CALENDAR NOT CHANGED.

Student Petition Received Favorably and Referred to the Faculty.

It is likely that the proposed changes in the University calendar will not come up for consideration by the Faculty again till next fall. The Trustees have referred the matter back to the Faculty. There will be one more Faculty meeting this month, but the whole matter will undoubtedly go over the summer. At a regular meeting on Tuesday, May 25, the executive committee of the Board of Trustees received a petition signed by many undergraduates, protesting against the proposed changes whereby the Easter recess was to be abolished and the spring term ended a week or more earlier than now. After the meeting the following statement was given out at the President's office:

"A petition signed (it is stated) by over 2,000 students was presented in which the petitioners, while offering no objection to the proposed lengthening of the academic year, begged that the proposed abolition of the spring recess be not adopted; and it was, on the motion of President Schurman,

"RESOLVED: In view of the regard and loyalty which the students have always evinced for the welfare of the University and the good relations which have invariably subsisted between the students and the Faculty and Trustees, that this petition be referred to the Faculty for their consideration, and that pending the receipt of a report from the Faculty thereupon no further action be taken by the Executive Committee on the subject of the proposed Calendar recently submitted to it by the Faculty."

Alumnae Club Changes Name.

At a combined social and business meeting of the Cornell Alumnae Club of New York on Saturday, May 22, at the residence of Mrs. Edward H. Wilson, of Brooklyn, amendments to the constitution were considered. The Committee on Revision favored a more democratic organization, admitting to full membership all women who had attended the University for one year. The club name, in consequence, was changed and in the future the organization will be known as "The Cornell Women's Club of New York."

In Memory of "Mechanics."

The accompanying photograph was sent to the News by a subscriber. It was taken at Purdue University and represents a monument erected at the time of the "burning of Mechanics," a ceremony performed each year by the Senior class at Purdue to celebrate its completion of the study of the "Mechanics of Engineering," by Professor Irving Porter Church '73, of the Cornell University faculty. A large wooden block is shaped in imitation of Church's "Mechanics" and is burned before the assembled members of the class. Sometimes an effigy of Professor Church himself is hanged or burned.

THE ALUMNI FUND.

Class of 1909 Is Already Contributing to It
—Plans of Cornellian Council.

The class of 1909 has not waited to be asked to contribute to the Alumni Fund. At the recent senior banquet a plan was proposed for co-operating in the work of the Cornellian Council, and at a subsequent class meeting the plan was unanimously endorsed. Pledge blanks were sent to all members of the class a few days ago, and subscriptions are already coming in in such numbers as to promise complete success. This movement is entirely separate from the class memorial. The plan is described in the following circular which was addressed to the members of the class:

"At the close of our senior year we begin to realize in part the debt of opportunity that we owe Cornell. This debt is one that cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but we have also an actual financial debt to the University. We all know that the sums which we have paid as tuition have covered only a small part of the actual cost of instruction. As alumni we should try to square this indebtedness. In the past it has been found difficult to raise money for University purposes among the alumni. In eight years' collection for the Alumni Field project only 1600 out of 26,000 matriculates contributed. This is attributed to the fact that a man is not kept closely in touch with the University after leaving it and loses much of his enthusiasm for it. Other universities raise considerable sums among their alumni by approaching them at the end of their senior year and keeping in touch with them afterwards.

"A committee has been appointed from the class of 1909 and every member of the class is to be asked to contribute for alumni purposes, according to the following plan. If, for instance, he subscribes for $100, he does not pay this sum outright.

but each year pays the interest at 5%, that is $5.00. Thus the income from the sum subscribed is made available each year for such purposes as the Alumni Field. It is true that Cornell is not a rich man's university, but the men from Cornell make good, and it is doubtful whether there is a man in the class who could not spare $5.00 a year to help pay his debt to the University. If 600 members of the class subscribe for an average of $100, that would mean a total subscription of $60,000, and a yearly income for alumni purposes of $3,000. The committee feels that every member of the class should be able and willing to subscribe for $100, but subscriptions of $50, involving a yearly payment of $2.50 will be acceptable. These pledges are not to become payable unless a total of $25,000 is subscribed by the class before November 1, 1909, and the first payment will not be due before January 1, 1910.

"If every member of the Class will sign the subscription blank below for such amount as he feels able to pay the yearly interest upon, 1909 will have established a precedent for classes of the future which will mean much for Cornell."

The pledge reads as follows:

"In consideration of the Cornell Council accepting this subscription on the terms given below, and agreeing to devote the funds derived from this pledge to general alumni and University purposes, I hereby promise to pay to said Cornell Council the sum of $..... This principal sum shall not be payable save at my option, and I agree to pay each year to said Council the interest at 5% so long as the principal shall remain unpaid. Unless $25,000 shall be subscribed for this purpose by members of the Class of 1909 before November 1, 1909, this pledge shall be null and void."

The following committee has been appointed to organize and direct the canvass for pledges: F. A. Rice, chairman; F. Fernow, S. E. Blunt, E. I. Bayer, J. Monroe, J. W. Cox, jr., A. P. Haney, C. B. Curtiss, jr., H. P. Reed, W. W. Goetz, J. A. Webb, R. E. Coulson, ex-officio.

In a circular just mailed to members of the Cornellian Council by the temporary secretary, Mr. Robert

J. Eidlitz, notice is given that the next meeting of the Council will be held at Ithaca, on Tuesday, June 15, at 2:30 p. m., in Room 302, of the entomological laboratory, main building, College of Agriculture. Notice is also given that the following amendment to Article VI of the by-laws is proposed by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees of the University and will be voted on at the meeting:

"SECTION 1. Remittances of all subscriptions secured by this Council shall be made to the Treasurer of Cornell University, and unless designated by the donor for specific objects, shall be kept in a separate fund to be designated 'The Alumni Fund' until formally appropriated by the Board of Trustees of Cornell University for specific University purposes or for the purposes specified in Section 2 of this Article.

"SECTION 2. To the Trustees of Cornell University there shall be presented, one month before their June meeting, by the executive committee of the Cornellian Council, an itemized budget of the estimated expenses of the Council for the ensuing year, and the treasurer of Cornell University shall pay from The Alumni Fund, upon the requisition and voucher of some officer duly authorized by the executive committee of the Council, the actual expenses incurred or to be incurred by the Council during such year, but not exceeding in the aggregate the amount specified in the budget."

Freshmen Burn Their Caps.

On Tuesday evening of last week the freshmen burned their caps. A large bonfire was kindled on the Library slope and the freshmen danced around the pyre and threw into the flames the little gray caps which symbolize their novitiate as students. The class assembled about half-past seven near Sibley Dome and marched, a thousand strong, from there to the scene of the burning. On their way they climbed over the two five-foot fences which were built on Central avenue several weeks ago to keep vehicles out of the Quadrangle. After the burning they marched down town bareheaded and effervesced for a couple of hours.

THE HARVARD REGATTA.

Cornell Varsity and Freshman Eights Both Victorious on Cayuga Lake.

It was a great regatta that was held on Cayuga Lake on Monday afternoon. Cornell won both the 'varsity and the freshman race against Harvard's crews over the two mile course. Stone School of Boston beat Cascadilla School of Ithaca over the Henley distance. The water was smooth and the day was warm and almost cloudless.

Coach Courtney sent against the Harvard 'varsity the same crew that had won the junior race at Philadelphia a week earlier. It was the same crew, with two exceptions, that won the freshman race at Poughkeepsie last year. Six of the men and the coxswain are sophomores. This crew defeated the Harvard 'varsity by a length and a half, in 10 minutes 41 seconds. Harvard's time was 10 minutes 47 seconds.

The 'varsity race was first on the program, but the crews did not go to the start till after 6 o'clock, having waited for a slight breeze to die out, and then there was delay in getting them off. They were sent off and then called back immediately by the referee, Mr. Bogue, because Stroke Sargent of Harvard had jumped his slide. On the second start, "Si" Weed, the Cornell stroke, got away with the flash of the pistol and began the race with a few feet advantage. Cornell held this lead and increased it steadily to a length and a half at the finish. Their stroke was a little slower than Harvard's at every stage.

In the freshman race the relative positions of the two crews were almost the same as in the 'varsity contest till near the mile-and-a-half point, where the Cornell freshmen put on an extra burst of speed and spurred to the finish. They won by about three lengths. Their time was 11 minutes and Harvard's 12 seconds more.

Navy Week Weather and Crowds.

Better weather could not have been desired than Ithaca had for "Navy Week." It rained on Friday night, at the time of the Savage Club Show and the senior ball, but the last cloud blew away on Saturday morning, a few hours before the Harvard baseball game, and Saturday, Sunday and Monday were perfect days. Ithaca was thronged and every event was seen by a large crowd of spectators. Percy Field was filled full at both the Harvard and Pennsylvania games. The observation train at the regatta carried about three thousand spectators. The Lyceum theater could hardly hold the crowd that attended the joint concert of the Harvard and Cornell musical clubs on Saturday night. Many of the fraternities had house parties, and for some of their guests the senior ball was the great event of the week.

There were many Harvard men in town, of course, what with the baseball team, the crews and the musical clubs. The athletes were quartered at the Ithaca Hotel and the musicians were entertained at fraternity houses. Most of the Harvard men came as early as Friday morning and stayed till Monday night.

FOURTH PLACE IN MEET.

Harvard Wins Intercollegiate—Taylor Breaks Record in Two-Mile Run.

Cornell took fourth place in the intercollegiate track meet at Cambridge on Saturday. The meet was won by Harvard, with Yale second and Pennsylvania third. The points were distributed among various colleges as follows: Harvard, 39 1-10; Yale, 25 7-10; Pennsylvania, 22 1-2; Cornell, 20 1-2; Michigan, 14; Princeton, 7; Swarthmore, Haverford and Syracuse, 3 each; Dartmouth, 2 1-5; Columbia, 2, and Brown, 1.

Cornell's points were earned in the following events:

Two mile run, P. J. Taylor '10, winner, 5 points.

Broad jump, E. T. Cook '10, winner, 5 points.

Throwing the hammer, L. J. Talbot '11, winner, 5 points; P. A. Sullivan '09, fourth, 1 point.

Half-mile run, C. M. French '09, third, 2 points.

High hurdles, J. C. Talcott '09, fourth, 1 point.

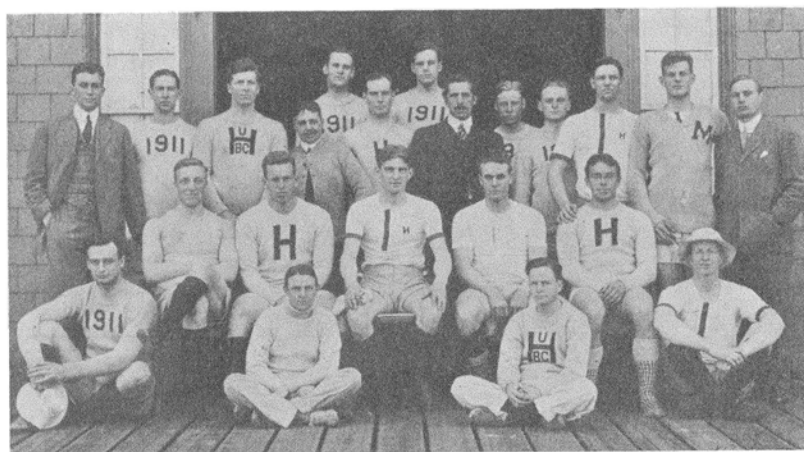

Putting the shot, L. J. Talbot, 11, fourth, 1 point.

Pole vault, E. T. Cook '10, tie for fourth, 1-2 point.

In the preliminaries on Friday, in addition to the above, E. G. Mac-Arthur '10 and Noland Blass '10 qualified without trial for the semi-final heats of the 100-yard dash to be run on Saturday, but neither of them reached the final. MacArthur had been suffering from carbuncles on his neck and had left the Infirmary to take part in the meet, and on Thursday night, in Boston, he underwent an operation. He ran on Friday in the preliminary heat of the 220-yard dash, however, and got a place in the semi-finals, but in this event, too, he failed to reach the final. Other Cornell men who qualified were S. F. Nixon '11, in the broad jump; R. W. Hitchcock '10 and R. B. Hurlburt '10, in the quarter-mile, and J. C. Talcott '09, in the low hurdles.

In the two-mile run Taylor broke the intercollegiate record by 7 1-5 seconds and made a new American record as well. At the start of the race, Dull, West and Hall, the Michigan men, jumped into the lead, Hall setting the pace for the first half mile. Close behind the Michigan men were Lightner of Yale and Jacques of Harvard. Taylor was in the middle of the bunch. At about the three-quarters Taylor began to show near the front. He came up slowly as the crowd rounded into the back stretch and ran on the outside near Dull for most of the lap. The pace became much brisker. At the mile Taylor led, but Lightner passed him in the next lap. Hall of Michigan dropped out, leaving his teammates close to the leaders. Jacques was about fifth. Soon afterward Taylor took charge of the race, and at the mile-and-a-half he began a spurt which he kept up to the finish. Only

HARVARD'S 'VARSITY CREW SQUAD.

Dull of Michigan hung on and disputed the leadership. Jacques moved up into third place and showed enough speed to give the impression that he had a chance, but only for a moment. Taylor put on a little more power, and swung into the stretch with a great burst of speed. He ran the last eighth of a mile in 61 4-5 seconds. Dull kept on trying, but he could not prevent Taylor from finishing ten yards to the good. Jacques was more than twenty yards behind Dull.

Two other intercollegiate records were broken in the afternoon, Paull, of Pennsylvania, winning the mile run in 4 minutes 17 4-5 seconds, and Campbell, of Yale, setting a mark of 12 feet 3 1-4 inches in the pole vault. Cook of Cornell succeeded in tying for fourth place in the pole vault with a mark of 11 feet 6 inches. He had vaulted twelve feet in the Princeton-Cornell meet, and in the preliminaries on Friday he cleared the bar at 12 feet 1 1-4 inches. His failure in the final was due to weak ankles, with which he had been troubled at times all the season. In the broad jump, however, Cook took first place.

In addition to winning the mile run in record time, Paull of Pennsylvania also helped his teammate Beck to take first place in the half-mile. Captain French of Cornell made great efforts near the finish, but Paull succeeded in keeping him back. Paull took second place and French third.

In the high hurdles Howe of Yale won in 15 2-5 seconds, the same time made by Talcott when he tied Dwight of Princeton the other day, but fourth place was the best that Talcott could get on Saturday. He failed to qualify for the low hurdles.

P. A. Sullivan won a point for Cornell by taking fourth place in the hammer throw, which was won by Talbot, the Cornell sophomore.

In the high jump none of Cornell's men qualified.

H. C. Young '10, who won the intercollegiate cross-country race last fall, was unable to take part in the meet, because he had not fully recovered from an attack of the mumps.

Savage Club Entertains Well.

The Savage Club gave a very entertaining show in the Lyceum on Friday evening. It was all the work of the Savages themselves, even to the words and music of the songs. The theater was filled with the senior week guests. Members of the Savage Club disguised as cowboys and señoritas served as ushers.

First on the program came the Savage minstrels, thirty-five in number. Most of them were seated at small tables grouped about the stage and the rest acted as waiters—an original arrangement for black-face capers. A. W. Peters '10 was interlocutor and E. S. Wheelan '11 and N. C. Mason '07 did most of the comedy work. There were songs by Aeneas Duclos '10, R. C. Rodgers '05. Wheelan and Mason—the music by Charles Previn '10 and C. S. Hayden '09, and the words by J. A. Harris '09 and R. D. Burnet '11. A buck and wing dance by C. G. Blake '10 and R. I. Worrell '11 was well done. After the minstrel show Dr. E. G. Cox and H. O. Walter '10 danced in Highland costume.

"The Tragedy of Terrors" was the title of the second part of the show. It was a "most mellow melodrama" of western life, in one act, written by N. C. Mason.

"Gun play for the bloodthirsty, soft stuff slung for the sentimental; quick action in bunches" is the way the "tragedy" was summarized in the program. A safe blowing act was a clever piece of stage mechanics, as was a rescue of the hero from being run over by a toy railroad train after the three villains had tied him to the tracks. The Owlingale was a yellow and green bird about the size of a hawk or an auk, which flitted about the stage. Everybody said the Savage Club had given a good show.

ROOMS FOR REUNION WEEK

Any Cornellian who plans to return to Ithaca for the class reunions may engage rooms for that time by writing to Professor Charles H. Tuck '06, of the University Faculty and stating what sort of accommodation is desired. Professor Tuck is chairman of a committee of alumni that was appointed for the purpose of looking after matters of this kind. His committee has a list of a large number of good rooms that may be rented at reunion time. The committee will make reservations from this list as soon as applications are received.

A DISCOMFITED ZEITGEIST.

In his article on the University of Michigan in a recent number of the Independent, Mr. Edward E. Slosson says that Phi Beta Kappa got into Michigan with the help of the Zeitgeist. We do not know this Zeitgeist. The Zeitgeist that we have seen in the undergraduate community at Cornell is not a friend of Phi Beta Kappa. Scholarship is not held in high esteem by the spirit of the times as embodied in the "prominent student." Prominence among undergraduates belongs to the athlete, the manager, the "joiner," the good fellow or the man that has learned to do a stunt. High marks are not highly valued by our Zeitgeist, and a few years ago he showed his contempt for Phi Beta Kappa by starting the society of Kappa Beta Phi, with ideals exactly opposite, as its name implies. "Sixty is as good as a hundred" might be its motto. Its members are prominent students, busy with things of real importance in undergraduate life. Its existence is a good-natured satire on old Phi Beta Kappa's faith in the ancient myth of scholarship.

Now, according to our Zeitgeist, the masculine names that are sprinkled through the annual list of elections to Phi Beta Kappa are those of men who not only lack the talent to win real undergraduate success but who are mentally abnormal and physically weak, spectacled, round-shouldered hermits. When Spring Day came around this year and various student organizations were planning to help in the show, Kappa Beta Phi challenged Phi Beta Kappa to a tug-of-war, knowing, we may suppose, that it would furnish sport to the crowd to see a number of pale scholars, blinking in the unaccustomed sunlight, bracing their thin legs and uttering weak little grunts as they were dragged over the turf by the prominent members of the community. Phi Beta Kappa accepted the challenge and the teams took the field, when, lo and behold! the scholars were the broad-shouldered and ruddy men. And, worse than that, there were some prominent students among them—an oarsman or two and even a manager. What they did to Kappa Beta Phi was a plenty. They gripped the rope with iron hands, and when they bent their broad backs and pulled, the Zeitgeist's tug-of-war team was yanked off its feet. It was enough to make us lose faith in the Zeitgeist.

BASEBALL OF THE WEEK.

Pennsylvania Defeated 1 to 0—Michigan and Harvard Games Lost.

During the week the 'varsity nine lost to Michigan and Harvard, but closed the home season by defeating Pennsylvania in a well played contest. The Pennsylvania team had beaten Yale and had twice defeated Princeton and, with their best pitcher, Schultz, in the box against Cornell, they seemed to be confident of another victory. They found themselves unable to hit Caldwell effectively, and the support which his team gave him was such that they were unable to get a run. Cornell got one.

Matchneer returned from an enforced absence of about a month on the day of the Michigan game and resumed his place at first base, relieving Williams, who went back to the catcher's position. Matchneer signalized his return by making three hits and two runs in the Michigan game.

The team's work in the Pennsylvania game was the best of the season and the men ought to give a good account of themselves in the remaining contests with Harvard, Williams and Yale.

One of the pleasantest things of the whole season was the good feeling between the two teams that was evident in the Harvard game. After Captain Caldwell had taken Howes's place in the box, the Harvard players, knowing that both Caldwell and Paul Williams, the catcher, were suffering from sprained ankles, did not attempt to bunt the ball. Anyone who knows anything of baseball knows that, with a crippled pitcher and catcher, a bunted ball is almost sure to be good for a base. Some college teams would have been quick to take advantage of such knowledge. If courtesy like that shown by the Harvard players in this instance is not a recognized part of intercollegiate sport, is ought to be. The conduct of the Harvard men in the field and on the bench was a pattern which, we are sorry to say, might be studied profitably by one or two of our own men. One Cornell player, in particular, was an offender. He was picked up, after being put out at second base, by the Harvard short-stop, and he did not acknowledge the courtesy by a word of thanks or even a look. A few minutes afterward he was coaching a runner at first base and was heard to say plainly "Meet him with your feet at second,"—a threat that the very man who had just assisted him to his feet might be "spiked" if he tried to put the runner out. The threat was a mere bluff, of course. In the Pennsylvania game the same player was at second base as a substitute base runner when his turn came to bat. He deliberately delayed the game by walking slowly to the bench,

"Cornell's Largest Fitting School"

"My acquaintance with the preparatory schools of the United States leads me to believe that the Ithaca High School stands in the front rank. Year by year bright young graduates of Cornell who have chosen the teaching profession have been drawn into the faculty of this school, which now contains, among other excellent teachers, eleven who have studied in Cornell University. The curriculum of the school gives great breadth of choice, preparing students for courses as various as are offered by Cornell. About seventy students annually enter the university from the school, and the preparation is uniformly good. Nearly every year one, sometimes more, of the eighteen undergraduate scholarships awarded upon competition to members of the entering class are won by graduates of the high school."—J. G. Schurman, President Cornell University. (Dec. 14, 1907.)

taking a drink of water and sauntering to the plate. His purpose, perhaps, was to get instructions from the coach, but his manner was inexcusable. The only reason for speaking of the matter here is to make it perfectly clear that Cornell men do not expect and will not condone boorish conduct by men who wear the C.

MICHIGAN 6. CORNELL 5.

Howes did not find himself till the third inning in the Michigan game on Wednesday, and in the first two innings the visitors got five runs. Hits by Lothrop and Olsen and a three-bagger by Lathers netted three runs in the first, and a fielding error, a base on balls and a two-bagger by Fountain in the second gave Michigan two more. After that Howes pitched a strong game for seven innings, during which time he struck out seven men and allowed only two hits. One of those hits, however, Lothrop's single in the seventh, with Barr's base on balls and Sullivan's sacrifice, gave Michigan a sixth run.

Except for a single by Matchneer in the third and a two-bagger by Lally in the fourth, Barr had the Cornell batters at his mercy until the fifth, when Cornell got three runs. Matchneer opened the inning with a single to left field. Howes drew a pass and Magner's sacrifice advanced both runners. Matchneer scored on Fulton's long fly to Sullivan and Howes came home on Captain Caldwell's safe hit to right. Ebeling brought Caldwell home with a three-bagger down the first-base line. At this point Blanding took Barr's place in the box. Lally drove a hot liner to left field which would have gone over Lothrop's head if that fielder's left arm had been two inches shorter.

Cornell came to bat in the ninth inning, three runs behind, and started a batting rally which almost won the game. Gable, batting for Thompson, singled to left. Judson flied out to right field. Matchneer singled. Gable went to third and Matchneer to second when "Hill" Jones, batting for Howes, was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Magner singled to center, but only Gable scored. Blanding lost control and threw the ball at the bench and Matchneer scored, Jones going to third and Magner to second. Jones made a beautiful steal home on an attempted "squeeze play," but Fulton failed to bunt the ball and Jones was called out. Magner was left at third when Fulton flied out to right field. The score:

CORNELL 1, PENNSYLVANIA 0.

Captain "Bob" Caldwell pitched the game of his life against the University of Pennsylvania nine on Monday afternoon. It was a great contest, full of interesting plays, although the score would indicate that it was largely a pitchers' battle. Caldwell allowed only three hits and struck out seven men. He used excellent judgment in his pitching and fielded his position perfectly. Schultz gave four safe hits.

Except for one poor throw on either side, the fielding of both teams was flawless and even brilliant. Cornell's single run, made by Magner, was partly the result of an error by the Pennsylvania shortstop, but Magner had hit safely and stolen second, so the run was not entirely a gift.

In the first inning Merrick singled after two men were out, but was left at first when Wood fouled out to Matchneer. Cornell got two men on bases in the second inning, Williams having singled and Judson having taken his base on balls. Thompson, however, struck out, Fulton fouled out and Matchneer was thrown out at first. Caldwell gave Smiley his base on balls at the opening of the third inning, and Smiley went to second on Thayer's sacrifice, but he got no further, for Caldwell struck out both Aldendifer and Merrick. Caldwell did some clever fielding in the fourth. With two out, Cozzens hit a slow grounder toward third base. The ball was rolling over the chalk line into foul ground, and the umpire had already called it a foul ball, when Caldwell picked it up on the line and threw the runner out at first. The umpire changed his decision, as he was bound to do, and called Cozzens out, retiring the side.

Matchneer was hit in the temple by a fast inshoot in the fifth inning and painfully hurt. After going to the bench and bathing the bruise he resumed his place at the bat. The umpire would not give him his base because the ball had hit the bat before striking him. The umpire was right, but the crowd's sympathy was with Matchneer, and he got a round of applause when he made a pretty single to right field. There were two out, however, and the next batter failed to hit safely.

Cornell scored in the sixth. Magner singled and stole second. Ebeling hit to Corkran at shortstop, who threw to third to cut off Magner, but the ball hit Magner's head and glanced off over third base and Magner sprinted home. Ebeling went to second, but was caught off that base by Schultz a moment later. Caldwell was out on a lucky catch of a hot liner by Merrick, and Williams hit up a foul fly which Cozzens caught.

In Pennsylvania's sixth Matchneer got more applause by scoring all three put-outs.

The seventh inning was full of incident. Hayden, the first man to bat for Pennsylvania, hit into the crowd beyond right field and took three bases. It looked as if he would score when Cozzens followed with a sharp grounder to Magner, but Magner drove Hayden back to third with a feint to throw to the plate, and then threw Cozzens out at first. This was only one out, however, and Hayden still looked dangerous. He started for home when Schultz drove a liner to left field. To Hayden's surprise, Judson caught the ball on the fly and then made a beautiful throw to Howard by which Hayden was caught out, retiring the side without the threatened run. Thompson of Cornell in this inning made a long hit to left field that was good for two bases, but he tried to make three and was put out there through Wood's fast fielding and good throw.

Pennsylvania was dangerous in the eighth and again in the ninth inning, but their efforts were nullified by Caldwell, who struck out four men in these two innings. The score:

HARVARD 5, CORNELL 2.

By superior hitting and the clever pitching of Hicks, Harvard defeated Cornell on Percy Field last Saturday by 5 runs to 2. Howes pitched seven innings for Cornell, and was batted hard, especially in the first inning, when Harvard got three hits and a base on balls, netting two runs.

Lanigan, the first man at bat, hit to left field and went to second on Harvey's sacrifice. Currier took his base on balls. Aronson beat out a bunt down the first base line, scoring Lanigan. Mc Laughlin struck out. Dana drove a liner to right field on which Currier scored, but Ebeling returned the ball to the plate and Williams caught Aronson out there. In the fourth inning McLaughlin reached first on Magner's error and scored on Simons's three-bagger to right field. Simons came home on Hicks's two-bagger to center. In the seventh, with one out, Harvey singled to right field and stole second and third. Currier took first base on balls. Aronson was out at first on a grounder to Matchneer, but, when Matchneer threw to the plate to catch Harvey, Williams dropped the ball and Harvey scored. Williams, however, whipped the ball to third in time for Howard to put Currier out there.

Captain Caldwell in the fourth inning hit to the club house for three bases and came home on Ebeling's bunt down the first base line. Ebeling led off Cornell's seventh inning with a three-base hit to the right field fence and scored when McLaughlin dropped Williams's grounder, Williams being safe on the error. Matchneer struck out. Judson hit sharply to McLaughlin, who let the ball get through him. Aronson fielded the ball in right field and threw to third, but Williams beat the throw there. Lanigan, however, threw to second and caught Judson at that base. Howard was put out, leaving Williams on third.

A quick double play probably prevented more runs by Harvard in the sixth inning. With one out, Briggs and Simons each singled. Hicks batted a grounder to Magner, who caught Simons at second, and Fulton completed the play by catching

[The following statement has been sent to the News with a request that it be published:]

In view of the publication in a recent number of the ALUMNI NEWS of a paragraph stating that Dr. Emily Dunning Barringer's nomination had been "almost unanimously endorsed by the alumnae clubs of Ithaca, Albany, Rochester and Philadelphia," it is fair to state that the Alumnae Club of Rochester, in a letter to the Cornell Alumnae Club of New York, definitely promised to endorse the latter's candidate, namely, Mrs. Mary Rogers Miller, and that the Ithaca Alumnae Club, while primarily favoring another candidate, after Mrs. Miller's nomination by the New York Alumnae Club, decided to endorse this same nominee.

In the final intercollegiate contest of the season, the 'varsity tennis team defeated Michigan on the Faculty courts on Saturday, May 22, five matches to one.

ACQUAINTANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS—Eighteen years of close study of the needs of students entering the various departments of Cornell University, has given us an intimate knowledge of the topics which are at once pertinent and necessary to successfully pass the Entrance Examinations. We are thus enabled to eliminate the unimportant and base our Examination Training on the things that are most needed.

THREE CLASSES OF STUDENTS BENEFITTED—Our summer courses are especially designed to meet the needs of three classes of students: (a) Those wishing to prepare for the Fall Entrance Examinations for Cornell University; (b) college students who have either Entrance or College Conditions to make up; (c) those who wish to begin their college preparation in order to anticipate their normal time of entrance under the ordinary conditions.

NEW CLASSES in all subjects will be formed on July 6th and August 10th, respectively. However students may enter at any time during the summer term.

CURRICULUM—The curriculum includes all of the academic subjects demanded in the Entrance Requirements to any and all of the courses in Cornell University.

GENERAL INFORMATION—Classes are small and carefully graded so as to insure the maximum amount of progress. In the boarding department, rooms are assigned in the order of application. Admission blanks will be mailed on request and any information desired will receive prompt attention.

THE REGULAR ACADEMIC YEAR for 1909-1910 opens Thursday, September 30th, for registration. Illustrated catalogue will be mailed on request. Address all correspondence to
