VOL. XXV, No. 32

ITHACA, N. Y., MAY 17, 1923

PRICE 12 CENTS

FORD contests are the outstanding feature of the annual Spring Day pageantry, with promises of an obstacle race, a tug-of-war, bumping contests, and a raffle on admission tickets entitling the winner to a Ford vehicle guaranteed to run. A letter sent to Henry Ford himself brought a response that promises some prospect that the manufacturer may appear in person.

FORD OWNERS have formed an association, which is taken seriously in some quarters as an effort to see that Campus cars are not interfered with in their pursuit of happiness, in return for which the owners of these cars will help to abate such nuisances as may arise from their noise and speed. Others think that the organization is merely publicity for Spring Day, and pronounce the initials F.O.P.A., for Ford Owners' Protective Association, in the French manner, faux pas.

THE ANNUAL HORSE SHOW had to be postponed because of rain but as the sponsors had taken the precaution to buy rain insurance, there was no pecuniary loss. The event originally set for Saturday, May 12, was postponed to Friday, May 18, the eve of Spring Day.

UNIVERSITY GOLFERS are to have the professional services of J. H. Chandler, formerly with the Windsor Club of Chicago. The new instructor has come to Ithaca not only as instructor to the members of the Country Club, but also to help lay out the proposed eighteen-hole course.

BEEBE LAKE is becoming more and more filled with detritus brought down by the erosion of sand and gravel along the watershed of Fall Creek; and each spring shows new deposits that not only reduce the capacity of the reservoir, but even threaten to fill it completely. Much gravel is hauled out each year for road making and structural purposes, but the hauling does not keep up with the deposits.

THE VERY REV. HENRY JOHN CODY, archdeacon of York, Canada, has accepted President Farrand's invitation to preach the baccalaureate sermon to the class of 1923. He is rector of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, and a member of the Board of Governors of Toronto University.

RAIN AND COLD prevented the open-air dancing festival of the women of the University, under the direction of the Department of Physical Culture. It was to have been held on the lawn back of Risley Hall, but was transferred to the Recreation Room of that building.

THE CORNELL DRAMATIC CLUB presented on May 11, 12, another series of three one-act plays including "The Last of the Lowries" by Paul Greene, "Sir David Wears a Crown" by Stuart Walker, and "A Game of Chess" by Adolph Sutro. Those who have seen the club in recent long plays seem to prefer the one-acters. Paul Greene is a graduate student in Philosophy from North Carolina. This was the last performance for the year.

THE DISCUS-THROWER in bronze has been added to the Museum of Casts in Goldwin Smith Hall, and the installation was made the occasion of an illustrated lecture by Professor Eugene P. Andrews '95, who gave the history of the sculpture, pointing out that all the full-size copies are in marble, and are unsatisfactory because the marble figure needs an artificial support, lacking in the original bronze, which has been lost. The bronze in the Cornell collection is the first statue of the sort to come to America.

THE DELICATE BROWN annual gentle roast of affairs Cornellian took place in the Dutch Kitchen according to schedule, before members of the Faculty, prominent Ithacans, and members of the senior class. In the eight-page paper, issued as part of the celebration, Sigma Delta Chi announced its policy of lampooning no one except those invited to see themselves as others see them. While most of the acts were skits satiric of Faculty and student affairs, the general atmosphere was that of a circus, and each guest entered with a bag of peanuts in one hand and a toy balloon in the other. Animal crackers and ice-cream cones were part of the banquet.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for May 20 will be the Rev. Dr. Samuel V. V. Holmes, minister of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Buffalo.

LECTURES for the week include "A New Halogenoid Hydracid and Some of Its Derivatives" by Dr. Gilbert B. L. Smith and "Vapor Pressures of Gasoline" by Elliott B. McConnell '23 before the Cornell Section of the American Chemical Society on May 14; "Ei Spaziergang durch Wien," illustrated, by F. Maidl, before the Deutscher Verein, on May 17; and Professor Boothroyd's public lecture at the Fuertes Observatory, on May 18.

THE LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD has issued a special folder for Spring Day, illustrated with cartoons and with photographs of former Spring Day glories; the reading matter mentions the two famous Franks, Dr. Frank Lehigh Wingert and Dr. Frank Sheehan.

APPROPRIATIONS that benefit Cornell University, made during the closing sessions of the Legislature, include the sum of $40,000 for a new roof on the Drill Hall. The present roof is a tar composition and was not meant as the permanent covering. It has already needed patching in several places during its few years of service; and since the laying of the new floor the need of a weather-tight roof has been increasingly apparent, because leaking water seriously buckles and warps the flooring. In addition to repairs and barn structures at the College of Agriculture, for which provision has been made outside of the regular maintenance appropriations, $22,500 has been made available for equipping the new wing of James Law Hall at the Veterinary College and for grading and roadmaking in its vicinity.

CHARLES E. CORNELL has presented to the University the portrait of his mother, painted by J. Colin Forbes a few years prior to her death in 1892. The picture has been placed in the corridor of Prudence Risley Hall, since Mrs. Cornell and Mrs. Sage were intimate friends and closely associated in philanthropic work. Mr. Cornell has also presented to the University the desk which his grandfather, Ezra Cornell, used during the last ten years of his life, in the earlier day of the University.

J. H. SWAN '24, of Evanston, Illinois, a sprinter, has been elected captain of the freshman track team, which was defeated by the Pennsylvania freshmen last Saturday in a meet run off in the rain at Schoellkopf Field, and in a fog so dense that the start of the hundred-yard dash could not be seen from the finish line; nor could the contestants in the longer runs be seen from one side of the track to the other straight-away.

SIBLEY PRIZES, amounting to $100 each, awarded to those men whose work shows greatest merit, have been won this year in the following order: Ernest L. Thearle '23 of Ithaca; Karl W. Pfeleger '23 of Arlington, New Jersey; Luke M. McVeigh '24 of Saratoga Springs; D. Edward Brainard '23 of Syracuse; and Harold Winograd '24 of Rochester.

HALF A MILLION dollars has been appropriated by the Legislature to start work on a new plant industries building for the College of Agriculture. This building will be erected to the east of Roberts Hall on the site now occupied by the greenhouse ranges, and work may be started as soon as the appropriation becomes available. A few years ago the State adopted a program that called for the expenditure of $3,000,000, and the College has been empowered to proceed in a building plan in accordance with this appropriation, though it may not expend more than the amount made available in any one year.

SPORT STUFF

As an invalid the Cornell track team is irresponsible and unreliable. Just as long as it can wiggle a toe or flutter an eyelid it's liable at any moment to throw off the bed clothes and smack the attending physicians. At Philadelphia on Saturday this outfit defeated a good Pennsylvania team in a meet which turned on the last event thereof. The victory was wholly unexpected both on the quadrangle and on State Street and the effect on general happiness and morale has been marked.

The track team has had to meet many discouragements. There has been little outstanding material. There have been defeats. There have been an unusual number of casualties due to busts, withdrawals, and illnesses. Nevertheless by what seems a miracle it once again rose to the occasion through the inspiration of its inspring leadership and its proud tradition.

There have been many better Cornell track teams than this one of 1923, but none more indomitable or gallant. R B.

FORTY-TWO HANDLE BONDS

At least forty-two Cornellians are in the bond business in New York, according to information recently sent to the Alumni Representative. The list, probably incomplete, includes: Theodore M. Hunt '12, Bankers Trust Co.; George Vail Hartwell '09, Howard F. Keady '21, Antonio Lazo '07, Bodell & Co.; Robert A. Dahn '16, Dahn & Bouton; Willard F. Place '18, Clarke Dodge & Co.; Robert G. Meade '17, William R. Compton Co.; Thomas B. Crews, Jr., '14, Thomas B. Crews, Jr. & Co.; Lowell Mason '14, Maurice M. Minton, Jr., '17, DeRidder, Mason & Minton; Russell Welles '16, Dillon Read & Co.; Edward E. Anderson '17, Discount Corporation of N. Y.; Roger H. Williams '95, Estabrook & Co.; Henrick Antell '17, First National Corporation; John E. Whinery '13, Guaranty Trust Co. of N. Y.; Donald J. Nightingale '18, Ralph T. Reeve '20, Halsey Stuart & Co.; Joseph P. Ripley '12, W. A. Harriman & Co.; Alexander G. Acheson '17, Arthur M. Acheson '14, Dwight N. Chamberlain '19, William D. Crim '16, George W. Ramsey '14, Arthur W. Mellen, Jr., '17, Parker Monroe '17, Harris Forbes & Co.; George A. Benton, Jr., '19, William Emerson '19, Stanton Griffis '10, Joseph Ward Hunter '16, John H. Michener '16, Robert Minshall '17, Jansen Noyes '10, Hemphill, Noyes & Co.; Henry Ickelheimer '88, Heidelberg Ickelheimer & Co.; William W. Balke '97, Hitt, Farwell & Co.; Allen D. Meaney '16, A. D. ## Buffalo Convention Oct. 11-13

Plans for Fourth Alumni Gathering Call for Last Day to be Spent at Football Game in Ithaca

The fourth Cornell Alumni Convention will be held in Buffalo on October 11, 12, and 13, 1923, according to an agreement reached by the president of the Associate Alumni, the Alumni Representative, and the Cornell Club of Western New York. Friday, October 12, Columbus Day, is a national holiday in many States.

A new departure for the convention this year will be the moving of it bodily on Saturday, by means of a special train of Pullmans, to Ithaca for the Cornell-Williams football game. The train will leave Buffalo immediately after the convention banquet on Friday, and will give delegates and visitors ample time to renew acquaintance with the Campus before the game.

The committee in charge promises further announcements about the program and arrangements from time to time.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

THE FIRST UNIT of Stephens Union at the University of California was recently completed, at a cost of $400,000. About $225,000 of this came from student, faculty, and alumni subscriptions; the rest came from the Associated Students, which turned in the profits of the store and other activities, and from raising the student membership from five to ten dollars. The ground and mezzanine floors contain the old Co-op, cafeteria, tea-room, and barber shop. Above the store on the first floor are the men's clubrooms and across the cloister are the offices of The Daily Californian and other publications and the Associated Students' ticket sales office. The main portion of the second floor is used for the women's clubrooms. Adjoining the main part of this floor are the Associated Students' general offices, including the graduate athletic manager's headquarters. On the third floor is the Memorial Room, the "show place," and west of this is an extensive roof-garden overlooking Faculty Glade and the Berkeley hills on the east and the campus and San Francisco Bay on the west. The remainder of this floor is occupied by the Alumni Association. A small fourth floor is reserved for the Student Affairs Committee. The annual overhead will be about $30,000, and only students who have paid their membership fee will be allowed to use the clubrooms.

IN MEMORY of her late husband, Henry P. Davison, of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., Mrs. Davison has established six scholarships for British students in America. Oxford and Cambridge are each to send three men to this country, and two of them are to study at Harvard, two at Yale, and two at Princeton. The universities concerned will grant free tuition.

ATHLETICS

Cornell Defeats Pennsylvania

Team strength, the basis of the Moakley system, triumphed on Franklin Field Saturday when Cornell won the annual dual meet from Pennsylvania by a score of 71 2-3 to 63 1-3. This was the twenty-sixth dual meeting with the Quakers, and the fourteenth Cornell victory, Pennsylvania having won twelve meets.

Statistics of the meet follow:

	Cornell	Penn.
Number first places.....	7	8
Number second places.....	9	7
Number third places.....	8	5
Score field events.....	26 $\frac{3}{4}$	36 $\frac{1}{4}$
Score track events.....	45	27
Total points.....	71 $\frac{3}{4}$	63 $\frac{1}{4}$

Few meetings between these two rivals have been more closely contested. The balance swayed from one to the other until the last event, the discus throw, in which Cornell won all three places. This feat had been duplicated previously in the 440-yard dash and in the half-mile run; while in the mile run and hammer throw Cornell won first and second places. The team in short rose to the occasion, each man doing a little better than he knew how.

Outstanding accomplishments for Cornell included:

Arthur B. Treman's victory in the high hurdle race, which he won in 15 5-10 seconds, and his trial heat in 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ , which equaled Walker Smith's record for the meet, Lovejoy's defeat of Lever of Pennsylvania in the 220-yard dash, in 21 2-5 seconds, breaking the meet record of 21 3-5 held by Lippincott of Penn; Kirby's fine victory in the mile run, which he won by fifty yards in the good time of 4:26 2-5; and a new meet record by Ebersole in the discus, 130 feet 6 inches.

For Pennsylvania there was Lever's victory over Lovejoy in the 100-yard dash, the Pennsylvania captain equalling the record made by Reller of Cornell in 1913 of 9 4-5 seconds.

Needs, in the high jump, broke the meet record with a leap of 6 feet 1 inch.

Owen broke the meet record in the pole vault, with a mark of 12 feet 9 inches.

And all this in the face of unfavorable weather conditions, a high wind whirling about the stadium.

The sprints developed into a battle of captains, Lever of Pennsylvania beating Lovejoy by about five feet in the hundred, while the Cornell captain turned the tables on his rival by about the same margin in the 220. Treman had no difficulty in winning the high hurdles, but Pennsylvania turned the tables in the low hurdles, Martin and Powers coming in one two, with Jaeger of Cornell third.

In the mile Kirby had things all his own way, as was expected; Leussler, of Cornell, beat out Head for second place. Cornell sent four men to the tape in the 440, and three of them scored, Crozier winning by a fine spurt in 51 2-5 seconds, against the wind, Coykendall coming in second, and Hennings third. In the half-mile Bernart showed the way home, followed by his team mates Gerry and Rauch. These three and Termohlem, also of Cornell, came down the straightway abreast, with McMullen of Pennsylvania in fifth place. McLane, Pennsylvania's crack two-miler, had no trouble in beating DeProse. Bonsal, Cornell's leading two-miler, was barred from competition because of illness.

In the pole vault Gouinlock of Cornell tied with Sherill of Pennsylvania at 12 feet 6 inches. Nichols and Bradley, Cornell high jumpers, tied for second with Faucett of Pennsylvania at 5 feet 10 inches. Bowen of Cornell upset predictions by winning the hammer throw, Thurman and Hamer of Pennsylvania took the javelin throw and shot put, Cornell cleaning up in the discus. The best broad jumping for Cornell was by Purdy, who cleared 21 feet 7½ inches, for second place. The summaries:

100-yard dash: Won by Lever, Pennsylvania; second, Lovejoy, Cornell; third Hill, Pennsylvania. Time, 9 4-5 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles: Won by Treman, Cornell; second, Powers, Pennsylvania; third, Watt, Cornell. Time 15 5-10 seconds.

One-mile run: Won by Kirby, Cornell; second, Leussler, Cornell; third, Head, Pennsylvania. Time 4:26 2-5.

440-yard run: Won by Crozier, Cornell; second, Coykendall, Cornell; third, Hennings, Cornell. Time, 51 2-5 seconds.

Two-mile run: Won by McLane, Penn sylvania; second DeProse, Cornell; third, Prytherch, Cornell. Time 10:18.

220-yard low hurdles: Won by Martin, Pennsylvania; second, Powers, Pennsylvania; third, Jaeger, Cornell. Time 24 3-5 seconds.

220-yard dash: Won by Lovejoy, Cornell; second, Lever, Pennsylvania; third, Hill, Pennsylvania. Time 21 2-5 seconds.

880-yard run: Won by Bernart, Cornell; second, Gerry, Cornell; third, Rauch, Cornell. Time, 2:00 2-5.

Running high jump: Won by Needs, Pennsylvania; 6 feet 1 inch; second, tie between Faucett, Pennsylvania and Nichols and Bradley, Cornell, 5 feet 10 inches.

Javelin throw: Won by Hamer, Pennsylvania; 169 feet 5½ inches; second, Papworth, Pennsylvania, 163 feet 8½ inches; third, Weissenberger, Cornell, 158 feet.

Shot put: Won by Thurman, Pennsylvania; 43 feet 3 inches; second, Hamer, Pennsylvania, 41 feet 11 inches, third, Bower, Cornell, 39 feet 11 inches.

Pole vault: Won by Owen, Pennsylvania, 12 feet 9 inches; second tie between Sherill, Pennsylvania and Gouinlock, Cornell, 12 feet 6 inches.

Broad jump: Won by Rose, Pennsylvania, 23 feet 1 inch; second, Purdy, Cornell, 21 feet 7½ inches; third, Needs, Pennsylvania, 21 feet 7 inches.

Rowing on Spring Day

The crews will make their debut Saturday in the Spring Day regatta against Yale and Princeton. The victory of the Yale crew over Columbia, following the reorganization of rowing at New Haven, makes the Spring Day race program one of the most important of the year.

The Cornell varsity eight this season has been slow in developing, largely because of a backward spring. The crew has not made as good time as last year's varsity, but Coach Hoyle has finally found a well balanced combination that are rowing well together, by placing J. Purcell, No. 7 in last year's freshman crew at No. 7 in the varsity.

The varsity eight will row Saturday as follows: Bow, C. F. Kells, 2, R. O. Egeberg, 3, C. N. Strong, 4, E. S. Calleson, 5, W. L. Hearn, 6, E. S. Baker, 7, J. Purcell, stroke, M. W. Filius, coxwain, B. J. Nicholson.

Kells, Strong, Hearn, Baker, Filius, and Nicholson were in the varsity at Poughkeepsie last season. Egeberg and Calleson were in last year's junior eight, and Purcell rowed in the freshman crew.

The freshman eight will row as follows: Bow, C. Russell, 2d, 2, R. C. S. Sutliff, 3, E. L. Anderson, 4, P. H. Michel, 5, R. Daley, 6, E. W. Drew, 7, S. T. Buckman, stroke, E. H. Emerson, coxwain, R. Aronson.

Columbia Wins Again

Rain compelled the cancellation of the baseball game with Yale at New Haven last Saturday. On Friday the team played Columbia in the second game of the season, and for the second time was defeated, score 11 to 3. The Cornellians could do little with Gehrig, who had previously beaten them at Ithaca, while Columbia got five hits off Knipe in three innings and ten off Fredericks in five innings. Gehrig, who in the game at Ithaca knocked out the longest home run made on the new Cornell field, also crashed out a homer in the game at New York.

This week Cornell was scheduled to play Colgate here Wednesday, while Dartmouth will be the opponent on Spring Day.

Lacrosse Loses

The lacrosse team lost its first league match of the year on Saturday, being defeated by Hobart at Geneva by a score of 8 to 2. The game was fast and rough. The Hobart team got away to a commanding lead by scoring four goals in the first five minutes. Cornell had plenty of opportunities, but many of the tries at goal were poorly directed, and Wheat, the Hobart goal tender proved very effective. Captain Rooney and Diehl scored the only points for Cornell.

The team is scheduled to play Syracuse, the Intercollegiate champion, here on Friday.

Tennis Wins and Loses

The tennis team defeated Lafayette at Easton last Friday winning three out of four singles matches. A downpour of rain caused the cancellation of the doubles matches. Barredo, Muller, and Huang won their matches, and Balch lost his.

At Princeton on Saturday the team fell victim to the Tigers, holders of the Intercollegiate championship, by a score of five to one. The only Cornellian to win his match was Barredo, who defeated Taylor.

Freshman Track Defeated

On a heavy track the Pennsylvania freshmen defeated the Cornell yearlings Saturday by a score of 85 to 50. The meet was run off in a drizzle, and a heavy mist nearly obscured the runners. The Quaker yearlings were superior in the dashes and hurdles, 440, and mile run; in the field events they won the pole vault, high jump, shot put and discus throw. Lewis, Pennsylvania hurdler, was the only double winner. The most spectacular performance was Craig's victory in the two-mile run. The Cornell youngster came through with a superb sprint on the back stretch, passing Bailey, who had been leading most of the race, and won a fine victory. Wester's performance in the javelin throw, of 154 feet 8 inches, was another creditable accomplishment.

Reunion Brings War Classes

Five Classes Will Live Together and Renew Interrupted Friendships

Under the modified Dix Plan which will govern the class reunions of June 15, 16, and 17 this year, one group of five classes—the war classes—will come back together; two groups of four classes each, and the Class of '73.

Because this is the first opportunity of all the classes in college during the war years to meet together, it is expected that the five youngest reunion classes, '17, '18, '19, '20, and '21, will take a prominent part in the celebrations. Plans are being made to house them together in the Drill Hall, either separately or in groups as they wish. The success of housing reunion classes together last year proved the wisdom of having reunion visitors really live together rather than split up into fraternity and other groups. Reduced rates on the railroads, provided enough certificates are asked for when tickets are bought, will bring a large number of visitors.

The war classes are planning on a combined dinner either Friday or Saturday evening, the Senior Ball is scheduled for Friday evening, Boldt Hall, the new alumni dormitory will be dedicated at noon, and the baseball game with Pennsylvania takes place at 2:30. Saturday morning the Associate Alumni hold their annual meeting, at noon the University will entertain visitors, members of the Faculty, and their families at luncheon, and in the afternoon the alumni play the varsity baseball team, with the rally of all classes in Bailey Hall that evening. Commencement is to be held on Monday, June 18.

FRESHMAN CAP-BURNING is set for Friday evening, May 18, on upper Alumni Field, with the usual large bonfire and a preliminary address by the Proctor.

Class numerals are at the side, reunion years across the top. Columns show classes holding reunions in years indicated at the top. Reunion years for any given class are found at tops of columns in which class numerals occur. Underlined type denotes twenty-five and fifty year reunions.

After the first few years for each class, the schedule shows the Dix Plan, with groups of successive classes so arranged that in nineteen years each class meets all classes associated with it in College.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Cleveland Women

The annual meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Cleveland was a dinner meeting at the College Club on May 3, which was largely attended. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. F. A. Williams '78 of Ashtabula, and Dr. Susie P. Nichols '98 and Josephine A. Lueder '18 of Oberlin. "Who's Who Among Cornell Women" brought out information about a number of alumnae who have made names in the affairs of the world.

Officers elected for 1923-24 were Florence A. Rosenthal '15, president; Lewette B. Pollock '14, vice-president; and Mrs. Bessie DeWitt Beahan '78, secretary-treasurer.

Buffalo Women

Mrs. Anna Botsford Comstock '85 was the guest of honor at the May meeting and luncheon of the Buffalo Club of Cornell Women on May 5 at the College Club.

Chicago

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was the guest and speaker at the regular luncheon of the Chicago Cornellians on May 10 at the Hamilton Club. The Chicago Club plans to hold regular luncheons on the three remaining Thursdays in May without special speakers and without announcement, discontinuing thereafter through the summer.

Buffalo

Buffalo Cornellians heard W. K. Bradbury, publicity manager for the Niagara Falls Power Company, describe the company's new tunnel project at their regular weekly luncheon at the Hotel Iroquois on April 27. Jacob F. Schoellkopf '04 presided at the meeting.

Utica

Plans for a motor caravan to attend Spring Day at Ithaca occupied part of the meeting of the Cornell Club of Utica at the Hotel Martin on April 24. The fact that Wallace J. Childs '98, who had a part in establishing Cornell's Spring Day, was a Utican, was brought before the Club, and it was expected that a number of machines would set out for the week-end.

Egbert Bagg '07, who is a member of the City Planning Commission, told the club something about the proposed zoning of the city, saying that it would prevent depreciation of property and would help future development.

The nominating committee reported the following slate of officers to be voted on at the next meeting of the Club: for president, Gay H. Brown '11; for first vice-president, Walter G. Frank '04; second vice-president, Mrs. Emily Lewis Beakes '18; secretary, Joanna M. Donlon '18; treasurer, David C. Wager '16; executive committee, Frederick E. Odell '14, J. Bert Wilson '18, and Harold C. Bowman '18.

Rochester

Dr. Erl A. Bates, of the College of Agriculture Extension Service, spoke on "The Indians of New York" before the Cornell Club of Rochester at its regular luncheon at the Powers Hotel on April 25.

Detroit

Detroit Cornellians took an active part in the "Intercollegiate" known this year as the Intercollegiate Clinic and held at the Statler Sanitarium and Hotel on May 12. After the luncheon, presided over by such noted physicians as Dr. Walter Camp, Dr. Kenesaw M. Landis, and Dr. Tyrus Cobb, the party adjourned to the baseball park to see a "practical demonstration" staged by the Detroit and New York teams.

Members of the Cornell Club gathered for their regular weekly luncheon the previous Thursday fifteen minutes early in order to tune up for the clinic. Commissioner Joseph A. Martin of the Detroit Department of Public Works was the luncheon guest and speaker.

FACULTY NOTES

PROFESSOR FLORA ROSE has gone to Belgium to study problems of nutrition in respect to Belgian children, and will investigate the effects of war on child welfare, particularly as to children born before, during and just after the war. Her studies are being conducted under the child health section of the educational foundation of the Commission for Belgian Relief, now a part of the American Relief Administration, of which Herbert Hoover is president.

PROFESSOR ROBERT M. OGDEN '01 addressed the thirty-second annual Harvard Teachers' Association in Boston recently. His subject was "The Need of Some New Conceptions in Educational Theory and Practice."

PROFESSOR HEINRICH RIES was in Cleveland last week attending the meetings of the Research Committee on Molding Sands, and the convention of the American Foundrymen's Association. He was elected an honorary member of the association in recognition of his research on molding sands. The Research Committee will maintain two stations during the coming year, one in the Geology Department at Cornell under Professor Ries, and the other at the Bureau of Standards in Washington.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM L. WESTERMANN spoke at the Bowdoin Institute of Modern History at Brunswick, Maine, recently on the subject, "Turkey from the Treaty of Sevres to the Conference at Lausanne". A heated debate is said to have developed when a former secretary to Premier Venizelos took issue with certain of Professor Westermann's statements.

DR. EDWARD B. TITCHENER spoke recently at the Pittsburgh Training School for Teachers on "Psychology and Science."

THE CONVENTION IN OCTOBER

MUCH time remains by the calendar before the convention in Buffalo that is announced in this issue. The three months alumnal siesta that intervenes for Cornell clubs and for the University in Ithaca, however, shortens down this long period to seven or eight weeks of usable time. It is, therefore, not premature in the least to announce the date of the Fourth Cornell Convention five calendar months in advance.

The business transacted last fall at the convention was far-reaching in its effects. Much of it was referred back to the committees to be worked out in greater detail. These reports are due at the regular annual meeting on June 16. In all probability the work of the 1923 Convention will consist in part of initiating the work of the Cornell alumni along the new lines thus laid down.

The Cornell alumni organization is unique. The difficulty of explaining it is great, particularly to devotees of the usual type of organization with a single supreme association. It has many points in its favor and many otherwise. The task of these two meetings is clearly to launch the alumni association upon a career of greater effectiveness, to simplify its operation where possible, and in any event to see to it that it arises from the operation no more complex and much more efficient.

Cornellians who are interested in the future of the alumni organization, or who look upon the alumni as a possibly effective unit in University organization, should make a point of being present at Ithaca on June 15 and 16 and at Buffalo on October 11 and 12, with the thought that their presence will assure giving the new organization the right start.

LITERARY REVIEW

The Old Apple Tree

The Apple Tree. By Liberty Hyde Bailey. New York. Macmillan. 1923. 193 cm., pp. 117. Price, $1.50.

In our issue of April 19 we reviewed Dr. Hedrick's book on New York pears. This is the season when our thoughts turn to Nature, with her blossoms and her promise of fruits, and we are therefore very glad of the opportunity to notice the very handsome and compact little book on the apple which Dr. Bailey has now added to the Open Country Series.

It goes without saying that the technical information contained in this manual is entirely trustworthy, since it comes from an eager student of Nature who is satisfied only with the highest degree of accuracy and fulness of statement attainable. The value of this book to the amateur or professional grower of apples is out of all proportion to its size.

What we should like to dwell on for a moment is the relation of science to humanity. It is often said that the study of science dries up our fondness for pursuits in the domain of the fine arts. Darwin as the years progressed lost his love of poetry. But such a loss need not and should not take place; and Dr. Bailey is a living illustration of the truth of these words. It is improper to describe him merely as a former dean of a great agricultural school, or as a busy editor of books invaluable to all who love the soil and its fruit, or as an expert botanist or horticulturist; he is first of all a man, well rounded, expert in the art living, who has been and is all of these and who has done all of these kinds of work with distinction. In all he does he never forgets the mystery or the beauty of life in its entirety; the garden is one of the places where one may think on these things. "Nobody knows how a bud from a Baldwin tree holds the memory of a Baldwin or from a Winesap tree the memory of a Winesap. Neither does anyone know why of two seeds that look alike one will unerringly produce a cabbage and the other a cauliflower. So accustomed are we to these results that we never challenge a twig of apple or a seed of cabbage; we assume that the twig or seed 'knows.' Nor have we yet approached this question in our elaborate studies of plant-breeding. Here is one of the mysteries that baffles (read baffle) the skill of the physiologist and chemist, yet it is a mystery so very common that we know it not, albeit the life on the planet would otherwise be utter confusion."

The Early Harvard Crews

Twenty Harvard Crews. By George Saltonstall Mumford, Harvard '87. With 22 Illustrations. Cambridge. Harvard University Press. 1923. 25 cm., pp. viii, 154.

This is a handsome volume of great interest and importance for the history of American athletic sports. The two decades represented by this book (1882-1901) were formative years in the athletic history of Harvard. Football developed from a rough and tumble contest into a real test of brain and brawn. So with rowing. Eight-oared rowing had been practiced in America only from 1876 on, and there was no fund of experience on which to draw and no preparatory school material available. There was no contact with English oarsmanship until Cornell and Yale went to Henley in 1895-6 and Rudolph Lehmann came over to Cambridge in November, 1896, remaining two years and rendering to Harvard and through her to the whole country valuable service in that he placed Harvard rowing on a much improved basis and helped to extend rowing to other colleges and preparatory schools.

Of the twenty races chronicled in this book seventeen were with Yale only; and of these Yale won twelve, the extent of the victory being from three to twenty-five lengths. Of the other three races, the Cornell-Harvard race of 1896 was won by Cornell and the Cornell-Harvard-Yale races of 1897-8 were both won by Cornell with Yale second and Harvard third. Mr. Mumford's explanation of this consistent series of defeats is that Harvard had no competent teacher of rowing. During a large part of this time the Harvard authorities discouraged the employment of professional rowing coaches like Cook of Yale, or Courtney. Another reason was the necessity of picking out the oarsmen almost a year in advance and then teaching them how to row, as a result of which it often happened that some powerful men remained in the boat who were really ineffective oarsmen. Skill at the oar depends not on weight or mere strength but upon a combination of several qualities, the possession of which cannot be foretold long in advance.

The author of this book was captain of the '86 crew and a coach in several subsequent years. He writes, therefore, with full knowledge, and has produced a valuable record. The book is well illustrated.

Books and Magazine Article

In The Physical Review for March Hillel Poritsky '20 prints a "Generalization of the Biot-Savart Law."

In The Cornell Countryman for May Professor Edmund L. Worthen, M.S.A. '08, writes on "New York's High Five in Fertilizers." Professor James E. Rice '90, contributes the second part of his serial on

"The New York State Poultry Improvement Plan." Miss Catherine Eloise Cleveland, instructor in clothing in the School of Home Economics, discusses "Child Welfare on the Labrador Coast."

An extended review by E. M. Tenison of "Sonnets of the Cross" by Thomas S. Jones, Jr., '04 appeared in The Boston Evening Transcript for December 6, 1922. A recent number of The Dundee Advertiser, Scotland, also contained a finely appreciative review.

William F. E. Gurley '77 contributes verses to the April Minute Man, organ of the Illinois Sons of the Revolution, and also to the April Oriental Consistory Magazine and The Dansville Morning Press for April 21.

Professor Frederic W. Simonds '75, of the Department of Geology in the University of Texas, has recently published as University of Texas Bulletin No. 2307, for February 15, a study of "The Austin, Texas, Tornadoes of May 4, 1922." It is admirably illustrated with seventeen plates.

Elias A. Loew '02, who was lost when the Alumni Directory was issued, turns up as lecturer in paleography at the University of Oxford. In The New York Times for May 4 is published an interview with him in which he discusses the Huntington manuscript recently declared by Dr. E. S. Buchanan to be a palimpsest, and gives his reasons for believing that it is not a palimpsest, and that any claims for a new version of the Gospel founded upon it are baseless. The Times for May 5 reproduces page 295 of the manuscript and publishes a letter from Professor George L. Burr '81 in which he counsels delay of judgment until other impartial judges can investigate the evidence.

"Animal Parasites and Human Disease" by Professor Asa C. Chandler '11, of Rice Institute, which is said to be the most extensively used text in parasitology in American colleges and universities, went into its second edition last year. Chandler writes in The American Journal of Tropical Medicine for May on "The Etiology of Dengue Fever."

"Tobacco and Mental Efficiency" by Professor Michael V. O'Shea '92, of the University of Wisconsin, is noticed in The New York Medical Journal for May 10.

In The Journal of Philosophy for April 26 David W. Prall, '11-12 Grad., of the University of California, reviews Giovanni Papini's "Four and Twenty Minds." In the issue for May 10 Wesley Raymond Wells reviews the second edition of "The Fundamentals of Psychology" by Professor Walter B. Pillsbury, Ph.D. '96, of the University of Michigan.

Town Topics for April 26 published biographical sketches of three Cornellians, Dr. Herman M. Biggs '82, State Public Health Commissioner; John I. Glover '88, of New York and Kansas City; and Floyd L. Carlisle '03, of Watertown, N. Y.

OBITUARY

Alfred H. Ballard '78

Alfred Hovey Ballard died of heart disease on April 29 in Danbury, Conn., where he had gone to open his summer home.

He was born in Syracuse, N. Y., fifty-five years ago, and entered Cornell in 1874 in the course in science and letters, receiving the degree of B. S. in 1878. He was a member of Kappa Alpha.

For several years following his graduation, Mr. Ballard was a reporter for The New York Evening Post and The New York Tribune, and for twelve years he was head of the firm of Ballard and Alvord, Inc., advertising agents, of New York. For the past three years he had been vice-president of the Tao Tea Company of New York.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith Barhyte Ballard.

Scott R. Hayes '92

Scott Russell Hayes died on May 6 at his home, Spiegel Farm, Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y. He had been in poor health for the past few months, but had continued his work until the first of May, when he became seriously ill.

Hayes was the youngest surviving son of the late Rutherford B. Hayes, nineteenth president of the United States. He was born on February 8, 1871, at Columbus, Ohio, while his father was governor of Ohio. With childhood friends of the family, he received his early instruction at the White House, later preparing for Cornell in the public schools of Fremont, Ohio. He entered Cornell in the fall of 1888, taking the science course, and became a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, leaving two years later to enter the First National Bank of Fremont.

For a number of years prior to his death he had been connected with the New York Air Brake Company.

Mr. Hayes is survived by his widow, three brothers, Birchard A. Hayes '74, of Toledo, Col., Webb C. Hayes '76, of Fremont, and Rutherford P. Hayes '80, of Clearwater, Fla., and a sister, Miss Frances Hayes of New York. He was an uncle of Sherman O. Hayes '12, of New York, and Scott R. Hayes '18 and Walter S. Hayes '18, of Toledo, sons of B. A. Hayes '74.

Henry A. Young '99

Henry Amerman Young, head of the consulting engineering firm of Young and Hyde, Inc., died of pneumonia on April 23 at his home in Maplewood, N. J.

Young was born in Elizabeth, N. J., on November 6, 1876, the son of the late Charles Phillips Young and Isabel Amerman Young. He attended the schools of Yonkers, N. Y., and after finishing the course in the high school there, he entered the University in 1895, specializing in waterworks and sanitary engineering, and receiving the degree of C. E. in 1899. He was a member of Delta Tau Delta, played short stop on his class baseball team in his freshman year, and served on the Senior Banquet Committee.

During the summer of 1897 and 1898 he was engaged as surveyor for J. C. Wheatley at Cold Spring, N. Y., and for the first year after his graduation he was surveyor for the Central Railroad of New Jersey. For a short time in 1900 he was draftsman for the New York Central Railroad, located in New York. Then he went to Havana, Cuba, as assistant engineer with the Department of Public Works. During the two years he was there he served as assistant engineer with the Park Department, superintendent of construction and repair shop for the city, superintendent of disposal and refuse for the city, and assistant engineer for the Sewer Department. From 1902 to 1905 he was assistant with the United States Engineer Corps, in charge of all construction work at Fort Washington, Md., and Fort Hunt, Va. In 1905-6 he was assistant engineer with the United States Reclamation Service, in charge of construction on the Huntley project in Montana. In 1906 he returned to Cuba, as engineer-in-chief with the Department of Public Works of the Republic, in charge of the Havana water supply and chief engineer of design and construction of the Camaguey water works. In 1909 he became associated with the Jobson-Hooker Company of New York, general contractors, as chief engineer, and in 1910 he entered into partnership with Howard E. Hyde, C.E. '00, under the firm of Young and Hyde, Inc., contracting engineers and exporters. Since 1911 he had served as secretary, treasurer, and general manager of that firm.

Young was a Mason, and was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the New England Water Works Association.

He was married on February 14, 1900, to Miss Caroline Berry Pearce of Yonkers, N. Y., who survives him with two daughters, Martha Thompson, nineteen years old, and Caroline Berry, eleven.

Mrs. Adams Phillips '03

Mrs. Adams Phillips died at her home in Washington College, Tenn., on January 13, after an illness of many years.

Mrs. Phillips was formerly Miss Alpa Lillian Meeder. She was born in Forestville, N. Y., on December 12, 1873, the daughter of Dr. Elwood D. Meeder, a prominent physician, and Lillian Putnam Meeder. She graduated from the Forestville Academy in 1891, as valedictorian of her class. In the fall of 1893 she entered the Fredonia State Normal School, graduating from the music department in 1896, and was chosen class musician. The following year she graduated from the classical and professional course, again valedictorian. In 1899 she entered Cornell for a year of special work in Latin, French, and German.

In 1900-01 she taught in the High School at Allegany, N. Y., and so impressed herself upon the student body that a class of six girls have kept in touch with her through the twenty-one years that have since elapsed.

On October 24, 1901, she married Adams Phillips, B. S. A. '01, of Cherry Creek, N. Y., a Normal School classmate. The first two years of her married life were spent in Cherry Creek. In the fall of 1903 she and her husband went to Washington College, Tenn., where he became professor of science and agriculture.

In the summer of 1905 they returned to Fredonia, where her husband was to teach biology in the Normal School. Her old acquaintances were renewed, and new and lasting friendships formed. The following January her physician announced that she had been seized by the disease which later caused her death. Two weeks later she and her family, with her father and mother, went to Mesa, Ariz., remaining there five months; her health improved so much that her physician now felt certain she could live anywhere in the South. In July they moved to Concord, Tenn., where Phillips became principal of the Farragut High School. During the eleven year spent there, although never strong, she was able to take part in the school and social life of the community and to manage home affairs. In 1919 they returned to Washington College, where Phillips became principal of the Washington College High School and Junior College. The following spring her health began to fail, and it was evident that her old trouble had returned. She had been confined to her bed since June 10 last.

Mrs. Phillips is survived by her husband, a son, Irwin Elwood, a sophomore in the University of Tennessee, a daughter, Alpa Ruth, a junior in the Washington College High School, and her mother, Mrs. Elwood D. Meeder, of Washington College, and a sister, Mrs. A. L. Turner, of Detroit.

Mrs. Foster M. Coffin

Emma Barrett Coffin, wife of Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative, died at her home at 417 E. Seneca Street on May 12. Death was caused by acute lymphatic leukemia, from which she had been suffering for about six weeks.

Mrs. Coffin was born in Philadelphia on January 31, 1895, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gillam Barrett. She graduated from Wellesley College in the class of 1917. She was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin were married in Philadelphia on March 1, 1919, and they came to Ithaca in August of the following year. During her residence here Mrs. Coffin had been active in Wellesley College affairs, having just concluded her second term as president of the Wellesley Club of Ithaca, and having been chairman of the Wellesley endowment campaign committee for this city.

The Rev. Martin D. Hardin, of the First Presbyterian Church of Ithaca, officiated at the funeral services, which were held at her home on the afternoon of May 14. Interment was in Westminster Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Coffin is survived by her husband; two daughters, Priscilla, aged three, and Jean, aged two; a sister, Mrs. John Christopher, and a cousin, Miss Emma Roth, both of Philadelphia.

ALUMNI NOTES

'73 BCE—T. Sidney White is now with the Penn Bridge Company at Beaver Falls, Pa.

'84 BS—John H. Grotecloss is principal of Public School No. 32, New York. He lives at 72 Maltbie Avenue, Suffern, N. Y.

'87 AB—Dean James E. Russell of Teachers College was one of four American educators to whom was given the degree of LL.D. by the University of Iowa at the recent celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the first permanent department of education in an American university. In presenting Dr. Russell Professor Horn said: "In appreciation of the scholarly insight, the philosophical poise, and the administrative ability of the man who, after first winning his spurs as an educational investigator and scholar of the first rank, within the short space of twenty-five years developed Teachers College in the City of New York from an insignificant junior college for the training of teachers into the institution which is to-day known around the world as the home of the modern science and art of education, the alma mater of countless men and women in strategic and important posts, fighting the battle of public education that men may know the truth and that the truth may set us free, we, the faculty of the University of Iowa, recommend for the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws the distinguished dean of Teachers College, James Earl Russell."

'89 ME—On April 18 Governor Smith signed the bill incorporating The Ministers' Fund of the Reformed Church of America, with a board of fifteen directors, the purpose of such corporation being to establish, maintain, and administer a fund, or funds, for the benefit of ministers of the Reformed Church of America who have been in the active service of the denomination at the time when they shall have retired from active service, and for the benefit of families of such ministers. William E. Reed '89, an elder in the Collegiate Reformed Church of New York, was one of the fifteen men chosen as charter members of the board of directors, and he was elected treasurer of the board at its first meeting held on May 7. His address is 175 West Seventy-second St., New York.

'94 PhD—Professor Joseph A. Leighton, of Ohio State University, delivered the annual Phi Beta Kappa address before the Ohio State chapter and other members resident in Columbus at the initiation and dinner on May 2. His subject was "The Social Function of Liberal Education." On May 16 he will deliver the opening address at the Columbus Institute of Religion, under the auspices of liberal religionists. His subject will be "The Ethics of Jesus and the Ethics of Modern Culture."
