New Service to Help Students Get Most Benefit From Work Here

TO ASSIST STUDENTS better to achieve their maximum potential in college, the University has established an Educational & Vocational Guidance Service. With headquarters in Stone Hall directed by Professor Howard G. Andrus, PhD '51, the new organization will coordinate the work in vocational guidance with that of the University Testing Service and the Reading Clinic. It will work closely with advisers and guidance people in the various Colleges and Schools and in the office of the Deans of Men & Women. Professor Andrus since 1948 has been Director of the Educational Placement Bureau. The number of students who have gotten help in their choice of courses and determining their educational aims is steadily increasing; it is estimated that this year about one in twenty of the more than 10,000 students here will need some measure of vocational guidance.

To Learn To Study

A principal need is to correct the hit-or-miss study habits developed in high school to enable students to meet the higher standards that college requires.

According to Professor Walter J. Pauk, PhD '55, Education, Director of the University's Reading Improvement Program, who will work closely with the new service, many students fail in college simply because they have never learned to read rapidly and retentively. He has just completed a six-year study of some 2500 students. A handbook of study tips for students which he compiled as a result of the study will be published next spring.

To Meet Individuals' Problems

One of the first tasks of the new Service will be to set up a flexible program for correcting the problems of individual students. In its role as central office and clearing house for vocational-educational guidance on the Campus, the service will interview students referred to it by vocational advisers in the Colleges and Schools. It will offer these students guidance, utilizing whatever testing facilities and results are of value for each individual. The present College and School Faculties and staffs will continue to be of vital importance in the coordinated program. The Service also plans to determine, through research and surveys, the frequency of the various causes of poor marks. It will make comparison studies with other universities and colleges.

In addition to Professor Pauk, the Vocational & Educational Guidance Service will work closely with Dean Frederick H. Stutz '35 of the School of Education; Dean of Men Frank C. Baldwin '22; Professor Blanchard L. Rideout, PhD '36, Director of the Division of Unclassified Students; Professor John P. Hertel '34 of the Resident Instruction Office in the College of Agriculture; Professor Marvin D. Glock, Director of the University Testing & Service Bureau; Associate Dean Rollin L. Perry, MSinEd '47, of the College of Arts & Sciences; Donald H. Moyer, Director of Student Personnel, College of Engineering; and Dr. C. Douglas Darling, Clinical & Preventive Medicine.

Enrollment Drops Slightly

THIRTEEN FEWER students are enrolled in the University than last fall. Registrar Walter A. Snickenberger reports 11,171 students October 9, as compared with 11,184 at the same time last year. There are 122 fewer undergraduates than last year and the Graduate School has increased by 139 students. The following

New Housing for Students—Dormitory at left will be erected near Clara Dickson Hall for 480 undergraduate women. At right is an apartment unit of a group to be built on Pleasant Grove Road above Forest Home. They will comprise 198 two-bedroom apartments and 48 one-bedroom apartments for students. This new construction, estimated to cost $6,600,000, will be financed through the State Dormitory Authority and will be self-liquidating. It is expected to start next spring. Architects are the firms of Searle H. von Storch '23 & Burkavage of Waverly, Pa. and James P. Beardsley '43 & Wallace P. Beardsley, Jr. '46 of Auburn.

College of Engineering has 119 fewer students than last fall. Small increases are shown in Architecture, Home Economics, Hotel Administration, Veterinary, and the Unclassified Division. Agriculture, Arts & Sciences, Industrial & Labor Relations, Business & Public Administration, and the Law School have slightly fewer students. The Medical College has two less students than last fall and the Nursing School, three more.

Five More Freshmen Come

Freshman Class of '63 numbers 2152, one more man and four more women than a year ago. Arts & Sciences has 723 Freshmen, 18 more than last fall; Engineering, 518 (13 less); Agriculture, 491 (one less); Home Economics, 193 (3 more); Hotel Administration, 96 (6 more); Industrial & Labor Relations, 66 (one less); Architecture, 65 (7 less).

Forty-three more students entered the Graduate School than last fall, making 679 new students; 90 entered the Law School, (28 more); 61 entered the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration (5 fewer); and 21 entered the Veterinary College, 11 less than last year. Total number of new students in Ithaca is 3163, forty-six more than last fall.

Pre-professional Students Need Help

EDITOR: I'd like to bring out into the open for frank discussion, and perhaps for solution, a touchy subject which needs remedial action by the University authorities. I refer to those students who take pre-medical and pre-veterinary courses whose schooling is such that if they fail to gain admission to the professional schools, they are left out in the cold and at sea without compass or rudder. For such students, their stay at Cornell, or at any university, has been, for all practical purposes, a complete waste of time, often associated with financial hardships for their parents. That this problem is serious and needs solution is shown by the fact that several universities have recognized it and have inaugurated curricula wherewith they hope to reduce the number of students who would find themselves in this predicament. Johns Hopkins is one of the outstanding institutions in this respect.

It seems to me that before a student be permitted to start a pre-medical or pre-veterinary course, a battery of definitive psychological and aptitude tests should be performed and native ability tests given. Once accepted, he should get academic and technical courses concurrently. If during the early stages, say the first two years, the student does not measure up to the required standards, he should be told in simple but strong terms that he is not medical or veterinary material; that he should change his course of study so he may gain the most possible from his college years.

The pre-veterinary student is in a worse situation than the pre-medical student. Most veterinary colleges are State schools with definite preference for students from their States. The pre-medical student is not similarly hamstrung. At Cornell, with the Veterinary College on the Campus, the Johns Hopkins plan can be tried rather easily. Even though the Medical College is in New York City, a sufficiency of medical courses commensurate with the student's training could be given on the Campus. The details of the operation are secondary. If the University launches a plan like that of Johns Hopkins, the minutiae are soluble.

I've had occasion to speak to a number of pre-vets who got the BA or BS at Cornell but did not get into a veterinary school anywhere. To them, Cornell is not the "Mater" of Alma Mater; it represents waste, cruelty, and machine-schooling. One cannot dispute the fact that, even if the University wanted, there is not enough room for every qualified student to be admitted to the Medical College in New York. But the University can arrange with other medical schools to insure a worthy student's admission to a good school.

This is a serious problem. It is touchy, to say the least. But to sweep it under the carpet is not the solution. Surely the University can, with diligence, find a solution. A solution is sorely needed.

—MORRIS CHAMURICH '26, M.D.

The College of Arts & Sciences has a special advisory committee of Faculty members for pre-medical students and a similar committee in the College of Agriculture for pre-veterinary students is doubled in number this year, from two to four members. We are told that much time and effort is spent with aspiring students in both Colleges to assure that they are qualified to pursue professional training; and that those who are found not to have good chances for admission to a professional school are strongly advised to make other plans and alter their courses accordingly. It seems, however, that some students so advised cannot be persuaded and disregard the warnings, with consequences such as Dr. Chamurich deplors. It is suggested by some of the Faculty members we consulted that the new University program for educational & vocational guidance, described elsewhere in this issue, may be especially helpful to such students.—Ed.

Let's Revive Penn Game!

This "open letter" was addressed to the presidents of the alumni associations of Cornell & University of Pennsylvania after last year's game in Philadelphia:

If the traditional Thanksgiving Day Cornell-Pennsylvania football series, going back to 1893, is to continue, something has to be done by somebody. Otherwise, we might as well play the game on the Saturday before Thanksgiving and alternate it between Philadelphia and Ithaca, as we do all other Ivy League contests.

Last Thanksgiving Day, there were less than 20,000 people at Franklin Field. The Cornell side, although it held fewer people than the Pennsylvania stands, seemed to make more noise than the Pennsylvania side. I was surprised at the sparse cheering by the Pennsylvania undergraduates, even though their team lost.

This game of eminent rivals is an exhibition of grand football. By late November, both teams have had a full season of experience behind them, and the twelve days of no-contest permits each player to get into tiptop shape. You are seeing superlative Ivy League football when you view this game. In the opinion of many old-timers, it must be saved. Traditionally, Harvard and Yale play their last games together, as do Princeton and Dartmouth. We of Cornell, I am sure, want to play our last game every year with Pennsylvania.

How well do I remember standing five deep at the bar of the Bellevue, greeting old friends and not finding time for lunch before rushing out to the game. During the last decade Clarence B. Kugler, Jr. '03 has, by sheer enthusiasm, gotten thirty old-timers to come to Philadelphia the afternoon before and have a continuous rally, lasting until the next evening. Nowadays, only a handful of old-timers come to the Warwick before the game and hardly any afterwards.

What the Pennsylvania men do before and after the game I do not know. For several years in the '40's I was invited to Philadelphia by several Pennsylvania alumni of the 1912 class. We saw the game from the upper stand in the bend and then were invited to cocktail parties in and around Philadelphia. This was most pleasant.

If you think the game and its traditions worth saving, what do you think of the following:

1. In the latter part of October, you, as presidents of your Alumni Associations, write to the Clubs within 100 miles of Philadelphia suggesting they make up parties to come to the game. Suggest coming the night before to put up at headquarters hotels, to arrange joint concerts or smokers, etc. Then advertise separate buffet luncheons before the game and separate get-togethers after the game. At the latter, have some members of the team appear and the head coach say a few words.

Health Bulletin on a Great Cornellian

2. Urge better attendance by undergraduates. This applies more to Pennsylvania than Cornell, as the boys at the latter generally stay in Ithaca for the holiday or go home for a short vacation.

3. Have your Athletic Association prepare unbiased copy for the newspapers in the vicinity of Philadelphia for three weeks before the game. My Baltimore papers have articles about teams such as Oklahoma, Auburn, and Pitt, and even Slippery Rock, but little about Pennsylvania and Cornell.

4. Get leaders of the Classes from 1935 to 1955 to take a personal interest in the game so as to organize their Classmates for attendance.

5. Maybe we should enlist co-eds to take an interest. This, however, might bring on bare-legged cheer leaders, which God forbid!

Well, I'll be there next year, and I hope there are more than the 19,116 people who saw the game last Thanksgiving Day. Anything I can do to help, I will be glad to do.

To Move Minns Garden

LUA A. MINNS '14 MEMORIAL GARDEN will bloom next spring in a new location being prepared for it on Tower Road in front of the Plant Science Building. There its colorful annuals and perennials will be enclosed in a yew hedge with a shaded terrace for visitors. The new garden was designed by Professors Robert J. Scannell and Robert E. Lee '40, Floriculture, and Professor Lee will supervise its planting.

Miss Minns started the garden on its present site at the corner of Tower Road and Garden Avenue in 1915 as a practice garden for her students in herbaceous plants. After her death in 1935, with the interest of Professor Bristow Adams, Extension, Mrs. Livingston Farrand, and others, Sigma Delta Epsilon, the Floriculture Department, and the Garden Club of Ithaca raised funds to place a bronze sundial there, inscribed in her memory.

Last fall, the corner site of the garden was designated by the Board of Trustees as the location for a proposed building for the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration when it should be built.

HISTORIANS may argue in the future about which member of my Class at Cornell was most influential in the world. But I believe there can be no argument as to which of us was the most widely-traveled or the bravest. The holder of those titles is still accumulating proof of exceptional courage: she is Margaret Bourke-White, who, after graduating here in 1927, went on to become the greatest woman war correspondent and news photographer in history.

Few newspeople, male or female, have had a more clairvoyant sense of where things are going to happen or a more fearless determination to get there. I have often thought that if the Angel Gabriel blows the last trump in our time, the first to respond will be Peg Bourke-White, with a Leica camera correctly filtered to prevent his radiance from light-striking the film.

Covers World News Events

In China, she hopped into a bombing fast enough to snap a baby sitting in the rubble and still howling from the first fright of an explosion: one of the most famous Life photos. She was in the blitz on Moscow. She was torpedoed in transit in the same war. She got into Dachau so closely on General George Patton's heels that it was her photos of the dreadful dead which revealed to the world the full horror of the Nazi concentration camps. With her, great pictures and great stories have warranted any amount of personal risk.

That's been true ever since I first met her on the Quadrangle in October, 1926. (She spent only her Senior year here, but that sufficed to leave an indelible mark on all of us who knew her.) To go about with Peg stimulated you and put you in peril of life and limb. Cornellians who saw the chronological exhibit of her pictures at the Andrew D. White Museum in 1957 may remember the wondrous shot she took of Cayuga Lake through the belfry aperture of the Library Tower. I was with her in a teetering stance above the stair-well when she got that one, and the memory of it still pervades my nightmares.

Bravery in Ill Health

But Peg's dare-deviltry, great as it is, doesn't match the bravery of her recent years. Last June, Life published an article by Margaret Bourke-White telling of her struggle against Parkinson's disease, one of the most terrible afflictions of mankind. This ailment, long thought incurable, disrupts its victim's nervous coordination, even affecting speech and normal facial expression, to say nothing of locomotion or manual dexterity. To one as active as Peg, so debilitating a disease must have been especially cruel.

Fortunately, an operation developed by Dr. Irving Cooper can now arrest this disease and the patient, by unremitting patience and a rigorous application of what Gene Fowler called the Eleventh Commandment ("Thou Shalt Not Quit") can gradually restore his lost aptitudes with physical therapy. No one knows better how to observe the Eleventh Commandment than Peg. I have just received a letter from her, and since many alumni probably read the Life account of her gallant battle, I shall pass along some of its sequel.

She Cites Advantages

She writes: "As for my health, I am in wonderful shape. I can do things I never dreamed of doing before; this is the unheralded side-effect of all therapeutic exercises. I can walk on all fours like a horse; I can walk with that sloping cellar-door lean like a fashion model; I can do back shoulder-rolls. My hair is growing fast, and soon I shall look less like Joan of Arc, and more like—you'll have to help me out here; who's a nice curly-headed female saint? Above and beyond the somersaults, I am making a wonderful recovery. I am as certain as I can be that I am never going to have to consider that second operation. I don't see how anything could creep in with all the exercises I am doing and all the happiness I feel."

On top of which, she is writing her autobiography. This is good news. As I remarked in a radio broadcast after reading her article, surely the absolute in valor deserves its reward.

Foreign Officials Visit

NINETEEN officers of European unions, employers' groups, and government agencies came to the Campus last month for a week's study of the organization, training programs, and activities of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. The visitors, all members of the European Productivity Agency mission, are spending two months in the United States studying industrial relations institutes at three American universities: Cornell, Rutgers, and Illinois. The mission is sponsored by the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, originally set up to bring together countries receiving Marshall Plan aid.

THE FACULTY

University Professor Dexter Perkins, American Civilization, Emeritus, spoke on "The Satisfaction of a Teacher of History" at the annual meeting of the American Council on Education, in Washington, D.C., October 8-9. He is chairman of a committee on graduate education of the American Historical Association which has been given a grant by Carnegie Corp. to study the problem of graduate education, with particular reference to teaching.

Another honor has come to Professor Hans A. Bethe, Physics & Nuclear Studies, noted theoretical physicist, who in 1938 developed the important theory that the carbon-nitrogen cycle is instrumental in the sun's energy production. The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, Pa., conferred on him its highest award, the Franklin Medal, at a dinner, October 21, where, as the featured speaker, Professor Bethe gave an address on fundamental particles. His Medal citation reads: "For his many profound investigations which have contributed significantly to our understanding of the physical universe from nuclei of atoms to the interior of the stars." Among Professor Bethe's contributions is his calculation, with Professor Heitler in 1934, of the creation of pairs of positrons and electrons in the electric field of a nucleus by gamma rays and related phenomena. These processes occur in the interactions of cosmic rays with the atmosphere. Professor Bethe was the first to make a precise quantum mechanical calculation of the stopping power of matter for fast charged particles and to explain the electromagnetic shift of hydrogen energy levels. During World War II, he headed the Theoretical Physics Division at Los Alamos. He has been a consultant to the US Atomic Energy Commission since 1947 and a member of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee since 1946.

Professor Michel G. Malti, PhD '27, Electrical Engineering, has been elected a Fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. One of twenty-six members to be given the new grade, he was honored for his contribution to the field "through his teaching and publications."

Vera A. Caulum, MS '36, is now State Leader of Home Demonstration Agents and coordinator of Home Economics Extension. She succeeded Mrs. Orrilla W. Butts, who retired July 31. After serving as home demonstration agent in Lewis, Oswego, and Albany Counties, Miss Caulum joined the State Leader's office in 1945 to supervise home demonstration agents working with the State Emergency Food Commission. She was named Assistant State Leader in 1946 and Associate in 1954. She received the BS in 1929 at Iowa State College.

Professor Henry A. Guerlac '32, History of Science, was elected president of the International Academy of the History of Science at the organization's Ninth International Congress at Barcelona and Madrid, Spain, September 1-7. Serving a second term as president of the American History of Science Society, he was chairman of the eighteen-man American delegation to the Congress, presented a paper, presided over one of its sectional groups, and made the presentation of the American Society's most coveted award, the George Sarton Medal. The Academy voted that its Tenth International Congress be held at Cornell in 1962; for the first time in the Western Hemisphere. The Academy was founded in 1929 to recognize outstanding scholars in the history of science.

A reception at their home in Forest Home, September 13, celebrated the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Professor John C. McCurdy '12, Agricultural Engineering, Emeritus, and Mrs. McCurdy. They were married September 7, 1909, and Professor McCurdy taught at the University from 1907 until he retired in 1946. Their children are Mrs. Alfred H. Grommon (Helen McCurdy) '31, Colonel Leon H. McCurdy '34, USAF, Mrs. Milton R. Shaw (Ruth McCurdy) '37, and Mrs. John J. Jaffurs (Mary McCurdy). There are fourteen grandchildren.

Professor Laurence H. MacDaniels, PhD '17, Floriculture, Emeritus, won a blue ribbon for his entry of Lilium tsingtauense at the annual show of the North American Lily Society in Kennett Square, Pa. Professor George L. Slate, Pomology, at the Geneva Experiment Station, won seven ribbons for his lily blooms.

International award for outstanding work in poultry nutrition published in 1959 has been won by Professor Fredric W. Hill, PhD

'44, Animal Nutrition & Poultry Husbandry. The Poultry Association of Great Britain conferred on him the Newman Memorial Award consisting of a medal and fifty pounds Sterling. Entries were considered from Europe, the Soviet Union, Canada, and the United States.

Professors Charles E. Ramsey and Frank Alexander, Rural Sociology, have been elected to standing committees of the Rural Sociology Society, the former to the committee on research and the latter to the committee on extension. President-elect of the Society is Professor Macklin E. John, PhD '37, of Pennsylvania State University and the new vice-president is Professor Harold F. Kaufman, PhD '42, of Mississippi State University.

Home of Professor Arthur H. Nilson '48, Structural Engineering, and Mrs. Nilson (Doris Mitchell) '48 is pictured and described as the Five Star Home in the October issue of Better Homes & Gardens. The house at 211 West Remington Road in Cayuga Heights was designed and built by the Nilsons.

Katherine Spinney, former head librarian for Industrial Relations Counselors, New York City, is the new librarian for the School of Hotel Administration. She has also been librarian for the School of Industrial & Labor Relations and Canadian Industries, Ltd., Montreal. She is a graduate of Dalhousie University and received library training at McGill.

Allen, Jr. From left are Captain Maida Lambeth, graduate of University of Oklahoma and previously at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.; Major Henry J. Ebrey, 1943 graduate of US Military Academy, with the Master's in military geography from University of Illinois; Colonel Allen; Captain Charles V. Yarbrough, 1952 graduate of US Military Academy and previously on the faculty of the Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.; and Captain David F. Edwards, 1951 graduate of Trinity College, who comes from duty in Korea. Seven officers left this summer: Major Waldo L. Carbonell, to sail for Taiwan (Formosa) in August; Major Herbert W. Coburn, to attend Advanced Officer's School at Fort Monmouth, N.J.; Captain Robert A. Meese, to attend Advanced Officer's School at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.; Captain Anton F. Mayer, to attend Advanced Officer's School at Fort Sill, Okla.; Captain Harvey D. Williams, for an assignment in Europe; Captain Shirley R. Heinze, for the Women's Army Corps Center at Fort McClellan, Ala.; and Lieutenant Eddie L. Morris, to attend graduate school at Lehigh. Carney, Army ROTC

Football Luck Runs Out

THE FOOTBALL TEAM won three of its first four games and lost the fourth resoundingly. It came perilously close to losing the first three and had circumstances evolved just a little differently, it could have taken the one it lost.

The sensational 20-15 opening victory over Colgate, reported last issue, which came with just nineteen seconds to go, presumably had enough drama to last the season. But after the Varsity just squeaked by tough Lehigh, a fine Harvard team was shocked into torpor by a seventy-six-yard pass play, twenty-four seconds before the buzzer, which wiped out a 16-12 Harvard lead and gave Ezra's darlings of the Gods another victory, 20-16.

This Harvard blockbuster was achieved by the same play that stilettoed Colgate. It has a simple format. The quarterback, unprotected except for the line, fades and fakes a throw to two deep men on the left. The fullback hesitates as though preparing to block, but floats out and down to the right and is there to receive when the quarterback wheels, comes out of the fake, and throws to him. Of course, its effectiveness is due to a natural disbelief that one needing a TD would throw short with only seconds to go. Philip G. Taylor '60 was the heroic receiver in both the Colgate and Harvard games. Marcello A. Tino '61 threw the Colgate pass and David E. McKelvey '62 was the Harvard tosser.

Cornell 13, Lehigh 6

The Big Red had to hold on to beat Lehigh. Played on a beautiful October 3 afternoon before a crowd of about 9000, the game was made even more colorful by an additional 3600 high school Band Day performers. Sixty-eight bands combined for the pre-game and half-time shows.

As was true in later performances, Cornell's errors caused the team to get into trouble. Loss of the ball twice on fumbles, a pass interception, a wild pass from center, and a curious fourth-down call by the quarterback played sinister roles in this close call that should not have been close. The first part of this sentence also describes the reason for the sadder denouement of the Yale game.

Cornell had two good scoring marches of seventy and sixty-three yards in the second and third periods and at these times looked powerful. Lehigh was tough on defense, but except for a second-period scoring drive of fifty-three yards, it was unable to put two first downs together. It was always a threat, because the score was kept close by Cornell errors when they had the ball. Lehigh came near scoring in the first period when a Phil Taylor fumble was recovered on the 30 and the ball was toted to stop at the 12. A field goal try by Joe Posillico was blocked by Guard Warren E. Sundstrom '61.

Tino, who had his aberrations, engineered a seventy-yard drive for the first score. His twenty-one-yard pass to Slotback Lyman M. Beggs III '61 and his run of fifteen yards were the big gainers. He had another drive started and it was fourth and one yard to go on the 36. He essayed an incautious roll-out and was spilled for a ten-yard loss. A little later, the Red was rolling again when Taylor's fifteen-yard run to the 10 was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Penalty Leads to Score

It was a penalty against Lehigh, though, that gave Cornell its chance to score in the third period. Halfback Richard A. Nicoletti '60 was molested by a Lehigh defensive halfback on an attempted pass. This gave Cornell the ball on the 7 and George C. Telesh '62 took it over from the 1 on fourth down.

From then on, the Cornellians kept giving away the ball. Another lost fumble, this time by Daniel L. Bidwell '60; an errant pass from Bidwell; and a pass from Center Richard Lipinski '61 in a fourth-down punting situation that sailed over Bidwell's head made it Lehigh's ball on the 19. It was good that the Red defensive line was tough!

Cornell now leads the Lehigh series, 9-3-1. The next game will begin in 1963.

Cornell 20, Harvard 16

If Harvard partisans complain in your presence that the better team lost, they should be accorded courteous attention. No Cornell team ever won a game in less than the final two minutes, forty seconds (Dartmouth at Ithaca, 1948, 27-26) until the Colgate game of September 26. This one against Harvard in its last twenty-four seconds was even more electric than the Colgate stunner. There were five minutes and one second of prior possession and steady progression in the Colgate game. This win came in one play.

Cornell got the ball with thirty-four seconds remaining and the score 16-12 in favor of Harvard. Then came the big play. Sophomore Quarterback McKelvey rolled to the left, made innovations towards the Red shirts running toward the deep left sideline, but turned and uncorked a tremendous heave to Taylor who was ten yards away from any Harvard man. The pass went for twenty-six yards and Taylor scampered like a besieged greyhound the rest of the fifty yards. One solitary crimson jersey gave pursuit, but never menacingly. If he had threatened, Anthony A. Pascal '62 was there to deflect him.

Harvard heads went into their hands as the score was totaled up, 18-16. Cornell throats in the crowd of 15,000 screamed in amazed delight. It was almost the only time they had had a chance all day. McKelvey's pass to end John J. Sadusky '60 for 2 extra points was merely the icing on a surprise-party cake.

Early Game All Harvard's

The 1959 Harvard team is a tough one and an augury of much tougher Harvard teams in the years just ahead. It was difficult to penetrate. And there was a lost fumble, an interception, and generally disorganized play by the Cornellians to make the first half a bleak one.

Harvard went sixty-one yards in twelve plays to score in 9:46 of the second period. After recovering a Red fumble in the third period, it went thirty-five yards quickly for a second TD. And both times a 2-point margin was added: score, 16-0. In the third period, Cornell's second unit went seventy-five yards in nine plays for a score. The touchdown was a thirteen-yard pass play in which McKelvey ran left on an option and lofted a pass to Bidwell. It was 16-6, but Cornell hopes remained faint. Now Harvard changed from a gambling team under the guiding hand of debonair quarterback Charley Ravenel to a cautious stand-patter. Ravenel was an uneasy and inexperienced director of that type of operation. The new tactics slowed down the attack, but Cornell could get no place either.

Then came the break. A great fullback, Chet Boulris, fumbled the ball in mid-air and our alert Mr. Bidwell grabbed it and was downed on the Harvard 26. Tino threw to the ever-valiant Phil Taylor on first down for a TD and there were 7:11 to go; score, 16-12.

Cornell Line Holds

Harvard roared back now, seemingly aroused. A Rochester boy, Larry Repsher, ran thirty-three yards shortly after the kick-off and looked to be away. Beggs caught him, hauled him down on the Cornell 48. The Cornell line stiffened. Harvard had to kick, but the Red could not go and when a fourth-down desperation pass failed on the Crimson 25, it appeared that another score was inevitable. But the surprising and courageous Cornellians surrendered only one yard in the next four downs. On the succeeding play, McKelvey's beauty sailed into Taylor's outstretched, eager hands. And in the ten-second interval, the vanquished and the victors were wearing different uniforms.

That play was dreamed up for the 1958 Penn game. It was used twice in that game and one touchdown resulted. Passed from Thomas J. Skypeck '58 to guess who?—Phil Taylor. Twice more it was used, in the Colgate and Harvard games.

Yale 23, Cornell 0

There were no last-minute heroics in this game. By that time the game was so far out of reach that many of the 18,000 rain-soaked, morose customers had long gone from Schoellkopf.

In all the three preceding games, self-flagellation characterized the Cornell pattern of play. Make it as tough on us as possible, they seemed to say, and we'll pull it out. But this went too far in the Yale game! And the high-spirited Elis refused to let them recover. Charity has been one of the Red team's unwanted virtues this fall and it was right there warming the bass drum on this dismal Homecoming Day. But salvation was not to come.

Yale, thus completed four games unbeaten and unscored upon. But it certainly did not look the part in the first period of this game at Ithaca, October 17. Cornell made eight first downs to Yale's one in that period. The Red looked at least equal in the second period; but not after that.

Cornell drove to the 30 and then to the 28 in the first period. Yale got tough and stopped the drives. At the start of the second period, the first of the outright gifts came with a safety and 2 points for the guests from New Haven. Center Lipinski threw the ball over Bidwell's head on a punting situation and into the end zone where Bidwell was lucky to fall on it, for a Yale was scrambling for it too. Late in the period, as if there had not been enough of such things, Lipinski again whistled the ball out of Bidwell's reach and this time Bidwell fell on it on the Cornell 4. Yale Fullback Rich Winkler hit the line twice for only a yard. On the next play, versatile Quarterback Tom Singleton threw a wobbly but connected pass to Halfback Nick Kangas for the score, just fifty-five seconds before the end of the period.

History Repeats Itself

Starting the third period, Yale made a seventy-four-yard TD drive, aided by a fifteen-yard penalty and an eighteen-yard Singleton-to-Winkler pass. So it was 16-0. With young Dave McKelvey at the helm, the Red then made its most splendid foray since the first-period raids. It went for fifty yards and got to the 13, where the wet ball contributed to two poor McKelvey tosses and the strong Yale defense stopped the runners.

Yale got increasingly fiery and sure-handed after the early profligacies of the hosts. Its offense got going and its defense more adamant, most particularly the end play. Freeman, Riddle, and Hutcherson rendered innocuous the usually effective Cornell wide plays. McKelvey and Tino were so beset by the charging Yale forwards that they could do little effective throwing.

Yale has almost the same personnel as last year when it won no Ivy games. It is a more polished and aggressive unit this season. And it capitalized on opportunities when they came. Cornell is a team which gives them:

Both the Harvard and Yale games were broadcast by WCBS Radio as the Ivy League Game of the Week, as was the Cornell-Princeton game, October 24.

Other Sports

ONLY UNDEFEATED Cornell team this fall is the 150-pound football team. It defeated Penn, 20-0, at Philadelphia, October 9, and beat Princeton, 13-6, October 16, on Lower Alumni Field. It was the second time Cornell ever beat Princeton in lightweight football.

Ronald R. Levine '61, five-feet-six, scored early against Penn and Captain Michael H. Kaufman '60 made the extra point. This was set up by a Penn fumble on the opening kick-off which Cornell recovered on the 45. Penn never could essay a threat. Passing of Kaufman and Levine was the principal Red weapon. It accounted for 120 yards in twenty-one throws.

Princeton was more difficult. The lightweights were as charitable as their Varsity brethren at times and this almost lost them the game. They fumbled and lost the ball the first three times they got it. They even fumbled on the first Cornell touchdown, which came after a Tiger TD, but this time it was recovered by a Red shirt. Halfbacks Byron G. MacCalmon '62 and Robert E. Hastings '62 were the big gainers in a drive that went seventy yards to the 2. MacCalmon hit the line twice but still did not put it over. He tried again and fumbled and the ball went skittering over the goal line where J. Michael Duesing '62 fell on it. Score was now 7-6. MacCalmon picked off a Princeton pass in the third period and raced forty-seven yards to make it 13-6. Princeton reached the Cornell 8 after that, but was stopped.

Yale had a perfect day at Cornell, October 17, and only one of its victories was a narrow one, 7-6, in the freshman football game. Last year, our Freshmen lost at New Haven, 13-4. Yale was somewhat superior in a wild and woolly first half on Lower Alumni Field. Cornell dominated play the second half, but could put over only one score. James W. Lampkins, diminutive halfback from Buffalo, sparkled for the Red. He scored the only points on a four-yard dash in the fourth period. The Red line looked formidable at times and potentially strong for the future. It was big, but not as big as Yale's.

The Freshmen defeated Cortland State Teachers junior varsity, 35-0, on Lower Alumni Field, October 10.

The Varsity soccer team won only its 3-0 opener with Colgate. Cortland State Teachers defeated it, 5-2, at Cortland, September 30; Harvard did it, 2-1, at Cambridge, October 10; and Yale was unmerciful with an 8-0 shellacking, October 17, on Upper Alumni Field.

The Freshmen soccer team beat Colgate at Hamilton, 6-3, October 2, and Syracuse at Syracuse, 6-3, October 16. Ithaca College freshmen beat the Red, October 10 on its field, 4-2.

Varsity cross country team lost to Penn State, 28-37, at University Park, October 3. Eric P. Groon '62, Peter G. Slater '62, and John C. Munday, Jr. '62 were fifth, sixth, and seventh, respectively. October 10, Brown won a triangular meet at Cambridge and Harvard and Cornell tied for second. Brown had 18, Harvard and Cornell 51. And on October 17, Yale had a perfect 15-40 score against the Red on the Moakley Course. Slater, in sixth place, was first Cornell finisher.

The Freshmen did somewhat better. They were beaten narrowly by Penn State, 27-28, and tied Brown at 33 with Harvard at 58 in the Cambridge triangular race. Allan W. Chapman of Huntington won both races.

No Cornell team could win on Homecoming Day. Fairfield, Conn. Polo Club beat the Cornell Varsity, 17-8, in the Riding Hall, October 17. Willard I. Emerson, Jr. '51 played with the visitors, following the example of his father, Willard I. Emerson '19, and he scored 6 points.

Name Library for Olin '13

GRANT of $100,000 has come to the University from the James Foundation of New York for the Research Library that is being built at the south side of the Quadrangle. This brings the total gifts for the building to $4,900,000 toward the estimated cost of $5,600,000. Completion is scheduled for late 1960.

The James Foundation was established in 1941 by the will of Arthur Curtiss James for support of charitable, religious, and educational organizations.

By action of the University Board of Trustees, October 17, the new building is named the John M. Olin Library. Trustee John Olin '13 in January, 1957, gave the starting gift of $3,000,000 for this building. It was the fourth large gift from his family to the University. His father, the late Trustee Franklin W. Olin '85, gave Olin Hall of Chemical Engineering in 1941 in memory of his eldest son, the late Franklin W. Olin, Jr. '12. In 1954, the Olin Foundation gave the Medical College dormitory, F. W. Olin Hall; and in 1956 his brother, Spencer T. Olin '21, who is now a Trustee, gave $2,000,000 for Hollister Hall for the School of Civil Engineering, in memory of their father.

John Olin is chairman of the board of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. and heads and is a director of numerous corporations and banks. He is a director of the Washington University Corporation and a trustee of Johns Hopkins, National Industrial Conference Board, and Midwest Research Institute. He has been a member of the University Board of Trustees since March, 1954, and is vice-chairman of the Board investment committee. He received the BChem in 1913; is a member of Kappa Sigma, Alpha Chi Sigma, and Sigma Xi.

Memorial to Stein '42

ENDOWMENT to purchase books for the University Library has been established as a memorial to the late William P. Stein '42 by his family and friends. They gave the University $1653, the income to be used for books on Lincoln and the Civil War.

Stein died in June, 1958. He was vice-president of Bar-Ray Products, Inc. of Brooklyn, manufacturers of x-ray equipment. He received the AB in 1942; was a member of the Sun board and of Beta Sigma Rho. Irwin S. Stein '38 is his brother.

Represent University

ACADEMIC DELEGATE at the inauguration of Harvey M. Rice as president of Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn., October 2, was Manuel J. Ferreira '53 of Minneapolis.

Esther C. Dunn '13 of Northampton, Mass. represented Cornell at the inauguration of Thomas C. Mendenhall as president of Smith College in Northampton, October 15. Miss Dunn retired last June as professor of English and literature at Smith. She was a member of the faculty there for thirty-six years.

Cornell delegate at the inauguration of Robert L. Mills as president of Georgetown College in Georgetown, Ky., October 16, was John H. Bondurant, PhD '43, professor of agricultural economics at University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Colonel William H. Mills '28, manager of the Walla Walla (Wash.) County Airport, represented the University at the inauguration of Louis B. Perry as president of Whitman College in Walla Walla, October 18.

Representing the University at the inauguration of James L. Jarrett as president of Western Washington College of Education in Bellingham, October 29 & 30, was Edgar A. Doll '12, consulting psychologist for the Bellingham public schools.

Hickey '49, regional vice-president, New England branch; Stephen D. Teetor '43, president; William F. Gratz '53, recording secretary; Paul O. Gunsalus '24, executive vice-president; Donald D. Haude '49, secretary-treasurer; and Ladimir R. Zeman '16, regional vice-president, Cleveland branch.

C. Hadley Smith

John H. McMinn '24 of Delaware, Ohio, was the Cornell delegate at the inauguration of David A. Lockmiller as president of Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, October 30.

Academic delegate at the inauguration of Arthur L. Knoblauch as president of Western Illinois University in Macomb, November 6, will be Millard F. Bingham III '27 of Springfield, Ill.

November 9, Whitford S. Wyman '28 of Toronto, Ontario, will represent Cornell at the inauguration of Francois C. A. Jeanneret as chancellor of University of Toronto.

Manlius School Trustees

TWO ALUMNI, Robert E. Kilian '41 and William H. Spector '43, have joined the board of trustees of the Manlius School, a military preparatory school near Syracuse. Kilian was elected to the board and Spector serves ex-officio as president of the Manlius Alumni Association.

Kilian, who graduated from Manlius in 1937, lives in West Hartford, Conn. and is manager of Kilian Steel Ball Corp. in Hartford and vice-president of Kilian Manufacturing Corp. in Syracuse. Spector, a 1939 graduate, is an executive of Spector Genesee Motor Sales, Inc. in Syracuse.

More Teachers Retire

BOARD OF TRUSTEES at its October meeting conferred Emeritus rank upon two more Faculty members who retired during the summer. They are Professors John N. Tilton '13, Architecture, who retired June 30, and Ferdinand H. Butt, PhD '34, Entomology, who retired August 15.

Professor Tilton received the BArch in 1913 and the MArch in 1914 at Cornell. His father was the late John N. Tilton, BArch '80, and Professor Tilton was the first son of a Cornellian architect to enter the College. In 1914, he joined the firm of Marshall & Fox of Chicago; was an officer in the Army Air Corps for two years; and in 1926, became a partner in Armstrong, Furst & Tilton of Chicago, which in 1952 changed its name to Furst & Tilton. Professor Tilton is especially noted for his work on churches, having designed Emmanuel Church in La Grange, Ill., Seabury Western Theological Seminary Group in Evanston, Ill., and Trinity Church in Reno, Nev. He also designed the Bernard Sunny Gymnasium and the Graduate School of Education building at University of Chicago. He joined the Architecture Faculty here in 1932 as assistant professor; became professor in 1936; was acting Dean of the College in 1937-38 and Assistant Dean from 1938-40. Last year, he was awarded a Citation of Excellence in Teaching by the Association of Collegiate Schools in Architecture. He is a member of American Institute of Architects, New York State Association of Architects, and Tau Beta Pi.

Professor Butt is one of the few entomologists in the world who specialize in morphology (the function of anatomical parts) of invertebrates, especially insects. He has concentrated particularly on embryology, the morphology of the embryo, and is considered an authority in this field. His publications, for which he does the scientific illustrations, include a book, Entomology of Insects and Myriapods, written with Professor Oskar A. Johannsen, PhD '04, Entomology, Emeritus; four memoirs on morphology and embryology of invertebrates; and many papers, published both in this country and in England, on the evolution of invertebrates. A graduate of University of Washington, where he received the AB in 1923 and MA in 1925, Professor Butt came to the University in 1929 as a graduate assistant in Entomology. He was instructor from 1933-44, assistant professor of Insect Morphology until 1948, associate professor until he was appointed professor in 1955. His wife, Professor Gladys L. Butt, Textiles & Clothing, Emeritus, retired last June after twenty-two years on the Home Economics Faculty. They now divide their time between their home on Lopez Island in Puget Sound and their cabin on the Anza Desert in California.

Appraisal of Student Government

THE NEW student government Executive Board, with quarters now located adjacent to the Dean of Men's Office in Day Hall, has been drawing quite a bit of student attention since the term opened through numerous reports of their proceedings in The Sun. But even with the frequency of these reports, overshadowed with the austerity of Day Hall operations, the attitude of the students leaves much to be desired of this "representative group."

This attitude does not represent criticism or hostility, but rather hesitance and concern. Many feel that the Executive Board is losing its direct link with the studentry as a whole, and is showing a tendency to operate solely within the sphere of its own membership. Several students have remarked that perhaps the Board has been given too much immediate authority. Whether too much authority has been vested in this group is not the question. The rational use of this authority with the complete support of students is the desired aim, but this can only be accomplished by first gaining the confidence and zeal of all Cornellians. It is believed that, even though satisfactory accomplishments have already been achieved, the Board should focus immediate attention to the area of its Campus relations.

The Board's major achievement this fall has been in the fraternity area, arising from Interfraternity Council proposals. October 6, the Board unanimously accepted an IFC ruling that the fall moratorium on contact with Freshmen be relaxed. It is believed on all sides that this move will make deferred rushing much more meaningful. In the past, moratorium has meant that the Freshmen were in an unnatural and abnormal relationship with the rest of the Campus. The Sun points out that "Freshmen can now talk with upperclassmen freely; they can enlist the aid of Seniors in their fields of major concentration to achieve academic ends; and they will not be hampered in the daily routine of social amenities by rules which serve little end." According to Stuart M. Pindell '61, IFC president, "the spirit of the new rules provides that no fraternity take unfair advantage of the freedom of this contact." This has not only provided an atmosphere in which the Freshmen can now talk with fraternity men and form their own judgments, instead of invalid preconceived notions; it has also placed greater responsibilities on the fraternities.

The IFC has also been working closely with the Executive Board on revising its initiation rules. The concern over this matter was prompted by reported occurrences of hazing this fall. After prolonged investigations and deliberations, the IFC revised its by-laws, October 11, to read as follows: "1. No phase of informal initiation shall be of a non-constructive, physical nature [this means that anything of a physical nature is banned except work projects on the fraternity grounds or service projects on Campus or in the community.] 2. All phases of initiation must be supervised by house officers. 3. Scheduling of initiation shall be such that it will not prevent a person from fulfilling his academic responsibilities. 4. Ample amounts of food and sleep shall be insured so as not to impair the health or alertness of any member."

This is a great step forward, for the nationwide fraternity system has been severely degraded in the past with unpleasant occurrences of hazing. The new ruling stresses the fruitful use of work and service projects to fulfill initiation requirements, and will undoubtedly pave the way toward alleviating public disfavor.

Since late last spring the Executive Board has been in the process of deciding whether or not to recognize a Campus Action Party as an authorized student group. The formation of Action Party was prompted by the "feeling that effective political expression lies only in organization and there is no assurance of honest, representative government without the existence of a politically organized electorate." According to a Party bulletin, the purpose of Action Party is to select and promote the candidacy of students for office in all phases of student government. Its present issues include abolition of compulsory ROTC, reduction of cost of living for students, improved housing, and elimination of off-Campus discrimination. Donald M. Bluestone '61 has been elected provisional chairman. The Executive Board, in trying to reach a decision, has grossly overestimated the importance of this issue and has wasted considerable time at many meetings considering all aspects of political party theory and the value and need to the Campus of such a group. A decision is hoped for in the very near future. A Sun editorial, October 20, expressed this opinion: "We pass no judgment upon the merits of Action Party's platform or the sincerity, capability, or maturity of its leaders. But we believe the Campus to be capable of deciding these matters if the Executive Board will give them the opportunity."

"Harvard Football 'Fix' Smashed by Raid: Ten Gridders, Crimson Editor Seized." This was the headline of the October 10 issue of The Harvard Crimson. The 3500 copies of The Crimson which carried this amazing story of scandal were a clever hoax planned and executed by some twenty members of The Cornell Daily Sun board. Needless to say, there were many shocked faces and disturbed minds in Boston-town that morning!

Student enthusiasm carries on, as evidenced by this crowd of football-team backers at a rally near the men's dormitories on the eve of the Lehigh game.

Yale teams started their week-end rout of Cornell when Eli debaters scored 3-0 against Varsity speakers the evening before the football game. Yale upheld the negative of the topic, "Resolved: That our government's present program of space exploration is detrimental to the United States." The unsuccessful Cornellians were Lawrence Rosenfeld '60, Ronald Schwartz '62, David Wartels '61.

News of the Alumni

Addresses are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians are welcomed for publication. Class columns are written by correspondents whose names appear. Names & addresses in column headings are for Classes with group subscriptions or those in which at least half the members are News subscribers.

'97 ME(EE)—John Wiley & Sons, Inc., New York City, has published a new, third edition of Conveyors and Related Equipment, by Wilbur G. Hudson, consulting engineer. Hudson's address is 5541 Everett Avenue, Chicago 37, Ill.

'98 BSA—David A. Williston, landscape architect, has his office at 1927 Eleventh Street, NW, and lives at 1122 Fairmont Street, NW, in Washington, D.C.

'03 ME(MC)—Roland E. Titcomb is retired and lives at 4 Ward Street, Ipswich, Mass.

'05 AB—Mrs. James W. Schade (Marion Elliott) of 2072 Ayers Avenue, Akron 13, Ohio, was honored at a surprise luncheon for having served for twenty-five years as president of the Cornell Women's Club of Akron. A sterling silver pin with her monogram engraved on it was presented to her. Mrs. Schade is the wife of James W. Schade '04 and the mother of Mrs. Robert L. Webster (Alice Schade) '31, Mrs. Ralph E. McKinney (Winifred Schade) '33, and Mrs. Nelson K. Moody, Jr. (Janet Schade) '40.

'05 AB—At a meeting of the Commission on Inorganic Nomenclature of the International Union of Pure & Applied Chemistry in Munich, Germany, August 25, Alexander Silverman, professor and head of the department of chemistry, emeritus, at University of Pittsburgh, was unanimously elected honorary president of the Commission. The Revised Rules for Inorganic Nomenclature, adopted under his supervision, were published recently in London. Professor Silverman's address is University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh 13, Pa.

September 16, in spite of business as usual, a goodly number of Classmates were on hand to enjoy Johnny Rewalt's annual '11 boat ride. Notice of the event was sent to all '11ers who live within easy travel distance and to those lads who keep in steady contact with the Class officers. The mail on the event produced some interesting reports, and we will pass on the news through this and future columns.

The following members of the Class attended. Frank Aime was right on the job getting ready for the Fifty-year Reunion. Tom Cox reported at the dock looking very spry. Davy Davidson is enjoying the combination of retirement and well-paying consulting service. Johnny Rewalt profits by his seagoing ventures by looking younger than ever. Bill Thorne showed up for the boat ride with his customary combination of a banker's dignity and a regular guy's ability to have a good time. Should you wish to reminisce and revive some happy memories, make it a point to see Charlie Beavers.

Your correspondent arrived in New York City the night before the boat ride at the same time as Khrushchev and the American Dental Convention. He had no hotel reservation; so spent a pleasant night riding the Interborough Subway looking for a place to sleep. As usual our good friend, Hugh Gaffney, was present, and it was because of his strenuous efforts and the assistance of his very efficient secretary, Barbara, that all on board were provided with a bountiful lunch (delicious sandwiches, tossed salad, and even a hot dish of macaroni and cheese). Think there was a dessert also. Skipper Rewalt cruised all around Sheepshead Bay from 1 p.m. until 5:30 when we adjourned for a wonderful shore dinner only a few miles away.

Ed Wheelan, along with others who like to harmonize, are hoping someone will come up with a Reunion song; music and words which we all can become familiar with before 1961. If you have any ideas or suggestions, please contact Ed Wheelan, 2633 Estero Blvd., Fort Myers Beach, Fla.

Annual fall Class dinner will be held at the Cornell Club of New York, Wednesday, November 4.

'13 Harry E. Southard

Morg (J. Holloway) Morgan (above), 1109 W. Charles St., Champaign, Ill., district engineer for the Water Resources Division, US Geological Survey, retired July 31 after more than forty-five years of Government service. Most of his work was with the Survey except for a brief time with the US Coast & Geodetic Survey, two years with the Ordnance Department shortly after World War I, and six months with the Engineer Corps, US Army, in 1927. He served under four of the Geological Survey's seven directors and because the Bureau was established in 1879 he has been with it for more than half of its existence.

Morg served in the field of statistics with the Army Ordnance, and as an associate engineer with the Engineers at Memphis and Chattanooga, Tenn. His career was built around specialization in hydraulics and hydrology. He held the title of district engineer for the USGS since 1930. He was married in 1915 and has one son, Lieutenant Colonel MacPherson Morgan, who lives in Albuquerque, N. Mex. Morg is a member of the American Geophysical Union, the National Society of Professional Engineers (vice-president in 1942), and the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers (president in 1944). His publications include "Flow-Duration Characteristics of Illinois Streams," published by the National Research Council in 1936.

Bill (William R.) Manson, 1274 Estes St., Denver 15, Colo., retired some time back after spending the time since his Cornell days in the construction game. He says he is doing "a little hunting and fishing and a little building out here in God's Country."

Reggie (Reginald) Allwork, 9 Judd Ave., Bethel, Conn., writes that he is retired but is toying with the thought of getting back to work. Has two daughters and three grandchildren. Lou (L. A.) Bonn, McLain St., Mt. Kisco, advises he is still very active and has not been able to "break loose" and get back to Cornell.

Stubby (Austin P.) Story, 147 Caldwell Ct., Chillicothe, Ohio, retired in 1958 as president of Chillicothe Paper Co., a book and writing paper mill with annual capacity of 62,000 tons. He hopes to play a lot of golf and plans to do some travelling with his wife, Cordelia, and see more of the world. They have two sons, Austin P., Jr. '49 and William Wallace '53, and "five fine grandchildren, three girls and two boys."

That's all for now. Goo-bye.

'14 Emerson Hinchliff
400 Oak Ave.
Ithaca, N.Y.

Note change of address for Charles B. (Chas) Johnson: 519 Washington Rd., Grosse Pointe, Mich. It may not be recent, but it is a shift from the 1954 directory. I got it from his stationery when he wrote and forwarded two Washington newspaper clippings containing obituaries of Russell C. (Rusty) Parsons that Mrs. Parsons had sent to him. Rusty used to write me every year or so about some big real estate deal and I shall miss his letters. Chas tells me that he sees Frazer Sullivan occasionally and continues: "I retired as president and general manager of Penberthy Injector Co. in 1955, having sold my interests out in 1947, and contrary to what my friends prophesied, I've had absolutely no trouble whatsoever in finding plenty of things to keep me occu-ped; in fact, my big problem is to find the time to do all the things I'd like to do." That's my trouble, too, Chas.

Had a nice visit with Doc Peters here October 6. He and Elsie spent July on Cape Cod. Had a return visit in September, when he was working with a new client, The Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, and then they had a week in Maine, where they renewed a Reunion friendship with Stu Ford and his wife, who live on Bailey Island in Casco Bay, where all the lobsters come from. Sampled some that were "out of this world." Doc was especially struck by a forty-foot boat Stu is building; called it a cabinet-maker's job, and said that the old house Stu has remodelled is full of his work. Stu retired quite a while ago from the textile firm of Collins & Aikman, where he had apparently been a peripatetic branch plant manager. They spend most of the winter months near Fort Lauderdale. Bill Davidson lives on Casco Bay, too; has been a partial invalid for a good many years due to a bad auto accident.

Walt Addicks had written Doc that The Class had broken a little better than even on Reunion, which pleased Doc as watchdog of the treasury; he was full of praise for Walt on his Reunion job, as are we all.

A friend just back from Chicago gave me a copy of the program for the testimonial dinner at the Blackstone Hotel, September 28, honoring Francis N. Bard '04 for his gift of a building for Metallurgical Engineering, which showed that Ben Weisbrod was on the committee on arrangements. I wonder if it was Ben who picked out the salad, which was "Limestone with Asparagus and Avocado." I came from the limestone belt out northwest of Chicago, but we never ate the stuff! Got enough of it in our drinking water!

Morris Bishop delighted a big crowd in Barnes Hall auditorium, September 27, with his comments on A. E. Housman and readings from his poems. Morris told about buying for 10¢ a slim volume of A Shropshire Lad on Washington St. in Boston in February, 1914. He carried it to the Mexican border when he (and my '12 brother) and the National Guard backed up Black Jack Pershing in his pursuit of Pancho Villa, and cherished it ever since. Professor Keith Falkner, Music, also sang some Housman poems set to music. It was a centennial words and music program, since Housman was born in 1859.

Reunion hats! Fighting words to your scribe. It will be white caps for the Forty-five-year Reunion. Your cap in the size you indicate will come directly to you from the manufacturer. If it does not fit, you can send it back with a request for a different size, one you believe will fit properly. Every one coming to the Reunion will need a new cap. Most of you should have your red and white ties and your '15 pocket patches. If you haven't got them, you can so indicate on the form which will be sent to you later on.

Frank Fielding, 1603 N. Edison St., Arlington 7, Va., writes: "Retired, but still get an occasional assignment from one or another of the agencies as consultant on Federal surplus property disposal. Active in sales at Cooperative Apartments in Washington. Looking forward to reuniting in sixty." John E. (Doc) Sutton, Washington, Conn., reports: "Attended New England regional conference of Cornell alumni in Boston. Saw many old friends, was disappointed to see no Classmates. Country life in Washington, where we are building a house in eleven acres of woods, is continually more attractive. The life of a country surgeon is quite different from that in New York City, but it is a joy to work with the kind of people we have here and in well-equipped small local hospitals. Looking forward to the Reunion in 1960."

Frank T. Fitzpatrick, 105 Kings Parkway, Baldwin, is project engineer for Arundel Corp. of Baltimore on one of the contracts for the construction of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Bridge at Alexandria, Va. Eugene W. Cornwell, 906 Sylvania Ave., Fredericksburg, Va., retired in April as advisory engineer for American Viscose Corp. He had been with the company since 1930. He is a member of the Cornell Society of Engineers, American Society of Testing Materials, the Masonic Lodge, and Fredericksburg Methodist Church.

Victor B. Phillips, Box 664, Chatham, Mass., has been retired from business (in Cleveland) for about five years. The Phillips have made what was for many years the Phillips summer home on Cape Cod their permanent residence, but spend winters at Palm Beach. A. Alvin Booth, Maple Ave., Monsey, writes: "Nothing new that a 'Fountain of Youth' wouldn't correct. Just keep busy from morning (6:30 a.m. class on Channel 4, 'Physics for the Atomic Age') until dark fixing and rebuilding. By the way, if any of you young (in spirit) lads want to stimulate your gray matter, listen in on the physics class. You will be amazed at the new stuff since we took it in our day."

Clifford V. (Vic) Herbert, 2000 N. Curson St., Hollywood 46, Cal., writes: "While I live in Forth Worth, Tex., my health compels me to spend several months a year in California. I am self employed and God willing I'll see 1915 in 1960. Best to all."

Wendell T. Card (above), who has been in farming for many years, has just had his first book published by Exposition Press, Inc., 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16, called Here Is My Harvest. He was born in Nebraska, spent his early childhood in Rhode Island, and has lived in the small rural community of Sylvania, Pa., for the last fifty-one years. He has been a contributor to newspapers and magazines and lists among his labors articles on forestry, handicrafts, gardening, photography, and bee-culture. The book contains twenty-nine essays about the author's friends and neighbors and the rural community in which he has spent his adult life. He writes: "To those who speed through on the highway we are only one more sleepy little village on the route. A stranger, marooned among us, would find little of interest with which to occupy himself, and would doubtless wonder what we find to do here to make life interesting. Yet, here, too, are examples of courage and greatness." He writes with the folksiness of a prose, like James Whitcomb Riley, with an echo of Thoreau.

Chester A. Thompson, a Varsity tennis star of our era, was recently named acting president of Jack & Heintz, Inc. He is also chairman of the board of Universal, Inc. and of Otto Konigslow Manufacturing Co. Clarence V. Noble now lives at 1228 NW 4th Street, Gainesville, Fla. He has three Cornellian progeny and an even dozen grandchildren. He was dean of the college of agriculture at University of Florida until his retirement about four years ago and had taught at Cornell before that. Frederick C. Brandes is city planning engineer of that prosperous community known as White Plains, Westchester County, and is overseeing a very extensive face-lifting job there, involving the demolition of some ninety-three acres of downtown White Plains running from the railroad station up to the Court House, and which will entail about $17,250,000 to acquire the properties concerned.

'17 Men—Israel Cohen is one of those lucky fellows! Recently we received his semi-annual card announcing that since September 23 he has been at his winter home, 817 North Lake Ave., Delray Beach, Fla. He "summers" at Sacket Lake, Monticello, where his address is RFD 1, Box 367. Israel is very faithful and dependable, sending us address change cards twice each year. Heard through Bernard C. Norton that Guy (Skip) White retires this year after long service with Johns-Manville. Nort, Skip, and DeGray White have occasional get-togethers which, expressed mildly, must be huge successes, even if Skip has reached retirement age. About this time of the year, Nort returns from his estate in Tunnel to his winter home in Spring Lake, N.J. Had a good visit with Nort at last June's Reunions.

Had a nice letter sometime ago from L. Woodward (Cupi) Franzheim who is vice-president and treasurer of Wheeling Steel Corp., Wheeling, W. Va. Cupi says if he's still alive he will show up at our Big 45th in 1962. He continues, "If Ed Drennan '07 is still alive, also,—he is now living in Florida—we may make it together." Sure hope you can both be with us, Cupi. CU in '62! Clinton Tobey has left his Birmingham, Mich. home and settled in Florida (like so many other '17ers). His address is 101 Beach Place, Tampa 6. Have you retired, Clint?

Art Scureman reports that he sold his business in November, 1957 and retired; but still has plenty of interests, one of which is a small cabin cruiser on Lake Wallenpaupack near Honesdale, Pa. His address is Stonington Acres, Seeleyville, Pa. (also near Honesdale). Had telephone visits with two Buffalo '17ers the other day! We reported a few months ago that Bob Strebel had retired from his firm of Strebel & Strebel, attorneys-at-law, had picked up stakes, and intended to settle in Vienna, Austria. He had just leased an apartment in latter city when he learned that his cousin, Milt Strebel, the other partner in their law firm, had passed away. Bob returned immediately to Buffalo as he was the only one left to legally handle the affairs of Strebel & Strebel. For the present, Bob's future plans are rather uncertain. It's nice to have Bob back among us, even though it may be temporary. Had a nice visit also with Don Mackenzie who was inquiring about tickets for Cornell football games. For many years Don has been an engineer with Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. in their Buffalo headquarters.

At the fiftieth anniversary luncheon of the Ag School Alumni Association in Ithaca last spring, Professor A. Wright (Gibby) Gibson, Director of Resident Instruction in the Ag College, told how the Association had served the College during the last half century. Among the past presidents of the Association who attended were Richard F. Fricke and Harold J. Evans. Mail has been returned from Hyman G. Danzig, 237 W. 73d St., Savannah, Ga., Simon D. Mandel, 385 E. 18th St., Brooklyn, and Elias B. Servoss, 58 Waite St., Hamden, Conn. Will appreciate any information regarding these Classmates.—HERB JOHNSTON

The "agonizing reappraisal" which has brought forth the new Class dues plan (including ALUMNI NEWS subscription) seems to be getting a fine reception. I've not heard from Jack Knight how his collections stand, or even whether the actual letters and dues notices have all gone out to Classmates, but everyone that I've talked to seems to be in agreement. The new annual dues payment will not only continue an ALUMNI NEWS subscription (and this column), but it will finance the modest Class expenses and perhaps make a start on building up a new Class of '18 Fund to help some worthy Cornell cause. After all, if we could muster some 141 registered members at a Forty-year Reunion in Ithaca, we ought to have that many dues-paying Classmates, at the very least. When you get that letter from Jack Knight, act on it at once.

It's interesting reading through a collection of letters sent Jack last year by various of the faithful along with their checks for dues. Most of them are enthusiastic for anything which will help keep the spirit of '18 alive, but the underwriters of the plan, all of whom got nicked for a substantial extra payment, did feel we should "spread the load." For example, Jack Schwartz (the doughty Dutchess County judge) says he's happy to help the program along, but would just as soon give that extra money to Cornell directly. Ebe (William Eber) Robinson writes from Akron that the plan should be given more time. Mark Owens of Pacific Palisades, Cal., suggests more personal contact; thinks we all ought to do more letter writing. (So does your editor, who's constantly troubled by the lack of real news when another deadline approaches.) Murph (Adrian) Shannon writes that anybody who attended such an enthusiastic Reunion as last year's certainly ought to have a rejuvenated view of the Class. Talbot Malcolm adds the suggestion, however, that we really must find out who really is interested in '18 and in the NEWS subscription. He argues we are probably paying to send copies to quite a few who graduated with other Classes or from other colleges or have forgotten their former interest in Cornell and should just be dropped off our lists. That, incidentally, is a suggestion which Jack has followed up on this year. He asks that those who have no further interest in '18 or Cornell merely sign and return a slip to that effect. Lou (Louis D.) Samuels wrote that "too many of us forget Cornell's pleasures and benefits." And so they go. Now, let's hear some comments directly from you on the 1960 plan.

'19 Colonel L. Brown
472 Gramatan Ave.
Mount Vernon, N.Y.

After some struggle, I am gradually becoming accustomed to column writing. My own literary style, which I consider very practical, is to place a comma after every sixth word, a period after the twelfth word, and then start a new sentence. The editors have more complicated ideas, to which I am attempting to conform.

I now possess positive proof that this column has at least one reader, the proof being in the form of a nice letter from Horace E. (Doc) Shackelton, 914 East State St., Ithaca. He says in part: "I enjoyed our Fortieth Reunion activities more than on any previous occasion, and I think the boys who did the planning and the execution deserve a lot of credit. Among other things, it made it possible for me to enjoy a close and friendly period with Bill Coltman, who stayed at our home, along with Mrs. Coltman."

The Bill Coltman referred to is William P. Coltman, who lives at 523 Deodara Dr., Los Altos, Cal. It's always great to have Classmates come back to Reunion from distant points. Shackelton is now with the GLF, but some years ago his office in New York was only a couple of blocks from mine. At that time he was in the egg business, and while he wouldn't sell you a dozen eggs, he would sell you a carload, or even a trainload if you qualified.

Ralph E. Noble, 2836 E. 78th St., Chicago 49, Ill., writes that he is water bacteriologist for the Chicago Southern District filtration plant. June 6, 1957, he received the MS in bacteriology of Illinois Institute of Technology. He also served as president of the Society of Illinois Bacteriologists during 1958.

Eugene R. Smoley, 30 School Lane, Scarsdale, reports that his son, Eugene R. (Chip) Smoley, Jr., graduated from Cornell in June. A daughter, Marge, was due to enter this September, and his other daughter, Connie, is at Northwestern University. Smoley is now president of the MIT Club of New York (1957-1959), is still president and director of C. K. Smoley & Sons, Inc., is vice-president of The Lummus Co., New York City. During 1958 he was national program chairman of the AICHe.

George F. (Dick) Dickins, 2118 Cornell Dr., SE, Albuquerque, N.Mex., is still stationed at Sandia Base, home of nuclear ordnance, in research and development, and military liaison, which latter job keeps him hopping to all military installations as well as all ships at sea. George is a staff engineer in research and development.

I would be happy to have Classmates write and tell me what they are doing; or if not doing anything, write about that, too. The '19ers are reaching an age where leisurely living makes a big appeal. Work is something for the '49ers and '50ers.

'20 Orville G. Daily
604 Melrose Ave.
Kenilworth, Ill.

By the time this gets into print via the slow freight through the Lehigh Valley, it will be old stuff; but it was news once that not one but two presidents were welcomed to the Windy City last month and interviewed by yrs. trly. on the same day.

First, Prexy Deane W. Malott came to grace the head table at the Blackstone and to assist a select group of Chicago alumni in honoring Francis N. Bard '04, who gave the rather tidy sum of 1½ million for a Metallurgical Engineering building, having formerly established at Cornell a chair for Metallurgical Engineering, now occupied by Professor George V. Smith. It was a gala black-tie affair, the ladies adding the color. Many well known and beloved Cornell names were among the guests, but only one could add '20 after his name; hardly worth mentioning.

Next, Prexy Walt Archibald took off an hour and jetted into town, not to see the World Series, but for a convention (of all things) of the American Meat Institute, and not to settle their strike, mind you, but to add a little spice to their life. He finally squeezed us in between the packers (meat) and the bakers (bread); it made a delicious sandwich! He loaded us down with a mountainous pile of Reunion material from Ho Ballou, which he lugged out from NY, and we had a good session.

Ho, by the way, was up in Hartford, Conn. some time back, and looked up Russell O. (Red) Hooker, whom he hadn't seen in years. Found him much the same, except he's changed his hair-do from red to white (a loyal Cornell custom). Russ as president and actuary of Insurance City Life Co. of Hartford, and pension trust consultant, has had his proper share of success, and plans to meet his old friends in Ithaca next June.

Newsy notes on things to come includes mention of the annual billet-doux from Dapper Don Hoagland for six bucks dues, which includes your subscription to this celebrated sheet you are now reading. A new form of questionnaire, too, will, with your co-operation, help us fill our news-bin and this column. So, help! A silly thing like business kept us from attending the Class dinner, but we'll have a report for you in our next spasm, about two weeks.

To make our 40th Reunion year the best ever for the Alumni Fund would be so easy if every Classmate, with due humility and gratitude, will give what his heart dictates. Vice-president Dick Edson is busy with new plans, and will chairman a Special Gifts committee, called the "grand" committee, who will work on gifts over $1000.

Hooray! The new Class directory will soon be in your hands, if not already mailed. You are urged to put it to use at once, writing those you'd like to see at Reunion, asking them to send in their reservation. It's not too soon to start. Now is the accepted time! 'Tis said that concentration is the simple art of building a resistance to distraction. So start building now! Don't wait till it's too late, gate; concentrate!

Members of '21 may remember from their school days the planes that rose occasionally from the flats at the end of Cayuga Lake. This was then a novelty, but to one of us those planes suggested a life work. C. S. Robinson, CE '21, formed Robinson Aerial Surveys, Inc. in Ithaca in 1936 and now operates from a headquarters and laboratory in Newark, N.J. The company uses five planes throughout the United States. Robinson Aviation, Inc. was the parent company under which Robbie formed Robinson Airlines in 1946. After four years, his interest was bought by Ithaca and Binghamton groups, and Robinson Airlines became Mohawk Airlines. Robbie put another of his enterprises into the big time last May when stock in Robinson Technical Products, Inc., Teterboro, N.J., was first traded on the American Stock Exchange in New York. An engineering research, experimental work, and manufacturing division is located in Burbank, Cal.

Charles Garside, LLB '21, lawyer, resigned last summer for reasons of health as president and chairman of the board of the Associated Hospital Service of New York, after nine years in this capacity. He had been a member of the board since 1949 in this, the largest Blue Cross plan in the country. He continues as consultant at the request of his associates.

C. Ronald Mather, AB '21, is with Mather & Hanle, financial and accounting consultants, 24 Commerce St., Newark 2, N.J.

Fellow Classmates of '21; give me news of yourself or of others whom you see or read about. My last request brought in three replies. If you others are reticent or shy, you may overcome your aversion to self-made publicity by remembering that we would like to hear about you and this is the only way it can be managed. My question, are there any great-grandfathers in the Class of 1921?, has been received by a great silence.

'21 PhD—Vantage Press, Inc., published in July A Laboratory Manual of Cryptobranchus Alleganiensis Daudin, by Hazel E. Branch, professor of zoology at University of Wichita, in Kansas, from 1926-56, and now professor emeritus. In the illustrated, seventy-nine-page manual, priced at $2.95, the author presents a study of a genus of aquatic salamander for students of comparative anatomy and shows how Cryptobranchus illustrates the anatomical change from lower to higher vertebrates.

'22 Men—Clifford M. Buck of Salt Point had done serious farming for many years but fairly recently, after his red hair was no longer red and beginning to thin on top, he quit farming and went in for selling insurance, particularly to farmers. He had just completed editing material on the history of the Vincent family which has been published by Millbrook Press, Millbrook. He married Mildred Cole '25, who died about four years ago, and has three daughters and one son who is the youngest.

Last July he visited W. H. B. (Bill) Hutchings in Sommers, Conn. Bill's hobby is collecting shells and I understand he has a beautiful shell museum at his home, consisting of more than 30,000 different shells from all over the world. Although Sommers is only a stone's throw from my house, I must admit I've never seen the fabulous collection.—JOE MOTYCKA

It won't be long before the icy blasts of winter will make a lot of you fellows pack the well-worn suitcase and head for the Sunny South. If you're in or near Palm Beach, Fla. be sure to visit Albert J. (Ted) Stone's new restaurant on Worth Avenue (usually called the "Mink Mile"). I'm told by Classmates who have been there that not only is the food a gourmet's delight, but in the Side-Wheeler Room there is to be found an authentic model of the Harriet Lane, the vessel said to have fired the first shot of the Civil War.

Ernest W. (Downie) Downs is an engineer with the Quartermaster Research & Engineering Command in Natick, Mass. Downie's two sons are married and living in Virginia, and there is one grandson. Do you ever wonder what happens to the fellows who tooted the horns in the University Band? Well, Francis S. (Pat) Pethlick was one of those uniformed musicians who entertained us between halves while Gil Dobie wept copious tears in the locker room, and for the last many years Pat has been conductor of the Veteran's fifty-piece Park Band giving concerts in the Rochester city parks. Pat has just completed twenty-five years as western New York representative for Vestal, Inc. of St. Louis, maintenance product manufacturers. The only one who couldn't keep in step in the University Band was Aleck Zeissig who is now with Merck, Sharp & Dohme, Research Laboratory Division, Rahway, N.J. Son Gustave Zeissig is now a Sophomore at Cornell. His wife was Edith Cuero '30, and besides Gustave, there are Virginia, John, Margot and Karen.

Do you remember the humorous drawings in The Widow? Burke D. (Bob) Adams as art editor was responsible for them and a good job he did, too. The other day Mac Smith sent me a letter enclosed in which was a large picture of Bob, cut out of an issue of The New Yorker, showing him as president and chairman of Burke Dowling Adams, Inc. Bob, wasn't it you who drew for me a lot of animals for my physiology lab book? Getting back to Mac Smith, his fourth grandchild was born last Memorial Day. Congratulations to daughter Sylvia, Mac.

For a while early this year, things were a bit rough for William H. (Bill) Mann of Glens Falls. Bill developed blood poisoning in his right arm along with a rare fungus infection, and for a time, he thought he'd lose his arm. But, fortunately, he recovered nicely and is already looking forward to 1963. Willard A. Speakman of Wilmington, Del. has one less mouth to feed; his oldest daughter Cordelia was married in September, 1958. Paul F. (Pete) Sherk is in the general insurance business in Reading, Pa. His two daughters are graduates of Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., and Pete boasts of three grandchildren. Uncle Sam and the jet motor people are keeping A. Carroll (Matty) Mattison pretty busy as assistant to the production manager of Linde Co., a division of Union Carbide Corp., making and distributing industrial gases. Matty now lives in Darien, Conn.

Remember, we don't stop playing because we are old; we grow old because we stop playing. See you in two weeks.

Early this year we received an announcement that Leonard H. Davis, partner in the law firm of Hauxhurst, Inglis, Sharp & Cull, had been elected vice-president and general counsel of Gabriel Co. A director of several other Cleveland corporations, Davis is a member of the Court of Nisi Prius and a member of the Cleveland, American, and Ohio State Bar Associations and of the Cleveland Athletic and Westwood Country Clubs.

John C. Gibb reports that now and for several years past, and for immediate foreseeable future, he will be engaged in a bit of brisk travelling around for Socony Vacuum Oil Co. as senior engineer representative concerned with the lubrication of gas and Diesel engines. His hobby is cruising in a thirty-eight-foot power cruiser mostly in the Long Island Sound.

Late last year, we received notice that Ted Roehner leaves his fifteen-year post as manager of technical service labs, Socony Vacuum Oil Co., to take up new duties at headquarters as manager of the technical service division for the research department of his company. Under his new position the technical service function is broadened and covers both Paulsboro and Brooklyn. Upon graduation, he spent the next six years in Chile, South America, as test engineer and assistant chief chemist with Braden Copper Co. He is chairman of the National Lubricating Grease Institute technical committee; was formerly chairman of the American Society of Lubrication Engineers technical committee and of Section III of ASTM Technical committee G. He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Chemical Society, American Ordnance Association, American Petroleum Institute, Cornell Engineers' Club, and Sigma Xi. In 1945 he received the Naval Ordnance Development Award and in 1952, the National Lubricating Grease Institute Award. Ted has two children. He and his wife, the former Esther Lloyd Jones, live in Stamford, Conn.

Vic Wehle from St. Petersburg, Fla. gives us the following report of an obviously active life: "I was a circuit judge of the 6th judicial circuit of Florida from 1945-55. Am now practicing law in partnership with my son (U of Florida '57). Have just completed a four-year term on the executive board of the United Lutheran Church in America. Resigned in November as county Democratic chairman (in the only Republican county in Florida!) For the last five years have been teaching the course in trial practice at Stetson University college of law. For the last four years I have been chairman of the committee operating the Elks Crippled Children's Home in Unatilla, Fla. This uses up most of my spare time, but produces a tremendous inner satisfaction. I had previously served two terms as president of the Florida State Elks Association (67 lodges, with 34,000 members). As a result of visiting all of them, I believe I traveled on every paved and most of the unpaved roads of the State."

Glenn H. Alberga became assistant to the president of Preformed Line Products Co., July 1. This company, with plants in Cleveland, Ohio and Palo Alto, Cal., makes specialized hardware for supporting transmission and telephone lines. Glenn was previously management consultant for Midland Ross Corp. in Cleveland. This information was gathered from Glenn when he and Mrs. Alberga visited the office in September while bringing their son Bob here for his Freshman year in the Arts College. Bob graduated from Shaker Heights High School where he was on the wrestling team. Their daughter Sandra is a senior at Boston University. Glenn is a director of the Cornell Club of Cleveland, and served as one of the Club's chauffeurs for Cornell Day in Ithaca last May. The Albergas live at 16818 Holbrook Rd., SE, Shaker Heights, Ohio.

The State University of New York board of trustees has conferred the title of professor emeritus on Truman A. Parish of Alfred. Truman, for twenty-two years a faculty member of the State University Agricultural & Technical Institute at Alfred, retired last year after he lost his sight as the result of a serious eye operation. The action of the board took place at their September 10 meeting in New York City, following by a year the naming for Parish of the Institute's new student infirmary. Graduating seniors dedicated their 1959 yearbook to the former dean of men last May. Emeritus status is an honorary title conferred on retired faculty and administrative staff members for long years of faithful service. Congratulations, Truman!

Frank O. Affeld III writes that he and his wife, Priscilla, and daughter left September 18 for a month in Stockholm, Copenhagen, Vienna, and Paris. He also reports that his third-generation Cornell son, Franz O. Affeld '52, joined Shell Oil Co. after serving as a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps and getting the MA at Penn. He is located at Norco, La. and pilots his own plane all over the area. Frank is with Penn Mutual Life at 530 Walnut St., Philadelphia, and the Affelds reside at 368 Thornbrook Ave., Rosemont, Pa.

Philip D. Baker writes that he is area production manager of Carter Oil Co. and that his home address is 440 Longleaf Drive, Shreveport, La. His son, Phil, graduated in June from Oklahoma University and is a lieutenant in the Air Force at Lakland, San Antonio. His daughter, Mary Stewart, is a junior at Chapel Hill, N.C. Phil says he has lived in Shreveport about two years and loves it.

Walter D. Burger, 3740 Lake Shore Dr., Chicago 13, Ill., since 1957 has been projects coordinator for the Board of Education, coordinating the work of thirty architectural firms designing school buildings for Chicago, including more than fifty projects.

'26 AB—Mrs. Rebe Biggs Smith of Trumansburg opened her own real estate office last February in the First National Bank Building, Ithaca. She is the wife of Elwood W. Smith, an optometrist, and they have two sons.

'26 AB, '42 MA—Mrs. Joseph H. Schwab (Rose Levine), principal of Stephen A. Halsey Junior High School in Queens, has been elected president of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education, an affiliate of the National Education Association of the United States. She was formerly president of the New York City branch of the Council and is a member of the board of governors of the New York Academy of Public Relations. Her address is 8579 Eighty-eighth Street, Woodhaven 21.

'27 AB—Mrs. John A. Knubel (Adelaide Kistler) lives at 867 Westfield Road, Scotch Plains, N.J.; has a daughter, Mary Caroline, and a son, John A. Knubel, Jr., now a midshipman at the US Naval Academy. Her husband, Lehigh '19, died last January 9. He had been an architect in New York City for thirty years. He also was retired as a captain in the US Naval Reserve after service in both World Wars and the Haitian and Nicaraguan campaigns; was director of rehabilitation of Guam in 1946.

'27 MS—Fay M. Raymond of 804 Northeast Twentieth Street, Oklahoma City 5, Okla., is still with the Oklahoma Highway Department as a utilities engineer in the right of way department.

Major General William C. Baker, Jr. (above) is currently serving as assistant chief of staff for logistics (G-4), for the US Army in the Pacific area. The Bakers' son, William C. III, is a 1958 graduate of University of Tennessee.

Robert S. Betten is a senior partner of Shopping Center Consultants, with offices in Libertyville and Chicago, Ill. The firm does promotion work for shopping centers, both in the development stage and after they open. Bob is currently commuting between Chicago and Honolulu in connection with the opening of one of the country's largest centers in the 50th State.

James H. Kidder, '28 MD, dean emeritus of Fordham University school of pharmacy, was recently promoted to brigadier general, MC, USAR. He has served as special assistant for Reserve affairs to the Army Surgeon General since July, 1955. Jim has thirty-one years of continuous service since he received his commission in 1928, including five years of active duty in World War II. Jim also is consulting surgeon at City Hospital and at the St. Barnabas Hospital; attending surgeon at French Hospital; and professor of clinical surgery at New York Medical College. General Kidder lives at Ft. McNair, Washington, D.C.

John Gatling is now with the American City Bureau, Inc. of Chicago, national fundraising company and the oldest corporate firm in that field. The Gatlings make their home in Spokane, Wash.

'29 Men—Attention all '29ers! The news that you have been breathlessly waiting for is here: the Class dinner will be held at the Cornell Club in New York, November 18. Class Secretary Bob Lyon and Under Secretary Mike Bender so decreed at a Cornell Club luncheon session this week with your reporter sitting in. For the records, we are glad to report the reelection of John MacComber of Philadelphia as Class president, Bob Lyon as secretary, with "Muscles" Bender doubling as under secretary and chairman of the Reunion committee. The perennial question of why no treasurer is simply answered: no money!

It is a privilege, indeed, to print news of the accomplishments and honors of '29ers. Howard Taubman (above), music critic of The New York Times, for whom music speaks and sings the varied language of humanity, received the honorary Doctor of Music at commencement exercises of Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, June 8. Howard has created a consciousness in his readers and fellow-musicians of the ability of music to communicate, in many cases, far better than words ever could.

Leo Katzin writes from Binghamton, but with no address. What is it, Leo? And what's yours, H. P. Truesdell, in Cleveland? Roger Williams's card is good like an address card should (be) from 1811 Sussex Lane, Winston-Salem, N.C. Dr. E. F. Wolfe, in general practice in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is blessed with two children, David, 12, and Mary, 9. A regular at the annual Cornell-Penn struggle every Thanksgiving. Need your exact address, Doc; send it along with news of any other '29ers in the famed Anthracite Belt. Devel Richardson's new address is 24 Standish Road, Wellesley Hills, Mass., and congrats are in order on his new post as public relations manager of the National Fire Protection Association. M. Stires is speech and hearing therapist for the Port Washington schools and his family score adds up to a lovely 16-year-old daughter and a 22-year-old son, who finished St. Lawrence this year.

'30 AB—Robert L. Bliss, in his third year as research chairman for the International Public Relations Association, announced the official text of worldwide professional definitions agreed on by the IPRA at its recent London meeting. The definitions, carefully framed to meet the problems of translation into major languages and representing the consensus of delegates from thirteen countries, are the first formal steps taken toward an international ethical code which IPRA hopes to establish at its meeting next year in Holland, Bliss said. Bliss is president of Robert L. Bliss & Co., public relations consultant, 60 East Forty-second Street, New York City 17. A charter member of the Public Relations Society of America, he is a founding member of the international association and has been one of three American members of its governing council since 1955.

'30 AB—Benedict P. Cottone, lawyer, has a new office address: Cottone & Scheiner, Suite 1228, 1001 Connecticut Avenue, NW, Washington 6, D.C. He lives at 4323 Hawthorne Street, NW, Washington 16.

'30 ME—Robert W. Waring is president of Electroforce, Inc., Fairfield, Conn., which manufactures and sells electronic chucks based on Waring's inventions made in the last six years. He lives at 197 Old Post Road, Fairfield, Conn.

The news response to our recent letter was very good and we are now back in full business with the column. Just don't fall down on the job. Keep the cards with news coming in.

Alfred W. Hopton, 561 Creek Rd., Lewiston, recently joined the new market development section of the sales department of the Eastern Chemical Division, Hooker Chemical Corp., Niagara Falls. Alfred was with Hooker in sales development until 1947. He then formed Niagara Industrial Laboratories in 1948 as owner-director. He is a member of many professional associations, has had papers published, and holds three patents.

Dr. Maxwell C. Scherzer has been practicing medicine and surgery in Forest Hills for the last twenty years, with time out during the war for the Army and ETO. He is on the staff of Queens General and Brooklyn Memorial Hospitals. Home is at 108-29 70th Ave., Forest Hills 75, with his wife and two daughters.

W. Gifford Hoag of Vienna, Va., was recently named vice-president of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., a co-op. Giff has been tied to co-operatives for many years in addition to his information and extension services with the Farm Credit Administration under the Department of Agriculture. T. L. Osborn, Jr., one of the Chicago practice Reunion group, had no news, just greetings! Thanks, Ted. Address is 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago 6, Ill.

We heard from Wallace C. Blankenship last August regarding an article we had prepared for the August issue of Package Engineering on a new machine developed for our packaging operations. Wally is vice-president and general manager of the frozen cooked foods division of The Stouffer Corp. and is interested in all packaging advances. Wally works in Cleveland and lives at 1175 Edgecliff Dr., Bedford, Ohio.

One of our most loyal correspondents is Lowell Besley, 58 Elmwood Ave., Senneville, Que., Canada. Most of his news centers about two items. First is son Bill, now with the US Army Security Agency in the Aleutian Islands and previously at Camp Wolters, Tex. The other is his work in forestry. He was recently elected vice-president of the Canadian Institute of Forestry and in September gave the keynote address at the National Forest Fire Research Conference held in Prince Albert National Park, Saskatchewan, Canada. He and his wife, Lib, toured Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, including the Cabot Trail on Cape Breton Island. They heartily recommend the tour.

'33, '34 BArch—Harold M. Alexander (above) recently became vice-president-technical services for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., Toledo, Ohio. With the company since 1934, he has held such positions as director of development, general manager of research & development, assistant to the vice-president-sales, and assistant to the executive vice-president. During World War II, he headed precision glass sales and service for the Armed Forces. The Alexander family lives at 2303 Evergreen Road, Ottawa Hills, Toledo, Ohio.

Henry C. Brown, Jr. has been named general sales manager of special projects at Armstrong Research & Development Center, Lancaster, Pa. He has specialized in research in the field of industrial insulations for Armstrong Cork Co. since 1937.

Jean B. Ketcham has been cited for his outstanding contributions to agriculture by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents. The award was made at the Association's forty-fourth annual banquet in Kansas City, September 10. Jean has served eighteen and a half years in county agent work, and has been active in the Artificial Breeding Cooperative and the Dairy Herd Improvement Cooperative, both in Wyoming County. He has been cited for his development work in improving farmer-sportsmen relations, for forming cooperatives of potato growers, and making other farmer groups into successful organizations.

Herbert A. Hopper received the rank of Fellow in the Soil Conservation Society of America at the annual meeting in Rapid City, S. Dak. He has been field representative of the California Soil Conservation Commission and the Division of Soil Conservation since 1950. He is the son of the late Professor Herbert A. Hopper '03, Animal Husbandry.

From University of Michigan we received word that Louis J. Cutrona, professor of electrical engineering, was appointed a research engineer to serve as head of the Willow Run Radar Laboratory. Cutrona received the PhD in physics at University of Illinois in 1940 and in his new position will become head of the largest laboratories within Willow Run. He will be involved in major programs in the field of airborne and ground based radars.

J. C. Bauernfeind of 90 Mountain Ave., Pompton Plains, N.J., has just returned home from a forty-two-day trip around the world. E. L. (Larry) Smith has just moved from Wellesley, Mass. to 819 Knollwood Terrace, Westfield, N.J. He is with Lincoln Electric Co., as district manager in their New York office.

Byron R. Woodin advises from Dunkirk that his oldest daughter, Peggy, 17, is at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Ind. His younger daughters, 12 and 10, are in the public schools in Dunkirk, where Byron serves as a member of the board of education. He practices law with his father and is active in Republican politics. He is also president of the Dunkirk Chamber of Commerce, director of the Red Cross chapter, assistant county attorney of Chautauqua County, and also finds time to clerk at the Unitarian Church.

'37 Women—The travel diary records an overnight visit with Serge and Lucy Howard Jarvis '38, June 20, in Stamford, Conn. Lucy is as full of pep as ever, and all kinds of interesting people pop in and out of her lovely home at all hours. She is co-producer, with Martha Rountree, of the radio program "Capitol Close-Up" (3:15 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday on WOR) which originates in a house she and Miss Rountree purchased in Washington, D.C. She commutes to Washington several times a month, sometimes does the commercials on the show; when she isn't dashing about in Europe, that is. Paintings by Serge and by daughter Barbara, 16, are hung with others that the Jarvises have collected in their world-wide travels. I slept in 14-year-old Peter's room, surrounded by masks his parents have brought from far-off places.

Lucy was intrigued with my '37 directory and started phoning all the Classmates in that part of Connecticut. We both spoke to Doris Smallridge Dykes for one solid hour, around midnight! Doris said young Susan Dykes was entering the five-year nursing program at University of Vermont this fall. Next morning, we phoned some more Cornellians. Hazel Oldham Hanson said she and Vic '33 took Carol, 14, Peg, 11, Susie, 8, and George ("Sparky"), 3½, to Vic's Law School Reunion last spring. ("When looking at Campus excavations, we'd shudder and avert our gaze!") Vic is now with the law department of General Foods in White Plains. The Hansons were about to take off for Massachusetts for the summer. Hazel said they'd heard that Ray Munn Blakesley's daughter Jean Ellen was married last year. Maggie Marlow Jones moved last August to Hickory Lane, New Canaan, with her two sons, Paul, 13, and Preston, 12. Madge Jopson Graae didn't answer her phone in Fairfield. Doris Tingley Schmidt '40 told us she was working in a nursery school. Her daughters are 8 and 5 years old. Husband Henry is editor of Retirement Planning News, which has no ads, is not on news stands, sells large group subscriptions to industry.

Spent several days in Manhasset, where I called on Ginny Liptay Algeo '39 and met Allison, 12, John, 10, and Clay, 6. Ginny is fighting her way back from a five-year struggle against crippling polio. Her home is equipped with many special devices which enable her to manage her home and her children from her wheelchair. She exercises in a pool in the backyard, paints, and even manages to weed her garden.

After a couple days in New York with my boss to see some plays (including "Gypsy," latest success of Arthur Laurents '37) and to eat some seafood (ran into Nellie Gordon Crosby '36 at Gloucester House), I spent several days in Wayne, N.J. with Dick '35 and Dot Shaw Jones and was overwhelmed to find Rick and Jeff grown into big men. I had a phone conversation with Mary Ferguson Mills about her three sons, ages 16, 14, and 6. The oldest boy is going to Peddie Prep School in Hightstown, N.J.

Ed Sargent was still laid up after his latest operation at Reunion time, so was unable to be with us. Ed reports two boys and two daughters and that he is living at 15 Crannell Ave., Delmar.

Harvey Scudder, 8805 Spring Valley Rd., Chevy Chase, Md., reports: "As a commissioned officer of the US Public Health Service I was recently promoted to the grade of scientist director (equals captain in the Navy) and also accepted in the Regular Corps. I have agreed to join the staff of the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda and will be concerned largely with the granting of Public Health Service funds for cancer research. Though by paper work I shall never myself do the actual research, yet I find it a great challenge making it possible for others who remain at the lab bench."

Art Slocum's son Art, Jr. celebrated his first birthday May 6. Art reports that Allen Lentz, who is with Aramco in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, will be in the US in October and will stop by Milwaukee for dinner.

Oliver Stark has been operating Pearce Seed Co. for the last three years and says that it is lots of work and lots of fun. He lives at 610 Chestnut St., Moorestown, N.J. Mike Stehnach says that after nine years in the Army he has settled down to teaching and he expects to get the Master's in Education this year. Mike has one girl born in Stuttgart and they are expecting another child at the end of the year.

'39 PhD—Roy L. Donahue has written with three Indian officials a college textbook, Soil Management in India, published by Asia Publishing House, Bombay. He is professor of agronomy at Kansas State University, in Manhattan, and has been a soil management specialist with the India team of the Technical Cooperation Mission (International Cooperation Administration).

I missed a column for the last issue. That is especially bad as there is so much to report. My apologies.

Bob Fuerst is now with the Air Force ROTC unit at Davis & Elkins College, having returned from Wiesbaden, Germany where he was chief of the Community Relations Division of the US Air Forces in Europe. Bob, by the way, is a major in the Air Force and has spent eleven years abroad in places like England, North Africa, Germany, Italy, Hawaii, Okinawa, Formosa, and Japan. Glad you'll be in the country, Bob, for our Twenty-year Reunion.

Speaking of Reunion, Selly Brewer, our Reunion chairman, met with a group of us at the Cornell Club of New York, September 24. We decided it would be a good idea to have a "kick-off" dinner in the City, probably in January, to get Reunion plans moving. Forrest Griffith has agreed to take charge of this and we'll hear more about it later. Larry Lilienthal and Chuck Stewart are going to look into Reunion costumes. We discussed the serious aspect of Reunion at some length and everyone was interested and glad to know that Faculty panel discussions and other academic activities are becoming popular. It was also brought out that some Classes had made their Reunions family affairs as wives were encouraged to attend. Our program is not set yet, but the consensus seemed to be that we should emphasize both aspects of Reunions and those that didn't want to take in the more serious activities didn't have to and vice-versa. Some may not care to spend much time in the tent around the beer keg, but for those who do, we intend to have the best band, uniforms, and, of course, beer as it will be Falstaff from Joe Griesedieck. Others at the meeting were Curt Alliaume, Norm Briggs, Bob Pressing, Dan Brasted, and Dan Westervelt.

John Sullivan wrote that he is now with Edgerton, Gremehausen & Grier, Inc. of Boston, Mass., but tells us not to try to mouth it all, just call it E. G. & G. John acquired his first two children in 1958: Kevin Leo, now 2, by adoption in February, 1958; and J. Barry, born October 22, 1958. His mailing address is 101 Lexington Ave., Needham 94, Mass. John Weiner is living in Livingston Manor and is head of the Junior High School English department in the Central School there. He is taking graduate work at NYU in guidance and counseling. This summer he was off to California with his wife, Lynne, son Meyer, 8, and daughter, Erica, 7.

Here is a note to our treasurer and sent on to me a month or so ago. "Larry, except for the ALUMNI NEWS, Cornell is rather remote down here. I do see Bissel Travis, Arnold Nye frequently, and John Hageman occasionally, all located here in Nashville. I have my own general insurance agency, also sell life insurance for Prudential. Have two boys, Herb, 15, and Doug, 12, so we are starting to think about college and it's a problem. Certainly hope to see you at our Reunion. Regards, Herb." A slight bit of detective work indicates that this was from Herb Kneelman, 4003 Wayland Dr., Nashville, Tenn.

We invite you to consult with us regarding new positions in Hughes Advanced Research and Development activities.

Hughes offers you an atmosphere most productive of creative work in your specialty. Your assignment will be to help forward basic theoretical progress in areas such as these:

- Meteor Communications
- Solid State Physics Research
- Satellite Interceptor Systems
- Air Launched Intermediate Range Ballistic Missiles
- Communications Satellites
- Space Ferry Systems
- Futuristic Instrumentation Systems
- Global Surveillance Satellite Systems
- Three-Dimensional Radar Systems
- Electronics in Oceanography
- Infrared Detection Systems
- Industrial Controls
- Data Processing Systems

Hughes is an engineering-oriented company, and as such has become one of America's leading producers of advanced electronics. This leadership is based upon the efforts of over 5,000 engineers and scientists. One in 15 is a Ph.D. One in 4 has a master's degree.

Does someone in YOUR FAMILY need a LIFT?

An elevator in YOUR home will save someone near and dear to you from the useless strain of climbing stairs dozens of times a day. "Elevette" is especially designed for homes. It is completely safe for all ages. Economical to install. Operates on house current. Don't wait for the doctor to say "take it easy." Find out how an "Elevette" can be installed in a corner, closet or stair well of your home. Also may be enclosed in a shaft to serve more than two floors.

We also manufacture INCLIN-ATOR—it is the original chair-lift that runs up the stairs.

Send for Folder—"Stop Climbing Stairs" tells how easy and inexpensive it is to have an Elevette or Inclinator in your home.

London, 7 Reimer Rd., Scarsdale, is a member of the American Academy of Pediatrics and is on the attending staff of Mount Sinai Hospital in New York. Bob is active in the Town Club of Scarsdale. Mrs. London is the former Ellin Naumberg. They have three boys: Roger, 8; Douglas, 7; and Christopher, 5.

Here is a note from Colonel John R. Dowswell, USAF: "Arrived in Spain in August, 1958 and am enjoying my tour of duty immensely. Expect to return in 1961 in time for the Reunion. Would be happy to hear from anyone visiting Spain; telephone, Madrid 41 1697." John married the former Doreen Rudderham. They have four boys. The present address for John is Hq 65th Air Division (Defense), PO Box 723, APO 283, New York City.

Marvin H. Langley, Trout Creek, RD 2, Horseheads, is sales manager of Latta Brook Corp. (cement). Mrs. Langley is the former Emily Williams. They have four daughters and a son. Marvin's brother is Charles Langley '40. Marvin is a deacon of the Presbyterian Church, a councilman, and in addition to tennis, golf, riding, skiing, raises Christmas trees, 60,000 of them!

'41 Women—I still have not had any great deluge of response to my cards which I am sending out in groups of 25-30 every second week in an attempt to gather some news of our Classmates. The three replies which I have received recently bring this news:

Dorothy Alfke, 871 N. Thomas St., State College, Pa., is now Dr. Alfke (PhD) and is an associate professor of science education at Penn State in University Park, Pa.

Mrs. William A. Backus (Florence Crabb), 5432 S. 5th St., Arlington, Va., writes a real newsy note: "same children, Billy (now 16 and 6 feet, all the symptoms of an engineer but may head for Univ of Virginia instead of Cornell; David, 14, athletic, destination unknown; Alan, 12, destined to be a great scientist (he thinks)." Flo is still a practicing professional puppeteer at local parties, festivals, and occasional Embassies. She has added another "profession" which she thoroughly enjoys, being representative for World Book and Childcraft. Her hobby at the moment is studying Russian via TV at 6:30 a.m. She sends her best to all of '41.

Mrs. Richard J. Bookhout '39 (Florence Fieg), 31 Woodside Avenue, Oneonta, writes that six children and a surrogate-judge husband absorb all her time and energy; happily so, she adds.

Keep your cards coming to me at 122 South State Rd., Briarcliff Manor.

'42—Ruth E. Dynes has joined the Los Angeles division of North American Aviation Co. as a research engineer in the operations analysis section. She also teaches industrial engineering courses to adult evening classes at UCLA and Los Angeles Trade-Tech Junior College. She is listed in the first (1959) edition of Who's Who of American Women. Her address is Box 645, Beverly Hills, Cal.

'42 BS — Twins, Margaret and John Wood, were born in August to Mrs. John R. Wood, Jr. (Julia Snell) of 27 Schraalenburgh Road, Haworth, N.J. She has four other children: Richard, Connie, David, and Roger.

'44 AB, '49 LLB—US Attorney General William P. Rogers, LLB '37, has announced the appointment of John F. Cushman as his executive assistant. Son of Professor Robert E. Cushman, Government, Emeritus, Cushman had been director of the Office of Administrative Procedure in the Department of Justice since October, 1958. He and Mrs. Cushman (Jane Casterline) '47 and their three children live at 817 Larchmont Rd., Falls Church, Va.

'44, '45 AB; '44 AB—George J. Kaelber, who is in advertising with Kodak, and Mrs. Kaelber (Jean Zenner) '44 write from 6545 Linden Lane, Dallas 30, Tex.: "Just love this great Southwest. Took a flying trip to Mexico City, Taxco, and Acapulco, and fell in love with that country. Now have a '46 neighbor, Dorothy Mae Brown Golden. She has been a Dallasite a year now with husband, Dick, and their three children."

Big things are in the works for our 1960 Class Reunion. Tod Knowles is organizing the basics and already looking for Classmates to work on the Reunion committee. Details and preliminary plans will be going out in the mail soon, so watch for them. Tod recently wrote to George Busby, directing his letter, of course, to Hotel Dennis in Atlantic City where George's family have been the innkeepers for many years. Much to Tod's surprise, he received a letter from London and learned that George has gone to work in the public relations and advertising business. George is on his way to Italy to orient himself as to the Boys Town of Italy, a project that he is working on. George has agreed to help out where and when he can in the Reunion plans for '45 next June. Thank you, George, and we wish you luck in your new adventure. Traveler Busby can be reached c/o Rich-Lacaille, 163 E. 52d St., New York City.

A letter arrived recently from William A. Vawter II '05 of Benton Harbor, Mich., father of Dr. Gordon F. Vawter who graduated from Northwestern University medical school in 1948. Mr. Vawter very kindly sent along additional information about Gordon and we appreciate the time taken by any of the fathers and mothers of our Classmates who write and tell us the news of their sons who don't let us in on the news. After several years in Chicago on the staff of Presbyterian Hospital and University of Illinois Medical Center, Gordon moved on to Massachusetts where he is now pathologist at the Childrens Hospital in Boston and lives at 37 Alban Rd., Waban, Mass., with his wife and children. He is a member of the Institute of Pathology, Sigma Xi, and SAE. Gordon's Dad was also a member of SAE. All of you should have received your notice of Class dues by this time. However, if you have misplaced it, please send check for $8, or more if you like, to Professor Jack Rogers, Cornell University, Ithaca. As you know, everyone in the Class is receiving the ALUMNI NEWS now under our Class Subscription Program and this can be a tremendous advantage in insuring a good attendance in Ithaca next June. So get out your checkbook now and make it out to Cornell Class of '45 Dues. If you are not sure you've sent it in, do it again; it's easy the second time. Also send in news about yourself because the advertising value has gone up with the increased readership in the Class of '45.

Since my last column, the Carlsons have moved to 69 Carlton Avenue, Port Washington, pending completion of our new home in Plandome, which is really only a mile away. We expect that we will be living in our current lodgings until early spring. We were very fortunate to be able to rent this barn-like home as it prevented us at the last minute from being completely homeless.

Last week while up Boston-way, I dropped in at Maridor Restaurant in Framingham, Mass. where Pete Sculos '43 is proprietor. Pete has rebuilt, after a fire a few years ago, a plush establishment and it is worth your while to see it if you are in the area.

'47 Men—Bob Luticken (above) has been appointed to the newly-created position of vice-president and assistant to the executive vice-president of The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. Bob had been v.p. in charge of employee and community relations, organization, and planning since April, 1959. In his new post, he will be working on the development, growth, and supervision of Brunswick's operations in the outdoor field. Bob has been a Brunswick man since 1952. Look for him to keep Chicago as his home base.

A word from Bob Asher, Oak Rd., Concord, Mass. He is one of our clothing boys, being v.p. of Asher Co., manufacturers of men's and boys' slacks and shorts. Married in June, 1958. Says he's traveling a lot around USA and foreign areas. His wife, Johanna, is an artist and teaches in the art department of Wellesley College.

'Way back in March, Alden Perrine shipped me a letter and publicity material pertaining to his quest for election to the elementary school board of education in Centralia, Ill. Were one to think only of the research letter necessary in composing the publicity there would be reason for congratulations. The man swept into his poop sheet a diversified listing of good comments on the necessity of supporting education and enclosed some vital statistics on biographical data, bibliography, aptitude, and achievement. Right now he's occupied with security trading and shows interest in tropical fish and photography. He and his wife have four children, ages six, four, three, and one, at the time of the article publication. Last but not least, Alden listed a 1947 I.Q. rating of 132. After reading the publicity, here is one Classmate of whom I need not ask, "So what's new with you?" P.S. May 31, I got this note: "As predicted in pamphlet, I lost. It was well worthwhile, however, and I plan to give it a try next year."

John Gaedinger picked Chicago for career growth. Then, he hustled and put many work hours into the development of his Soil Testing Services, Inc. None of us were particularly surprised to find John listed in the Chicago paper, September 16, as one of the ten outstanding young Chicagoans for 1959. The men are recognized for exceptional contributions to their work or profession and to metropolitan Chicago's civic and cultural well-being.

From New York Life's yearbook of successful insurance career men!

ARTHUR C. WOOD, Jr. signed up for lifelong security while still an Army Major!

A decorated Field Artillery Officer who rose from Lieutenant to Major, Arthur C. Wood, Jr., began a distinguished career as a New York Life representative while still on terminal leave. This was his first full-time job, and his keen interest in it led him to study for and earn the professional designation of Chartered Life Underwriter. Now in his fourteenth year with New York Life, Arthur Wood's fine sales record assures him of lifelong financial security under the Company's unique compensation plan.

Arthur Wood, like many other college alumni, is well established in a career as a New York Life representative. In business for himself, his own talents and ambitions are the only limitations on his potential income. In addition, he has the deep satisfaction of helping others. If you or someone you know would like more information on such a career with one of the world's leading life insurance companies, write:

Elliott, who received a Master's degree at Columbia in 1957, previously worked for Sperry Gyroscope and United Aircraft. He lives on Pearsall Dr., Mt. Vernon.—JACK OSTROM

Appreciated
for Christmas

Any Cornellian will be proud to have the new Cornell chair. With its authentic Emblem of the University in full color, it makes an excellent Christmas gift. (Allow three weeks for delivery.)

The chair is sturdy and comfortable, built by New England craftsmen of selected northern hardwood. It is finished in satin black, with light mahogany arms and finely striped in gold. Obtainable only from Cornell Alumni Association.

CORNELL CHAIR

Shipped direct from Gardner, Mass., express charge extra. If you wish gift shipment, get cost at 30 pounds shipping weight from your local Railway Express office and add to your remittance. Your card can be enclosed; send with order.

Your response to the questionnaire on the back page of the recent newsletter has been so good that there is now a backlog, rather than a shortage, of news for the next several columns. However, don't let this prevent those of you who have not written from doing so, and please don't feel in the least inhibited about sending your check for $2 for Class dues to Ralph M. Starke, 240 Milton Rd., Rye.

A recent report from Ithaca notes that Richard W. Dye, MBA '56, and his wife, Jean English '54, are back from Georgetown, British Guiana, where they lived for two years while Dick served as vice-consul at the American Consulate there. Dick will be in Washington for a while, pending re-assignment to Iran in 1960.

Harrison P. Efferth, 16512 Clifton Boulevard, Lakewood 7, Ohio, is a city planner with the Regional Planning Commission of Cleveland, and Winthrop W. (Bud) Grice has just been named general sales manager for Marriott Motor Hotels, in Washington. The new chain, owned by Hot Shoppes, Inc., has two new motels on the Virginia side of Washington, and is building one in Philadelphia and one in Dallas. Bud was formerly with Hilton Hotels in Pittsburgh.

James E. Mann, 965 Dysard Hill, Ashland, Ky., reports that his son Ben is a year old now, and is counting on joining the Freshmen in Ithaca in 1975. Jim is assistant to the manager of the Fleet Division, Ashland Oil & Refining Co. Another Cornellian

After completing an advanced degree course in agricultural engineering at Iowa State and receiving the MS in February, just a few months before Khrushchev received his first hot dog at a nearby meat packing plant, Dick Rowe, his wife (Dot Stilwell '51), and his son David (now 2), made the long trip to Maine where Dick is now on the staff of University of Maine. June 6, Steven Allen was born, and shortly thereafter the Rows moved into a new house at 6 Charles Place, Orono, Me.

If you'd like to take a vacation that's a little bit out of the ordinary "Cook tour" type of thing, check in with Dick Dooley, the director-zoologist-lecturer of the Kentucky Animaland & Reptile Garden, Park City, Ky. Last summer, Dick completed an 18,000-mile safari to India, where he hunted tigers and collected wildlife for US zoos, and managed to bring back more than 1000 birds, reptiles, and animals. His trek brought him near the Tibetan border, and he spent a good deal of time at Dehra Dun (literally "largest valley"), in northern India just a few miles from the Himalayas. When he wasn't bargaining with the natives over the price of a mongoose or a cobra, he was travelling, for his safari covered one-third of India in about two months. His means of transportation included, in addition to conventional airplanes, trains, and busses, a rickshaw, a bullock cart, an elephant, and a camel. A compact camel, that is.

More and more Classmates seem to be succumbing to the charms of life in the Far West. Among the latest enthusiasts are John '52 and Bamby Snyder Werner, now living near San Francisco. Bamby writes: "We have wanted to live out here ever since we left the service, and finally made it. Believe me, this area lives up to all the glorious things that we have heard about it. Wendy, 2, and Greg, 5, have taken the move in their stride. Our present future project is the purchase of a sailboat. If there are any friends living in the area, we sure wish they would contact us. Our address is 36 Ivy Dr., Orinda, Cal."

Also ardent Californians are Patricia Robinson Klein and husband, Harry Klein '51, who moved in July into their new home complete with backyard pool, at 23347 Califa, Woodland Hills. The Kleins' son Wayne is 5½. Harry, a member of the technical staff of Raymo-Wooldridge Corp., enjoys zooming around in his new MGA.

Exciting news from the Far FAR West comes from Betty Woodward Smith out Seattle way. Betty and Jim '53 adopted a 5-day-old boy in May, and named him Gregg Stuart. The three Smiths will be moving into a new home December 1, at 16412 SE 16th St., Bellevue, Wash. Betty further reports, "We took a trip back East in September to visit the grandparents, and also saw some Cornellians. We spent one night in Levittown, with Marlene (Kroger) '53 and Lem Wilbur '54. We also visited the R. K. "Dutch" Van Leer '53 family in South Lincoln, Mass. We have lots of Cornellian friends in Seattle, so we keep in touch with Ithaca at least indirectly. Unfortunately, this month we are losing Nancy (Egan) '53 and John Webster '53 to Florida."

John B. Frisbie has found a home with Pan American. After a tour as an Air Force pilot, John began flying as a Pan American Airlines Atlantic division co-pilot in March, 1957. Early this year, he turned in his flight suit and took command of a large mahogany desk as a sales representative for Pan American World Airways, 80 E. 42d St., New York City 17. Mrs. Frisbie, the former Angela von Wallenberg, was formerly, of course, a PAA stewardess. Angela is a native of East Germany. Her family now resides in Bavaria where the Frisbies made a vacation visit last winter. John reports that Frank Brunstetter is attending the Medical College; that "Tish" Hayes '52 is with Pan Am in Long Island City; and that Tad Slocum '52 is in the PAA management training program. The Frisbies live at 201 E. 81st St., New York City 28.

Dick Hayes, 244 N. THESE R&D PROJECTS FOR FUTURE DECADES IN SPACE

*typify Lockheed's vast program of
Air/Space Science*

■ New programs under development at Lockheed's California Division are planned to solve America's future exploration projects into space. The new multimillion-dollar Research Center in nearby San Gabriel mountains is further evidence of Lockheed's determination to support and supplement its already extensive research and development activities.

Important forward-looking research and development projects now being conducted at Lockheed in Burbank are: Space Transports; Infrared System studies; Vertical Take-off and Landing Vehicles; Helicopters and Supersonic Transports.

Career opportunities exist in: Aero-thermodynamics; propulsion; armament; electronics—research and systems;

servomechanisms—flight controls; sound and vibration; operations research; physics; antenna and telemetry; underwater sound propagation; and for engineers with experience in structural, electrical and mechanical design.

The news is streaming in. It's fascinating to discover what some of you have been accomplishing in these five years. If you have a new address, send it to me quickly so I can print it before the Christmas card season begins!

Judy Frankel wrote that she was to be married September 26; so mail now reaches her as Mrs. Jerome Friedman, Apt. 11B 400 East 59th St., New York City. In July, the Allan J. Byers '54 (Nancy Behrbohm) family moved to 119 Lowell St., Andover, Mass. They have purchased a restored colonial, parts of which are more than 200 years old. "There's a lot of work to do, but we love it." Between projects at home Allan manages his own businessmen's club in Andover. Mrs. Lee McKinney (Linda Johnson) lives at 141 Spinning Rd., Dayton 31, Ohio. Her husband, an officer in the Regular Army, is attending the Air Force Institute of Technology and is taking the eight-month course in nuclear engineering for the Master's. They have an eight-month-old son, Lee, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Reed '55 (Leslie Papenfus) have announced the arrival of Carolyn Bradley, July 2, at their home, 5311 West Slauson Ave., Los Angeles 56, Cal. Les says, "She's the image of her father and has the temperament of a prima donna." Mrs. Joseph W. Calby (Diana Heywood) had a son, Douglas Heywood, September 29, brother to Ann, now two. Their new address is 7 Windsor Dr., Princeton Junction, N.J.

Mrs. Edward Kowalczyk (Cynthia Tucillo) sent word from 102 Farms Road Circle, East Brunswick, N.J., of a daughter Margaret born August 14; Margaret's brother, Andy, was two in April. Cynthia writes: "Helen Tackbary Williams and her husband Bob are living in New Brunswick and we get together often. Also saw Doris Caretti Oniskey very recently. She has a new baby girl, Kathy, born June 8."

News of the interesting travels of a Classmate comes from her father Frederick R. Hirsh, Jr. '26, 1491 North Holliston Ave., Pasadena 6, Cal. Susan "went to New Zealand on a Fulbright Grant in 1957, finished that work by travel in Samoa, and published her first paper on that in a New Zealand journal of anthropology. She remained at Auckland University to study for the Master's in anthropology and received the prize for being the best student in anthropology graduate study for this year. At Auckland, she met and was married to Ralph N. H. Bulmer of England. He is working for the Doctorate of Cambridge University. This July, he received a grant from the Wenner Gran Foundation; she one from the American Museum of Natural History, to study the natives of the Nahgi Valley in New Guinea. He will do anthropological work, and she will conduct archeological studies. This is a region never before studied by anthropologists."

Even if you aren't pioneering to the extent Susan is, you're important to us; so share the highlights of your life with us.

My, we have a hard-working Class! Grace Fox writes of her work as a chemical analyst at the New York Agricultural Experiment Station. She lives at 153 High St., Geneva. Dorothy Vinick of 29 Woodmere Blvd., Woodmere, is with Kenyon & Eckhardt Advertising in New York City, doing marketing and merchandising. Lyn Foley has changed jobs. She is now with Sheltering Arms Children's Service, an agency giving foster care service and adoption service to Protestant children in New York City. Lyn resides at 104 W. 90th St., Apt. 2-C, New York 24. Marge Kerslake finished the Master's at the New York School of Social Work in June and is working in this field in New York. Her most recent address is 3117 Broadway. Sheila (Bierman) Blume and husband Martin are very busy in Japan. They both have Fulbright fellowships, his in physics, hers in medicine. Their address is c/o US Educational Commission in Japan, No. 2, 2-chome, Kudan, chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, Japan. Sheila would love to hear from Classmates and, if you know of any Cornellians in the area, drop her a line. Getting a touch of Italy right here in the States is Pat Hewson. Pat, who lives at 676 Pleasant St., Worcester 2, Mass., is a home economist with Food Specialties and is surrounded by her product, Appian Way Pizza Mix and Sauce. Her title covers a multitude of jobs from developing new formulas and procedures to writing news releases, doing photography, and helping out in any way she can. Busy Class? You bet!

Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Hopwood, Jr. (Elizabeth Rothermel) have a son, Herbert Gladstone, born June 15. All congratulations may be addressed to 9825 Mac Arthur Blvd., Apt. B, Oakland 5, Cal. July 29, Cynthia (Lane) Karlin had a son, Jeffrey. She, husband George, little sister Janis, and the new baby all reside at 1519 North Bundy Dr., Los Angeles 49, Cal., the address of their new home! George '54 is still managing his hotel, the Alexandria, in downtown L.A. Evelyn (Weinstein) Hyde and husband Morris have a new baby girl, born September 5. Their older son was two years old September 4. Morris is a general practitioner with an office on Beacon Hill. Evelyn found time to attend classes and to receive the MA in International Relations of Clark University, Worcester, Mass. How to accomplish such a feat may be answered by her if you write her at 35 Ogden Rd., Chestnut Hill 67, Mass. Jane (Tyroler) Cusak's daughter is now a year old. She and husband Peter '55 are living at 308 E. 79th St. while Pete attends NYU law school at night. What he's doing in the day is a mystery to the writer of this column.

If you have Cornell friends overseas, don't forget it's time to mail those holiday cards to them. And how about a card of news and views for the '55 column?

Thomas Kerr reports that he has collected the MA in history from University of Buffalo and spent a month this summer in Europe with his wife, Donna. He is now teaching at Syracuse and working toward the PhD in social sciences. Address: Lyndon Trailer Park, Fayetteville. John Gill (5000 East End Ave., Chicago 15) returned to the ways of civilians last month after duty with the Army in Vicenza, Italy. He says Charlie Feeney joined him for a trip to Paris and London.

The Rev. Edwin von Borstel is now pastor of St. Johns Lutheran Church, Penn Yan, after graduation from Philadelphia Seminary in May. He's the first '56 man I've heard of in the ministry; any others?

Albert J. Mitchell of Albert, N.Mex., reports the arrival last November 30 of Albert J. Mitchell, Jr. Either Albert can be reached in Albert at the Tequesquite Ranch, if you can spell it properly. I can't. All I can spell is Albert. Dick Urban is now with research and development for Socony Mobil after three years on a destroyer leader named Wilkinson in and out of Long Beach, Cal. While not reforming presumably unrepentant catalysts, for Socony, he lives with wife, Barbara, and son, Russell, age about 1/2, at 501 Elm Ave., Pitman, N.J.

Ted Averill married Janet Brekke '58 last December and is now a technical representative of Monsanto Chemical Co. in California. The Averills, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W., live at 780 Ridgehaven Dr., in La Habra. Along with others from the Class of '56, Allen John Togut is in his fourth and final year at the Medical College in New York City. He married August 16, Myra Richman, a Vassar graduate. ... a hand in things to come

Moving mountains across the world

Following rugged paths through lonely African bush country . . . dredging a river bed to carry heavily-laden barges out of the steaming jungles of British Guiana . . . crossing 6,000 miles of ocean to reach a remote island in the South Pacific. This is all part of the job faced by the geologists and mining engineers of Union Carbide as they seek out the ores of chromium, manganese, columbium and other essential alloying metals.

These are the metals that make today's many special steels what they are—sinewy, for the cables of a great suspension bridge . . . sturdy, to support the tallest skyscraper . . . glistening with beauty in stainless steel tableware . . . and suitable for the hundreds of complex parts that make up your automobile. And now the demands of the space age make alloying metals more vital than ever.

Union Carbide moves mountains of ore halfway around the world to assure a dependable supply—almost two million tons a year. And the people of Union Carbide will continue their world-wide mining and refining operations to provide the metals so necessary for the products of today and tomorrow.

Learn about the exciting work going on now in metals, carbons, chemicals, gases, plastics, and nuclear energy. Write for "Products and Processes" Booklet G, Union Carbide Corporation, 30 East 42nd St., New York 17, N.Y. In Canada, Union Carbide Canada Limited, Toronto.
