Chemistry makes it yours!

A whole new world of better products is being created to serve you!

The great progress made in American chemistry has been in the past 30 years . . . within the lifetime of most of us.

Versatile plastics—health-giving wonder drugs—fine man-made fabrics . . . they're only a few of the modern chemical achievements which have opened up a whole new world of better living for all of us.

Vision—75 Years Ago

Though the greatest advances have been made within three decades, the foundation for this progress was laid by the pioneering American chemists who 75 years ago had the vision to form the American Chemical Society. Their society has grown from a handful of members to well over 60,000—the world's largest professional scientific organization. The people of Union Carbide are glad to pay tribute to the American Chemical Society on its Diamond Jubilee, and on the occasion of the World Chemical Conclave.

Union Carbide Grows With Science

Chemistry and the related fields of physics and metallurgy have long been major interests of Union Carbide. The application of these sciences to producing new and better materials has been the backbone of UCC's growth.

BEEBE LAKE has been drained this summer to permit extensive repairs to the dam and hydraulic intakes as pictured on our cover by Bill Ficklin. Old part of the dam in foreground has been raised and repaired, and the dam continued across to the south bank of Fall Creek, in background. Buildings over the test flume below dam have been removed.

Class Committees Get $657,384 For University Alumni Fund

CORNELL ALUMNI FUND in the fiscal year which ended last June 30 received gifts for unrestricted use by the University totaling $657,384 from 11,554 contributors, reports H. Hunt Bradley '26, executive secretary of the Fund.

This amount includes $172,103 in annual contributions made directly to the Alumni Fund and $485,281 credits for payments received during the fiscal year on unrestricted pledges to the Greater Cornell Fund. Solicitation by Class committees of annual gifts for the Alumni Fund began again last January, after having been suspended for two-and-a-half years during the Greater Cornell Fund campaign. Payments by individuals up to $5000 on unrestricted Greater Cornell Fund pledges are credited also in the Class totals for the Alumni Fund.

Reunion Classes Lead

Again the Classes campaigning for special Reunion quotas topped all others in contributions to the Alumni Fund. The Thirty-year Class of '21 men, led by Willard A. Kiggins, Jr., collected 118.6 per cent of its $30,000 objective with $35,592 and placed second in number of contributors with 278. The Twenty-five-year Class of '26 men, with Bradley as Alumni Fund chairman, led in number of donors with 308 and made 110.9 per cent of their $25,000 quota with $27,729. The Thirty-five-year men of '16, Edward S. Jamison Alumni Fund representative, led all other Classes in direct gifts to the Alumni Fund with $21,556. Highest in percentage of living members contributing was the Class of '97, headed by Charles T. Mordock, with 94 donors in a Class membership of 135.

Women's Committees Active

Among the women's Class committees, '26 headed by Mrs. Dorothy Lampe Hill led in amount collected with $2895. Highest number of contributors were the '39 women led by Mrs. Madeleine Weil Lowens, with 103. The '20 women, under chairmanship of Mrs. Alice Callahan Jensen, had $877 to lead in direct gifts to the Alumni Fund. Class of '13 committee headed by Mrs. Ethel Fogg Clift got 70 contributors in the 81 living women members for highest percentage of Class contributing to the Fund.

President of the Alumni Fund Council is Jessel S. Whyte '13 of Kenosha, Wis. Bradley was appointed executive secretary in charge of the Alumni Fund office, July 1. He succeeded Emmet J. Murphy '22, April 1, as acting secretary. He has been a member of the Alumni Fund staff since January, 1948; worked in New York City with Class committees until he was loaned to the Greater Cornell Fund campaign in July, 1948, as director of area solicitations in up-State New York; and joined the Alumni Fund office at the University in June, 1950. He entered Arts & Sciences in 1922 from Moses Brown School, Providence, R.I., and received the AB in 1926; was Varsity track manager. He is a member of Alpha Delta Phi and Quill and Dagger; was president of the Cornell Club of Rhode Island, vice-president of the Cornell Club of New England, and a director of the Cornell Club of New York.

All Unrestricted Gifts Exceed $810,000

Vice-president Willard I. Emerson '19

H. Hunt Bradley '26—Appointed executive secretary of Cornell Alumni Fund reports that the University received in the year ended June 30 unrestricted gifts of more than $810,000. This includes the Alumni Fund and, in addition, the excess of unrestricted payments to the Greater Cornell Fund over Alumni

Milwaukee Holds "Wash"

ANNUAL CORNELL WASH of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee, Wis., July 21, came off successfully in spite of threatening rain. Seventy-five alumni gathered at the home of Theodore L. Eschweiler '19 on Cornell Lake for baseball, then went on for swimming in Pine Lake at the home of Robert E. Friend '08 and for a barbecue dinner at the home of James A. Friend '16. Out-of-towners at the thirty-third annual outing included Counselor of Foreign Students Donald C. Kerr '12 and former General Alumni Secretary Emmet J. Murphy '22 of St. Paul, Minn. The Milwaukee Journal for July 25 carried a full page of pictures of the party. Arrangements were in charge of Arthur L. Slocum '39.

Start World Institute

INSTITUTE of International Industrial and Labor Relations has been established in the School of Industrial & Labor Relations, with Professor Leonard P. Adams, PhD '35, as acting director. Recognizing the importance in the current worldwide ideological struggle of developing and preserving capacities for cooperative relationships between management and labor, both in the United States and abroad, the Institute will employ education and research to explore the field and work toward improvement. It is the first such major educational program in an American university.

The Institute's first project is a program arranged in the I&LR School and College of Engineering for fourteen Turkish executives who started at the University, July 1, a six-month study of American industrial methods, under sponsorship of the Economic Cooperation Administration. During July and August, the men took special courses in the I&LR School, arranged for them by Professor Rudolph Corvini, and in the School of Mechanical Engineering, arranged by Director Harry J. Loberg '29. While in Ithaca, they lived at the Watermargin house. During September, they will tour American industrial plants. In October and November, each man will be placed in a plant for on-the-job observation and training.

The International Institute is expected to operate numerous similar educational and research programs with government and other support that may also make possible exchange of staff with industry and government, here and abroad. The plan has grown out of short courses given by the School of Industrial & Labor Relations for groups of foreign representatives from management, labor, and government. Teams from Germany, Norway, and France have studied at the School in the last year, and arrangements for other groups are being made with ECA and the US Departments of State and Labor.

Twenty-five German students are coming to the School in September for nine months of study. They will be in charge of Professor John P. Windmuller, PhD '51, recently appointed to the Faculty. Graduate of University of Illinois, he has been election examiner for the National Labor Relations Board and was assistant director of overseas child relief for the Unitarian Service Committee. He received the MS at the School in 1950 and the PhD last June.

Aid Air Force Study

COSMIC RAY experts of the Newman Laboratory of Nuclear Studies are making underground studies for an investigation of the relation between upper atmospheric conditions and cosmic ray intensity being conducted by the Geophysics Research Division of the Air Force Research Center at Cambridge, Mass.

Professors Kenneth I. Greisen, PhD '43, and Guiseppe Cocconi are directing the project. Research is being carried on in a mine of the Cayuga Rock Salt Co. nine miles north of Ithaca and 2000 feet under Cayuga Lake. With Geiger counters and automatic cameras, they are recording penetration of cosmic ray particles which are showered from the stratosphere to smash deep into the earth.

Experts Aid Executives

PROBLEMS of industrial executives were threshed out at a Conference for Executive Development arranged by the School of Industrial & Labor Relations, with the cooperation of the New York Chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management, at Arcady Country Club, Hague-on-Lake George, June 24-29. Fifteen executives were sent by as many companies in a variety of industries. Each day, an industrial or educational authority led the group in discussion of one aspect of organizational, human, and social problems which executives will face in the years ahead, and exchange of ideas and techniques in meeting the problems.

Professor Ralph N. Campbell, Director of Extension of the School, was conference chairman. Professor Earl Brooks, Assistant Dean of the School, led a discussion on "Executive Development." "Getting Cooperation for Improved Productivity" was led by Allan H. Mogenssen '23, who conducts Work Simplification Conferences at Lake Placid and

Sea Island, Ga., and is a former consultant to the Secretary of War and author of Common Sense Applied to Time and Motion. Theodore W. Kheel '35, member of the law firm of Battle, Fowler, Neaman, Stokes & Kheel, impartial chairman for the transit industry in New York City, former executive director of the National War Labor Board, and director of the New York City Division of Labor Relations, led a discussion on "Organized Labor in a Mobilized Society." Ernest R. Strempel '12, assistant to the president of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., attended several days of the conference.

WAY Delegates Take Over University For Colorful Cosmopolitan Gathering

FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the World Assembly of Youth, August 5-16, at the University, brought an unforgettable experience to the Campus and Ithaca. Fezzes, turbans, saris, burnouses, kilts, and tropical shorts fascinated the eye. Sounds of strange languages baffled the ear. Equally striking was the serious application of the delegates to the purpose of the conference: the working out of plans by which non-Communist young people's groups can achieve the twenty-nine points of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights.

Most of the 500 delegates, representing voluntary youth organizations in sixty-four nations, were housed in Baker Dormitories and Sheldon Court for the eleven days. Headquarters were at Willard Straight Hall, at the entrance of which a banner proclaimed in French "L'Assemblée Mondiale de la Jeunesse." Interpreters and information clerks were constantly busy in the lobby. Literature from the youth organizations represented in the National Social Welfare Assembly, whose Young Adult Council was American host for the meeting, was displayed and offered free in several of the lounges; and paintings of fifty young American artists were exhibited in the Memorial Room. During the Assembly, the cafeteria posted its menu in both French and English (delegates had to know at least one of those languages).

At the opening session, August 5, in Bailey Hall, President Deane W. Malott greeted the delegates, speaking the word "welcome" in fifteen languages. He referred to the Communist World Festival of Youth which opened in East Berlin that same day. "By coincidence," he said, "across the world in East Berlin there has gathered today a great group of young people in a Communist youth festival, rallying under the banner of totalitarian dictatorship, where carefully planned indoctrination and the full strength of a skilled publicity organization give false and militant overtones to the theme of world peace. You are met here in a free American University, long accustomed to freedom of thought and of speech; an appropriate place by tradition and by practice for open discussion and the exchange of ideas on the subjects of your agenda."

To consider the assembly theme, "Youth and Human Rights," delegates and observers divided into twelve workshops, meeting in Willard Straight Hall and each devoted to one or several articles of the UN Declaration of Human Rights. Visitors were admitted to these and most plenary sessions only by card. Events in Bailey Hall open to the public included speeches by Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, India's Ambassador to the United States and Mexico, and by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who headed the UN Committee on Human Rights; a regular broadcast of the "Town Hall of the Air" with delegates participating; and concerts by the NBC symphony Orchestra and the Hall Johnson Chorus.

WAY Delegates Gather at Bailey Hall—Some of the delegates to the First General Assembly of the World Assembly of Youth, August 5-16, rest in front of Bailey Hall before a session. Many of the plenary sessions and special programs were held there. For most of the meetings, the stage was decorated with a huge plaque bearing the words, "Assemblée Mondiale de la Jeunesse", and banked with pots of white Caladiums and greens. Suspended over the stage was a large globe of the world inscribed with the letters WAY.

For plenary sessions and the special programs, a simultaneous translation system used by the UN was installed in Bailey Hall. Earphones for 500 auditors brought the speeches in a selected language from translation booths set up in the dress circle and manned by translators recruited by the Ithaca committee. Translators were also on hand at workshops and other sessions. Throughout the assembly, photographers for "News of the Day" took movies for a documentary film.

The young men and women from most of the world got acquainted and traded folkways at picnics at Taughanock and Enfield and at dinners in Ithaca homes arranged by the local committee. Many expressed their appreciation of the beauty of the Campus. It is reported that two African delegates said that Ithaca and the surrounding countryside reminded them of Africa. They preferred it to New York City because there was "espace and soleil": space and sun.

NEWS Wins Award

CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS received an Award of Merit "for outstanding editorial achievement" at the annual meeting of the American Alumni Council at French Lick, Ind., July 9-14. Alumni magazines of colleges and universities in the United States and Canada competed in various classifications and were judged by a board headed by Agnes Rogers Allen, associate editor of Reader's Digest.

The ALUMNI NEWS award was given "for its interesting use of University archives and data on Library collections in a regular column . . ." This is the series of articles about the University Library which began in the NEWS April 15, 1949, and have appeared about once a month since, identified by a small drawing of the Clock Tower. Written by various members of the Faculty and covering numerous Library interests, the series started with "Books on Exploration" by Professor Morris Bishop '14, Romance Languages, and the most recent, last June 15, was "Cornell Acquires Faust Library," by Professor Victor Lange, German Studies. The series was conceived and the articles have been obtained for the NEWS by Felix Reich-

New President Gets Oriented—President Deane W. Malott took over in the President's Office in Edmund Ezra Day Hall, July 2. He is pictured the first day in his office with Miss Amy Hughes, who has served as stenographer to three previous Presidents of the University and continues in that capacity. She came to Morrill Hall in 1918 to work for President Jacob Gould Schurman and has continued under Presidents Livingston Farrand and Edmund E. Day. President Malott will be formally installed as the sixth President of the University, September 19.

mann, Assistant Director of the Library.

Honorable mention also came to CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS this year for its "ways in which you keep your alumni appreciatively aware of the personalities, scholarly achievements, and other activities and interests of your faculty."

Alumnae Secretary Pauline J. Schmid '25 and Alumni Field Secretary John A. Krieger '49 attended the American Alumni Council meeting at French Lick. The organization comprises professional alumni workers in universities, colleges, and private schools throughout the United States and Canada in three divisions: alumni offices, alumni funds, and alumni magazines.

Publish Conference Report

LECTURES AND DISCUSSIONS from the third annual conference of the School of Business & Public Administration, last February 9-10, have been published by the School.

Included in the booklet, entitled "Mobilization" after the theme of the conference, the problems of national mobilization, are the speeches of Ernest A. Tupper, Washington consultant on business-government relations and a former member of the War Labor Board; Edwin B. George, economist with Dun & Bradstreet; Leo M. Cherne, executive secretary of the Research Institute of America; Douglass V. Brown, Alfred P. Sloan professor of Industrial management at MIT; James C. O'Brien, director of the National Scientific Register; and Charles C. Abbott, professor of business economics at Harvard Business School.

The publication may be ordered at $1 from the School of Business & Public Administration, McGraw Hall, Ithaca.

Homecoming October 13

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13, when Cornell plays Harvard on Schoellkopf Field, will be Alumni Homecoming Day at the University. A special committee of the Alumni Association headed by Mrs. Edwin S. Knauss (Dorothy Pond) '18 and Alfred M. Saperstone '19 has suggested a program of entertainment for returning Cornellians and their guests.

Luncheon will be served in Barton Hall, with concert by the Big Red Band before the football game. Plans are being made for a reception to President and Mrs. Deane W. Malott in Willard Straight Hall after the game, and the dining rooms of Willard Straight and Statler Hall will be open to alumni and their guests for dinner. A dance will be held in Willard Straight Memorial Room that evening. Further information about events of Homecoming Day will be in the October 1 ALUMNI NEWS.

Ticket applications and remittances for the Harvard football game which are received from alumni by Cornell University Athletic Association, Box 508, Ithaca, before September 27, will be allotted seats before tickets are put on public sale.

Alumni at Goucher

THREE CORNELLIANs are members of the faculty of Goucher College in Baltimore, Md. Jessie L. King, PhD '11, is emeritus professor of physiology. Raymond P. Hawes, PhD '20, is professor of philosophy and Louise Kelley, PhD '20, is professor of chemistry.

New Bird Song Records

AMERICAN BIRD SONGS, Volume II, a new album of five twelve-inch records, contains the songs of fifty-one birds recorded in their native habitats and available from Comstock Publishing Co., Ithaca. These recordings, like Volume I published several years ago, were made by Professors Peter P. Kellogg '29 and Arthur A. Allen '08, Ornithology, for the Albert R. Brand Bird Song Foundation. They are of finer quality than the earlier collection, with only two songs duplicated.

The five Vinylite records for 78 rpm players contain the songs of birds of gardens and shade trees, birds of the roadside, birds of lakes and marshes, more birds of the marshes, and some North American warblers. The album is priced at $10.50, postpaid.

Folklore Contributors

NEW YORK FOLKLORE Quarterly for Summer features a fifteen-page article by Richard H. Lee '41 and Paul Walters on their two-year hitchhiking trip along the Pan-American Highway. Lee, former Chimemaster and composer of "In the Red and the White," and Walters, who had been a special piano pupil of Egon Petri at Cornell, made the trip to satisfy "wanderlust" and a "layman's interest in folklore." They tell stories of their adventures, songs and folkways. "Hitchhiking was full of uncertainties," they found, yet the very hours and days when they were stranded "seemed to pay off in terms of knowing the natives better."

In the same issue, Richard M. Herson '49 describes the days in Ithaca when squatters lived along the Cayuga Lake shore. Mrs. Kurt Nathan (Barbara Wilson) '48 recounts "Merry Tales From Turkey" and Mrs. Lawrence C. Jones (Barbara Wright) '48, "Lore of Montgomery County." Mary E. King '51 contributes "More Light on the Ballad of 'James Bird'."

Now In My Time!

Conan O'Brien

THE SWEET SUMMER TIME is fast slipping away at Ithaca. Retired professors who know the signs predict the arrival of the football compets, the laundry agents, and the Sun board any morning now.

It's been a pleasant summer, with enough rain to keep the Campus lawns green and never enough to make the descending waters of Fall Creek turn yellow and thunder in the gorge. It's been enlivened, too, for stay-at-homes by the unobtrusive arrival and infiltration of a new President, who seems to go on as comfortably as an old shoe.

The talk of football prospects in the locker room at the golf club deals less with players than with the chances of any individual getting more than two tickets for the Michigan game. In this phenomenon, experts in such matters will recognize a hopeful sign. Somebody must always worry about football tickets, and prospects can be regarded as encouraging, at least, in those seasons in which it is the purchasers and not the sellers who display anxiety in September.

This will be the fifty-third resurrection of the University to be observed by your reporter; but, like the spring, the annual miracle of reawakening never loses its freshness and excitement. After the fiftieth, to be sure, the eyes do not adjust themselves as quickly as they once did, and the picture has a tendency to blur as one sees against the current scene what was and what is yet to be. The ghosts of long-departed baggage wagons, mountain high with student trunks, slip in among the long lines of parental cars bearing the Class of 1955 to the Drill Hall and to Opportunity. Phantom trolley cars, now but a memory, grind and clang against the roar of air-borne traffic overhead. The shades of Teefy Crane and Davy Hoy regard the incoming Freshmen with eyes of dubious appraisal, much as they looked upon their grandparents in another century. And in the later afternoon, it is to Percy Field and not to Schoellkopf that ancient feet instinctively turn.

Universities are timeless organisms. Their forward pace is that of the glacier. Indeed, one must set up instruments of precision on the bank to be convinced they move at all. Yet checking them only on the half-centuries, one gets the impression that they are rushing ahead with breathless speed to some undetermined destination. This man, in a position which entitles him to be heard, argues that we should steer Cornell a little more to the right; that one urges a course to the left; and after listening politely, we're apt to continue on the original line down the middle. After fifty years of that sort of thing, the Old Timer ceases to concern himself with ephemeral debates. He becomes convinced that his University has a fixed destiny, which no man or group of men can change much, and he remains calm among the arguments. He's heard so many!

The top secrets of the inner sanctuary—widely and promptly broadcast by the help before official publication—indicate that not only the University itself, but all its fringe of non-academic functions, concluded the fiscal year July 1 in the black. Not much in the black, but just a teeny-weeny bit. The scholastic casualties of the June examinations involve a few familiar names and we will start the new year, contrary to the lugubrious prophecies of the morbid, with our ranks undepleted by warlike preparations. Depletions may come later, and we're all mentally prepared for them, but it seems to have become the frugal policy of the government to keep students in the universities, where they can be boarded, lodged, and clothed at their own expense while being daily taught the mysteries of weapons and tactics, until the need for them becomes immediate.

And so we approach the fifty-third resurrection of the University to be observed by your reporter, serene and confident under new management. Freshmen are seventeen and eighteen again and professors, forty-five. The streams in both gorges roar briefly after heavy rains and then, like the debates on University policy, calm down again to half-heard trickles. New buildings have risen here and there which did not exist in your time and the bulldozers are having their way with objects which enshrined some of your most sentimental memories. But the encircling hills, together with the assured destiny of your University, remain unchanged. We urge that you attempt to acquire for yourself, ignoring headlines, the same tranquility of mind that now pervades the Quadrangle!

On The Sporting Side

By "Sideliner"

Football, 1951

*That evening we met at the woodbine,
The Shannon we crossed in a boat,
And I lathered him with my shillaly
For he trod on the tail of my coat.*

THAT VERSE from "Billy Magee" relates in song the manner of starting the old Irish shillelagh contests. The afternoon's sport was on when the slasher trod on the tail of the bullyman's coat. Certainly football's kick-off makes a little more sense than that, but there is an amazing amount of idiocy touched off by the kick-off each season. But most of it stems from the non-participants; for football, like shillelagh, affords little time for nonsense from those involved in the fray.

Although intercollegiate football has taken on some variations from that sixth day of November in 1869 when Princeton and Rutgers played the first game, the basic mechanics of play are the same. Fundamentally, it is still the same rugged, tough sport it was in 1906 when President Theodore Roosevelt, no sissy, issued an ultimatum that unless rough play was immediately ruled out, he would abolish the game by executive order.

The new rules which came in that year emphasized safety and started the trend toward better protective equipment. They also sanctioned the forward pass, which had much to do with opening up the game and making it a much faster one and more exciting to watch. Thenceforth, spectator interest gained rapid momentum, as it was not necessary to hold contests in comparative privacy as with shillelagh; but the game held the same bloodthirsty appeal. Accordingly, it became the sensational American fall pastime it is today, with all its thrills and all its foibles. If there are as many thrills as foibles in 1951, it will be an exciting year.

Aeronautical Laboratory Helps

When Coach George K. James gathers his squad here, September 6, it will have the very latest in the way of protective equipment and the very latest in forward-pass technique. The protective devices will be more modern even than other schools, because the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory has lent its vast scientific resources to devising protection for the football player. Cornell's will have a newly-developed headgear that is being used for the first time in 1951 and only by Cornell, and the ring-cleated shoe which was tried out in 1950.

The forward-pass technique is sure to be up to date if Coach James's past performance is indicative. As always, the ultimate success of that technique will be determined by the abilities of its operatives. And like always, the forward pass is no good unless the running game is good and neither is successful unless the defense is effective. So the question is: What material does he have?

After Ivy championships in 1948 and 1949, a record of twenty-seven wins in thirty-six games, and now ready to face his fifth season, Coach James must find replacements in his two-platoon plans for four top offensive players and all but the safety man in his defensive secondary. In other words, his last year's defensive line is intact, but his three-year quartet of backers-up, Co-captain Charles Taylor, Robert Gaige, William Kostas, and Robert Haley, have graduated. And lost from the 1950 offensive team by graduation are Center and Co-captain John Pierik (all-East and Associated Press second all-America); Right Tackle Dick Ramin; Left End Harvey Sampson; Right Halfback Frank Miller; and the great fullback, Jeffrey Fleischmann. These boys achieved a brilliant record for their three years in college football, one which brought Cornell to the forefront. In all, seventeen "C" men were Seniors last year; twenty-six will be back.

Replacements Appear Adequate

In the T formation employed so winningly by Coach James, the quarterback is a might important cog in the works. Rocco Calvo '52 of Bethlehem, Pa., playing his second Varsity season, will fulfill adequately and well this assignment if he starts the way he finished in 1950. John Jaeckel '53 of Leonia, N.J., who was as fully effective (50%) as Calvo in passing last year, will be back. It is a compliment to Calvo that Jaeckel is just a replacement. Herb Bool '54 is held in high regard by the coaches on the basis of his showing in spring practice. So the quarterback position promises to be adequately filled.

A 210-pound Sophomore from Wheeling, W. Va., Ronald Kasserman, is one of the leading newcomers and will be given a crack at center, along with Edward Leo '52, a reserve the last two years. Alfred Pyott '53 of Chicago, Ill., who started in late-season games, is slated for right tackle. Either Richard Cliggott '53 or Todd Kolb '53, defensive regulars as Sophomores, will go to Sampson's left end spot. James's offense will thus have experienced players at right tackle and fullback, but must count on men with no previous offensive experience at center and left end.

Harold Seidenberg '52 of Brooklyn has the inside track for fullback. He proved himself a competent understudy for Fleischmann in 1949 and was running impressively before he suffered a foot injury in early practice last fall. He got into the last four games, however, and scored the second touchdown in the 13-6 victory over Pennsylvania.

Other Players Experienced

On defense, Jack Dorrance '52 and Gene Renzi '53 have had limited experience which should help solve the line-backing problems, along with Russell MacLeod '53, shifted from offensive guard. William Kirk '52, switched to offensive duty exclusively in the last three games of 1950, and Andrew Hanley '53 have performed as halfbacks on defense, though Sophomores Alfred Sebal and Anthony D'Agostino may take over.

At the other positions, both on offense and defense, the Varsity has experienced performers and, except for a lack of depth in the offensive line, Coach James figures "we're in pretty good shape."

Most Leaders Return

Six experienced running backs will be available. They are Seniors William Scazzero of Bronxville, Stu Merz of Elberon, N.J., Lyndon Hull of Tupper Lake, and Kirk and Juniors William Whelan of Lynn, Mass., and Robert Engel of Hackensack, N.J. Together with Sebal, a 180-pounder from Middletown, Ohio, who was outstanding on the Freshman team as a fullback, they gave Cornell last year its best set of outside runners since James took over in 1947.

The defensive platoon retains Cliggott and Kolb at the ends; Charles Fratt '53, James Jerome '52, and Frank Micklavzina '52 at the tackles; Richard Hagenauer '52, Irving Kramer '52, Jack McCarthy '53, and James Quinby '53 at the guards; and Reginald Marchant '52 at the safety position.

Besides Kasserman, Sebal, and D'Agostino, other Sophomores who may break in are Stanley Tsapis of Weirton, W. Va., an offensive guard; John Gerdes of Lebanon, Pa., and Clarence Fauntleroy of Franklin Square, tackles; and Lloyd Walters of Newark, an offensive halfback.

With the exception of Fleischmann, who was tops in scoring for three straight years and in rushing for two, Cornell keeps its leaders in all departments. Scazzero with a 6.9 average and Engel with 5.4 lead the rushers; both Calvo and Jaeckel completed more than half their passes; Pujo was the top receiver; Whelan did all the punting; Kirk and Whelan returned the punts; and Kirk, Scazzero, Engel, Merz, and Pujo placed behind Fleischmann to make the six high scorers.

Season Looks Interesting

Summing up, the coaching staff is intact from last year with hard-working assistants Arthur Boeringer, Harold McCullough '41, Louis Conti '41, Walter Bruska '50, Robert Cullen, and Pat Filley already in the harness for Mr. James; and a consoling number of players from last year's good team will be on hand (including a plethora of fast-running halfbacks) as well as a few very fine candidates from last year's Freshman team.

There will be some wins and some losses, possibly not always where expected, but to the equable observer it should be an absorbing season of nine successive Saturdays, each with an opponent of major strength and high resolve. The schedule:

- Sept. 29—Syracuse at Ithaca
- Oct. 6—Colgate at Hamilton
- 13—Harvard at Ithaca (Homecoming)
- 20—Yale at New Haven
- 27—Princeton at Princeton
- Nov. 3—Columbia at Ithaca
- 10—Michigan at Ithaca
- 17—Dartmouth at Hanover
- 24—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia

Sport Shorts

As this issue went to press, Richard Savitt '50 was taking part in the National Tennis Championships. "It will be Dick Savitt against the world," said the Associated Press, August 18, "when the top tennis stars from ten nations begin play at Forest Hills." The former Varsity ace will be trying for the "Big Three" in the world of tennis, having already captured the amateur Australian championship and the English title in the famous Wimbledon tournament. Savitt was pictured in Life magazine for August 20. August 27 Time cover and "Sport" section of six pages were devoted to Savitt as "the man to beat" at the Forest Hills National singles tournament.

Two catchers, Andrew Wettlaufer of Army and Alfred Gauthier of Brown, with averages of .385, tied for the 1951

Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League individual batting title and thus became

Summer Activities Keep Campus Busy

CAMPUS seemed unusually busy this summer, with more persons here for the regular six-week Summer Session and other courses, many conferences, and an extensive repair and construction program carried on by the University Department of Buildings & Grounds. About 2,100 students were registered in the regular session, July 2-August 11, and in various unit courses.

Buildings & Grounds workmen completely modernized on a "deluxe basis" a classroom in Goldwin Smith Hall, a classroom in Rockefeller Hall, and a lecture room in Franklin Hall. In each, excellent ventilating equipment, the latest in seats, blackboards and doors, green tile floor were put in, walls were painted green, and draperies hung. Other classrooms were redecorated on a "semi-deluxe" basis. Stimson Hall got a new sprinkler system. Grounds of Savage Hall and Newman Laboratory of Nuclear Studies were landscaped. New lighting equipment was installed in some of the rooms of various buildings, Barton Hall floor was refinished, the trim on Olin Hall painted, and Tower Road repaired. Construction on Anabel Taylor Hall, the Materials Laboratories of the College of Engineering, and the library and classroom building of the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, and the renovating of Sage College continued.

Offer Varied Entertainment

Willard Straight Hall offered a varied social program. There were lawn parties, square and folk dancing, orchestra and street dances, concerts, plays, folk singing, movies, and talks by Faculty members. The University Theatre presented an outstanding summer program. Ithaca Community Players started the season with Robert E. McEnroe's "The Silver Whistle," July 5-7. The next week end, the Laboratory Players gave two performances of Henrik Ibsen's "The Wild Duck." The Summer Players took over then, presenting Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," July 20-21; three one-act plays, July 27-28; and Owen Davis's "The Detour," August 3-4.

Largest of the almost continual conferences and meetings at the University was the twenty-fifth annual New York State 4-H Club Congress, June 27-30, attended by 1,000 boys and girls, agents, and specialists. At the opening session, Professors Albert Hoefer '16, State 4-H Club leader, and John A. Lennox, who retired June 30 as assistant State 4-H Club leader, were honored by the State joint winners of the Blair Bat award, given each year by Charles H. Blair '97.

4-H Club Agents Association. Professor Hoefer received a bronze plaque and Professor Lennox, an engraved humidor. A reception was held for Professor William J. Wright, Extension Service Emeritus, former State 4-H Club leader, who came all the way from Stockbridge, Mich., to attend the meeting.

At the same time as the 4-H Congress, 250 vocational agricultural teachers from New York State high schools met on the Campus for their fortieth annual conference. Speakers included Arthur K. Getman '11, associate commissioner for vocational education in New York State; Hugh L. Cosline '18, assistant editor of American Agriculturist; and Harold L. Creal '19, State Fair director.

Conferences, Institutes Bring Many

The sixth annual Bankers' School of Agriculture, August 13-17, brought seventy-five bankers to the Campus to study farming under the direction of Professor Van B. Hart '16, Agricultural Economics. A Graduate Bankers' Agricultural Seminar, August 13-14, was attended by fifty-seven. The August 15 issue of The Fed, published by the Federal Reserve Club of New York, had a write-up about the Bankers' School.

Poultrymen's Get-Together in August, sponsored for the last five years by the Poultry Department and Veterinary College, was attended by 700, nearly three times the usual number of poultrymen here for the conference. Seventeenth biennial council meeting of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary association for women in education, had 150 delegates.

Nine special conferences and institutes, varying in subject from wage and salary administration to bank personnel problems, were held at the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. Five were of special interest to management representatives in the field of personnel and training. Several hundred persons attended a "Teamwork in Industry" Institute, July 26-28. Speakers included Louis Hollander, president of the State CIO Council and University Trustee; Elmo Roper, public opinion analyst; Charles S. Johnson, president of Fiske University; Everett R. Clinchey, president of the National Conference of Christians & Jews; and Alfred J. Marrow, president of Harwood Manufacturing Corp., New York City. Fifty-five industrial training specialists from thirteen States, Canada, and the Canal Zone came here, July 16, for a one-week institute. Among the lecturers were Sterling W. Mudge '13, training supervisor for Socony-Vacuum

Oil Co., New York City; Carlos A. Eferson, PhD '42, training director for Chicopee Manufacturing Corp., New Brunswick, N.J.; and Earl G. Planty, PhD '41, executive counselor at Johnson & Johnson.

Describe Air Photo Studies

ILLUSTRATED BROCHURE shows graphically the work of the Cornell Center for Integrated Aerial Photographic Studies. Printed transparent overlays on four full-page pictures of the earth's surface, taken from airplanes, show how the Center uses pictures for agricultural development, exploration for natural resources, planning engineering projects, and city planning.

Under its Director, Professor Donald J. Belcher, Civil Engineering, the Center is developing a new science of interpreting aerial pictures for these and many other uses. Its staff includes members of the Faculty in Agriculture, Engineering, Architecture, and Geology. The middle pages of the booklet outline the requirements and courses for training graduate students, using the Center's growing collection of aerial photographs.

The booklet may be obtained from The Director, Cornell Center for Integrated Aerial Photographic Studies, Lincoln Hall, Ithaca.

Thirty Years Ago

September, 1921—Correct time on all four faces of the Tower clock in unison is assured hereafter as the result of the work of Professor George S. Moler '75, the inventor of the Moler lantern-slide cabinet. Professor Moler has devised a mechanism by which a clock in the Library is regulated in the usual way by the Naval Observatory in Washington every noon. This clock actuates machinery which sets the four clock faces on the Tower, setting the hands right every hour on the hour. No longer will students have the excuse that the chiming hours misled them, nor will professors need to specify the clock face which takes toll of tardiness. . . . Dr. Waterman T. Hewett, since 1910 professor emeritus of the German Language and Literature in Cornell, died in London, September 13. . . . The will of John McMullen, head of the Atlantic, Gulf & Pacific Co., who died August 29, directs that the income from the residue of his estate, if there be any, shall be paid to Cornell for free scholarships for the education of young men as engineers. . . .

Twenty-five Years Ago

September, 1926—The new Dean of Women, Miss R. Louise Fitch, acted in her official capacity for the first time at a tea given in the women's lounge in Willard Straight Hall, September 22, by the Senior Class to the women of the University, particularly to the Freshmen. . . . After nine years of research, Dr. James B. Sumner, assistant professor of biological chemistry in the Medical College in Ithaca, has published in The Journal of Biological Chemistry the announcement of his successful isolation and crystallization of the enzyme urease.

Professor Watt '18 Dies

PROFESSOR EDGAR RAYMOND WATT '18, Heat-Power Engineering, died unexpectedly July 9 at the Country Club of Ithaca, where he was stricken with a heart attack after playing golf. He lived at 107 Williams Street.

Professor Watt received the ME in 1918. He was a sales and service engineer in the Birmingham, Ala., office of Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., then for two years was with Barber Asphalt Paving and National Analine companies in Buffalo; and from 1923-42 was design and sales engineer with Russell and Watson, Inc., Buffalo manufacturers of food service equipment for industrial plants, educational institutions, hospitals, and ships. He returned to the University in 1942 as instructor in Engineering Drawing. In 1944, he became instructor in Heat-Power Engineering and was advanced to assistant professor and received the MME in 1947.

Professor Watt was a member of the American Society for Engineering Education. Mrs. Richard M. Haff (Mildred Watt) '15 of Burlington, N.C., is his sister.

The Cornell Plantations

SUMMER ISSUE of The Cornell Plantation opens with a contribution by Sophie Kerr, about her meeting Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey more than sixty years ago at her girlhood home in Maryland. Editor Bristow Adams writes of the planting of a Cornell Elm, November 7, 1932, to commemorate the 100th Birthday of President Andrew D. White, near his birthplace in Homer, and shows a picture of the White Memorial Tree taken last June. Professor Ralph W. Curtis '01, Ornamental Horticulture, Emeritus, describes Evergreens in his series on "Plants for Birds and Gardeners." Professor Laurence H. MacDaniels, PhD '17, Horticulture, tells "Facts About Organic Gardening." Description of "The Cornell Plantations" by Professor E. Laurence Palmer '11, Nature & Science Education, is reprinted from a Rural School Leaflet.

On the cover is a drawing by the late Professor Walter King Stone, Architect-ture, of himself as a youth fishing from the river bank with one of his father's hired hands. A Stone essay on "Camping Out" appears inside.

Cornell, along with nine other American educational institutions, has been cited for its teaching of French language and culture by the Bonne Volonte Franco-Americaine, a group dedicated to good relations between France and the United States.

Four doctors from the Medical College in New York went to Teheran in July to the aid of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, thirty-two-year-old ruler of Iran and sufferer for years from chronic appendicitis, who was unable to leave the country because of the oil crisis. Professor Frank N. Glenn, Surgery, removed the appendix. He was accompanied by Professors Claude E. Forkner, Clinical Medicine, who examined the Shah when he visited the United States several years ago; Joseph F. Artusio, Jr. '43 Surgery; and Samuel W. Moore, Clinical Surgery.

Corson French Prize, established in 1902 by Professor Hiram Corson in memory of his wife and consisting of a gold medal or $50, was won by George M. Lane '51 with his essay "The Theatre of Alfred de Musset." Lane is the son of Frederic C. Lane '21.

Delta Upsilon Education Foundation scholarship of $500 has been awarded to Walter A. Harrison '52 of Toledo, Ohio. A member of Quill & Dagger, Harrison has been on the Dean's List, ranking first or second in his class in Engineering Physics each term; was Junior Class president, secretary of the Student Council, and a member of the Faculty committee on student conduct.

Old Steel footbridge across Six Mile Creek at the end of South Tioga Street, which leads to the GLF office buildings on South Hill, collapsed June 26. One of the workmen who had started the day before to replace the bridge footings was on the bridge when it gave way, but was uninjured. He was carrying a plank to barricade the entrance. A new bridge is being erected.

Two students of Industrial & Labor Relations doing their summer work-training with the New York State Board of Mediation were the subject of a July 15 New York Herald Tribune feature. The spread, complete with pictures, told the story of Harold S. Haskel '52, Howard M. Maisel '52, and a student from another institution.

Tau Beta Pi, Engineering honor society, is headed by fifth-year students in four Schools. Peter H. Rose, Mechanical Engineering, Varsity soccer player, is president; Robert E. Fitzner, Civil Engineering, vice-president; Charles D. Graham, Jr., Chemical Engineering, Sun editor last year, corresponding secretary; A.

Roderick Carlson, Electrical Engineering, recording secretary; and Robert S. Stahr, Mechanical Engineering, is treasurer.

Glee Club officers for 1951-52 are Richard P. Starke '52, president; James B. Casey '52, vice-president; Harrison P. Efferth '52, secretary; and Edwin C. Gibson '53, treasurer. Business manager of the Club is Peter T. Schurman '52; publicity manager is Edward H. Street '53.

"Green Acres" exhibit of the Department of Extension Teaching & Information at the annual meeting of the American Association of Agricultural Editors at the University of Illinois in July received an "excellent" rating, the highest given in the national competition. Assembled by Professor Robert J. Ames '38, the exhibit comprised press releases, radio recordings, films, and publications used for the "Green Acres" conservation program in New York State.

President of the student branch, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, is Herman A. Hanemann, Jr. '52, son of H. Andrew Hanemann '17. Leo J. Chamberlain '52 is vice-president; Edward W. Messinger, Jr. '52, treasurer; and Merton D. Meeker, Jr. '53, secretary.

Kosmos, social society in Industrial & Labor Relations, has elected William J. Wilson '52 president for the fall term. Michael J. Ryan '52 is secretary and Edward N. Madison '52, treasurer.

WILLARD STRAIGHT HALL staff learned a lot about the likes and dislikes of the cosmopolitan delegates to the World Assembly of Youth. Most take plenty of sugar in their coffee and they like to jitterbug. Many seemed to lean toward a vegetarian diet: fresh fruits and salads were their favorite dishes. The cafeteria offered an additional non-meat dish each day and cooked more rice and noodles than usual.

"Black Diamond" of the Lehigh Valley was nearly derailed as it came down the hill along the Lake into Ithaca the Fourth of July, when it rammed into a large oak tree that had fallen across the track during a windstorm, about four feet above the rails. Damage to the train was between $20,00 and $30,000.

Several thousand shrubs and plants to landscape the Veterinary Virus Research Institute on Snyder Hill were the gift of William Flemer, Jr. of Princeton Nurseries, Princeton, N.J. Members of the Institute staff and their friends helped with the planting.

About the best parade ever seen in Ithaca was a feature of the Central New York Firemen's Association convention, July 21. A fire in the Little Theater of Ithaca College just as the parade was about to start up Buffalo Street from Washington Park called all but one of Ithaca's trucks out of the procession and changed the line of march. Damage to the Little Theater was estimated from $35,000 to $40,000. New seats costing $10,000 were ruined. James Lynch Coal Co. sixty-foot elevator at the Inlet, filled with about 800 tons of coal, had been destroyed by fire the day before. Visiting firemen helped to fight both blazes.

President of CURW for this year will be Robert D. Jensen '52. Jean L. Brown '52 has been elected administrative vice-president and Lucian L. Leape, Jr. '52, program vice-president. Secretary is Robert S. Chabon '52.

Ralph C. Avery '22, manager of The Cornell Co-op, gave lectures to college store managers this summer at the University of Bridgeport, Conn., and at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He is director of instruction of the National Association of College Stores.

Officers for 1951-52 of Kappa Tau Chi, honor society in Administrative Engineering, are Richard L. Freeman '51, president; Roy E. Payne, Jr. '52, vice-president and treasurer; and Eli Manchester, Jr. '53, secretary. Social chairman is David R. Bacon '53, son of Roland H. Bacon '18.

Conferences of all sorts brought 30,000 visitors to the Campus from July 1, 1950, to July 1, 1951. Known attendance was 2,000 more than the year before, despite a decline in the number of conferences from 120 to 90. The total includes 16,300 visitors to Farm & Home Week in 1951.

Women's Glee Club has elected Mary W. Caughlan '52 president for this year. Sarah B. Ennis '52 is vice-president and Shirley J. House '54, daughter of Clarence C. House '27, is secretary-treasurer.

The Faculty

President Deane W. Malott received the honorary LLD, August 10, at the eighty-eighth commencement of Bryant College of Business Administration, Providence, R.I., where he had lectured. He has also been elected a director of the B. F. Goodrich Co. and the First National Bank of Ithaca. Janet Malott, daughter of President and Mrs. Malott, will be married this month to Ensign Jared Elliot, USN, on duty with the Atlantic Fleet.

Vice-president Theodore P. Wright, Research, will return September 14, from the third international conference of the American Institute of Aeronautical Scientists and the Royal Aeronautical Society of Great Britain at Brighton, England. Before returning, he and Mrs. Wright will travel in France and England and attend the annual exhibition of the Society of British Aircraft Manufacturers.

Former Trustee Edward R. Eastman received, July 25, a Boy Scout statuette for twenty-five years of service on the National Rural Scouting Committee which he helped initiate. Presentation of the award was made in Ithaca by E. H. Bakken, national director of Rural Scouting.

Trustee Horace C. Flanigan '12 has been elected a director of Allied Stores, Inc. He has been since 1931 a director of Stern Brothers, Inc., which Allied Stores acquired last April.

More than 300 friends gathered on "Wheeler Day," June 22, to honor Professor Ralph H. Wheeler '09, who retired as Director of Finance for the State Colleges. He had been a Faculty member for forty-two years. Professor Elton K. Hanks, Extension, was chairman of the affair at which Seba Slaughter, farm manager in Plant Breeding, presented a purse of contributions from several hundred staff members.

New Director of Finance for the State Colleges is Professor Arthur H. Peterson, MA '34, associate director the last four years. He is also Assistant Treasurer of the University and professor of Business Administration. Professor Peterson succeeds Ralph H. Wheeler '09.

Professor Mario Einaudi began, July 1, a five-year term as chairman of the Government Department. He is on sabbatic leave until February 1, during which time Professor Herbert W. Briggs is acting chairman. Professor Einaudi is continuing his research, begun in 1949, on the political and economic forces in postwar France and Italy, with support from the Rockefeller Foundation.

A uniform score card for rating school transportation systems will result from a research project begun this year by Professor Julian E. Butterworth, Rural Education.

The grading system will consider the vehicles used, maintenance, drivers, safety, regularity of service, administration, and what services a school vehicle should provide. Professor Butterworth discussed "Measuring the Transportation Program", "Educational Leadership of a Democratic, Socially Intelligent and Creative Type," and school building problems as special counselor for a county superintendents' institute at the University of Wisconsin in June.

Wilbur F. Pease '31 began August 1 as assistant State 4-H Club leader, replacing Professor John A. Lennox, who retired in June. Professor Pease has been Suffolk County 4-H Club agent since 1943.

Morris Bishop '14, Kappa Alpha Professor of Romance Literature, begins October 1 a year as visiting professor of American literature and civilization at the University of Athens, Greece. The recipient of a Fulbright teaching fellowship, he will give a course on "American Thought in the Twentieth Century" and lead a seminar. Professor Bishop left Ithaca in August with Mrs. Bishop and their daughter to travel in England and France before going to Athens, where their address will be Care US Educational Foundation, 544 Tameion Building, Athens, Greece.

Director Leonard A. Maynard, PhD '15, of the School of Nutrition has been appointed chairman of the food & nutrition board of the National Research Council.

"Drumhead Justice: A Look at Our Military Courts," by Professor Arthur J. Keffe '24, Law, appears in the August Reader's Digest. Professor Keffe, who was president in 1947 of the Naval Court-Martial Sentence Review Board, condemns in this article the loss of Constitutional safeguards by citizens in the armed forces.

Victor Reynolds, manager of the University Press, was elected a member of the Association of American University Presses executive committee at the Association's annual meeting in Toronto, Canada. At the meeting, Reynolds described the lectures on publishing procedures given at Cornell last February for Faculty members and graduate students.

"How to Grow Lilies," by Professor George L. Slate, Pomology at the Geneva Station, appeared in the August issue of Flower Grower. Professor Slate is the author of Lilies for American Gardens and edits the Yearbook of the North American Lily Society.

Gertrude Grover, women's editor of Radio Station WHCU, appeared with Gladys Swarthout in the June premiere of a new adult education television show, "American Inventory."

Colonel Philip B. Stiness, Military Science & Tactics, will report late this year as military attaché in Budapest, Hungary. He has been executive officer, adjutant, and plans and training officer of the Army ROTC unit at the University.

Professor Frank W. Reed, professor of mathematics and teacher of astronomy at Ohio University since 1923, retired at the close of the summer session. Professor Reed supervised the designing and equipping of Ohio University's first observatory; was an instructor in Mathematics here from 1919-23. He lives at 61 Columbia Avenue, Athens, Ohio.

Louis C. Boochever '12 (above), who was University Director of Public Information from 1927-42, has been promoted to be national director of the American Red Cross office of public relations and information. With offices in The American National Red Cross headquarters building, Washington, D.C., he has been director of public relations since 1945; but the new post includes supervision of all Red Cross public information functions. He and Mrs. Boochever live at 2020 North Trenton Street, Arlington, Va.

"Your Skull is His Headache," in the September issue of Esquire, describes the work of Edward R. Dye, coordinator of safety research at the Buffalo Aeronautical Laboratory, in helping prevent accident injuries. The article tells of his experiments with simulated crashes and the ideas for safer aircraft and automobiles which have developed from them.

At the Portland, Ore., Rose Festival, Professor Louis M. Massey, PhD '16, Plant Pathology, was named Knight of the Rose. As consulting pathologist to the American Rose Society, he has directed its disease control program.

Blood clotting may be determined in part by the residual electrical charges of blood chemicals, Dr. Irving S. Wright '23, professor of Clinical Medicine at the Medical College, stated at a meeting of the American Heart Association in Atlantic City, N.J. Dr. Wright reported on studies with specially-designed apparatus on the forces that tend to keep fibrinogen molecules and other blood constituents separated and from sticking to the walls of blood vessels and blocking them.

Professor James G. Horsfall, PhD '29, director of the Connecticut State Experiment Station at New Haven, received a Distinguished Alumnus citation from his alma mater, the University of Arkansas. He was formerly at the Geneva Experiment Station.

INTELLIGENCE

Emerson Hinchliff '74

MY PET CCC project, collecting college campuses, has had a fairish workout this summer. Nothing so exciting

Odyssey of Campuses as last year's Hiedelberg, nor as my old favorites, the big four of the Middle Ages, Oxford, Salamanca, Bologna, and Paris, but it was interesting to add such items as Ohio State, Ohio University, Marietta, W & J, Penn State, and Trinity College, and to revisit Beloit, Rockford, MIT, and Harvard.

Ohio State is a mammoth education factory. I climbed to the third floor of the huge administration building to call on Alumni Secretary Jack Fullen and had to thread my way through throngs of registering summer school graduate students. The Alumni Office had desks and files spilling out into the corridors and around the balcony, giving a vivid indication of the increase in its work. It was to move in a day or so to a home of its own, just across a corner from the administration building and very central and handy. The campus is in the north end of Columbus, has enough room so it gives no impression of being cramped for space, has athletic facilities right on the premises, and exudes a massive handsomeness. Having a big bustling city in your front yard, with even greater movie fare than Ithaca's four cinemas and with a "burleycue" house thrown in, must prove a little distracting. But even so, the temptation is not too proximate, with the traffic congestion on the streets.

Further south, in the town of Athens, we had a delightful day and night with a former Cornell professor and his wife. He went there a couple of years ago to head the department of machine design. It's a very attractive campus, the countryside is rugged and wooded and very scenic. Athens pleasantly typifies the Middle Western college town. Marietta is more of the same; less, rather, because it is smaller. We went through only a few days after the ill-fated regatta and could see how the high Ohio River could raise hob with all plans.

Passing through Washington, Pa., we came upon the Washington & Jefferson campus and made a little detour through it.

Pennsylvania Pilgrimage I once knew a football player there of a slightly younger vintage than my own, so that heightened my interest. W & J and some of the other small Pennsylvania colleges with their fine teams used to be poison to many a larger school in that epoch; hence the expression "Poison Ivy League" as opposed to our own association and New England's "Potted Ivy."

State College, home of Penn State, is a lovely spot and the far-flung campus lives up to it. We had lunch at the Nittany Lion Inn, a big place reminiscent of its counterparts at Williams, Amherst, Middlebury, and Dartmouth. A bit snooty, though. I was wearing a wind-breaker jacket, a rather chic little pre-war Canadian number, but they sent me back to the car for a coat! I quipped, "Will the lunch be worth it?" and had my rhetorical bluff neatly called by being handed a menu for study.

Final new acquisition to my string was Trinity. I have spent a score of summers in a little Litchfield

Back to Connecticut Hills village twenty-six miles west of Hartford, but had never seen Trinity.

It lies in the southern outskirts of the city on the crest and east fold of a commanding north-south ridge. A new library is going up and the athletic facilities are right at hand and look adequate. Trinity's trademark is the spired chapel rising through the trees. It is perfectly lovely as seen from the city street below and at a distance of several hundred yards, and is just as pleasing inside, although the seating capacity seemed very limited for such an imposing edifice. This is due to its narrowness and the great length of the carved choir stalls, running lengthwise of the building as in English cathedrals. The wood and carving in these stalls are worth going miles to see.

Ink Company Expands

J. M. HUBER CORP., featured in the "Industries" department of Business Week, July 7, has a Cornellian president and four others on its staff.

President Hans W. Huber '18, pictured on the cover of Business Week, is of the sixth generation of the Huber family which started manufacturing ink in Munich, Germany, 170 years ago. In recent years, the firm, whose main offices are at 100 Park Avenue, New York City, has branched out into other things, becoming, for example, an important supplier of gas and oil. Hans Huber is the one, says Business Week, "who has taken the company on the long trail leading from ink into a half-dozen other lines of business."

Reginald H. Eagles '15 is vice-president in charge of the industrial products department and Wilbur J. Driver '18 is vice-president in charge of the clay division. Edward M. Krech '27 is director of purchases; Charles E. Fast '37, factory manager of the ink division.

Architecture Alumni Visit Former Dean—Former students of Professor George Young, Jr. '00, Architecture, Emeritus, who are in the San Francisco Bay area, gathered in June at the home of Dean Young and Mrs. Young (Helen Binkerd) '00 in Novata, Cal., for supper and an evening of reminiscences. John W. Kruse '41 writes of Dean Young, who is in the center of the group above, that "his health, which a year ago was in serious jeopardy, is steadily returning to normal. He has gained weight and the old color and sparkle has returned to his face, as you can readily see from the photo." Pictured, left to right, are Daniel B. Warner '39, Elizabeth Brandt, Donn E. Emmons '33, Dean Young with Mrs. Mary Gibb Nichols '22, Edwin J. Mullens III '44, Leslie I. Nichols '18, Robert P. Tobin '31, Kenneth L. Washburn '26, Olaf H. Dahlstrand '38, Kruse, and E. Sewell Smith, Jr. '29.

NEWS OF THE ALUMNI

Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians of all Classes will be welcomed for these pages. Addresses as printed are in New York State unless otherwise designated.

Certain Classes, principally those which send the ALUMNI NEWS to all members, have special columns written by their own correspondents. Each such column is designated at its beginning with its Class numerals. Material for those columns may be sent either to the News for forwarding or directly to the respective Class correspondents, whose names and addresses follow:

- 1910 Men—Roy Taylor, Old Fort Road, Bernardsville, N.J.
1913 Men—M. R. Neifeld, 15 Washington Street, Newark 2, N.J.
1915 Men—C. M. Coyle, 123 West Prospect Avenue, Cleveland 1, Ohio.
1919 Men—Alpheus W. Smith, 705 The Parkway, Ithaca.
1920 Men—W. D. Archibald, 8 Beach Street, New York City 13.
1921 Men—Allan H. Treman, Savings Bank Building, Ithaca.
1951 Men—Stuart Minton, Jr., 1160 Park Avenue, New York City 28.

'91 Reunion—Members of the Class of 1891 who were able to attend their Sixty-year Reunion had a happy time, but it was altogether too short. While they felt well repaid for the effort to come, two days were not enough to recall events of interest covering sixty years. Why cannot the older Classes have more time after putting forth the effort to attend their Reunions? We should have had at least four days. The stated events of Reunion are most enjoyable and profitable, but the time they take leaves too little time and opportunity for that most important feature, reuniting and visiting. The two days were intense and enjoyable, however, for the members of the Class who were fortunate enough to attend.

Of the 224 members of the Class who graduated, about forty are known to be living, but a considerable number are sick or incapacitated. Interest stimulated eleven men and five women graduates to attend, also the widows of two prominent members of the Class, Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Lovell. Our lawyer Classmates seem to have stood the test of time best, as three were present who are still practicing. Yet the oldest living member of the Class is still very active in the operation of his successful industrial plant in Indiana. Distance prevented several from attending. Six live west of the Mississippi River, two in California. Yet our Puerto Rico Classmate Rodriguez was present as was our Freshman President Davis from Denver.

As long as the University can stand us and Risley Hall will house us, some members of the Class of '91 plan to return for a Reunion every year.—George M. Brill.

'01 Reunion—The Fifty-year Reunion of the Class of 1901 was attended by sixty men and twelve women. This attendance secured for the Class the award of the cup for the largest percentage of living members attending Reunions.

Voted the most successful Reunion the Class has ever staged, its success was due to

ALUMNI HOMECOMING October 13

The Cornell-Harvard Football Game in Ithaca will be the occasion of the 1951 Homecoming for all Cornellians. Make your plans now to return for the Alumni Luncheon in Barton Hall, to see and hear the Big Red Band in action, to watch "Lefty's Boys" on Schoellkopf Field, and to enjoy other special events planned for the enjoyment of returning alumni.

the untiring efforts of Walter E. Phelps, Reunion chairman, and his able committee. From Thursday, when members began to assemble in large numbers, to the Rally Saturday night and on Sunday, there was something planned and doing all the time.

While there was a big thrill and a lot of satisfaction in our receiving the attendance cup Saturday night, the outstanding event was probably the Class luncheon Friday noon honoring the "C" men and 1901 letter men. There was a realistic resumé of sports in our time interspersed at appropriate intervals with songs from a triple quartet of the Glee Club. The whole combined to make a most interesting and memorable program.

So successful was the Reunion that sentiment is strongly in favor of not waiting five years for another, but to have an off-year Reunion two or three years hence.

Thanks are due to the members of the staff of the Alumni Office who did everything possible to insure the success of the Reunion.—A. B. Morrison, President.

'05—Former Glee Club member Richard Rosencranz has submitted four international songs in a world contest at Brussels, Belgium, to choose a "Hymn to Peace" and a "March of Free Peoples." His "We Are United Nations" was one of three songs retained by the jury for submission to the public, has been translated into the thirty-four languages of the United Nations, and was sung at the World Assembly of Youth in Bailey Hall in August. He is secretary of the board of Evansville, Ind., College; attended the WAY conference in Ithaca.

'06 ME—Charles W. Nickerson was assigned in July to Anchorage, Alaska, as district engineer to expedite and approve electrical design for Alaska projects. His office address is Corps of Engineers, 300 Exchange Building, 821 Second Avenue, Seattle 4, Wash.

'09—William C. Olsen is a consulting engineer; address, PO Box 271, Raleigh, N.C.

MEN

In July, 1910, immediately after his graduation, Otis Van De Mark (above) got a job with American Construction Co. in Houston, Tex., and stayed with that company through forty years, with time out to serve as a captain in the Air Force in World War I. When he retired in 1950, the community made something of a fuss over the event, hailing Van De Mark in a testimonial dinner as "The Man Who Built Houston." And the appellation seems to be justified in the sense that it was Otis's company, under his direction, which built a large share of the skyscrapers that now rear themselves perpendicularly in a city that was mostly horizontal when Otis went to work there.

Though now technically retired and with his rigid office hours but a memory, the man continues reasonably active in the management of his personal affairs through the Central City Corp., a real estate holding company, and the Powers Plastering Co. He's president of both with offices in the Rusk Building, Houston. But there's time now for a little shooting, which he lists as his besetting hobby, and he continues to serve as a member of the labor committee of the Associated General Contractors of America, of which he is a life member.

Mr. and Mrs. Van De Mark live at 2311 Rosedale Avenue, Houston 4, Tex. They have one daughter, now married. Otis writes that the one Classmate he sees most frequently, but not frequently enough, is John Dorrance. Clubs: Houston Country, Eagle Lake Rod & Gun.

William J. Ryan lives at 403 West 115th Street, New York City 25. He is technical manager of Water Service Laboratories, Inc. at 423 West 126th Street and author of Water Treatment & Purification, a treatise published by McGraw Hill Book Co.

Kenneth A. Veit is now retired and lives at 453 Brickell Avenue, Miami, Fla. He does a good deal of small boat sailing and races in the Star class.

Personal mail for Thomas R. Rollo may be addressed to him at Wyocena, Wis.; business communications, to W. E. Rollo II, Otis Road, Barrington, Ill. Tom sees few Classmates nowadays and writes that he "invites correspondence."

'11 Women's Reunion—For '11 an outstanding number of women (twenty-three), several of whom never before tried Reunion, and they are now sold on it. Not waiting for the next regular Reunion in 1956, we are planning to return in 1954. Already we have been extended an invitation to another Sunday morning breakfast by the Lake at the summer home of Anna Genung '09 and Bess Genung '11. One of our newcomers, Helena Schleich, as Einstein, put over the breakfast with her punctilious bow and "Gnadige, Fraulein." Our Reunion was the most satisfactory and the most satisfying of our forty years.—Martha E. Dick.

'11 Men's Reunion—The record of 129 men broke all records for returning men of the Forty-year Reunion Classes. Proper respect was paid to the Class at the Rally Saturday night. The women registered twenty-two present. All were pleased, and great thanks go to all of the committee workers, and special thanks go to the General Chairman, Frank Aime; John K. Rewalt, our old reliable treasurer; to the Friday night dinner committee of Bob Morse and Bill Christy; to Dutch Gundlach and his very gala cocktail party; and to the Saturday night dinner chairman, Joe Campbell.

"Wish Reunions could come every two or three years; we have had such a grand time at this one," said one of our enthusiastic 1911ers.

Our late Class secretary, Oscar (Kid) Miller, who had been ill this past year, was on hand as usual. In view of his long and faithful service to the Class, our president, Gene Bennett, presented him with a properly inscribed plaque drawn by Ed Wheelan, and also a special cigarette lighter.

Friday and Saturday the weather was grand, but Sunday presented us with much rain. The costume of the maroon-colored sport shirt, white tie, and overseas cap was enjoyed by all. One comment was that "all of you Forty-year fellows look like the Thirty-year Reunion crowd."

Five 1911 members of the crew were back, and as usual were well led by Hank Kimball (in polite society Judge Kimball). Seagraves returned for his first Reunion, and Sutton and Simson and Lafferty helped to keep Kimball and associates in their proper places. Abe Lincoln, Wheels Wheelan, Charlie Beaver, Sport Ward, and Kimball kept the pot boiling in good shape while the rest of us enjoyed the good beer from Syracuse and the Campus "outlooks."

The 1911 ladies praised Dutch Gundlach's cocktail party and said they now feel they fully and really belong to the Class of 1911. Take a bow, Dutch! The old emotion with a lump in the throat did great business at the Senior sing. It was wonderful with the sunset! The wives of many of the Classmates enjoyed a good time around the Campus and at the cocktail party.

Friday afternoon, the 1911 costume could be seen around the Campus at their old haunts. Buildings, lawn sizes, and holes for new buildings all added to changes with the years, but the squeak in the floors is present in the buildings of "Our Time."

The Clinton House again stood the "elderly" Freshman dinner Friday night with 111 present, and everything was conducted with great delight, even to auctioning some of Wheels' drawings which were the regular old type of Wheels' illustrations in The Widow of yesteryears.

The Early Birds who arrived Thursday afternoon discovered that the Lehigh Valley House down by the railroad station is a mighty fine place to dine and wine.

The Glee Club and its announcer, aided and abetted by Bill Hawke '11, were fine and gave entertainment that was greatly appreciated by all of our old gang and their wives.

As usual, alumni luncheons were at Barton Hall, and on Saturday all paraded to the Colgate ball game with Chairman Gaffney. The sun was out and each Class had its picture taken. The picture with the allocation of the Class members can be had by writing to John K. Rewalt.

Acting President Wright of the University gave an excellent summary of the University, and was happy to announce that the University proceeds after this June 30 "in the black." He had been Acting President for about six months and has been given great credit for his executive ability.

Saturday night's dinner with Chairman Joe Campbell was very effective, with speeches by Track Coach Montgomery and Professor Clinton Rossiter '39, son of Wint Rossiter '11. He told us of present and future Cornell as thought of by the Faculty and students. He was good.

Sunday morning heard many fond farewells with sincere expressions of the good times had by each member.—H. W. Dix

1913 MEN

Comes June and alumni Reunions, comes also the fragrance of orange blossoms in the air as the youngsters will get married. Two '13er sons carried their radiant June brides off to honeymoons, one to Bermuda and one to Florida.

Basil B. Elmer, Jr. married Isabel Lincoln of New York City and Greenwich, Conn. in St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, New York City. A graduate of West Point, young Basil served four years in the Army, including duty with the Army of Occupation in Germany. He is now with the First Boston Corp. He is a grandson of Mrs. Herbert C. Elmer of Ithaca and the late Professor Elmer '83. His bride graduated in 1949 from Barnard College. The young Elmers are at home in Dobbs Ferry.

Martin J. Neifeld '48 married Bella Ethel Medalie of Waverly, at the Mark Twain Hotel in Elmira. Jimmie saw two years of service in Alaska and the Aleutians and is presently working for Bankers Commercial Corp. Bella attended Syracuse University. The young couple live in Stuyvesant Village, Union, N.J. The groom's father served as adjunct professor of business administration at Rutgers University this summer.

Quite by accident, Russ T. Kerby and his wife, on the way upstate by auto, looked in at the Mark Twain just before the Medalie-Neifeld wedding. They met the bridal party but couldn't stay for the ceremony. The Kerbys were looking forward to the marriage of their son in August, and then were to move from Summit, N.J., to Kansas City, where Russ has been transferred by the Telephone Co.

John C. Wheat still lives at 868 Summer Avenue, Syracuse 10, where for many years he has put his veterinary knowledge to use as a sanitary inspector for the Sheffield Farms Co. He is still following animal medicine, but perhaps has changed his connection as this note from him seems to indicate: "Plans being drawn for new Veterinary College. Tower Road. Labor Relations to take over present building."

Another DVM is Archibald Freer, who practices at Jeffersonville. Archy nurses a gripe so common to many of us who were disappointed that Cornell turned away our offspring. Some time ago such rejections were ineptly handled. Happily, there has been much improvement in the Admissions Office since the University recognized that a scholar is not necessarily good at administration and public relations and has turned over admission contact with parents to specialists. Being a "legacy" is no longer necessarily a handicap.

'14 PhD—Oliver E. Buckley, chairman and former president of Bell Telephone Laboratories, has been appointed chairman of the Science Advisory Committee of the Office of Defense Mobilization. His committee advises President Truman and the Government on scientific matters as they relate to the defense program, and provides liaison among defense and development agencies. He has been a member of the Engineering College Council.

Here we go again. With this number of the ALUMNI NEWS, we begin a brand new contest for the Class of 1915. It's strictly educational, designed especially for the jaded brains (?) of the hopeful lads who entered Cornell in the fall of 1911 when the world was still at peace.

Obviously, the 1915 boys were not up to the baby contest. The winning babies were born in 1946, so one, perforce, must arrive at the rather somber conclusion that the lads are all through. Now, according to Dr. Kinsey, there is a real danger that this mass failure of performance may result in a psychosis of frustration. As a counter-irritant to this incipient malady, we offer this seminar, which will be found to be within the reach of even IQ Sub-zero.

The contest will cover a wide field—geography, history, social problems, politics, transportation, mechanics, advertising, beverages, and gents furnishings—all questions on the foregoing subjects to be related to the Ithaca sector. Matt Herson, venerated proprietor of the Alhambra, an establishment dear to the hearts of all Cornellians of the downtown era and one noted throughout our fair land for its Spanish cuisine, has offered as first prize in this contest an exact replica of the elk's tooth that has adorned his double-breasted vest these many years.

Second prize will be an annual pass to Renwick Park. Put on your thinking caps, lads!

Here's the first question; it's on geography: How far was it to Aunt Stell's? If the answer is in the affirmative, please estimate the return mileage, on foot. (Note: this question is dedicated to the Class of 1912.)

Hats off to Chick (C.O.) Benton, one of our local (Cleveland) boys! He has married off, as the saying is, three daughters in the space of seven months. Daughter Dorothy was married on August 1st, the thirtieth wedding anniversary of Chick and Mrs. Benton. Chick is in the paint line: Benton-Climo Co. Business must be good!

John Pennywitt has been salmon fishing in New Brunswick. His party "killed" (never say "caught") 53 salmon. (That's a nice string of fish, John.) We are indebted to him for the following:

"Rube Ingersoll is head man for Atlantic Refining (general sales manager) at Charlotte, N.C.

"Squee Kraft is fuel oil manager for Sun Oil Co. in New England.

"Talked to Tom Keating."

"Boots" (E.T.) Kennedy now resides on Main Street, Richfield Springs.

Jules Rosenthal's address is 7 Somerset Drive, South Great Neck.

Jim (J.M.) Frayer is on the faculty of the University of Vermont as dairy bacteriologist, at the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station, Burlington. Home address: 281 South Winoski Avenue. Jim writes "I was in Ithaca about a year ago and was both amazed and pleased at what I saw, perhaps a little proud."

Bill (Dr. William F.) Reinhoff is associate professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins University & Medical School, and University of Maryland Medical School. Bill goes in for golf and hunting and belongs to a string of medical societies with big technical names. Was in England in 1948 as exchange professor of surgery. Four sons.

Lester Marks sends in his dues from PO Box 497, Honolulu 9, Hawaii.

We are a bit late in acknowledging an item sent in by Paul Sanborne '16 regarding Ken Austin. Ken, who lives in Deal, N.J., was in the wreck of the Pennsylvania train last January which killed eighty people. Ken suffered a broken arm and was badly shaken up. He is with the sales department of the Congoleum Nairn Co.

'16 Men's Reunion—This report of our Thirty-five-year Reunion, coming two months after, may be somewhat anticlimactic to those of us who experienced the event. However, for those who missed it, there should be some enjoyment and a special pleasure in knowing that 183 '16ers registered, enough to break all previous records for a Thirty-five-year Reunion. This is a lot of people to stimulate an interest in what so many middle-agers consider mere frivolity.

Your author was asked by Bub Pfeiffer to understudy for Harry Byrne, our perennial scribe, in the preparation of these remarks. Harry, unfortunately, was compelled to be off Campus a great deal of the time during Reunion. By that is meant he didn't live in our tent like the rest of us hillside cows. As a matter of fact, pitched as the tent was, on the Library slope, many of us have been walking with a shortlegged starboard lurch ever since. As to the tent, we must confess that at 2 a.m. Saturday morning it collapsed. Some fear lingered late into the morning that when the resurrection took place, some of the "Hardened Artery Boys of 1916" might be found beneath the canvas, still calling for "Old Ballentine." The collapse, it was said, resulted from instantaneous combustion of the effluvium generated during the first day, but this rumor was scotched later when it was learned that the Campus freeriders and townies revolted against the untimely closing hour of 2 a.m. for free beer. Our tent was so populated at all times, day and night, that it became known around the Hill by thrifty Ithacans as the "Tavern on the Green." It appeared that the first night's closing hour seemed to be regarded as an unwarranted intrusion on squatters' rights.

Well, for those who missed the gathering, a group of about thirty of us arrived Thursday, and nothing short of a private dining room at the Statler would adequately suit as a preface to the next two days' story. This was one of the highlights of the Reunion. Small though it was, the presence of many of the old Glee Club crowd helped restore a festive spirit almost forgotten since five years ago or more.

Friday morning, when the skirl of the bagpipes was heard coming down the road, we knew we were back in business again after this five-year moratorium. These twenty-five kilted Highlanders with their color and fire animated the whole Campus and without exaggeration, we believe and we heard it said, that this group was the main show of Reunion Week-end. In fact, when we marched into the Drill Hall to the strains of "Annie Laurie," the assemblage there rose almost to the oldest alumnus, and many a tear was seen being brushed away.

A magnificent dinner was served to the Class Friday night in the ballroom of the Statler, and thanks to Frank Hunter and 21 Brands, Inc., there was no problem with respect to lubrication.

Saturday produced a good ball game, a formal Class dinner in the evening with our own greatly admired Doctor Al Sharpe as honored guest of the Class, and thus the program was about completed.

Another night of "taverning" ended with lights out again at 2 a.m., sans revolt and sans collapse, and that just about presents the boxscore of the Reunion. So, in the words of John Cameron Swazye, "Glad we could get together again."—F. H. T.

'18 ME—John L. Sprague, of 441 Ridgewood Avenue, Minneapolis 4, Minn., spent the summer traveling with his family in Italy, France, and Switzerland.

1920 MEN Although 1951 is not a regular Reunion year, our Class was well represented last June. Several returned for the graduation of sons or daughters. Others were on official business.

Some just couldn't resist the urge to hear the Chimes and to see the Campus garbed in its most beautiful spring setting. Since everyone didn't register, this list is incomplete, but the following Classmates attended: Rus Iler, Benny Benisch, Phil Rupert, Don Hoagland, Thorne Hulbert, Bill Littlewood, George Stanton, Joe Diamant, and Ray Bell.

A meeting of the '20 Class Council is being planned for September 18 at the Cornell

Barnes Hall

Ithaca, N.Y.

Club of New York at 5 p.m., with dinner to follow. It seems that our regular Class dinners are such enjoyable occasions that the renewing of old friendships takes precedence over attending to the formalities of Class business; hence the call for a meeting of the Council members when the business of the Class may be discussed, leaving the regular Class dinners free for the sociability that is so much enjoyed. However, this Council meeting is open to all Classmates. The Council welcomes anyone interested in the organization of our Class.

Our congratulations to Jack Solomon, our Class historian, whose artistry in photography is well known. A second grandchild, a girl this time, is responsible for that proud feeling.

Your reporter would like his Classmates to send him some news. How can we write a column if you don't? Incidentally, we will be at Statler Hall September 10 for a few days. Stop in and say hello!

THE DISTINCTION OF ROGERS PEET CLOTHES

There are many distinguishing features that set Rogers Peet Clothes so clearly apart from others.

The most basic difference of all, however, is the simple fact that we are Makers-and-Merchants-in-one. We ourselves make Rogers Peet Clothes.

Cut and tailored in our own work-rooms from our own choice imported and domestic materials . . . made to our own high standards throughout . . . they are exclusively Rogers Peet in every inch and stitch.

A Yale '13 reader says of Rym's book:

"It is so delightfully and unobtrusively personal and of Cornell, and yet for everybody everywhere in the world of universities. . . . I hope the book reaches the thousands of readers in and out of its community who, like myself, will enjoy it for its own sake and as an initiation into some of the secrets that have made Cornell such a great school."
