NO ODOR to Harm Good Community Relations

AT GREAT NORTHERN'S NEW PINE BEND, MINN. REFINERY

Keeping objectionable odors from the atmosphere, while 24.1 degree API gravity Canadian sour crude is in storage, finds an effective solution in vapor-saving Graver Expansion Roof® Tank System at the new Pine Bend, Minn. refinery of the Great Northern Oil Company.

Conserving valuable light ends can be either the primary or secondary function of this famous vapor-saving tank system, depending on the acuteness of the community relations problem.

One thing is certain. There is no more effective way to keep vapors under control than with a Graver Expansion Roof Tank manifolded to cone roof tanks. Because the economics are sound, of the 39 tanks fabricated and erected by Graver at Great Northern, every tank used for storing crude or product where vapor conservation is a problem is manifolded to a Graver Expansion Roof Tank.

This is another example of how the petroleum industry for 100 years has been solving its vapor conservation—and community relations—problems with Graver's help.

The Four-letter Athlete Is No More But Students Play Games All Year

By GORDON SCOTT LITTLE, Director of Intramural Athletics

OLD GRADS sometimes deplore the current tendency of undergraduates to specialize in only one intercollegiate sport. They say, "What has become of the four-letter athlete?" My answer is that he has gone the way of the Dodo Bird, to extinction. But I must point out that this is no reflection on the athletic versatility of today's students. Some boys do get the "C" in more than one sport, and most Varsity athletes participate in two or three intramural sports when they are not engaged in intercollegiate athletics.

Stepped up academic programs, as well as stepped up athletic programs, make it almost impossible for a man to win four Varsity letters today. But there is less pressure and a lot of fun in intramural games, and the athlete has a chance to exercise his versatility. The Varsity football man may play intramural basketball and softball and often competes in some of the tournaments for individuals, like boxing, wrestling, or swimming. And many who are not Varsity athletes play in several of the eighteen organized intramural sports at Cornell. Some students are purists, confining themselves to one sport, such as broomstick polo or to skiing or golf; and some do not take part in sports at all. But this year we have record of 10,566 participants in intramurals, more than twice the University's male undergraduate enrollment. We have had sixty fraternities participating, twenty-three "independent" teams, and some 500 men in the competitions for individuals.

Play in Volleyball Tournament

One group of dedicated athletes is the Volleyball Club. Meeting twice weekly during the second term, they capped their season by taking second place in the annual Stan Bown Class B Tournament at Binghamton. The Club, cosmopolitan in makeup both as to country of origin and Class (a Frosh was on the first team), was coached by John R. West, MEd '55.

This was not by any means our only activity in volleyball. In addition, fifty-nine fraternity and independent teams played a schedule of 140 games in that usually dull period between the close of the indoor sports season and the start of softball. Beta Theta Pi took the honors in volleyball. Not only did they win the fraternity championship, but their second team, Wooglin's Warriors, took the independent title.

Usually, independent groups compete in only one sport, but this year the Dryden Roadents, Dynamos, Hot Cookies, 2100's, DLA Veterans, and Outsiders all had entries in two or more intramural sports. The Dynamos, heir to the name and heir-apparent to the throne of the old Dickson Dynamos, won in touch football and softball and scored also in bowling and horseshoes to win the independent all-sports race. The Dryden Roadents were second.

The annual scramble among the fraternities for the All-Sports Trophy was still a betting matter when league play in softball ended. During the third week of league play, eight houses had a chance for the Trophy; but with the conclusion of the horseshoes tournament and the swimming team championship, only those teams in sight of a league title in softball had any further chance to score. At the end of league play, Sigma Phi Epsilon had won its softball league title and had amassed 35 points in several sports along the way. Sigma Chi was ahead for the Trophy with 39 points, but had been knocked out of softball by Phi Sigma Delta and therefore could score no more. If Sigma Phi Epsilon could get to the semi-finals in the play-offs of league winners, they could add 5½ points to their score. This they did, to make 40½ and edge out Sigma Chi by the narrow margin of 1½ points. Then they succumbed to Beta Sigma Rho in the softball semi-finals. This was entirely consistent with their performance in all sports throughout the year. Sigma Phi Epsilon won the All-sports Trophy without taking a single championship along the way.

Intramural Winners

Sigma Chi won three intramural championships, in touch football (85 teams, 206 contests), cross country (20 teams), and swimming (28 teams).

Intramural Softball on Upper Alumni Field—Eighty-four teams with 2265 fraternity and "independent" players in fifteen leagues played 209 games this spring. Lambda Chi Alpha emerged as the intramural and fraternity softball champion and the Dynamos won the independent championship in this and all sports.

Other intramural champions are Alpha Psi in broomstick polo (52 teams, 60 contests); Mungy Five in basketball (134 teams, 585 contests); Sigma Alpha Mu in bowling (57 teams, 148 contests); Les Canadiens in hockey (16 teams, 15 contests); Beta Theta Pi in volleyball (59 teams, 140 contests); Sigma Alpha Epsilon, indoor relay race (6 teams); Zeta Psi in boxing (10 teams, 18 contests); Easy Winners in badminton (20 teams, 19 contests); Phi Gamma Delta in wrestling (33 teams, 40 contests); Alpha Sigma Phi in horseshoes (27 teams, 28 contests); Lambda Chi Alpha in softball (84 teams, 209 contests).

Board, students, Faculty, and the alumni who gave me this opportunity to serve.

By Dr. Preston A. Wade '22

In 1954, Dexter S. Kimball, Jr. '27 was elected to the Board of Trustees for a five-year term. With his unfortunate and unexpected death in the fourth year of that term, Cornell University lost a devoted son and a loyal and able Trustee. Last year I was elected to serve the last year of this unexpired term, and I am now pleased to make my report to the alumni.

This has been my second experience as Alumni Trustee, since I had the honor to sit as a member of the Board from 1950-55. Returning after an interval of three years, I found much of interest in the development and progress of the University.

The most striking physical changes in Ithaca have been the many new dormitories and other buildings on the Campus. These have been described and reported in detail to the alumni, both through their stages of planning and completion, but only a visit to the Campus presents an adequate picture of the vast transformation that has taken place in the last few years. The buildings of the new Engineering Quadrangle on the south end of the Campus—Olin Hall, Kimball and Thurston Halls, Phillips, Carpenter, Upson, Grumman, and Hollister Halls—make an impressive sight and demonstrate the continuing progress of the University in the field of engineering.

The latest addition to the Ithaca Campus will be the new Research Library now under construction on the Quadrangle. A new Library has been urgently needed for many years, and the University is fortunate to have finally completed its financing and planning. It was with genuine regret that the Trustees found it necessary to demolish Boardman Hall to make way for this

Retiring Alumni Trustees Report

BY-LAWS of the Cornell Alumni Association provide that Alumni Trustees shall report at the annual meeting of the Association in the year their terms expire. Reports of the two who retire June 30 are published below. Elbert P. Tuttle '18 was first elected to the Board to take office July 1, 1949, and was re-elected in 1954. He is judge of the US Circuit Court of Appeals with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Preston A. Wade '22 was elected last year to fill an unexpired term and was previously Alumni Trustee from 1950-55. He is professor of Clinical Surgery at the Medical College in New York and a member of the administrative board of the University Council.

By Elbert P. Tuttle '18

This report marks the end of my second term as Alumni Trustee. It cannot, of course, deal with much more than those occurrences which have special significance in the long range life of the University. The annual reports of the President and the regular news columns of the ALUMNI NEWS cover much of the detailed day-to-day growth and progress of the University.

These ten years have been so significant in the life of Cornell that it is difficult to place oneself back in the University of 1949. Physically, the plant has been increased by some twenty million dollars of new construction. But the real meaning of the construction is of infinitely more concern than the mere dollars spent, awe-inspiring as that figure is. We have seen a tremendous growth in accommodations for student living and student health. We have seen Sibley College moved from Sibley Dome and a new Engineering Quadrangle built and equipped. We have witnessed the building of the new men's gymnasium and sports facilities long discussed. (This but emphasizes the deplorable lack of similar facilities for women students.) We have noted the acquisition of the 2,000,000th volume by the Library at the same time that the Trustees have authorized the building of the new Research Library on the site of Boardman Hall of beloved memory. Research facilities and research activities on a broad front have been significantly increased.

Progress in University Development

In the field of University development, Cornell has now come of age. The planning and operation of University expansion and the deepening of its influence is a continuing affair under well organized and imaginative leadership. The University Council, created within the span of this report, has made a substantial contribution to the success of the development plans. The long-dreamed-of goal of $1,000,000 of annual alumni giving is in sight. Realization that this represents income at 4 per cent for an endowment of $25,000,000 should cause every alumnus to seek seriously to keep the Cornell Fund growing.

New thought and careful planning have been given to means of alleviating such human conflicts as arise in every university community of students, Faculty, and administration. It is believed that Cornell will continue to maintain that happy working and living relationship between all who nurture and are nurtured by it that must obtain for any university to be great.

The privilege of serving on Cornell's Board of Trustees is great indeed. I express my thanks and best wishes to the President, his staff, my colleagues on the new and handsome structure. Many alumni felt that some other site should have been used so that the old building might have been preserved. The Board of Trustees carefully considered every possible alternative and made its decision only after exhaustive studies. I believe that its decision was wise, since all evidence indicated that no other location would have served the purpose of the new Library satisfactorily.

The Faculty continues to maintain its high standards of teaching and research, and we are fortunate to be able to retain a fine body of teachers and scholars despite the flattering invitations and tempting salary offers that are made to some of our best department heads and other Faculty members by other institutions. The Board of Trustees is well aware of the excellence of our Faculty, and it is making every effort to increase salaries as rapidly as possible so that they may more closely parallel those paid elsewhere. Fortunately, the Cornell spirit and the Ithaca atmosphere offer other academic satisfactions, so that salary differential is seldom enough to tempt our teachers to leave. Nevertheless, we have lost some important Faculty members to other institutions, but this is a healthy situation, since we have also gained new and valued professors and heads of departments.

Tribute to Colleagues

When I served my first term as Trustee, the Board was considering granting full membership with voting privileges to Faculty representatives. This has since been accomplished, and it is gratifying to see the wisdom of this decision. The Faculty Trustees contribute greatly to the work of the Board, and their counsel is invaluable.

We have been fortunate to have had John L. Collyer '17 as chairman of the Board for the last five years. He has done a magnificent job and has given unselfishly of his busy life to the affairs of the University. He has now finally persuaded the Board to accept his resignation, and at the last meeting, Arthur H. Dean '19 was wisely selected to succeed him in that office. Trustee Dean has been chairman of the executive committee of the Board for many years and probably knows more about the affairs of the University than any Trustee has ever known. We are fortunate that he has accepted this post, for he will bring to it a unique experience which promises to be of great value.

Deane W. Malott has been a remarkable President. He and his administrative staff have faithfully carried out the difficult task of running the University and solving its complex problems. I can report that the affairs of the University are in good hands, and we may confidently expect Cornell to rise to ever greater eminence in the ranks of this country's leading educational institutions.

It is a privilege to have served as an Alumni Trustee, and my second term, short though it was, has further endeared Alma Mater to me and has given me even stronger conviction of her greatness.

Open Elmira Museum

FIVE CORNELLIANs are on the board of trustees of Strathmont Museum that opened last January in Elmira. It is the former mansion of J. Arnot Rathbone, purchased by popular subscription for a museum of American life. It has exhibits of the work of Mark Twain, who wrote some of his best known books in Elmira, a music room for concerts, and provision for many other displays. The fifteen-acre estate has greenhouses and formal gardens and a former barn houses exhibits of gliders, carriages, and early automobiles. The estate at one time belonged to J. Sloat Fassett, father of Jacob S. Fassett, Jr. '12 and grandfather of Jacob S. Fassett, 3d. '36.

Among the Strathmont Museum trustees are Leslie D. Clute '13, Charles L. Brayton '23, J. Lawrence Kolb '25, James A. Norris '25, and Allyn W. Hoffman '50.

Egyptians Study Here

CORNELL is one of three American universities selected to teach English to some of Egypt's best trained scholars so that they can introduce the most effective methods of teaching the language into the Egyptian educational system. The cooperative program involves also the Universities of Michigan and Texas, the governments of the United States and Egypt, and the Rockefeller Foundation, which is helping to finance the venture.

The plan originated when a team of American linguists, sent to Egypt under the Fulbright Act, persuaded the Ministry of Education that sending Egyptian educators to this country would be more effective than sending American teachers to Egypt. Officials in both countries hope that when the educators return to Egypt, they will have mastered the teaching of English so thoroughly that they will be able to spread it to educators throughout the United Arab Republic. Three Egyptians have come to each university. Those at Cornell, all from Cairo, are Dawoodhelmy A. Elsayed, Hanna M. Hanna, and Mahmond H. Shawkat.

“Curtain in a Half-hour”—Backstage in the Willard Straight Theater, just before the curtain goes up, is the busiest place at Cornell. The scene is seemingly one of complete confusion as members of the Dramatic Club put the final touches on the set, check the lighting, make last-minute adjustments to the costumes, apply greasepaint and powder, and see that the necessary props are at hand, while the student actors nervously pace the floor and try to remember their lines. At left, the make-up crew is hard at work transforming a group of twentieth-century undergraduates into nineteenth-century characters. Juried '52

Cornell Dramatic Club: Fifty Years Old

IN MARCH, 1909, the Cornell Dramatic Club offered its first play to the public. The play was Henrik Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People," and those students, Faculty members, and townspeople who journeyed to the old Lyceum Theater to see the production pronounced themselves delighted with the result. Today, fifty years later, the Club is still producing plays for the public, and the public, in turn, is still being delighted.

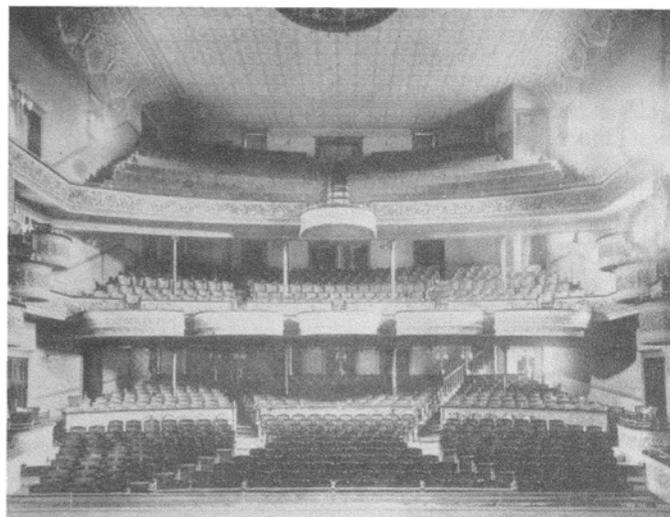

Last March, in recognition of this fiftieth anniversary season, the Club held a special luncheon in Willard Straight Hall for alumni of the Club, present undergraduate members, and representatives of the University Faculty and administration. Two former Club members were the featured speakers: Dr. Smiley Blanton, MD '14, noted author and psychiatrist, who directed the Club's first production fifty years ago while an instructor in Public Speaking here; and Sidney Kingsley '28, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and author of such well-known dramas as "Men in White," "Dead End," and "Darkness at Noon." Those attending the luncheon also saw a performance by the Club of Ibsen's "Ghosts," commemorating that first Ibsen production in 1909. An anniversary dinner for Club alumni was held June 12 at the Clinton House.

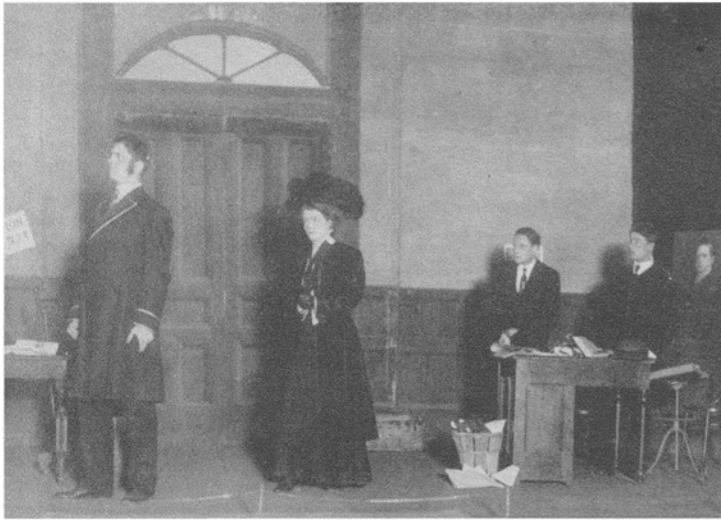

Almost synonymous with the Dramatic Club is the name of the man who was its director from 1912-47, the late Professor Alexander M. Drummond, Speech & Drama. Under his creative leadership, the Club achieved a reputation for presenting sound, imaginative, and stimulating theater.

The Lyceum Theater—It was in this theater, located on South Cayuga Street in downtown Ithaca, that the Dramatic Club presented its first show in March, 1909. For more than a decade, the Club presented at least one show annually in the Lyceum. Many students sat in the inexpensive gallery seats far above the stage. From this lofty perch they saw not only the amateur theatricals put on by the Cornell community, but also professional plays either on tour or being tried out before going to Broadway. Such famous stars as Maude Adams, Pavlova, Lillian Russell, Ethel Barrymore, and Otis Skinner all appeared at the Lyceum.

This reputation spread far beyond the confines of the Campus and made Cornell known throughout the country as a place where new ideas of the theatre were to be found and where new leaders of the theatre were produced. During the thirty-five years of Professor Drummond's directorship, the Club presented many important European plays rarely seen in America. Such famous works as Pirandello's "Right You Are, If You Think You Are" and Romaine's "Doctor Knock" had their first American productions on the Cornell Campus. The high standards in creativity and craftsmanship set so many years ago by Professor Drummond have been carried on by his successors, Professors Walter H. Stainton '19, Club director from 1947-52, and George A. McCalmon, who is present director.

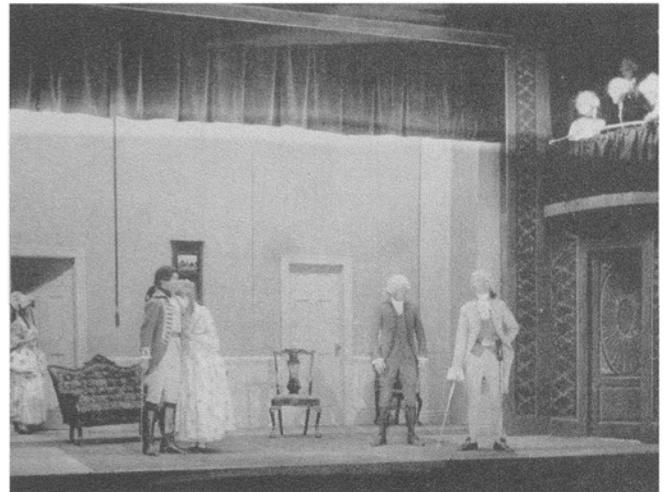

The list of Dramatic Club alumni who have gone on to careers in the professional theatre is both lengthy and imposing. In addition to playwright Kingsley, there are Franchot Tone '27, Dan Duryea '28, William Prince '34, and Stephen Franken '53, actors; Marie Powers '24 and Dorothy Sarnoff

First Dramatic Club Production—March 5, 1909, Henrik Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" opened in the Lyceum Theater in downtown Ithaca. Directed by Dr. Smiley Blanton, MD '14, the play received an enthusiastic response from students, Faculty, and townspeople. A few weeks later, the students involved in the production met and voted to form the Dramatic Club. The Club's first president, Julius Zieget '10, was a member of the cast.

Dramatic Club Milestone—An early American comedy, "The Contrast" by Royall Tyler, was the first Club presentation in the Willard Straight Theater, November 19, 1925. The leading role was played by Franchot Tone '27 (second from left, below), who was later to star on the stage and screen. Another future movie star, Dan Duryea '28, had a minor role in the play.

'33, opera singers; Alan Schneider, MA '41, stage director; Richard Stark '34, television announcer; David Heilweil '37 and his wife (Eva Wolas '36), television producers; Mel Shavelson '37, film writer; Ralph M. Cohn '34, film executive; Warren M. Caro '27, executive director of the Theatre Guild; and Douglas Watt '34, drama critic for the New York Daily News. Besides these Club alumni in the public eye, many more have chosen to work in college and community theatres. More important, thousands of Cornellians have learned to appreciate the theatre more fully through their experience and enjoyment of the Dramatic Club.

Impressive Spectacle—Bailey Hall was the scene of one of the late Professor Alexander M. Drummond's most notable triumphs in this 1933 production of Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Mikado." Assisting him were Eric Dudley, Glee Club director for many years, and Professors Paul J. Weaver, Music, and Walter H. Stainton '19. The ALUMNI NEWS of January 11, 1934 reported: "After the show the Campus talked about it for weeks, just as twenty years ago it would have talked about a dramatic athletic contest won by the home team in a surprising finish." Dorothy Sarnoff '33 (fourth from left) is now a professional singer.

Shakespearean Farce—Final play of the Club's fiftieth anniversary season was "The Taming of the Shrew," presented over Spring Week End and again during Reunions. Above, John Pamplin '61 of Bartow, Fla. plays the lute while Marian Johnson '60 of Omaha, Neb. sings a love song in one of the many humorous moments from the Shakespearean comedy. Rison '60

Represent University

CORNELL DELEGATE at the inauguration of Walter N. Ridley as president of Elizabeth City (N.C.) State Teachers College, April 26, was John M. Hunter, PhD '37, dean of Virginia State College in Petersburg.

May 2, two alumni represented Cornell at academic ceremonies. Walter W. Krebs '17 of Johnstown, Pa. was the delegate at the dedication of the Pius XII Memorial Library at St. Francis College in Loretto, Pa., and Mary K. Hoyt '20 of Montclair, N.J. was the delegate at a convocation observing the centennial of the Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth and the sixtieth anniversary of the College of St. Elizabeth in Convent Station, N.J.

University Provost Sanford S. Atwood was the academic delegate at the inauguration of Mason W. Gross as president of Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J., May 6.

Representing the University at the dedication of Bronx Community College and inauguration of Morris Meister as its president, May 11, was Walter M. Bacon '30 of New York City.

Cornell delegate at the inauguration of Raymond A. Withey as president of Green Mountain College, Poultney, Vt., May 27, was Mrs. LeRoy H. Hall (Grace Bixby) '34.

Charles R. Cooley '22 of Vezelay (Yonne), France, was Cornell's delegate at the fourth centennial celebration of University of Geneva, Switzerland, June 3-6.

The University was represented at the inauguration of Ollie J. Wilson as president of Findlay (Ohio) College, June 6, by Ruel E. Tyo '27, general manager of Hotel Phoenix in Findlay.

New Cornell Group

FIFTEEN CORNELLIANs from southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana met for an informal evening, May 13, at the Pickwick Club in Niles, Mich. The meeting featured group singing and a showing of the Alumni Association film "Victory at Henley." This was the second meeting of the group, which calls itself the St. Joseph River Valley Cornell Group; last September, the group met at the St. Joseph River Yacht Club in St. Joseph, Mich. William A. Vawter II '05 of Benton Harbor, Mich. was instrumental in organizing the group's first meeting.

At the May meeting, a committee of four alumni was chosen to plan for future meetings. The members are William S. Dean '30, Andrew W. Peirce '36, John T. Parrett '44, and Charles A. Pedrotty '50. Other alumni in the group include Carleton B. Hutchins '07, Clar-

TROUBLE IN PARADISE. Last spring it was the students. This year was the turn of the Faculty. To be more precise, it was the turn of some Young Turk members of the Statler (Faculty) Club who turned the usually sedate annual meeting of that organization topsy-turvy. No eggs or stones were thrown. The direst epithet hurled by the insurgents was "stuffed shirts." The riposte to that was "stuffed meeting," though there was also read a rather intemperate letter mentioning "beatniks" and "the great unwashed." It was one of the most spirited and witty meetings I ever attended. There were gales of laughter, such as when a woman member recalled a "gentlemen's agreement" and when the president (an Ornithology professor) said, "Any more threats?" after an assistant professor of Government had warned the meeting that it had better take the movement seriously or next year an opposing slate of officers would be nominated.

Another interesting parallel between last spring's madness of the studentry and the spring effervescence

Women's Rights At Issue in the Statler Club is that the main contention was about women: then, concerning co-eds visiting men's apartments; now, whether women should be allowed in the Statler Rathskeller for lunch. Since the beginning, the Rathskeller at noon has been reserved to men, partly due to lack of space and partly on the theory that the Club should afford one male sanctuary. This has irked some of the women members. This year there was a concerted effort to change things. A Home Ec professor moved that the directors rescind the ban. A Math professor proposed an amendment that no active member be excluded from the Rathskeller. Since only academic personnel are active (voting) members, this narrowed the field to about seventy women. The argument was that women Faculty members should not be excluded from Departmental luncheons with their colleagues. Phrases such as "second-class citizens," "dirty looks," "fringe benefits" filled the air. A faint voice mentioned discrimination against other women members. The vote was slightly in favor of the amended resolution.

Almost as spectacular was that petitions had nominated candidates opposing those of the nominating committee for vice-president and (very ungraciously) the Club founder, first president, and benefactor Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, Emeritus, for board member. Willcox won nearly two to one, but the insurgent vice-president almost made it: thirty-two to thirty-eight. The new president is Professor Henry E. Guerlac '32, History; vice-president is Professor Walter L. Nelson, PhD '41, Biochemistry & Nutrition. It was before the election that the charge of "stuffiness" was hurled, but the rebels were annoyed by a lot of things, including the requirement men wear jackets in the Rathskeller from October to May.

The popular slogan of the meeting was, "Let's make this more of a Faculty club." It sounds good and probably is good. But I think back less than ten years to when the Club was founded and there were grave doubts

Faculty Exclusive as to whether the University community could swing it. Associate and affiliate membership categories were provided and their dues and initiation fees have been an important factor in bringing the Club to its present position of having 2553 members and a reserve of more than $20,000. For years I was on the program committee and used to write the Statler Club News Letter and we worried at the beginning that the Club did not offer enough for younger members. Evidence of the change is that this meeting amended the by-laws to exclude graduate students who are not instructors; they had been overrunning the Rathskeller. Voted down was a special research affiliated membership, with a quota of 100 and dues midway between those of active and resident affiliate members. I detected a slight note of rancour, perhaps mixed with envy, that some of the men at the General Electric Advanced Electronics Center should never have left the ivy and shouldn't be allowed to have it both ways. A former Club president said he would be willing to pay larger dues to make it more of a Faculty club.

As an associate member, it's all right with me, either way. I don't mind being a second-class citizen without a vote. It's a fine Club in a beautiful setting. People who have moved away say that they miss most of all the Statler Club, especially the after-lunch coffee hour. A little spring fever won't hurt the Club. It shows that the Faculty is human.

Miss Two League Titles

LACROSSE and golf teams and light-weight crews had finished their seasons by June 1. Baseball and tennis teams, the heavy oarsmen, and a couple of track men have post-examination competitions. Any championship honors would have to be won by them, for there have been none so far.

Varsity baseball and lacrosse teams came close. They were runners-up in their respective leagues. In a bizarre arrangement, Dartmouth baseball team was beaten, 5-3, on Hoy Field, May 30, in a game scheduled for 2 p.m. which actually started at 5:45 p.m. The victory gave the spirited Red batters a tie for second place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League with Dartmouth and Brown, which Cornell had also defeated. Navy won the title. May 23 on Lower Alumni Field, the doughty lacrosse team lost a tough one to Princeton, 9-8, and thereby lost the Ivy championship to the Tigers and suffered their first League defeat.

No spring team was given a poorer chance than the baseball team before the season. A tie for second honors in the League was therefore a gratifying rebuff handed the critics by a group of young men who played baseball the way it's supposed to be played in college. They go at it with tremendous vigor and look just wonderful at times, and they kept trying whatever the circumstances.

They have had a fine leader in Captain John P. ("Jake") Williams '59, a twenty-year-old, five-foot-ten, 165-pound Senior out of Oceanside High School in East Rockaway. He had pitched a few games in high school, none in college; but he stepped right into the void when Coach George Patte needed pitching help this spring. He plays a strong field game and is the most consistent hitter on the team. That is why his teammates chose him for the Dr. Al Sharpe Most Valuable Player Award, May 28 at the team banquet. This is given annually by Dr. Louis Corwith to honor Dr. Albert H. Sharpe, Cornell football coach from 1912-17.

It was Williams's good all-around play on the mound and at bat that was principally responsible for the upset victory over Dartmouth. The visitors were delayed by bad flying conditions out of Lebanon, N.H., but the game was kept on the fire by the eager Indians calling every hour to say that they would arrive shortly. They finally arrived, all dressed, having put on baseball gear in the bus from the airport in Elmira. About 150 hardy fans were waiting when the game started at 5:45 p.m.

Dartmouth Travels in Vain

The gruelling trip seemed worth while to Coach Tony Lupien's team until the sixth inning, when Dartmouth's big pitcher, Art Quirk, was belted for four runs on four hits and a hit batsman. Dartmouth, ahead 2-0 until then; was now behind, 4-2, and stayed behind. Another run by the Red in the eighth and a counter by Dartmouth in the ninth and it was all over. The ride back to Hanover must have been even more irksome than the trip down.

The big sixth started with Quirk hitting outfielder Leigh W. Schmalz '61 in the ribs. Timothy J. Keliher '60 hit a scratch-single to right field. Ronald S. Ivkovich '61 laid a dandy bunt down the third baseline and the bases were loaded. Last year's batting champion, Michael H. Kaufman '60, who does not look it this year, came through with a ripping single to centerfield and Schmalz and Keliher scored. Captain Williams hit a long one to left center which brought in Ivkovich, and Williams ran by second and was almost to third when he discovered Kaufman there. Kaufman, seeing Williams bearing down on the base, took off for home but was tagged. Williams had third to himself, anyway.

Catcher Lyman M. Beggs '61 squeezed Williams in for the fourth run. Beggs was responsible for the insurance-run in the eighth when he singled to bring in Williams, who had previously got on with a single and was able to go to second on a wild pitch by Quirk. Beggs's long single brought Williams all the way home.

Williams had gotten along all right with his pitching until the ninth. He walked the bases full. A brilliant double play, second baseman Richard Goldstein '60 to Keliher to Ivkovich, accounted for two outs. But a run was scored while it was being executed. The last out came on a close one at first on a deadly throw from deep third by Kaufman to first baseman Ivkovich. The game ended at 7:50. The box score:

University of Buffalo was defeated, 4-0, on Hoy Field, May 23. The game was called in the seventh because of rain. The rain had been coming down for the two previous innings. Williams was the big hitter for the winners with 3-for-4, including a double. H. Laurence Fuller '60 was the winning pitcher.

Freshmen Do Well

The Freshman baseball team, under Coach Hugh S. MacNeil '51, closed out a successful 7-2 season. Its last game was May 26 on the Ithaca College South Hill field and was the second loss of the season, 0-2. The only other loss came at the hands of Oswego State Teachers junior varsity. The previous day on Hoy Field the Freshmen beat Ithaca College, 5-2, so it was a stand-off locally.

Footballers David E. McKelvey and Patrick J. Pennucci were the big stickers in the Red victory. McKelvey batted in 3 runs on a triple and two singles. Pennucci got 2 for 4 and batted in the final run. Harvey L. Kaufman was the winning pitcher and hit a triple to help his own cause. McKelvey was on the mound for five innings in the losing game, but was relieved by Arlo R. McDowell.

Lacrosse Team Misses Narrowly

In a stirring battle for League honors, the Red lacrosse team had to take second place to a Princeton team which had a bit more polish. The score of 9-8 is a good indication of the closeness of the contest. Princeton was outplayed for most of the game, but it had nifty stick handlers and adept scorers in Bob Milling, 4 goals, and John Heyd and John Allen, each with 2. Their play-combinations worked beautifully at times.

It was a magnificently played game and if rain had not curtailed the effectiveness of the attack, it would surely have been a higher scoring one. Rain started to fall in the latter part of the second quarter and it pelted down in buckets in the second half. Quality and intensity of play were so terrific, however, most of the 3000 spectators stayed right through to the end.

There were many heroes for Cornell. They might not be identified as such on a loser, but there was no better player on the field than David L. Dresser '60, star midfielder from Baltimore, Md. He scored 4 goals. And midfielder Captain Bruce W. Pfann '59 was his usual effective self as face-off man. He scored 1 goal. Daniel L. Bidwell '60, the third midfielder, played his best game. His offensive forays were a delight to watch. He also scored a goal. Outstanding also was the first Red defensive line of John W. Webster '59, Marshall L. Grode '60, and John K. Rooney '59. Three are sons of '24 men: James L. Dresser, George R. Pfann, and Joseph A. Rooney.

Two quick goals in the concluding minutes of the first half gave the Tigers an 8-6 lead. The rain and a tight Red defense gave them only 1 more score, but it was enough. The game was tied four times in the first half.

It was a 9-2 season for this splendid team. The summary:

Dresser was elected captain of the 1960 Varsity team. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta. Bruce Pfann was given the Larry Woodworth Trophy for outstanding performance.

Midfielder John Boothby and goalie David J. Kirkby were elected so-captains of the 1959 Freshman lacrosse team.

Other Sports

IF THERE is a Varsity rowing victory, it will have to come in the IRA at Syracuse, June 20. Four years in a row, the Red oarsmen have flashed to victory in this big regatta and even five years ago, Cornell was the first official arrival in the varsity race. Navy, the first to come in, was disqualified for an ineligible member in 1954. Cornell refused to accept the victory, however, so there is no winner named for that year and Cornell is listed as second.

It will take some doing to keep up the pace this year. Coach R. Harrison Sanford cannot seem to find the winning combination in the Varsity or Junior Varsity, but he has a pleasant package in the undefeated Freshman boat.

Pennsylvania was a winner on Cayuga Lake, May 23, in the varsity and junior varsity and the only Red victor was the Freshman boat. All races were over the two-mile course. It was a wet day for all concerned. A driving rain fell all afternoon, but the Lake was pretty well behaved.

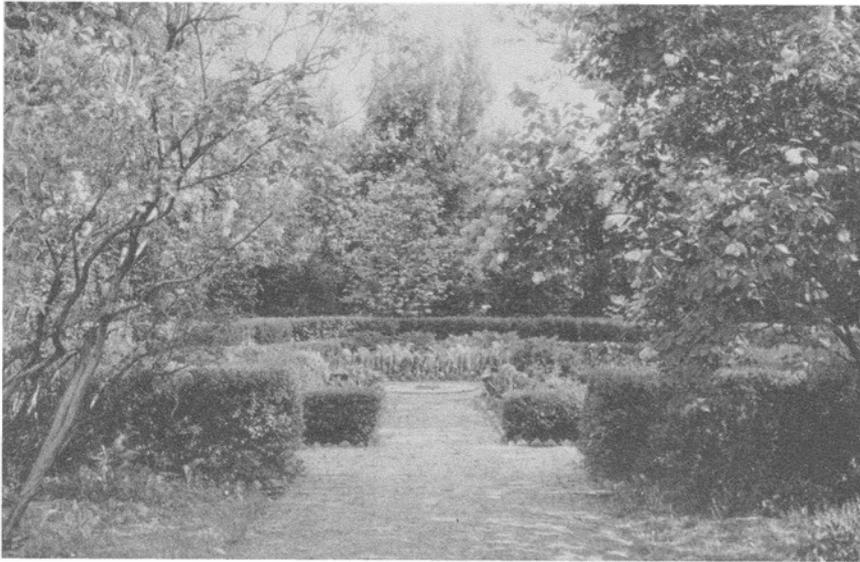

Penn varsity had beaten the Red by a mere three-tenths of a second in a trial heat of the Eastern Sprint 2000 meters regatta at Princeton the previous week, but it looked more superior than that on May 23. It won by a length and it looked self-contained in doing it. The Red Varsity made a valiant fight and led at the mile mark by a deck length. It did not have the power to stay with Penn's sprint in the last mile. Penn went from 28½ to 30½ starting the second mile. Cornell was at 31, but was falling away. The last 200 yards, the Red got up to 33 and 34 and picked up about half a length. But the margin was still one length. Penn's time was 10:57.6; Cornell's 11:02.

Penn's Eastern Sprint champion jayvees won in faster time than its varsity, 10:56.6 to Cornell's 11:07.

The Freshmen were four lengths out in front of their Penn counterparts. Red time was 11:01.3; Penn's 11:15.2.

Lightweights Sweep Schuylkill

Cornell's 150-pound crews swept the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia against Dartmouth and Pennsylvania, May 23, for a rousing finish of their season. The Varsity boat finished the Henley course of one and five-sixteenths miles three lengths ahead of the Dartmouth boat that had beaten it by a length and a half on the Charles River at Cambridge a week earlier. The Junior Varsity beat Dartmouth by a length and a half and the Freshman boat was two and a half Club Dedicates Mrs. Farrand's Garden—This "secret garden" behind the President's House (now the Andrew D. White Museum of Art) was designed and planted by Mrs. Livingston Farrand not long before the Farrands left in 1937. It is being restored by the Garden Club of Ithaca as a memorial to Mrs. Farrand, founder and first president of the Club, who died October 10, 1957. Dedication ceremonies, held May 23 inside the President's House because of inclement weather, brought Mrs. William A. Wood (Louisa Farrand), Grad '23-'24, of New Canaan, Conn., and Mrs. Charles Conard (Margaret Farrand), Grad '27, of Washington, D.C. and many Ithaca friends. Professor Morris Bishop '14, Romance Literature, spoke for President Deane W. Malott, who was out of town. A figure of Pan by Frederick MacMonnies, which was given to the Museum by Quinto Maganini of Greenwich, Conn., has been made the focal point in the restored garden and a dedicatory plaque of bronze, a gift of the Garden Club, was designed by Chauncey A. Thompson '25, University Architect. Assisting in the restoration were George T. Swanson '36, Director of the Cornell Plantations; Edward G. Lawson '13 of Salisbury, Conn., former professor of Architecture who worked on the original garden; and Professors John G. Seeley, PhD '40, and Robert E. Lee '40, Floriculture.

lengths ahead of Dartmouth. Penn trailed in all three races.

Only two Cornell track men were able to score in the Intercollegiate at Randalls Island, New York City, May 29 & 30. They were next year's captain, John S. Murray '61, of Ames, Iowa, who placed third in the pole vault with 13 feet, and this year's co-captain, Charles H. Hill '59, fifth in the mile run. Ed Moran of Penn State won the mile and the 880 and was on the winning mile-relay team. He was principal scorer for the title winners. Cornell wound up in twentieth place.

May 23, Hill lowered his own Cornell record for a winning mile with 4:13.2 in a meet against Alfred on the Alfred track. It was a five-lap track and the race was run in the rain. Hill beat Alfred's talented Frank Finnerty by just a yard. Cornell won the meet, 89-42.

Tennis Coach Resigns

The tennis team lost its last two matches, to Princeton, 7-2, at Princeton, May 23, and to Dartmouth, 9-0, on the Cascadilla Courts, May 30. The two winners against Princeton on the coachless Cornell team were Donald Rubell '61 at No. 1 and P. Kay Champion '60 at No. 2. For Dartmouth, Champion was suffering from an infected elbow and Rubell stayed out to study for finals.

Richard Lewis resigned as head tennis and squash coach after twenty-two years on the Cornell staff. He has joined Cortland Line Co. as vice-president in charge of sales and a director. A graduate of Princeton, he was a well-known amateur tennis player after graduation and coached club teams before coming to Cornell the fall of 1937. His over-all record at Cornell was 136-79. He did not coach from May 20, but this year's team had a 7-4 record. The period 1947-50 was his golden one. There were forty victories and just a single loss, to Princeton. That was when Richard Savitt '50 and Leonard L. Steiner '51 were the leading figures. Another fine period was 1952-55, when Cornell won thirty-eight meets and lost only eight. Gilmore M. Rothrock '54 and Clyde F. Barker '54 were the stars.

A loss to Army, May 23, finished the season for the Varsity golfers. Score was 4-3 in a tight match on the University course. The match hinged on the rival No. 7 men, Army's David Teal and Robert T. Mosher '61. At the end of eighteen holes they were tied. They halved the first three extra holes with par, bogey, and triple bogey before Teal took the fourth with a one-under-par 5.

John W. Webster '59 of Drexel Hill, Pa. was chosen as Cornell's first athlete-scholar to win the Eastern College Athletic Conference Medallion. ECAC established the Medallion last year for its member colleges to award annually to the young man in each who combines the finest qualities of the athlete and the scholar. The Faculty committee on athletic eligibility here received nominations from the coaches in each sport and made the award to Webster. Holder of a National Scholarship, he has maintained a B average in Arts & Sciences, majoring in government, and has won the "C" in football two years and in lacrosse three years. He is a member of Psi Upsilon, Quill & Dagger, and Scabbard & Blade.

MacNeil Succeeds Greene

HUGH S. (SAM) MACNEIL '51, Freshman coach the last five years, has been appointed Varsity basketball coach to succeed Royner C. Greene, who was at the job thirteen years. MacNeil, thirty-four, a graduate in Agriculture, was a regular on the basketball team in the successful years of 1949-51. The 1950-51 team had a 20-5 record, best ever compiled by a Cornell team, and he was outstanding as a back court player and set-shot expert. He was also an outfielder on the Varsity baseball team during those years, playing under Coach Greene in both sports. His Freshman basketball teams won fifty-five, lost twenty-two, and this year's team had a 13-4 mark. His Freshman baseball team this season had a 7-2 record.

A native of Williamsville, MacNeil played football, basketball, and baseball on the high school team there. After graduation, he entered the Merchant Marine and was a communications officer from 1943-45, serving in the Pacific campaigns from New Guinea through Okinawa. After a freshman year at Buffalo State Teachers College, he transferred to Cornell. He taught and coached at Geneseo High School for two years before returning to Cornell. Mrs. MacNeil was Georgia McGowan, MS '49. They have four children.

1959 Yearbook Appears

CORNELLIAN 1959 is more of a yearbook of the University than some of its recent predecessors have been. An opening section, "Challenge and Change," recounts the background and recent developments of the University and is illustrated with many topical photographs, some in color. Illustrated and descriptive sections deal with the President, administration, and each of the academic divisions of the University, and the multitude of student activities and organizations. A new section deals with life in the University dormitories. The year's records of Varsity and intramural sports are given, with pictures.

The book includes rosters of the honor societies, group pictures of fraternities and sororities, and individual pictures and activities of the '59 men and women. Among these is pictured "Chinook Meow III," three-legged Alaska Husky dog better known as Tripod. His activities are listed as "WS Comm.; Interoc; Roger Burgraff [55] Scholarship." Class History is by Eugene L. Case and Sylvia V. Pancotti.

Co-editors of the 1959 Cornellian were James R. Hobson '59 of Arlington, Va. and Hugh M. Zimmers '59 of Twenty-nine Palms, Cal. Paul S. Morris '59 of Brooklyn was photography editor and John R. Lieber '59 of Yardville, N.J. was business manager.

Lehigh Runs Again

ITHACA will have limited railway passenger service, at least until next spring, as the result of a decision last month by the US Interstate Commerce Commission. The decision came after a five-month controversy that has involved the entire Ithaca community, the ICC, and the Lehigh Valley Railroad. After twenty days with no passenger service here, the Commission ordered the Lehigh to have two passenger trains stop at Ithaca daily: the eastbound Maple Leaf, from New York and Philadelphia, arriving at 1:49 a.m., and the westbound Maple Leaf, from Toronto and Buffalo, at 3:17 a.m.

The controversy began last December when the Lehigh Valley asked the ICC to allow it to abandon all passenger service, effective January 12. Such a move was necessary, said Cedric A. Major '13, president of the Railroad, because the Lehigh was losing approximately $4,000,000 a year on passenger service and to continue it could bring bankruptcy. The plan was put off pending a decision by the ICC. Finally, the Commission authorized the railroad to discontinue about 60 per cent of its passenger service May 6, including all of it through Ithaca. The effect of this ICC decision in Ithaca was both immediate and vigorous. Local groups, including the Chamber of Commerce and Ithaca College, launched protests to the ICC and to members of Congress. President Deane W. Malott sent telegrams of protest to Senators Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating; to Representative John Taber, who represents the local Congressional district; and to four alumni who are Congressmen from New York State, Clarence E. Kilburn '16, Alexander Pirnie '24, John R. Pillion '27, and Howard W. Robison '39. In other telegrams to the University Trustees and alumni officials, President Malott outlined his efforts to preserve passenger service. He urged the recipients to ask

Major to authorize the railroad to furnish one train a day each way between Ithaca and New York City. A revised order came from the ICC to start the present service May 26.

Review ROTC Units

MORE THAN 3000 cadets of the Army, Navy, and Air Force ROTC units participated in the annual Presidential Review, May 21. For the second year in a row, inclement weather forced the review to be held in Barton Hall instead of on Alumni Field. After the cadets had passed in review under the command of Air Force Cadet Colonel Warren J. McKeon '59 of Troy, awards were presented to students in recognition of their military aptitudes.

Louis L. Bucciarelli, Jr. of New Canaan, Conn. was awarded the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory Fellowship, given each year to an outstanding ROTC student who has qualified for a commission, for graduate study in one of the University's Engineering or scientific divisions. A candidate for the BME degree this June, Bucciarelli will enter the Graduate School of Aeronautical Engineering next fall.

This was the last Presidential Review for two of the three commanders of the ROTC units. Captain Reuben E. Stanley of the US Navy and Colonel Gibson E. Sisco of the US Air Force both leave Cornell for new assignments this fall. Colonel William H. Allen, Jr. is commander of the Army ROTC unit.

New Psychological Study

THE WAY A PERSON grasps a knob or a dial reveals much about the kind of person he is, according to Professor Patricia Smith, Psychology. In a study of thirty students at the University, Professor Smith found that such characteristics as deference and aggression are indicated by the position of a person's hand and fingers when he grasps small objects.

Professor Smith and a student assistant, Alexander Cicchinelli, asked each of the subjects to place T-shaped pegs, L-shaped pegs, and pegs with disc-shaped handles into holes in a specially constructed board. The researchers found that each person had his own style of grasp, and that these grasps could be used to tell how the subjects would do on personality tests.

Ten Faculty members and students independently judged the types of hand grasps used, and their decisions were correlated with the personality test results. The two personality traits which could be most easily predicted from hand grasps were aggression, or the tendency to direct action against people, and deference, or the tendency toward conformity and submission. Professor Smith's findings also suggest that emotional security is related to the length of time a person takes to move the pegs.

The experiment began as a study of people's preferences for various methods of working with their hands. Shortly after the project was started, however, Professor Smith and her assistant found that they could often predict the subject's grasp by observing his behavior before the test. This suggested the personality research.

Professor Smith said that she was not surprised to find that personality is related to handgrasps. "We judge people every day by their motions, posture, the way they carry themselves and hold their bodies," she stated. "In judging personality from the way someone grasps an object, we're doing the same thing, only in this case we're trying to discover what qualities can be judged and whether they can be judged accurately."

New Yorkers Elect

MAX F. SCHMITT '24, president of The Wool Bureau, Inc., was re-elected president of the Cornell Club of New York by the board of governors last month. Also re-elected were Trustee John P. Syme '26 and J. Bradley Delehanty, vice-presidents. Newly elected officers are E. Roy Underwood '15, Bart Viviano '33, and retiring Trustee Dr. Preston A. Wade '22, vice-presidents; Serge P. Petroff '35, treasurer; and Walter E. Hopper, Jr. '37, secretary.

Officers of the Cornell Interfraternity Alumni Association were re-elected for another year at the annual meeting of the Association in New York City, May 14. They are Joseph Diamant '20, Sigma Alpha Mu, president; John D. Mills '43, Sigma Phi, vice-president; and George R. Pager '48, Tau Delta Phi, secretary-treasurer. The meeting was addressed by John Summerskill, University Vice President for Student Affairs, who spoke on the changes in the character and aspirations of the present-day generation of students.

Educators to Gather

FIVE NATIONALLY KNOWN LEADERS in education will be keynote speakers at the sixth annual Conference for School Administrators at the University, July 28-30. They are Galen Jones, director of the Council for the Advancement of Secondary Education; Stephen A. Freeman, vice-president and director of the language schools of Middlebury (Vt.) College; J. Darrell Barnard, chairman of the department of science and mathematics education at New York University; Harold P. Fawcett, professor of education at Ohio State University; and John Sternig, assistant superintendent of schools in Glencoe, Ill.

The three-day conference, which is also designed for teachers and supervisors of science, mathematics and foreign languages, is sponsored jointly by the School of Education, Department of Rural Education, and the Shell Merit Fellowship Program. It has its theme, "Administering and Improving Instruction in Science, Mathematics, and Foreign Languages." The team approach is being used with each school system encouraged to send its administrators, supervisors, and teachers. Coordinating the conference is Professor Lawrence B. Hixon, Education.

Student Government Organizes

SECTION 3B of the new Student Government Constitution provides that the newly formed Executive Board is entitled to "exercise initial jurisdiction in all matters relating to student activities and conduct, except as it shall have specifically delegated such initial jurisdiction to those student organizations and agencies having particular areas of responsibility for student activities and conduct." The Executive Board has decided to divide all areas falling under its jurisdiction into four groups. The first will be the review and recommendations committee, which will consist of three Seniors, three Juniors, and the secretary (Elizabeth A. Little '61) of the Executive Board. Its chairman will be Sam W. Bodman '61 of Tallmadge, Ohio, vice-president of the Board. This committee will evaluate the activities of Campus organizations (Interfraternity Council, Women's Self Government Association, Panhellenic Council, the Class Councils and College Councils, CURW, Men's Independent Council, and Willard Straight Hall). When completely set up, the committee will review the minutes of all Campus organizations. The second group will be that of student service. This will consist of all committees created by the old Student Council: Deskbook, cheerleaders, rally committee, Spring & Fall Week End committees, etc. These various committees will continue to function as they have in the past, but will be directly governed by the Executive Board in this student service grouping. The third area will be that of University policy review, headed by the University policy committee, which will concern itself with Campus-wide problems such as the current student housing issue and the question of the value of compulsory ROTC. The fourth area, academics, will coordinate lectures and will stimulate interest and enthusiasm in the area of academic integrity and achievement.

In addition to these four areas of jurisdiction, the Men's Judiciary Board, Women's Judiciary Board, and the Freshman Residence Judiciary Board will remain as separate entities, fulfilling the Executive Board's responsibility over student conduct. The chairman of the MJB's eight members is Joel S. Birnbaum '60 of Roslyn Heights. The four new members of the MJB are Phillip Hartz '61, Allan Lippert '61, and Ronald Curry and Douglas Fuss, both '62. Also responsible to the Executive Board will be the Scheduling Committee Activities Review Board, which is not considered in any of the four major areas described above. SCARB will continue as it has in the past, scheduling events for the students, generally controlling all student activity groups, and working closely with the Student Activities Office in Day Hall. Under the new chairmanship of Leonard Harlan '59, this group will pursue a more active role and will take more initiative than it has in the past.

The Executive Board planned to complete setting up its mechanism of authority by the end of the term and will be prepared to put its program into full operation in September. According to Vice-president Bodman, the unique feature of this new student government will be that close ties will be maintained between the Executive Board and the Faculty and administration. An example of this step forward is the fact that Professors Henry Elder, Architecture, and Steven Muller, PhD '58, Government, members of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, will serve as advisers to the Board.

The formation of this new Student Government Organization will certainly be a landmark in Cornell's history, for it marks a firm step forward in student responsibility and representation. The members of the Executive Board have spent many weeks of hard work formulating these plans, and it will definitely depend on the attitude of the studentry whether or not the next step will be backward. Apathy has reigned at Cornell long enough. It's time that we took a genuine interest in student affairs and wholeheartedly supported the hard work of a concerned, devoted few.

All that is needed to build the new Terrace Lounge at Willard Straight Hall is $250. Approximately $1750 has been raised thus far, and if the students are able to raise a total of $2000, President Malott has said that the University will match that amount.

Every so often an inspired student will express his mysterious sentiments in the Daily Sun's classified ads. This one appeared in the May Day issue: "Anastasia amid the myrrh and hazel nuts, you transfix me in utter transcendentality. Bosley."

James H. Russell, Jr. '60 of Oklahoma City, Okla. has been elected editor-in-chief of the 1960 Cornellian. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. William W. Rossiter '61 of New Canaan, Conn. is associate editor; David J. Bershad '61 of Forest Hills, managing editor; and Edward R. Kimmelman '61 of Freeport, photo editor.

Pi Beta Phi and Delta Delta Delta copped honors recently in broomstick polo and bowling, respectively. The Pi Phi's downed both Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Delta Delta by identical 3-0 scores. Tri-Delt won the Women's Athletic Association bowling tournament for the second straight year, with Kappa Alpha Theta placing second and Kappa Delta, third.

Winner of the 123-pound University wrestling championship is Karl G. Krech, Jr. '62 of Drexel Hill, Pa. He is the son of Karl G. Krech '21. This page May 1 incorrectly reported the winner as Alan S. Krech '60.

Clef Club, honor society of the Big Red Band, has become Delta Zeta Chapter of the national band honor society, Kappa Kappa Psi. Its members will be chosen from the Big Red Band, Concert Band, and Repertoire Band.

Student Agencies president for this year, David M. Gowdy '59 of Hudson, delivered a check for $250 to the University to be added to the Student Agencies Endowment, as most of his predecessors have done since 1944. This gift brings the Endowment to more than $5,500. Its income will be used, starting next year, for grants to worthy students to buy books.

Awards have been made to the top fifth-year students in Mechanical Engineering. Harry A. Fertig of Laurelton received an engraved electric watch provided by Hamilton Watch Co. for the Engineering graduate who has most successfully combined proficiency in his major field of study with achievements either academic, extracurricular, or a combination of both in the social sciences and humanities. He ranks in the top ten students in his Class of 115 and has taken thirty credit hours in the humanities; has been managing editor of The Cornell Engineer; is a member of Pi Lambda Phi and of Pi Tau Sigma and Pi Delta Epsilon. Sibley Prizes of $100 each, provided from a gift of the late Trustee Hiram Sibley for the highest cumulative averages in Mechanical Engineering, went to Herbert P. Hess of Towson, Md. and James G. Rae of Tarrytown. Machine Design Award and Air Conditioning Award, provided by Industrial Press for the best students in these fields, were won, respectively, by Robert A. Lyle of Pittsburgh, Pa. and Sherwood B. Bliss of Scarsdale.

THE FACULTY

Trustee Arthur H. Dean '19 was an honorary pallbearer at the funeral of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. They were associates in the New York City law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell.

Trustee Walker L. Cisler '22, president of Detroit Edison Co., has been awarded the Goethals Medal of the Society of American Military Engineers for 1958. The medal, established to perpetuate the memory of the military engineer-builder of the Panama Canal, is given annually to an engineer in civil or military practice for the most eminent and notable contribution in the fields of engineering, particularly in design, construction, and methods. Cisler has been actively engaged in atomic energy development since the end of World War II. He served as executive secretary of the AEC Industrial Advisory Group, 1947-48, and has been responsible for his company's participation in the activities of Atomic Power Development Associates, Inc., and Power Reactor Development Co.

Results of their studies of hibernation in bats were presented by Professor William A. Wimsatt '39, Zoology, and Frank C. Kallen '49, graduate assistant, at the First International Symposium on Natural Mammalian Hibernation in Dedham, Mass., May 13-15, organized by the American Institute of Biological Sciences and sponsored by the Office of Naval Research. The long winter sleep, which is of particular interest to scientists because of possible uses in space flight and surgery, was discussed by representatives from ten countries. Professor Wimsatt's and Kallen's studies of more than 1000 bats have been supported by National Science Foundation grants totalling $58,000.

Director Emeritus Foster M. Coffin '12 of Willard Straight Hall spoke at the dedication of a new student union at Lycoming College, Williamsport, Pa., May 8. He is a former president of the Association of College Unions.

Professor Charlotte M. Young, Medical Nutrition, has been presented the Outstanding Achievement Award of University of Minnesota, which is given to former students of the university who have attained eminence and distinction.

Study of the nature and extent of behavior disorders resulting from a lack of vitamin B₁, technically known as thiamine, supported by a $7380 Public Health Service grant, was started by Professor Allan Goldstein, Psychology, June 1. Professor Goldstein says he will attempt to find out whether widespread behavior disorders accompany a vitamin B₁ deficiency and, if so, the nature and extent of the disorders. He will be assisted during the summer by Jesse Smith, Grad.

Professor Rudolf B. Schlesinger, Law, has been appointed a member of an advisory committee on international rules of judicial procedure established by Congress last year. The advisory committee will work with a newly-created US Commission, headed by former US Attorney Herbert Brownell, Jr., in making a study of international judicial assistance mainly for the purpose of drafting international agreements and other legislation designed to improve the practice of serving judicial documents, obtaining evidence in foreign countries, and obtaining proof of foreign law. The Commission met with the advisory committee in Washington, May 20.

Dr. Don W. Fawcett, professor and head of the Department of Anatomy at the Medical College in New York since 1955, will become, July 1, Hersey Professor of Anatomy and head of the department at Harvard. He received the AB (cum laude) in 1938 and the MD in 1942 and was assistant professor of anatomy from 1951-55 at Harvard.

Professor Frank V. Kosikowski, PhD '44, Dairy Industry, has prepared with Germain Mocquot of Paris, France, a new book, Advances in Cheese Technology, published by the United Nations (FAO) in English, French, and Spanish, and being distributed to more than sixty countries. Copies may be obtained in the United States from the Columbia University Press, International Documents Service, 2960 Broadway, New York City. Professor Kosikowski received a grant to conduct research from February through this June at University College, Cork, Ireland. The award is one of eight made to American scholars this year in a new program financed by the government of Ireland. In July, Professor Kosikowski will attend the International Dairy Congress in London.

Robert T. Horn '39 has been appointed secretary of the Board of Trustees investment committee. Also Assistant Treasurer, he will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Assistant Treasurer James R. Simpson. Robert I. Knapp, formerly investment statistician in the Treasurer's Office, is now Assistant Treasurer.

Cornell chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary fraternity, has elected to membership Professors Cyril L. Comar, director of the Laboratory of Radiation Biology; Donald D. Delahanty '44, Veterinary Surgery; Joseph H. Gans, Veterinary Pharmacology; Charles E. Ramsey, Rural Sociology; Ben E. Sheffey, Nutrition; and Philip Taietz, Rural Sociology.

Professor George A. McCalmon, Speech & Drama, is directing a new outdoor historical drama, Kermit Hunter's "The Golden Crucible," to be presented in Pittsburgh, Pa. this summer commemorating the city's two-hundredth anniversary. The play will be produced in a 2500-seat amphitheatre constructed for the occasion at the point where the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers join. Audiences will view highlights of the city's development on three stages. A company of seventy-five actors will enact the 350 characters involved. The play will be performed six times a week beginning June 27 until September 5.

E. Pepperrell Wheeler '23, research associate in Geology, will leave July 1 for his twelfth expedition to northern Labrador. With a National Science Foundation grant of $10,000, he will spend fifteen months mapping little-known territory and attempting to solve the problems of physics and chemistry related to the origin of arthosite, a major source of titanium.

Professor Mark Kac, Mathematics & Engineering Physics, has been elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences.

David M. Kopko '53, former Assistant Director of the University Placement Service, is with the communications products department of General Electric Co. in Lynchburg, Va. He and Mrs. Kopko and son, Mike, live in Lynchburg at 1126 Toledo Avenue.

Professor George L. Slate, Pomology, Geneva Experiment Station, received the 1958 Gold Medal of the Men's Garden Clubs of America at the national convention of the society in Jackson, Miss. in May. The award is given annually in recognition of outstanding achievements in the field of horticulture.

Florence Schwartz, MA '57, has been named program director of Willard Straight Hall, succeeding Mrs. Richard M. Ramin (Frances Anthony), MA '54, who is retiring after seven years. Miss Schwartz opened and organized the Straight Workshop and has been its director for two years. She will be succeeded by Ronald Faircloth, a February graduate of University of Florida. Leona Chang, MS '58, a Sweet Briar graduate, has been appointed assistant program director, replacing W. Jack Peterson, who is leaving to complete work on the PhD at the University. All appointments are effective September 1.

Phi Beta Kappa Elects

PHI BETA KAPPA chapter at the University initiated seventy-one members, May 4. Four were students in the Graduate School, fifty-five were Seniors, and eleven were Juniors. The initiates also included one alumnus, E. B. White '21, author and contributing editor of The New Yorker magazine. Dean Francis E. Mineka, Arts & Sciences, chapter president this year, presided at the initiation banquet in Willard Straight Hall and spoke on "The Future of Higher Education." Dale Rogers '59, daughter of US Attorney General William P. Rogers, LLB '37, and Mrs. Rogers (Adele Langston) '33, spoke for the new members.

Officers elected for next year are Professors Paul M. O'Leary, PhD '29, Economics, president; Philip Morrison, Physics & Nuclear Studies, vice-president; George H. Healey, PhD '47, English & Bibliography, secretary; and Registrar Walter A. Snickenberger, treasurer. The new members are:

GRADUATE STUDENTS: Eliezer B. Ayal, Hadera, Israel; Sister Stella Marie Hanley, Toronto, Canada; Peter Max, New Hartford; Forrest Read, Schenectady.

CLASS OF '59 (besides Miss Rogers): James H. Bennett, Wilmette, Ill.; Barbara B. Bergenfield, Forest Hills; Marcia Bourgin, Urbana, Ill.; Katharine Boynton, Ithaca; Gertrude L. Cahane, New York City; Mary M. Dechert, New York City; Diane F. Divera,

Washington, D.C.; Steven D. Douglas, Jamaica; Adrienne J. Farber, Mt. Vernon; Lee H. Ferguson, Cranford, N.J.; David H. Fram, Washington, D.C.; Barnett W. Glickfeld, New York City; Jonathan V. Goldstein, Rochester; Judith C. Green, Scarsdale; Michael E. Green, Brooklyn; Paul S. Green, New York City; Mary A. Holden, Portland, Me.; Rachel Jacoff, Great Neck; Joan M. Kanstoren, Brooklyn; Arthur J. Kaplan, Brooklyn; Barbara S. Kaplan, Long Beach; Mark J. Kesselman, Peekskill; Isabel R. Kliegman, Brooklyn; Judith G. Koch, Ithaca; Paul Lebowitz, Newark, N.J.; Winifred N. Lehrer, Bronx; Carl P. Leubsdorf, New York City; Fredi A. Liebeman, Brooklyn; Carol N. Lipis, Maplewood, N.J.; Maxine B. Major, Atlantic City, N.J.; Janet R. Maleson, Elkins Park, Pa.; John H. Marx, New York City; Marcia L. Mazur, White Plains; John E. Morris, Silver Spring, Md.; Susan L. Nordhauser, Brooklyn; Karen M. Okland, Elmont; Elizabeth C. Olton, Newton Highland, Mass.; James D. Parker, Glen Ridge, N.J.; Elaine M. Platt, Brooklyn; Thomas R. Pyncheon, Jr., East Norwich; Judy C. Rosenbaum, Drexel Hill, Pa.; Eleanor A. Ross, Rochester; Henry A. Schaeffer, Brooklyn; Julie H. Shank, Tuckahoe; Ann B. Shaw, White Plains; Martha A. Shedrick, Williamsville; Dorothy L. Sipe, East Orange, N.J.; Alfred E. Stillman, New York City; George A. Tanner, New York City; Brenda J. Truran, Brewster; Toni L. Vogel, New York City; Tauby M. Warriner, New York City; Mark A. Weinstein, New York City; Penelope D. Wilson, Maplewood, N.J.

Faculty & Staff Changes

NUMEROUS Faculty appointments and promotions are announced for the coming academic year.

Brian Tierney, a specialist in canon law, has been named professor of Medieval History. Since 1951, he has been a member of the history faculty at Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. He is the author of many articles and books, including Foundations of the Conciliar Theory, published by Cambridge University Press in 1955, and Medieval Poor Law, published by University of California Press this year. He received the AB at Pembroke College, Cambridge, in 1948 with first-class honors in history and the PhD at Cambridge University in 1951. Professor Tierney is secretary of the Institute of Medieval Canon Law.

Thomas Gold has been appointed chairman of the Astronomy Department, Director of Radio Astronomy, and professor of Electrical Engineering. He comes to Cornell from Harvard University, where for the last two years he has been professor of astronomy. Professor Gold's appointment marks the University's expansion in the fields of radio astronomy and astrophysics. He is responsible for many widely held theories in both fields. He and his co-worker, Professor Herman Bondi of London, originated the theory of continuous creation of matter, and he has shown how matter and anti-matter could co-exist by repelling each other. His interest in cosmic ray origins has resulted in several articles on the subject in scientific journals. Professor Gold also originated the theory that the flat areas of the moon's surface are actually low places filled with dust. He holds two degrees in mechanical sciences from Cambridge University, the AB in 1942 and the MA in 1946. Two years ago, he was awarded the honorary MA by Harvard. Before joining the faculty at Harvard, he served four years as senior principal scientific officer at the Royal Greenwich Observatory in England.

Physicist Returns to University

James A. Krumhansl, PhD '43, returns to the University as professor of Physics. For the last three years, he has been senior scientist at the National Carbon Research Laboratories, National Carbon Co., a division of Union Carbide Corp., in Cleveland, Ohio. Professor Krumhansl was instructor at Cornell in 1943-44 and associate professor from 1948-55. He was associate professor of physics and applied mathematics at Brown University from 1946-48. He received the BS in electrical engineering at University of Dayton in 1939 and the MS in physics at Case Institute of Technology in 1940.

Joining the Faculty as associate professor of Government is Walter F. Berns, Jr., who for the last three years has been a member of the faculty at Yale University. He completed his undergraduate work at University of Iowa in 1941 and was a teaching fellow at University of Chicago, where he received the MA and the PhD degrees. Professor Berns has also taught political science at Louisiana State University.

Three new associate professors have been appointed in the College of Engineering. Paul R. McIsaac '47 becomes associate professor of Electrical Engineering and Benft B. Broms will be associate professor of Civil Engineering. Professor McIsaac received the BEE here in 1949 and the MSE in 1950 and PhD in 1954 at University of Michigan. He has been with the microwave tube research department of the electron tube division, Sperry Gyroscope Co. Professor Broms, a native of Sweden, received the CE at Chalmers University in Sweden in 1952 and the MS in 1954 and PhD in 1956 at University of Illinois. Also appointed associate professor is Lionel I. Weiss, who joins the Department of Industrial & Engineering Administration in the School of Mechanical Engineering. Since 1957, he has been associate professor of Mechanical Engineering here.

The College of Agriculture has also announced the appointment of two new associate professors: Donald J. McCarty, who becomes associate professor of Educational Administration in the Department of Rural Education, and Charles C. Russell, who joins the Department of Extension Teaching & Information. A graduate of Columbia University, where he received the BS in 1949 and MA in 1950, and of University of Chicago, where he received the PhD earlier this year, Professor McCarty comes to Cornell with a background of experience in secondary schools, both as a teacher and on the administrative level. From 1953-56, he was superintendent of schools in Colman, S. Dak., and since 1956 he has been a staff associate in the department of education at University of Chicago. Professor Russell returns to Cornell after an absence of two years, during which time he was head of the journalism department at University of Arkansas. He was acting professor in Extension Teaching & Information here in 1956-57. Professor Russell is a graduate of University of Texas, where he received the Bachelor of Journalism in 1948 and the Master of Journalism in 1949.

Eugene Haun, assistant dean of men at University of Pennsylvania, will become Associate Dean of Men at the University, September 1. He will direct the men's residence program, succeeding Hadley dePuy, who has been named Coordinator of Student Activities. Haun has taught English at the Universities of Arkansas, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, and will be a lecturer in the English Department here. He received the AB in 1943 at Hendrix College, the MA in 1946 at Vanderbilt, and the PhD in 1954 at Pennsylvania.

Foreign Students Office Strengthened

A former graduate student from Bombay, India, Mehdi Kizilbash, has been named assistant to the Director of Foreign Students, effective July 1. He will assist in the development of an orientation program for foreign students and will also investigate the effectiveness of the University's present foreign student programs. Kizilbash received the AB in 1957 at Wooster College in Ohio and the MBA at Cornell this June. During the last year, he was president of Interoc, a student organization with a membership of about 1000 American and foreign students. David B. Williams '43 is the Director of Foreign Students.

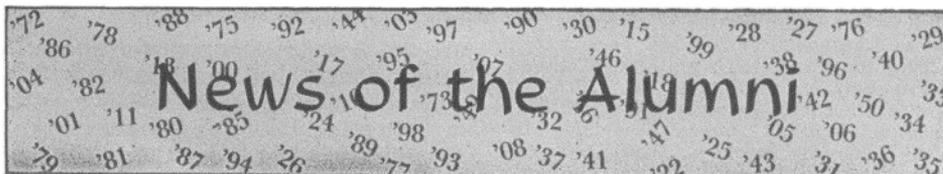

Professor Mario Einaudi has been appointed chairman of the Department of Government. A member of the Faculty at Cornell since 1945, he served as chairman of the Department from 1951-56. He was on sabbatic leave during the 1958-59 academic year and has been teaching in France and Italy on Fulbright grants.

Promoted to professor are Howard E. Conklin '37, Land Economics; Wendell G. Earle, PhD '50, Marketing; Charles

G. Sibley, Zoology; William K. Jordan '45, Dairy Industry; Paul J. VanDemark '44, Bacteriology; John G. Franclemont '35, Entomology; Clifford O. Berg, Limnology; Arden F. Sherf, Plant Pathology; Elwood G. Fisher, PhD '49, Pomology; Verne N. Rockcastle, PhD '55, Rural Education; Emil F. Taschenberg, PhD '45, Entomology at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva; Robert M. Gilmer, Plant Pathology at the Experiment Station; Donald W. Barton and Morrell T. Vittum, Vegetable Crops at the Experiment Station; Frederick W. Edmondson, Jr. '36, Landscape Architecture; W. Donald Cooke, and Mitchell J. Sienko '43, Chemistry; Gordon M. Kirkwood, MA '39, Classics; Robert H. Elias and Stephen E. Whicher, English; George M. Kahin, Government; Jack C. Kiefer, Mathematics; Joseph A. Mazeo, Italian Literature; George A. McCalmont, Speech & Drama; John M. Anderson, Zoology; Gordon P. Fisher, Civil Engineering; William E. Gordon, PhD '53, and Benjamin Nichols '41, Electrical Engineering; Benjamin M. Siegel, Engineering Physics; Fred W. Ocvirk, Machine Design; Theresa R. Humphreyville, Administration & Counseling Service in the College of Home Economics; Robert F. Risley, PhD '53, and Eleanor Emerson, Industrial & Labor Relations.

Others Win Promotions

Promoted to associate professor are Carl S. Winkelblech, Agricultural Engineering; Martin Alexander and Thomas R. Nielsen, Soil Science; Ellis A. Pierce, Animal Husbandry; Maurie Semel '49, and Paul H. Wooley, Entomology; Ernest F. Schaufler, Jr., Ornamental Horticulture; Douglas S. Robson, PhD '55, Biological Statistics; Roger D. Way, PhD '55, Pomology, at the Experiment Station; Benjamin Widom, PhD '53, Chemistry; Eugene F. Rice, Jr., History; Walter Pauk, PhD '55, Education; Seymour Smidt, Managerial Economics & Marketing in the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration; Ralph Bolgiano, Jr. '44, Marshall H. Cohen, Nick DeClaris, and Lester F. Eastman '52, Electrical Engineering; John M. Alderige, Mechanical Engineering; Henry N. Ricciuti, Child Development & Family Relationships; Elizabeth Wiegand '38 and Gwendolyn J. Bymers, Economics of the Household & Household Management; Phyllis R. Snow, PhD '56, and Marjorie M. Burns, Food & Nutrition; Marie E. Knickrehm, MS '51, Institution Management; France M. Spratt, MS '49, Textiles & Clothing; Laura L. Smith, Food Chemistry in the School of Hotel Administration; Frank B. Miller, PhD '53, and Harlan B. Perrins, Industrial & Labor Relations; Dr. Mary A. Engle, Pediatrics, and Dr. Richard N. Kohl, Psychiatry, at the Medical College in New York City.

Addresses are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians are welcomed for publication. Class columns are written by correspondents whose names appear. Names & addresses in column headings are for Classes with group subscriptions or those in which at least half the members are News subscribers.

'02 AB, '04 LLB—George H. Hooker is an attorney with Kenefick, Letchworth, Baldy, Phillips & Emblidge, Buffalo, and his address is Hotel Westbrook, 675 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo 22.

'05 ME—The Ensign, official publication of the US Power Squadrons, for February was designated "Chap" issue, with a cover picture and article on Commodore Charles F. Chapman, 572 Madison Avenue, New York City 22. Chapman was a founder of the USPS, organization of yacht clubs, which celebrated its forty-fifth anniversary, February 2. He was its first treasurer and has served continuously on its governing board. He is editor of the magazine, Motor Boating.

'05 ME—Erskine Wilder, who is retired and lives at 1644 Blue Heron Drive, Sarasota, Fla., is enjoying Florida's sunshine and West Coast beaches the year around and looking forward to his Fifty-five-year Reunion.

'06 AB—William H. Hopple of 2496 Grandin Road, Cincinnati 8, Ohio, says "nothing new on me, just alive and kicking." His sons are William H. Hopple, Jr. '43, Richard V. Hopple '46, and John S. Hopple '52.

'06 AB—Edwin G. Nourse became a distinguished visiting professor of economics at Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa., in February. For some years he served as vice-president of the Brookings Institution, Washington, D.C.; from 1946-49 was chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in the executive office of the President; and recently has been vice-chairman of the Joint Council on Economic Education, with headquarters in Washington.

'07, '08 AB—Theodore J. Lindorff is in real estate and insurance and lives at 1616 Lake Shore Drive (PO Box 1126), Orlando, Fla.

'07 DVM—Tribute to Dr. William S. Newman, one of Cornell's greatest athletes, star football center and oarsman of the 1903-07 period, was paid in a long, illustrated article by Kenny Van Sickle in the Ithaca Journal, February 25. Dr. Newman lives at 216 South Geneva Street, Ithaca.

'07 BS—Horace F. Prince of 660 Avenue A, NW, Winter Haven, Fla., will be in charge of two different Boy Scout troops for a week each at Scout camp this summer. This is his thirty-third year as a volunteer Boy Scout leader, twenty-one in Buffalo and the rest in Florida. Prince remarks: "This almost seventy-nine-year-old codger gets his physical exercise from a back-yard State-inspected nursery of 700 flowering shrubs and trees and his mental gymnastics from overnight camping with the Scouts."

'08 ME—William H. Doran planned to retire June 3 as a mechanical engineer with the General Service Administration in Washington, D.C. His address in Washington is 1775 "P" Street, NW.

'09 BSA, '28 PhD—Ernest L. Baker is psychological counselor for Veterans' Administration at Veterans' Hospital, Fargo, N.Dak., and also Masonic Service Association of Washington, D.C. representative at the Hospital. His address is PO Box 1295, Fargo, N.Dak.

'11 Howard A. Lincoln
80 Bennington Street
Springfield 8, Mass.

E. Laurence Palmer, with Mrs. Palmer, recently completed a fascinating trip. He writes: "Enjoying retirement; spent July in England, International Zoology Congress, September in Italy and Greece, International Union Conservation of Natural Resources, part of February in Panama. Well rooted in Ithaca anticipating discontinuance of passenger traffic on the Lehigh." Laurence and his wife have both gone far in their studies, he in wild life and she in fossils. Since 1952 he has been professor emeritus of Rural Education and Conservation.

From Hong Kong ('09, '11, and '15, take notice!): "L.G. (Gus) Hallberg '09, Edwin E. (Ned) Sheridan '11, Arthur (A.D.) Dole, Jr. '15 are passing through Hong Kong on a 100-day trip around the world on a cargo liner. Having wonderful trip. Regards to all our good friends." Herb Ashton writes from Tokyo, Japan: "Here we are in the land of cherry blossoms. Had an interesting assignment in Thailand, then cruised up here on a Danish freighter. Now we are heading for Taiwan, Singapore, Bali; then visit to Ceylon, India, and Europe. May get home in time for the Thanksgiving Day game. Hope all is well with you." Beautiful, colored card of Japanese scenery predominant with cherry blossoms received recently by Frank Aime with above notes.

Edwin S. Bundy, 10 Woodview Court, Hamburg, reports: "Resigned as director of Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., November 20. Still act as consultant for the company. Forty-seven years' service November 27, 1958. Business address: 600 Electric Building, Buffalo 3."

H. P. Berna, 2830 La Rose Avenue, Memphis 14, Tenn., writes: "Am looking forward to retirement March 31, 1959, from the US Civil Service, after forty-two years, starting with enlistment in the Federalized Massachusetts National Guard March 31,

1917, honorable discharge July 28, 1917, then civilian service at two Navy yards and a submarine yard for the next twenty-nine years, then serving with the Army Corps of Engineers for the final twelve years on "Old Man River."

'13 Harry E. Southard
3102 Miami Road
South Bend 14, Ind.

David M. Heyman, 61 Broadway, New York City 21, was honored recently at a testimonial dinner in the Pierre Hotel in recognition of his contributions to the community, especially in the field of medical care. David is president of the New York Foundation and was appointed recently chairman of Mayor Wagner's new commission on public services. He is also chairman of the board of the Public Health Research Institute and he helped create the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York. More than 300 persons attended the banquet. Among the many speakers honoring his accomplishments were Mayor Wagner, who lauded his leadership in seeking a more efficient hospital system for the city; Dr. George Baehr, a former president of the New York Academy of Medicine, who praised his "broad grasp of the community's interests;" and Dr. William C. Menninger '24, president of Menninger Foundation, Topeka, Kans., who paid tribute to his "amazing vision of social needs."

Johnny (John L.) Osborne, Box 385, Anna Maria, Fla., writes that he attends an Ivy League luncheon every two weeks in Sarasota, where he generally finds Classmates Ses Sessler, Jim Sturrock, and Horace Doyle. Johnny says there are twenty-some Cornellians in the club, but the largest number are from Yale.

Fanny (F. Mills) Dodge, 378 Canton Ave., Milton 87, Mass., retired three years ago. He has one son, Colonel Jack Dodge, in the Air Force program, two daughters, and six grandchildren, including one pair of twins. That's doing pretty good, Fanny, especially with that pair of twin grandchildren.

Jack (Albert) Horner, Kapaa, Kauai, Hawaii, writes that he deeply appreciated our message of sympathy we sent him in the March 1 ALUMNI NEWS. That was in connection with the cracked hip bone he suffered in a bad fall last October. He was on crutches for three months, but I am glad to say he reports that all seems to be OK now. Jack says that one of the compensating features of his long period on crutches was the affection shown him by the little kids, the teenagers, and the other young people while he was crippled. Most of their parents had worked for Jack at one time or another and he had watched these children grow up over the years. The little kids would "bestow upon me a hug, the little girls give me a hearty buss, and all in all I am rich in friends." All of this affectionate sympathy moved Jack to write these verses.

The Children

The children are your realest friends;
They do not seek some selfish ends.
If they like you, be true blue,
Let them find you worthy—You!

That sudden smile, that great big hug!
Return them both, don't be so smug
That next time they will pass you by
As not worth while. Then you will sigh.

And too, what fun to watch them grow.
From children come those who will go
Into the world to make it spin,
This whirling world we're living in.

Congratulations, Jack, because you are well again and because you are rich in friends. So long!

'14 Emerson Hinchliff
400 Oak Avenue
Ithaca, N.Y.

This will see the light of day at Reunion time. I saw Doc Peters recently and he told me that Jim Munns had embarked on a long-distance telephone campaign to stir up the wavering and the procrastinators and I see George Barnes has done the same by mail from Andalusia, Ala. Most of the faithful will be here. I point no finger of scorn at the others. I commiserate with them that they were unable to make it; but that is all, because they can be loyal Cornellians and '14ers no matter where they are.

This seems like a strategic time to catch you up, as it were, on '14ers in Ithaca, on us local residents. I accumulate scads of notes and clippings on Morris Bishop, Bill Myers, Hadley Stephenson, Ced Guise, Clarence Morse, Red Gillette, Tom Milliman, and Sell Woollen. Because of lack of space, most of them never see the light of day in this chronicle. Anyway, I can assure you 1914 makes itself felt on the local scene; I still chuckle at how my wife once put Foster Coffin's sister (who thought there were nobody but '12 men on Campus) in her place by merely reciting a list of our Stars. Clarence Morse, for instance, is always doing something nice; I just saw in The Sun that he had instituted a new award for the most improved track athlete, and his hobby is giving American flags to University buildings. He is vice-chairman of the American Legion's national distinguished guests committee, which enables him to pick up some choice autographs; at their convention last September in Chicago, he got those of Mme. Chang Kai Shek and Truman; he already had Eisenhower and Churchill. Hadley Stephenson is continually doing something in national veterinary circles, particularly as regards animal feeding; more important to me is that he is my sports analyst and authority and a mental stimulus in all ways. Tom Milliman is a constant breezy stimulus on cattle-raising, from his own experience and when he was director of research for GLF. Red Gillette and Doug Gillette '12 run our best hardware store downtown (Rumsey's). Sell Woollen and I are the world's best followers; we attend all gatherings and form a fine cliche.

This year is peculiarly Bill Myers's. He retires, June 30, in a blaze of glory as Dean of the finest College of Agriculture in the world. Dean for sixteen years and professor for about forty, he has lent lustre to our Alma Mater on a grand scale. His work has been recognized by those who know him best, his fellow townsmen and alumni. In April, there was a grand dinner in Statler Hall tendered him by 370 Agriculture professors and their wives at which he was given a citation signed by 496 active and emeritus professors, plus a world globe and a movie camera and projector. At that affair, he passed on to his successor the I.P. Roberts silk hat, traditional badge of office.

At Farm & Home Week, in March, I saw the esteem and affection in which he is held, when the Ag Alumni Association held its largest meeting ever, a luncheon in Willard Straight Memorial Room with 215 present. He was given a magnificent set of golf clubs ("I will use it to perfect my slice") and was called one of the great agricultural leaders of the United States. That's no over-statement, as witness the fact that he is chairman of Eisenhower's national advisory committee. He and Milton Eisenhower are the two top advisers to Secretary Benson on farm policy. This summer, he goes to South America to inspect the Rockefeller Foundation program there. He is on the board of numberless organizations, ranging from Vassar College to Avco Corp., Continental Can, and New York Federal Reserve Bank. Withal he is one of the two or three youngest looking men in The Class. Ced Guise is only semiretired, working half time running the Ithaca end of the Philippines Los Banos Project.

I've left myself precious little space for our other brightest star, Morris Bishop. I only have nineteen clippings on which to work. I'm afraid I'll have to embalm most of them and put the rest back in the blood-bank. Everybody knows Morris anyway. Faculty Marshal at Commencement, Faculty Nestor at its meetings, member of the Senate of the Phi Beta Kappa Society of America, first vice-president of the Modern Language Association, sought-after lecturer, author of many witty and scholarly works—that's our boy. As University Historian he has been working on a history of Cornell for the last couple of years, having been on leave of absence from teaching this semester. He hopes to have it ready by 1960, in good season for the Centennial in 1965. I can hardly wait to read it!

Ed Dixon reports that about forty-five per cent of a list of 513 have paid their 1959 dues ($6), but he expects a few more to straggle in.

Glenn L. Fuller, 444 East Park Drive, Spartanburg, S.C., after completing a four-year assignment in Puerto Rico for the US Department of Agriculture, brought his family back home to Spartanburg where he retired last May (1958). Glenn plans to attend the 1960 Reunion; likes the idea of a Class directory.

G. Russell (Russ) Thompson, 33-33 164th Street, Flushing 58, is open minded re the Class directory. Colonel Charles B. Watkins, AUS (ret.), 1330 Leegate Road, NW, Washington 12, D.C., since retirement some years ago is working very hard at hunting and fishing. Frequent siestas take up time, too. He says that he turns to Necrology when each issue of the ALUMNI NEWS arrives and, if his name is not there, he pours a two-finger salute to Lady Luck that Father Time has missed him up to now. He likes the idea of a Class directory; says Cornellians are welcome at his house.

W. A. (Mutz) Priester, Priester Construction Co., 601 Brady Street, Davenport, Iowa, a member of Class executive committee, believes that the chairman of the 1960 Reunion committee should be someone who lives in the East. A good idea; he can promote some Class dinners similar to those held at the Cornell Club in New York as has been done in previous years.

Thomas V. Bryant, 40 Lortel Avenue, Staten Island 14, says to count him in on the group in favor of a Class directory. He and Mrs. Bryant (Rosanna McRoberts) '15 are looking forward to the 1960 Reunion.

Walter P. Phillips, 11 Morse Road, Newtonville 60, Mass., is taking life easy, retired from business and building a new summer home at Fairhaven, seventy miles from Ithaca. He will be at the 1960 Reunion and is neutral re the Class directory. John M. Rogers, 1055 Norman Place, Los Angeles 49, Cal., has an idea about the directory; believes it would be desirable to delay publication until after the 1960 Reunion. That's something to consider. How about it?

A. A. Maynard, 509 Baywood Drive, S, Dunedin, Fla., recently retired to his present address; says "no" re Class directory. P. N. Daniels, 56 Maple Avenue, Trenton 8, N.J., writes: "I see you have joined the 'Fed up with Florida Club'. We have found two months a year there fit to live in, April and October. Charlie Capen '17 and I are still putting out sewage and water plants and stuff. OK on the directory." Sidney R. (Sid) Jandorf, Box 116, Rancho Santa Fe, Cal., writes: "I do plan to attend the 1960 Reunion and think a Class directory would be an excellent idea."

Howard Lynch, 1201 East 17th Street, Brooklyn 30, spent four war years in Washington, head of Fish Section, OPA, then returned to food brokerage in New York specializing in frozen and canned seafood. He has one son CE '41 and two grandsons who are good prospects for Cornell '65 and '70. As this is written, he expects to attend annual reunion of Philos in New York, expects to see Bill Creifield, Chris Neergard, Carl Graefe, and Walt Collet.

Arthur W. (Cobby) Cobbett, "Half-acre," Cooperstown, is still turning thumbs down on using maroon as the Cornell color; likes the red on recent issues of the ALUMNI NEWS. Sends all good wishes to Classmates. Raymond S. Brainerd, Star Route, Brandon, Vt., retired after forty-three years with Pratt & Whitney Co. in West Hartford, Conn. Pink and his wife moved last August to Vermont, where he is busy fixing over their old house, purchased a few years ago. They are really enjoying life.

F. Vernon Foster, 120 Broadway, New York City, will have been active on the New York Stock Exchange forty years come November. Bill Couchman and quite a number of Cornell men are "on the floor." Vern plans to attend the 45th Reunion. His son, who is in business with him, is rated one of the top racing skippers in the country. Gilbert R. Blendon, 210 Crosby Bldg., Buffalo 2, plans to attend the 1960 Reunion.

Word comes from Johnny Hoffmire that he has now retired and he and Mrs. Hoffmire plan to spend the coming year with their two sons' families in Seattle and San Francisco. They also plan to spend some time visiting Windy Windnagle '17 in Portland. On returning East, they will reside in Auburn, so that they will be convenient to Cornell. Johnny advises that he had such a fine time at the informal get-together dinner of the '16 Class at Reunion time last year that he hoped that Bub would arrange for a like event this year. Such an informal dinner was indeed planned this year at the Statler, the evening of June 12.

'17 Men—Our column is never complete now without news from Florida, which really dates us!

Ben Potar, Mrs. Potar, and the dog had ten weeks in Florida, to "thaw out," a procedure which Ben recommends highly to all northerners who freeze in the winter. Ben had a nice visit with Yale Schively in Fort Lauderdale. Yale is semi-retired, keeping a distant contact with his company that builds most of the school buses used throughout the country. Yale and Ben tried to have a '17 get-together with Gabe Lund, who was back home in Fort Lauderdale, and Don (Stony) Stonebraker who lives in nearby Hollywood. Don wrote recently that he "winters" in Hollywood, Fla. and "summers" on Lake Champlain at Swanton, Vt. Incidentally, Yale wrote that he knew our New York dinner would be a big success (it was!) and hopes to attend one someday. Gabe and Mrs. Lund did get over to Yale's while Ben was there; so they had a grand visit. Gabe and Mrs. Lund expect to visit Norway and Denmark this summer. Ben talked with Bill O'Connor, also retired in Fort Lauderdale, and Bill wanted to be remembered to all his Classmates. He was recovering from a broken leg; so wasn't too active!

Ben had a very interesting experience at a nightly entertainment club in the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood. The MC introduced a Bill Dillon, "now eighty-two years old," who wrote the song, "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl Who Married Dear Old Dad." Ben immediately recognized Bill Dillon, knowing him in Ithaca when Ben was an undergraduate at which time Bill Dillon managed the old Strand Theater. Maybe more '17ers remember him. Needless to say, Ben and Bill Dillon had a great visit after not seeing each other for forty-two years.

About the time you read these disjointed notes Sol Amster will be in Ithaca to see his daughter Beth graduate. Immediately afterward, she will be married in the Anabel Taylor Chapel to Tom Pozefesky '58. Another daughter, June (Amster) Geirtz '56, expects to attend her first Reunion this June, coming from her home in Silver Spring, Md.

Jack Fruchtbach has joined the other '17ers touring Europe. Others are Chan Burpee and Bill Wheeler with probably a few more who haven't reported. And, of course, there is Bob Strebel who is moving to Austria. We owe Chan an apology! We reported he was missing our Class dinner because he was in Europe to see his first grandchild. He reports it is his first grand-son, one of seven grandchildren.

Professor Joseph P. (Tip) Porter has retired, was in the hospital for surgery, is now recuperating, and soon expects to move into his new home at 5240 31st Avenue South, Gulfport, Fla. Doug Hoyt retired, January 1, from Alleghany Ludlum Steel Corp., but rather than loaf all the time, he is handling a few accounts in Cleveland for Globe Paper Co. Doug's address is 2706 Dryden Road, Shaker Heights 22, Ohio.

Your correspondent apologizes for having missed several ALUMNI NEWS deadlines, but the fact is that he, too, has been bitten by the travel bug. This year's trip to England and Germany was one of great pleasure and satisfaction, but a special thrill that deserves reporting came in Heidelberg when Cornell memories were revived by the sight of the Schurman Building for which the Cornell President of our day raised the funds. Heidelberg thus has reason to have a special regard for one of its illustrious graduates, who was also, as you may remember, US Ambassador to Germany after War I. In fact, one of the broad thoroughfares of this interesting city is called Schurmanstrasse as further testimony of how high he stands in that famed university community.

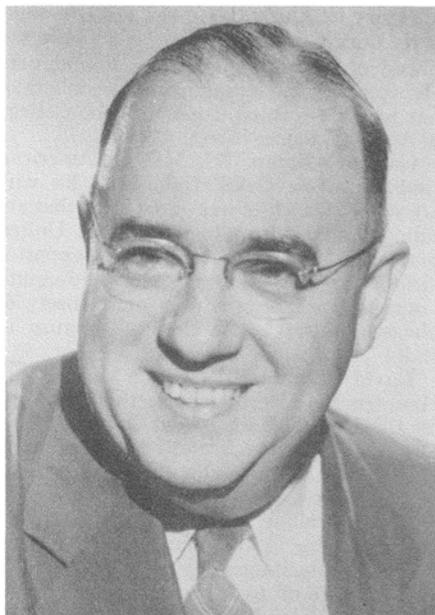

Harry Mattin sends first word of the big '18 Class picnic scheduled for September. Those of the last two years have been wonderful successes, as the many who attended them can testify, and with this year's affair being planned early there should be a record attendance. More details on this later. Our wandering fund-raiser, Pat Wanser, reports in from Veradero Beach, Cuba, with the news that he has been having a wonderful time in "weather that is beautiful and water that is perfect and the most wonderful beaches I have ever seen." Stu Perkins reports that he finally got "too full of smog to breathe" in Balboa Island, Cal., and so is moving 250 miles north where it is still country and nobody seems to be chasing the Joneses. His new address is Baywood Park, Cal., which is the north end of Morro Bay, fourteen miles west of San Luis Obispo and halfway between Los Angeles smog and San Francisco fog.

Willard Hubbell reported quite a while ago (and I apologize for this delayed mention) that he is still professor of engineering graphics and chairman of his department at University of Miami with only two years now to go before retirement. "With winter in south Florida and summer at our cottage in the Great Smokies out of Waynesville, N.C., and trips north as desired, what more could a man want?" His address is 8500 SW 52d Ave., Miami 43, Fla.

Charles Karsten, one of the several prominent Episcopalian ministers '18 has produced, sends me an interesting clipping about an event of real significance in his church. It was the election of the first woman member of the vestry of Zion Episcopal Church of Dobbs Ferry since its beginning some 125 years ago. Charley is in his thirty-sixth year in this parish, something of a record itself for any minister. And he has done many things besides his weekly sermonizing. He was the first chaplain to the Dobbs Ferry Fire Department, is also chaplain of the American Legion post there, and is on the board of examining chaplains for the bishop of his diocese. He also is an historian of note, was the founder of the South Greenburgh Historical Society. He likes to recall that famous members of his parish included such dignitaries as Alexander Hamilton, Washington Irving, James A. Hamilton, and Van Brugh Livingston. And historians in the future will no doubt recall that Charley Karsten was one of Zion's great rectors.

Robert H. Collacott (above), 363 Little Mountain Road, Mentor, Ohio, director of public relations of Standard Oil Co. (Ohio), is now chairman of the Cleveland Better Business Bureau, Inc. Bob joined Sohio in 1920 and served in various departments in Cleveland, Akron, and Toledo; and during World War II was chief of petroleum products pricing in the OPA in Washington for eighteen months. In 1952, he was appointed assistant to the chairman of the board at Sohio and more recently director of public relations. He is president of Joseph Dyson & Sons, Inc., Cleveland, trustee of Lake Erie College, and board member of Family Service Association.

Ralph G. Starke, 260 Holmes Road, Pittsfield, Mass., was recently elected vice-president of Berkshire Life Insurance Co., heading the investment department which is responsible for all stock and bond, real estate, and mortgage transactions which total around 175 million dollars.

Norman T. Newton, Robinson Hall, Harvard University, Cambridge 38, Mass., was recently elected for a second two-year term as president of the American Society of Landscape Architects. "Fig" is professor of landscape architecture at Harvard and last year was acting dean of the graduate school of design.

J. Monroe Campbell, Box 284, Manitou Springs, Colo., earlier this year reported that he and his wife had a wonderful six-week vacation cruise from New Orleans down the East Coast of South America. Weather and health permitting, Roe hoped to get back to Ithaca for Reunion.

Everett J. Rutan, 33 Nathan Hale Drive, Huntington, is an electrical engineer who during the last four years has worked on the twenty-five-billion-electron-volt accelerator at Brookhaven National Laboratory which is due for service in 1960.

August Schmidt, Jr., 10 North Holmes Street, Scotia, retired from General Electric as senior application engineer after thirty-eight years and is now consultant with Acme Electric Co. of Cuba, N.Y.

Benjamin Solovay, 1620 Caton Avenue,

Brooklyn 26, reports his son Norman '51 is an attorney with the firm of Judge Samuel Rosenman, advisor and confidant to both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

J. Nelson Spaeth, 707 West Pennsylvania Avenue, Urbana, Ill., spent fourteen years at Cornell in the Department of Forestry and just completed twenty years heading the forestry department at University of Illinois. His son Charles is an engineer with Pratt & Whitney in Manchester, Conn. and daughter Marcia is Girl Scout executive for Utica and environs.

Next year at this time, you'll be sitting back (or prone) recovering from the World's Greatest Reunion, and agreeing that it was just that, with a head full of delicious memories that'll last maybe a lifetime, or at least for five years until the next one. But right now, there's a year's work ahead, planning, thinking, scheming, staging, and getting the show on the road, and most of all convincing you that our 40th is the most important Reunion of all time, and you just can't afford to miss it.

Your solid stem-winding chairman, Hosea Cushman Ballou, is all covered with violets and glory having been freshly installed as president of the CRC. What's more, he's been picking up ideas by the bushel (or quart), ably aided and abetted by Archibald, Benisch, Kilborne, Duncan, Edson, Solomon, and Stanton, and when that bunch of burglars get together, something's gotta happen. So start saving your dough, boys, and they'll tell you how to spend it in June, 1960.

Frank Lloyd Wright with his "Mile High Building" for Chicago had nothing on Realtor S. Dudley Nostrand, president of Cross & Brown Co., for visionary plans for the future. In a speech in N'Yawk the other day, Dud looked into his crystal ball and could plainly see multi-purpose buildings in big cities of the future, combining office with residential space plus all other service facilities for daily living. In addition to restaurants, there will be laundries, food shops, clothing stores, even shopping centers, with great technical advances in lighting, heating, and air conditioning; even with roadways running through the upper floors to relieve congestion at the street level. Dud predicts that families who have flocked to the suburbs will soon find such crowded conditions that they'll move back into the cities because of superior housing conditions and facilities, and before long New York's population will have doubled. As one realtor to another, we ought to remind Dud that since the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Chicago has become an international port, New York will have to hurry to keep ahead of the Midwest.

We're getting great support from upstate New York with dues coming in from Graydon Curtis of Rochester whose son is doing graduate work in chemistry at Ithaca, Dr. Oscar Stover, practicing in Buffalo, Jim Whitman of Kenmore, Whyland Sprong in Sodus, Carl Peterson of Ilion, Leo Mark- thaler at Elmira, Murray Galves of Valley Cottage, Ben Gerwin in Tuckahoe, Ken Friderici of Schenectady, Dudley Merrill of East Patchogue, Linus Kittredge, George Frenkel, Red Ashton, and Al Whitehill in the Big Town, and many others, too.

There are a lot of bad habits you can fall into, such as procrastination, neglecting obligations, gambling, penuriousness, and writer's cramp. Dick Edson says the best way to avoid such a horrible set of afflictions is to give generously each year to the Cornell Fund. That's a good habit that'll cancel all the bad ones. Start now!

As she slipped into her Bikini, she slyly said, "That about covers it." And so it does!

The activity of a Class correspondent to the ALUMNI NEWS varies with each bi-weekly chore. Like an accordion, the effort is long or short, depending on whether you fellows of '21 have sent us information about yourselves or have made the public press, whence we receive clippings. The last issue was overloaded; this time there is nothing. Filler, like this, is not to be encouraged, but it will not do to have a total blank after the '21 heading.

Over the years I have been self-conscious about filling in the information blank that comes with the dues or subscription notice and I suppose most of you feel the same way. Well, this is a plea to overcome that reticence. In fact, instead of waiting for the next request for news of yourself, send it directly to me at the address at the head of this column. Also, tell me about your '21 friends whom you visit or write, or meet on the street.

This is not a Who's Who review. We are proud and eager to mention the achievements of our more distinguished Classmates, but the best material is what might often seem commonplace to you; your family, your hobbies, your travels, your new home and its address, or your retirement. Give us a little humor, and above all, human interest. By the way, a special award will be made at our 40th Reunion in 1961 for those who have become great-grandfathers. How many are there now?

'21 AB—Mrs. Rowland F. Davis (Sophia Deylen) has been elected to the board of directors of the American Foundation of Religion & Psychiatry, New York City. Dr. Smiley Blanton '14 is the director of the Foundation. Mrs. Davis has also been elected president of the new Women's National Council of the Foundation. The wife of Rowland F. Davis '21, she lives at 35 Priscilla Avenue, Yonkers.

Dr. Norman S. Moore of Ithaca was named president-elect of the New York State Medical Society, at the society's annual meeting last month in Buffalo. Norman, as we reported two years ago, is Clinical Director of the University Infirmary and Clinic and professor of Clinical & Preventive Medicine. Hearty congratulations, Norman!

David (Shorty) Jacobson is still going through turnstiles as senior civil engineer with the New York City Transit Authority, and Marvin A. (Mac) Clark has just completed thirty-five years in the New Jersey Agricultural Extension Service as Monmouth County agent. Mac reports having seen Dick Farnham at the recent New York Flower Show and he frequently visits Eddie Gauntt.

Charlie Brayton played squash all winter to keep in shape for that big tennis match with Gouinlock and Pfann '24 this summer, Charlie is now blessed with grandchildren. Daughter Jane has two girls and son Bill has a boy. These grand-kids can qualify for the fifth generation of Cornellians. Time passes all too quickly, Charlie. Freddie Fix is also a grandfather, and he's still greatly interested in photography. And another gran'daddy is Nevin T. (Tru) Brenner, who is rounding out his twenty-seventh year with Gulf Oil Corp. and is at the Research Laboratory near Pittsburgh at the Allegheny Valley Interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. So if you're driving along the 'Pike sometime, take a breather and drop in and see him.

Basil G. Burmistrov is still the boss of Vibration Specialty Co. in Philadelphia, and leads a busy and interesting life, utilizing his spare moments by reading Vibration Problems in Engineering by Stephen Timoshenko and Mechanical Vibrations by Den Hartog. That got anything to do, Basil, with these machines where you wrap a belt around your mid-riff, turn the switch, and hope the vibrations will melt away a few inches from your belly?

Charles H. (Jim) Churchill is a pretty slick fellah. He spent nine years in the public utility business, then switched to banking, and he has rounded out twenty years as president of Cortland Savings Bank. But here's the payoff: he's making use of a hobby to become a retirement vocation by having a business on the side, Unique Products Manufacturing Co., an outfit that invents and makes all kinds of gadgets: a drip-dry bar installed over your bath tub to hang up wet garments, a hanga-chain for your closets to hang up bags and purses, belts, skirts, and blouses and umbrellas (a real time and space saver), fancy pipe racks, a paint mixer to attach to your electric drill, a modern streamlined shoe groomer, and Lord knows how many other things. Sounds like a lot of fun, Jim. Maybe you'd like to work on my problem of how to put diapers on sea gulls.

We mourn the loss of Leroy (Hike) Heidke who died February 5, 1959. Hike lived at 1407 East Tenth Avenue, Denver, Colo., and for the last ten years was head of Colorado Potato Growers Exchange.

I guess that about does it my friends. Don't forget to count your blessings, even on your thumb, if you are that unimaginative.

After months of planning, Reunion time is here. Have fun one and all!

We've heard from some more of our comrades. Roger O. Egeberg sent a brief and pleasant comment: "Busy as hell and still love Cornell." Charlie Strong from Chile says he is interested in the 35th Reunion plans and expresses considerable doubt as to whether he will be able to make it and warns that it will be the first Reunion he has missed in quite a while. Paul Fritzsche responds to Johnny Brothers's gentle persuasion for Class dues; the following is an excerpt: "I just rented an apartment in Shaker Heights. Come and see my famous cook book collection, 3600 volumes dating back to 1541." Sounds fascinating.

Hewlett H. (Duke) Duryea writes he is with American Telephone & Telegraph Co. in the long lines eastern area traffic department headquarters. "Absence of commuting probably responsible for a gain in weight of some fifteen pounds. No sign of baldness yet. Any and all other indications of apparent affluence directly chargeable to 'better-half' Charlotte Sweeny, a graduate of Sargent School of Physical Education and home economist par excellence. About a year or more ago, enjoyed a brief visit from Jack Curry of Blue Mountain Lake. Hope to see other '24 'strangers' at 35th in June. Daughter, Justine, a '58 graduate of University of New Hampshire, was married last September to Weston H. Palmer, Jr., also a UNH grad, and lives now in Rochester, N.H. Other daughter, Charlotte, Middlebury '56 and Northwestern '57, now works in Boston with admissions director of Simmons College. Is chairman for second year of Middlebury benefit night performance of Boston Pops Orchestra."

Leonard J. Edwards writes Johnny B.: "I completed my Freshman and Sophomore years at Cornell in the Class of '24. Later, I returned to Cornell for six terms to get the BChemE. Not having seen other Class members for thirty-seven years, I am out of touch with their activities. Will come East for the Reunion in June, if possible." Leonard now lives in Henderson, Nev.

M. L. (Duke) Byron of Mateo, Cal., writes: "Had reminiscent get-together with Charlie Cassidy in Hawaii last spring while vacationing in the Islands; will be going back for a month in April, 1959. Carl Wedell and his wife, Marge (Pigott) '24, were recent visitors to San Francisco and phoned. We had a delightful dine-'n'-dance eve with them in San Fran. Our son, Stanley R. (Skip) EP '54, PhD AeroEng '57) returned to Aero Grad School last month after a year of teaching in France."

Roger H. Newstead writes from Lake Worth, Fla.: "The family consists of my wife, Dorothy, plus two French poodles, one wire-haired dachshund, and one parakeet. My 'semi-retired' status ended some years ago with my associating with Edgar S. Wortman, the architect for the schools of Palm Beach County, and that status really suffered a year or two ago when we had to design and turn over the keys for Palm Beach Junior College in no time at all. We spent four days recently in New York City taking in the shows."

Your correspondent herewith apologizes to Fred Glann whose name we misspelled "Glass" in the May 1 News. Come to Reunion, Fred, and mow me down in person!

William S. Louchheim, M, CE, 1008 Lexington Road, Beverly Hills, Cal., has just returned from a trip around the world, visiting children and grandchildren in Japan on the way. The list of their stopping places sounds very alluring.

Henry E. Abt, AB, G, 437 Fifth Avenue, New York City 18, recently was re-elected president of Brand Names Foundation. Henry is serving as one of the members of our recently-formed Council of the College of Arts & Sciences here at Cornell.

Gardiner Bump, BS, MF, G, American Embassy, New Delhi, India, and his wife are still in search of live game birds that are suited for trial introduction to the United States for improving the hunting opportunities. Currently, they are on a two-month jaunt to Afghanistan for a new variety of pheasant, after which they will return to India.

David W. Punzelt, CE, 65 Myra Road, Hamden 17, Conn., reports the arrival of his third grandchild, a boy. Others include Deborah 9, William 5, and Peter one month. During the 1957-58 school year, they acted as parents to a Hungarian "Freedom Fighter," a boy, while he went through his senior year here in the States. Dave reports that kept life interesting, to put it mildly. Our hats are off to Dave and his wife.

Alfred J. Kleinberger, EE, 551 Fifth Avenue, New York City 17, is a consulting engineer and was recently appointed consultant to the New York Committee on Electrical Code Revision & Interpretation. One daughter, Judy, graduated from high school this spring.

John P. Stack, Agr, recently sold his Traveller's Fare Inn, Middleboro, Mass., to Normand C. Cleaveland, Jr. '57. Stack is now with International Hotels, with headquarters at Hotel Beverly, Lexington Avenue & 50th Street, New York City 22. His chain operates Hotel Beverly, Hotel Navarro, and Prince George Hotel in New York City.

Harold F. Kneen, E, ME, MME, 89 Killdeer Road, Hamden, Conn., is now the retired president of Safety Industries, having worked himself out of a job through reorganizing their business and prospective markets to leave it with a healthy and promising future. He still remains as a substantial stockholder and consultant. The Kneens like New Haven and plan to stay in that area. Son Brews ('55) is now in his second year at Union Seminary in New York City. Daughter Carolie Evans and her husband live near Hal in Hamden, and son Jamie is about to graduate from Hamden High School.

New addresses reported include J. Strohm Emerson, ME, 22365 Fairlawn Circle, Cleveland 26, Ohio; F. C. Christensen, SpMed, MA, 209 Eighth Street, Racine, Wis.; John P. Mehlhope, E, 15 Prospect Avenue, Ossining; C. M. Vernon, A (Chem), ME, 172 East Shore Trail, Lake Mohawk, Sparta, N.J.

Lauriston Sale Taylor is chief of the National Bureau of Standards' division of atomic & radiation physics and chairman of the National Committee on Radiation Protection & Measurements, which he helped to form in 1927. According to the New York Times, Lauriston has acted for more than three decades as the nation's principal protector and self-ordained gadfly against the dangers of radiation. In 1954, he was presented a gold medal for his work in radiation protection by the Radiological Society of North America. The Times also quotes: "Within the Bureau of Standards, Dr. Taylor's scientific reputation is rivaled by his renown as a collector of bizarre bow ties, including one made of leopard skin." During World War II, Lauriston served as director of operations research for the Ninth Air Force in Europe. He and his wife, the former Azulah Walker of Norfolk, Va., live at 4923 Battery Lane, Bethesda 14, Md. They have two sons, Lauriston, Jr., a forester in Texas, and Nelson, in the Navy in Japan.

James D. Nobel is a director of the Council on Human Relations in Cleveland, Ohio. Serving as area chairman, he will be helping this year in the recruitment of more than 50,000 volunteers for Cleveland's combined health and welfare drive. Jim also serves on the executive committee of the Encampment for Citizenship, the executive committee of the Northeastern Ohio Commission on Spanish American Affairs, and as a member of the National Association of Intergroup Relations officials. He is married and has three children. The Nobels live at 5859 S.O.M. Center Road, Solon, Ohio.

Morris Goldstein recently returned to the Campus for the first time since his undergraduate days, to enjoy a two-week vacation in Ithaca, attending classes, concerts, lectures, and visiting with his former professors. Morris is treasurer of Lily of France, with offices at 417 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and has been with the company for twenty years. His brother is Ralph Goldstein, present captain of the US Olympic fencing team and has competed in the 1948 and 1956 Olympics. His only defeat was last July by Richard W. Pew '53 in the epee finals of the national three-weapon championship. Morris and his wife live at 140 Cabrini Boulevard, New York City 33.

ion manager for Consumers Power Co. in Grand Rapids, Mich. Gordon has a son who's now a sophomore at Purdue, and a daughter, a graduate of Michigan State, who currently lives in Cambridge, Mass.

Bob Kane '34, Director of Athletics, was guest speaker at our annual spring dinner in the Cornell Club, New York City, May 13. During the evening, your correspondent canvassed those in attendance regarding their children to determine where they were going to school and other interesting information. Here is the record, listing the children in the order of their ages:

Jack Ackerman has a daughter at University of Chicago who is working for the Master's in sociology. He also has a daughter who attended University of North Carolina, a son in Nutley Junior High School, and a younger daughter in sixth grade. Ray Beckwith has a son who was graduated from Cornell '58, and now in the US Navy, and a younger son at Williams, '60. Paul Buhl has a son at MIT, '60, who will receive two degrees, and a younger son who is a sophomore at Lehigh.

Louis Freidenberg has a son who attended Fieldston and is now at MIT and a daughter at Fieldston. Vic Grohmann has a daughter who graduated from Cornell, '56, and married Archer B. desCognets '57. They have two children, one boy and one girl, which makes Vic a grandfather of two. Vic's older son ex-Cornell '61 is now in the US Army in Germany, and a younger son at Tenafly Junior High School. Jim Hubbell has a daughter at Low Heywood School, Stamford, Conn., and a young son in elementary school. Ned Johnson has a daughter at Ethel Walker School and a younger daughter at Pelham Junior High School.

Al Koehl has a son who was an exchange student at Fettes College, Edinburgh, and is now at Harvard. His younger son, now at Andover, will enter Cornell this fall. Stan Krusen has a daughter at Kent Place School, Summit, N.J., and a young son at Far Brook School, Short Hills, N.J. Bob Leng has a son who is a research engineer at Grumman Aircraft. He was graduated from Cornell, '55. Floyd Mundy has a son studying Architecture at Cornell, '59, a younger son at Pomfret, and a daughter at Miss Masters School, Dobbs Ferry.

Mac Murdock has a son who graduated from Williams and is now taking graduate work at Stanford, and a younger son who is a freshman at Colgate. Nate Rubin has a daughter who will enter Cornell in September, and a younger daughter a sophomore at Poughkeepsie High School. George Schofield has a son who was graduated from Princeton, '55, served in the US Navy, and now at MIT, '59, and a daughter who attended Wellesley, married, and now living in Paris. Kip Stalter has a son who will enter Rutgers in the fall, and a daughter at Pascack Valley High School. Jim Stewart has a son who was graduated from Princeton as a Rhodes Scholar and is now in the US Navy, a married daughter who was graduated from Radcliffe, and a younger son who is attending Hotchkiss.

Dave Taub has a son at Scarsdale Junior High School. Dick Wakeman has two daughters at Beaver and two sons at Dexter. John White has a daughter at Wells, where he recently spent some time with her on the golf course during Fathers Week End; and a son at Choate. Woody Wright has a daughter at Nurses Training School in Minneapolis, a son who is a freshman at Rutgers, a younger daughter in the ninth grade and a younger son in the eighth grade at East Brunswick High School. Tom Wyman has a son attending University of Michigan, another son at Caterbury School, and two younger sons and a daughter attending the grade schools in Suffern.

There was no report from our two batchelors, Bert Antell and Dick Kochenthal.

We still have a number of copies of our new Class directory available for any Classmate who wishes one. Simply send $1 with your name and address to H. Victor Grohmann, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20.

'29 Men—Dr. Jerome Engel, 196 Main St., Ravena, who refers to himself as a "country doctor," proudly tells us his son, Jerome, Jr. ("Pete"), is a Junior and daughter Judy is a Freshman at Cornell. Saw the early May races as Jr. is a coxswain on the crew squad. Congratulations, Jerome. Dr. Isidore Stein, 700 Avenue C, Brooklyn 19, has been appointed clinical assistant professor, Department of Medicine, College of Medicine, Downstate Medical Center, State University of New York. Drop him a congrat note; the column's is herein noted.

E. A. Cobb, 234 Foxhurst Drive, Pittsburgh, Pa., is now manager, industrial sales division, of Sun Oil Co. Warren A. Ranney was elected first vice-president of the National Council of Farmers' Cooperatives at their annual New Orleans meeting. Congrats. Harold Greenberg proudly writes us of his daughter's confirmation this June. Dan Bader can proudly boast of five girls and three boys. We're proud of you, Dan.

Chrys Todd's son is a Sophomore at Cornell. R. Don Aymai passes word along that his son Robert is a junior at Bucknell and that daughter Susan will enter there in September. A fine school. Bill Ovest's daughter Elizabeth was married March 14 and Bill, Jr. was spliced April 11. Best wishes. Bill Razzold is back East after twenty-five years in the Far West.

Albert Murray is still a bachelor, but busy as ever as a portrait painter. Herb Handleman is busy with two weddings and is puzzled as to how he can make the Reunion the same week end. Take a jet, Herb; we need you. James Smith, Jr. writes about being busy with two new jobs: president of Arrow Cartons, Inc., Chesapeake Paperboard, Baltimore, and J. E. Smith Co. Has crossed the "hot sands" to make him proud of his membership in Boumi Temple, Shriners, Baltimore. His son is at Washington College, Md., and his lovely daughter is at Friends School, Baltimore.—ZAC FREEDMAN

'30, '31 BS—A new $70,000 poultry research building was completed last fall at Babcock Poultry Farm, Inc. of Monroe C. Babcock on the Trumansburg Road, Ithaca.

The end of another volume is reached with this issue. As you read it, the end of the year for the Cornell Fund is at hand. We trust you have all done your part. The end of the Class dues year is also approaching, but you still have plenty of time to join almost 300 of your Classmates who have kept up-to-date. Sit down now and join us.

Ralph W. Low was recently appointed manager of the newly-formed insurance department of Westinghouse Electric Corp. He was formerly staff assistant of the combined real estate & insurance department. The two areas were separated with Ralph moving to manager of the one group. Ralph joined Westinghouse in 1937 in New York and was transferred to Pittsburgh in 1942 where he handled, as staff assistant, group insurance and pension activities. In 1949, he joined the real estate & insurance department. He is a regional vice-president and executive committee member of the American Society of Insurance Management and is president of the Pittsburgh chapter. His home is in Bradford Woods, Pa.

Lieutenant Colonel John G. Roylance is now stationed at Olmstead Air Force Base, Middletown, Pa., after many years as the Air Force representative at General Electric Co. in Schenectady. His family is still in Schenectady, but hope to join him in the near future. We join in that hope. He is chief, Production Division in the Office of the Director of Procurement & Production.

Joseph N. Cuzzi is with Cuzzi Bros. & Singer, Inc., covering building construction in the northeast section of the country. His daughter Joan graduated from College of New Rochelle in 1958 and son Frank E. is Cornell '61, a member of the swimming team and co-chairman of the Rally Committee. Home is at 15 Mitchill Place, Pelham Manor.

And, so ends this volume!

Dr. John O. Crosby of 430 Locust Street, Lockport, writes: "I have never subscribed to CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS before, but look forward to receiving each issue, and enjoy it very much. Congratulations on the courage to take such a bold step as to risk your hard-earned dollars on the acceptance of this plan. Looking forward to our next Reunion."

The above comment prompts your Class correspondent to again remind those who have not sent in their $7 to Stan Hubbell to do so at once, otherwise it will be a "risk of hard-earned dollars" on the part of our twenty Classmates who so generously underwrote the News program. Up until now, we have been receiving quite a few interesting bits of news from a lot of you. However, this flow of information has slowed down and if you want the '32 column to remain lively, please cooperate by sending us some more news soon. After all, since our Class is spread all over the United States, we are almost completely dependent on hearing from you. Don't be too modest; there are more of your Classmates interested in hearing about you than you might believe.

William S. Bachman reports that he has a daughter who is now a Senior in Fine Arts at Cornell, and a son who hopes to enter year after next. The family home is at 26 Spruce Street, Southport, Conn. Edward R. Collins, who is manager of the Baltimore, Md. branch of Alcoa Steamship Co., has directed preparation of a manual for the handling of deep-sea vessels in port during a Civil Defense emergency. Although designed specifically for the Baltimore and Chesapeake Bay area, the manual can be adapted with little change to fit conditions in any port of the country. Ed also recently served as general chairman of the Glee Club concert committee for the Cornell Club of Maryland. The Glee Club appeared in Baltimore April 11. Proceeds of the concert will go to the CCM scholarship fund.

Harry W. Bennett, Jr. is senior vice-president and administrative officer of Joseph Katz Co., 555 5th Avenue, New York City. His oldest daughter, Joan, is a '58 graduate of Manhattanville College, was Bermuda Beauty Pageant Queen in 1956, and was married in 1958 to Ted Kennedy, brother of Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. His youngest daughter, Candy, is a '58 graduate of Bennett College and is now attending Tobe-Coburn School of Fashion in New York. He resides with his family at 14 Eastway, Bronxville 8.

Roland J. Parker reports that he has been married fourteen years to a Texan. They have a son in the eighth grade. Roland has been with Eli Lilly Co. for the last twenty-two years, recently changing his job from the general hospital to the pharmacology department. Philip H. Foote writes that he moved to Short Hills, N.J. from New Orleans in 1956. He has a married daughter and two grandchildren, a son at Worcester Poly Tech, and a daughter in high school. His home address is 55 Addison Drive, Short Hills, N.J.

Fred H. Hollister is manager of Scarsdale Golf Club, Hartsdale. He was elected president of Metropolitan Club Managers' Association, which embraces Westchester and Nassau Counties. Dr. Raymond R. Preefer has been in West Palm Beach, Fla., since 1947, where he has an eye, ear, nose, and throat practice.

Newel D. Littlefield has been building service manager of Bryn Mawr Hospital, Bryn Mawr, Pa., since January, 1958. Fred Biggs writes that "news is pretty limited, as few from the Class seem to visit this 'last frontier.' I did spend a couple of enjoyable days at the National Power Conference in Boston with Bill Beyerle. He is still with Baltimore Gas & Electric Co." Fred resides in Forest View Heights, Ridgway, Pa.

'32 MS—Carl F. Newell is resigning June 30 from Spring Valley High School, where he has taught science for twenty-seven years, and plans to teach at Howey Academy, a private school in Howey-in-the-Hills, Fla.

'35, '36 BSinAE—Robert C. Trundle, president of the Cleveland, Ohio management consulting firm of Trundle Consultants, Inc., was chairman of an American Management Association seminar on profit planning held, May 11-13, at the Hotel Astor in New York City. It was the third time that the firm had conducted such a seminar for the AMA.

Schuyler R. Hafely of 1431 Kent Way, Modesto, Cal., was recently named president of a civic group in his city, which will build a children's park for the community. Sky, who is a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects, presented the children's park plan to the city, and many civic groups are giving him solid backing.

Charles H. Shuff, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense, was recently the subject of a lengthy article published in Armed Forces Management. Charley's job is to manage the military assistance of our country's Mutual Security Program. In terms of dollars, this represents a United States expenditure of more than two billion dollars a year. He came to this job with an imposing background, which included being sales manager for Eastern Airlines, and later assistant to the president of Westinghouse Electric Co. Some time back, he completed a thirty-four-day tour of the Far East, and is described in glowing terms in the article written about him as "a sincere and dedicated worker, combining a wealth of experience with a grasp of his job which is witnessed best by the way it is getting done."

Warren N. Woessner writes from Chestnut Drive, Woodstown, N.J., that he is chief supervisor in heavy chemicals for duPont. With three sons to keep him busy, he still finds time to act as chairman of a Boy Scout troop committee, teach Sunday School, act as trustee of his church, substitute as the church organist, and act as member of the board of directors of the Salem County Safety Council. Each of his sons plays a different musical instrument, and Warren says if you are driving down the Jersey Turnpike, you can recognize his house by listening for the music.

Jack Wurst advises his daughter Sandy is a sophomore at University of Rochester. His address is 5 Albright Street, Albany 3. Lloyd Snedaker is engaged in international shipping, as treasurer and general manager of Milton Snedaker Corp. He and his wife and three children live at 32 Oxford Blvd., Great Neck.

Ivan C. Warren is field representative of The Valley National Bank of Walkill and Walden, and his travels through Orange and Ulster Counties bring him into frequent contacts with fellow Cornellians. He lives in Milton, Ulster County. George J. Visnyei is practicing dentistry in Ithaca. He is a graduate of the school of dentistry at Western Reserve, Cleveland. George is supervising dentist of the Ithaca public schools, and also on the consulting staff of the Reconstruction Home, and member of the Common Council of the city of Ithaca. He is married and has four children.

From Walden, comes word from Clare Hoyt, who is practicing law in Newburgh, as a member of the firm of Scott & Hoyt. He has three children, aged 6, 3, and 1. Robert C. Winans has a son who is a Freshman in Engineering Physics. His wife was the former Julia Bockee '37. They live at 13 Perry Street, Hanover, N.J. Allen Bailey is finishing up twenty years of teaching vocational agriculture this year, in Mexico, N.Y.

'37 Alan R. Willson
State Mutual Life Ins. Co.
Worcester, Mass.

Just before mailing this column, we had a flash note from Class President Dick Graham. Dick tells us not only is the Class lagging in number of contributions to the annual Cornell Fund drive but that, according to Jim Reid, quite a few Classmates have not yet sent in their $10 Class dues. We hate to rattle these skeletons in the public pages of the NEWS, but it is our best method of urging any of you who have procrastinated to get out your checkbooks. It takes more than good wishes to run a University, Class organization, and a news magazine.

Dr. Donald V. Hughes, Box 418, Middletown, has two boys and two girls who he claims to be future Cornell talent. Don keeps very busy with his general practice at the new veterinary hospital in Middletown, but still finds time to relax with the family at Ellinor Village, Ormond Beach, Fla. James D. Ireland, 1920 Shelburne Road, Cleveland, Ohio, president of Peters Creek Coal Co., was recently named to Western Reserve University board of governors at Cleveland.

Thomas J. Law lives at 437 High Street, Bethlehem, Pa., with his wife, the former Dorothy Morris '34, and their two children, Carolyn and Douglas. Tom is fuel engineer at the Bethlehem plant of Bethlehem Steel Co. Robert Luburg, 1 North Plandome Road, Port Washington, is vice-president and plant manager of J. F. Tupley Co. in Long Island City. He is looking forward to plenty of sailing and cruising around in the Sound this summer. Bob has twin daughters entering college this fall.

Howard C. Mandeville of 7740 Indian Hill Road, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes that he saw Bob Gaffney '38 in Honolulu in March. Howie landed in Honolulu on "Statehood Day" enroute home from the Far East. Stratton M. McCargo has been working fourteen years for the Soil Building Division, GLF Exchange, and is now in the division office in Ithaca as personnel supervisor and safety director. Mac lives at 71 West Main Street, Trumansburg.

Frank A. Parsons has moved to 6419 North Olney Street, Indianapolis, Ind., as a result of being transferred from the AT&T to Indiana Bell Telephone Co. as assistant vice-president of operations. He has a daughter who is a junior in high school and a son in the seventh grade. Frank's only complaint seems to be that, save for the NEWS, he finds it almost impossible to keep apprised of what is happening in the field of sports in the Eastern colleges.

We were pleased to learn that Howard W. Robison was re-elected last November to Congress as Representative from the 37th District of New York. Howie has been assigned to the public works committee and select committee on small business. His address is now 415 Old House Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Conrad E. Rosdahl writes from Thompson Falls, Mont., that he is still a country doctor in the heart of the Rockies and miles from the nearest hospital. Although he lives way out in the country, Connie can never be considered lonely, with a fine family of six children, evenly divided: three girls and three boys. His oldest child, Diane, is now in her second year at Pacific Lutheran College.

'37 Women—That Sarah Thomas Curwood! When I catch up with her! Honestly now, wouldn't you think a PhD, Phi Beta Kappa, and former Harvard professor, now a professor of child care & welfare and head of Antioch College

Summary of Advices on 850 Stocks

Now is the time to put your investment house in order so that you may protect and increase your capital in 1959. Not for many years past have there been such wide discrepancies in the performance of individual stocks. The surprising extent to which all stocks ranked in Group I (Highest) by the Value Line Survey have outperformed all stocks ranked in Group V (Lowest) during the past nine months is a matter of record. (The audited results will be submitted to you for your own appraisal.)

Your first step should be to check each of your stocks to see how they measure up for Probable Market Performance in the next 12 months (whether in Rank I [Highest], II, III, IV, or V [Lowest]), how they rate for Value, Safety, Income, and Appreciation Potentiality over a 3 to 5 year pull. The Value Line Survey provides objective and specific measures on each count. These Rankings are available exclusively in the Value Line Survey.

With the latest SUMMARY before you, available only in the Value Line Survey, you would have at your fingertips the conclusions reached in the 1,000-page Value Line Survey, enabling you to check every one of your stocks against objective and current measurements of value, to choose the strongest and safest stocks for your own list. A copy of the latest Value Line SUMMARY will be sent you at no extra charge under the Special Introductory Offer below.

nursery school, would be smart enough to write notes with some facts in them? Sarah dashes off a note several times a year, but she never says anything. Her latest note, postmarked March 28 from Yellow Springs, Ohio, says: "We are off to the West Coast and then East. Hope to see more of you next year." My best Sherlock Holmes deductions lead me to believe she is still a prof at Antioch College if she'll be seeing me next year, and "East" must mean her farm at Barrington, N.H. But who is "we"? Last I heard, young Sally was working and studying in Boston and Steve, 12, was a very busy bee in Yellow Springs school and Boy Scout activities. Did they go to the West Coast just for spring vacation? The return address on the envelope is 126 East Center College St., Yellow Springs, Ohio. Does this new street address mean Sarah has moved and we should all change our '37 directories, or is this her office address? I had been down to Antioch three times this year and tried to find Sarah each time, but had not been able to learn if she was out for the evening, had moved from the house where she was living last year, or had left town for a term. So I wrote her demanding some facts, and she obligingly sent me the above-mentioned note which I'll bet she thinks is full of information!

Marion Bean Parnell writes that she has a new post office address, though she has not moved. It is now East Brunswick, N.J., instead of Milltown. "Beanie" was re-elected to the school board and Norm was a candidate for the township committee, the two governing bodies of the town. "Beanie" reports: "Pat is growing irradiated seeds (Norm took them to the lab where they have a cobalt source), now entered in State Science Fair. Sandy is her usual bouncing self and the three other girls are growing up, too. Nancy, 5, has allergic asthma, knows she can't eat many eggs. Her latest comment as she glared at her plate: 'I wish I was allergic to rice.'"

Jess Reisner Middlemast sends a wonderful Christmas letter annually detailing what she and her two daughters have been doing and thinking all year. The Middlemast saga for 1958 spoke of her graduate studies at Columbia Teachers College, her job with the Nassau County Extension Service, a summer trip to Kansas and the Colorado Rockies, another trip through upstate New York, Nancy's graduation from high school with honors and her entrance into Gettysburg College on a generous scholarship, and the excitement connected with Joan's sixteenth birthday. Not only are Jessie's Christmas letters full of facts for the records of a Class secretary, but they are full of inspiration for all her friends.

The grapevine says Bless Nachman Jenkins recently visited in New Jersey. Bless and George have five little Jenkinses back in Salt Lake City, and if she doesn't write us about them soon it may break up a twenty-five-year friendship. (Bless was the first Classmate I met at the moment I first set foot in Risley Hall Frosh year. I was with my parents and she with hers. She also had a basket of peaches and her sister, Dottie Nachman '36, to guide her. We used to walk down to the sorority house together for Sunday dinner. I hope she reads Alice in Wonderland to her children; do you remember what a wonderful White Rabbit she was?)

Ruth Lindquist Dales writes: "I have taken on a new job as associate in Christian education. Have charge of infants through third grade. All 400 of them. Now having two teenagers in the house, I love working with the younger ones! This will come as a shock to my friends who knew me as the best non-church-goer in the A O Pi house. Keeps me busy and I love the challenge. We were down on Campus last spring for a State swimming meet in which our son distinguished himself. The Campus looked lovely even with its constantly changing face. Next Reunion I'm determined to come a few days early with my walking shoes and get every place I never have time for."—CAROL CLINE

'38 Men—Along with the Big Red crew, '38's pickings are pretty lean 'round about now. However, you can't lose every time. So the man says.

Hal Segall of Gilbert & Segall reports that the firm's offices have moved to 405 Park Ave., New York City 22. Tom Rich has been named president and a director of P&C Food Markets, Inc., Syracuse. Tom joined P&C in 1944 when it was organized and had been general manager since 1956. He succeeds another Cornellian as president: Charles Silcox, MS '22, who was elected chairman of the board of directors.

In this world of dog-eat-dog, it's heart-warming to report a nice reversal of the coin. Seems that up to last year Milt Covert had been city veterinarian with the Health Bureau of Rochester. He was widely known for his gentleness with animals and his work for improving sanitation methods at the Humane Society's animal shelter. Reduced animal disease there by 70 per cent, as a matter of record. Milt was also instrumental in the starting of a new and needed $50,000 wing at the Humane Society. Shortly thereafter, June 6 last year, Milt died. This month, a year later, Rochester dedicated the new Animal Shelter wing at the Humane Society. The inscription on the plaque unveiled by Milt's widow, Marie, read in part: "Dr. Milton H. Covert, who devoted his life to the welfare of animals and to whom this building is dedicated. . ."

When you read this, you will have had or will be starting out to go to your Twentieth Reunion. In either case, we hope it will be good or was good. You have all received the blurbs from Lovejoy, so I cannot at this time add anything about the Reunion. There will be a report in the next issue written the day after so it will be hot off the griddle.

Dan Kops, who is president of radio stations WAVZ in New Haven and WTRY in Albany-Schenectady-Troy as well as president of the Associated Press Radio Television Association, says that "the day of broadcast editorializing is at hand." Dan made this statement in a talk prepared for a meeting of the Virginia Associated Press Broadcasters. He lives at 125 Spring Glen Terrace, Hamden, Conn.

Hubert Rhodes of RD 2, Beaver Dams, writes that January 24 he married Nancy Jean Howell. Congratulations! He has for several years been farm representative of the Elmira Division of New York State Electric & Gas Corp.

Burt Beck, vice-president of industrial relations, was elected April 20 to the board of directors of Eli Lilly & Co. In his twenty years with Lilly, he has held various executive positions in the industrial relations function. Before being elected a vice-president in March, 1958, he had been executive director of personnel and public relations for six years.

Ithaca, N.Y.

We have at least one vote for a Class directory. It comes from Dewitt Zien. Dewitt lives at South Street, Newfield, and asks, "is there a list of addresses available for the Class of '40?" It is now Colonel A. E. Krieger. His address is Box 7533, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio. He is there as Deputy for Tactical Weapons, Directorate of Systems Management, Air Research & Development Command.

It is nice to have a note from J. William Conner, especially since he is so busy teaching in the Hotel School here and operating the Statler Inn and Club. Some of his other activities are covered in this quote. "Doing consultant work for clubs in New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut, hotels in New York and Maryland, industrials in New York and Massachusetts. Have been traveling a bit. LECTURED in Tokyo (Air Force club managers), Houston, Tex., Club Managers National Convention, and in clubs to employees. Directing adult education programs for hotel, club, and restaurant executives here at Cornell and in different cities throughout the country. Still broke." Even the family is staying close to the hotel business. His daughter, Lynne, is engaged to a Hotel student, William Eaton '62. The Conners live at 125 Texas Lane, Ithaca.

Further interest in a Class directory has been suggested by C. A. Horton. He suggests that if we lack a Class directory, it will be helpful to have someone to contact regarding addresses. In that connection, we have a fine offer from John Munschauer. He will be glad to serve as a clearing point for Class addresses until (if and when) we get a Class directory. You can write John at 122 Administration Building, Cornell University, Ithaca, and find out about the address of any lost Classmates. Speaking of addresses, we could mention that Charles A. Horton's address is 384 East Drive, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

George T. Crawford, Green Road, Sparta, N.J., has been selected "Man of the Year" by the Newark branch office of Connecticut Life Insurance Co. We hear by the grapevine that George wrote more than a million dollars of new life insurance with Connecticut General in 1958. He has been an agent in Newark for the company since 1950 and has been named on the company's honor roll. He is a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

A new address has been reported for Charles A. Hunt: 753 Union St., Jackson, Mich. Another new address is that of John T. Collins, 159 Hillside Avenue, Chatham, N.J. John sends along a note to Larry Lilienthal saying, "Your hard work and diligence have certainly done a good job of holding our Class together." And he indicates his support of the Class program.

Chalk up a gold star for Gordon E. Butterfield who sends in two years' dues at once from his home in Johnson. Ralph Cerame writes that Sam Trifilo received the PhD in romance languages at Michigan and is now an associate professor in languages at Marquette University. Sam received the degree in Engineering at Cornell in 1940. Ralph is running his own industrial supply business, Rochester Industrial Supply Co., 32 University Avenue, Rochester 5. He has two nice girls and says he is trying to grow old gracefully! The Crames may be found at 3425 St. Paul Blvd., Rochester.

The University of Pittsburgh recently held an alumni-faculty conference sponsored by the Graduate School of Social Work. One of the speakers was Joseph W. Eaton who discussed "Social Trends in 1959."

'41 Robert L. Bartholomew
51 N. Quaker Lane
West Hartford 7, Conn.

Marne Obernauer (above) reminds us of some of our most educational field trips while at Cornell, those to the wine country. Marne's title is president, Great Western Producers, Inc. Offices are at 375 Park Avenue, New York City 22. Mrs. Obernauer is the former Jean Strassburger. She, Marne, Marne Jr., and Wendy live at 2118 Beechwood Boulevard, Pittsburgh 17, Pa.

Since last November, Charles W. Lake, Jr. has been vice-president in charge of operations of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Chicago. Chuck returns to Ithaca for a non-resident lecture series to Mechanical Engineering Seniors. Home address: 337 South Sunset Avenue, La Grange, Ill. His father is Charles W. Lake '14.

From hotelism comes this change. Robert A. Summers has been appointed general manager of Hotel Lawrence, Tenth & Peach Streets, Erie 6, Pa. Bob formerly managed Hotel Vendome in Boston.

William D. Wade, 421 Glendale Road, Hampton, Va., writes: "We have a daughter, Winifred Ann, 9. I am a lieutenant colonel in the Army, currently assigned to Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va. Since 1945 we've lived in Seattle, San Francisco, Heidelberg, and Washington."

THE VERY BEST IN CHAMPAGNE

Champagne
Perrier-Jouët
English Cuvée, Brut

Preference for individual Champagnes is largely a matter of taste—or habit, with each brand following its own special style over the years.

Our beloved Perrier-Jouët has long stood foremost for sheer elegance and finesse on the exacting London and Paris markets, holding like allegiance from generations of American wine lovers. No finer Champagne is produced.

Colonel David C. Jolly, Headquarters, 99th Bombardment Wing, Heavy Jet, Westover AFB, Mass., says: "I've certainly enjoyed the ALUMNI NEWS this year with its familiar names and places." Dave has been selected to attend the National War College in Washington, D.C. In August, he leaves his position as vice-commander, 99th Bombardment Wing, to head for our nation's Capitol with his wife and fifteen-year-old son Larry. Then back to school!

Here's more word on the military. Lieutenant Colonel Raymond L. V. Pearson writes from his new address, 250 Tunisia Road, Fort Ord, Cal.: "Have completed five years (four years as an instructor) at the Command & General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and am now preparing for a future assignment as assistant military attaché at Athens, Greece, by attending the US Army Language School, Presidio, of Monterey, Cal. Have not seen any of the Class for a long time, but if any are in the vicinity of the Presidio of Monterey, I would certainly like to see them."

Paul W. Staby, Hillspoint Road, Westport, Conn., has his office at 250 Park Avenue, New York City 17, for Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. He is a member of the 1958 Million Dollar Round Table. Paul and his wife, the former Evelyn Smith, have two girls and a boy.

Dr. Merrill H. Woolmington, 16 Meadowood Road, Rosemont, Pa., is in private practice as an ophthalmologist. Mrs. Woolmington is the former Ruth Walker. Robert and Barbara Anne are the children. Merrill is a member of the Medical Club of Philadelphia.

'44, '43 BEE—Richard L. Best joined Digital Equipment Corp., Maynard, Mass., several months ago, as head of circuit design and development work. He had been at MIT's Lincoln Laboratory, where since 1947 he has played a key role in developing and supervising the design of circuits for the Whirlwind I and SAGE Air Defense computers and the Lincoln memory systems. He received the MSinEE at MIT in 1952.

'44, '45 BS; '45 AB—Robert M. Ready and Mrs. Ready (Ann Grady) '45 are pictured above at a party they gave to celebrate the seventy-fifth birthday of his father, Frank M. Ready, who is shown between them. The elder Ready is vice-president of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City. As lecturer in the Hotel School from 1927-31, he came from New York regularly to give the first course in front-office management.

Robert Ready is sales representative for Peel Richards, Ltd., National Distillers Corp. He and Mrs. Ready live at 7 Monmouth Avenue, Rumson, N.J. His brother, Frank A. Ready, Jr. '35, and Mrs. Ready (Evelyn Walker) '36 live in Yokohama, Japan, where he is with the importing firm of Dunham & Smith.

'44-'45 Grad—Fook Zee Lee is a licensed civil engineer in California and his address is 726 Second Avenue, San Francisco 18, Cal. He would like to contact Cornellians practicing in Hong Kong and Formosa.

'44, '47 BME — William S. Wheeler (above) has been named a vice-president of Motorola Inc. and general manager of the company's military electronics division embracing activities in Chicago, Ill., Riverside, Cal., and Phoenix, Ariz. His headquarters are in Phoenix, at 8201 East McDowell Road. With Motorola twelve years, Wheeler has been general manager of the company's Chicago military electronics center. He and Mrs. Wheeler will settle in Scottsdale, Ariz. in June with Steven, ten, David, six, and Betsy, four months.

'44 AB, '49 LLB—John F. Cushman is director of the Office of Administrative Procedure in the Department of Justice. His "boss" is US Attorney General William P. Rogers, LLB '37. Son of Professor Robert E. Cushman, Government, Emeritus, he was an attorney in the Department from 1951-57 and later an associate general counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He served as law clerk to Judge Henry W. Edgerton '10 of the US Court of Appeals, District of Columbia Circuit, and to the late Justice Robert H. Jackson of the US Supreme Court. He and Mrs. Cushman (Jane Casterline) '47 and their three children live at 817 Larchmont Road, Falls Church, Va.

'44, '46 AB—Blanke Noyes, a partner in Hemphill, Noyes & Co., investment securities firm, 15 Broad Street, New York City 5, was recently re-elected president of the alumni association of The Lawrenceville (N.J.) School. He is also a governor of the National Association of Securities Dealers and a member of the board of managers of the West Side Branch of the YMCA.

'44, '45 BS—Mrs. John K. Jacobs (Catharine Altschuller) of 19 Tauxemont Road, Alexandria, Va., has been selected to portray American homemaking to the Russian people at the American National Exhibition which opens in Moscow July 25. Her husband is the press and public relations officer for the exhibit. She and her four children, all under five years of age, will spend six hours a day on exhibit in a typical American apartment, keeping house and cooking just as she would at home.

'45 Men—I refuse to begin my column with profuse apologies for not appearing more often, because that in itself is getting shop-worn and I'm regusted to repeat it. Like all responsibilities, varying pressures are exerted by concerned constituencies and I must admit the pressure of this column has been of a low degree and it is only my own conscience that troubles me now. Again, I extend the invitation to my Classmates to contribute a guest column on any interesting experiences they may have had, assuming, of course, that they will pass the censor's eye.

This week, I returned from two weeks in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., a beautiful spot, where I spent the time acquainting myself, in the line of business, with the Cranbrook Institutions. The magnificent philanthropy of Mr. & Mrs. George G. Booth, this educational cultural center comprises six institutions occupying 300 acres of rolling land just ten miles north of Detroit's city limits. The area is surprisingly like the picturesque countryside surrounding the Kentish village in England from which the name Cranbrook was derived. The six Cranbrook institutions comprise a magnificent church, an elementary school, a preparatory school for boys, a secondary school of similar proportions for girls, an art academy and an institute of science. Those of you who reside in the Michigan area are probably well acquainted with this unusual and most beautiful center, but for those of you who haven't visited the premises and those who may find themselves in the vicinity, let me urge you to include it in your itinerary for a most rewarding experience. I visited Neil C. McMath '14 at his lovely home and encouraged him to come to Ithaca in June for his 45th Reunion where we all know educational experiments and beauty are quite evident, too. McMath has long been associated with the Cranbrook picture as a trustee of the Cranbrook Foundation. I also had occasion to visit with University Trustee Walker L. Cisler '22 who is a trustee of the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

Just before going out to Michigan, Judy and I enjoyed the company at 53 Carlton Avenue, Port Washington, of William F. Hunt, who has recently been made New York manager of Cleveland Twist Co., 20 Thomas Street, New York City. Bill, a Delta Tau Delta brother who you all should remember as the tall angular one on the Varsity basketball team, has left Flint, Mich. for his new position and expects to join the New Jersey residents contingent if he can find a house.

Dr. Kenneth H. Vogel, 4834 Emblem Avenue, Pittsburgh 36, Pa., has been named supervising engineer in the development chemistry group, materials department, at the Westinghouse Bettis Atomic Division in Pittsburgh. Ken and his wife have three children. Thanks to Barbara Johnson Gottling '54, we learn that James Monroe, Jr., 3608 Mound Way, Mariemont, Ohio, has been named president of Custom-Pak, Inc. This firm packages individual portion control servings for airlines, railroads, hospitals, restaurants, and industrial plants in the jelly and condiment line. Sanford W. Whitwell, 715 Mill Hill Road, Southport, Conn., is budget supervisor for Bridgeport Brass Co. and announced a new son, John Sanford, born in April. That makes three for the Whitwells. Carl W. Lichtenfels, 500 Angell St., Providence, R.I., is treasurer of W. R. Cobb Co., manufacturer of precious metal component parts for the electronic, jewelry, and kindred industries. Carl tells us his company has been established for a long time, but has expanded rapidly in the last three years, creating many interesting problems. John B. Babcock, 4360 Swanson Drive, Indianapolis 8, Ind., is still manager of TV station Channel 13 for Crosley Broadcasting Co. in Cincinnati.

'47 Men—For some months I have been waiting to include great news about the Charlie Lockwoods that was substantiated by the receipt of an issue of the Gastonia (N.C.) Gazette dated December 19, 1958 in which the Lockwoods, male and female, and news of them are spread all over the front page because they co-manage the new Gaston Country Club. The building and grounds look lush. Damn near every article in the paper is about the bloody place. '47ers: rise and journey South, with golf bag. Don't wait for the coming winter months. Oh, I should mention that Charlie is an organ player, too. I call him on the telephone and find it necessary to surmount beautiful music in the background, Charlie being in the act of playing his organ, talking on the telephone to me, making polite noises to guests, shaking a few 'tinis, and doing Heaven knows what else!

Harry Rubin writes that he is now associate professor of virology at University of California. Guess communications can be sent there in care of the Department of Virology, Berkeley 4. Harry used to be at Cal Tech and tells me that he trundled his four kids (2 boys, 2 girls) and wife to Berkeley where they must be living somewhere outside of the laboratory. For what it's worth, the kids are in boy-girl-boy-girl order.

When you read this column, Ware will be in a state of exhaustion after Reunion Week End. Even now, as I write this blurb, the exciting plans are being laid for much fun, no sleep. Hope to see you.

—BARLOW WARE

'42 MS, '47 PhD—Manolo Rodriguez-Diaz is professor and chairman of Romance languages at Alfred University, Alfred.

'48 MSinEng—Colonel Paul H. Symbol, as district engineer of the Walla Walla Engineer District, is responsible for the construction program for the Army and Air Force plus a major part of the water resources development in the Pacific Northwest. The district includes principally eastern Washington and Oregon, most of Idaho, westerly part of Wyoming, the northern tips of Nevada and Utah, and Montana. The work involves mainly the expansion of Air Force bases and the construction of large multi-purpose dams on the Columbia and Snake Rivers. Colonel Symbol lives at 1050 Alvarado Terrace, Walla Walla, Wash.

'51 Men—Regional correspondent for the Big Ten area is Ted Blake, 8 S. 531 Linden Avenue, Wesmont, Ill. Ted is also the regional chairman for the Cornell Fund. In January, he started working for Acme Steel Co. as a staff project engineer assisting the sales department in selling automatic strapping machines. The Blakes celebrated their first wedding anniversary April 12. Mrs. Blake is the former Colette Wilkes of Chicago. Ted gave me a big assist in my job by sending along news of many Classmates, presently or formerly living in the Chicago area.

John Ehret reports by way of Ted that he is now living at 7355 S. Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill., in the shade of the steel mills where he calls frequently to sell mechanical equipment for Ehret & Kinsey, manufacturing representatives. Another Classmate who has left the Chicago area and come to my area is Frank A. DuWaldt, 456 Girard, East Aurora. Another one moving from Illinois is Eugene Foster who moved from Monticello, Ill. to 46 Luverbe, Minneapolis, Minn. Gene is married and has one daughter. He is the personnel director of the Curtis Hotel in Minneapolis.

We also have a new address for Stanford H. Taylor, 778 Foxdale, Winnetka, Ill. Stanford works on the secondary school committee of the Cornell Club of Chicago and also is a fund representative for the Engineering Fund. The Taylors have a three-year-old son. About to move from the Illinois area is Richard W. Smith who is being transferred to the New England area by Fafmir Bearing Co. Already transferred from Chicago is Jere Klivansky, now credit manager for Jones & Laughlin Steel Warehouse Division, 6901 Preston Highway, Louisville 19, Ky. Reversing the trend by staying in Chicago is George Myers, our Reunion chairman, who works for McKinsey & Co., Inc., Prudential Plaza, Chicago, Ill. Reed Deemer works for United Air Lines and lives at 5959 S. Cicero Avenue, Chicago. Formerly in Chicago and now working for Stauffer Restaurants, Garden City, is James W. Sherwood. Back in Chicago we find Robert Silva. Bob is employed by Central Scientific Co., received the Master's at Loyola in 1956, has two sons, aged 3 and 4, and has still found time to be a member of the Jaycees, the National Office Managers Association, and the Industrial Relations Association of Chicago. Lastly, the Chicago area finds Fred Knight, father of two boys, employed by Darling & Co. and a company commander in the Illinois National Guard.

Many thanks to Ted Blake for supplying all the news for this column. This is our hope for the future: that we will be able to devote complete columns to specific areas. This will depend on many of you acting as the collector and all of you cooperating by sending news in. Watch for the newsletter with details of who are presently news correspondents and areas where we need help. Don't forget the Cornell Fund. Let's all do our small bit to keep a great institution great.—JACK OSTROM

'51 Women—Might well call this column "What's new in pink and blue."

The Richard Funks announce the arrival, May 1, of Richard Joseph, Jr. Barb- ara Mayr Funk writes, "Expect to have my hands full when I get home (4523 Wendover Lane, Charlotte 7, N.C.) with Rick and Nancy, now 14 months." John '50 and Lisbeth Beach Lamb now have a quintet to awaken them in the morning. Christopher Scott, born March 28, joins John III (7), Thomas (6), Kathleen (4), and Cynthia (2), in making merry music. John '50 and Jane Haskins Marcham of 433 W. Buffalo St., Ithaca, are the proud possessors of a daughter, born May 15. Her two brothers are most pleased with their new princess.—DORIS PAINE KIRCHNER

'52-'53 Grad—Gabriel G. Barast, former teaching Fellow in Mathematics, is in charge of agricultural market research at the Compagne de Saint Gobain, 16 Avenue Matignon, Paris 18, France; lives at 24 Rue du Mont Cenis, Paris 18. He would be glad to hear from his Economics and Ag Economics friends and his French language students if they happen to be in France.

'52 LLB—Joe E. Gluecksman has become a partner in the law firm of Mindlin & Levy, 6399 Wilkshire Boulevard, Los Angeles 48, Cal.

A social note from Mexico indicates that Redding K. Rufe married Marta Kern, May 9, in Christ Church Episcopal, Mexico, D.F.

Whether you are a "conservative" investor or an "aggressive" investor, perhaps either Albert Fried, Jr., 32 North Wood Lane, Woodmere, or Tom Martin, 241 Shawnee Road, Ardmore, Pa., can be of assistance. Al is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and a partner in Albert Fried & Co., while Tom is secretary-treasurer of the Advisors Fund Management Corporation. Tom and his wife, Kathleen Rooney '56, are the proud parents of their first child, a girl, born April 3, and just to celebrate, they moved into a new home at 241 Shawnee Road April 6. Incidentally, Tom doesn't recommend this kind of timing if you can possibly avoid it.

A note from Robert B. Hardy, Jr., Cato, indicates that Bob is now in the general practice of law in Syracuse with Charles R. Rinaldo, doing both civil and criminal work and gaining lots of trial experience. Among other clients, Bob says they represent Coach Paul Seymour of the Syracuse Nationals, and Carmen Basilio. Though he is still a bachelor, Bob optimistically notes that he is waiting until he makes his first million before he gets married, which, he adds, shouldn't be too long now.

Stephen J. Tauber, c/o Drazin, 229 Murray Street, Ottawa 2, Ontario, Canada, reports that early in May he introduced members of the Ottawa Folk Dance Society to the pleasures of the Syracuse Annual Folk Festival and took part in that group's demonstration of Irish dances. Stephen says he missed the Cornell Folk Dancers, who used to put on such stirring performances, but he did run into Milton Levy, who was East on vacation from White Sands Proving Ground, and Bunny Schiffer Hillman, who is busy raising a family and helping her husband with their bookstore in Cambridge, Mass. Stephen also reported that he had recently received a postcard from Al

Kogan, who at the time was either in or around Lod Sde Teufa, i.e. Lydda Airfield, while on a three-week vacation in Israel.

Locally, we had a good visit in mid-May with Dave MacDonald, a graduate of the University of Michigan law school in 1955 who is now with the law firm of Kirkland, Ellis, Hodson, Chaffetz & Masters, Prudential Plaza, Chicago 1, Ill. Dave devotes most of his time to anti-trust matters, and he finds the work quite interesting. Also through town early last month was Al Rose, Tremont Columbia Motel, Knox Abbott Drive, Cayce, S.C. Al's visit was an abbreviated one since he had only a two-hour layover between planes while enroute home to his wife and daughter and the motel he manages.

We hope that a number of you will drop us a card or a letter regarding your vacation plans, trips, job advancements, family additions, et al, and that any of you who find yourselves in the Washington area during the summer will look us up. Incidentally, as of June 12, our new address will be 4506 Amherst Lane, Bethesda, Md. The move represents a (1) transition from an apartment to a house, and (2) an exodus out of Virginia, or Byrdland, as some quaintly term it, back to Maryland.

Daily between Salem and Annisquam, Mass., shuttles a tiny one-cylinder Isetta. Inside the "bug" is not a Martian searching for his leader. Instead, it's a Yankee from Sweden, Ingvar E. "Swede" Tornberg, commuting from his Cape Ann estate to his inland industrial empire. Swede is in the plastics business. To promote company sales during the recent hoola-hoop craze, Tornberg took up the sport himself, winding up as hoola-hoop champion of eastern New England. He credits his hoola-ing success to his PT training under "Speed" Wilson. During the current lull in hooping, Swede has converted his industrial operations to manufacture of the plastic film which your cleaner uses to cover your clothes. On the side Ingvar also designs plastic-making machinery. But the end of the business day brings no rest for our Scandanavian Classmate. At home—which he built by his own hand on a rocky New England plot—Swede breeds French poodles and caters to the whims of his two-year-old heir, Kjell Gustaf (Gus). The Tornberg estate is at Rockholm Road, Annisquam. The lady of the manor is the former Nancy Martin '56. When last seen, Swede was about to start blasting out rocks to make space for another addition to his house.

The Rev. John P. Bartholomew, 108 Charles Drive, Bryn Mawr, Pa., was ordained to the Sacred Priesthood (Episcopal) by the Bishop of Pennsylvania in the Church of the Good Samaritan, Paoli, Pa., last November. Bart is now curate at the Church of the Redeemer in Bryn Mawr. His brother is Robert L. Bartholomew '41. Roy F. Hudson, PhD '53, who teaches at Modesto (Cal.) Junior College, has been working this year on the California gifted child project. This is a pilot study to attempt to discover better methods of handling the gifted child in the State's educational program. Robert M. Wood, PhD '53, 530 Swarthmore Avenue, Pacific Palisades, Cal., is chief of thermodynamics section, missiles and space systems engineering, Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Cal. His section is responsible for the thermal design and integrity of all Douglas missiles.

Gilbert H. Simpkins, LLB '53, is with American Brake Shoe Co., 530 Fifth Avenue, New York City. His home is 105 Cooper Drive, New Rochelle. Bernard and Joyce West have a daughter, Stacy Ellen, born last November 25. Bob Adams has recently joined the real estate firm of Cross & Brown, 270 Madison Avenue, New York City. Walt and Joan Knauss can now be reached in care of Therm, Inc., Ithaca. Chuck and Gretchen Berlinghof live at 303 Cinema Drive, Johnstown, Pa. Chuck is with Bethlehem Steel. Don Dickason has moved to 2609 Bosworth Drive, Fort Wayne, Ind. He is a buyer for McMillen Feed Mills Division of Central Soya Co. William A. Harvey lives at 430 N. State Street, Greenfield, Ind.

'54 MS—John N. Ukegbu, foreign service officer of the Federation of Nigeria (assistant secretary, education division, external affairs branch), at Nigeria Liaison Office, 506 DuPont Circle Building, Washington, D.C., will leave for France in late July for a four-month course in French and then home on leave. He is one of the future foreign service officers of Nigeria, which will be independent October 1, 1960, in training in this country. He is married to the former Angela E. Utoth of Nigeria and they have a son, born last November 3.

We are just about going to make it through this year "newswise" as you will see from the length of this column. The last two weeks saw a new low of correspondence as we received one letter from the Class with some news for all you other non-writers. That was from Ron Bush and he was able to tell of running into Dave Montague, Tom Sanford, and Don Ferris. Ron is a diving and salvage officer aboard the ocean-going tug "Cree." He graduated from the Navy Deep Sea Diving School in Washington, D.C. in 1957. He just recently returned from a trip to Samoa where he was on temporary duty status aboard the "Current," a salvage vessel. His present duty aboard the "Cree" calls for a West Pacific tour this summer.

A postcard (as requested) from Dwight Emanuelson tells of his approaching association with the Merrill, Lynch, etc., office in St. Petersburg as an account executive, after having "finally" finished the two-year training program. He looks upon it as a great opportunity in light of the increasing development of the area. Dwight hopes that he and his wife Nancy will be making it back, though, for that big Fifth Reunion next June.

A note from Richard Kurtz informs us of his recent engagement to Perry Ann Hugill of Bronxville. Dick is a salesman for Bucyrus-Erie in the international division. Another note from Gordie White tells of his return from a ten-day tour of six private nuclear electric plants throughout the country. He has been most recently covering the McClellan rackets committee, with "screaming headlines in the Chicago American."

Heard of a few '55ers back in town over Spring Week End, but we only managed to run into one of them, Joe Katz, who was chaperoning with his wife's assistance at the new AEPi house. Joe is the assistant to the president of an electronics firm on Long Island. We reminisced about our "old Army days" as the various floats in the Spring Day Parade went by. Also back, although we didn't get to see him, was Bob Malatesta on a two-day leave of absence from med school.

After having referred earlier to the engagement of Jim Brackbill, we are now happy to announce the news of his June wedding to Joan Russell in New Hope, Pa.

Local news: Rog Rothballer will be working in Buffalo following a trip to the West Coast upon his graduation from the BPA School this June. Ken Mason will be clerking for a lawyer down Jersey way again this summer, but he will be staying around for a few days in hopes of a good off-year turnout for Reunion days here. By the way, I'll be working in a law office at 14 Wall Street this summer and hope to catch up to all of you "city fellers" who have been holding out on the news.

Well, that ties it up for the time being. This issue makes it eleven straight for us, but I am going to have to let you all down soon unless I get some news. Have a good summer. We'll be at the same address next year, so just keep writing.

'55 LLB—Thomas B. Whitley of 1564-B Catasauqua Road, Bethlehem, Pa., has joined the real estate legal staff of Bethlehem Steel Corp.

'55 Women: Tay Fehr Miller
Penzel Apts. A-32
Upper Darby, Pa.

A recent bride is Julia Scott. May 16, she was married to Captain Morton Richard Maser, USAF. Since studying on a Fulbright grant at l'Institute d'Urbanism in Paris, Julie has been working for the architectural firm of Perkins & Will. The bridegroom is a graduate of University of Pennsylvania and its college of medicine. The couple will reside in Wiesbaden, Germany, where Captain Maser is stationed. It sounds like the perfect place for a honeymoon.

Nancy (Fraser) Leddy had a baby last November. She and her husband, Frank, still live in Mount Vernon, at 166 Pearsall Drive, Apt. 6-C. And Joan (Reider) Frischman reports the birth of a little girl, Nancy Jane, last summer. She lives in Yonkers, at 130 Ravine Ave. Rudy (Clarke) Hawkins and her husband, Ben, report that a new baby boy, Bruce Frederick, is now on display at Hawkins Farm, Benson, Vt. Rudy also says: "Ben and I truly enjoy the year-round advantages of rural life in Vermont. Haven't planned the family well for winter skiing (Bruce joined 14-month-old Tim) so we water-ski instead on Lake Champlain three miles away. We have plenty of good camping sites on our 800 acres, and there are several good, small swimming lakes of the cold and clear variety close by, so the welcome mat is always out to '55ers." And that's a mighty tempting invitation!

Carol Sugar Colbert writes of an interesting and rather hectic existence. Since September, her husband, Chuck '53, has been in business for himself as a manufacturers' representative, selling electrical industrial equipment. Since he has been working from home, Carol says she has been kept busy as secretary-general manager, plus housekeeper and mother of son Paul, now 21 months. In March they bought a house "with lots of room and a huge yard fine for entertaining visiting Cornellians." (Another open invitation! A couple more, and we can go party-hopping.) So if you're traveling through University Heights, Ohio, don't forget to stop at 14461 E. Carroll Blvd. But until August, you will still find the clan at 3041 Livingston, Cleveland 20. Oh yes, April 12, Jeremy Stephen was born. "The night before Jerry was born, Chuck held his own Cornell Reunion here. Jerry Lamarkin '53 came in from Youngstown, Dave Rossin '53 was here from Chicago, where he's working at the Argonne Laboratories on atomic reactor shielding, and Gary Siegel '52 was here, too." Carol often sees Eva Konig Ray who is kept quite busy with her four children. She and husband Ed live at 4020 Ardmore, Cleveland 9, Ohio. And Phyllis (Birnholtz) Melnick, 3742 Concord Dr., Cleveland 22, Ohio, had a little girl, Laura, in April.

And a few words from Mrs. Jocelyn Proctor Baum alias Mrs. David Baum alias Dr. Jocelyn P. Baum. She suggests you take your choice. "Have been leading a happy but hectic double existence from Mrs. to MD and back again with but a twirl of a stethoscope or a flip of a frying pan. July 31, 1958, I married Dr. David Baum, chief resident in Pediatrics at the New York Hospital—Cornell University Medical Center. David has a Dartmouth AB, but didn't manage to escape completely. His MD was properly bestowed by Cornell in 1955. With luck and a friendly nod from the Cornell hierarchy, June 3, I, too, will become Dr. Baum. Then we can really confuse people, especially since pediatrics is my goal also. After all, what choice did I have: my erstwhile mate staunchly maintains he married me only so that I could answer his night calls! This July we're off to Baltimore for an internship, fellowship, and etc., etc. Our address will be 821 N. Broadway, Baltimore 5, Md."

... a hand in things to come

Reaching for the moon

Only a dream yesterday... reality today

Who dares call anything impossible today? Not when scientists have created rockets and missiles that bring the moon within our reach.

Union Carbide research in fascinating new materials has helped take the attack on space out of the realm of science fiction. Such research has developed super-alloys to withstand the forces of launching and flight . . . liquid oxygen to fire the mighty thrust into space . . . and components for solid fuels that burn in an airless universe. And research is now leading the way to new plastics for nose cones and new batteries and other energizers for instrumentation.

With the same compelling search for knowledge that has brought us so close to space travel, the scientists of Union Carbide are constantly developing new substances that make possible a host of useful things for our everyday life. Today's work-saving detergents, miracle fibers, and quick-drying paints and lacquers are only the beginning of an endless stream of products that will enrich the world tomorrow.

Learn about the exciting work going on now in carbons, chemicals, gases, metals, plastics, and nuclear energy. Write for "Products and Processes" Booklet C, Union Carbide Corporation, 30 East 42nd St., New York 17, N.Y. In Canada, Union Carbide Canada Limited, Toronto.
