it, I have a two-year subscription for the NEWS that will take me up to June, 1943. From now on please send it to me as Lt. R. T. Gilchrist, T. F. 6814-D, A.P.O. #916, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal.

"OLD WIDOWERS" DELIVER

"Old Widowers' Issue" of The Cornell Widow is the last number for this year. Conceived and carried out by the new editor-in-chief, Knox B. Burger '43, who is the son of a former Widow art editor, Carl V. Burger '12, this issue includes the offerings of a long succession of gifted Widowers. There are illustrations by Charles S. Cobb '05, Hendrik W. vanLoon '05, Richard C. Bishop '09, Burger '12, Charles Baskerville, Jr. '19, John A. Hartell '24, Joseph C. Nobile '24, Walter K. Nield '27, and one by the late Louis A. Fuertes '97.

Hugh Troy '26 contributes an illustrated "Spinning Song for a Little Lady in Black." Articles, mostly reminiscent, are by Romeyn Berry '04, George Jean Nathan '04, R. W. Sailor '07, Kenneth Roberts '08, and Robert L. Bliss '30.

Not the least interesting is the editor's account of how it all came about, and a full page reproduction of letters of transmittal from the contributors.

Alumni may obtain copies of this number by addressing Mrs. F. O. Smith at The Widow office, Strand Building, Ithaca. The price is twenty cents.

FRESHMAN WOMEN have elected as their Sophomore Class president M. Elizabeth Rumpf of Garden City.

1915 MEN

By Hugh C. Edmiston, Correspondent
Short Hills, N. Y.

Seen in Ithaca, dining in the Dutch Kitchen Saturday night, May 9: TOM NOLAN and his lovely older daughter up on a visit to Freshman son in the University. Correction: Charming daughter turns out to be old man Nolan's wife (and charming!).

Mrs. Edmiston was accompanied by your humble reporter and their daughter Cornelia down from Wells for a May Day blowout.

Flitting from table to table was ED DIXON, making all Classmates welcome.

GEORGE W. DORRANCE has had his own insurance agency at 912 Southern Standard Building, Houston, Tex., since 1930. Lives at 1604 North Boulevard, and has two daughters and a son, George W. Jr., age ten.

1916 MEN

By Weyland Pfeiffer, Class Secretary
231 Madison Road, Scarsdale, N. Y.

The 1916 Class is planning a real get-together for that Reunion at the Hotel Astor, Saturday, May 23. The committee wants to have your reservation in at once. Send it to New York Cornell Reunion Committee, Room 1260, 630 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The following have said they plan to attend: HAROLD BACHE, TED JAMISON, GEORGE CRABTREE, FRED POTTER, SAM HICKS, FRANK THOMAS, JOE INNIS, MEYER WILLETT, HARRY BYRNE, BUB PFEIFFER, BIRGE KINNE, GRANT SCHLEICHER, and PAUL SANBORNE.

Call of 1917

"C. U. —in '42"

By Herbert H. Johnston, Class Secretary
81 Tacoma Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

AT LAST 1917 has received a favorable "break" even though a small one. Exemption from gasoline rationing in certain sections of the Eastern States has boosted our Reunion prospects immeasurably. Western New York and Pennsylvania attendance will be doubled with the new ruling. Our Twenty-five-year Reunion still promises to be our best, if not our biggest, and there are probabilities that our 1937 records will be surpassed.

EDDIE ANDERSON and his New York committee will send at least fifty to Ithaca, with "SHEP" SHEPARD in Washington, BOB CARR in Buffalo, and HOWARD LUDINGTON in Rochester fighting it out for second honors.

CHAN BURPEE and DON MACLAY of Philadelphia were in Ithaca for Cornell Day, chaperoning prospective Cornellians. BERT CUSHING, from Buffalo, was also there on a similar mission. Bert's son "BUD," a Sophomore, starred in Carl Snavely's practice football game staged for the benefit of the high and prep school guests.

CHAN, DON, and your secretary enjoyed WALT HEASLEY's hospitality at a meeting with Mrs. ANNA FIELDEN GRACE '10 and WALT to make final plans for our Reunion. All Eastern centers will be represented, with prizes for distance going to ELS FILBY of Kansas City and OZ PRIESTER of Davenport, Iowa.

About half of the fellows have reported that they will find a bunk in their fraternity houses or won't go to bed at all on the night of May 23, which shows that Class spirit can't be downed, regardless of wars.

To the fellows who can't get back: We'll be thinking of you and wishing you were with us. Our Twenty-fifth won't be a celebration but it will be a Reunion; a get-together of old buddies who will look forward to greater opportunities for our "biggest and best—Cornell's Biggest and Best"—when the world has been made safe for free peoples in the pursuit of health, happiness, and cooperation.

'18—JOHN S. KNIGHT (above) was elected vice-president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors at their recent convention in New York City. By Mary T. Nigro, Class Secretary 68 Bird Avenue, Niagara Falls, N. Y.

We've heard of two new arrivals: Congratulations go to MAIDA (HOOKS) and DOUG LEWIS '35 and to ALLEGRA (LAW) and Harry Lotz. Maida and Doug announce the arrival of Roger M. Lewis '62, April 2. They have moved to 12 Gloucester Court, Great Neck. Allegra and Harry have a daughter, Lito, born last Easter Sunday, named for LITO W. LAW '05, the baby's grandad. They live close by the Law home, "Kaydids," in Collins.

BLENDY writes that ELEANOR ELSTE was married May 2 to Charles B. Gump, Jr. They will live in Bellevue, Pa. JO BIDDLE McMEEN and RUTH WISCH Cooley were bridesmaids.

Have you written to GRACE JONES Henley (Mrs. Earl B.), 10 Monroe Street, New York City, to tell her you will be in Ithaca for that Frivolous Fifth Reunion May 23? If you haven't, come along anyway! You have all received the Class news letter from EL RAYNOR and MARGIE KINCAID, and know what good times are in store for you. If you have your undergraduate Class blazer or your '37 hat and jacket costume from our first Reunion, be sure to wear it. Saturday noon, afternoon, and evening we are promised "big doings," so plan to be in Ithaca all day Saturday at least. And when you arrive, don't forget to register so we'll know where to find you. See you in Ithaca!

Here's a note of interest from ED ZALINSKI for all those who will be in or near New York City May 23. He says: "That old song titled 'She had to go and lose it at the Astor' has been changed to 'We'll see you at the Astor May 23!—and how!' Ye olde Fifth Reunion! Boy, are we getting long gray beards! But let me tell you we've really got everything fixed up swell. A private room and all the fancy fixings for only $4.50. Eight hours of drinks, banquet, speeches, twelve-piece orchestra—and stuff! The party begins in our private room at 4 p.m. Saturday, the 23rd; banquet at 7 p.m. at the Hotel Astor, Forty-fourth Street & Broadway, New York City. This is our last chance to have a real Cornell party until after the ——— war, so tell all our fellow Cornellians to set this date aside now! We're counting on everybody anywhere near New York to come. And, incidentally, we're short of correct addresses. Please send change in your address to BILL ROSSITER."

CHARLES SHUFF is now First Lieutenant Shuff, Army Air Corps pilot stationed somewhere in California. Nice going "Charlie"; it's a far cry from your former office in the Chrysler Building, but a lot more interesting.

NEWELL CUMMINGS goes into the Naval Air Corps shortly, keeping '37 evenly represented in both Navy and Army.

ALFRED W. (AL) WOLFF, who is in the Carbon Sales Division of National Carbon Co., has been transferred to the Pittsburgh area and lives at 220 Osborne Lane, Sewickley, Pa.

Comfortable Living

For thirty-eight years, we at Sheldon Court have been welcoming Cornell students and making them comfortable. We know boys, and select ours to be congenial.

Sheldon Court rooms and suites are sturdily and completely furnished, well lighted, warm, and clean. The building is modern, virtually fireproof, quiet. Boys like it here, with a good restaurant, bookstore, and barber shop all under one roof.

Desirable accommodations for 1942-43 are still available. Write for folder.
