Relax let science make you comfortable

Some ordinary-looking liquids are mixed together. In minutes they react, and the mixture foams and rises to become one of today's finest cushioning materials—light, tough polyether foam. This is the magic of chemistry.

People everywhere are enjoying the restful luxury of this new foam. It can be tailor-made for any use . . . soft enough for the cushioning of your favorite chair or automobile . . . firm enough to give restful support in a mattress . . . or even firmer for the safety padding on your automobile dashboard. In thin sections, it's being used as an interlining for winter clothing and insulation for sleeping bags. And because it contains countless tiny cells, this foam in rigid panels makes a highly effective insulation for walls and refrigerators.

Many of the chemicals needed to produce these useful foams . . . polyethers to form the structure, fluorocarbons to expand the foam, silicone oils to determine the cell size, and catalysts to trigger the reaction . . . are created by the people of Union Carbide. Their continuing research in the ever-changing world of chemistry promises to bring many more wonderful things into your life.

It's time to stop this nonsense

From every college in the nation comes the warning, "We're losing good professors faster than we can find them, yet our classrooms are growing more crowded each year. What will be the effect on our country, and on its citizens, if this trend continues?"

The warning has sound basis. Low salaries—characteristic in teaching—are driving gifted instructors and professors into other fields, and are discouraging promising young people from taking up academic careers. Classrooms and laboratories are overflowing now with students, and yet applications are expected to double in the next 10 years.

It's amazing that a nation such as ours, strengthened and enriched by our institutions of higher learning, should allow anything to threaten these wellsprings of our progress.

It's time to stop this nonsense.

In a very real sense, our personal and national well-being depends on the quality of learning nourished and transmitted by our colleges and universities. They need the help of all who love freedom, all who hope for our continued advancement in science, in statesmanship, in the better things of life. And they need it now!

Beta Theta Pi Takes Sports Title

By GORDON SCOTT LITTLE, Director of Intramural Athletics

WHILE WE WERE WRESTLING with participation statistics for this article, Keith MacBain '60 and Mac Beasley '61 dropped into the Intramurals Office in Teagle Hall. Keith is athletic manager for Beta Theta Pi and Mac is manager-elect for next season. We asked them, "How many boys in the house participated in one or more intramural activities this year?" They answered that fifty of the fifty-four boys living in the fraternity house had participated.

This, we think, tells the essential facts in the success story of Beta's annual quest for the All Sports Trophy. The juggernaut is still grinding. Beta has done it again! For the sixth time in nine years, Beta Theta Pi won the trophy emblematic of supremacy in all intramural sports. Starting the school year by winning the University championship in touch football, they added to their point-total with fourth place in broomstick polo, first in basketball, fifth in hockey, first in boxing, first in volleyball, and third in wrestling, for a total of 57 points. Their nearest rival, Phi Kappa Psi, scored 48½ points with a second in touch football, second in broomstick polo, fifth in hockey, first in track, first in wrestling, third in swimming, tie for third in softball.

"Dynamos" Lead Independents

Leading the "independent" organizations is The Dynamos, the longest on our records, with a first in touch football and a league championship in softball. In the Frosh Dorm competition, the "20" Brown All-Stars cinched the plaque for Dorm 2 with a first in touch football and a first in broomstick polo for 21 points. The "22" Gadabouts added 12 more points to Dorm 2's total with a second in touch football. It is significant that among the independents, the Dynamos and the "20" Brown All-Stars were the only clubs to score in more than one event. In fact, many independent organizations entered no more than one event.

Participation in intramural sports, like most other extracurricular activities on the Campus, has suffered an almost imperceptible, but nonetheless real, decline over the last seven years. Our peak year as measured by total participation was 1952-53. In that year we recorded 12,003 participations. Since then, the figure reached a low of 9,805 in 1955-56, but has been substantially over 10,000 in each succeeding year.

The success of any intramural program is measured largely in terms of total participation, and since our figures were on the decline we were somewhat worried and hastened to compare our figures with those of other institutions of similar size. To our surprise, we found that the same phenomenon had occurred in greater or lesser degree during the same academic years at other institutions. The functions of colleges being what they are, it is probably a good thing that the curricular is over-shadowing the extracurricular; and of course, we can always point with pride to 1952-53.

Champions in Fifteen Sports

In 1959-60, we had 10,234 players in 1523 contests with 620 teams and numerous individual contestants in twenty-three different sports that ran throughout the year. Besides Beta Theta Pi's championships in touch football, basketball, volleyball, and boxing and Phi Kappa Psi's in track and wrestling, the other intramural champions this year are Sigma Alpha Epsilon, indoor relay and badminton; Alpha Psi, broomstick polo; Sigma Chi, cross country; Lambda Chi Alpha, bowling; Javma, hockey; Pi Lambda Phi, swimming; Phi Kappa Sigma, horseshoes; Pi Sigma Epsilon (independents), softball.

University Champions—For the sixth time in nine years, Beta Theta Pi won the All Sports Trophy for the highest point-score in all intramural sports. It is the large cup in the center, flanked by the four cups the house won for championships in touch football, volleyball, boxing, and basketball. Some of the fifty chapter members who played on house teams this year are pictured with their trophies.

Alumni Trustees Report as Terms End

ALUMNI TRUSTEES are required by the By-laws of the Cornell Alumni Association to report to the Association when their terms of office expire. The terms of William Littlewood '20 and Allan H. Treman '21 will expire June 30. Both were first elected to the University Board of Trustees starting July 1, 1955. Littlewood is vice-president of American Airlines in charge of equipment research. Treman, son of the late Trustee Robert H. Treman '78, practices law in Ithaca. Their reports follow, for the information of all alumni.

By William Littlewood '20

It would be less than honest to say that the end of my term as Alumni Trustee does not cause me some regret. I have thoroughly enjoyed the privilege and have been greatly benefitted by the opportunity to serve you. As an Alumni Trustee, I have felt a particular responsibility to try to represent your point of view in various matters before the Board during my term. All Trustees, I know, serve the University unselfishly to meet its needs as they see them. However, there are different points of view on most issues of importance, and I have tried to ascertain and respect the alumni point of view, as I understood it, for the good of the University. I hope I have correctly interpreted your desires.

My report will not deal with statistics, nor will it be a recital of physical accomplishments. You have read of them all elsewhere. I would much prefer to speak of some of the ideas which have seemed important during my term and which, I believe, continue as prime concerns of the University.

Early in my term, there was held a University Council meeting largely devoted to a discussion of "The Teacher, The Student, and The Book." Perhaps this is a trite trilogy, but it impressed me greatly as a concise expression of the essential foci of a great University. Not that physical facilities are unimportant. In fact, to the required degree, they are essential. In a broad sense, they might well be considered part of "The Book." But nowadays it is so easy to judge or compare on a basis of physical assets and so easy to forget that the purpose of a university is to impart knowledge and train minds to do original and imaginative thinking. Facilities serve, but they are not the essence of education.

In some areas, we have greatly needed improved and expanded plant and facilities, and have been most fortunate in acquiring many fine physical assets. Our charge is to make the best use of what we have and what we still need and hope to acquire, and to achieve an ultimate balance between the capacities of our various requirements. In other words, our lecture halls, our classrooms, our laboratories, our dormitories, our eating and recreation facilities, etc. must be efficiently used and should be, among themselves, of reasonably balanced capacities. It seems to me that these objectives can be realized only as they are keyed to a basic plan for the University. Such a long range plan, subject to continual change as inevitable developments decree, is now being prepared and should serve well as an expression of what the University proposes to become, and be, in the world of higher education, and of what is needed to accomplish these objectives in the way of physical and academic assets, and what generous gifts are required to realize these aims.

Suggests Architectural Council

Within the framework of this major problem is a minor concern. How do we propose to keep these physical assets in the building category appropriate and aesthetically appealing as we develop our total balanced capacity? Long ago, Cornell departed from any concept of uniformity of architectural treatments. I like the variety and refreshing breadth of universal architectural concepts. But I would like to see adequate spacing and grouping of like treatments maintained as the Campus develops and, to this end, I would hope for the control of such matters to be vested in a competent and devoted Architectural Council. And I would hope for the future a broader consideration of the total costs of providing and maintaining needed facilities. All too often, a generous donor forgets the added burdens of operating and maintaining an essential unit. And sometimes under inflation, delay eats startlingly into the available assets.

I wonder if it is not sometimes worth more effort to bring our construction projects to prompt conclusions? It is painful to contemplate that some of our graduates will have no memory of the Cornell Campus except as "work in progress": a yawning excavation, an open trench, or a torn up road. I am possibly reminded of this by the very long time required to complete the Engineering Quadrangle, among many other construction ventures. This matter seems to me to merit more concern, if we are to be judged and remembered on a basis of physical appearance and to some degree, I am afraid we are.

And while I am being nostalgic, I cannot refrain from expressing a hope that a way will be found to keep automobiles off the central Campus, except perhaps for a very few essential to our aging graduate students or infirm Faculty or administrative personnel. If I remember correctly, one of the great attributes and distinguishing characteristics of Cornell graduates was a "well turned calf," developed in undergraduate days by innumerable pilgrimages afoot up and down the hills of Ithaca. Nowadays, the seat of physical development has been redirected; to the detriment, I fear, of the robust "Cornell type." I view with some concern the depth of cushions in our lecture halls and classrooms (I remember how easy it was to fall asleep even on a hard bench before an occasional boring lecturer), and recognize seriously that our competition outside the United States is being trained and educated under the rigorous conditions we used to enjoy.

But even as I state these concerns, both major and minor, I am very aware of the evident and continuing growth of a sense of student maturity and active democratic participation in Campus affairs; and of a fully maintained and increasing quality of Faculty with a high sense of academic responsibility accompanying the privileges of academic freedom; and of evident and substantial improvements in the details of organization and functioning of the University administration. These trends have been very clear during the last five years.

I have been privileged to serve, at times during my term, as a member of the Buildings & Properties Committee, as a member of the Willard Straight Board of Governors, as chairman of the Council of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations, on special committees, and as a member of the Executive Committee of the Board. So I have had ample opportunity to represent you. I thank you for the privilege and hope I have served to your satisfaction. And, may I add, I have no fears for the future of Cornell!

To have had the privilege of acquaintanceship with Andrew D. White and each but one of the succeeding Presidents of Cornell, and to have been privileged always to live in Ithaca and see the construction of each of the major University buildings from Goldwin Smith and Rockefeller Halls, and to have seen the increase in the size and quality of the Faculty and student body in the last several decades leads to growing admiration at the tremendous development and progress of Cornell, which even today is less than 100 years old. Alumni who return infrequently are amazed at the number of new buildings and the areas involved and the growth of the University, not only on the original Campus but in other areas, such as the Research Laboratory for Diseases of Dogs on Snyder Hill, the Ornithology Laboratory and other far-flung outposts of the College of Agriculture, the Aeronautical Laboratory at Buffalo, the Medical College in New York, and other schools. The Cornell Faculty includes specialists in almost every field of endeavor and proudly boasts of many scholars outstanding in the world. The ever-increasing number of students with their diversities of background, residence, and interests, the much higher entrance requirements, the "population explosion" admissions competition all lead to ever-greater potential in the student body.

Alumni Help University

Cornell is fortunate that so many of her alumni take an active interest in her affairs. Almost all of the magnificent new buildings in the endowed Colleges are gifts of generous alumni. This interest is also evidenced by Cornell Clubs, increased alumni giving, interesting new students through secondary schools committees and otherwise, and much constructive work by the University Council and many other groups. I feel, however, that alumni do not communicate as much as is desirable with the Alumni Trustees. It is the constant desire of Faculty, administration, and Trustees to endeavor to make the fullest use of all of these assets—Faculty, students, alumni, buildings and equipment—which go to make up the greater Cornell.

Trustees Take Jobs Seriously

The Trustees are constantly aware of their responsibilities. As a Trustee elected by alumni to represent alumni, I have attended every meeting of the Board in the last five years. I believe it is to be hoped that eventually more than ten of the forty-nine Trustees will be elected by the alumni. In earlier years, the Board, which meets four times a year, made most of the decisions in connection with the operation of the University, but in recent years the Executive Committee has more and more been doing so. This Committee meets once a month. This year, two Alumni Trustees are members of this Committee, but for a number of years previously only one was on it. Some of its actions are reported to the full Board at its next meeting, but more often the Board learns of the Executive Committee's actions by reading in the press or later in the minutes.

The Finance Committee has done a remarkable job both as to income, safety, and capital gain in investing the funds of the University. The Buildings & Properties Committee well performs its responsibilities as to new construction and maintenance of physical assets.

At present, the Board hears reports of the officers of the University, sometimes approves various committee actions, approves the budgets, elects Faculty mostly where tenure is involved, votes on matters of major construction and major matters of policy. On at least two occasions during the last five years, I asked that my opposition be recorded when I could not conscientiously agree with my colleagues. I believe that the magnificent John M. Olin Library will be a tremendous addition to Cornell's physical and cultural plant, but I felt strongly that some other location, especially one which would permit parking by its hundreds of users, would be preferable and that to destroy Boardman Hall was unfortunate. I could not vote for a Cornell degree to be awarded to the Senior who spearheaded the student demonstrations in May, 1958, flaunting disrespect for discipline, authority, good taste, and the University in general, and resulting in eggs being thrown at the administration building and stones at the home of the President of the University.

Present and future generations of students can gain immeasurable benefits from Cornell, its Faculty, its facilities, its traditions, and the beauties of its setting with the hills, the gorges, and the Lake. It is always the objective of the administration and the Trustees to further these benefits.

Thank you, alumni, for having elected me to represent you. I sincerely appreciate your faith in my sincere devotion to Cornell in having done so. I have done my best. It has been a great privilege.

Newcomers To Join Faculty

BURNHAM KELLY, associate professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been named Dean of the College of Architecture, starting September 1. He succeeds Thomas W. Mackesey, Dean since 1951, who is resigning to teach full-time after a sabbatic leave next year. A native of Evanston, Ill., Professor

Start Nuclear Reactor Building—Excavating has begun for this building along Cascadilla Gorge south of Upson Hall and Kimball & Thurston Halls. The $1,660,000 Nuclear Center will have facilities for teaching and research on atomic energy and radioactive isotopes. The facility was designed by Vitro Engineering Co., a division of Vitro Corp. of America, of which J. Carlton Ward, Jr. '14 is president. John W. Rouse Construction Corp. is the builder. National Science Foundation made a grant of $475,000; US Atomic Energy Commission, $150,000; and the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, $50,000, for reactor equipment.

Kelly received a certificate from University of Paris in 1932 and the BA at Williams in 1933. After he received the LLB at Harvard in 1936, he practiced law in Providence, R.I., for two years. In 1941 he received the MCP at MIT, then worked in the Office of Scientific Research & Development of the National Research Council. In 1945, he became a member of the department of city planning at MIT. He is the author of The Prefabrication of Houses, published in 1951, and co-author of Design & Production of Houses, published in 1959. He was a director of the Albert Farwell Bemis Foundation, 1948-54, and of the Massachusetts State Association of Architects, 1953-54.

Appointments in Agriculture

Professor Thomas C. Watkins, PhD '39, Economic Entomology, will become Director of Resident Instruction in Agriculture August 1, succeeding Professor A. Wright Gibson '17. Professor Watkins became a graduate assistant in Entomology & Plant Pathology in 1937; was appointed instructor in Entomology in 1939. He was chairman of a Faculty committee to study the student advisory system in the College of Agriculture; Ho-Nun-De-Kah gave him its Professor of Merit Award in 1958. He has been on leave this year with the UN Food & Agriculture Organization in Rome, Italy. He received the BS in 1928 at Davidson College; MS in 1930 at University of North Carolina; and taught biology at Washington & Lee until 1933, when he became principal of the high school in Dillwyn, Va. He is a member of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, Entomological Society of America, and American Phytopathological Society.

New appointees in Secondary Education in the Department of Rural Education are Mauritz Johnson, Jr., PhD '52, as professor and Gordon F. Vars, associate professor. Professor Johnson has been since 1953 at State College for Teachers in Albany, where he received the AB in 1942 and MA in 1947. He taught high school science in Bombay and Goshen; was principal of Moravia High School from 1948-50; in 1952-53, was research associate in a study of junior high schools for the State Education Department. He is co-author of two books soon to be published by Harper. Professor Vars since 1956 has been at the State Teachers College in Plattsburgh, after teaching in high schools and eighth and ninth grades. He received the BA at Antioch in 1948; MA at Ohio State in 1949; EdD at George Peabody College for Teachers in 1958.

Other appointments in the College of Agriculture are Professor Robert J. Young, PhD '53, Poultry Husbandry, who started February 1, and Richard D. O'Brien, who will become associate professor of Insecticide Chemistry in Entomology, July 1. Professor Young received the BS & MS at University of British Columbia in 1950; since 1953, has worked at the Banting & Best Institute, University of Toronto, and for International Minerals Corp. and Procter & Gamble Co. Professor O'Brien, a native of England, received the BS at Reading University in 1950, BA & PhD at University of Western Ontario in 1956 & 1959. He was at the Pesticide Research Institute in London, Ontario, and this year was visiting associate professor of entomology at University of Wisconsin.

Six new Faculty members will join the College of Arts & Sciences. David J. Grossvogel and Paul M. deMan come July 1, from Harvard. Professor Grossvogel becomes associate professor of Romance Literature. He has been visiting lecturer at Harvard since 1956; was previously managing editor of Harvard's Romanic Review and instructor at Columbia. He received the BA in 1949 at University of California; Certificat d'Universite at Grenoble, France, in 1950; MA & PhD at Columbia in 1951 & 1954. An authority on contemporary French drama, he is the author of The Self-conscious Stage in Modern French Drama, and edited an edition of Anouilh's "Antigone." This year, he has a Fulbright fellowship for research in Paris. Professor deMan becomes associate professor of Comparative Literature. Born in Antwerp, Belgium, he received the Candidature at University of Brussels in 1942. At Harvard, where he has been lecturer in comparative literature & general education, he won the MA in 1958 and will receive the PhD this month. Editor and translator, his publications include a Dutch version of Melville's Moby Dick.

New Men Come

G. William Skinner '47 will return to the Department of Sociology & Anthropology in September as associate professor, after two years as assistant professor of sociology at Columbia. He received the AB in 1947 & PhD in 1954. After three years as instructor here, he was appointed Field Director of the Southeast Asia Program and spent four years, 1951-55, as director of the Cornell Research Center in Bangkok, Thailand. He then worked in Indonesia as a research associate in Far Eastern Studies. Mrs. Skinner was Carol Bagger '49.

George A. Kiersch becomes associate professor of Geology, September 1. He has been assistant chief geologist for Southern Pacific Railroad since 1955. He received the GeolEng in 1942 at Colorado School of Mines and PhD in 1947 at University of Arizona and taught there from 1951-55. Raymond Bowers becomes associate professor of Physics, July 1. He was born in London and received the BSc at University of London in 1948; the PhD at Oxford in 1951. For two years, he held a fellowship at University of Chicago Institute of Metals; since 1953, has been at Westinghouse Research Laboratories in Pittsburgh, Pa.

First holder of the professorship of Christian Thought, established with a grant from the Danforth Foundation, will be the Rev. T. Alec Burkill, who has lectured on philosophy & theology at University of London since 1953. As visiting professor next year, he will give lectures on "Literature of the New Testament" & "Christian Theology" in the College of Arts & Sciences. Formerly director of the Adult Institute for English Studies in Benghazi, North Africa, he was a research fellow at Harvard and received the Master of Sacred Theology there in 1949; had taught at Manchester & Oxford, England, and University of Mainz, Germany. He received the BA, BD & PhD at Manchester and PhD at Oxford in 1947.

Fill Varied Faculty Posts

Stephen W. Jacobs will become associate professor of Architecture, October 1. He has taught at University of California since 1955; earlier, at Miami University in Ohio, Princeton, and Middlebury. He received the BA in 1940 & BArch in 1947 at Harvard; the MFA at Princeton in 1952.

Paul R. Broten '47 returns to the Hotel School Faculty, July 1, as professor of Hotel Engineering and Matthew Bernatsky, director of the hotel school at University of Denver, will become professor of Hotel Administration, to teach courses in food & beverage management. Broten taught at the School from 1949-57, after two years with Richmond Manufacturing Co. in Lockport; the last three years, has been consultant to Sheraton Corp. of America. Professor Bernatsky has been at Denver since 1948; was an officer in the US Merchant Service during the war, then food & beverage manager of Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis, and LaSalle Hotel, Chicago. A native of Hungary, he went through apprentice training at the Ritz Hotel in Budapest. He has taught restaurant management many years in Hotel School summer courses and workshops; has designed food service equipment used in many hotels; is food editor of Texas Hotel Review and president of the National Council on Hotel & Restaurant Education.

George H. Hildebrand, PhD '42, becomes professor of Industrial & Labor Relations, October 1. He has been director of the institute of industrial relations & professor of economics at UCLA since 1957; received the AB at University of California in 1935 and MA at Harvard in 1941.

New assistant professors in the Graduate School of Nutrition, July 1, will be Donald B. McCormick & James L. Gaylor. Professor McCormick received the AB in 1950 & PhD in 1958 at Vanderbilt; has been working with a fellowship in biochemistry at University of California. He is a member of Sigma Xi. Professor Gaylor received the BS in 1956 at Iowa State and MS in 1958 at Wisconsin, where he has a research fellowship in biochemistry and will receive the PhD this month.

At the Medical College in New York, George B. Chapman becomes associate professor of Anatomy, July 1. He received the AB in 1950, AM in 1952, and PhD in 1953 at Princeton; was research biologist at RCA Laboratories for three years and assistant professor of zoology at Harvard since 1956.

Many Win Promotions

Promoted to professors, July 1, are Joseph M. Hanson, Art; John W. Reps, MRP '47, Regional Planning; Robert M. Adams, English; William W. Austin & William A. Campbell, Music; Albert Silverman & William M. Woodward, Physics; William W. Lambert, Psychology & Sociology & Anthropology; Carroll C. Arnold, Speech & Drama; Herbert F. Wiegandt, Chemical Engineering; Charles D. Gates & William McGuire, MCE '47, Civil Engineering; Henry G. McGaughan, MEE '49, Electrical Engineering; Robert A. Beck '42 & Gerald W. Lattin, PhD '49, Hotel Administration; Landis L. Boyd & Wesley W. Gunkel, Agricultural Engineering; Robert P. Story, PhD '52, Marketing; Martin Gibbs, Biochemistry & Nutrition; Howard E. Evans, PhD '49, Entomology; Robert C. Baker '43, Poultry Husbandry; Stewart L. Dallyn, PhD '50, Vegetable Crops; John J. Natti, PhD '51, Plant Pathology; Clyde I. Boyer, Jr., Veterinary Pathology & Bacteriology; Julius Fabricant, PhD '50, Poultry Diseases; Morley R. Kare, PhD '52, Veterinary Physiology; Howard E. Evans, PhD '50, & Robert E. Habel, Veterinary Anatomy, and at the School of Nursing, Muriel R. Carbery, Nursing, & Henderika J. Rynbergen, MS '38, Sciences.

Promoted to associate professors are Jan F. Triska, Government; Toichiro Kinoshita, Physics; Robert J. Smith, PhD '53, Anthropology; Richard W. Conway, PhD '58, & John Hsu-Kan Kao, Industrial & Engineering Administration; Thomas P. Mitchell, Mechanics & Materials; Joseph E. Hampton, Business & Public Administration; Norman Penney, LLB '53, Law; Henry J. Bearden, PhD '54, Animal Husbandry; William J. Dress, PhD '53, & John M. Kingsbury, Botany; George P. Hess, Biochemistry & Nutrition; Gordon R. Cunningham, Forestry; Arthur A. Muka, PhD '54, David Pimentel, PhD '51, & Roger G. Young, Entomology; Ronald E. Anderson & Robert L. Plaisted '50, Plant Breeding; Martin B. Harrison '50 & William F. Rochow, PhD '54, Plant

Pathology; Ari Van Tienhoven, Avian Physiology; Joe P. Bail, PhD '58, & Frederick K. T. Tom, Agricultural Education; Bertram L. Ellenbogen, Rural Sociology; Edwin B. Oyer, Vegetable Crops; Robert S. Shallenberger, PhD '55, Food Science & Technology; Helen M. Bayer, PhD '55, & Eugene O. Peisner, Child Development & Family Relationships; Rose E. Steidl, PhD '57, Economics of the Household & Houserold Management; Katherine J. Newman, Food & Nutrition; Lewis L. Bower, Housing & Design; Ronald Donovan, Henry Landsberger '48 & Harrison M. Trice, Industrial & Labor Relations, and at the School of Nursing, Eleanor J. Muhs, Psychiatric Nursing, Laura L. Simms, Surgical Nursing, & Margie A. Warren, Outpatient Nursing.

What About Fraternities?

FRATERNITY CHAPTERS at the University and their role in the educational process are undergoing intensive study. The ALUMNI NEWS reported December 1 a planned study by the fraternities themselves and the April 15 issue noted the appointment of a Faculty & student committee under chairmanship of Professor Steven Muller, PhD '58, Government, that will report to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. The two groups are working together and it is hoped that their findings may be reported some time next year.

The self-study was initiated last fall under direction of a committee of resident chapter advisers headed by D. Boardman Lee '26, Kappa Alpha. With a grant of $2500 from the Interfraternity Alumni Association and one of $500 from the Interfraternity Council, a first survey of attitudes and opinions has been made of a selected sample of undergraduate members of twenty fraternity chapters here. This is being followed with another questionnaire to fraternity undergraduates and one to all Faculty members to ascertain their fraternity membership, interests, and views.

Professor Paul P. Van Riper of the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration, Beta Theta Pi adviser, is giving his services as director of these studies and he is being assisted by James M. Edgar '58, who is a student in the School. The information collected will be analyzed on punch-cards and reported next fall.

Financial operations of fraternity chapters and related matters are being studied by a subcommittee headed by Walter I. L. Duncan '20, Phi Gamma Delta adviser. The whole research is said to be the most exhaustive study of fraternities ever undertaken.

Other members of the advisers committee are Professors William A. Smith, PhD '37, Education (Sigma Pi), and John F. Wilson, Speech & Drama (Tau Kappa Epsilon); Director John L. Munschauer '40 of the University Placement Service (Delta Phi); and the president of the Interfraternity Council, Alan D. Kraus '61 (Theta Delta Chi), Thomas H. Nisbet '60 (Theta Chi), and Larry L. Bortles '61 (Chi Psi).

The resident advisers of fraternity chapters at the University have elected Duncan as the new chairman of the group, succeeding Munschauer. G. F. Shepherd, Jr., Assistant Director of the University Library and Seal & Serpent adviser, is vice-chairman and W. Barlow Ware '47 of the Development Office, Chi Phi adviser, is secretary.

Fraternities are not a new issue at the University. As testimony of this, see the comments below by the late Romeyn Berry '04 in his column, "Now In My Time!" of April 1, 1945.

Now In My Time!

Reprinted from CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS, April 1, 1945

HERE AT ITHACA, the talk of post-war changes at Cornell has worked around to fraternities. So far, administrators, teachers, and resident Greeks have been able to discuss this provocative topic judicially and without heat. We wish you the same and many of them!

This talk of fraternities did not start here. It's been going on at other foundations for some time, and not without progress toward agreement on remedial measures. At Amherst, an alumni committee after prolonged study of the question has recommended the abolition of fraternities. Here at Ithaca, all shades of opinion can come together, at least on the preliminary proposition that if you are ever going to tune the houses back into harmony with the educational and social aims of the University, the time to try it is right now when the altar fires burn low on the wick, the driveway has grown up with weeds, and it's practically impossible for the bank to locate anybody sufficiently Greek or secret to serve a summons on.

"What's wrong with the houses?" you ask, and we reply, "Not very much, but they're not particularly useful, either." The influence of most of them in recent years has tended to encourage no loftier aim on the part of the Brothers than to stay in college, keep off probation, and eventually, after four pleasant years, win through to a complimentary degree that will qualify them for membership in the University Club. It isn't that the fraternities do any great harm, but it looks as if the atmosphere that has prevailed in them acted more as a brake; not as a spur, upon the boys who start out with eager, intellectual curiosities.

There's more to it than that, of course, but your reporter is not inclined to accept the stories of goings-on at par. Little pint-size saturnalias have always occurred from time to time, and it's the natural tendency to regard them as symptomatic of a general condition rather than as detached, unrelated episodes. Undergraduate morals, fraternal or otherwise, are precisely where they were, we'd say, when you were in college. They haven't changed the least bit, apparently, in the forty-five years we've been hearing all about them at Campus teas.

But it still remains the inescapable truth that the term marks of the Brothers are, and for years have been, lower than the average in the whole undergraduate group; that the solvency of some of the chapters should be a matter of concern to debtor and creditor alike; and that those little saturnalias we've referred to now seem to occur—when they occur—more frequently inside the hushed portals of the Lodge than down on the flats or out around Monkey Run.

Your house is doubtless an exception, but we're talking about the situation in its entirety! If we are reasonably warm, then, in our search for the facts, you can scarcely blame the University for feeling that if it is to surge onward and upward after the war, it could probably get farther, and do it more quickly, if it didn't have to drag along the dead weight of some of those Greek playboys.

"No Time To Get Mad"

One way is to cut off this ball and chain of contented mediocrity with one deft, surgical slash. Another is to make one more effort to urge the houses to realize their unquestioned educational potentialities. This thing is likely to come to a head any time now, and perhaps you'd better be prepared. The least painful thing that can happen will be to have representatives of your outfit called upon the carpet to say things—to present plans—that will justify the continued existence of Alpha Beta Pooh in the Cornell that is to be. Doubtless you can meet this situation, but other chapters are likely to have a little difficulty!

Anyway, this is no time to get mad. You can best serve your house and your University in the impending crisis by being calm, good-natured, helpful, and cooperative. That's doubly true if your name is on the back of the fraternal note, or upon the face of the peculiar instrument which guarantees the mortgage on the Lodge. Is it? Think hard.

We're not really trying to start anything. We just thought you might like to learn what's going on up here.

Emerson Hinchliff '14

This appreciation of "Tar" Young '99 was written for The Cornell Wastebasket, put out by Spiked Shoe, the undergraduate and alumni organization of track and cross-country men and their fans.

HE WAS CHRISTENED Charles van Patten Young, but a younger sister twisted Charlie into "Tarley" and he has remained "Tar" ever since. When he was running the ski slopes, he said he wasn't sure whether he was a man or a hill, because people would call up his office in the Old Armory and ask, "Is Tar Young open?"

Born Thanksgiving Day, November 30, 1876, in Middletown, Ohio, and brought up in Williamsport, Pa., Tar was one of five boys and three girls, six of the eight becoming Cornellians. There was a great deal of athletic talent in the family, but Tar topped them all. In fact, he may be Cornell's greatest athlete, having earned the "C" in both football and baseball for four straight years. He loves to tell how he beat Princeton as a Freshman pitcher, with fifteen strike-outs and ten bases on balls. Control was a bit of a problem: one week The Sun would be ecstatic over him and the next his name would be mud because of wildness.

Tar was destined for the ministry, since his parents thought that at least one of the five should be a preacher, so after he received the AB in 1899, he spent three years at Princeton Seminary. He used to work out with the Tiger team; even pitched for them in non-collegiate games, one of which was a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. He had a church in Erie, Pa. for a year. In those days, alumni came back to help with football coaching. Tar was here for a couple of weeks one fall and President Schurman dropped in at practice down on Percy Field. A bit later, Tar got a telegram from Schurman asking him to come to Ithaca. The opportunities for service were so appealing that the young man accepted the call in 1904. He ran the Gymnasium as professor of Physical Training. Old-timers will remember that, in the days before cars, students could take a three-mile walk for Gym credit (with a checker enroute), the walk detailed each day in The Sun. There were those who complained! At one stage there was a country-wide craze for hiking, which Tar aided and abetted by setting up competitions. One of his stars was a co-ed.

Anything that had to do with sports or exercise was Tar's meat. Intramural sports had, if not their beginning, at least a great extension under his aegis.

For Physical Fitness

For instance, each College had a crew and the inter-College cross-country race would draw a field of 300 runners. The Outing Club was his baby, crowned first by Mount Pleasant Lodge and later by Tar Young Ski Hill. He financed such ventures by running roller skating in the Old Armory; profits from this were a blessing many times for the Athletic Office, even to the extent of paying the salary of an extra coach or two on occasion. He was a moving spirit in the campaign that brought Alumni Field into being and without his vigilance and efforts a dozen years ago, Hoy Field might have been dismembered for an I&LR building. The extent and availability of Cornell's athletic plant is the envy of the Ivy League.

In 1944, Tar retired as professor of Physical Education & Athletics, Emeritus. It made little difference in his activity, because he kept his office in the Old Armory and ran the Outing Club, roller skating, and the ski hill just the same. He gave up baseball some time ago, though for decades he was on the mound for the alumni against the Varsity in Reunion games. He was Campus tennis champion for just as long or longer. He has been a perennial timer or finish judge at track meets. He was a neighbor, pal, and staunch supporter of Coach John F. Moakley. Tar's picture, sponsored by Quill & Dagger, hangs in Jack Moakley House. Coach Lou Montgomery bears testimony that Tar has given him much help.

Tar Young wrote a book, The Cornell Navy, in 1907 and Courtney and Cornell Rowing appeared in 1923. A totally different metaphysical volume, Across the Borderline, bears the date 1946. His greatest non-athletic contribution, and an enormous one it was and is, is Cornell in Pictures: 1868-1954. This is a stunning book of photographs of Campus, students, Faculty, and all their activities, with Tar's connective discourse covering each decade. It was sponsored and financed by Quill & Dagger, of which Tar has been the longtime alumni treasurer. He is also a charter member (1915) and former president of Ithaca Rotary Club and is an outstanding Class secretary to '99.

Wrapping it all up in one sentence: There have been very few men who have done more for Cornell than has Charles V. P. Young '99. May he live long to enjoy his present activity as Honorary Associate of the University Archives.

Hopes of Leadership Go Glimmering

BUOYANT HOPES for a Cornell crew in the Olympics were at least temporarily diminished, May 28, when Penn beat the Varsity on a turbulent Cayuga Lake by eight feet in a two-mile race. Hopes for the baseball team were shattered earlier and the Red lost a chance for the Ivy lacrosse title by losing to Princeton, 6-5, in the last game. Tennis & golf teams closed their year with fair records and the track team, plagued by late-season injuries to key men, won its dual meets but had one of its least exciting years since Coach Louis C. Montgomery took over for John F. Moakley in 1950.

Switched Crews Win All But One

Cornell crews won five of the six races with Pennsylvania, May 28, but lost the one that held the most significance.

The 150-pound races, each at a mile and five-sixteenths, which started the afternoon were forced to the Inlet because of eighteen-mile-an-hour southwest winds which made Cayuga Lake a white-capped hazard. The Red crews coached by Walter Schlaepfer '51 won their three races in stylish ease. The course started at the Buffalo Street bridge and finished beyond Collyer Boat-house near the Lake end of the Inlet.

The heavies were supposed to get underway at 3:30, but the Lake was still rough, so Referee Norman G. Stagg '26 announced a delay of at least an hour. The Lake was not any better in an hour and predictions were for the wind to strengthen, so the coaches and referee decided to start with the varsity race.

Cornell's Varsity shell again had the same crew as for the year's first race, the Goes Trophy Regatta, in which Navy beat the Red on a foreshortened course of five-eighths of a mile. It was a Cornell Varsity's only defeat. But this boat load, which had been the Junior Varsity for two weeks, had beaten in a time-trial on Wednesday the Varsity eight that had won decisively the Eastern Sprint Regatta two weeks earlier and the Carnegie Cup Regatta the week before, and so won back its first-boat status. In doing so, it rowed 9:59 for the two-mile course, 2.2 seconds under the record.

The Red shell shot ahead in the choppy water and took a half-length lead in the first 200 yards. It kept this margin until about the half-mile mark, when Penn caught the Cornell shell, which was understroking the Quakers by three and four strokes. Penn was at 31 and 32 through the body of the race and Cornell was at a puzzling 27, then 28.

Rowing with the brisk wind and waves, Penn picked up a length after overhauling the Red eight. Not until there was about 400 yards to go did Coxswain Michael R. Hoffman '61 succeed in persuading his crew to pick up the beat. Going to 30 and 31 and finally to 33, the Cornell shell gradually narrowed the gap as the partisan crowd of 4000 at the Ithaca Yacht Club finish-line shattered the air with encouraging shouts. It looked as though their crew was going to do it; but holding a risky eight-foot margin, the Quaker boat at 35 rowed valiantly in meeting the ultimate challenge and never lost another foot the last ten strokes. The flag went down for the winner and almost immediately back up for the loser, six-tenths of a second later. Penn's winning time was 10:00.4, which beat the Cayuga Lake record of 10:01.2 set by the great 1957 Cornell crew. The Red time of 10:01 was also under the old record. Both crews caught a crab, Cornell's about the halfway point, Penn near the last-quarter mile; but both recovered quickly.

The reconverted Cornell Junior Varsity defeated without any trouble its Penn counterpart over a much smoother course, for the wind had, contrary to prediction, died down to a light breeze. The times of 10:14.8 and 10:22.4 represent a margin of two lengths. The Cornellians led all the way, with no worry.

The Freshman crew coached by Carl F. Ullrich '50 won by an even greater margin of three lengths, in 10:24.2.

Junior Varsity: 1, Cornell, 10:14.8; 2, Penn, 10:22.4.

Freshmen: 1, Cornell, 10:24.2; 2, Penn, 10:36.8.

LIGHTWEIGHTS (1 5/16 Miles)

Varsity: 1, Cornell, 6:37.0; 2, Penn, 6:48.0.

Junior Varsity: 1, Cornell, 6:38.7; 2, Penn, 6:46.8.

Freshmen: 1, Cornell, 6:45.0; 2, Penn, 6:46.0.

CORNELL HEAVYWEIGHTS

Varsity: Bow, Harold Craft; 2, Dave Nisbet; 3, Dave Knight; 4, Jim Sprindler; 5, Warren Icke; 6, Dave Haworth; 7, John Abele; stroke, Bob Simpson; coxswain, Mike Hoffman.

Junior Varsity: Bow, Stan Watkins; 2, Vic Ericson; 3, Don Spero; 4, Larry Lacken; 5, Herb Roes; 6, Dick Schwarts; 7, Bill Wiseman; stroke, Harry Moseley; coxswain, Al Krech.

CORNELL 150-POUND CREWS

Varsity: Bow, Dick Liversidge; 2, Harold Kaiser; 3, Dan Robinhold; 4, Charlie Brown; 5, Phil Platt; 6, Carl Volckmann; 7, Tony Seaver; stroke, Bob Byrnes; coxswain, Phil Herkenhoff.

Junior Varsity: Bow, Charles Bunting; 2, Dan Panshin; 3, Bruce Osadchey; 4, Dave Watts; 5, Whitman Paradise; 6, Doug Call; 7, Clyde Crumpacker; stroke, Jim Bethea; coxswain, Fred Ludwig.

Freshmen: Bow, Bob Heller; 2, Pete Parsons; 3, Leigh Miller; 4, Lew Evans; 5, Tom Clark; 6, Frank Fernald; 7, Bob Smith; stroke, Bob Blakeley; coxswain, Rowen Vogel.

cession and established it as the top contender for the IRA championship and Olympic honors. At first, Harvard was the Olympic designate, then Cornell, now Pennsylvania. The only loss the Penn varsity sustained was in the Eastern Sprint Regatta at Worcester, Mass., when a rough plane ride and poor housing made the Quaker oarsmen sick, tired, and sixth in the final.

Cornell did win the James Wray Trophy, which goes to the winner of at least two of the three heavyweight races in the Cornell-Pennsylvania regatta.

For the first time since 1955, the Cornell crews swept the Carnegie Cup Regatta, which was on Cayuga Lake, May 21. It was a well nigh perfect day: the sun shone, the Lake was calm, and the Regatta was run right on schedule.

The varsity race was won in 10:04.2, three seconds off the course record for the two miles, and the crowd, estimated at 5000, was sure it was looking at the US Olympic eight. How could we know that this was to be the Junior Varsity a week later, below a better Cornell eight that was to be beaten? Princeton finished second by about one and three-fourths lengths in 10:10.4 and Yale trailed in 10:12.4.

The Red Junior Varsity won with consummate ease, by at least four lengths, in 10:10.8, and Yale was second in 10:26.8. Princeton was third in 10:34.4. The Red Freshmen defeated Yale by more than two lengths, in 10:21.2; Yale's time was 10:30.3; and third place Princeton's was 10:34.2.

Two unofficial races were likewise in the bag for the all-conquering Cornellians this day. A Cornell alumni four-with-coxswain defeated a Princeton alumni four by six lengths over the Olympic 2000-meter distance. Time was a fast 6:46 for the winner. A second Cornell Freshman eight defeated a Princeton second freshman eight by ten lengths over the two-mile distance in 10:40.0.

150-pound crews did not fare so well, May 21, at Detroit, Mich. The Varsity lightweight crew lost to the Detroit Boat Club by a length. Time was 4:24 for a 1400-meter course. The next race the Junior Varsity lost to a Detroit Boat Club second heavyweight crew and beat the University of Wisconsin heavyweight junior varsity and the first heavyweight crew of Wayne University.

Lacrosse Team Comes Near

Ivy Lacrosse League

	W	L	T	GF	GA
Princeton	4	0	1	45	30
Harvard	3	1	1	65	57
Yale	3	2	0	43	37
Cornell	3	2	0	38	33
Pennsylvania	1	4	0	30	44
Dartmouth	0	5	0	23	43

For the third successive year, Cornell met Princeton in the final League lacrosse game, had a chance to win the title, but lost the game and the title, to Princeton. This time, Cornell was not the runner-up as it had been the two previous years when it was undefeated going into the final contest. This time it went to a tie with Yale for third place after losing, 6-5, at Princeton, May 21. Cornell's other loss was to Yale and Yale's was to Harvard, besides Princeton. Harvard made its best showing ever in the League, by taking second, and consequently, the Harvard Athletic Association relented and decided to underwrite the costs next year after two years without subsidy. The Crimson lost to Cornell, 13-12, and tied Princeton, 11-11. It had an 0-5 record the first year of its eviction, in 1959.

By beating Cornell in the critical game, Princeton won the Ivy title for the fourth successive year and extended its string to twenty-two League games without defeat. Although the Tigers led all the way, they by no means dominated the game. In fact, if star midfielder Captain David L. Dresser '60 had not been ill and just released from the Infirmary, it could have been quite different. Dresser played only sparingly because of his weakened condition. Even so, he scored 2 goals to lead his team.

The winning goal for Princeton was a fluke. Goalie Michael R. Gatje '61 of Brightwaters, who played a superb game with twenty-one saves, stopped a shot but lost the ball in the melee in front of the net. No one could find it in the stampede, but someone presumably stepped on it—Cornellian or Princetonian no one knows; the ball squeezed sideways and lodged itself next to the iron net-post, just barely inside, for a Princeton goal, game victory, and the League championship. The summary:

CORNELL (5)	PRINCETON (6)
G—Gatje	Krongard
D—Ferguson	Horton
D—Hall	Lawrence
D—Meyers	Eckfeldt
M—Bidwell	Broks
M—Ceran	Allen
M—Beeby	Nelson
A—Jones	Barker
A—Bissell	Miles
A—Davidson	Milling
Cornell	1 1 1 2—5
Princeton	1 1 2 2—6

Substitutes: Cornell—Carlson, McCarthy, Parsons, Glann, French, Dresser, Kelly. Princeton—Van Amerongen, Waters, Madden, Burton, Neubauer, Sachs, Campbell, Carter, Garrett.

Goals: Cornell—Dresser 2, Parsons, Ceran, Glann. Princeton—Nelson 2, Krongard, Miles, Milling, Van Amerongen.

Assists: Cornell—Beeby. Princeton—Van Amerongen, Miles, Burton 2.

Shots—Cornell 31, Princeton 37.

Saves—Gatje 21, Krongard 15.

The Big Red closed with an over-all record of eight wins, three losses. John E. Beeby '61 was elected captain for 1961.

Outlook for the future is bright. The Freshman lacrosse team finished its season by beating Colgate, 18-2, on Lower Alumni Field, May 21. They had an 8-0 record, outscoring the opposition 131 goals to 15. They beat Hobart, 22-1, on Lower Alumni, May 18. Thomas H. Beeby of Dersingham, England, brother of the Varsity captain, was high scorer with 6 goals and newly-elected captain, Richard C. Gibson of Rochester, made 4.

Track Team Beats Princeton

Despite the loss of Captain John S. Murray '61, star pole vaulter, and of ace sprinter George A. Ekstrom '61, with pulled muscles, the Varsity track team defeated Princeton at Princeton, 75-65, May 21. Raymond C. Burton '60 won both hurdles: the highs in 0:15.0, the lows in 0:24.9. Peter W. Brandeis '61 won the 880 in 1:55 to tie the meet record and he was second to Eric P. Groon '62 in the mile run. Outstanding for Princeton was Ed Thurber in the javelin with 210 feet 7¼ inches, a meet record; and a meet and stadium record for the Tiger mile-relay team. Their 3:16.9 beat the meet record of 3:19 and the Palmer Stadium record of 3:18, set by Cornell teams in 1949 & 1955, respectively.

Only two Cornellians qualified for the finals in the ICAAAA meet at Villanova, May 27 & 28. Pete Brandeis placed third in the 880 behind Tom Carroll of Yale and John Dante of Villanova. Winning time was 1:15.9. Eric Groon ran fifth in a close finish in the mile run. It was won by Dick Englebrink of Penn State in 4:09.1.

The talent-shy Freshman team lost resoundingly to Colgate, 93-47, on Schoellkopf Field, May 21. The Redmen scored 34 of their points in the field, only 13 on the track. Outstanding feats were those of Robert L. Potter with 12 feet 9¼ in the vault and 6 feet 1 in the high jump; Richard C. Miller's 134 feet 6 in the 16-pound hammer; N. Dexter Cole, Jr. with 21 feet 1¼ in the broad jump. Only Cornell track victory was Jerald Silverman in the 200 low hurdles in 0:21.5.

Baseball Team Flops

Most dismayed of the spring teams is baseball. Expectations were high, talent seemingly superior. Pre-season appraisal predicted good defense, good hitting, some concern about pitching. The hitting was fair, the pitching not strong but adequate, the defense embarrassingly weak.

Six losses and a tie comprise the record since May 6. League losses were sustained to champion Army, 8-4, May 21, on Hoy Field; to Navy at Annapolis, 8-7, May 24; to Penn on Hoy Field, 8-3, May 28. A rained-out non-League game with Syracuse at Syracuse was played May 17 and the Orange won, 10-6. The tie game was with Syracuse at Ithaca, May 10, called in the eleventh because of darkness with the score deadlocked at 5-5. In the Army game, Cornell made six errors; in the Navy game, four; in the Penn game, eight. Had the defense been only moderately effective, all three could have been victories.

In the Army game, it was a big second inning in which the Cadets made 6 runs that forecast the outcome. The porous Cornell defense caused the trouble. When Sophomore pitcher Arlo R. McDowell walked two men and another singled, the bases were loaded. This was the time when third baseman Timothy J. Keliher '60 chose to let a roller go through his legs for the first of his four errors. The usually reliable Lyman M. Beggs '61, catcher, committed two errors and two well-equipped infielders, Captain Michael H. Kaufman '60, second baseman, and Patrick J. Pennucci '62 committed an error apiece at critical times. Cornell outhit Navy 11-9 and Cornell outhit Syracuse 12-10 and Cornell outhit Penn 9-3, but the box scores do not show it.

The Red finished at the bottom of the Ivy League with a 2-6 record. Its overall record, with games remaining with Colgate, June 10 & 11, was 3-9-1.

Fine Tennis Season Ends

Varsity tennis team ended its best season in ten years with a 7-4 record when it beat Penn, 6-3, on the Cascadilla Courts, May 28. The Red won all six singles and Coach "Jess" Sison, MS '55, used a second-string group in the doubles and lost all three. Although the team lost to Princeton & Dartmouth by identical 5-4 scores, it put up fine battles that were close all the way. The Princeton match was at Ithaca, May 21; Dartmouth, at Hanover, May 24. The latter was the third 1-point League defeat for the Red, which dropped it to fourth in the final standings. Columbia beat Cornell, 5-4, May 14, in New York.

Golf Team Breaks Even

Victories over Penn State & Colgate, May 18 & 21 on the University Golf Course and a loss to Army, May 28 at West Point, gave Varsity golfers a 3-3 dual-match record for the season. Penn State was beaten, 4-3, and Colgate by the same score. Army beat Cornell, 6-1. George Bickley '61 of Jenkintown, Pa. is captain of next year's Varsity team.

The Freshmen ended a 5-1 season by taking the Plebes at West Point, 5-2.

Daniel L. Bidwell '60 of Redondo Beach, Cal. was voted Cornell's athlete-scholar of the year and was awarded the Eastern College Athletic Conference Merit Medal. A football halfback and star midfielder in lacrosse for the last three years, he has an 81.3 average as a double-registrant in Agriculture & Business & Public Administration. A member of Sigma Chi, he has a University Scholarship.

Eight fall and winter Varsity athletes were honored by the Redmen, athletic honor society, with the Redmen Award

Tennis Cup—This trophy, named for Allison Danzig '21 (pictured above) is provided by Columbia for annual tennis competition between Cornell & Columbia. Columbia won it the first time, May 14. for outstanding performance: Warren E. Sundstrom '61, captain of the 1960 football team; John J. Sadusky '60, end on the 1957-58-59 football teams; George A. Farley '60, Ivy League single-game high-scoring record holder in basketball; David C. Auble '60, Eastern Intercollegiate & National Collegiate 123-pound champion and winner of final tryouts for 1960 Olympic wrestling team at 125.5 and voted "outstanding wrestler of the year" at Eastern & National championships; Allan R. Marion '61, 157-pound Eastern wrestling champion & captain of 1960-61 team; Philip M. Oberlander '61, member of wrestling team; Raoul A. Sudre '60, runner-up in National Collegiate fencing championships in foil & voted "outstanding collegiate fencer" of the year at National Collegiate meet; Eric P. Groon '62, star miler, indoor Heptagonal champion, and holder of Cornell indoor mile record of 4:15.4. The Varsity wrestling team was designated by the Redmen for outstanding team performance in 1959-60 and this will be noted on the permanent trophy.

Lawyers Hold Reunion

SPRING REUNION of Law School alumni brought 175 of them to the Campus, May 13 & 14. It opened with a dinner in Statler Hall at which the principal speaker was Sol M. Linowitz, LLB '38, vice-president, counsel & chairman of the executive committee of Haloid Corp. in Rochester. University Vice President James L. Zwingle, PhD '42, and Dean Gray Thoron of the Law School told the alumni of progress and plans. Alfred M. Saperston '19, past-president of the Law Association, presided.

Chief Judge Charles S. Desmond of the New York Court of Appeals presided at a Saturday morning symposium in the moot court room of Myron Taylor Hall on revisions in New York civil procedure proposed by the State Committee on Practice & Procedure. Speakers were Professor Jack B. Weinstein of Columbia, who is reporter to the Committee, and two members of the Law School Faculty, Professors John W. MacDonald '25, chairman of the State Law Revision Commission, and Rudolph B. Schlesinger, a member of the President's advisory committee on international rules of judicial procedure.

Alumni Group Elects

Annual meeting of the Law Association, Saturday morning, elected to the executive committee for three-year terms Laurens Williams, 3d., LLB '31, Henry A. Mark, LLB '35, and William G. Conable '36. That evening, the Law School Classes of '40 & '55 gathered for Reunion dinners in the Big Red Barn and those of '35 & '50 dined in Statler Hall. In charge of the respective Class dinners were Professor W. David Curtiss '38, Associate Dean of the Law School; Richard M. Rosenbaum, LLB '55; Peter P. Peterson, LLB '35; and Israel Margolis '47.

Professor Curtiss as secretary-treasurer of the Law Association was in charge of arrangements for the Reunion week end and was assisted by William B. Kerr '52, assistant secretary and administrative assistant to the Dean.

Expand Far East Studies

KNOWLEDGE of the countries of South-east Asia, India, and China and Japan will be considerably expanded at the University with government grants of about $340,000 awarded to Cornell for next year from appropriations made under the National Defense Education Act.

The University will receive $100,000 to strengthen its graduate work and advanced studies of the languages, history, government, economics, and peoples of these areas. In addition, about $90,000 will support graduate fellowships for travel and study: five for the Indonesian countries, four each for China and India, two for Burma, and one for Russia. Special research will be supported in Armenian, Sinhalese, Chinese, Arabic, and the Kechua language of several South American countries with grants totalling some $150,000.

Additional advanced courses will be given in the Division of Modern Languages headed by Professor J. Milton Cowan and graduate instruction in the several Departments of the University will be coordinated through the Department of Far Eastern Studies. Professor Lauriston Sharp, Sociology & Anthropology and Director of the Southeast Asia Program, will be in charge of the new work in that area; Professor Gordon H. Fairbanks, Modern Languages, will direct the India studies; and Professor Harold Shadick, Chinese Literature, will supervise the enlarged program dealing with China and Japan.

Floridians Elect

CORNELL CLUB of Sarasota, Fla. re-elected its officers at a luncheon meeting, March 19. They are Hubert E. Westfall '34, president; Herbert B. Switzer '12, vice-president; Mrs. Manuel Rodriguez (Eleanor Rose) '49, secretary-treasurer. The members enjoyed the new color movie, "Cornell Presents Its College of Arts & Sciences." Among those attending were Mrs. Gertrude Martin, PhD '00, the first Dean of Women at the University, and Trustee Sherman Peer '06.

Coming Events

Museum Gets New Director

THE UNIVERSITY announced, May 18, that Professor Alan R. Solomon, Fine Arts, would resign June 30 as Director of the Andrew D. White Art Museum and that President Malott had appointed Richard A. Madigan from the staff of Corning Glass Center to be Director of the Museum.

Professor Solomon came to the University in 1952 as instructor in Fine Arts and was appointed Director of the Museum when it was converted from the former President's House built by Andrew D. White, opening in 1953. He received the AB in 1942 and MA in 1948 at Harvard and had been a member of the staff at Harvard's Fogg Museum of Art. The White Art Museum had a Faculty advisory committee of which Professor Frederick O. Waage, Fine Arts, was chairman. The Museum has received many gifts of art objects and has had a continuous program of exhibits and classes for students; has formed a supporting organization of White Art Museum Associates. Professor Solomon will devote himself now to teaching and writing.

Announcement Brings Protests

Announcement of the new Director raised a storm of protest in The Cornell Daily Sun. In a series of editorials, The Sun said that the new Director is not qualified to continue to develop the White Museum as a teaching asset and art center for the University; that the President had decided to appoint a 'young administrator' as full-time Director rather than a more experienced art authority who would also teach, the choice made necessary by 'financial limitations'; and that he had made the appointment without consulting interested members of the Faculty. The Sun printed protests from members of the Faculty, students, and alumni, including a letter written to the President by David M. Solinger '26, who has been a generous contributor of art objects to the Museum.

President Explains Choice

The new Director, a native of Corning, received the AB last June at Drew University, where he majored in political science and economics. For the last year, he has been supervisor of visitor relations at Corning Glass Center & Museum of Glass and in charge of maintenance, hostesses, and souvenir sales in the Hall of Science & Industry there. He has supervised a program of visits to the Glass Center by student groups from schools and colleges and worked with the glass demonstrations and exhibits that bring many visitors to the Center.

President Malott is a trustee of the Corning Museum of Glass. He says that Madigan is an able administrator and has long been interested in art. The President told the ALUMNI NEWS that he has conferred with the Deans of Architecture, Arts & Sciences, and Home Economics about how best to "implement and make fully useful the White Art Museum in the educational program of the University."

Weather Dampens Spring Week End

FFMOWAATJ ("Fabulous Fifties, Moonlight over Waikiki, and All That Jazz"), this year's Spring Week End events, May 13 & 14, did not receive the blessing of the weather-man again. Most of the scheduled outdoor events except the "Fabulous Fifties" parade were cancelled and the celebrants spent the greater part of the Week End inside fraternity houses.

An innovation this year was to be a jazz concert "under the stars" in the Crescent, but rain forced it to be moved into Barton Hall. Another change was a switch in the time of the gala Barton Hall dance, "Moonlight over Waikiki," to Friday night instead of Saturday. YASNY ("You Ain't Seen Nuthin' Yet") did an excellent job, as usual, in effective decorating, and Eliot Lawrence provided the music. The dance was the best-attended event of the Week End. "All That Jazz," Saturday evening, featured Cozy Cole and vocalists Lambert, Hendricks, and Ross, a very popular jazz trio. Other public events of the Week End included Octagon's production of "Kiss Me Kate" and the Dramatic Club's presentation of Moliere's comedy, "The School for Husbands."

Over-all winner in the float parade was the entry of Pi Kappa Alpha & Kappa Delta. First place in the float class went to Tau Kappa Epsilon & Kappa Kappa Gamma, and first place in the novice class was won by Lambda Chi Alpha & Chi Omega.

Benjamin F. Hehn III '60 of Sharon Hill, Pa. was chairman of the Spring Week End committee.

"Binghamton & Broome County in 1980," a series of graphs and charts illustrating a redevelopment plan for that area, is the culmination of a year-long project of fifteen second-year graduate students in Architecture. The students, under the direction of Professor Kermit C. Parsons, MRP '53, studied population trends, economic situation, regional influences, land use, traffic, recreation facilities, housing, and utilities. The exhibit was at the Robertson Memorial Center in Binghamton for three weeks in April.

Radio Guild has announced as the new officers of Station WVBR-FM David A. Berkley '60 of New York City, president; Eugene H. Blabey '61 of Albany, business manager; Theodore E. Hlavac, Jr. '62 of Oakmont, Pa., program director; John F. Burns '62 of Arlington, Va., chief engineer; Sidney M. Bernstein '60 of Laurelton, treasurer; Frank N. Hawkins '62 of Sewickley, Pa., sales manager; and Joseph J. Delfausse Jr. '62 of Rockville Centre, personnel manager. The student-owned radio station won the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System's twentieth anniversary program contest. With 130 student stations participating, "Trav'lin' Light," aired by WVBR in May, 1956, was judged the outstanding program idea submitted.

Nancy J. Parker '60 of Brewerton in the last year and a half in Agriculture has been studying the effects of high gravity on flour beetles in an attempt to learn more about how living organisms will react in an accelerating rocket. Her study parallels similar research being carried out by others on dogs, monkeys, mice, chickens, and fruit flies.

"Tripod" Pursues Education — Banished from the Campus two years ago, the three-legged Husky has returned to his native land and lives with his former owners, Roger C. Burggraf '55 (above) & Mrs. Burggraf (Malle Kapsta) '56. He "wrote" to friends in Newfield, Richard Albright '37 & Mrs. Albright (Catherine Zeller) '37, denying that he "busted out" of Cornell and saying that he is working harder now for the PhD at University of Alaska, with special interest in a female sled-dog there. A float in the Spring Day parade showed Tripod with one of his friends of the Campus Patrol.

Spring Day Queen & Court—Lynne Holtzclaw '62 of East Aurora, sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon, was crowned Queen of Spring Week End at the "Moonlight over Waikiki" dance. She is pictured with her runners-up attendants in the Spring Day Parade. The Queen is flanked by Jacqueline S. Mithun '63 of Minneapolis, Minn. (left) & Karen L. Maynard '62 of Chatham, N.J. Seated in front are Marcia D. High '63 of Cincinnati, Ohio & Evelyn Hauptman '60 of Hempstead.

Campus Chest this year netted $1500 from its campaign and an April 9 concert by the Brothers Four and the Billy Butterfield Sextet. About half the money obtained will go to the Cornell Student Relief Fund, which assists students in time of emergency. Other organizations that benefit include the Heart Fund, World University Service, National Scholarship Service & Fund for Negro Students, Yellowstone Boys' Ranch, and American Field Service. Stephen J. Wilson '61 of Syracuse, chairman of the Campus Chest, says that the outgoing executive board decided without justification that the annual drive will be henceforth discontinued, deeming it as "unnecessary" and lacking student support. Both this reporter and Wilson believe that there is interest in this movement and that it should be continued.

John A. Ciampa, Law '61, of Boston, Mass. has been selected as chancellor of the Moot Court Board of the Law School. Robert B. Bailey '56 of White Plains won the first-year moot court competition by defeating John P. Des-sauer of Pittsford in the finals.

THE FACULTY

Board of directors of the National Aeronautic Association May 9 elected Theodore P. Wright, University Vice President for Research, to its group of "Elder Statesmen of Aviation." The honor was conferred "in recognition of your significant and enduring contributions over the years to the progress of aeronautics and your demonstrated qualities of patriotism, integrity, and moral courage worthy of emulation."

Dean John W. McConnell of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations is one of three outstanding contributors to welfare of the aged who received in recognition for their services framed scrolls presented by retired members of District 65, Retail Wholesale & Department Store Union, AFL-CIO, May 25, in New York City. His award is for "outstanding research probing the conditions of the aging and for his organization of studies related to pre-retirement programs."

Eight members of the Faculty have been elected to the Cornell chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary society. They are Deans George C. Poppensiek, MS '51, Veterinary, and Frederick H. Stutz '35, Education; Directors Henry G. Booker, Electrical Engineering, and Thomas Gold, Center for Radiophysics & Space Research; Professors J. Stanley Ahmann, Educational Psychology & Measurement, Carroll C. Arnold, Speech & Drama, Robert E. Bechhofer, Industrial & Engineering Administration, and Howard N. McManus, Jr., Thermal Engineering.

Professor John W. MacDonald '25, Law, has been appointed Edwin H. Woodruff Professor of Law. He received the AB in 1925 and the LLB and MA in 1926 at the University and joined the Law School Faculty in 1930. He was Faculty representative on the Board of Trustees from 1951-56. Professor MacDonald has been chairman of the New York State Law Revision Commission since 1958. He was executive secretary and director of research for the Commission from 1934 until he became a commissioner in 1956. He is co-editor of Cases & Materials on Legislation, a second edition of which was published last year; and of Cases & Materials for the Introduction of the Study of Law. He edited the Reports, Recommendations & Studies of the State Law Revision Commission from 1934-56 and the first two volumes of the 1938 Constitutional Convention Committee Reports. He is a past-president of the Cornell chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

A Short Guide to Classical Mythology, by Professor Gordon M. Kirkwood, MA '39, Classics, was recently published by Holt, Rinehart & Winston, Inc. The book is in dictionary form, with emphasis on myths that are important in literature, especially English literature.

Professor Clyde B. Moore, Education, Emeritus, is associate director of an evaluation of school systems sponsored by the National School Boards Association and American Association of School Administrators. With a grant of $75,000 from The Fund for Advancement of Education (Ford Foundation), his group will study school systems that are known to have superior school boards and professional leadership. Their reports will be distributed to board members, professional educators, and other community leaders.

Director Robert R. Wilson of the Laboratory of Nuclear Studies left May 11 for Moscow as a member of a five-man team to visit high-energy physics establishments in the Soviet Union. Also in the group are Professor Robert F. Bacher, formerly at Cornell, now chairman of the division of physics, mathematics & astronomy at California Institute of Technology; and Robert E. Marshak, PhD '39, chairman of physics & astronomy at University of Rochester, former Avco Visiting Professor of Physics. Their trip is part of an exchange of visits by American and Soviet scientists arranged last fall by the US Atomic Energy Commission and the USSR Administration for Utilization of Atomic Energy for cooperation in peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Professor Robert M. Palmer, Music, has received a Fulbright grant for study in Italy next year. He will do creative work in music and research in contemporary Italian music at the Academy of Santa Cecilia in Rome. He also has a Guggenheim Fellowship. The Palmers and their two daughters will sail for Italy in September.

Director William F. Whyte of the Social Science Research Center has been elected to the American Academy of Arts & Sciences.

Paper describing "An Experimental Study of Attachments to Cylindrical & Shallow Spherical Shells," by Professors Edmund T. Cranch '45 and James W. Dally, Engineering Mechanics & Materials, was presented at a recent symposium on nuclear reactor containment buildings and pressure vessels at the Royal College of Science & Technology in Glasgow, Scotland. Their work, sponsored by the Welding Research Council, was part of a broad investigation by the Department of Engineering Mechanics & Materials of the effects of local loads on shell structures. The results have application in the design of many pressure vessels and shell structures used in nuclear reactor installations where the engineer must be able to predict the effects of attachments made either to obtain access to a vessel or to support a shell.

Professor Charles D. Chupp, PhD '17, Plant Pathology, Emeritus, and Professor Arden F. Sherf, Plant Pathology, are co-authors of Vegetable Diseases & Their Control, published in May by the Ronald Press. Pertinent facts about the history, causes, and symptoms of vegetable diseases in temperate and tropical climates are given, and the weather conditions that hinder or favor them are recorded in detail. Because mineral deficiencies in soils often produce crop symptoms which closely resemble diseases, the authors discuss such deficiencies fully and describe their effects. A discussion of nematodes and current practices in soil sterilization are also included.

Charles R. Burrows, Director of the School of Electrical Engineering from 1945-56, has joined Page Communications Engineers, Inc., Washington, D.C., as vice-president and director of research & development. He previously was vice-president of engineering for Radiation, Inc. at Melbourne, Fla., where he established their advanced development division. At Page, a Northrop Corp. subsidiary, he will be responsible for the technical administration of the firm's space and satellite communications projects and research in the fields of radio relay systems, navigational techniques, and wave propagation.

Professors Peter P. Kellogg '20 and William C. Dilger, PhD '49, of the Laboratory of Ornithology have received a three-year grant of $50,000 from the National Science Foundation for investigations of bird sounds.

Professor Walter L. Nelson, PhD '41, Biochemistry & Nutrition, was elected president of the Statler Club for 1960-61. Director Harry J. Loberg '29 of the School of Mechanical Engineering was elected vice-president and Professor J. William Conner '40, Hotel Administration, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Professor Frederick M. Wells '26, Architecture, was elected a director for four years.

Professor Robert W. Dougherty, Veterinary Physiology, took part in a symposium on "Digestive Physiology & Nutrition of the Ruminant" at University of Nottingham school of agriculture in England. He was the only person from the United States to participate in the program attended by some 200 scientists. He discussed the "Physiology of Eructation," a topic on which he has been doing research for the last six years. Eructation has to do with the expulsion of gas from the rumen, or paunch. Failure of the eructation mechanism is one of the features of bloat, a common and costly digestive disorder of cattle.

Twelve-tone composition for viola and small orchestra entitled "Poem," by Professor Karel Husa, Music, will be performed at the World Music Festival in Cologne, Germany, this summer. It will be the second time a composition by Professor Husa has been played at the international festival. In 1950, his "First String Quartet" was on the program when the festival was held in Brussels. April 8, Professor Husa conducted his "Fantasies for Orchestra" in a concert given by the Syracuse Friends of Chamber Music. "Fantasies" was commissioned by the Friends of Music at Cornell in 1956 during the Festival of Contemporary Arts, and has been performed widely in the United States and Europe, including performances in Paris, Brussels, and Stockholm.

President's Gift

DRAWING by Herbert Goldberg that was reproduced in the February ALUMNI NEWS from the December issue of Esquire now hangs in the front hall of Noyes Lodge. It shows a down-and-outter telling a Salvation Army band, "If you can play 'Far Above Cayuga's Waters,' I'm your man."

Esquire sent Goldberg's original drawing to President Malott. He had it framed and a brass plate attached and presented it to Noyes Lodge, where students can enjoy it.

Addresses are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians are welcomed for publication. Class columns are written by correspondents whose names appear. Names & addresses in column headings are for Classes with group subscriptions or those in which at least half the members are News subscribers.

'00 ME—Charles S. Gladden was elected in April a member of the Sons of the Revolution through descent from his Revolutionary War ancestor, Ezbon Hubbell, sergeant, Fifth Regiment, Connecticut Line. Gladden lives at 7 Peter Cooper Road, New York City 10.

'04 AB—Charles A. Sleicher's book, The Adirondacks: American Playground, will be published by Exposition Press, New York City. He is president of Seaboard Foundry, Inc., Providence, R.I., and is the author of published works on foundry problems. He lives at 168 Armington Street, Edgewood, R.I.

'07 CE—Harry A. Patten is retired and lives at 13 Furches Street, Raleigh, N.C.

'09 BSA, '28 PhD—Ernest L. Baker is consulting psychologist to the Veterans' Administration and has a private practice in clinical psychology in Fargo, N.Dak. His address there is PO Box 1295.

From Carl Holmquist, New Hope, Pa.: "I retired from Sanderson & Porter, April 30, 1958, soon after my twenty-month stint in India. I was lucky; for nine days later, I left for the Near East on behalf of Thayer Lindsley, a World War I buddy, who has been successful in Canadian mining affairs. I happened to be in Baghdad July 14 when the government changed hands, and fortunately for me, it was nothing more than an interesting experience. Since October, 1958, I have continued to do consulting work, on a three-day-a-week basis, but unfortunately make the mistake of bringing work down to New Hope for the remainder of the week. Certainly hope to make the Reunion. No foreign assignments now in prospect, but who knows?"

'10-'11 Grad—Mrs. Marguerite English Holt writes: "I have returned to Center Church Home (84 Trumbull Street, New Haven 1, Conn.) after six months of residence in Florida at the St. Petersburg Methodist Home. I like our Connecticut climate much better than Florida's. Too much rain and hot weather to suit me." She is retired as cataloger from New Haven Public Library.

Joseph B. (Joe) Campbell (above), ME, is still in his old form holding forth on any subject presented to him. Still living in nearby Syracuse. You may expect to see him on the Campus this June, next year at our 50th, and many more to come. We are advised the picture was taken in a private dining room of the Essex House when the son of one of his friends was being married.

Another prominent citizen of Syracuse is William J. (Bill) Thorne who was recently made president of the Syracuse Better Business Bureau, an organization in which he has been a director and treasurer for many years. He is still a vice-president of Marine Midland Trust Co., with which he has been associated for many years. Last October, Bill had a bad fall, breaking his left ankle and shattering his right knee cap; wore a cast for five weeks and got around with the aid of a cane, but is now able to play golf with very little discomfort.

May 11, our annual spring dinner was held at the Cornell Club in New York, with the following members of the Class attending: Frank Aime, Herb Bellis, Tom Blake, Bill Christy, Chuck Chuckrow, Ed Cohen, Tom Cox, Davy Davidson, Hugh Gaffney, Dutch Gundlach, Fran Heywood, Bill Howard, Sid Kutner, Abe Lincoln, Charlie Miller, John Rewalt, Herb Reynolds, and Vic Ritschard.

Claire Hardy, 700 E. Jefferson St., Charlottesville, Va., who had planned to attend, became involved with the Hearing Examiners Program of the Social Security Administration in Region III and IV, and could not make it. He advises us he became 70 in April and was scheduled for mandatory retirement, but the Government asked him to stay on for another year, and he has accepted. We hope it won't interfere with his coming to our 50th in 1961.

Odyssey of a C.R.C. "Hobo Quintet"

Gustav J. Requardt '09 reports an interesting "odyssey" in Florida by a "hobo quintet" of the Continuous Reunion Club in March & April. Three Classmates in '09, Requardt, Alfred H. Hutchinson & Randolph W. (Cy) Weed, with William D. J. Kelly '00 and Clarence B. (Kid) Kugler '03 called on Cornellians and enjoyed their way for two weeks all around the southern shores of the State from Delray Beach to Key West and back up to St. Petersburg. Among the friends they saw and who entertained them were J. Daniel Tuller '09 in Delray Beach; Leon D. Rothschild '09, Hollywood Beach; Clarence J. Hand '09, Miami Beach; John C. Nulsen '14 & Mayor Francis Ford '15 in Naples; Arthur L. Frost '09, Sarasota; and Charles M. French '09, Peter T. Vanderwaart '09, James I. Clarke '12, and Dr. Richard Reeser, Jr. '32 & Mrs. Reeser (Ernestine Snyder) '34 in St. Petersburg.

Requardt's account of their stay in Naples typifies the trip. At the Naples Hotel, John W. Taussig '08 had "left good references for us, so we weren't admonished for doing some singing in the dining room." They met an '09 Penn man, Sewell Corkran, taught him the Cornell songs, and "elected him Hon. C.U. '00, '03 & '09." Going to a cocktail party at the Nulsen home the next day "was a mistake," the chronicler says. "Sewell was there so we did some more harmonizing. As I went over near the door for a refill, a woman brushed past me dragging her husband, saying: 'Come on, Dandridge, I can't stand any more of this!'" The next morning, Mayor Ford '15 of Naples "had breakfast with us after hearing of yesterday's uproar; but they got out of town safely to sing their way further along the Gulf coast.

"I went on the trip with a hospital date to look into a circulatory ailment in the offing on my return," Requardt reports. "I got back to Baltimore after having eaten, imbibed, smoked, swam, and slept as a thirty-year-old and four pounds heavier. My doctor has now postponed all tests and fears I am going to disintegrate shortly. As far as I can see, Cy, who hired a bicycle at our various stops, is much better. Al is always well, and Kid & Bill are 'improved' as a result of the trip." The condition of their several hosts around the State is not related!

he calls it, at Cape Cod, where he expects to do a little shooting, fishing, and loafing for the next few years, interrupted by a few journeys now and then to warmer climes. His son, Bill, Jr., graduated from Cornell in 1946. His daughter married a Cornellian, Class of '38. Burn has "three and three-quarters" grandchildren. His new address at the Cape will be Freeman Lane, Orleans, Mass., and he would like to have any of his Classmates who manage to get to the Cape stop in and see him. He can guarantee some nice, cold surf swimming, and perhaps some "medicine" to warm one up afterwards.

Another about-to-retirer is Jud (Justus) Rising, 503 Waldeon St., West Lafayette, Ind. The official date will be July 1. Jud has been teaching at Purdue in engineering drawing for thirty-seven years. Since 1932 he has been making movies to teach the subject, and has been full time in the audio-visual center for the last two years. While Jud doesn't tell me this, actually he has been a pioneer in the development of this method of teaching. In 1955, he received the Distinguished Service Award from the division of engineering drawing of the American Society for Engineering Education for these and other teaching activities. In September, he will have been married forty-six years "to the same wife."

Mike (B. F.) Bardo, 177 South New Rd., Mount Carmel 18, Conn., reports that retirement, which started in 1953, has been going satisfactorily. As all '13ers in northeast US know, and all the rest of us should know, Mike has been the New England representative for many years of our '13 Alumni Fund drive, under Nei Neifeld, our general Class chairman. Mike has been working with Ollie Hoff, Bob Ashman, Freddie Shaw, Doc Arnold, Rap Rouse, and Spike Myers, reminding the remainder of their New England Classmates that "the needs of the 'U' continue to grow, and can only be balanced by their increasing generosity." As you may recall, Mike uses rhyme as well as reason in his Fund solicitation, as many of his exhortations are written in verse. He also works on the Leadership Gifts campaign in his area. On the side, he is vice-president and member of the board of New Haven Travelers Aid Society, chairman of first aid committee and on the board of New Haven Area Red Cross, and chairman of elective courses in New Haven Power Squadron. As Mike says, "Retirement is great business; don't know how I ever found time to work."

In our last issue, I mentioned that Pink Whitehead had seventeen grandchildren. Well, here is another candidate for offspring honors. Art (Arthur W.) Beale, 100 Brunswick St., Rochester 7, has five children and fifteen (15) grandchildren! Only time will tell who may be the winner. Are there any other candidates? So long!

Since this is the Reunion number of the NEWS, it is quite fitting to run a few words from Frank Sullivan about the testimonial dinner his friends gave him in Saratoga Springs last winter:

Many thanks for the portrait in the last issue, and for the kind words. In the photo I note I am talking the ear off my friends, as usual. It was quite a night, that celebration, and the turnout flabbergasted me. They turned away fifty or so that couldn't be accommodated. I honestly had no inkling that 260 of my fellow Saratogians would pay out good money to come and celebrate me, and the upshot is that I am now left for the remainder of my life without the shadow of an excuse for self pity, or for feeling neglected, or for thinking that nobody loves me. The thing started at the library last summer and was to have been just a kind of tea party at the library. Then it blossomed into the dinner and it was then I began to think of lighting out for Kamchatka. As I told Steve, I am not a natural born guest of honor. I got so worried about everything that a few days before the event I had to call the doctor, who laughed at me, said there was nothing wrong with me but stage fright, and gave me a bushel or so of tranquilizer pills. I got through the evening without a drink, but with plenty of Miltowns aboard. O'Hara doesn't drink and neither does Crouse. I even made a speech, of about 150 words, and my story is I kept it down to that out of courtesy to Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, which runs to a little over 200 words. Well, I was very happy about the thing and glad it happened, and glad when it was over. One comfort; it won't happen again. It's like having your appendix out.

Another of our literary giants has retired in a blaze of glory: R. W. G. (Noah) Vail, now director emeritus of the New York State Historical Society. He had presided over that handsome building in Central Park West for fifteen years seven months. Noah took me through it a few years ago and I was enormously impressed. Before leaving, he was given the Society's Gold Medal (3" in diameter, 18 carats) for Achievement in History, only the seventh awarded in thirty-five years. Our boy started with the New York Public Library, was successively librarian of the Minnesota Historical Society, Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Association, American Antiquarian Society of Worcester, and New York State Library in Albany. Four pages in the April number of the Society's Quarterly were devoted to him, including a picture. Change his address to his home at 260 Riverside Dr., New York 25, for the present, though the Vails expect to move to Albuquerque at the end of summer to be near their daughter, whose husband has been named head of the department of sociology at University of New Mexico. Another attraction is a tiny granddaughter. Son Bob is an electrical research engineer with North American Aviation, just over the hills in Pasadena. Noah confides that his heart has acted up some during the last year, but that he was feeling "pretty chipper now" (May 9). Congratulations, Noah!

There was quite a story on page one of the Yonkers Herald Statesman of May 7 about a citywide tree planting program, with a picture of Colonel Oliver F. W. Cromwell, sometimes known as Crom, Napoleon, or the Protector. Also in the picture was City Arborist John Coyne '15, who "paid tribute to the 15 members of the Shade Tree Commission serving without compensation." The commission was organized about twenty years ago. Crom remembers that he went over every tree in the first ward, which is three miles long and a mile wide. He must have taken inspiration from Andrew D. White and his tree planting.

Francis Harper has moved from Mount Holly, N.J. to 311 McCauley St., Chapel

Hill, N.C. Harp has long regarded University of North Carolina and its library as the finest in the South, with a wealth of material on one of his specialties, early American naturalists. It has the second known (to him) copy of the 1793 Vienna edition of Bartram's Travels; at last accounts it was unknown even in the Austrian National Library. Harp says that Isaac Ginsberg, on our no-address list, has been doing research on fishes for a long time at the National Museum and believes that he recently retired from the US Fish & Wildlife Service.

1915 will be the first Class in the history of the University back for its Forty-five-year Reunion to stage a parade from downtown Ithaca to lower Library Slope. The marchers will fall in (not down, it is hoped by the committee) in front of the Ithaca Hotel at eleven Saturday morning. This rendezvous has been selected by Lieutenant Twesten, grand marshal of the parade, because of its strategic location, being handy to the four leading saloons of Ithaca. The Lieutenant assures the Class authorities that he will have on hand some of his old buddies from the Philadelphia police force and maybe an Indian fighter or two to flush any '15 stragglers from the adjacent bars and have them in formation on time.

The parade will be sort of a town-and-gown affair, slanted toward improvement of relations between the Hill and Urbe. Civic, business, and social leaders of Ithaca will be given positions of prominence in the procession. Chief of police Buck and his law-men will flank Lieutenant Twesten at the head of the column, followed by the new, motor-driven pumper of Hose Co. 5, Ithaca F.D. Next will come the city's business leaders. Pinochle Wells will represent the tailors and haberdashers. Under the banner of the Tavernkeepers' Guild will march Martin Gibbons of the Senate, Herson freres of the Alhambra, Oats Smith of the Annex, and "J.B." of the Dutch. Frank Lehigh will carry the pennant of his railroad. Dick Stewart will appear for the brokerage fraternity and will wear his gray clawhammer coat. Jimmy da Griff will march with the gate-crashers from the Class of '12. (That crowd will march in anybody's parade, if there is free beer at the end of the line.) The only motor vehicle, other than No. 5's engine, will be the high-wheeler of Paul the Pig. Riding in the tonneau will be a bevy of young ladies from Chez Aunt Stell. They will carry pink parasols.

(Flash from Reunion headquarters: "May have to cancel parade. Having trouble getting in touch with prospective participants. Final announcement at Reunion.")

De Abel announces feature attractions of Reunion program: Friday night, barbecue at Big Red Barn; women of the Class and their husbands will attend, along with the '15 men and their wives. Saturday night, Class dinner at the Statler for men of the Class and their wives. About ninety have signed for the Reunion, twenty returning with wives. Among distinguished guests at the speaker's table for the Class dinner will be Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, Emeritus, and Leonard A. Maynard, Nutrition, Emeritus; Doc Peters '14 and wife; Jim

Munns '14; Bub Pfeiffer '16; and Murray Shelton '16. We shall look forward to the pleasure of again seeing President and Mrs. Malott, who will drop in on us at the cocktail hour. They will be making their usual strenuous round of the Class dinners.

Members of the Class may be interested in information about the current holders of the graduate fellowship in English which is supported by the Class of 1916 Professorship endowment.

Dean Francis Mineka of the College of Arts & Sciences, the 1916 Professor, reports that in the current year two Class of 1916 scholarships were awarded rather than a single fellowship. The scholarships were held this year by Conrad A. Balliet and Phillip E. Rogers. Balliet is a graduate of Muhlenberg and holds the MA in English from Lehigh. After teaching three years at Edinboro State Teachers College, he was awarded a Danforth grant to continue graduate work at Cornell. He has passed his preliminary examinations for the Doctorate and hopes to complete his dissertation next year while teaching part time at Cortland State Teachers College. Rogers, a 1958 graduate of the University of Utah, is completing the Master's this year and plans to teach in Nigeria next year.

Announcement has been made of the award of the 1916 Fellowship for 1960-61 to John E. Thiesmeyer, a resident of Montreal, Canada, and a 1958 graduate of Wesleyan University. He came to Cornell this year as a candidate for the MA on a Wesleyan Fellowship. He will continue for the Doctorate at Cornell.

The 1916 Fellow for 1958-59, Stanford P. Rosenbaum, has been an instructor in English at Cornell this year and is completing his dissertation. He has accepted an appointment as instructor at Indiana University for next year.—BUB PFEIFFER

'17 Men—Our Class and Classmates hold many records but Jessie Hyde holds all records to break all "records"! To list all his walking accomplishments would leave no space for other Classes in the alumni columns. After service in World War I, under Captain Adolph Menjou '12, he worked in oil fields; then from 1921 to 1953, when he retired, he was an engineer for one of the large office buildings in Binghamton. In thirty-two years, he lost no time on account of sickness. In 1936, he took up walking as a hobby, his first walk being 410 miles in length. In 1937, he walked 350 miles, 140 of which were covered in 40 continuous hours. In 1938, it was 800 miles to Cleveland, and so each year until 1941, when he was fifty years old, he walked 100 miles in 24 hours. In 1951, when sixty, he walked 500 miles, 50 miles per day for 10 consecutive days. In 1961, when Jess is 70, he plans to walk around the perimeter of the United States, 35 miles per day for 365 days, or more than 12,500 miles, probably ending in Ithaca at our Forty-five-year Reunion in June, 1962. As a "diversion" Jess plays volley ball every day at the Binghamton Y! OK Jess, C.U. in '62!

Joe Kohm wrote he missed our April dinner because he was called up state by a sudden death. He sent us a New York clipping stating that Paul Stricker had retired as executive vice-president of the Greater New York Safety Council. Charlie Capen sent regrets from Chicago that he could not be with us at our New York dinner. In May he planned to attend an American Water Works Association convention in Miami, Fla., where he expected to see Ells Filby. Charlie had just visited Ed Chandler in Union, N.J., but "can't get the old rascal to go to Class Reunions. His loss"! Charlie quit retirement (probably the first '17er to do so) and opened a consulting engineering office with a partner. Charlie's address is Box F, Newfoundland, N.J. Had similar news in a letter from Ells Filby who stated he would be in Florida during May and hoped to see or phone several '17ers. He had expected to contact Yale Schively in Fort Lauderdale, but Yale reported he would be away from home at that time on a business trip. Ells heard from Bob Haggart recently. Ells says Bob is back in Fargo, N.Dak. temporarily, and continues: "Bob has a tough life—hunting and fishing in Canada in the summer; golfing, fishing, and sailing in Florida in the winter—oh, to be a capitalist!"

Harold N. Searles is another Classmate who has moved to Florida where his address is 4567 Wallis St., West Palm Beach. Hal writes: "No, I haven't retired. I am still conducting my own business as investment counsellor and manager of commodity trading accounts. I would appreciate any of my Classmates living in this section of the country getting in touch with me." David Burpee, president of W. Atlee Burpee Co., largest seed growers in the world, is still promoting the marigold as our national flower. Dave wrote, "1962 seems a long way off, but I shall try to attend our Big 45th."

Professor Horace W. Leet, chairman of University of Rochester's department of mechanical engineering, will retire June 30 after thirty-nine years at the university. Horace and Mrs. Leet live in Livonia Center. Elwyn L. Smith, president and chief executive officer of Smith-Corona Marchant Corp. of Syracuse, has been elected a member of the board of directors of Ithaca Gun Co.

Our hats off to the latest addition to Class publications, the "49er Gold Dust," first copy of which was received recently, a four-page newsy issue.

We regret to announce that the following '17ers passed away: Leon Kelley, West Islip, N.J.; Henry W. Koch, New York City; Joseph R. Neger, Verona, N.J.; Karl M. Sayles, Worcester, Mass.; and Paul B. Woodford, West Springfield, Mass.

The annual Class picnic was originally set up by New Yorkers and attracted people from within a comparatively small radius, but now it's open to all. Last year's attending group included several from Washington, a whole squadron of Jerseyites, and others from the far reaches of Long Island and Connecticut. Harry Mattin, Harry Handwerker, Charlie Muller, Paul Miller, and Pat Wanser, who compose the official picnic committee, will be glad to welcome you wherever you come from. But they do want to know how many will be there, whether you want steak or lobster, etc. If you don't have the address of these committeemen handy, just drop me a note; or Harry Mattin's mail will reach him at Mearl Corp., Ossining, and after all, he's the official host. In any event, set aside that second Saturday in September if you possibly can tear yourself away for a good afternoon of swimming, conversation, and refreshments, followed by a magnificent dinner. (More information on request.)

There's always a bit of Midwest news to be reported, and our unofficial staff member in Chicago, O. G. Daily '20, passes on another item this month. It's the news of Wes Dixon's marriage to Mrs. Earl Kribben. The new Mrs. Dixon is the widow of a Marshall Field executive, and she will bring two young sons to the Dixon household which already numbers three grown sons. By the time this reaches print, the wedding may already have taken place. Wes is chairman of Container Corp.

Shurly R. Irish was honored recently on his retirement from Olin Mathieson, and some 150 of his associates threw a big party at Lockhaven Country Club, Alton, Ill. at which they presented him a model workshop for his future hobby. Pictures of him taken at the party show him no heavier than he was in his track-team days more than forty years ago, nor any older for that matter. He's been manager of Olin's East Alton plant for the last twenty years, having come there from Union Electric where he rose from business research engineer to comptroller. If you'll recall, his wife is Elizabeth Fairchild '17, who has long been regional women's representative for the Cornell Fund west of the Mississippi.

Tex (Henry Wisdom) Roden, the almost-constant traveler, was last heard of early in May when he boarded a freighter in San Francisco for a twenty-seven-day trip to Hong Kong, with brief stops enroute at Guam and the Philippines. From there he was to go up to Tokyo for a five-week tour of Japan, and finally planned "to rest a few weeks" at Honolulu and Hana-Maui, getting back home to San Francisco in August. Your correspondent is covering the same territory but by air and without the luxury of such a large amount of time, though somewhere along the route we may manage a two-man Class Reunion.

Though protocol requires that Class columns in the News devote themselves mainly to bright comments on our various comings and goings, there are at times events which, though sad in themselves, deserve more than brief mention. Such an event was the recent death of our Classmate George B. Post, who had fought a gallant fight for sixteen years against Parkinson's syndrome. George died following a brain operation to relieve his painful symptoms, but to the very last he remained cheerful and patient, keeping up his interest in old associations and remembering the happy days in Ithaca. As evidence of his interest in Cornell, George left a bequest to the University "to be used if practicable for research in aeronautics as applied to hydro-dynamics." His interest in that subject came, of course, from his own business career as vice-president and sales manager of a large company (Edo Corp.) which manufactures airplane parts, pontoons, and floats.

More news is coming along, which is not only gratifying but also labor saving for your correspondent. We have to come up with something every issue, or they will be taking this column off the required reading list for Freshman English.

First of all, here are some new addresses for Classmates: Daniel B. Brooks, Brooks-Price Co., 6000 Reisterstown Rd., Baltimore 15, Md.; Carley C. Gaylord, 2600 Queen St., St. Petersburg 12, Fla.; Victor S. Houghton, 300 W. 108th St., New York City 25; Charles E. Norton, 399 Fullerton Pkwy., Chicago 14, Ill.; Torsten H. Parke, Graybar Bldg., 420 Lexington Ave., New York City 17; Charles A. Shafer, 2709 Berkley, Lakeland, Fla.; Hugo C. R. Vogel, 575 NE 29th St., Miami 37, Fla.

According to an ad in the Wall Street Journal, Frank B. Bateman is offering 200,000 shares of Szemco, Inc., through Frank B. Bateman, Ltd., 243 South County Rd., Palm Beach, Fla. As the ad says, for further information write for the circular.

Nelson B. Delavan is chairman of the board of Delavan Mfg. Co., West Des Moines, Iowa. His home address is Lake Rd., Seneca Falls. He writes: "Mrs. Delavan and I spent a most pleasant evening with Seth W. and Frances Heartfield at their Baltimore home, April 7, also as their guests for the night. Seth is one of the busiest men I know with much civic and church work, plus his Cornell interests, yet finds time to be an excellent gardener. We then spent a week in Washington at the peak of the cherry blossoms, getting back to our home here on Cayuga Lake without missing any of our very late spring."

Eugene A. Leinroth lives at 105 Burnside Rd., Villanova, Pa., and is retired. He writes: "Have just returned from a three months' trip, five weeks in Southern California and seven weeks in Hawaii. I would have enjoyed seeing Al Smith while in Honolulu, but didn't learn of his whereabouts until I read the ALUMNI NEWS ('19 Class notes) on my return." This clears up a point. The column does have at least one reader.

Albert W. Force lives at Two The Byway, Ithaca. For some thirty years he has had an antiques shop at his family home in Free Hollow (Forest Home). From time to time he finds it a pleasure to welcome some of his Classmates there. August Schmidt, Jr. is a consultant to Acme Electric Co., Cuba, N.Y. His home address is PO Box 83, Cuba, E. Winthrop Taylor lives at 652 Ogden Dunes, Gary, Ind. His business address is PO Box 509, Hammond, Ind. He is president of his company, but unfortunately we do not have the name of the concern.

Charles W. Cahoon, Jr. lives at 602 Fillmore St., Wichita Falls, Tex. He is a crude oil producer and his business address is 309 City National Bank Bldg., Wichita Falls, Tex. He is one of the lads who makes it a point to get back to Reunions. George P. Bullard is manager of erection for Bethlehem Steel Co., Pottstown, Pa. His home address is 340 Grandview Rd., Pottstown, Pa.

Harlo P. Beals is one of our many Classmates who never strayed far from the shores of Lake Cayuga. He lives at 222 Ridgedale Rd., Ithaca, and is assistant director of research for the Cooperative GLF Exchange, Inc., Ithaca, an organization with which several other Classmates are connected, or have been connected. Keith W. Benson is with National Manufacturing Co., Sterling, Ill. His home address is 1601 Locust, Sterling, Ill.

The unforgettable, unsurpassed, unadulterated, uncensored, unconventional, unmistakable, and unavoidable Word's Greatest 40th Reunion was an atom smash, a hooperdoo, a whiz bang dandy! At least it will have been, if you are still able to read at this juncture. There will be some still dizzy from the whirlly-burly of those mad days, some still hung over trying to recover from the rigors before mortis sets in, and those who took their wives! But this is like predicting something that has already happened! And at this point of still trying to figure how to get in and out of Ithaca, we really don't know anything about anything, except perhaps that there are innumerable, important guys in our Class who just couldn't get to Reunion.

Like for instance, Bill Seaman, New England vp of Liggett Drug Co., who resides in West Newton, Mass.; Art Aldridge, Seattle, Wash., spl. repr. for Standard Oil of California; Lloyd Kelly, chairman of the board of LaSalle Steel Co. in Chicago; Jim Croxton, semi-retired realtor, who recently moved to 2098 Temple Hills Dr., Laguna Beach, Cal.; Colonel Ray Bell, Wash. D.C., who extravagantly spends his entire leave in Florida, but occasionally gets home to Rochester; Warner Baldwin, retired of Duluth, Minn.; Ed Richmond of Chicago and Kenilworth, vp of Automatic Canteen, who at the last minute was sent on a junket to the West Coast and had to cancel out; Walker Mason of Washington, D.C.; Randy West of Houston, Tex.; Ed Ackerly, who still commutes twice a year between Clearwater and Detroit; Willis Martin, mgr. tech. sales for Grand Rapids Varnish Co.; Herb Blanche, still having fun growing and hybridizing camellias and azaleas at 801 Virginia St., Dunedin, Fla. (Stop to see him next time you're going down through Clearwater.)

Honorable Carl W. Peterson of Ilion, a justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, has been elected to the highest Masonic office in the State, and installed as grand master to serve for one year. Carl was for fifteen years district attorney for Herkimer County and in 1945 was elected county judge and surrogate. In 1952, he was named justice of the Supreme Court. Carl's one guy you can be sure is on the square.

Bill Kuhrt of Sacramento, Cal. has been made assistant director of the State Department of Agriculture of California. Bill aided in drafting the California Marketing Act, under which the State self help marketing programs operate. Bill couldn't make it to Ithaca, but sent his measurements to show what good shape he's in. Ed Regensburg of N'Yawk, after years of bachelor bliss, got his foot caught in a man-trap on Leap Year's Day and catapulted into matrimony with Nancy Lee Gruner of Greensboro and Palm Beach. Ed's probably still watching the flying fishes play off Nassau or somewhere in the Caribbean. We excused him from making Reunion this year!

Leon A. Swirbul, pres. Grumman Aircraft-Eng. Corp., reports an increase of 20% in gross sales for the first quarter of 1960, with net income almost double the figure for the same period of 1959. A great new Grumman development is their corporate transport, the Gulfstream, which is importantly contributing to the company's sales and profits. If the Class would acquire a Gulfstream and maintain an Ithaca Airlift at reasonable hours, that would connect with something somewhere, we could double the Reunion attendance!

Confidentially, if you can hold out for two weeks more, we'll tell you what really happened at our Fabulous Fortieth Reunion.

George A. Boyd, former writer of this column, has just been appointed executive vice-president of the four domestic America Fore insurance companies of the America Fore Loyalty Group. George has been with America Fore since 1926 when he joined Continental Insurance Co. as a financial investigator at the home office in New York City. He was appointed an assistant secretary of the America Fore companies in 1928 and a vice-president in 1954. George was a Phi Beta Kappa and graduated in Economics with the AB. He promised me at the New York Class dinner that he would not permit this or any subsequent advancement to interfere with attendance at the Forty-year Reunion. He lives in Middletown. His daughter, Margaret, is a senior at Skidmore.

Dr. Irvine H. Page, director of the Cleveland Clinic, was elected to membership on the Council for the Advancement of Science Writing in April. Irv received the AB in 1921 and the MD in 1926 at Cornell. A noted research investigator, he has served as president of the American Heart Association, vice-president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and chairman of the section on experimental medicine of the American Medical Association. From 1928-31, he was head of the chemical division of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Munich, Germany. Returning to the United States, he was with Eli Lilly Co. as director of the Lilly Laboratory for Clinical Research and Lilly Clinic until 1937, when he joined the Cleveland Clinic.

Bill Cooper sent me a card from Italy with this breezy message: "Have come to the end of a wonderful vacation. Started with a week's skiing at Klosters and Davos. Met a Dartmouth skier, but no Cornellians. By the way, I claim to be the oldest living skier in our Class. Any counter claims? Ended up bumming around Italy for three weeks. See you at the Reunion."

The death of William Adams Delano, 85, last January created news in many places. He was a member of the firm of Delano & Aldrich, who designed Willard Straight Hall. Shortly after graduation, I worked as a draftsman on the plans of this building in Delano's office and can say that few architects I have known approached the personal and professional dimensions of this remarkable man. This news item reminds us that the widow of Cornell's benefactor, Willard Straight '01, later became Mrs. Leonard K.

Elmhirst, and that they live at Dartington Hall, Totnes, Devon, England. Last January, Leonard visited Cornell. He has just retired from the presidency of the International Agricultural Economics Congress, organized in 1926, and has been named its founder-president.

I wonder if Leonard remembers the 1920 Delicate Brown Roast dinner of the journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi. The other day I was looking through the scandalous sheet published for that occasion and noticed a faked picture of him as a member of the notorious Committee of Nine, opening a door and saying, "Ope I don't interrupt, sir," as he surprises Bill Emerson '19 with an arm around a girl labeled "Co-Edna of Cornell."

'23 Dr. George J. Young Chamberlain, Me.

Did you know that George (Pop) Abeloff has been practicing medicine in Brooklyn for many years? His daughter graduated from Cornell last June. And Charles (Fox) Beeler is still in Hamilton, Ohio, in general contracting business with Vaughn Building Co. And Miles D. Pirnie, well, sir, it's now more than thirty years since he shifted from graduate work in Ornithology to work along that same line in Michigan where he's teaching wildlife management at the State University.

Down Newark, N.J. way, Samuel H. (Samie) Gooen is practicing law, and he has his two sons-in-law associated with him. Wife Esther is also a lawyer, but she never practiced. Probably Samie keeps the family legal minds for ready reference, because mechanical engineering kept him busy while on the Hill. And over in Weehawken, N.J. there is Carl P. Brems. A year ago, Carl attended the Cornell Industrial Seminars, but unfortunately didn't derive too much for his business. "I must either know too much, or am too old to learn new tricks," writes Carl.

Ray L. Wheeler, in Cobleskill, had his title changed from director to president of the State Univ. Ag. Tech (the abbreviations are Ray's). In Hudson, J. Wessel (Wes) Ten Broeck is having quite a time for himself. Three years ago, he thought he retired after operating 750 acres of orchards for thirty-five years. But what happened? Aside from trying to learn the (blankety-blank) game of golf, he is president of the Hudson Fruit Shippers Association and of Hudson Storage Corp., director of National Commercial Bank of Albany and Hudson Boys Club, trustee of Columbia Memorial Hospital, and he is still producing about 750 tons of fruit, mostly pears. And aside from all this, he baby-sits for four grandchildren. Ah, retirement; it's wonderful, isn't it, Wes?

The city of Rochester boasts of a new citizen. George C. (Cal) Calvert moved to 155 Babcock Dr. from Elyria, Ohio. And here's another change of address after retirement. Darwin F. Carrell, who lived at 756 North Meadowcroft Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., is now taking it easy at 1608 Lake Howard Dr., Winter Haven, Fla.

Ernest C. (Woodie) Woodin has a new address. After living twenty-nine years in the same place, he has moved to a new ranch-type home at 5 Roger Place, White Plains, with half an acre to care for. He thinks the old baseball legs will hold out enough to permit him to do all the grass mowing himself. (Why not one of these motorized jobs with a seat on it, Woodie?) Louis F. (Louie) Booth, Jr. still lives in Webster Grove, Mo. and is an engineer with Union Electric Co., the local electric utility. Daughter Mary Elizabeth is married and living permanently in Germany, and son Louis Farrand III is the assistant minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Fremont, Neb. The years are beginning to influence his activity a bit, as he has had to discontinue his favorite sport, tennis. (Fishing is wonderful in Maine, Louie.)

P. LeMon (Percy) Clark (Dr. Clark to you) still lives in that shanty on top of a hill in Fayetteville, Ark. The two older children are long since married and the two younger ones, adopted during the war, are in school in Switzerland, where the Missus is now, and she plans on taking the youngsters for a three weeks' trip down into Yugoslavia and the Dalmation Coast for their vacation. When Percy was on the Hill, his Master's thesis was on "The Birth Control Movement in England & the United States," and last year he became correspondence editor for the magazine, Sexology. Now, some nine months and some 750 letters later, he has a more vivid idea of the shortcomings of our present day sexual attitudes and teachings than he ever had before. Percy, maybe you could answer a question which has been bothering Dr. Wade Duley. Wade wants to know could lesbianism be just a case of supererogation in the practice of birth control? Percy writes, "If any of the Class of '23 ever get in this neighborhood . . ." No, Percy, please no; we're all too old for that stuff now!

'23—Ruth S. Hungerford writes: "I am studying French through the Berlitz Method. Am corresponding with a French-Canadian doctor and his wife whom I met years ago when they spent their winters in St. Petersburg, Fla. I spent ten years there and now live at 61 Seymour Street, Auburn. I have lived in Auburn all the time since college days with the exception of the years spent in Florida. I also am taking instruction at the Singer Sewing Center here. I make stuffed teddy bears, large and small stuffed dolls with clothes, small animals, and other toys, which I donate to church bazaars, give to my young cousins, or sell. Because of health reasons I can not work as well or as fast as I wish. I would be pleased to hear from any '23 'girls'."

'24 Silas W. Pickering II 30 E. 42d St. New York 17, N.Y.

Rafael R. Ramirez has been appointed assistant executive director for power operations of the Puerto Rico Water Resources Authority. Having worked for the public utility company since his graduation, he was head of the power division for thirty-two years. John H. Campbell of Chicago is branch office manager of Provident Life & Accident Insurance Co. He writes that his hobbies are golf, fishing & photography.

Philip Dorf writes: "Having salvaged materials when the Johnny Parson Club & Boardman Hall were torn down, I have built a bit of Cornell into my new home on South Road in Newfield, near Ithaca: picture windows, bookcases, doors, tile for the hearth & marble mantle from Boardman;

the staircase, beams, etc. from the JP Club." Elliott W. Gumaer of Rochester is vice-president & trust officer of Lincoln Rochester Trust Co. His son E. W. G., Jr. graduated from the Law School in 1958 and is practicing in Rochester. Elliot has four granddaughters & one grandson.

Some news about the girls: Mildred Evans (Mrs. H. D. Munson) of 9114 Hennepin Ave., Niagara Falls, is general case supervisor for the Niagara County welfare department. Lucy Lacy (Mrs. H. J. Horsington), 30 East Austin St., Skaneateles, writes that her son, Harold L. Horsington '53, received the MBA at Wharton Graduate School, University of Penn., 1959. Lucy and her husband flew by jet to Europe last year. She is an active auxiliary member of Auburn Memorial Hospital and enjoys working in her spare time at the Skaneateles public library.

'26 Hunt Bradley Alumni Office, Day Hall Ithaca, N.Y.

Pictured above in his Senior year and snapped at Canastota on a Sunday morn in late May of 1926 is none other than Richard (Shorty) Aronson, then coxie of the crew and treasurer of the Student Council. The occasion was a stopover awaiting the one-car train to transport the crew and track team to East Ithaca on the second leg of a trip home from Boston following a race with Harvard on the Charles and the intercollegiate track championships in the Harvard Stadium. The photographer (amateur)—three guesses—your correspondent!

Shorty is an attorney with offices at 310-16 Hills Bldg., Syracuse 2. Being a modest individual, he reluctantly, after prodding from yours truly, sent a resumé of his activities since that sunny May morning. After a year and a half of Law at Cornell, he graduated from Syracuse law school in 1929, has practiced in Syracuse ever since. Active in the Onondaga County Bar Association, he served as secretary for nineteen years, second vice-president in 1951, first vice-president in 1952, president in 1953, then re-elected secretary and still is. A member of the board of the Frank H. Hiscock Legal Aid Society, he is also on the committee on character and fitness of the Fifth Judicial District, and is secretary of the Onondaga Republican Party.

Shorty often officiates at crew races on Cayuga and Onondaga Lakes. One of the organizers of the Syracuse Regatta Association, Inc. responsible for bringing the IRA to Syracuse, he still is a director and its attorney. Chairman of the planning board of the Village of Fayetteville, he, his wife Barbara (Barnard '35), and two children, Margery, 16, and Robert, 13, reside at 411 Brook Lea Dr. in the village. Congratulations, Shorty, and sincere thanks for your fine cooperation on our column!

Hugh Troy recently visited the Campus to participate on a panel with three undergrads, discussing college humor past and present. Much to the delight of a crowd of some 200 in Willard Straight Hall the inimitable Hugh related tales of some of his practical jokes that have made him well-known. Hugh recently resigned after ten years' service with CIA and is now engaged in illustrating and writing at his home in Washington.

Lieutenant Colonel Wallace Hodge (above), after twenty years' service, was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon with metal pendant, by Lieutenant General B. M. Bryan, First Army commander, upon retirement last December 31. Colonel Hodge served with the First Army in the G-1 section as chief, Manpower Control Division, and deputy assistant chief of staff G-1. He was commissioned from Cornell ROTC. In World War II, he commanded 'B' Battery 5th Field Artillery Battalion, the famous Alexander Hamilton Battery, and served in the Tunisian Campaign with the 601st Tank Destroyer Battalion. After World War II, he was property control officer of the Vienna Command in Austria and civil affairs officer of the Western Area Command in Kaiserslautern, Germany. In addition to his campaign medals, Colonel Hodge wears the Presidential Unit Citation, the Armed Forces Reserve Medal, and the Order of the Crown, Italy, in the rank of commander. Wally has taken up studies at Florida University for the MBA. He will become a real estate broker. He says he'll see the gang in 1962. Don't forget to bring along some more of those great stories, Wally. Home: 1442 Northwest 7th Rd., Gainesville, Fla.

In our Junior year, ten graduate cadets from the US Military Academy were detailed at Cornell. One of them, General

Bruce C. Clarke, commanding general, US Continental Army Command, was honored June 4 at Columbia University Club by Lambda Chi Alpha, University of Tennessee Alumni and Cornell Club of New York City. I will do a story about his many accomplishments later. In the meantime, I'd like to hear from the other nine.

Robert Brown is executive vice-president and director of Bristol Myers Co., New York City. Bob is also chairman of the board of Bristol Myers International. The Browns have one daughter. Home: Atlantic Ave., Cedarhurst. Philip Lyon is secretary-treasurer and director of J.F. Pritchard Co., engineers and constructors, Kansas City, Mo. Phil is a Rotarian. The Lyons have two sons, one daughter, and one granddaughter. Home: 2101 W. 50th Terrace, Kansas City, Mo. Herbert Singer is a partner-owner of Amsterdam Printing & Lithographing Co. Herb is the recipient of the Silver Beaver and Silver Antelope, Scouting's highest awards, for serving twenty-nine years as commissioner and vice-president of Boy Scouts of America, District 2, respectively. He also holds the 33d degree, highest honor in Scottish Rite Masonry. The Singers have two sons, one Don Singer '57, and one daughter, Judith Singer '59. Home: 70 Romeyn Ave., Amsterdam.

Juan Martinez is vice-president of Mexican Light & Power Co., Ltd. The Martinizes have one son and one daughter. Home: Reforma 2125, Mexico, 10, D.F. Mexico. Wesley Pietz is president of Canadian Co.'s, Raymond International, Inc., Heavy Construction Engineering. Wes was a lieutenant commander, Navy CECR, World War II. Indicates he has the "same bald head"; who hasn't? The Pietzes have one son, one daughter, three grandsons, and one granddaughter. Home: RR 1, Kettleby, Ont., Canada.

We'll all be missing Sam Horton's column. He was a kindly soul and enjoyed writing about his Alma Mater he loved so well. Cornellians and Cornell have lost a great friend. His spirit will linger long on the Campus. In his most recent letter to me, his last words were, "I'm proud to have gone to Cornell." And we are proud to have had Sam Horton for a Classmate.

New York 20, N.Y.

Enrique E. Lefevre has sent us an interesting article he wrote entitled, "I Saw a Living God." It's the story of his trip to Rishikesh, India, a holy town at the foot of the Himalaya Mountains where Hindu legends locate the home of their gods, and now the home of Swami Sivananda, considered by many thousands of Hindus in India and elsewhere in the world, to be a living god. This Swami, also known as the Sage of the Himalayas, founded a school there more than thirty years ago where he still teaches his philosophy. The article tells of Enrique's fascinating experiences in getting to the school, his life at the school, and his interviews with the Swami, other holy men, and teachers. Enrique is now back at home in Panama City, Panama.

Henry C. Boschen (above right) has been named president of Raymond International Inc. At the same time, Cornell Trustee Maxwell M. Upton '99, who has been board chairman of the Raymond organization for many years, retired, but will remain on the board of directors with the title of honorary chairman. Hank has been with Raymond throughout his entire business career since his graduation from the College of Mechanical Engineering in 1928. He has been a vice-president and director since 1946 and in his most recent assignment was vice-president in charge of the general contracting division with responsibility for both this country and abroad. Raymond International Inc. is the nation's largest constructor of foundations for buildings and heavy engineering structures and is a leading general contractor overseas. At present Raymond has construction projects under way in more than twenty countries on six continents. Congratulations, Hank, on a notable achievement.

'29 Men—A great many '29ers in New York's metropolitan area have known that our Henry Tasker (above) was recently elected county judge in nearby Suffolk. We now hasten to pass the word to '29ers, world-wide, that in one of the most dramatic trials hereabouts in recent years, the Francis Bloeth triple-murder case, Henry revealed his judicial prowess. The New York press was unanimous in praise of Henry's handling of the front-page trial. The Class is proud of him. Let's say so with the written word; Judge Henry Tasker, Chambers of the County Court, Greenport.

Happily I report wonderful news from Dr. Jerome Engel, 196 Main St., Ravenna, who modestly refers to himself as a country doctor. There's still more country than city, Jerome. Graduating from Cornell this June and entering Stanford University in September will be Jerome, Jr. Daughter, Judy Engel, is Cornell '62. Naturally, the Engel clan will be roaming the Hill at graduation time. You can be mighty proud, Jerome, we are, too. Congratulations! Thanks for sending word of Dr. Carl Goldmark, Jr. being at 130 E. 75th, New York City. How about some news, Carl? Please.

Helen and Murph Cohen send in word of their second son's marriage and a new granddaughter. Please, Helen, rush along for the next edition, the names of the girls. In the meantime, felicitations from the column. I & H Cohen, 1348 Noel Ave., Hewlett, L.I. That was very cheerful news recently, Tom Goodfellow, about your L.I. Railroad turning in a profit. A flock of commuting '29ers believe that accomplishment rates a picture. Please send one in with some family news. Thanks.

Important travel note: Colonel Jerome L. Loewenberg, HQ CONAC, Mitchell Air Force Base, N.Y., is off for a two-month sojourn to Greece and Turkey and promises to be on the lookout for '29ers. The column's close buddy, Mike Bender, sends along news that son Stephen will wed Maxine Posnack, Mills College '60, June 7. The firm's name will change June 8 to M. Bender & Son, Insurance, 115 Broadway, New York City. Congrats, proud daddy, on both events. Dr. and Mrs. John G. Connell, 718 Plandome Rd., Manhasset, send the happy tidings that daughter Carolyn will wed Paul Standel, Columbia Arts college '60, June 11. To the Connell and Standel clan, sincerest congratulations!

A real friendly note to the column from Frank L. Newberger, 1401 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa., indicates he is looking forward to the next Class dinner. We'll be glad to see you again, Frank. Att.: Ed Cobb in Pittsburgh. Please send the column your home address and some news about you and yours and you, too, Eben Carruthers out in Warrenton, Ore., please. Has anyone bumped into our distinguished State Senator Hyman (Buck) Mintz, lately? How about your home address and some news about yourself, Buck?

I am desperate for any news: travel, weddings, births, children in college, trips to Ithaca, etc. Believe it or not, the least important are job changes and promotions. They are welcome, but don't wait. Please send in the personal stuff. Bumping into, hearing from or about other '29ers is of very special interest. Thanks in advance for sending news to 233 East 32d St., New York City.—ZAC FREEDMAN

'30 George C. Castleman
52 Hubbard Ave.
Red Bank, N.J.

Charley Treman is now president of the New York State Bank Fiduciary Fund, as well as president of Tompkins County Trust Co. Bill Banta's card, attached to a clipping anent reunions in general (not ours), indicates that he is vice-president of G. A. Brakeley & Co., Ltd. in Montreal. Chuck Spelman, who lives in Hammond, Ind., reports that two of his children attend University of Illinois and a third one is a football player at Iowa State.

Colonel Eric Osborne is stationed at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., where he supervises development and testing of Signal Corps electronic systems and equipment. He is active in private flying and along with the rest of his family thoroughly enjoys the climate and scenery and the outdoor life they lead in the Southwest. Fran Cramer is working for the Town of Greece. Last year, he was president of the New York Sewage & Industrial Wastes Association.

Jim Crouch is professor of zoology at San Diego State College in California. He has recently written two laboratory manuals, "An Introduction to Human Anatomy" and "An Introduction to the Early Chordates." His wife Mary is an associate home economist with McCall Corp. and an interviewer for Elmo Roper & Associates. The Crouches have a married daughter and a son in high school. Dr. Ira Wickner has two young Cornellians in his family, Nancy, a Junior in Home Economics, and Reed, a Sophomore in the Arts College. Son William is listed as a "probable." The Wickners now live at 8509 Thornden Terrace, Bethesda, Md.

Bill Ritter also has a new address: 804 E. Palm St., Ocala, Fla. He is a professor in the department of science & mathematics in Central Florida Junior College and also coaches the varsity tennis team. Dr. George Alpert practices pediatrics in Richmond, Cal. and lives in El Cerrito. After twenty-eight years with York Corp., Rod Lauer joined Westinghouse Electric Corp. as manager of engineering in the air conditioning division in Stanton, Va.

Ed Parry is company systems co-ordinator with US Rubber Co. Ed lives in Westwood, N.J. Len Bernstein has been giving so much time to his law practice and to community affairs he says that he has little or no time for the object of his attentions, his family. He is president of the Parents Association of Charles E. Hughes High School, a group warden in Civilian Defense, New York State commander of American Veterans of World War II, plus uncounted local charity drives.

After my report on '30's Reunion in the next issue of the ALUMNI NEWS, Art Hibbard will take over this column. I have enjoyed very much the direct contact that I have had with so many of you through our newsletters and later this column. Your ready response to our requests for news has made the job easy and very pleasant, as it will be for Art I am sure. My thanks and best wishes to you all. Please send all future news items to Arthur Hibbard, Geyer-McAllister Publications, 212 Fifth Ave., New York City.

Sometimes we give a sigh of relief. This is one of those times, for this is the last issue of the volume. We start the new volume and then relax for the summer and restore our wealth of information for the new year. We hope you all continue to send us news to keep these columns moving. Our next volume will end as we gather for our thirty-year Reunion. Plan now to be present.

Hezzie G. Ward, South Englewood Dr., Huntington, W. Va., sent us news of Roscoe

P. Mann, 321 South Englewood Dr., Huntington, W. Va., but none of himself. Hez, you should do better next time. However, Rocky left April 24 for two months in Europe with his wife Mary. He is vice-president of Interstate Buying Corp., president of Huntington Dry Goods Co., president of Huntington Industrial Corp., and a director of four civic organizations. His wife Mary, besides raising two daughters, Nancy and Linda Lee, and two sons, Douglas and Michael, is president of the PTA and active in local civic affairs.

Benjamin Hertzberg, 812 Park Ave., New York City 16, returns us to our present love. Ben is vice-president and treasurer of Metropolis Brewery of New Jersey, Inc., in Trenton, and recently became vice-president of Hornell Brewing Co., Hornell, and Spearman Brewing Co., Pensacola, Fla. Trips to Hornell should reactivate interest in Cornell. David Greenberg writes that his daughter Peggy Ann has just been accepted by the Arts College for entrance next September. Brother Peter is now at Cornell, Class '61. Dave still lives at 66 Neptune Ave., Woodmere, and is with Evergreen Knitting Co.

William M. Vanneman is one of the old faithfuls of the Class. He took his son Bill to Ithaca for Cornell Day, May 6-7, and sent us a clipping on Ralph E. Carpenter who is a general partner, Reynolds & Co., and who was recently elected a director of Lee Rubber & Tire Corp., and a clipping on Carleton H. Endeman who appeared in these columns several issues ago. In reading Matthew Bender & Co., Inc. letterhead, we find that Bill is now vice-president of the organization. Our best to you, Bill.

This is enough for this volume. Criticism, both constructive and destructive, are solicited. With your criticisms, send us news of you, your family, and Classmates.

'32 Richard H. Sampson

Chicago 2, Ill.

J. Douglas Colman became president of Associated Hospital Service of New York (Blue Cross) May 1, after that organization's nine-month search for a new president. The selection of Colman apparently is another step in the overhaul that AHS has been going through since last June, and in choosing him represented a victory for those who wanted a public health expert. He has had twenty-five years of experience in the field. Before joining the Blue Cross Association in 1957, he was for six years vice-president of Johns Hopkins University and Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Major General Kenneth D. Nichols, USA (ret.), attended the annual spring meeting of the Army Scientific Advisory Panel at Dugway Proving Ground, Utah. The Army Scientific Advisory Panel was established by the Secretary of the Army in 1951 and is composed of sixty of the country's outstanding scientists, industrialists, and educators. The panel assists the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff in their joint responsibility to give the United States a ground fighting force as effective, economical, and progressive as scientific, technological, and industrial resources permit. General Nichols is a consulting engineer in Washington, D.C. He received the BS degree in 1929 from the US Military Academy, West Point, and the BS in 1932 and MS in Civil Engineering in 1933 at Cornell. He attended Technische Hochschule in Berlin, Germany, and received the PhD in hydraulic engineering from State University of Iowa in 1937.

Dr. Anthony L. Lombardi of Las Marias 869, Rio Piedros, Puerto Rico, writes that he has decided it was time he went back to school and last November started a three-year residency in psychiatry.

'33 AB—William I. Schneider, PO Box 6146, Tucson, Ariz., is owner and director with his wife, Dr. Florence H. Schneider, of Treehaven School in Tucson. Their son Burton is at University of Arizona and also is a professional radio and TV announcer. Daughter Patricia is in high school. Mrs. Schneider is Arizona delegate to the White House Conference on Children & Youth. Schneider reports that the son of Classmate Eli Goldberg graduated from Treehaven this year, that he had visits this spring for the first time since graduation from fellow Beta Sigma Rho Abraham Stockman '30 and Milton Eulau '33.

'35—Tinius Olsen II, president of Olsen Testing Machine Co., Willow Grove, Pa., has been elected to the advisory committee of the Hatboro office of the Philadelphia National Bank. He is president and secretary of the Philadelphia district council of the American Society for Testing Materials and a past-president of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia and the Hatboro Rotary Club. He and Mrs. Olsen live at 1345 Washington Lane, Rydal, Pa. They have a daughter, Jane.

'35 BS—Caleb K. Hobbie has been named assistant to the director of marketing at GLF Exchange, Inc., Ithaca. He was previously marketing division manager.

'36 Robert A. Hamburger
6 Locust Dr.
Great Neck, N.Y.

Steve Hildebrant, Jr. operates a manufacturer's agency selling O. E. M. He has two sons: the older, Steve, a junior at Blair Academy; the younger, Greg, a high school freshman, who has just earned a varsity letter for wrestling in the 112-pound class. Steve, whose address is 34626 Center Ridge Rd., N. Ridgeville, Ohio, is already anticipating our 25th Reunion. Clare J. Hoyt practices law with the firm of Scott & Hoyt in Newburgh, and lives in the country nearby with his wife Charlotte and three children. His address is RD, Walden.

We can always count on an interesting story by keeping track of Charley Shuff, and his current assignment is no exception. He recently left the Pentagon to serve in Paris, where he is dividing his efforts between being a minister on the staff of the US Ambassador to NATO (as defense advisor) and as representative of the Secretary of Defense in Europe, Africa, and the Middle East. This work is not completely unfamiliar to Charley, since he has been with this office for the last three years. He writes: "Arrangements for an apartment have gone slower, but hopefully will soon be accomplished. More traveling is expected, so I will be able to get a closer view of some of the countries and their problems than has been my lot these last three years of traveling on a considerably more hectic schedule." Charley invites Classmates traveling through Paris to give him a ring, but warns he cannot promise hotel reservations in the tourist season. His office will soon be moved into the new NATO building and old friends are invited to visit. His present address is USRO/DEF, APO 230, New York City.

Harry S. Kieval of 100 Prospect St., New Paltz, is associate professor of mathematics at the State University, College of Education, New Paltz. Henry S. Godshall, Jr. has just left for Mexico to become manager of a mill which is an affiliate of Scott Paper Co. Before leaving, Hank finished an abbreviated term as president of the Chamber of Commerce of Marietta, Wis., as well as activities in countless other civic groups. He would welcome visitors at his new location, Compania Industrial de San Cristobal, Lijja 8, Mexico City, Mexico.

Harold D. North, Jr. has been elected president and a director of Ferry Cap & Set Screw Co., Cleveland, Ohio. Harold, who has been with this company since 1946, joined the firm after serving as a Naval officer in World War II. He was recently elected president of the Cornell chapter of the DKE Alumni Association. He and his wife live at 2765 Claythorne Rd., Shaker Heights, Ohio, with their three children.

'37 Alan R. Willson
State Mutual Life Ins. Co.
Worcester, Mass.

Richard H. Bertram's latest claim to fame is his new boat, Moppie, which won this year's Miami-Nassau powerboat race. She averaged twenty-three miles an hour through ten-foot waves on the 184-mile course. Dick really combines business with pleasure for he is a yacht broker by trade and sails for a hobby.

Melville Shavelson, whose business is writing, directing, and producing movies, is also a ham radio operator. When he was shooting "Bay of Naples" in Italy with Clark Gable and Sophia Loren not too long ago, an Italian woman visited the set and walked right by Gable to Mel and asked, "Are you W6VLH?" Mel said he was. Those are his ham call letters. The woman's husband is a ham operator and wanted to check. "We never once talked about movies," said Mel.

We are advised by John S. de Beers that he has returned from Puerto Rico and now lives at 5135 Newport Ave., Washington 16, D.C. He tells us that Major William B. Bradley, Jr. works at International Co-operation Administration and can be reached at 3701 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington 8, D.C. Johnny also told us that Charles M. Clark is chairman of the English department at the American University. Charlie lives at 3033 New Mexico Ave., NW, Washington 16, and has a nephew at Cornell.

Speaking of second-generation Cornellians, your correspondent is pleased to report son Jarry has been accepted as a Freshman in the College of Arts & Sciences as a member of the Class of '64. Have we any others?

'37 Women—Annual report from Jeanne Paquette Clark:

I went back to school last year to get the MA in speech therapy, intending to finish this year, but made the mistake of doing a project in one of the elementary schools. The school board, knowing a good thing when they see it and especially at a beginning teacher's salary, signed me up for this year. I'm the speech therapist for seven elementary schools (6500 pupils), and how's that for a class load?

Husband Van went to a Federally-sponsored guidance clinic for five weeks last summer, cataloged books for Arizona State University library for four weeks, took us all to California for three weeks, was called back to Phoenix Camelback High School to take over the job as head counselor. Vandi is a freshman at Camelback High, has discovered boys, is working backstage on plays, made the honor roll, won second place in school essay contest, thus putting to shame her father's opinion of the value of learning to write a good hand and learning to spell. You know what we mean. Perk, or Carlton as he is occasionally known now, is a busy seventh grader, already planning his future education. He will get the MA right after the BA—none of this 'over-age college bit' such as his mother and father go through for him. He was chosen for special classes in art, humanities, math & science, is a member of the senior chorus. Asked me the other day: 'Why am I singing soprano? I'm a boy!' Problems! Problems! Peetie, our third child, should have been an elephant instead of a pack rat considering the period of gestation at the publishers. However, the blessed event (off the press!) is set for March 29, 1960. Father quit pacing the floor months ago.

Jeanne's reference to Peetie concerns Peetie the Pack Rat and other Desert Stories by her husband, Van Clark, published by The Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho. (108 pages, 20 illustrations in full color by the noted Navajo artist Andy Tsinajinnie, $5 per copy). Says the publisher's blurb:

Little desert animals come to life and take on human characteristics in this charming collection of stories of the Southwest. Sensitive to the simple magnificence of the desert, the author has peopled the region with whimsical creatures who have many delightful adventures. Among Peetie's desert friends are a Centipede who has shoe trouble, a Sparrow who would prefer to be a hawk, some Prairie Dogs who ring their homes with earthen dikes against the day of the rains, a Crow who outfoxes a Coyote, and a Road Runner who outwits a Buzzard. Drought, age-old enemy of the Southwestern Indian, is routed by two little Indian boys and their Burro; and at last we learn why the rainbow bends in the turquoise sky. Woven into the likeness of legends, these stories will delight any child, and many an adult, who loves a tale.

Sounds like a marvelous gift for your friends, your children and, for a few of you at least, your grandchildren. Gosh, do you realize we've reached the age where that word "grandchildren" is becoming part of our everyday vocabulary?—CAROL CLINE

A letter from Ed Stewart, who works as an architect at 268 South Street Rd., Auburn, encloses a clipping from The Auburn Citizen-Advertiser, giving the details of Brud Holland's new job. Brud, who up to now has been president of Delaware State College, has been appointed president of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. He will take his new position July 1. Brud is a member of the American Academy of Political & Social Sciences, International Institute of Arts & Letters, The American Association of School Administrators, director of the National Urban League, and a member of the Cornell University Council.

Austin Kiplinger writes: "Now living on a farm twenty-five miles out of Washington. Had the pleasure of a visit from Art Poirier just before he took off for Paris, bound for North Africa, where he plans to look for oil in the Sahara. Also had a good visit with Nervin Rosenman and his family. Am looking forward to other such visits as other members of the Class come our way to 'do' Washington."

Ken Feldkamp, who lives at 849 Brant St., Burlington, Ontario, Canada, is the plant superintendent with Niagara Brand Chemicals of the same city and has two sons. Bud Davis took his wife and three children to Phoenix during their spring vacation where they saw Bob White who is now in Wichita, Kans. Dana Waring, who lives at Highmead, Glastonbury, Conn., writes: "Still with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. Now directing development of j-52 jet engine which has been making headlines in the Hound-dog Missile. Biggest thing in our family is that eldest son Mickey will enter Cornell next fall in Engineering Physics."

Class President Paul A. Schoellkopf, Jr. (above), 70 Niagara St., Buffalo 2, recently returned this spring from a visit to Hawaii. Paul writes: "My visit was made the more delightful by Lyle Guslander '40, president of Island Holidays, Ltd., which operates a group of hotels in Hawaii. Every Cornellian heading for the Islands should let Gus plan his Hawaiian trip." Paul is vice-president and director of Niagara Share Corp., Buffalo, and chairman of the board of Transcontinent Television Corp. He also is a director of well over a dozen other corporations and the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo. Mrs. Schoellkopf is the former Jane Farron Murray. They have three daughters, Ann, Penny, and Susie. Paul's father was the late Paul A. Schoellkopf '06. His cousins are J. Frederick Schoellkopf '33 and William G. Schoellkopf '19.

Robert A. Lafey, Jr., 44124 Elm Ave., Lancaster, Cal., is project engineer with Douglas Aircraft Corp. Bob and his wife Gene have two children, Lynne and Bobbie. Bob's brother is Curtis W. Lafey '40.

Included among the club and restaurant operators of the Class are Jerome H. Cohn, owner of Jans Restaurants, 8424 West Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles 48, Cal.; Robert M. Lowe, general manager of the Town Casino, 681 Main St., Buffalo; Oliver E. Montague, general manager, Springfield Country Club, Springfield, Ohio; and Kermit I. Whiteman, food superintendent, duPont Country Club, Rockland Rd., Wilmington, Del.

Robert E. Pavey, 9 Paquin Rd., Barrington, R.I., is district group manager for Travelers Insurance Co. Mrs. Pavey is the former Minta Horton. She and Bob were married in Honolulu in 1944. They have three children: Roger, 12; Nancy, 7; and Cynthia, 5.

David R. Hopson, R1, Dolgeville, writes that he has four boys and a girl, ages one to sixteen. He also has ninety head of pure bred Holsteins and lists his principal organization interest as The Farm Bureau. Dr. Quinton D. Schubmehl, 348 Conklin Ave., Binghamton, writes, "Busy practicing psychiatry and taking care of our family of nine."

Robert H. Heath writes: "Still superintendent of production control at the Harrison Plant, Hyatt Bearings Division, General Motors Corp., Harrison, N.J. Am secretary of the Northern New Jersey chapter of American Production & Inventory Control Society (APICS). This is a new (three years old) national society solely for P. C. people. Now have twenty-three chapters in the country. Anyone interested drop me a note. Son Robert H., Jr. is seven years old and in the first grade. Daughter Joan is fourteen and in her freshman year in high school. Looking forward to June, 1961. It will be my dad's 50th (Raymond P. Heath '11) and our 20th."

Dr. Edward A. Majilton, 1093 NE 79th St., Miami 38, Fla., writes: "June 17, 1959 a tornado hit my clinic dead center and made a mess of it. It was immediately rebuilt and we are going strong." Also in that year, a United Press news release appeared to the effect that one of the ten most important contributions to the dog world in 1958 was Ed Majilton's cataract surgery in dogs.

Dr. Revis C. Lewis, 1001 West 56th St., Kansas City 13, Mo., practices neurosurgery. In 1954, he married Anne Elizabeth Gage. They have three children: Ralph, 5; Marjorie Louise, 4; and Katherine Anne, 1. Revis, who received his training at McGill in Montreal, is on the volunteer staff of two charity hospitals in Kansas City, General Hospital and Mercy Hospital (Children's). He is also a governor of the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra.

Men—The following from Robert D. Ladd: "Have organized my own business here in Washington specializing in research and development contracting with the Government for missile, electronic, satellite, and space programs. A new daughter, Phebe, in November brings us to five, and a new home near Potomac, Md. gives us room for children, visitors to Washington, and horses in the near future. This being an election year, I expect to be working in the Nixon effort probably once again with the Rogers boys, Bill (US Attorney General), LLB '37, Lou '38, and Ted '42." Nixonites with horses to put up for the night might wish to make note of Bob's address: 1625 Eye St. NW, Washington 6, D.C.

Chance Vought Aircraft has recently formed an astronautics division and promoted to quality assurance manager M. Robert Seldon, 810 Cedar Hill Ave., Dallas, Tex. Having joined Strick Trailers, a division of Fruehauf, in January, Melvin Kolker has moved to 7808 Oak Lane Rd., Cheltenham, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia.

Benjamin H. Matteson has been appointed senior engineer in engineering planning of IBM's federal systems division laboratory in Kingston. The Matteson family, including wife Rachel and children Keith 13, Rachel 7, and Patricia 6, reside in New Paltz.

Associate Curator of Birds of Carnegie Museum Kenneth C. Parkes has received a grant from the National Science Foundation to continue studies of molting and plumage succession in young birds. Dr. Parkes, who can be reached at 5614 Walnut St., Pittsburgh 32, Pa., concentrates also on taxonomy & distribution of Philippine birds.

Ralph S. Croskey has been promoted to manager of one of Mutual of New York's agencies in New York City. He joined the insurance firm as a field underwriter in 1953, and has been on its managerial training staff since last November. Following graduation, he became an officer in the 14th Air Force in the China-Burma-India theater where he served more than two years. He earned a law degree at University of Pennsylvania after the war. The Croskeys and their two children live on Dale Rd., Stony Brook.

Agricultural consultant Clifford L. Orbaker has been elected assistant vice-president of Doane Agricultural Service, Inc. of St. Louis, Mo., and is in charge of all Eastern operations with offices at 62 W. State St., Doylestown, Pa. John L. Olsen is now manager of Sun Oil's refinery supply and distribution division.—S. MILLER HARRIS

'44 DVM—Dr. David B. Porter has returned to the United States after completing an assignment with the International Cooperation Administration as veterinary adviser in Ecuador, during which he helped to organize a program to control parasitic and other communicable diseases in cattle. He is now director of veterinary research in the international branch of Eaton Laboratories. His duties will require him to spend some time in Latin America. Dr. Porter has been in foreign service since graduation. He was veterinarian with Panama Canal Co. and then with ICA in Paraguay, Bolivia, the Dominican Republic, and Guatemala before going to Ecuador. He was accompanied on his Ecuador assignment by Mrs. Porter and their children, Anne, 8, David, Jr., 6, Jessica, 4, and Eric, 1. All the Porter family, except Eric, speak Spanish fluently.

'48 PhD—Maurice A. Hatch is associate professor of English and director of freshman composition at University of Kentucky in Lexington (address, 222 McVey Hall). He has three daughters, Ruby, 16, Julia, 14, and Elizabeth, 6, and a son, David, 9.

Women—Arrival of the first little Christenberry, David Noble, March 5, has thrown all good intentions into a cocked hat. But at last mother, father, and Bullet, hound dog of dubious origin, are adjusting to the little fellow and we can all return to old pursuits.

As noted in the Class newsletter this spring, Mrs. James C. Horton (Betty Easterbrook) has returned, with enlarged family, to the Syracuse area. Address is 103 Westminster Rd., Dewitt. Jim is with Carrier. Jimmy, Carol, Tommy, Peter, and Nancy, ranging from 8 years to 8 months, keep the Hortons company! Mrs. Jack Tewey '45 (Barbara Samson) is now in Melrose, Mass. at 43 Garfield Rd. Jack is in the food services department of Polaroid, in Cambridge (Harvard, anyone?) They are expecting their fifth soon. How can I think I'm so busy with one?

Mrs. Arthur Adami (Virginia Hagemeyer) writes that the family will be relocating in the Stamford, Conn. area, since Art has joined American Machine & Foundry there. They have been in Pittsburgh the last five years while he was with Westinghouse Atomic Power. Ginny refers to her "3-ring circus" featuring Bruce, 4 yrs., Ginny Leigh, 2½ yrs., and Laurie, 6 mos.

Patricia Meid is pursuing her studies in the concentrated one-year Harvard-Radcliffe program in business administration. She recently completed her "on-the-job" training as an assistant in market research at S. S. Pierce Co. Pat's home is Half-A-Gale, Brooklandville, Md.

'50 Women — From Reno, Nev. comes a note from Sally Morrison Kersey (Mrs. Robert L. Kersey '49, 2130 Gridley Ave.) protesting: "No! We are not here for the cure! Bob is director of student services at University of Nevada, which includes management of the new student union and all residence halls and dining services. For me, the usual PTA activities (our boy is now in kindergarten), occasional faculty functions and, once in a while, hostessing for the home economics home management classes. We think Reno a wonderful place to live, as we enjoy proving to many visitors; we love to have them leave their money in this State, too." Mr. and Mrs. William M. Marcussen '50 (Barbara Singleton) have recently moved into a new home on Berry Lane, Media, Pa. Bobbie now confesses that, as she planned and replanned her new kitchen, she wished she had listened better in her Home Ec classes. Marc is now a technical sales engineer for Atlantic, dealing with wax products, and traveling a fair amount.

Eleanor Bailey McDowell (Mrs. Neil McDowell) writes that they bought a hundred-year-old house in Amherst, N.H. this past year; "it seems like it rambles on for miles and it fits in beautifully with this lovely, typically New England town." The mailing address is simply Box 312, Amherst. Mrs. Forrest D. Brown, Jr. (Carol Rasmussen), her husband and two boys spent their vacation last year at Cayuga Lake State Park and managed to work in a visit to the Campus. "We were amazed at all the new buildings." The Browns live at 15 N. Avon Dr., Claymont, Del. Mary Louise Alstein (Mrs. Neil van Allen, 32 Harvard Ave., Shrewsbury, Mass.) reports: "Mark is now five and a half and keeps me hopping, as he is a normal alert kindergartner. Whatever time I have left from household duties is spent on church work (although sometimes that is reversed). I am teaching first grade in the church school, as well as acting as principal of the primary department. I keep up my interest in home ec as chairman of the church kitchen planning committee and by running monthly fellowship suppers."

Mrs. William O. Partisch (Jean Michelin) writes that the Partisch family count is still the same: Janine, born in Philadelphia in 1953, and Karen, born in Malone in 1956. Her husband Bill is still a sales engineer (for Texaco Oil Co., dealing with industrial accounts) and still a ski enthusiast. The Partischs live at 111 Academy St., Malone. Jean Thomas Hudson, husband Tom and daughters moved into a new home at 3687 Mural Dr., Claremont, Cal., just before Christmas. Jean is a mathematician for thirty-five engineers in the advanced design department of the technical staff in the systems division at Aero-Jet General Corp., in Azusa, Cal. "Tom thought this sounded too good," Jean writes, "so he joined forces and is now in the structural materials division."

Louise Passerman Rosenfeld now lives at 325 South Bedford Rd., Chappaqua, with three kids and one husband, according to her scribbled note. Mrs. Garth Andrews (Ellen Forbes) writes, "My husband and I are still finishing our house with questionable help from Nancy, 4½, and David, 3." The afore-mentioned house is in Homer at 175 N. West St. Ralph '51 and Evelyn Jones De Hart now live in Port Jefferson, 111 Hoyt Lane. Ralph is a security officer at Fairchild Astrionics Division at Wyandanch. Evelyn has been teaching and studying for the MEd at Adelphi College. Both of their daughters, Margaret and Lisa, are in school.

Mrs. John F. Mason (Charlotte Ruth Heinzelman) writes: "We added son number two in January, 1959. We moved into our new split level home in Roanoke, Va. more than a year ago and are enjoying our outdoor living area and barbecue with a view of a stream running through our backyard and of woods and mountainside beyond." The Mason address is 1851 Elbert Dr., SW. Natascha Wendel Loeb (Mrs. Julian U. Loeb) now lives at 9 Donnybrook Rd., Montvale, N.J., and has two children, Christopher, 2½, and Natascha, 1.

Miriam McCloskey Jaso (Mrs. John P. Jaso, Jr. '49, 17919 Wildwood Ave., Lansing, Ill.) now has four children, three boys and a girl, and is director of the Junior Women's Club Children's Theater. Peter '49 and Paula (Moyer) Jung live at The Oaks, Hartford City, Ind., and have two boys, Michael and Christopher. Captain and Mrs. Charles L. Phillips '49 (Janet Praeger) and family, two boys and two girls, returned to the States from Germany just about a year ago and now live on South East St., Amherst, Mass. "Doc" is now with the ROTC at University of Massachusetts.

Stephen J. Tauber, Chemistry Department, Smith College, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Teaching chemistry to the young ladies of Smith College (where I have been an assistant professor since last September) is a pleasant occupation. At times I feel that I have been learning more chemistry during the last year than during four years at Cornell and at graduate school thereafter. The faculty too engage in extracurricular activity here: The training of the CDC stood me in good stead for my part in the appalling melodrama 'Love Rides the Rails, or, Will the Mail-Train Run Tonight?' The students were delighted to see us make marvelous fools of ourselves and we earned some money to help furnish the recently-constructed new faculty center. Elinor Wardwell, Grad '53-'55, was one of the Temperance Ladies in the barroom scene." According to the program for the play, Steve played the part of Harold Stanfast, friend and fellow worker of the hero, Truman Pendennis, who (1) had a scholarship to Harvard, (2) loathed liquor, and (3) loathed lechery.

David W. Buckley (pictured above) was recently promoted to product manager in the Lever Division of Lever Brothers Co., New York City. Dave has been with Lever Brothers since 1953 (exclusive of two years in the Army) as a marketing trainee, salesman, area sales manager, and assistant product manager, successively.

As you think again about making some small financial contribution to the University (which, as you know, spent more on you than it received from you while you were an undergraduate), ponder the following remarks on "The Cornell Tradition" from an address given at President Malott's installation, September 19, 1951, by Professor Robert E. Cushman:

I think if one stands off and looks at the composite achievement of these two pioneers, Ezra Cornell and Andrew D. White, one sees running through it all a dominating principle which governed all they did. They were driven by the conviction that American college and university education needed a new charter of freedom—and virtually every new idea that went into the founding of Cornell was a plank in that charter. They were bent upon founding a university devoted to the ideal of a completely free intellectual life. The old restraints, taboos, prejudices, dogmas and superstitions, which had warped and suffocated American higher education, were to find no place on the Cornell Campus. The free life of a great university is a constant challenge to the teacher to broaden the vision and deepen the understanding of his students, a challenge to the scholar to extend the frontiers of human knowledge, and Cornell and White were determined that the life of Cornell University should be a free life. They were themselves pioneers, and they expected the University they founded to keep on breeding pioneers.

This column will have to be short and sweet, for the simple reason that you've all been sitting on your writing hands. Please drop me a line, before we go out of print entirely, particularly if you get to Reunion or run across other Classmates in your travels.

Double congratulations to Bill '52 and Barbara Galvin Rittenhouse on the arrival May 16 of twin daughters, Janet Elizabeth and Carol Lynn. Their sister Gretchen is almost 2. Bill's comment on this latest development: "Now I'm outnumbered by women in my household 4 to 1" Between feedings and diaper changes, Barb is still more than happy to receive Class dues of $2. Send your money to Mrs. O. William Rittenhouse, 66 Leigh St., Clinton, N.J.

If you have been bothered by certain phrases uttered by candidates for national political office, perhaps these handy definitions, first broadcast over CBS some years ago by Eric Sevareid, will help. "I am not a candidate for vice-president" means "I gotta keep my presidential bandwagon rolling until after the first ballot." "I'm in this fight to the finish" means "The law sets the election day and I can't do a thing about it." "We must return to the principles of our forefathers" means "Things must have been simpler in those days!"

Jack Otter married May 21 Susan Eaves in Washington, D.C. Dr. Don Lathrop served as best fellow at the ceremonies. Jack works in the special television program sales department of National Broadcasting Co. in New York City. Paul and Lila Reynolds are proud parents of a son, Harry Paul, Jr., born May 10. Paul's efforts for Ford Motor Co. are now centered on the large scale leasing of Henry's cars.

Bob Neff writes that he is still resident at One Gracie Terrace, New York City 28, and would be happy to see old Cornellians who might be in New York for a short visit and who would welcome "an older but still familiar face." However, in the next breath, Bob reports that he is about to leave on a two or three months' business trip to Puerto Rico, Venezuela, and Colombia to visit the operating activities of his employer, International Basic Economy Corp., and to research some new IBEC endeavors.

Nestor Alzarez, Jr. is with M. E. Franks, Inc., international distributors of manufactured milk products. He will represent the company in fluid milk products. He was formerly with the Market Administrator's Office, New York City, and before that, was in a milk business partnership in Daytona Beach, Fla. He and his wife, Ruth, live at 2575 Sedwick Ave., Bronx.

John C. Cini, Jr. is a sales engineer for Straus-DuParquet, Inc., makers of food service equipment. He lives at 56-20 203d St., Bayside 64, with his wife and two children. John is also a member of the International Society of Food Service Consultants.

For those who have been wondering about the whereabouts of the former editor of this column, a partial answer is supplied by a recent reprint, which has come across my desk, from the Proceedings of the New York State Association of Public Health Laboratories, Volume XXXIX, No. 1, 1959, pp. 14-16. The article in question is captioned, "The Epidemiologic Approach to Cancer Research. By Samuel D. Licklider (by invitation of the Council), Fellow in Epidemiology, Department of Preventive Medicine, Sloan-Kettering Institute, New York." Following an essay of about 1000 words, there are transcribed certain conference remarks which conclude with a participant stating, "I shall close the scientific session by expressing the appreciation and thanks of the Association membership to Dr. Licklider...."

Mrs. Stanley E. Sacks (Carole Freedman) and husband have probably left on a month's tour of the Western US as this issue goes to press. However, Carole was anxious to hear from Classmates in the Los Angeles or San Francisco area. An airmail postcard sent to 2100 Claremont Ave., Norfolk, Va. might be forwarded. Carole reports that Stanley is a negligence attorney in Norfolk. She has seen Ruth Lauterbach Hutter whose husband, Robert, is a pathologist stationed at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. The Hutters will be leaving Norfolk in July to return to Yonkers.

I was delighted to hear from the father of one of our Classmates. Abraham S. Haibloom '16 proudly informed me that his daughter, Mrs. David B. Follender (Irma Haibloom) of 1460 Hudson Rd., West Englewood, N.J., was elected secretary of the Cornell Women's Club of Bergen County, N.J.

Oh where, oh where has Dottie Clark gone? Dottie, as you may remember, is the regular Class correspondent for the ALUMNI NEWS. If anyone knows where or how I can get in touch with her, please let me know. The Coyles are also heading West the middle of June for a brief family reunion at Estes Park, Colo. From there we will fly to New York City then backtrack to Lancaster, Pa. We are once again hoping to see Classmates in the Wilmington, Del. area.

There has not been enough news for a column for the past month, but a few tidbits have since drifted in, and we pass them on to you.

Spotted in the New York Herald Tribune was the engagement of Kenneth G. Paltrow to Helaine Rosenblatt. Ken is now Dr. Paltrow, having graduated from New York Medical College in 1958, and is a resident at Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco, Cal. His bride-to-be is a senior at Mount Zion Nursing School, and will graduate in August. She has also spent two summers studying in Israel and in Europe.

The fastest and easiest way to take notes is to talk them onto a transistorized Dictet tape recorder. There's no scribbling to question, no shorthand or abbreviations to decipher.

Dictet records every word perfectly. Just pick up the mike and talk. The Dictet microphone doubles as a playback speaker.

Dictet works anywhere... records for full hour on one tape magazine... mercury batteries last 20-plus hours. It weighs only 2½ lbs. Costs $314. How can any businessman afford to travel without one?

Rent a Dictet from any Dictaphone office and judge for yourself. You can charge it on your American Express credit card. You can apply the rental charges to the purchase price, if you wish.

expecting another addition in June. Frank assists his father in the management of Quinn's Colonial Tavern in Saratoga, and his new address is 111 Fifth Ave. A hearty welcome is extended to all Cornellians. Another change of address come from James S. Weaver, now at 1861 Wood Rd., Scotch Plains, N.J.

Patrick M. de la Sota writes from Spain that he became the proud father of a boy in November, 1958, and is now managing director of a wire-rope company in Bilbao, the tongue-twisting name of which is Sociedad Franco-Espanola de Alambres, Cables y Transportes Aereos. His address is Gran Via 56, Bilbao, Spain.

The Allison Danzigs report they have a new member in their household by the name of Thomas Allison. Duke and Peachie have a lovely new home at 31 Myson St., West Islip. Tommy, who arrived April 25, also has an older sister, three or thereabouts, and his father is keeping him in diapers by working at Cannon Mills.

Kenneth S. Berkman writes that he appears regularly on WNYC-TV as Sergeant Arno Replevin of the lost and found department of the New York Transit Authority, a documentary, filmed TV series. Gardner McKay of "Adventures in Paradise" is not our only claim to fame! Ken's address is 161-10 Jamaica Ave., Jamaica 32. With the 817th Medical Group as base veterinarian is Carl D. Nelson, who received the DVM in June, 1959. His address is Pease Air Force Base, Portsmouth, N.H.

A recent letter to the News from Colonel

David C. Jolly '41 mentioned that he had seen Mahdi S. Elmandjra at the American Ambassador's home in Rabat, Morocco. Mahdi was president of the Cosmopolitan Club while at Cornell, and is now Directeur, Radio deffusion, Marocaine, Rabat. Colonel Jolly wrote: "Needless to say, it was a pleasure to talk to a Cornellian, and I can assure you, he has many fond memories of Cornell."

Newly-located in Poughkeepsie is Eugene C. Nicolato, who recently left the law department of General Foods, Inc. to join Guernsey, Butts & Walsh, a law firm in that city. He is "engaged in the general practice of law," and new address is 25 Market St., Poughkeepsie. William B. Bullock has been appointed credit manager of H. A. Carey, Inc., an insurance agency in Ithaca. Bill served in the Army for two years in Germany, and received his MBA at Cornell last June. He was with the Cornell Accounting Department, and most recently was engaged in that field with Shell Oil Co. in Albany.

Larry Scott was in town briefly last month with his wife Leah (Kimball '56) and now 9½-month-old daughter, Pamela, all enroute back to Washington from a week's vacation in New Hampshire. Larry, who has another year to go yet in the service, is still in the Navy-AEC nuclear submarine business under Admiral Rickover. Their address is 3369-B S. Wakefield St., Arlington, Va.

If I may be allowed to stay in the clubhouse for a moment, Jim Strickler and Helen Schelkoff '58 were married November 1 in San Francisco. Jim sends the following report: "Tom Merryweather was at the wedding, as were Fos Kinney and Jim Goldsmith and his wife Ann (Merriken '58). Jim's working for Equitable Life as a commercial appraiser, right around the corner from our Standard Oil building. Herm Van Lokeren and his wife, Pat, were there. Herm is in engineering for Eliot Co., in the same building as Jim Goldsmith. Jim lives in Mill Valley, and Herm is living a little further up the line in Kentfield. Helen and I have a four-room apartment right in the city in an old but rather elegant building (tub baths only) and are loving this San Francisco life." The Stricklers' address is Apt. E, 2174 California St., San Francisco 15.

John Maltby, Lee Poole, and Bill Dodge '57 are students at Princeton Theological Seminary. John is married to the former Dorothy Vandercher '54; they have two sons and a daughter. The Maltbys live on Ridge Rd., Monmouth Jct., N.J. Son born December 1 to Bill and Marianne DeGraff, whose address is 125 Hudson St., Ithaca.

Doug Parker, who should be stationed in Washington by now, collected the LLB at Cornell in 1958, practiced law for a year in New York City, and then took a commission in the Army's Judge Advocate General's Corps. Hello again, 'mates. We'll devote this column to catch-up on the doings and whereabouts of a few of those hardy Cornell Fund volunteers who are working under Dick Metzgar in an attempt to push our Class contribution over the top. We see by the latest tally that the '58 men are sort of on the Dean's "other" List as far as generosity is concerned. We were benefiting by the contributions of others not so long ago; let's begin now, when our memories of days on the Hill are fondest and freshest, to say, "Thank you, Cornell," by giving to the Fund annually. It's not too late to give this year, either; the goal is in sight as we near the deadline at Reunion time.

Dick himself is still an Army man at Fort Dix, N.J. He writes that his home, at 1203B Ash St., is always open "to Cornellians who happen to be unfortunate enough to find themselves at Fort Dix."

Gordy Anderson, 403 S. Lincoln, Urbana, Ill., has an assistantship in physics at University of Illinois. Norm Barnett is also a student, learning the intricacies and intrigues of international business at Columbia. His address is 345 W. 11th St., New York City 27. Art Brooks married Leslie Wells last June, while stationed at Ft. Bruckner, Ala. He is now the proud father of a baby girl. While at sea he may be contacted via the USS Galveston (CLE-3), FPO, New York City. Paul Christiansen, 1214B, Ash St., Fort Dix, N.J. (right down the street from Dick Metzgar), is also a new father, a 10-lb. boy having arrived on the scene in mid-March. Ensign Glen Dallas is enjoying a saltless three years of shore duty at Norfolk, Va. He and his wife, the former Madolyn McAdams, also '58, are both Cornell Fund workers. Their address is 1000 Rockbridge Ave., Norfolk 8. John Denniston, Ames 201A, Cambridge 38, Mass., is buried beneath law books in his first year at Harvard.

Dave Eckel is now with Marine Midland after having taken the Army's "short course" of six months; he lives at 747 La Salle Ave., Buffalo 15. Phil Gellert has completed the MBA and has assumed the role of production manager in charge of 40,000 female employees, all chickens at the Poultry Lane Farm in Hillsdale. Lee Jacqueline is now a banker (love those hours!) in New York City; his address is 145 Shoreview Rd., Manhasset. He is being assisted in the New York area by Phil Getter, 1737 Broadway, Hewlett. Western representatives include Bill Jensen, 766 Bellaire St., Denver, Colo. Bill married Charlotte Blomquist '58 last May and is now studying law at University of Denver. Another Westerner is Richard Hall, a lieutenant at the 4th M.P. Det., Fort Lewis, Wash.

Barry Zacks writes enthusiastically of life in California. He lives at 125 Cambon Dr., San Francisco 27, with his wife (the former Joyce Leirson) and his son Danny. Another Californian is Jimmy Flowers, who lives at Box 322, Corcoran, with his wife Lois and two young sons, Dana and Calvin. He is cattle superintendent for J. B. Boswell Co. Feedyard. He summarizes the sentiments of many of our correspondents with the phrase, "Certainly miss good old Cornell!"

Thomas Byers, Box 488, RD 4, Sewell, N.J., writes that he is studying zoology at Penn (a turncoat in the ranks, it seems) and is sharing a lab with another Cornellian, Dave Keiper '54. He recently became engaged to Sandy Roberts '59. Joel Gilbert sends word from the South, where he is attending Duke University medical school in Durham, N.C. He reports that football cheers have a distinctly regional flavor: a typical chant, "Get the ball, you all, get the ball!"

These are but telegraphic sketches of a few of our Classmates who have volunteered to help in the Fund Drive this year. They deserve our thanks for their efforts. But they also deserve our help. Let's give them a check payable to Cornell University as our part in the 1960 Cornell Fund drive.

'58 Women: Patricia K. Malcolm
415 East 85th St.
New York 28, N.Y.

Carolyn (Dudley) and John Riley '55 have a six-month-old daughter Alison and live on Birchwood Rd., Windsor, Conn. Dud mentions having seen Lou (Merrill) and Marty Mace '59 who are now located in Wollaston, Mass. Lou is a bookkeeper with a law firm and Marty is with Howard Johnson.

Carolyn A. Funnell and John T. Porter '58 plan to be married in July. Carolyn is acting home demonstration agent of Wayne County. They will live in East Lansing, Mich. where John is a graduate assistant in agricultural economics at Michigan State University. Judy Sherman was married to Ludwig G. Dosch, a Columbia graduate, May 7. Their new address is 230-02 139th Ave., Laurelton 13. Carol Mayer was an attendant.

Mary Anne (Farnsworth) and Dick Fenzl '56 have a daughter, Teresa, their second child. They are in California where Dick is doing graduate work. Keith and Carol (Ostergren) Orts and son Eric have a new address: National Road West, Bridgeport, Ohio. Keith is going into his own vet practice there. They are located on Route 40 and would enjoy having Cornellians going East or West drop in. Arlene C. Rosenwasser and Robert I. Reiter plan to be married June 19. Robert is a graduate of University of Florida.

A fascinating letter just arrived from Nancy Cole and Susan Swanson who are in Munich, Germany and can be reached c/o American Express, Briennerstrasse 4. I quote:

Before we'd been here twenty days, we decided we had to stay. Staying meant money, so our first jobs were located in Frankfurt at an Army hotel where Sue was supervisor of the post nursery and I (Nancy Cole) a receptionist for the manager . . . It was at Christmas in St. Anton's that we met Bob Eismann '58 wandering down the street fresh off a night train from Paris, and in Kitzbuhel that Susan met Pete Melcher '56 studying in Brussels. . . . In LaSpezia we found and bought a used lifeboat which we christened The Deep Six. Therefore, for March and April we were sailing on, or wallowing on, the Med in said boat. The plan is to put a motor in the boat, she now has a keel, and sail to Cannes, and then get a tow up the Rhone to the start of the French canal system, motor to the Seine and up to Paris, later sailing along the northern coast of Europe. It sounds too fantastic, but so much has been accomplished so far, in making the boat watertight, knifing through Italian red tape, hauling the boat off beaches, etc., that it now seems more than possible. By the way, Susan made the maiden voyage of The Deep Six into LaSpezia's harbor only to be becalmed and spend the night in the rain underneath a sail . . . Both of us have turned a little greyer in the past year, but otherwise haven't aged too much. It's been great fun reading the ALUMNI NEWS this year, but we sure would like to hear from some of our Classmates.

'59 Men: Howard B. Myers
308 Mercer St.
New Castle, Pa.

From Harvard law school Fred Wallach writes that he finds the work stimulating. That it is stimulating may be attested by the fact that it stimulated Larry Hantman to marry Eileen Tamarkin last December during the vacation. This broke up the Harvard law triumvirate of Harvey (Brutus) Weissbard, Jerry (Cassius) Schultz, and Hantman, but the former two are doing well without Larry. Fred Wallach also reported that Bob Paul, Marsh Bernstein, Jack Rosenfeld, Earl Harrison, and John Deniston are all studying law at Harvard. He also has seen Steve Ambinder and Marv Nathanson at the business school, Steve Pollock at MIT, and Bob Ehrlich and Mike Green at the Harvard-Cornell game.

Burt Ahrens, unofficial correspondent from Yale law school, reports that the Cornell contingent did extremely well during the first term, Jim Mitchell being elected to the Yale Law Journal. Several others just missed and are working hard for this honorific post this second term. Along with Burt and Jim, Hank Bisguer, Dan Epstein, Pete Preisner, Sandy Rosen, and Joe Taetle are representing the Class of '59 at Yale this year, and are doing very well. Burt's contact is 2503 Yale Station, New Haven, Conn.

H. David Kearing married Judith Bartley, last December, in McClure. I have no address at present for Mr. & Mrs. Kearing.

Kirk Smith, after a two-year hitch in the Marines, married another Smith in 1957. The Smiths and son Russell are now in Ithaca, and Kirk expects to finish up in the Hotel School in 1961.

Sid Turkish, EE '59, is currently with Airborne Instruments Laboratory as a projects engineer, and attends Brooklyn Tech at night while working for a Master's. He is also affiliated with the Cornell Society of Engineers in New York, along with Bill Balet and Gerry Friedman, and welcomes any and all members of the Engineering Class of '59 to join.

Richard Hunt is a partner in the firm of Hunt & Hunt, landscape designers and nurserymen. He's located at 4581 Ridge Rd., Ransomville, and is looking forward to the draft, planning to enter in November. James G. Mancuso, 8 Fayette St., Binghamton, is employed as a veterinarian by Dr. J. H. Howard's Animal Hospital, Endicott. Paul Marcus, 3957 Gouverneur Ave., New York City 63, is still in Ithaca where he's finishing his Master's thesis in Agricultural Marketing. Paul will be finished in July.

George Merrill, 3104 Adams St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., is presently involved in research on the Army's Hawk Missile for the Josan Electronics Corp. This spring he will be traveling to North Borneo to work as a field engineer in foreign missile bases there. E. Stanley Hobbs, Jr. is located at 2687 Cranlyn Rd., Shaker Hgts, 22, Ohio.

Stew Linnick, toiler at Columbia law school, recently announced his impending marriage to Ruth Berman. A June wedding is also planned for fellow Columbia lawyer Harvey Freeman and Mary Goodkind. While this continual process of marriage among Columbia law students goes on (Steve Friedman, Arnie Levine, and Howard Myers already have wives), Harry Petcheskt and Joel Rothenberg have no immediate plans. They seem to be content to devote themselves to all women, not just one. Joel Jankowitz, however, seems to be married to the law, a proverbial jealous mistress for all lawyer wives. Nick Kirchhoff, Dave Manowitz, and Bernard Ferster round out the Cornell Class of '59 at Columbia law school, and while I can't speak for their love lives, they do seem to be enjoying law school.

'59 Women: Louisa Bachman
Gerstenberger
902 Maybelle N.E.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Eleanor Ross is not in New York City, as previously reported, but has been studying on a Fulbright at University of Bordeaux, France. Her mother, Florence Miller Ross '27, sends the wonderful news that Ellie's grant has been renewed in the form of a teaching fellowship at University of Strasbourg, France for 1960-61. Her present address is c/o that gathering spot for collegians abroad, American Express, 11 rue Scribe, Paris. Marty Sheddick of 5111 16th St., NW, Washington 11, D.C., has a temporary change of address, too. She's supervising a survey for the Department of Labor in Alaska and may be reached c/o General Delivery, Fairbanks.

Changes of names are also in the news. April 17, Nancy Knight became Mrs. Dietrich H. Waack. They live at 350 East 207th St., Bronx 68, and Nancy's working for the National Council of Churches. Mimi Petermann and Alan Merrill '60 were married in Ithaca June 4. June 26, Toby Friedman will be married to William Gottfried of Philadelphia. The Gottfried address will be 241 South 13th St., Philadelphia, and Toby plans to enter University of Pennsylvania in the fall to work for the PhD.

From 811 Clymer Place, Madison, Wis., Judy Green writes that she is studying at University of Wisconsin for the MA in history. For "urban revitalization," she races to Chicago where her headquarters are at University of Chicago where Mark '59 and Sue Kesselman, Esther Schiller, and Lois Landy are pursuing their various fields of study.

Carole Freeman Gliedman (Mrs. Richard) of 75 Midchester Ave., White Plains, announces the birth in January of their daughter, Shari Beth. March 4, Dwight '57 and Cindy Hales Ryan added another son to their crop of future Cornellians. Jeffrey Filon Ryan joins the family at 226 Riddle Rd., Cincinnati 15, Ohio. In Ithaca, April 16, James Matthew was born to Tom '57 and Sue Bates Cottrell. Their address is 702 Cayuga Heights Rd., Ithaca.

Naomi Meltzer Rubin and her husband, Dr. Walter Rubin, MD '59, live at 99 Chestnut St., Brookline, Mass. Naomi teaches English and history at a nearby girls' school. Rochelle Leffert Spergel (Mrs. Martin), 329 University Ave., Rochester 7, is a nutritionist for the Health Association of Rochester and Monroe County. Looking forward to their first anniversary, June 20, are Peter '57 and Kathy Ripp Sisley of 419 Longmeadow, Buffalo 26. Kathy finds her job as home service representative for a gas company most varied and interesting.

*Daddy says I'll have my own room in our new house.
I'll have a royal princess bed
on golden legs
and curtains with music in them
when the wind blows.
The windows
will be gingerbread and there'll be a drawbridge to keep out wicked brothers.*

She'll have her own room because Dad promised she would. Dad will also keep another promise... should something happen to him there will be money to pay the mortgage. His Prudential Mortgage Insurance has made certain his family can stay in the house they love. You can do the same for your family whether you own or rent the home you live in. Do it with Prudential Mortgage Insurance or Prudential Rent Insurance... just two of the many modern Prudential plans available through your Prudential Agent... welcome him when he calls.
