Avco makes things better for America...

A turbine-powered helicopter rises high in the afternoon over Texas...

A sun-browned Iowa farmer drives through his golden cornfield...

And a housewife in Delaware loads her automatic dishwasher...

Avco's widely ranged products are an integral part of the American scene: at home, in industry, and for defense.

A soldier in Florida tracks a plane on his radarscope...

A scientist in Massachusetts considers a problem of space flight...

While a TV cameraman in Ohio focuses on two teen-age entertainers...

Avco works to give America the most dependable equipment, the most advanced ideas and research. This is Avco:

Lycoming—aviation, marine, and industrial power plants... Crosley—electronics systems and aircraft structures... AK Division—kitchen equipment and architectural porcelain... New Idea and Ezee Flow—specialized farm equipment... Crosley Broadcasting Corporation—the WLW Radio and TV Group... Moffats, Limited (Canada)—cooking and heating equipment, defense and industrial products... Avco Research Laboratory and Research and Advanced Development Division—basic and applied research.

Scientists interested in unusual opportunities for advancement can grow with Avco.

REFERRING to the bluffs along the river at this point, an architect told us one day that here are some of the finest home sites he has ever discovered.

ON THESE BLUFFS are located the residences of many industrial executives, business and professional people who work in the cities of Rock Island County. They like this metropolitan area of over one quarter million people. Life is interesting the year around. Outdoor activities, a variety of cultural and entertainment attractions and the friendly citizens make it so.

YOU ARE INVITED to join your executive contemporaries here in this midwest location. Your decision to come to Rock Island County Illinois with your new plant expansion is the first step. We shall be happy to expedite your decision in this direction with facts concerning the many advantages of this vicinity. Let us know your requirements.

New England Alumni Show Interest In Working to Benefit Cornell

NEW ENGLAND Cornellians gathered in Boston, March 29, for a regional conference about the University. Some 200 men and women devoted the day at the Hotel Somerset to learning about Cornell and discussing how to increase the effectiveness of alumni participation for Cornell in that area. Not since the two-day annual convention of the Alumni Association in 1940 has there been such a general meeting on University affairs in Boston.

Professor Arthur Mizener, English, spoke on "Cornell Today," giving the alumni a graphic picture of many phases. In his talk he referred to the present state of higher education in the United States as a "scandal" and The New York Times and other newspapers reported that part of his remarks.

"We Americans spend more money than any other country in the world on something we call education," he said, "but we are so muddled about what it is that only the rare American high school is the equal" of the equivalent English, French, or German secondary school. "As an educational process, no American university is the equal of its European competitors," he continued, "although at the best American universities, the serious and able students have no superiors. This has been the situation here for some time, and it has been brought to a state of crisis by the educational boom that has hit us since the last war." He pointed out that during the last seven years, there has been a 45 per cent increase in college enrollments, although the population of college age has increased only 2 per cent. "We blanch with horror every time we think of what is going to happen when the increase in population really hits us in the '60s. It is expected that the number of people seeking college admission will double."

The demand for a college education is largely social or quasi-social, he said, and has led to "what has been called the 'Ivy League Myopia.' The pressure on the most prominent Eastern universities is therefore inordinately great and likely to increase. I think we can take real satisfaction in this. For a long time, universities like Cornell have been fighting to maintain the standards of liberal education in their colleges of arts & sciences and the humanistic and scientific approach in the other colleges. We have been sneered at as old fogies by a good many universities; we have sometimes thought of ourselves as losing the battle to institutions that specialized in departments of mortuary science, ceramics, and television technology. But we now discover that by sticking to what we believe in and by keeping our standards up, we have won the battle."

Vice-president James L. Zwingle, PhD '42, discussed the long range plans of the University and described the enlarging program of public interpretation of Cornell. He emphasized the value of regular regional conferences where all aspects of the University can be discussed with leading alumni in the various sections of the country. It is now planned to conduct such conferences annually. He commended the members and officers of the University Council for helping to make possible this new effort at continuous communication with friends of the University.

University Steps Up Mathematics

Professor J. Barkley Rosser, Mathematics, spoke at luncheon on "What's New in Cornell Mathematics Today." He pointed out that the production of electronic computing machines is rapidly outdistancing the training of persons to operate them.

"Since the war," he said, "the remarkable growth of nuclear power, missile technology, and electronic computers has tremendously increased the amount of mathematical training required to become a successful engineer or scientist. Cornell University has reacted vigorously to this need. By screening out from the entering Freshmen Class those who have not had superior mathematical training in high school or preparatory school, Cornell can and does start the Freshmen with what is the Sophomore mathematics course in most colleges or universities. Thus the student can progress more rapidly to the higher mathematics courses. Of these, nine semesters of courses have been added to the curriculum in subjects specially requested by the engineering and science departments to enable their students to cope with modern complexities.

"To provide the required diversification, Cornell has also set up a modern electronic computing machine in a Computing Center. Here, in special courses in mathematics and other subjects, the students can get actual experience in computing orbits of satellites, planning the operation of automatic factories, and other developments of the fabulous future that are opening up for the well-trained engineer and scientist." Guy T. Warfield, Jr. '25 of Baltimore, Md., chairman of the University Council, presided at the luncheon.

Alumni Discuss Assistance

For two hours in the afternoon, alumni in three groups of their special interests talked over with staff members how they might work for Cornell most effectively in New England. A session on Cornell Club programs was led by Alumni Secretary Hunt Bradley '26 and Stuart B. Avery, Jr. '32, president of the Cornell Club of New England. Richard M. Ramin '51, Assistant Director of Admissions, Milton G. Dexter '24, and Mrs. Dexter (Jennie Curtis) '24 headed a discussion of alumni work with secondary schools. A session on fund raising for the the University was led by William V. Nixon, Director of Development, Joseph D. Minogue '45, Director of Alumni Annual Giving, and William R. Robertson '34, Cornell Fund committee member in charge of Alumni Annual Giving.

Robert J. Kane '34, Director of Physical Education & Athletics, told of the sports programs and showed motion pictures of the championship Varsity crew that won the Henley Regatta in England.

President Deane W. Malott was the featured speaker at the banquet. He discussed some of the problems facing University officials in attempting to plan for the future, and explained the recently announced increase in tuition and fees.

The day-long program of Cornell information and inspiration was concluded with a concert by the Glee Club in Kresge Auditorium of MIT and a reception afterwards for the singers at the Hotel Lenox.

Robertson was chairman of the committee of New England alumni that arranged the conference. Avery was a member and the others were Walter P. Phillips '15, Houlder Hudgins '23, Mrs. Sydney S. Swindells (Louise Stanton) '25, A. Bradford Reed '27, Charles H. Schaaff '27, Charles M. Werly '27, Lloyd P. Smith, PhD '30, William B. Morrison '36, Mrs. Russell Paquette (Phyllis Dakin) '45, Kenneth P. Battles '49, Walter J. Hickey '49, Charles C. Wallace '49, and Mrs. Clifford A. Clark (Patricia Dexter) '52.

Search for Two Deans

FACULTY COMMITTEES have been appointed by President Deane W. Malott to search out and advise with him as to the best possible candidates to succeed Deans S. C. Hollister of the College of Engineering and William I. Myers '14 of the College of Agriculture. Both Deans will retire June 30, 1959, because of reaching the compulsory retirement age. The President appointed committees of the Engineering and Agriculture Faculties early in February and the two committees are getting suggestions from all sources, both within and outside the University. The committees meet about once a week, sometimes with the President. They are making exhaustive investigations of suggested candidates with a view to recommending those who are best qualified for the President's consideration.

The University By-laws provide that Deans of the Colleges "shall be elected by the Board [of Trustees] upon recommendation of the President and shall hold office at the pleasure of the Board. In recommending a candidate for such office the President shall report to the Board the opinion of the appropriate faculty upon such recommendation; such opinion to be ascertained as that faculty may determine." When the President has made his selection of candidates for the two positions, he will ask approval of his nominees by vote at meetings of the College Faculties concerned with each; then will make his recommendations to the Board of Trustees, with the required reports.

Provost Sanford S. Atwood is chairman of both advisory committees. Members of the committee for the Dean of Engineering are Director William R. Sears of the Graduate School of Aeronautical Engineering and Professors Robert E. Beckhofer, Industrial & Engineering Administration; Edmund T.

Cranch '45, Mechanics & Materials and Engineering Physics; William E. Gordon, PhD '53, Electrical Engineering Research; Julian C. Smith, Jr. '41, Chemical Engineering; and George Winter, PhD '40, Structural Engineering.

The committee for the Dean of Agriculture has Professors Donald W. Barton, Vegetable Crops at the Geneva Experiment Station; Damon Boynton '31, Pomology; Richard Bradfield, Agronomy; J. Herbert Bruckner, PhD '35, Poultry Husbandry; George G. Gyrisco, PhD '47, Entomology; B. L. Herrington, PhD '33, Dairy Industry; Olaf F. Larson, Rural Sociology; John T. Reid, Animal Husbandry; Kenneth L. Robinson, MS '47, Agricultural Economics; and Wallace E. Washbon '35, Extension Service.

Chairman Atwood says that members of both committees are making the widest possible canvass to find the best qualified persons to be considered. They are getting suggestions from other Faculty members here and from colleagues and friends all over the country and are thoroughly investigating the persons suggested. He says that the committees will welcome suggestions of candidates from alumni. Names with as much information as possible should be sent to Provost Sanford S. Atwood, Day Hall.

Dean Hollister was appointed to that position by the Trustees October 30, 1937, and was Acting Dean of Engineering from the death of Dean Herman Diederichs '97, August 31, 1937. Dean Myers was appointed October 16, 1943, and was Acting Dean from the death of Dean Carl E. Ladd '12, July 23, 1943.

Academic Ambassadors

CORNELL DELEGATE at the sesquicentennial jubilee of Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Md., April 12, was Robert S. Mattie '43 of Baltimore. James L. Paxton, Jr. '30 of Omaha, Neb. represented Cornell at the inauguration of Vance D. Rogers as president of Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln, April 18. Raymond Reisler '27 of Brooklyn was the University's delegate at the inauguration of Ernst Weber as president of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, April 19. Representing the University at the inauguration of Stephen J. Wright as president of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., April 26, was F. Donald Hart '36 of Nashville.

Dean John Deitrick of the Medical College will represent Cornell at the inauguration of Robert A. Moore as president of the Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn, May 2. The same day, Russell H. Yerkes '25 of San Francisco, Cal. will be the University delegate at the inauguration of Glenn S. Dumke as president of San Francisco State College.

Class Workers Intensify Efforts To Get Annual Gifts From Alumni

ANNUAL GIVING by alumni to the Cornell Fund totaled $387,162 from 7608 contributors, April 15. With two months left to the end of the fiscal year, June 15, some 2000 Cornellians were working intensively to reach the year's goal of $800,000 from 18,000 givers.

William R. Robertson '34 is chairman of this year's alumni annual giving campaign. He points out that special emphasis is being put on larger Class committees, for individual solicitation of more alumni. "Class representatives have concentrated on regional organization of their committees," he says, "with the result that most Classes have more people working than ever before. The idea behind this drive for organization is that if the story of the University's need for unrestricted annual gifts can be told to as many Cornellians as possible by their Classmates, giving will increase."

The Class of '23, approaching its Thirty-five-year Reunion, has sixty-one men working on annual giving. Several other Classes have fifty or more men on their Class committees.

Comparison By Classes

Report of alumni annual giving by Classes for the year to April 15 appears here & over. Ten Classes holding Reunions this year, their numerals ending in 8 and 3, from '08 through '53, are having special campaigns under chairmanship of Richard K. Kaufmann '22. Their combined goal is $255,000; to April 15, their reports total $88,309 or 34.6 per cent of the objective. These Reunion Classes are shown in boldface type.

The report shows that '18 men, with Paul C. Wanser as Class representative, led all others in amount given with $23,081. Next is the Class of '12, Charles C. Colman, Class representative, with $17,253 and the only Class thus far to exceed its quota in amount, with 105.8 per cent. Next in percentage of dollar goal is the Class of '09 headed by Newton C. Farr, with 87.5 per cent. M. R. Neifeld's Class of '13 leads the men's Classes in percentage of donor goal achieved, with 70.6; followed by '09 with 64.3 per cent.

Two women's Classes have passed $1000 in gifts: '27 headed by Marjorie MacBain, with $1260, and '48 led by Mrs. Esta Wilcox Keim, with $1019. Leaders in percentage of dollar goal achieved are '08 women with Mrs. Charlotte Baber Craven as Class representative, 82.1; '13 headed by Mrs. Ethel Fogg Clift, 73 per cent; and '12 led by Mrs. Annie Bullivant Pfeiffer, 72.2. In percentage of the year's goal for donors, '13 women are slightly ahead of their men Classmates and the highest of all Classes, with 71.1. In second place for women is '09 with Mrs. Nan Willson Bruff as Class representative, 66.6; and '12 women are third at 64.1.

I&LR Alumni Talk Shop

MORE THAN 100 alumni, Faculty members, and guests gathered at the Hotel Martinique in New York City, March 28-29, for the fourth annual Faculty-Alumni Seminar of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations. Dean Martin P. Catherwood, PhD '30, welcomed the alumni and brought them up to date on the latest developments in the School. Then Professor Wayne L. Hodges opened a discussion on "Who is Communicating Most Effectively, Labor or Management?" The panelists were Gordon H. Cole, editor of The Machinist, magazine of the International Association of Machinists; A. H. Raskin, national labor correspondent for The New York Times; and Robert E. Vivian, editorial and research director for the Employers Labor Relations Information Committee. The Friday afternoon session was concluded with an evaluation of "Personnel Problems of the Professional Employee" by Richard A. Dunnington, Grad '52, of the personnel division, International Business Machines Corp.; and Henry C. LaParo '54, training and development coordinator for Federal Telecommunications Laboratories. Chairman was Professor Robert F. Risley, PhD '53.

At dinner Friday evening, John Hite, director of training for Johnson & Johnson, spoke on "Profiles in Management."

He was introduced by Robert M. McCaffrey '50, chairman of the metropolitan chapter of the I&LR Alumni Association, who headed the general committee.

A Saturday morning breakfast, under chairmanship of Mrs. Lois S. Gray, director of the New York City I&LR Extension Office, featured a talk on "Profiles in Labor" by Mark Starr, educational director for the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. The seminar ended with a discussion of "The Shorter Work Week; What's Involved?" by three alumni who work for unions: Morris Sackman, MSinI&LR '48, director of disability and health benefits department, ILGWU; Robert Swanson '50, field representative, United Mine Workers of America; and Paul J. Fasser, Jr. '51, research associate, United Steelworkers of America. Professor Robert H. Ferguson, PhD '48, was chairman.

Professor Morrison Dies

PROFESSOR Frank B. Morrison, Animal Husbandry, Emeritus, died April 7, 1958, of a coronary attack while driving through Atlantic, Iowa, on the way to visit his son, Spencer H. Morrison '39, in Clinton, Iowa. He and Mrs. Morrison had started from Sarasota, Fla. about a month ago for speaking engagements in Oklahoma and Colorado. Since his retirement in 1955, they had been living in Sarasota and Upper Saranac Lake. He was seventy years old.

Professor Morrison came to Cornell in 1927 from University of Wisconsin to direct the Agricultural Experiment Stations. At Wisconsin, where he received the BS in 1911, he had been professor of animal husbandry, assistant director of the experiment station, and acting dean. Under his direction from 1928-45, the Department of Animal Husbandry at Cornell grew greatly in size and prestige. Professor Morrison's textbook, Feeds & Feeding, is widely used in colleges and the feed industry. It is now in its twenty-second edition and has been translated into Russian, Portuguese, and Spanish. The prologue to the new Spanish edition, published in Chile, calls it "the most important work in agriculture published in the present century." Professor Morrison recently completed an extensive revision of the book; it was first published in 1898 and he has been the sole author since 1932. He wrote for many magazines and for the Encyclopaedia Britannica and spoke at farm gatherings in almost every State. He made studies of the livestock industry for the governments of Germany, Argentina, Venezuela, and the Philippines. After World War II, the Near East Foundation appointed him an adviser for their program to rehabilitate farm livestock in Greece and other Balkan countries.

Professor Morrison was past-president of the American Society of Animal Production, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the National Research Council committee on feed consumption, American Dairy Science Association, and British Nutrition Society; of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Lambda Upsilon, Alpha Zeta, and Phi Sigma Kappa.

In 1938, the American Society of Animal Production gave him their highest honor when his portrait was presented to hang in the gallery of the Saddle & Siroin Club in Chicago, Ill. A portrait in Wing Hall was provided when he retired by New York State livestock producers, associates, and his former students. Professor and Mrs. Morrison endowed a graduate fellowship at the University especially for foreign students but available to others, for research in livestock feeding and nutrition; and an annual award by the American Society of Animal Production to a scientist for outstanding research in livestock production. Roger B. Morrison '34 is also their son.

Thirteen Classes Plan June Reunions

FIRST DAY of Class Reunions this year, June 13, will offer alumni an opportunity to hear talks by members of the Faculty on four topics of current interest and to take part in discussions that will follow. The new "lecture-seminars" are being tried this year as an answer to Cornellians who have asked for an opportunity to hear more about the serious work of the University, along with the fun and frolic that traditionally go with Reunions.

Faculty Members to Speak

At ten o'clock Friday morning, Professor George H. Healey, PhD '47, English & Bibliography, will lecture on "Where Did You Get Your Name?" He will tell the story of names; how they developed and what they mean. At eleven-fifteen, Professor Carl W. Gartlein, PhD '29, Physics, will speak on "The International Geophysical Year; How the Sun Affects the Earth." He directs the IGY Auroral Data Center at the University and has long been doing research on the aurora borealis with assistance from the National Geographic Society. Last fall he visited Little America in the Antarctic for IGY studies. His lecture on the aurora and other effects of particles from the sun and light will be illustrated.

Topics in the News

The afternoon will offer two discussions at two-thirty. An illustrated lecture on "Experiments in the Control of Growth and Aging," by Professor Howard A. Schneiderman, Zoology, will show his research with a newly discovered chemical substance that may hold the key to prolonging human life. Another attraction will be a panel of five Faculty members discussing "The Recession: How Deep and How Long?" Professor Clinton L. Rossiter III '39, chairman of the Department of Government, will preside. The other speakers will be Professors Andrew Hacker, Government; Douglas F. Dowd and Alfred

E. Kahn, Economics; and Kenneth L. Robinson, MSA '47, Agricultural Economics.

This Friday program of lecture-seminars was arranged by a committee appointed last January by Walter K. Nield '27, president of the Alumni Association, working with Alumni Secretary Hunt Bradley '26. Chairman of the special committee was John P. Syme '26 and its other members were J. Carlton Ward, Jr. '14 and Mrs. Thomas T. Mackie (Helen Holme) '29.

Classmates Will Gather

As always, the Reunions June 13 & 14 will give opportunity for alumni to renew acquaintance with Classmates and make new friends in the many events planned for them. Men and women of twelve Classes from '98 through '53 will come back for their regular five-year-interval Reunions and the Class of '55 will be here as alumni for the first time. They will have rooms in University dormitories and most of them will have Class tents on lower Alumni Field, with Class dinners and picnics. Registration for all returning alumni will be in Barton Hall and Class tables will be set up there for luncheon both days. The Big Red Barn will be open for all alumni throughout the week end except when in use for Class dinners Friday and Saturday.

Honor Upson '99 & Coffin '12

Special features this year will be the dedication of Upson Hall, given for the School of Mechanical Engineering by Trustee Maxwell M. Upson '99, and the Faculty-alumni get-together at Willard Straight Hall with Foster M. Coffin '12 as guest of honor. Coffin retires June 30 as Director of Willard Straight Hall; he has been in charge of the building since before it opened in 1925 and was the first Alumni Representative at the University. Both these events will be Saturday afternoon, June 14.

Annual meeting of the Alumni Association, Saturday morning, will be in the new Alice Statler Auditorium, just completed as an addition to Statler Hall. Here President Deane W. Malott will give his "Annual Report to Alumni" and the election of Alumni Trustees will be announced. Many Colleges and Schools will have Reunion breakfasts for their alumni with Faculty members, and all alumnae will gather for their Saturday morning Reunion breakfast in Willard Straight Memorial Room.

Offer Varied Entertainment

Friday night, the Glee Club will give its Senior Week concert in Bailey Hall, and it will also sing at the Reunion Rally Saturday night. Here, alumni who were in the Glee Club will be invited to sing with them. From Thursday through Sunday of Reunion week end, the Dramatic Club will give nightly performances of its Spring Day show, "The Haunted House." It is a translation of the Roman farce by Plautus made by Professor Frank O. Copley of University of Michigan, with original music by Martin G. Binder '58 and lyrics by Richard R. Smyth, Grad, of the University Theatre staff, who is the director. Special Reunion exhibits of interest to alumni will be displayed at the University Library and the Andrew D. White Art Museum.

Group pictures of the Reunion Classes will be taken at Hoy Field Saturday afternoon, following a parade of Classes from luncheon in Barton Hall and before the baseball game with Colgate. After the Class dinners Saturday night, all alumni will go to Barton Hall for the closing Reunion Rally. This year, H. Jerome Noel '41 will be master of ceremonies and there will be music by the Glee Club and the University Concert Band. Trophies of the Association of Class Secretaries will be awarded to the Classes with the largest number and percentage of members registered for Reunions.

Reunion chairmen for this year's Classes officially returning are Wilton Bentley '98, Raymond P. Morse & Mrs. Harry Blenderman (Helen Riedel) '03, Seth W. Shoemaker & Marion D. Jewell '08, Frederick E. Norton & Mrs. Olaf Hoff (Agnes Henderson) '13, Charles G. Muller & Mrs. Frank C. Essick (Mildred Stevens) '18, Charles H. Churchill, Jr. & Mrs. Albert J. Durkee (Florence Foster) '23, Thomas P. Wyman & Donna M. Hammond '28, John G. Detwiler & Mrs. William P. Lane (Ruth Carman) '33, Jack A. Thomas & Mrs. Edward S. Gallagher (Germaine Miller) '38, G. Champlin Salisbury & Mrs. Russell H. Bradley (Sarah Lockwood) '43, R. Davis Cutting & Mrs. Barth E. Mapes (Martha Clark) '48, Anthony M. Quarataro & Anne P. Buck '53, and Alan H. Spindler & Naomi K. Freistadt '55.

Emerson Hinchliff '14

NEW ENGLAND called as winter relaxed its icy grip on our highways, so I trekked eastward at the end of March. The initial call came from a Classmate, who invited me to speak at the annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Berkshire County in Pittsfield, Mass. I didn't feel quite competent for that chore all by myself, but offered to come if I could bring the movies of the Henley Regatta, so the assemblage could at least have something memorable to recall. The pictures were to be shown at the New England Regional Cornell Conference in Boston, March 29, so I took in that gathering, grabbed the reel, and we had the Pittsfield party March 31.

The Boston affair was very nice. Look to the news columns for details. I will just give a few of my impressions. In the first place, it was pleasant to see a lot of old friends and make some new ones. New England is surprisingly good Cornell territory, and from the Campus went a top-flight team, headed by President Malott and Vice-president Zwingle, to cultivate it. Those two reported on their activities and their problems (including the students) with all due seriousness, but at the same time with delightful touches of humor. The afternoon discussion groups were meaty and useful. Bob Kane told us of our athletic program, embracing the largest number of sports (21) of any college or university in the country. Of course, the Henley pictures were a tremendous hit. And in the evening, the Glee Club performed excellently.

If I had to pick the stars of the entire cast, they would be the two Faculty representatives. They were super. In the morning, Professor Arthur Mizener, English, gave us beautifully the flavor of Cornell today, stressing the importance of quality in students, alumni, Faculty, and Library. He was particularly penetrating in his remarks about the students, The Sun, rushing, probation, their social life—a "continual state of mild crisis." To a Campus dweller it was priceless.

Then at lunch, Professor J. Barkley Rosser, Mathematics, demolished the specter of technological unemployment. He showed how a PhD thesis twenty years ago on the esoteric subject of symbolic logic developed into the modern electronic computing machine. In 1950-52, five were built. It was said at the time that three would be able to do all the computing for the entire country. (The Atomic Energy Commission had taken the first one out of circulation and shortened the development of the hydrogen bomb enormously.) Then IBM built and sold fourteen. Now, 100 more are built or building and 7500 new operators for them will be needed in the next eighteen months. The University has set up the Cornell Computing Center for teaching purposes, which boasts a machine with the same capacity as the one Belgium has for the whole country. In the spring term, students run it twenty-four hours a day, working on their theses. Requests for information about the Center have come from all over the country. Pittsfield is a big General Electric town, and you could have heard a symbol drop when I told them about this part of the Rosser speech.

Chicago had an alumni conference in February. With the one in Boston similarly successful, I understand that these two are to be made annual affairs and that they will be extended to other areas.

* * *

The Berkshire dinner was enlivened by the presence of several Dartmouth men. I was especially pleased to have three 1914 Classmates there, two from Pittsfield and one from Great Barrington. We were all put in the shade by the presence of Mrs. Carolyn Adsitt Slater '91, who came down with a daughter and son-in-law from Williamstown. At the other age extreme was a Freshman home for spring vacation and his mother. The Henley pictures appealed to the whole gamut!

Club Notes ROTC Picture

PENN-YORK Cornell Club put an advertisement in the Sayre Evening Times the night before the Army television show, "The Big Picture," taken at Cornell, was broadcast by Station WNBFTV in Binghamton. Harold M. Sawyer '11, treasurer of the Club, remembered the pictures of the show in the February ALUMNI NEWS and arranged with other Club officers this means of letting Cornellians in the area know it was coming. "I am sure from reports," he wrote the NEWS, "that many of us saw and enjoyed the program."

A film of the program that features the ROTC at Cornell has been presented to the University by the Department of the Army. For showing the sound picture to Cornell Clubs and other groups, it may be borrowed from the Alumni Office, Day Hall, Ithaca.

University Operating Costs Go Up

EXPENSES of operating the University for the year beginning next July 1 are estimated at more than $68,500,000. The budget for 1958-59, as approved by the Board of Trustees, totals $68,664,896. This is about $2,900,000 more than the current year's original budget of $65,762,255.

It is estimated that next year's tuition and fees will bring additional income to the endowed divisions in Ithaca of about $1,700,000 and most of this will be used to raise Faculty salaries, improve Library and other student services, and provide more financial aid for students. State appropriations for operating the State-supported divisions are about $864,000 more than for 1957-58.

Budget for operating the endowed divisions in Ithaca is $28,844,991 with income estimated at $28,690,080. Tuition and fees are expected to provide $9,580,284; endowment income $2,048,- 000; unrestricted gifts (including $800,000 in annual gifts from alumni) $1,150,000; Federal funds $130,000; research grants and contracts $2,500,000; dormitories, dining halls, utilities, and other services $11,774,631; from other sources $1,507,165.

For the Medical College in New York, $5,321,508 is budgeted and $301,134 for the School of Nursing.

University-owned corporations, the Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, Campus Store, and Research Foundation, account for $16,000,000 in next year's budget. These are self-supporting from their earnings.

The State-supported divisions have a budget of $18,197,263. This is met by State appropriations of $12,627,599; Federal funds of $2,232,164; research grants and contracts $669,500; other income $2,668,000. These are shown in detail below.

"... Loud Her Praises Tell"

By FREDERICK G. MARCHAM, PhD '26*

"LOUD HER PRAISES TELL." And why not, indeed! There is much to praise; the well known and the little known. For example, have you heard of the fishing? Did you know that the Cornell student can enjoy good and unusually varied fishing hereabouts, some of it within walking distance of the Campus, the rest no more than a twenty minute drive away? There is nothing spectacular about the size or quantity of the fish, but for variety there are four kinds of trout, salmon, smelt, and two kinds of bass.

Reflections in the Water

I thought about these things the other afternoon as I stood a few feet off shore in Cayuga Lake spinning for lake trout. The water was up to my waist and very cold: no fish came my way. I was fishing in the north bay of Taughannock State Park. Scattered along the 500 yards or so of the shoreline were four other fishermen at first unknown to me. Soon one of them, a young man, moved towards me and we called out the time honored words, "Any luck?" My new acquaintance was Earl McHugh '58 of the Cornell track team. Two of the other fishermen passed; they were Professor "Sedge" Smith of the Animal Husbandry Department and his son. A new fisherman came down towards the water, C. Osborne Mackey, the John E. Sweet Professor of Engineering. The bay held quite a school of Cornellians, if not of fish!

As McHugh and I walked to our cars, we traded information about stream fishing around Ithaca and agreed to try it together this spring. He was proud of a two-and-a-half-pound brown trout he caught in Six Mile Creek last summer and wished to show me a prize spot there.

Fishermen Friends of Thirty Years

If we go fishing together, my list of student-fisherman friends will gain a new name. The list began in the 1920's with Bill Bostwick '29, from whom I, English born, learned the elements of stream fishing. Another early companion was Jay Rice '34, attached in some mysterious way to the then infant Hotel School, who taught me there were trout in the Dusenberry Hollow stream, south-east of Ithaca. He occasionally brought along an apple pie, his classroom exercise for the day. In the early 1930's I had as companion Bill ('36) and John ('38) Conable, particularly John, who was then as assiduous in his fishing as he now is in performing his duties as judge in Western New York. Later in the 1930's I fished with Stan Schaefer '28, Ed Graham, PhD '38, and Kasimer Hipolit '41; after the war Ed Merdes '50 and the late Gordon Pritchard '45 were often my companions. I had now learned enough from my student friends to play the part of guide and teacher and as such, directed "Haas" Hargrave '45 in the catching of a noble bass. So if Earl McHugh joins me in a trip to the local streams, my list of student fishing friends will extend past thirty years. And more to come, I hope!

Season Brings Good Catches

The day I met McHugh at Taughannock, the Ithaca Journal carried two fishing items. One was a picture of four local men with their catch of sixteen rainbow trout, ranging from four to twelve pounds. The other was a story of the previous night's smelt fishing right in the city of Ithaca; it said that of some 300 or 400 fishermen, only one per cent had failed to get their limit of fifty fish.

The catch of rainbows came from the famous Catherine Creek, near Watkins Glen, which lies a little outside the territory I am talking about. Smelt run in the creeks that flow into the southern end of Cayuga Lake, starting at about Salmon Creek on the east shore and reaching around to Taughannock on the west. Our local rainbow trout inhabit much the same waters and in the spring, like the smelt, they work up into the streams as far as the first high falls in these streams. Our rainbows are not as big or as plentiful as those in Seneca Lake, but few fishermen complain because in the spring they are busy fishing for lake trout.

Where To Get Them

In the last few years, lake trout of between three and five pounds have become quite common in the southern end of Cayuga Lake, thanks to the beneficence of New York State and the know-how of Cornell's Conservation Department which over the past half-century has placed about three-quarters of a million lake trout fingerlings in the Lake. This of itself would stand praise from local fishermen, but in addition the Department, again with the help of the State, has recently begun to plant salmon. So successful is this experiment that last fall local fishermen rejoiced to see many salmon spawning in the creek below Ithaca Falls and both this year and last year, salmon were caught during the spring fishing for lake trout.

There is plenty of bass-fishing in the neighborhood. The fish in Fall Creek and Beebe Lake have multiplied so fast that most of them are small and the State allows them to be caught without limit as to size and number. In Cayuga, the bass fishing is spotty, but good enough to keep plenty of fishermen on the Lake 'til late November. As for the stream-fishing for brook trout and brown trout, there is no other word for it but excellent. The State has kept up its annual stocking program and the fish do well in the streams: Fall Creek, Six Mile Creek, Cascadilla, the Inlet, and all their tributaries such as Buttermilk Creek and Enfield. Twenty years ago, this fishing was spotty because so many fishermen competed for it. But today, the ordinary fisherman prefers to take his chance with lake trout and the possibility of a salmon. The consequence is that the brook trout and the browns are abundant and of good size; as Earl McHugh wishes to prove to me.

So, while for selfish reasons I do not advise alumni and alumnae to bring along their fishing rods when they return for Reunion, I think they may boast of Cornell's fishing and number it among the other blessings associated with Cayuga's waters.

Two Clubs Elect

OFFICERS of the Cornell Club of San Diego, Cal. were elected, March 25, at a dinner meeting in the Lafayette Hotel in San Diego. Carlos D. Hart '06 was elected president; John I. Nelson '12, vice-president; Charles R. Bobertz, MBA '48, secretary; and James H. Smith '46, treasurer. Charles N. Pincio '03 was named secretary-emeritus and was elected to the board of directors. Other directors are C. Reid Johnson '13, Edward L. Anderson '26, Carl C. Harness, Jr. '43, Professor Paul J. Kruse, Rural Education, Emeritus, and James J. Hunter '32, who was Club president last year. Maurice Karp '29 was elected Ivy League representative. The meeting featured a showing of colored slides of British Columbia by Colonel Gilbert E. Parker '14, USA (ret.), and movies of the 1957 Varsity crew that won the Grand Challenge Cup at Henley, England.

Cornell Club of Berkshire County, Mass. elected officers at a dinner meeting at the Stanley Club in Pittsfield, March 31. Robert Bry '45 is president; Gordon W. Hough '45, vice-president; and Raymond L. Rissler '50, treasurer. Mrs. Walter E. Reilly (Anna McCreary) '27 was re-elected secretary. About forty persons, including several Dartmouth alumni were present at the meeting at which Emerson Hinchliff '14 spoke and showed the Henley Regatta film. Ralph G. Starke '19, outgoing president, presided.

Lacrosse Team Starts First

SPRING SEASON in Ithaca opened with a blazing start when the lacrosse team polished off Union, 16-3, April 12. Rain forced cancellation of the baseball game with Union on Hoy Field, but the Varsity lacrosse players sloshed through the mud of Upper Alumni Field to sweep by their opponents' inoffensive defense. This was surprising, as Union had eight veterans in its first line-up.

Cornell led 5-0 at the quarter; 8-1 at the half; 14-2 after three periods. In fact, the Cornellians took sixty-four shots at the Union goalie, while the Red goal tender had to handle only twenty-five. Nine Cornellians scored, with Richard H. Murphy '58 of Acton, Mass. high with 4 goals and George W. Bogar '59 of Carlisle, Pa. next with 3. The summary:

CORNELL (16)					UNION (3)
G—Cowles					Long
D—Brogan					Yannes
D—Webster					Shanley
D—O'Hearn					Sullivan
M—Hoffman					Hart
M—Pfann					Kenney
M—Gerand					Glass
A—Frisch					Waite
A—Murphy					Bagatelle
A—Pindell					Thurber
Cornell	5	3	6	2—16
Union	0	1	1	1—3

Cornell goals—Frisch, Bogar 3, Klein, Murphy 4, Hays, Pindell, Hoffman 2, Pfann, Dresser 2.

Union goals—Waite 2, Thurber.

Cornell substitutes—Bogar, Klein, Hays, Roberts, Greenberg, Cestone, Taylor, Glann, Dresser, Parsons, Bidwell, Bynum, Meinig, Jarvie, Curry, Honda, Marshall.

Union substitutes—Cassidy, Mader, Dunn, Wintrich, Zimmerman, Balddin, Hull, Lazar, Wing, Cox.

Baseball Appraisal

"Sound pitching, fair fielding, and spotty hitting" was Coach George Patte's appraisal of his baseball team's exhibition sojourn in the South during spring recess. Its record was 1-3 on the exhibition circuit. It won the first game over St. John's of Brooklyn, 2-1, April 1 in the Parris Island Tournament; lost to Parris Island Marines the same day, 3-2; and to Washington & Lee, 6-5, April 2. The next day, Cornell lost a return game with St. John's, 4-0. Despite the team's poor showing in the tournament, Shortstop Robert J. Flynn '58 of Ithaca was selected as the "outstanding player."

Another exhibition game was April 5 when Gettysburg beat Cornell at Gettysburg, Pa. with a big, fat seventh inning when it made all its runs. Score was 5-3. Gettysburg's Bill Walters, son of former great major leaguer Bucky Walters, and Cornell's Theodore A. Thelander '58 of Indianapolis, Ind. hooked up in a fine pitching duel for six innings. Jeff Kahler hit a triple for Gettysburg in the seventh to score 2 runs and 3 more were scored as a result of three Cornell errors and Frank Capitani's sharp single to left field.

Cornell scored one in the sixth on Junior outfielder Ronald C. Muzii's walk. He went all the way to third on a throwing error. A bunt by John P. Williams '59, second baseman, brought him in. Two more were scored in the eighth on a free passage to right fielder Garrison H. Davidson '58, who went in as a pinch hitter. A single by another pinch hitter, Stephen J. Failla '60, a passed ball and a force-out accounted for the runs.

Thelander, Robert M. List '59, Larry Fuller '60, Louis R. Jordan '59, and Joel S. Birnbaum '59 make for a strong pitching staff. Flynn, Williams, Captain Nicholas Schiff '58, right fielder, left fielder F. Norman Juvonen '59, and first baseman Karl M. Lehmann '60 will be pretty good hitters when they have a chance to look at the ball a few more times outside the confines of Bacon Cage. The catching spot is still unsettled. Veteran Christian P. Hatton '58 has best chance at it, although Joseph P. Conroy '59 seems to be a better hitter. James C. Thomas '60 may get a trial at it too.

Tennis Team Works Out

Varsity tennis team, on its spring tour, won over Clemson, 5-4, April 1; lost to Davidson, 8-1, April 2; and to Richmond, 9-2, April 5. Its scheduled match with Duke, March 30, was rained out.

Other Sports & Notes

VARSITY SAILORS of the Corinthian Yacht Club won an easy 72-36 victory over Syracuse in their first spring test on Cayuga Lake, April 12. Cornell boats won eight races. Skippers Donald F. McNair '60 and Robert M. Chase '59 each had two first places. In one race, a Syracuse boat was caught by a heavy puff and capsized, dumping the crew into the icy water. Quick action of Captain Peter R. Cummins '60 and Manager Gordon Cutts '60 in the crash boat averted any dire circumstances as they picked up the drenched visitors within seconds of the mishap.

Cornell's National Collegiate polo champions were beaten by a non-collegiate aggregation, April 12, in the Riding Hall. New Haven Armory Polo Club defeated the Red, 17-15.

Captain of the 1958-59 Varsity swimming team will be Charles W. Carpenter '59 of Binghamton. A student in Arts & Sciences, he is a member of Sigma Phi. R. Scott Wetzsteon '58, captain of the 1957-58 team, was awarded the Ware Trophy as "best exemplifying the spirit of Cornell swimming."

A Cornell & Pennsylvania track team will meet Oxford & Cambridge in White City Stadium, London, June 14. Team members will be selected on the basis of performances in the meet with Pennsylvania and Harvard on Schoellkopf Field, May 3. The Cornellians will fly to England from New York City, June 8. They will also compete in open meets in Dublin, Ireland, June 17 & 18, and in Belfast, June 20 & 21.

Oarsmen of the 150-pound squad purchased a new shell and set of oars. They named the shell the "Robert B. Tallman" in honor of the former coach, and Mrs. Tallman christened it on the Collyer Boathouse float, April 19. Tallman '41 and his father, Carl C. Tallman '07, are architects of the new Boathouse. They practice in Ithaca.

Roberson Gets Sun Trophy

For his accomplishments in football, basketball, and track, Irvin Roberson '58 of Philadelphia, Pa. was awarded the Cornell Daily Sun Trophy as "Sun athlete of the year" at the annual banquet of the Sun board, April 11. The Trophy is given each year by the Sun sports staff "to the Senior athlete most exemplary of the best in Cornell athletic tradition during his four years."

Roberson played on the Varsity basketball team as a Sophomore and earned his letter. He earned three Varsity C's in football and two in track. Injured for many of the football games his last two years, he was not as effective as his great potential seemed to indicate. His most flourishing successes have been in track. In 1957, he was given the Cornell Club of Ithaca's "Outstanding Performer" award for his indoor Heptagonal performance in winning the broad jump and taking a second in the sixty-yard dash. This year, he won the sixty-yard dash and the broad jump and set a Heptagonal record in the jump with 24 feet ¼ inch. He ran on the winning 880-yard relay team in the 1956 Penn Relays and won the 220-yard low hurdles in the outdoor Heptagonals his Sophomore year. He is a Senior in Hotel Administration.

Football Coaches Change

Football coaching staff has had several key changes and two additions for the 1958 season. Latest addition is William R. (Red) Moore, head coach at Allegheny College the last four seasons, who is appointed assistant line coach. He succeeds John J. O'Neill, resigned. A Penn State graduate in 1947, he was all-East tackle in college. A professional player with the Pittsburgh Steelers for three years, he was named all-League guard in 1947. He played next to Frank Wydo '50 for one season with the Steelers and alongside the Cornell head line coach, John J. Jaffurs, at Penn State in 1942 and 1943. In World War II, Moore served in Navy communications aboard a destroyer in the Pacific. When he went to Allegheny, the team had not won in nineteen previous games and his first year's team won three and lost four. His four-year record was 11-19-2. He was also head wrestling coach at Allegheny. He and his family will move to Ithaca in June.

The staff for next year, besides Head Coach George K. James, Jaffurs, and Moore will have the other new recruit, James W. Ostendarp (ALUMNI NEWS March 15), as defensive coach; Harold F. McCullough '41, head backfield coach; Paul E. Patten, defensive backfield coach; William DeGraaf '56, Junior Varsity coach; Theodore Thoren, Freshman coach; Robert L. Cullen, 150-pound coach.

Cornell received prominent mention in a New York Times article of April 15 by Howard M. Tuckner in which he wrote at length about George Telesh, a senior at Clifton, N.J. High School, who decided to come here for a pre-medical course next fall. The three-column Times story was put on the Associated Press because Telesh is one of the most honored secondary school football players in the country and one of the most sought after. Also, he and his family were displaced persons in Europe for five years. They came to the United States in 1949 and he became a citizen last fall.

Named as fullback on the first all-America all-scholastic football team last fall, this eighteen-year-old, 5-foot-11 Polish boy was all-State in New Jersey in 1956 and 1957 and was also a sprinter on the track team. An A student in mathematics and the sciences, Telesh chose Cornell over sixty other schools that sought him with such insistence and persistence that his family had to have their telephone disconnected. Here is how Tuckner wrote it in The Times:

Telesh did not receive sixty college scholarship offers for his football prowess alone. There are 544 students enrolled in the senior class at Clifton High. George sports a straight A average in biology, physics, and chemistry, and is in the upper fifth of his class and holds high administrative posts: president of the Student Council and chief of proctors.

"... I like everything about Cornell," he said, "the coaching staff, the kids, just everything. I feel sure that if I do well at Cornell, I'll have a great chance to get into the medical school. I'm so hungry to learn more. I have so much ahead of me. It's a miracle."

George, the youngest of the Telesh's nine children, was born in Pinsk, Poland, in 1939. When the Russian army was advancing through his homeland in 1944, George, his parents, his 95-year-old grandmother, three brothers, and two sisters were taken by the Germans to a work camp in Hamburg, where his father died. Since George was too young to work, the Germans did not provide food for him. His mother shared her rations with him, although she had hardly enough food for herself. After the war, George and his family spent five years in DP camps before coming to this country in 1949 to live with his uncle, a resident of Clifton.

"Might be a good thing I am reminded once in a while of those days we spent in Germany," George said. "It helps to make me realize how fortunate I am to be living here and makes me certain I want to be a doctor—the best doctor there ever was."

Gift for Hortorium

BAILEY HORTORIUM collection of the world's seed and nursery catalogs is enhanced with a recent gift from Earl Blough, Grad '02-'05, of Tiverton, R.I. His gift includes more than 1200 rare catalogs published from 1810-55. Now retired from Aluminium, Ltd. of Canada, Blough as a graduate student in Chemistry enjoyed visiting Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey's home to hear him read from the world's great literature.

Medical Alumni Gather

TENTH ANNUAL Distinguished Alumnus Award of the Medical College Alumni Association was presented to Dr. Paul F. Russell, MD '21, March 15, "for his outstanding contribution to medicine." The presentation was made by Dr. Mary Ann Payne, MD '45, outgoing Association president, at the College Alumni Day luncheon in the Nurses' Residence of the Medical Center. Dr. Russell has been with the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation since 1923. He spent twenty years in Asia conducting research on malaria and during World War II served as chief of the parasitology division, Army Medical School, Washington, D.C.; chief of the tropical disease control section, preventive medicine service, Office of the Surgeon General; and chief malariologist with the Allied Commission in Italy.

The first day of the Alumni Reunion, March 14, was devoted to scientific sessions with Faculty and alumni of the Medical College participating. The professional program was divided into five sections, each designated for a Reunion Class and presided over by a member of that Class. Chairmen were Professors Edward Tolstoi, MD '23, and Henry B. Kirkland, MD '28, Clinical Medicine; Professor Henry Heimlich '41, MD '43, Surgery; Dr. Harry D. Vickers, MD '33, and Dr. Martin J. Healy, Jr., MD '38. Luncheon that day was in the new Hospital for Special (Orthopedic) Surgery and evening Reunions of Classes at five-year intervals were arranged with assistance of Professor Laurence Miscall '26, Clinical Surgery. Especially well attended parties were those of the Thirty-year Class of '28, arranged by Professor Kirkland, and the Fifteen-year Class of '43, arranged by Dr. Joseph F. Artusio.

New officers of the Medical Alumni Association were elected Saturday morning at the annual business meeting. Professor Thomas P. Almy '35, MD '39, Medicine, was elected president and becomes thus a director of the Cornell Alumni Association. Dr. Carleton M. Cornell '33, MD '37, Surgery, is vice-president; Dr. Keith O. Guthrie, Jr. '37, MD '40, Medicine, is secretary; and Professor Henry A. Carr, MD '35, Clinical Medicine, is treasurer.

Dr. Paul F. Russell, MD '21—Winner of this year's Distinguished Alumnus Award of the Medical College Alumni Association. Dr. Russell is an authority on malaria and other tropical diseases. He has been with the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation for the last thirty-five years.

The Reunion ended on a festive note Saturday evening when 456 Faculty members, alumni, and friends attended a dinner-dance at the Hotel Biltmore. Sixty-two members of the Senior Class were present as guests of the Association.

Dr. Cornell was chairman of the Alumni Day committee which arranged the Reunion. Other committee members were Professor Miscall; Dr. Anthony A. Antoville '26, MD '29, Medicine; Professors William J. Eisenmenger, MD '41, and George L. Kauer, Jr., MD '37, Clinical Medicine; and Professor John P. West, MD '32, Clinical Surgery.

An Undergraduate Observes

By Eugene L. Case '59

Students & Spring Return

CORNELLIANS returning from the spring recess found a Campus considerably changed from that which they had left just a week before. Gone were the long gray mounds of ice that had lined every walk. The mud and snow that had been the Libe slope for the last five months was replaced with a lawn of thriving green. Daylight somehow seemed to start an hour earlier and end an hour later than anyone remembered. And although Ithaca has learned to be somewhat cautious about predicting the arrival of spring, by the second week of April it was apparent that the new season was here to stay. English classes abandoned Goldwin Smith and rearranged themselves in small, wet circles on the Quad-rangle. For the first time since October, co-eds emerged from behind compound layers of knee socks, parkas, and six-foot scarves. The University's thirty-odd tennis courts did a thriving business, as did Enfield Glen, Buttermilk, Stewart Park, and other less public retreats. The sports car set took over control of the highways; the shells took over the Lake. Frisbee, that most sophisticated of sports, caught the fancy of a few fraternities. Still cautious about the season was the Ivy Room, which stubbornly refused to hang up the placard that says "Ice Tea, 10¢."

A new board took over The Cornell Daily Sun when classes resumed after the spring recess, April 7. Editor-in-chief is the former managing editor, David A. Engel '59 of Weehawken, N.J. He has been on the board three years, is in Arts & Sciences and a member of Zeta Beta Tau. He succeeds J. Kirk Sale '58 of Ithaca. Managing editor is Robert S. Malina '60 of Brooklyn and Carl P. Leubsdorf '59 of New York City is associate editor. The new business manager is Robert Geisler '59 of Bayside.

Todd Morgan Jenkins '59 of Westfield, N.J. has been elected president of Willard Straight Hall for the coming year. He will succeed A. Calloway Allen '59 of Kirkwood, Mo. Jenkins has been active in the student union since his Freshman year. He was a co-chairman of the music committee a year ago and served on the board of managers this year. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Other officers elected are Elwood P. Moger '60 of Byram, Conn., vice-president; Marsha G. O'Kane '59 of Arlington, Va., co-ordinator of co-chairmen; and Johanna T. Dwyer '60 of Syracuse, representative at large.

Students have survived the first enforcement of the new social code. The "single overnight" which the Interfraternity Council planned for March 15 was utilized by many fraternities as their annual pledge formal. This observer noted very little grumbling and few violations of the finely drawn regulations which the University set. But single overnights have never been particularly popular with students, and the stricter rules serve only to dampen enthusiasm for a type of social schedule that has always been somewhat half-hearted. The real test will of course come with Spring Week End, scheduled this year for May 17. Fraternities will obey the limitations that have been put on the week end; the powerful weapon of social probation hangs heavy over their heads. But whether they will accept the change in atmosphere that the rules are aimed toward remains to be seen.

Dale Rogers '59 of Bethesda, Md. has been appointed by the Student Council to the Educational Affairs Project at Cornell. Directed by the National Student Association, the project will tackle three major problems: teacher shortage, ineffectiveness of curriculum, and lack of counseling assistance. Cornell is one of fifteen pilot campuses which will initiate studies in these fields. Miss Rogers is the daughter of US Attorney General William P. Rogers, LLB '37, and Mrs. Rogers (Adele Langston) '33.

The Cornellian has selected Hugh M. Zimmers '59 of Twenty-nine Palms, Cal. and James R. Hobson '59 of Arlington, Va. as co-editors-in-chief for the 1959 yearbook. Zimmers is a student in Architecture and a member of several Class councils; Hobson is an English major and has been active in the Freshman orientation program. Both have been with the Cornellian since their Freshman year.

Of the innumerable events that fill the University Calendar each week, the annual Festival of Contemporary Arts emerges as one of the most valuable. Now in its twelfth year at Cornell, the Festival consists of eighteen days of exhibits, lectures, discussions, and concepts on every phase of the creative arts.

This year's program opened with an exhibit of outstanding painting and sculpture done by students this year. Other highlights of the Festival were a Bailey Hall lecture by Pulitzer Prize-winning author Robert Penn Warren, a concert by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra and University Chorus, and the Dramatic Club's presentation of "A Different Drummer," an experimental play by Eugene McKinney, with a lecture by the author.

Noyes Lodge, successor to the Johnny Parson Club, threw open its doors, April 11, and the Campus rushed inside to take a look. Pacified by free Cokes, coffee, and doughnuts, the crowds lingered to hear the throbbing beat of a Dixieland band and later a program by the Sherwoods, the Glee Club's equivalent of the Cayuga Waiters. In general, the new building was well received; if it lacks a little of the atmosphere that Japes provided, it more than makes up for it in efficient service and a striking view of Beebe Lake.

The Campus Chest announced an increase of $1300 over last year in the organization's annual personal solicitation drive. The campaign was based on the theory of "students giving to students," and therefore charities benefiting Nigerian Negro and Hungarian and world student groups were selected. Robert Amdursky '59 of Oswego, the Chest's chairman, attributed the rise in contributions to publicity, methods of soliciting, and innovations in timing. Cornell's giving per capita still remains substantially below other Ivy League schools, however.

Richard M. Ehrlich '59 of New Rochelle is the new president of the Interfraternity Council. Other newly-elected IFC officers include Wilbur L. Woods '59 of Charleston, S.C., vice-president; Roary A. Murchinson, Jr. '60 of Athens, Ohio, secretary; and Stuart M. Pindell, Jr. '60 of Camp Hill, Pa., treasurer. Ehrlich is in Arts & Sciences and a member of Zeta Beta Tau. He had served on the IFC analysis & research committee as a Sophomore; this year, has been treasurer of the Interfraternity Council.

As if the outbreak of spring weather were not enough to distract Cornellians from their studies, Ithaca theater owners imported a tempting collection of movies for the spring season. Among the best were "The Young Lions," which roared on and on for three hours, and "Bridge on the River Kwai," featuring Alec Guinness and seven academy awards. Far-sighted students picked up tickets in the afternoon, but most found themselves waiting in lines that stretched as far as the eye could see.

Name Rhodes for Trustee

PROFESSOR FRED H. RHODES, PhD '14, Industrial Chemistry, Emeritus, was nominated for Alumni Trustee of the University, April 1, after the last issue of the ALUMNI NEWS had gone to press. The ballots mailed to all alumni thus carry the names of seven candidates for the election of three Alumni Trustees to take office next July 1. The others are Leroy R. Grumman '16, Ernest R. Acker '17, Alfred M. Saperston '19, Dr. Preston A. Wade '22, John M. Clark '29, and Robert W. Purcell '32.

All alumni are eligible to vote for Alumni Trustees. Official ballots must be marked and returned to the Treasurer of the University in envelopes provided by noon Monday, June 9. Results of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, June 14, during Class Reunions.

Professor Rhodes (above) retired last June 30 as Director of the School of Chemical & Metallurgical Engineering. He became Director when the School of Chemical Engineering was established in 1938 and held the Herbert Fiske Johnson Professorship of Industrial Chemistry from its establishment in 1941. He started a five-year course for which the degree of Chemical Engineer was authorized in 1932. Rhodes received the AB at Wabash College and came to the Graduate School in 1910. He was instructor in Chemistry, 1910-14, and again from 1915-17, after a year of teaching at University of Montana. From 1917-20, he was research chemist and became director of research for the Barrett Co. He came back to Cornell to stay in 1920. He was a consultant to several industrial concerns and investment firms and to the Office of Production Research & Development during World War II; was for several years a director of General Aniline & Film Corp. Alumni and friends are raising a fund of $350,000 to endow a professorship to be named for him.

He is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, and Phi Kappa Phi. He and Mrs. Rhodes have a daughter, Mrs. Robert A. Rosevear (Clara Rhodes) '38.

THE FACULTY

Arthur H. Dean '19, chairman of the Board of Trustees executive committee, headed the US delegation at the United Nations conference on Law of the Sea at Geneva, Switzerland, in March. Eighty-six nations and a score of international organizations were represented. Dean is a partner in the New York City law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell.

Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20, Judge of the US Customs Court, is chairman of the Commission on the Education of Women of the American Council on Education. Established in 1953 and with offices in Washington, D.C., the Commission is "concerned with the impact of rapidly changing social conditions on women and the need for effective educational programs to prepare them for the multiple roles required of women in modern life."

Professor Julian E. Butterworth, Rural Education, Emeritus, received one of two national awards for distinguished service to school administration at a meeting of the American Association of School Administrators in Cleveland, Ohio. A member of the Faculty since 1919, he became the first Director of the School of Education upon its establishment in 1931. He resigned as Director in 1944 to devote his time to research and became professor emeritus in 1952. He was a member of a committee of twenty-one that studied the rural schools of New York State and was a member of and consultant to the State Council on Rural Education. He has written more than 100 articles for professional journals.

Mrs. Jean Durham, widow of Professor Charles L. Durham '99, Latin, Emeritus, died March 31, 1958, in Merchantsville, N.J., where she lived with her son, Archibald G. Durham '31, at 25 East Cedar Avenue. She was also the mother of Mrs. Erwin J. McGuire (Helen Durham) '29, David H. Durham '36, Forrest Durham '38, and George Durham '44. She was a cousin of the late Mrs. Jacob Gould Schurman.

Professor Frank S. Freeman, Psychology, has been awarded the first certificate for the professional practice of psychology under the New York State Psychology Act of 1956. He is chairman of the State Board of Examiners of Psychologists that prepared the groundwork for examination of psychologists and for setting standards of professional experience required for certification. The Board members received the first certificates in recognition of their work.

Dean of Men Frank C. Baldwin '22 participated in a panel discussion on developing educational residence hall programs, at the annual conference of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, April 13-16, in French Lick, Ind. He is a past-president of the Association and served on the executive committee for 1957-58. Hadley S. DePuy, Grad, coordinator of the men's residence program, also attended the conference.

Professor Dexter Perkins, American Civilization, is giving three more University lectures supported by the endowment in memory of the late John L. Senior '01. A fund for the professorship and supporting activities was given by members of Senior's family and of his fraternity, Psi Upsilon, and by Newton C. Farr '09. The professor's subject is "The Quest for Peace." April 17, he discussed "Collective Security"; April 24, "Peace Through Law"; May 6, his topic is "Peace and Disarmament." Professor Perkins has been elected a director of the Harry S. Truman Library Institute in Independence, Mo., which contains the official papers of the former President.

Professor James McConkey, English, will direct a writers' conference at Antioch College, August 17-22. He is the author of The Novels of E. M. Forester, recently published by the University Press.

Rats raised in complete darkness for ninety days after their birth can distinguish shapes and judge distances just as well as rats which are raised in the light. Professor Richard Walk and Mrs. Eleanor Gibson, research associate, Psychology, have found. The only apparent difference was that the darkness-reared rats were more emotional and shy of humans than those raised in the light. Experiments were conducted under a grant from the National Science Foundation. Research will be done with other animals and results compared. The knowledge gained may be of assistance to newly-sighted human beings.

The much publicized shortage of scientists can be met only by pulling people from other professions or by getting girls to plan science careers, says Professor Charles E. Ramsey, Rural Sociology, who is making a study of factors influencing occupational choices among high school students. The medical and teaching professions are among those vying with the sciences for top students. Professor Ramsey has worked so far with 300 seniors in Binghamton and Whitney Point schools and with 1000 high school students in rural schools in Columbia County. In a survey of male high school seniors in the upper third of their class, he found 20 per cent favored engineering; 10 per cent, becoming doctors; 7 per cent, physical sciences; 2 per cent, teaching; with the rest planning to go into other professions and business. No difference existed between plans of the male rural and urban students. He finds that students usually rank the medical profession first for prestige, money earned, and intelligence required. Scientists also ranked high and engineers, among the top for income. Teachers were ranked low in everything, especially income. In fact, he said, students underestimated teachers' salaries. High school students consider entering only about 150 of the 35,000 occupations defined in the United States.

News of the Alumni

Addresses which appear in these pages are in New York State unless otherwise designated. Class columns headed by Class numerals and the names and addresses of the correspondents who write them are principally those of Classes which have purchased group subscriptions to the News for all members. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians of all Classes are welcomed for publication.

'91 AB—George J. Vogel lives at 379 Prospect Street, Torrington, Conn. He is retired superintendent of Torrington schools.

'96 LLB—LeRoy N. French, retired lawyer, lives at 5236 La Canada Boulevard, La Canada, Cal.

'03 Women—The '03 Women cordially invite the '02 and '04 Women and the wives of the '03 Men to attend their Class dinner, Friday, June 13. Reservations should be made with the Reunion chairman, Mrs. Helen Riedel Blenderman, 26 Hawthorn Drive, Westfield, N.J.—H.R.B.

'06 CE—Edward A. Evans retired in February, 1957, as a construction engineer (P.E.) after nine years with Charles H. Tompkins Co., Washington, D.C.; now lives at 1826 Akcola Avenue, Silver Spring, Md. He plans to continue to live in the suburb of the national capital, taking care of his lawns, fruit trees, and flowers.

'06 ME—William A. Robinson is manager and principal owner of Charter Wire Products and his address is Box 106, Sterling, Ill. He still "leans over the drawing board on occasions," but his "working days are getting shorter and winter vacations in Florida, longer."

'08 ME, '09 MME—Mark H. Landis is president of ERD Co., Inc., engineering, research, and development laboratory. He urges all members of '08 to make plans for their Fiftieth Reunion: "Our ranks are thinning, but we are still going strong. We set records before; we can do it again."

and Debbie Risch, daughters of Martha Coler Risch '49. They also have a son, Rod S. Coler '49, who is finishing a residency at Veteran's Hospital in Portland, Ore. Carl writes: "Mrs. Coler and I are starting our fourth foreign assignment under the Marshall Plan; Korea, Turkey, Mexico, and now Nepal. To the north of us are the Himalayas and Tibet. Mount Everest towers majestically with its cape of snow. To the south is India with its teeming millions. Mountains alone will not stop communism. Our job is to demonstrate the advantages of democracy. The people here, as in India, are eager to learn. They want freedom, peace, and the advantages which can only come through science. Here, as in many other places, are the new frontiers of American Policy. Here and elsewhere we may, by applying science, find an answer to the ultimate problem which science has created." Since leaving the States, the Colers have sent several very interesting letters to their Stateside friends which will be read at the next spring Class dinner in New York City. Their address is USOM/Nepal, APO 74-N, San Francisco, Cal.

Sam F. Nixon, Law, is president of Chautauqua & Erie Telephone Corp.; recently announced that Westfield would be converted to dial phoning in the early hours of March 2, that a newspaper supplement would be prepared for the announcement of the occasion. A member of the Nixon family suggested that any mention of the family be omitted; at least, they thought it should be kept very brief. Sam's three sons are associated with him: Alastair, plant manager; Roderick, commercial manager; and S. Fred, general manager. Colonel Philip W. Allison, ME, writes: "Still in fine health and enjoying life. Working in our hillside garden (50 yds. down a 20° slope) keeps us sound in mind and limb. We have plenty of time for hunting and fishing, too. Sally and I got six salmon on a recent trip to the Siletz River. My daughter Peg and her two boys have been with us while her husband serves in Korea. I am instructor on the Cherry City Junior Rifle Club (40 kids from 11 to 18) who have placed high in national competition."

This is being written early in April, but by the time you read this it will be early May. And that will be but a month away from our Forty-five-year Reunion, June 13 & 14. Thought you might be interested in seeing a list of some of the gang that I know plan to be there. There are many more, of course; in fact, Freddie Norton has over 100 more names of those going to Ithaca. This is just a list of the ones who have sent me word that they will attend, with their comments: Tris Antell—(The rhymester, has to be there). Babe Aschaffenburg—See you in June. Burn Ball—See you in Ithaca. Harry Barnard—Will be back to 45th. Cy Barker—Will be there. Barty Barton—Will be back for the Reunion. Art Beale—If snow melts, see you in June. Don Beardsley—(He must come to pay bills). Beeb Beebe—Planning to attend. Jack Brodt—Hope to be at Reunion. Stan Chute—See you in Ithaca in June. Bob Clapp—Planning to get to our 45th. Denny Dennis—Will be seeing you next June. Sid Eastwood—Be seen' yuh at the 45th. Puss Goan—May get back to the 45th. Schmitz Goff—Expect to be back in June. Ev Greer—Going even if on hands and knees. Neill Houston—See you in June. Aerts Keasbey—Will be seeing you in June. Russ Kerby—Expect to attend the 45th. Mort Leonard—Planning to attend. John McCormick—See you in June. George Macnoe—Hope to see you in June. Ced Major—See you at the 45th. Spike Myers—Will of course attend 45th. Nei Neifeld—(I'm sure he'll be there). Bill Nisbet—See you in June. Freddie Norton—(Of course he'll be there). Charlie Palen—Plan to attend our 45th. Lew Pitcher—Hope to see you all at 45th. Clint Raymond—To 45th Reune I'll go. Sam Scudder—Planning to return for 45th. Berk Snow—Hope to make the 45th Reunion. Harry Southard—(Yes, I'll be thar). Stok Stokoe—Expect to see you in June. Tally Tall—Expect to be back in June. Tip Tyler—Will be at our 45th. Vic Underwood—(He's already there). Eddie Urband—Will not miss our 45th. Jimmy Vaughan—Looking forward to 45th. Bill Williams—Expect to be at Reunion.

Well, there's the list. Just a sample of those who will be there. If you have not already signed up, get busy. Air mail or wire F. E. Norton, care Chamber of Commerce, Syracuse, and tell him you are joining the gang.

So long! C U 6/13/58 at C. U.

CLASS REUNIONS IN ITHACA, JUNE 13 & 14

'98, '03, '08, '13, '18, '23, '28, '33, '38, '43, '48, '53, '55

sultant, Wesbury 7-3509; the epistle was dated 10-18-57. It follows:

Every so often, some of our Classmates get nostalgic and bemoan the fact that we are getting on in years, that we should see each other more often, etc., etc., because our Class affiliations and friends are among the best things we have in life. But, nobody does anything much about it.

So, I thought you would like to know, and if you consider it newsworthy that the rest of the Class might like to know, that a few of us in the New York Metropolitan area have done something about it during the last few months. Since May, a group of us have met six times for a day of golf and dinner afterwards and while the golf is hardly worthy of that name, we've had some swell times. We have played at the Bellport Golf Club and Meadow Brook Club on Long Island, Knickerbocker Country Club in Jersey, and the Ardsley Country Club in Westchester (Walt Addicks is president of the latter, but we did not even sign his name for one round of drinks). The athletes involved in these outings were: Carman, Ike, when his gout permits; Chapin, Harry, since his retirement July 1; Halsted, Bert, he will even put up with hackers if he can get a day off; Halsted, Hal, when we can get him off his Star boat; Hayes, Alex, except when he's floating big bond issues; Goertz, Tubby, he hasn't much else to do; Kappler, Norm, if he can get away from his clients; Kuhlke, George, he hasn't much else to do either; Rees, Frank, when he doesn't have to tell the efficiency experts how to run the plant.

One day we were honored by the presence of McCreery, Mac. However, he found the food so enticing at that particular club that he didn't even leave the grill. You will note this list is in alphabetical order. If you want to list these men on their golfing ability, just turn it end for end. We have only a few simple rules: 1. Winter rules at all times, even in the rough and traps. 2. Not more than two drinks before starting. 3. No electric carts, canes or wheel chairs. 4. No checking on the other fellows' scores. 6. No swearing after unfortunate shots.

We are hibernating now for the winter and all will miss their exercise. Any affluent Classmates who may have a residence or other connections in the South might like to know of this. We all are free to travel and take a week or so off in the winter. We could probably hire a bus at a reasonable figure if we travel as a group. Best regards—George.

If the delay has caused the tramp athletes to miss out on an invitation to Florida or Southern Pines, I can only express regret. At least it will help them get off to a flying start in their conquest of Metropolitan links this spring, and I hope that McCreery, Mac improves his score.

I had a delightful two days the end of March with Lewis B. Hendershot and his wife in Pittsfield. Between Hawaiian records and colored slides ranging from Hawaii to Europe we certainly covered territory! At the dinner meeting of the Cornell Club of Berkshire County, 1914 had two more representatives. Ted and Mrs. Crippen came up from Great Barrington, having just returned from Ormond Beach. A year ago, they made a grand swing around the US. He wants to revisit Alaska. After graduation, he spent three years up there at agricultural experiment stations in the Yukon and Fairbanks. Through his suggestion the U of Alaska was founded. The other was Les Abell, who is with the State Department of Health and lives in Pittsfield. His wife died in 1941, but his three kids and seven grandchildren live fairly close. Hendy, the late Larry Benson, and Les were roommates. His brother Max is a professor at the U of New Hampshire, Durham. There has always been a lot of joking about "Less" Abell and "More" Abell; Les told us that in high school Latin days they were nicknamed "Maximus" and "Lessimus." Hendy showed me a score or more of awards he received for his Berkshire Life publications and a lovely album of letters and signatures on his retirement September 1, 1955. They run him ragged on civic duties, including the water board, which is plagued now by the fact that cigarette filter tips won't dissolve in sewage disposal treatment. The things one learns on trips! It was pleasant seeing Frank Bond '12 (down from North Adams) at the dinner.

'14 AB—Mrs. Rene Leprestre (Margaret Cornell) is house director of a women's dormitory at University of Pennsylvania and her address is 2200 Delancey Place, Philadelphia 3, Pa.

Frank W. Beneway (above) received a citation for "distinguished service to agriculture" from the New York State Agricultural Society at the annual luncheon of the College of Agriculture Alumni Association in Willard Straight Memorial Room, March 26. Congratulating him are Webster J. Bird-sall (left), president of the Society and ex-officio Trustee of the University, and Agriculture Dean William I. Myers '14 (right). The citation describes Beneway as "a Cornell graduate who has applied the teachings of science to practical agriculture, a grass-roots philosopher, an original thinker, a man who has made it his purpose to stimulate fellow farmers to think their problems through, rather than depend on some government agency to solve them."

Beneway operates a fruit farm at Ontario, N.Y. in partnership with his son, James A. Beneway '41. Another son, David F. Beneway '57, is a Senior in Agriculture. His daughters are Ellen J. Beneway '43 and Mrs. Robert L. Clifford (Mary Beneway) '48. Beneway has been chairman of the Wayne County Farm Bureau and president of the New York & New England Apple Institute and the New York State Peach Growers' Association.

As president of the State Agricultural Society, Beneway was a Trustee of the University in 1952 & 1953. Earlier, he was chairman of a committee that raised an endowment of more than $90,000 for scholarships to Agriculture students as a memorial to the late Dean Carl E. Ladd '12.

Armand R. Tibbitts, Dingtletown Road, Greenwich, Conn., is now a member of the "65 Club," but continues on in the saddle; says he likes it that way.

George M. Heinitch, 5227 Fifth Avenue, Apt. 3, Pittsburgh 32, Pa., says he thinks Class associations are great and after these many years looks forward to receiving the ALUMNI NEWS and keeping up with his Classmates. He reports: "Seems lots of the boys are retiring from active business after many successful years, and moving to Florida or other sunny climes. Am too busy to get around to retiring as yet, but may some day. Am in charge of the design and construction of the Fort Pitt Tunnel, in Pittsburgh, for the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. It is a 3600-foot, twin-tube modern vehicular tunnel. The bore should be completed about April 1, 1958, the job in 1960. My son is associated with Frank B. Ingersoll '17 and Donald L. McCaskey '34. My son is married and has a daughter, five years old. My daughter lives in Baltimore and has a son eleven and a daughter ten. Helen and I are planning a visit to Ithaca for my 45th Reunion."

Above is a snapshot of Francis T. Hunter (on the right) received from him on his safari in Africa, and which, apparently, has been anything but a sane and safe jaunt. Here follow portions of the interesting letter which accompanied the above and which was received by a personal friend and loaned to us as a matter of interest to '16:

"I have now reached the point where it makes no sense to write, because there's so much to say that there is no way to cover the ground. Anyway, I finally have a secretary, so I can at least get a word off to you. We may almost forget about Africa for the time being. Besides, by the time this reaches you, you will have seen Ben Finney and very soon the McMartins, and I am sure that you will have picked up a general run-down on some of the salient features of our crazy trip. You will know, for instance, that from the standpoint of our game bag it hardly could have been more successful. You will know that it was rugged, real rugged.

"We progressed from weeks of intermittent rain and mud in Tanganyika to unseasonable heat and dust in the northern frontier of Kenya. We covered some 3000 miles over pretty awful trails (they call them roads). The only good part of them was that they reduced the waistline really sharply. We had a few bad moments of which you may have heard. It is a happy thing that I found that I can still react pretty good when the chips are down. Otherwise, stark tragedy might have ruined our adventure. For example, it is no fun and no experience one would care to repeat to fire a 30-06 Springfield into the yawning jaws of a hippopotamus at point blank six-foot range in order to save your life and that of a beautiful girl named Hilda. One life was lost, our camera boy. Anyone is an idiot, as I was, who takes the position that the advance of civilization has nullified the dangers that lurk everywhere in Equatorial East Africa, with the wholly erroneous premise that no beast or natural circumstance is a match for modern firearms. The firearms themselves can and do become a horrible menace and I have gained an unforgettable respect for them. It really was a marvelous saga and the revelations of splendor and beauty of the woodlands, the jungle, and the plains of the Africa that very few will see, much more than offset any of the hardships.

"Back to civilization. I feel as though I have met everyone of consequence in Nairobi, which is now quite a city, the only center of British East Africa. Many of them know Pete and Mak, and they left a deep impression of themselves and Twenty-One Brands. Our reception, as a result, both at the beginning, middle, and end of our safari, was unforgettable. And you can tell John Perona that El Morocco had better look to its laurels if anyone compares it with the Equator Club in Nairobi. I found that you can get drunker faster in the Equator Club! All Ballantines and Roederer, I might add. Now in Rome, I am beginning to find my way back into the sordid world again. The plush draperies and upholstered furniture in our living room are importantly pretty. There are buttons in the walls that you press and people come to do your bidding. And there are switches that you turn and the electric lights go on. In the bathrooms you can turn faucets and get hot water, cold water, even ice water. I don't understand it, but it is all very nice, and now I even have a stenographer!

'17 Men—Another '17er has retired! Herb See writes that he retires this year and we wish him many years of peace and happiness. Herb's address is 3445 Granada, Dallas 5, Tex. Another message from the South came from a '14er, who was stopping temporarily in Natchez, Miss. Chuck Bassett of Buffalo wrote: "It is impossible to get away from the powers of '17 even in Natchez, Miss. Saw the enclosed write-up regarding John Collyer and the Cornell 1917 crew at their Forty-year Reunion in the magazine section of the Baton Rouge Sunday paper and thought you should have it." Chuck and Mrs. Bassett were touring the Southern States and the clipping was a write-up about John Collyer and his success as an oarsman which eventually made him one of America's leading industrialists. The next day, we received a copy of the same clipping from Don Maclay of Summit, N.J., which he had taken from a weekly syndicated Sunday magazine that is distributed with the Newark, N.J. Star-Ledger. A picture of John individually and of the 1917 crew at our 40th appear with the write-up. Don spent four days on the Campus in March seeing Cornell win the Heptagonal track meet. He divided the remainder of his time between the Cornell and Wells College campuses. His recently-married son, John C., graduates from ME in June and his daughter Sally attends Wells at Aurora, the college that furnished many of the "top" dates for Cornellians when we were undergraduates.

Another Southern note was from Walt Lalley, Route 3, Box 240, Houston, Tex., who wrote that he was glad to see everyone looking so well at our Big 40th. He and Mrs. Lalley enjoyed the Reunion and their visit to the Campus. Both hope to make our 45th in '62. Again from the South, we heard from John H. Lopez who is with Wright & Lopez, Inc., PO Box 1015, Cedartown, Ga. Also had a line from Joe Aronstam who is with Daniel Grossman & Co., 47 W. 34th St., New York City. Mrs. Edith Rulifson Dilts '18, widow of the late Doug Dilts, has presented the Class with a movie reel showing many '17 scenes, especially at past Reunions, much of which was taken by Doug. Since he is in some of the scenes, however, those parts of the reel were probably "shot" by Art Stern who succeeded Doug as official Class photographer.

Anybody know where these '17ers are? Recent mail was returned "Undelivered" from the following addresses: Herbert B. Crooker, Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer, 1540 Broadway, New York City 19; Elvin L. Pierson, 1159 Prospect Ave., Toledo, Ohio; Frederick C. Van Dusen, Apt. 1, 2340 St. Johns Ave., Jacksonville, Fla.; and Fred A. Reynolds, 27 Park St., Binghamton.

Lou Freedman, attendance chairman for our 40th, has acquired a treasury of facts about '18ers as a result of letters from his regional subcommittees. Thus, Tex Roden on the West Coast has been checking up on a group of men there and complains he finds most of them are academicians or very retired businessmen; but he still expects to assemble a group to make the trip East together. Oliver Holton, who runs his own insurance agency in Philadelphia, Pa., reports that two out of three pep talks to Classmates produce promises of being in Ithaca in June. Max Yellen, in Buffalo, has been following up on fellows from nearby towns, though he reports his responses are slow. So does B. O. (Bush) Bushnell, who has been after a group of Los Angelenos. Bush, incidentally, heads his own company, Bushnell Controls & Equipment Co., 5157 West Jefferson Blvd., Los Angeles. Jo Cable of Cable Engineering, Wichita Falls, Tex., ran into trouble when he found that three of the men on his list had to be scratched off as deceased. Les Fields (Mathews & Fields Lumber Co., Rochester) also reports a death among his group, that of John Wolf of Spencerport. Mark Owens writes from Pacific Palisades, Cal. that his chances of getting to Ithaca are pretty slim, but he's still after some others in his general neighborhood. John R. (Jack) Schwartz, who is the judge up in Dutchess County (Poughkeepsie), missed the fine Class dinner in New York City in March because he had a murder trial end successfully with the guilty guy accepting a plea of second degree, which gave Jack a chance to dash off to Sea Island. Nevertheless, he has been following up on quite a group of potential Reunioners.

Ralph Van Horn writes from Beford,

Quebec that he's busy following up on some fellow Canadians and will be at Reunion himself. Ed Knapp is one of those planning a European vacation this year right at the time he would have been in Ithaca. R. C. (Bob) Edmunds followed up on several fellows in the Oneida County area. William C. White, who, incidentally, is president of Alcoa Steamship Co., has, along with others, been checking with New Yorkers and giving the old pep talk to quite a few. Among the New Yorkers who have been active are Fred Hudes, Leo Frenkel, M. S. Lurio, Burton Schwartz, Stanley Norwood, Joe Lorin (who, incidentally, wrote a masterpiece of a letter to quite a group; no wonder, because his letterhead shows he's an advertising man), Harry Mattin, and C. Frank Reavis. Lawrence Arnold, chairman of the board of the Seattle First National Bank, has his shoulder to the wheel out there, and reports that he and Alex M. Peabody definitely will come to Ithaca. Well, Lou's correspondence file is a couple of inches thick, so further mention of the names in it must await a later issue. But it surely does reflect both an active interest in the Reunion on the part of a great number of men and a strong effort on their part to interest others in it.

Remember that long list of Classmates for which nobody seems to have addresses? Well, we are beginning to get reports from our volunteer tracer experts, though some of the reports are unhappily of deaths. Row Wagner writes, for example, that the name of Paul Jones, Jr., should be removed from our list for that reason. But Arthur G. Jennings is reported to be retired and living in Carmel, and we'll report on him when he replies to our letter. We've also a number of suggestions on tracing others, but haven't succeeded in running them down yet. Meanwhile, here is the final list of names of those in the Lost Battalion: Francis H. Rich, Harry E. Roche, Thomas J. Ryan, Irving P. Schenck, Abraham Simon, Albert R. Solon, Karl M. Staebler, Paul L. Sullivan, Jess S. Taylor, Louis Thomas, Stanton G. Tiffany, Ronald C. Van Atta, William Vivoni, Holden C. Wall, Ludwig Weindling, Ralph S. Westing, John G. Williams, George Wise, and James Wood. The University needs up-to-date addresses for all these, and so do we!

Julian R. Minier, 2601 Parrott, Waco, Tex. It's a real pleasure to have the following note from Julian: "Please give me at the very earliest date the details of the 40th Reunion in 1959. I want the starting date, duration, housing facilities, etc. at or near Ithaca. Give my regards to Jim Hardin, "Shorty" Corwin, captain of 1919 baseball. I had the good fortune to catch and have part in the triple play at the Columbia game in 1919. Others on the team were Fred Ensworth, Murphy, Olson, and Needle (pitchers), "Buck" Weaver, and two boys by the name of Cross. I do not remember the others. Plan to see you in 1959."

This is the kind of interest and enthusiasm our Reunion committee is expecting and counting on, and our Reunion chairman, Ed Carples, promises to send all details promptly as possible in answer to Julian's questions. How about some of you former ball players dropping a line to Julian; or better yet, to me, and I'll pass your words of wisdom along through this ill-constructed but widely read (I hope) column. Thanks again, Julian, for your interesting and sprightly comments.

Stanley Mott-Smith, Unkra-Tams, APO 301, San Francisco, Cal., reports that this address is only good until June, since he will shortly complete three years in Korea, and then plans on another foreign assignment. Stanley left Hawaii in 1947 for Taiwan (Formosa) where he spent almost seven years. If his next assignment permits, he hopes to get to New York this year, and meantime send regards to all.

Colonel L. Brown, 472 Gramatan Avenue, Mount Vernon. In sending his dues to Lloyd Bemis, Colonel Brown writes: "After drawing this check, I put it in my simplified filing system. Sure enough, after looking around a few days for it, there it was right in file CZ385 1/4 x 23448B. Seems like the older I get the more work I have to do, or it could be that it takes me longer to do it." Incidentally, Colonel is an agricultural journalist, an expert on the crop situation as it affects marketing and prices, and is a regular contributor to the New York Herald Tribune, as well as other publications.

Joseph Goldberg, 175 West 93d Street, New York City 25, says that for the last eight years he has been with the New York State Rent Commission as local rent administrator for Manhattan.

Harold C. Grinnell, 24 Bagdad Road, Durham, N.H. It's good to hear from Harold that since January 1 he has been dean of the college of agriculture at University of New Hampshire, as well as co-ordinator of agricultural instruction, research, and co-operative extension.

Hi-ho, y'all, y'all! We all've been swingin' thru the Sunshine State, pahd-ners, and no matter how you slice it, there's only one Florida! Bright, hot sunshine every day, served to you in a most delicious manner (you can be burned easily, too, in more ways than one, if you're not careful), beautiful things to see, scenic or feminine as you prefer, good accommodations and food. Only thing is, you've gotta know when to go there!

Spring in Florida: the scent of orange blossoms in the air, the salty tang of the ocean breezes, the incessant chatterings of the cardinals, the beautiful songs of the mocking birds, the "50 per cent off" sales of wailing merchants, the interminable stream of collegians wearing the casual look and riding in anything with wheels that'll go, on their annual trek to Ft. Lauderdale, an orange moon laying a path of gold on the dark blue of the Atlantic. You can see it's got me!

We arrived at Palm Beach just about the time Veterinarian Ellis Montford and the missus were heading back North, after a month's rest, to Morrisville, where Ellis says he does mostly large animal practice and teaches animal physiology and health at the Agricultural & Technical Institute. I don't know how he gets them critters to sit down in the classroom, but it looks like a combination of science and health is making greater advances every day.

Howard H. Strong, who made good as a landscape architect in Buffalo, retired a year ago and spends most of the year at Largo, Fla., except for two summer months when he escapes the heat at Van Buren Pernt, Upstate, N'Yawk, Largo address: 262 14th St., NW.

Jim Cook has been in Santurce, Puerto Rico for the last twelve years, working out a program of water supply and sanitary sewage for the entire island. In June, Jim and his wife (Millicent Quinby '19) plan to take a year's leave of absence, spending the summer in the Thousand Islands and the winter in Florida. Jim'll have to get his blood thickened up to carry him through a winter like the last one. Jim has one son and boasts about his three grandchildren.

There are some real smart guys who don't need a leave of absence to get to the Sunny State. They're the regulars who are always on duty and are stuck with the place, like Pete de Coningh of Daytona Beach; our SE Vice-president E.W. "Pete" Lins who directs the Blue Goose activities from Ft. Pierce; Henry Cundell of Pompano Beach, who'll sell you a lot or 10,000 acres, legitimately; Harold King, who professorizes at University of Miami at Coral Gables; Chester Kurtz of Tampa; Louis Siegel of Miami, and Paul VanValkenberg of Umatilla. Then there are guys who are "just resting" like Ack Ackerly, Clearwater; Ed Cary, Floral City; Herb Blanche, Dunedin; Bill Colvin, Sarasota; Bob Mallery and Charles Cooper at St. Petersburg, and Charles Ten Eick at Hollywood (Florida, that is).

We're sorry to learn that the ALUMNI NEWS doesn't pay the correspondent's expenses on these important news-gathering assignments, and we're scrapin' the bottom (pocketbook, not barrel). So back to the rock pile for us! It's such sweet sorrow to leave this leisurely life of luxury; from the sublime to the more sordid life. Ugh!

Charles D. Mackey lives in Montrose, Pa. We are happy to report that after a long siege in the hospital, Chuck is on the mend and will soon be back in circulation. His outstanding prowess as a Cornell wrestler in the early roaring '20's will never be forgotten.

Harry J. Donovan lives in Yonkers and is president of Educational Thrift Service, Inc. of New York City. His firm provides banking for schools, instilling the thrift idea in the future generations through school savings programs. Harry's wife, the former Lillian Brotherhood '21, is an active officer in his business. For twenty-five years the Donovans operated a most successful boys' camp as a special activity. Now they spend their summers traveling in Europe and other foreign countries. Harry is a trustee of the International Benjamin Franklin Society.

John L. Dickinson, Jr. lives on College Highway, Southwick, Mass. John is director of distribution for the well-known Farmers' Exchange of Springfield, Mass. This colossal farmers' cooperative is reaching the $100-million business stage (and that ain't hay!). John interests himself in many of the civic, educational, and church organizations of his community.

William M. Cooper hails from Orange, N.J. Although graduating as a civil engineer, Bill became a technical man. He is with Western Electric Co. and has been one of the pioneer engineers in the dial telephone system. The Coopers have also reached the stage like so many of our Class who are becoming travel-minded. This year they are heading for Scotland and England, after enjoying all the good skiing here which was available this winter.

The travel bug has also hit me and my wife and I are shoving off for Europe tomorrow. The next column will be datelined "Rome."

'21 AB—Mrs. Raymond S. Dunphy (Martha Martin) lives at 245 Lombardy Avenue, Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, Fla. After many months of landscaping her home and learning about Florida plants and insects, she is now becoming interested in the AAUW there. Her husband retired and was then re-employed at H. F. Ferguson Co., engineers.

'22 Men—Edwin H. Krieg (above), vice-president and consulting engineer of Stone & Webster Engineering Corp., has been elected a director. Known as one of the nation's leading authorities on the design of power plants, Ed is credited with numerous advances in the technical developments and in the application of prototype steam turbine-generators. He has been active in many industry and technical society committees and is the author of more than seventy articles in business and technical publications. Ed sat with me in a Heat-Power class, the one presided over by a Russian prof. I can't remember his name, but the difficulty was not only in understanding the subject but with learning the peculiar dialect with which he spoke. Evidently he put his stuff over to one "Mr. Kweeg," as the prof called him, if Ed's success story is an indication.

The Class has more than one college president, but there is only one who can claim credit for being the president of New Mexico A & M College. I have before me the president's report of progress for 1956-57 at the above named college as submitted to the governor, the legislature, and the citizens of New Mexico by Roger B. Corbett, president of the College. The report is very well done and contains most of the devices designed for persuading the legislature to approve the budget. However, and I have scanned the report thoroughly, there isn't a single word about football, not even a score. Perhaps they don't play football, thought I, but no, right there in the upper left corner of the aerial view of their neatly arranged desert campus is what appears to be a gridiron, complete with stadium. So I dug out my 1957 Esso Football Handbook and there they are with a ten-game schedule and the results of the previous year. If a winning team could more easily sway the legislature, then it was best for Roger to have left them out; they were worse than Cornell. If you can't get your football candidate into Cornell, try using your influence on Roger Corbett at New Mexico A & M, College Park, N.Mex.

To observe Campus life as it really is, go to Ithaca on an off day. Then there won't be the football crowd, the Parents' Day mob, or a clattering of Reunions. Go to classes with your kid, eat with the students, and otherwise enjoy making like a student once again. That's what the man advised, so that's what the man did. It was the first day of spring, the Chimes were normal, and Ithaca weather was normal. The students shuffled along the Campus walks in six inches of slush in un-goloshed feet. They were be-wigged with an inch or so of snow atop their uncapped heads. No wonder I didn't get to enjoy going to classes with my kid; he was in the Infirmary with the grippe. However, I had a pleasant lunch with George Hanselman and dropped in on Jim Trousdale who just happened to be in the act of counting the fin-notes which were pouring into the Class coffers as a result of his recent dun for dues. Ted Baldwin was busy at home making the final arrangements for his daughter's wedding, coming up the next day. I later heard I had just missed wedding guest Bill Hill, but, with the snow still making deep in the late afternoon I scooted for milder climes.—Joe Motycka

Seems like a lot of boys are getting Reunion fever. They're writing in, saying, "I'll be there." Bill Kinsolving is closing the valves of his Sun Pipe Line Co. in Philadelphia, Pa. and heading for Ithaca. Jimmie Johnstone is hoping Rumsey Electric Co. will get along without him for a few days. George Holbrook of Wellsville doesn't care if the gas gets mixed in with the crude oil. Stuart Donaldson of Newhall, Cal. is letting his grandchildren have a few days of peace and quiet. Larry Pryor is worn out from his fish and duck diet of his Silver Lake plantation in Mississippi and is heading for the Finger Lakes, hoping to have a good gab-fest with Bob Matlock on how our "rebel" Classmates are doing on Cornell Fund contributions. And Jack Miscall of Pennington, N.J., Freddie Fix from Chicago, Ill., and Horace Bird of Medina will be back. G. George (Diz) Addonizio is just as full of beans and vinegar as ever, when it comes to Reunion plans. Diz, a partner in the law firm of Addonizio, Sisselman & Gordon in Newark, N.J., is the Republican candidate for Congress in the 10th Congressional District of New Jersey, and if his campaign manager has something for him to do at Reunion time, he's going to fire him and get a new manager. Eddie Gouinlock writes in to say that great efforts are being made for the return of Bill Carey, Swede Hanson, Dave Munns, Charlie Davidson, Eddie Kaw, Bart Richards, Charlie Brayton, Bob Brannon, Huck Ebersole, Walt Rollo, and many others. Sounds pretty good, my friends. Just a little more than a month now; time is getting short. Will you be back?

Had a long letter from Fletcher H. Woodcock, who lives just north of the Campus and works just below Stewart Avenue at Ithaca Gun Co. He says he's in the shotgun business right up to his ears, making guns for both indoor and outdoor sports. The outdoor line of shotguns is well known, but the indoor line has only been popularized by a very small minority group. (Would that have anything to do with weddings, Woody?) Woody sees Swede Hanson occasionally, and also says that Stan Perez, who was with the Gun Co. for a number of years, is now operating a very lovely book store at the Community Corners in Cayuga Heights.

Fred W. (Freddie) Fix, Jr., 5956 Sheridan Road, Chicago, Ill., was in Ithaca last summer, the first time in thirty years. He couldn't stay away from the boat house and saw many changes on the Campus. Freddie, I understand you are quite successful as an amateur photographer and have had a number of your pictures hung in various exhibits around the country. How about letting us know about this photographic touch of yours?

The Class mourns the loss of Robert A. Lynch of 1033 Parkway Blvd., Alliance, Ohio. Bob died January 9 at Alliance City Hospital after an illness of several months. He was with Armour & Co. for twenty-eight years; was assistant to the manager of the Alliance division. We extend our deepest sympathy to his widow, Mrs. Annabelle Davidson Lynch, and to his daughter, Mrs. Richard Muller of Paoli, Pa.

'23 Women—Mabel McGlynn Hebel (Mrs. J. William), 312 North Geneva Street, Ithaca, is women's editor of the American Agriculturist. She took a five months' leave of absence the past year for an extensive trip abroad; saw Carolyn Treman Cooley in Paris. Helen M. Hedden, 20 Tremont Avenue, Buffalo, teaches at Lafayette High, is more than busy keeping up with nieces and nephews, traveling a little and taking part in school activities, not to mention a little bridge now and then. Bertha Marks Heller (Mrs. Isaiah), 771 West End Avenue, New York City, has the MA in guidance and school counseling, is a teacher and does private practice in guidance and psychoanalytically oriented therapy. Dorothy Fellows Hensley (Mrs. John D.), Wood Road, Morristown, N.J., has one daughter, does supervisory work in Sunday School, and is a member of Morristown Women's Club garden department.

Ruth S. Hungerford, 61 Seymour Street, Auburn, studied religious education for three summers, traveled West in '24, Europe '26, spent nine years in Florida, has taught religious education, has needlework as a hobby. Emma Kuchler James (Mrs. R. worth H.), Rt. 2, Box 99, Lake Charles Circle, Lutz, Fla., has two daughters, one a music teacher, the other a secretary to the editor of their local daily paper. Aside from her housework, she has time for gardening and church work. Gracie Henrich Johnson, (Mrs. Howard E.), 47 Salisbury Road, Delmar, has two children, one grandchild, is active in a church group and choir, and other clubs. Is president of the Cornell Women's Club of Albany. Olive Jones, RD 3, Glens Falls, operates a small nursery, selling perennials. Rena Goodman Joseph (Mrs. Benjamin M.), 118 Sherman Place, Jersey City, N.J., does interior decorating, some hospital work, and is interested in Brandeis University.—Lucille Wyman Bigelow

Friday evening, March 28, forty members of '24 attended the annual Class dinner, at the Cornell Club in New York City. Invitations had been sent out about a month prior to the occasion and more than 165 replies were received. The dinner was a success and everybody enjoyed it.

As usual, C. A. (Chick) Norris presided, making it clear to all that no formal speeches were expected, but a few remarks, particularly if they were brief, would be welcome. H. Chase (Chick) Stone, first president of the Class, was there. He had flown in from Colorado Springs solely for the purpose of attending this meeting, and left the next day. Other "out of town" attendees were Norm Miller, Pittsburgh; John Pew, Philadelphia; Walt Rebmman, Bryn Mawr; Al Pirnie, Utica; Ray Taylor, Washington, D.C.; Paul Beaver, Springfield, Mass.; and Paul Flynn, Buffalo. Stone, Si Pickering (who gave a brief report on the dinner itself), Al Pirnie, and a few others made a few remarks. Fortunately, none of the remarks were too dreadfully boring; consequently, the general tenor of the evening maintained a high level of enjoyment.

Among those who replied with regrets that they could not come were Hap Haon from Whitehall Court, London, England; Fred E. Brown, Ontario, Canada; M. H. Barredo, Manila, Philippines; and William E. Skilton, Havana, Cuba. Perhaps one of the more engaging cards was one from Norris W. Goldsmith who wrote: "I hasten to mail this card before Sen. Hennings raises the postal rate. Since last spring we have moved to far north of New York State, on the edge of the Arctic Circle. Towering drifts of snow shut out the sun, howling winds blow the TV waves off their course. Bone-chilling cold has frozen the radio waves solid. I drive to work through snow tunnels. We've really had it. But fond memories of '24 keep the old heart beating." Goldsmith hides the heart of a genius up north.

Although some of the old stalwarts, Al Rauch, George Pfann, Sunny Sundstrom, Johnny Brothers, and others were missing, we did have the pleasure of renewing acquaintances with people who had been relative strangers for the last thirty-odd years, like Chick Stone and John Pew. We hope later on in this column of '24's current history to quote further excerpts from engaging comments and replies to our invitation to join us in this get-together.

Besides those mentioned, also at the dinner were R. H. Fuller, W. J. Jackson, V. deP Gerbereux, Charles H. Adler, John H. King, Albert Silverman, E. F. Searles, W. C. Hearne, Waldron Mahoney, C. M. MacWilliam, Laurence F. Block, Walter D. Ludlum, Roland Schultheis, Ed Kirby, E. R. Thompson, W. O. Davis, Norman R. Mil- ler, Frank B. Glasser, D. B. Williams, Max F. Schmitt, C. Schraubstader, Mendel Lurie, Allan H. Rogers, W. F. Bernart, Chet Ludlow, Don Post, Fred Wood, Lucien H. Tribus, Charles H. Ballard, Haig Shiroyan, Robert Lintz, Frank Quillinan. Certainly by the time the evening was over most of those present were ready to prepare at once for the Thirty-five-year Reunion in Ithaca in the Spring of '59.—S.W.P. II

Harold Paltrow, Agr, M, LLB, 35-56 222d Street, Bayside, is still active in his law practice in Bayside. He reports his son, Stuart Paltrow '49, is trying to out-do Harold with his own law practice in Massapequa.

John T. Carty, BChem, is with Empresas Unidas, S.A. de C. V., Dolores No. 17-901, Mexico 1, D.F.

Harold D. Uris, CE, 575 Madison Avenue, New York City 22, of Uris Bros., was elected last summer president of a group of twenty-seven realty investment and building concerns who sponsor annually about $200,000,000 worth of commercial building construction in New York City. The organization is called the Investing Builders Association, Inc.

Gardner Bump, BS, MF, G, 100 Salisbury Road, Delmar, and Mrs. Bump (Janet Watson, BS, MS) recently returned from three years in Iran, Pakistan, and Afghanistan where Gard, as an investigator for Fish & Wildlife Service, was looking for game birds suitable for introduction to this country.

Myron Gordon, BS, MS, PhD, served last fall as organizing chairman of the fourth conference on the biology of normal and atypical pigment cell growth, sponsored by the New York Zoological Society, University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute, and The Damon Runyon Fund for Cancer Research, Inc. His address is the Genetics Laboratory of the New York Zoological Society, American Museum of Natural History, New York City 24.

William M. Phipps, MS, RD 4, Danby Road, Ithaca, retired in 1947 after serving as chemist analyst for the Agronomy Department at Cornell for twenty-five years. He and his wife live on what they call a "farmette." He mentions orchard and garden, apples, peaches, plums, cherries, apricots, strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, flowers, shrubs, vegetables, and a bird sanctuary. Just how big is a farmette?

Robert H. Daley practices architecture as partner in the firm of Greife & Daley. He is president of the Creative Arts Festival of West Virginia, Inc., a nonprofit organization which sponsors an annual arts festival during April. Bob's son, Robert H., Jr., is studying for the MArch at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and his daughter, Cynthia L., graduated last year from Centenary College for Women at Hackettstown, N.J. He also has a younger daughter, Mary Susan. The Daleys live at 1026 Forest Road, Charleston, W.Va.

Joseph D. Brick (above) has been appointed east central regional manager of Square D Co., one of the nation's largest manufacturers of electrical controls and systems for the steel industry. Joe previously was manager of the Pittsburgh office and has been with the company for thirty-one years. He is a past-president of the Pittsburgh Gyro Club, and is active in Kiwanis International, the Sales Executives Club, and the Pittsburgh chapter of the Association of Iron & Steel Engineers. Joe lives at 268 Kenforest Drive, Mount Lebanon, Pa.

Robert B. Aird is professor and head of the department of neurology at University of California Medical Center in San Francisco. Last summer he and Mrs. Aird and their four children travelled in Europe, attending the International Neurological Congress in Brussels, where Bob presented a paper. They then went to Marseille, France, where he did some neurophysiological research, having been awarded a Fulbright grant as well as a sabbatical leave from University of California. The Airds returned to San Francisco February 1. They live at 80 Summit Avenue, Mill Valley, Cal.

John C. Morris of 8 Rose Terrace, Chatham, N.J., is a supervising attorney in the patent department of the Bell Telephone Labs, Inc. in Murray Hill, N.J. His daughter, Rhoda (Mrs. Stanley "Pete" Tabor) '53, presented John with a grandson, Peter Stanley, last July. His son, John Jr. '56, has been in the Army since November, 1956, and recently has been stationed in Germany.

Joseph P. Binns (above) was recently elected president and chairman of the New York Convention & Visitors Bureau, New York City, following a term of four years as treasurer of the Bureau. Joe is executive vice-president and general manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, as well as vice-president and director of Hilton Hotels Corp. He is in charge of the Hilton Hotels' eastern division and a member of the operating committee of the corporation. He is also senior vice-president of Statler Hotels Delaware Corp.

Entering the US Army in 1942 as first lieutenant, Joe received his honorable discharge as full colonel in the Air Transport Command at the end of the war, having served as chief of supply and service in the European Division. He was appointed chairman of the Task Force on Subsistence Services for the Hoover Commission on the Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government for the two years' duration of the Commission. At present, he is regional director for the National Conference of Christians & Jews. Joe and his wife make their home in the Waldorf-Astoria Towers.

Word has just been received that Roger W. Jones has been promoted to assistant director of the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President, Washington, D.C. Rog, who entered the Federal service in 1933, joined the Bureau in 1939 and has held various positions until the present, with the exception of three years active duty in the US Army during World War II.

In response to inquiries on addresses for the following '28ers, our records show that Colonel Arthur E. Stanat, USAF, who has been on active duty since September, 1940, has been transferred from Washington, D.C. to the 32d Air Division (Defense) at Syracuse. Art is married and has two sons, and is now residing with his family at 821 Euclid Avenue in Syracuse. Roland R. Nydegger's latest address on record is 6 Longview Road, RD 1, Box 258, Metuchen, N.J., while that of Arthur S. Hoke is 5208 Comanche Avenue, Knoxville 14, Tenn.

We will continue our profligate use of news in the certainty that all of you, members of '31, will see that we receive replacements in equal volume.

A unique fire research laboratory has been established by Midwest Research Institute, Kansas City, Mo., to seek new and improved means for preventing, controlling or fighting fires. The US Fire Protection Engineering Service, Inc., an independent consulting firm of Kansas City, is to assist in the laboratory. Past experience of both organizations is extensive. When in full operation, ten or more scientists and engineers will be assigned to the project at full time. Lester A. Eggleston, senior engineer, will supervise project work for the US Fire Protection Engineering Service, Inc. Les resides at 6421 Washington Street, Kansas City 13, Mo.

Stanley I. Brooke is still running "Stanbrooke Lodge" on Silver Lake near Rhinebeck. He feels that he is somewhat out of Class doings and has not seen a Classmate for years. Perhaps someone can bring him out of hibernation.

Theodore L. Osborn, Jr. is often in New York City on insurance company business. While in New York he stays at the Cornell Club and would welcome any messages which might be left there for him. His business address is 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago 6, Ill.

Walter N. Whitney is somewhat isolated as the lone Cornellian among about 300 Purdue graduates at Delco-Remy Division of General Motors. Our last news of Walter indicated he is superintendent of the plant engineering department. He lives at 708 Pershing Drive, Anderson, Ind.

Herman F. Seep is vice-president of Mine & Smelter Supply Co., Denver, Colo. His home is at 70 Eudora Street, Denver 20. His daughter Judy is a sophomore at Webster College, St. Louis, Mo. In our column that appeared last October 15 we gave a run-down on Dr. A. J. "Doc" Mirkin and his interests in the medical-safety aspects of sports car racing. We recently heard that "Doc" had been elected president of the newly-formed American Association of Automotive Medicine. This event occurred in Chicago last September. We must admit that our news is not always recent, but it is news and always welcomed.

'33 AB—Jacob F. Schoellkopf IV, president and a director of Niagara Share Corp., 70 Niagara Street, Buffalo 2, has been elected a director of New York Telephone Co.

'34 Men—A nice letter from Hiram S. Phillips, now public administration advisor for Latin America in the International Cooperation Administration in Washington, D.C., reads in part: "I was in Costa Rica for two years as a public administration advisor under our Point IV program. While in Central America, I assisted the Government of Costa Rica in its plans for administrative improvements, including the development and installation of a modern civil service program. I am now back in Washington with the International Cooperation Administration in charge of the program of technical cooperation in public administration for Latin America. Currently I am making plans for one of my periodic visits to Central and South America. I am married, live at 3147 Upland Terrace, NW, Washington 15, D.C., have two boys, age 16 and 12. My office address is Public Administration Advisor for Latin America, International Cooperation Administration, Washington 25, D.C."

I hope everyone is beginning to think about next year's Reunion. Tom Haire has started to rehearse the band and things should be in good shape. Speaking of Tom, we understand that their second daughter and fifth child was born March 10, named Janet Mary Haire.

The girls of '37 seem to be trying to take advantage of some of the '34 men. It is impossible, however, because since that article was written, Milton R. Shaw has been given the added honor and responsibility of appointment as Assistant Controller of the University. With his family, a controller is needed.

Word comes from Pasadena, Cal. that Joe Mangan, former track star, has been promoted to regional claim manager for Allstate Insurance Co.

Gerry J. Schnur, past-president of the Cornell Club of Chicago, was recently elected vice-president of J. R. Pershall Co. of Chicago, Ill. We don't know much more about it, but hope that he will supply us with further information.

Don't forget to supply both information and subscriptions to Al Stalfort and Tom Haire.—Bob Grant

It's either a feast or a famine for a Class correspondent. After two lean months of news, we are now thankfully deluged with items concerning our Classmates again. In fact, it will probably take a couple of issues to get you up to date on the data at hand.

Jeff Stofer, long overdue in this news column, is in business with his brother, Ken Stofer '48, representing manufacturers in the electrical distribution field. He has just completed a new home at 21520 Erie Road, Rocky River 16, Ohio, where he lives with his wife and four children. Jeff is attempting to retain his youthful figure with golf in the summer and handball in the winter. His kids enjoy watching football movies of their dad in action during the Dobie era.

Dwight "Nelly" Rockwood, 2228 Calhoun Street, New Orleans, La., tells us he recently got together with Kermit Goell, who was visiting New Orleans, and Wayne Stoffle, also a resident of the city, joined them for cocktails. He extends an invitation to Classmates to allow Wayne and himself to show them their town.

Douglas H. Neville assists the sales manager of the Middle Atlantic sales division of Eastman Kodak. He lives at 20 Birmingham Drive, Rochester 18.

Bill Hoyt is the proud father of a baby girl, Mary Anne. He and his wife live at 26 East Lane, Madison, N.J., and are delighted with the new arrival, having previously become parents of three sons.

Ed Weeks practices law in Mineola, the seat of Nassau County. He and his wife and three children live at 127 Sea Cliff Avenue in Sea Cliff, where he is active in local politics, scouting, and yachting. He is president of the Sea Cliff Civic Association.

Robert F. Holland, Box 116, Trumansburg, has just returned from six months in Greece and other parts of Europe for the International Cooperation Administration of the State Department, accompanied by his wife and daughter. He had the additional thrill of spending Christmas with his son, a pilot in Augsburg, Germany.

M. P. Eisman reports briefly from Willow Street in Manchester, N.H., that he is married, has three children, is in his own grain business, and is getting bald and old. Who isn't?

Edward Adelson, 55 East 86th Street, New York City 28, practices psychoanalytic medicine.

digital computer research

A quiet revolution is occurring in the field of real-time computing and control systems. The Hughes Digitair computer has already successfully invaded this one-time analog domain. The accelerating pace in smaller, lower power circuit-elements is rapidly widening the digital margin of superiority. An important part of the advancement in the digital control art is occurring in the Airborne Systems Laboratories at Hughes. There engineers are working in every phase of this exciting field. The comprehensive and balanced program includes:

Research in vacuum-coating of entire printed circuits

Logical design of small, high-speed, high capacity computers

Analysis and design of closed-loop control systems employing digital computers

Design of ultra-high-speed digital signal processing systems

We have a note from John S. deBeers, whose address is General del Valle 2167, San Juan, Puerto Rico. Johnnie writes that he, his wife, and two daughters have enjoyed a wonderfully mild winter and that they're going to visit Europe this summer. Johnnie enjoys year-around golf on the Island and with twelve months of favorable climate says he can break 80. We do proportionately well, having little difficulty in breaking 160 in our six-month season. Appointed to the newly-created position of staff vice-president of McGraw-Hill Book Co. was John W. Wight. Johnnie has been with the company since 1939 when he joined the staff as a salesman. During the war, he served in the Navy in charge of V-12 medical and dental training programs. Prior to his recent promotion, he has been editor of engineering books in the college department, general manager of the technical writing service, editor-in-chief of the industrial and business book department, and general manager of the Blakiston Division of McGraw-Hill.

'37 Women—"Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Corwin, Jr. request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Phyllis Marie to Charles Thorne Rogers III Saturday, the twenty-ninth of March at ten o'clock at St. Felix Church, Clifton Springs, New York. Reception two o'clock." When I read the engraved invitation I thought there must be some mistake! Surely little "Re" Corwin couldn't be getting married! Why, I distinctly remember the day she was born, not more than a couple years back. Oh come now, it couldn't have been back in 1938 that she was born here in Dayton while "Dud" (Hotel '35) was running the Moraine Country Club. Not even creaking bones and the dismal weather we've had this winter have made me feel so ancient and conscious of the rapid passage of the years.

There was also an invitation to the family wedding breakfast; after all, as Classmate Phyl Weldin Corwin, mother of the bride, pointed out, I'm practically a member of the family. Didn't I help wait for this child to be born and didn't I help sweat out her admission to Cornell? "Re" is a Junior at Cornell in Biochemistry and a member of Chi Omega. The lucky bridegroom is from Lysander; has had three years in the Service, will graduate from Hotel School in June. (Gosh, "Re," isn't it confusing to have grandfather, father, brother, and husband all named Charles?)

I hated to miss that wedding, but I had agreed many months ago to speak in York, Pa. that same week. Shades of last Reunion, wouldn't you know I'd come down with sore throat and lose my voice just about plane time? But I went anyway, croaking briefly over the phone between planes at the Pittsburgh airport to Louise McLean Dunn. (That was my '37 Flip the Frog voice, "Looney"! "Looney" said Tommy started a new job February 16 with Morrow, Mendenhall & Miller of Washington, Phoenix, and Los Angeles and she and the children were going to visit him Easter week end in Washington, D.C., where he is temporarily assigned. After school is out in June, they'll move "somewhere," depending on Tommy's assignment. I tried to reach Jackie Hecht White '39 but she was out of town. In York, I was given the royal guest treatment at the lovely new home of Rosalie Neumann Hoffman '38. I quavered through the talk and hope I gave my audience some understanding of what life is really like in Russia. (I wish you'd all go see for yourselves because from the questions I'm asked I fear that most Americans are not getting the real picture from the stuff they've been reading.) I also had a wonderful time learning things from Rosalie's boys, Billy 11 and Richard 7. The latter is fascinated by an authority on plumbing, and you'd be surprised what I now know about sewers, cesspools, copper pipes, corrosion, downspouts, etc.

Thanks to those of you who sent me clippings from various papers about the death of our honorary Classmate, Dean R. Louise Fitch. I'm sure "The Deanie" would be touched by your comments. She always wanted to be kept up on what you were doing and commented on your accomplishments whenever she received our Class newsletters. I realize that you who wrote expected me to "do a column" about "The Deanie," but its hard to write about her in one little column. She was a unique personality and her life would make a fascinating and quite humorous book. Next time, though, I'll try to put on paper some remembrances of that most remarkable lady.

Well, spring finally broke through in the Nieuw Amsterdam area, but it sure was a long haul. About the time the rains were sweeping everything away but Rockefeller Center and the Statue of Liberty, I sloshed my way to a new address, noted above. My new phone number, for those of you who'd like to help keep my client, AT&T, in business, is Murray Hill 6-1287.

Had a couple of drinks with Bruce Rogers not long ago. I arrived in Philadelphia to find my hotel reservation non-existent and a convention going on in town, and Bruce was good enough to put me up for the night at his place, the Hotel Essex, of which he's manager. I still get a kick talking with the hotel fraternity about their problems, even though I haven't set foot in one professionally since closing the Hotel School door behind me.

Here's a note from Woody Clow: "At present am general manager, Impact Extension Div., (now, what do you spose that is?), P. R. Mallory Co., at Memphis. Have two youngsters, Bruce, age 7, and Karen, age 4, and one dog. Can't forget the wife, Eleanor Little '38. We uns like it down here in the sunny South and would hate to move back to the frozen North again. Not many Cornellians here; we are a rarity, but the Ivy League schools do command a great deal of respect (except in football)." Woody's address is 5361 S. Angela Lane, Memphis, Tenn.

Bernie Bachman is now a junior partner in the accounting firm of Puder & Puder, Newark, N.J. He was also elected first vice-president of the Jewish Community Center of Verona. Bernie lives at 20 Montclair Ave., Verona, N.J. Jerry Reisman says he's "happy to report our eldest son, Daniel, is now a Freshman at Cornell. Undecided about goal; possibly law or dentistry. Our seventeenth year in Peekskill, a friendly town on the Hudson. Have just added a new ward to our veterinary hospital. Our combined hospital and home is now fourteen rooms. I am fortunate in having a good Cornell home economist (Jennie Serotoff '37) to manage all this."

Word has traveled o'er sea and land from Warren Bohner in Australia. "You can imagine that we are somewhat out of touch with developments in the USA, not to mention Cornell, at least first hand. We can keep up via Newsweek & ALUMNI NEWS, but that leaves lots of gaps. Our company (Caterpillar of Australia) is progressing well, with our own manufacturing production scheduled to begin. The chances of getting back to Ithaca for our 20th seem mighty slender at this point, as we were 'home' last Xmas and won't be due again 'til '59. We are enjoying this country immensely and are planning to continue touring to make the most of the opportunity. Meanwhile, say 'Hi' for me to any of the old gang you might see."

Mention of Reunion reminds me: keep the dates in mind, June 13, 14, & 15, and be on the lookout for the separate reports and imprecations I'm sending you. Be with you again soon!

Don Rankin reports that he is still (second year) with E. R. Squibb in New Brunswick, N.J., where he is associate medical director. Don says he has three daughters; the last one's name is Alexa, which is indicative of his feelings regarding a potential heir. Bob Cline says that his business is doing nicely, considering present conditions. His wife was one of the 128 winners of Better Homes & Gardens home improvement contests. Congratulations! Bob can be reached at Midwest Optical Supply, Box 842, Dayton 1, Ohio.

Jim Rankin lives at 10109 Greeley Ave., Silver Spring, Md., and is vice-president of Executive House, Inc., managing the Roosevelt Hotel in Washington, D.C. When in Washington, stay at the Roosevelt. Harold Cuning boasts of four girls and is living at Gilbert Road, New Hartford. Whitney Irish writes and I quote: "Still a bachelor running my father's farm with my brother and more or less hired help. Now and then get off the farm to take a part in such local outfits as church trustees, volunteer fire company, Holstein Club, County Farm Bureau, etc. Saw Bill Bensley at the State Holstein convention in Syracuse in January. He has a herd of cows with an enviable record, is a director of the New York State Farm Bureau and looks as though his wife must be a good cook."

Harold Kappel moved to 6 Sycamore Street, Holyoke, Mass., from Interlaken; he also moved from fruit farming to property-owning. He says that it's like living in a harem after his third daughter was born January 19. What about Harold Cuning and his four? Kappel is getting active in civic affairs; appointed co-chairman 1958 Holyoke Combined Jewish Appeal, a captain in the 1959 Holyoke YMCA campaign, a committeeman on the Holyoke Chamber of Commerce visitors and convention committee. He is a member of the Cornell Club of Western Massachusetts.

George F. Mueden, Jr. writes from 19 E. 98th St., New York City 29, as follows: "Acquired a new hobby last summer: acting as an observer aboard cruisers in predicted log races on the Long Island Sound and off the Jersey coast. Highly recommended as a way to escape the city heat."

Thomas C. Hassett is project planner, graphic reproduction, for General Electric in Utica. He is active in scouting and is head of the PLAV Little League. His wife, Eleanor Dodge '39, teaches chemistry at Whitesboro Central High School. Son Thomas is a freshman in Utica Free Academy; sons James and Steve are in seventh and sixth grades.

Saul M. Katz and Duane Clark have adjoining offices in the US Department of Agriculture Foreign Agricultural Service. Saul is program coordinator for Latin America and Duane serves in the same capacity for Far East. Additional word about the Katz family is that a son born December 17 brings the total to three boys and no daughters. They all live at 3229 Gunston Rd., Alexandria, Va.

'41 Men—Watch for an important announcement in the next issue of the News concerning our Class and its progress on the Group Subscription Plan. The list of underwriters continues to grow. Although our goal has not yet been reached, it does appear to be within striking distance. The next few weeks will tell the story. Have you sent in your agreement? If not, please act now!

John R. Borst, RD 2, Sherburne, is general manager of Sheffield Chemical Division of National Dairy. John mentions being a director of Rotary Club. Congratulations from a fellow Rotarian! Mrs. Borst is the former Lucile Heise '42.

Creative supervisor of copy for Bryan Houston, Inc. is G. Emerson Cole, 74 Stanton Road, Darien, Conn. Em commutes daily to New York City and occasionally from there to the West Coast to film TV commercials. The Cole family includes two daughters, ages 15 and 11.

Dr. Walter T. Scudder, 117 Laurel Drive, Sanford, Fla., performs vegetable crop research for University of Florida at its experimental station. Walt reminds us of his Northern background, but he seems destined for the South, having spent several years in South Carolina prior to his present location, all to his liking.

From Box 412, Lajas, Puerto Rico, Donald S. Erdman writes of his work as a fishery biologist for the department of agriculture & commerce of the government of Puerto Rico. Don has been engaged in a marine sportfishery survey supported by the Federal Dingell-Johnson program of fish restoration.

'42 Men—Congratulations to F. Cushing Smith; Cushing was recently elected director of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana in Chicago, Ill. Undoubtedly, this represents a well-deserved step in his progress with Standard Oil.

Appointment of Harry M. St. John as assistant general manager has been announced by the recently-formed Sundstrand Turbo Division of Sundstrand Machine Tool Co., Rockford, Ill., manufacturers of precision aircraft equipment. Harry is a prominent member of several technical organizations, including the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences and the American Rocket Society. In addition, he has served as chairman of both the Society of Aeronautical Engineers technical committee on aircraft engine equipment and the Aircraft Industries Association technical committee on power plant control.

John P. Welsh joined the Aerojet-General Corp. in Sacramento, Cal. as a quality control engineer in the solid propellant rocket plant. John resides with his wife and four children at 2100 Florin Rd., Sacramento, Cal.

Received a nice note from Stuart A. Allen's wife, Beverly Ham Allen '42. Stu is a partner with his brother in certified seed potato and green bean farming. Aside from being active in fraternal and civic organizations, he is president of the Oneida County Extension Service, secretary of Oneida County Farm Bureau, vice-president of Tri-County Bean Co-op, and a member of the New York State Agricultural Advisory Committee. Stu and Bev have two children, Diane and James.

Dr. Samuel H. Baron, history department chairman of Grinnell College, has been awarded a fellowship for a year's work in the East Asian studies program at Harvard and will be on leave from Grinnell next year. Financed by the Ford Foundation and administered by Harvard, the purpose of the program under which the fellowship is granted is to promote the expansion and improvement of teaching in the field of Far Eastern studies. Eligible for the program are professors who teach courses in this area but have had little opportunity for extended study of the subject.

As you probably noticed, the column did not appear in several issues and this is due only to the fact that there is a lack of news. To those who may have forgotten, a note addressed to me at just Ossining is sufficient.

—Bob Cooper

'44, '47 BCE—Robert L. Schiffman is an assistant professor, teaching soil mechanics and foundation engineering, at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy.

'45 MSinEng—Hugh W. Howard became September 1 manager of the plastics division engineering planning at Monsanto Chemical Co., Springfield, Mass. He retired from the US Navy August 1 after twenty years of service. He lives at 163 Western Avenue, Longmeadow, Mass.

'42 MSinEd, '48 PhD—Manolo Rodriguez-Diaz is chairman of the department of romance languages at Alfred University in Alfred. Last year, he represented Alfred at the International Institute of Ibero-American Literature Congress held in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

'49 Men—We received an announcement from my old roommate, Hal Warendorf, that he and his wife, M.J., have added a "new associate in their office." The new associate has been named Jeffrey Marinus, weighed in at one ounce shy of nine pounds March 5, and is keeping things hopping at 17033 Madison Avenue., Madison, N.J., Apt. 32. Another new arrival is the daughter of Paul E. Gillette. She was born November 26 and is keeping her parents walking floors at 271 Williams Ave., Hasbrouck Heights, N.J. Grandparents are Paul Gillette '19 and Anita Wolff Gillette '20 of 202 Linden Ave., Ithaca. A new addition to the family and a new address are boasted by Richard M. King. Their first child, Nancy Ellen, arrived November 30, and the new mailing address is 370 First Ave., New York 10 (Peter Cooper Village). Dick is an advertising space salesman for The American Weekly.

From Detroit comes word of one of our Classmates who is really being recognized for his accomplishments. Walter J. McCarthy, Jr. has recently been chosen as one of the five outstanding young men in the entire State of Michigan by the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is head of the nuclear engineering section of Atomic Power Development Associates, Inc., and his department includes reactor physics, reactor control, overall plant control, shielding, health physics, and nuclear safety. His address is 6910 West Dartmoor, Birmingham, Mich. Jim Robb sends along his new home address: 19866 Buckhaven Lane, Glen Brook, Saratoga, Cal. Jim went west for "the beautiful weather," and purchased the Glen R. Baker Co., a general insurance brokerage office. He has renamed it the J. D. Robb Agency, and he collars the unsuspecting at 415 American Trust Bldg., San Jose, Cal. He reports that he met and had dinner recently with George Nixon, who is manager for foods at the large IBM plant in San Jose.

Also on the West Coast is John Zinn, whose home has been in Berkeley, Cal., where he is with University of California. He has recently been employed by the university's Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory as a chemist, and has another of those jobs that a poor Arts student like your columnist can hardly write, let alone understand. His division is concerned with intricate physical studies of nuclear weapon systems and the behavior of nuclear weapon components during explosions. He is married and has one son, but we don't have a current address for him.

On the home front, Jin and I took our two girls to Florida for a late winter vacation, having left our son in Philadelphia with the in-laws. Florida was wonderful, but the getting there was another thing. We probably set a reverse record of some sort, taking seven days to drive from Cleveland by way of Philly. Eleven car loads of frozen tourists spent the night with a farmer and his ten children in Delaware, thanks to drifting snows in the first of the two great snows in the East this spring. An Army tank brought food to us and it was all quite exciting, especially to the children. We all came through with flying colors, but next time we'll take beds over sleeping on bare floors. While in the sunny South, we drove into Miami to visit with Al Quinton in his law office in the Ainsley Bldg. He and his partner are moving to the new DuPont Plaza as soon as that beautiful building is completed this spring. While they prepare your lawsuit, you can dock your boat outside, take a dip in the pool, etc. As we left, he was mumbling something about "bathing suits, law suits, etc."—Jack Rupert

'50 Women—Winky Bull (Mrs. Gottfried Neuhaus) mailed in her contribution to the Alumni Fund from Bogota, Colombia and sent her new address along: c/o Undra Ltda., Apto. Aereo 4597, Bogota, Colombia, South America. "We are here for three years, more or less, where my husband is working for the Colombian branch of Schering Corp., an American pharmaceutical firm. We have three children, aged 4, 2, and 6 months, and are settled in a house here. The city is very high and the climate wonderful, like fall all year around."

Peggy Cramp, formerly a fellow denizen of the rocky crags of Manhattan Island, has moved herself to Denver, Colo., where she has become a wholehearted enthusiast of the West. "Right now I can't see going back to the East," she writes. "The climate is more than agreeing with me. Skiing is only fifty miles away. I went to Aspen for ten days at Christmas; absolute paradise, no crowds and near perfect conditions! All thoughts of Bromley disappeared. I am now the newly-created statistics department of the Hamilton Management Corp., and I love every minute. I can walk to work and graze at snow-capped peaks, instead of dashing for a subway or bus and gazing at dingy buildings." Her apartment is at 1260 Sherman Street in Denver.

Another enthusiastic Coloradan is Gretel Russel Stouffer (Mrs. Sam) who lives in Yoder. The Stouffers raise Hereford cattle on their ranch. "It's been a very good year for cattlemen out here," they report. Gretel has a new baby girl, born February 10, in addition to four-year-old Ann and three colliers. Nancy Jean was born February 23 to Dr. and Richard Hallstead of Canandaigua. Mrs. Hallstead was the former Ruth Merrill.

A chatty letter from Beverley Collins (Mrs. George P. Adams) gives a glimpse into life back here in the northeastern United States, in contrast to all the world travelers and Coloradans mentioned above. "Skiing (and have we ever got snow, snow, beautiful snow), bridge, finishing a room on the second floor, and church activities keep us going. Then there's my latest project, learning to play the piano. They tell me I'm starting too late in life to become a concert pianist, but then I'm so thrilled to be playing 'She'll Be Comin' Around the Mountain' that it really doesn't matter. The male element is strictly in the majority in this house. There's John, 4½; Charley, 3; and Bobby, 1. I've always known I liked boys, but now I like them even better. They're so wild and woolly." The Adams's address is 22 Randall Terrace, Hamburg.

With this column I've temporarily run out of news. Why don't you remedy the situation by writing me at 306 East 52d Street, New York City.—Marion Steinmann

'51 Men—At last report, we were running pretty well in the Alumni Annual Giving, but were trailing '52 men. Do your part and let's get ahead of them by windup time.

From Westbury, at 29 Legend Lane, comes news of the arrival of Andrew Dennehy, son of Eugene Dennehy. Father is in labor relations with Sunshine Biscuits. Another baby derbyite, Pete Spencer, reports the arrival of child #3, Paul, in March in Cleveland. Finally (for this column) Al Underberg checks in with a recent second daughter in Rochester.

With the Air Force in Thule, Greenland, is Captain Paul Curtis, occasionally of 1626 5th Avenue North, Great Falls, Mont. At University Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, Stanley Hart is undergoing muscle transplant surgery to restore use of his arms after having polio two years ago. Despite this handicap he spent last year at Ohio State as an assistant in research in grain marketing. At the State University Teachers College in Oswego, Robert Palmer has been appointed director of the college food service.

'52 Women: Mrs. C. D. Graham, Jr.
2211 The Plaza,
Schenectady 9, N. Y.

Right smack in the middle of the winter's meanest snowstorm came a batch of absolutely mouth-watering resort literature from Nancy Convery Young. Nancy and a good share of her family are busily engaged in the hotel business in Edgartown, Mass., on the island of Martha's Vineyard. As Nancy tells it: "David Prada, 4 lbs. 10 oz., arrived November 27. He was supposed to be a girl, to round out the group of Billy, 6, Debby, 5, and Tony, 2; however—! We are just about to move into our newly-built home, across the street from the Carol Apartments, which I manage in the summer. Arthur [husband Arthur W. Young, Jr., Hotel '52] is still first v-p in charge of everything, along with my brother, Leo Convery '52, at the Harborside Inn. Come and see our new swimming pool at the harbor's edge! We've had quite a few honeymooners from the younger Classes at Cornell. Hope a few '52ers will drop the kids and come too; first or second honeymoon, all welcome!"

Howard '51 and Dorothy Rosenberger Jensen, who have been living in Royal Oak, Mich. while Howard picks up sales engineering training with Mechanical Handling Systems, expect to put the training to good use when the course ends this month. Dottie, meanwhile, has been using her persuasive powers on daughter Nancy Lynn, born October 21.

A note from Nancy Elwin Pegues announces the arrival of son Robert Fielding March 30. Robert's daddy is Frank Pegues, PhD '51. Nancy adds that close neighbors at 215 Selby Blvd., Worthington, Ohio, are Bill '50 and Hilda Sauter White '51, and their two children, Carla 3, and Eric 1½. The Pegues live at 281 Selby Blvd.

Another potential third-generation Cornellian, Bradley Hamilton Richards, was born February 27. Parents are Joan (Schmeckpeper) and Don Richards '51. Proud granddaddy is Henry Schmeckpeper '26. The Richards live at 16A Rye Colony, Rye.

Several letters beginning "Dear Mrs. Graham" with apologies for the formality, mean I'd better reveal myself as the former Alison Bliss. So please write to "Dear Alison" and most of all, please write!

'52 LLB—Neil Underberg, counsel to Eastern Shopping Centers, Inc., has been elected a vice-president of the corporation. His address is 118-14 Eighty-third Avenue, Kew Gardens 15.

'53 Men: Dr. Samuel D. Licklider
Colorado General Hospital
Denver 20, Colo.

As seems fitting, this and subsequent columns will be largely composed of news from those men who have shown their loyalty through the payment of Class dues in this Fifth Reunion year.

Philip Severin, Jr. is now living at 583 Daytona Parkway #6, Dayton 6, Ohio. 85 Nottingham Terrace, Buffalo 16 is the new address of Lee R. Saperston. Peter Weissman, 78 Fawn Dr., Stamford, Conn., has purchased his own house and has a second son, Kenneth Alan, born January 9, to help make a home of it. Peter's older son, Marc, is approaching 3.

6641 Parkway Circle, Dearborn, Mich. sends forth the loyal reply of old SUNman Beverley Benson. Franklin Ufford, married July 27, mails his dues from Pitcher. Keeping in touch with his Alma Mater through the Cornell Club of Cincinnati, Charles Rodes, 2880 Linwood Ave., Cincinnati 8, Ohio, is toeing the mark for Procter & Gamble after three years aboard the USS Knapp.

John D. Twina has moved to 1211 Malinda Rd., Orelan, Pa. Robert E. Freyer's address is 2565 Grand Ave., Bellmore. 503 Elkins Ave., Elkins Park, Pa. is the new abode of Carl Schneider. Sean Michael, ½; Paul, 3; and Linda, 1½, help occupy 5278 N. Berkeley Blvd., the residence of Paul J. Downey and Roberta Friend Downey '53.

With Procter & Gamble of South America, Robert Messner lives with wife and 2½ children at Apartado 2745, Caracas, Venezuela; Bob is returning to the States for a month in June.

Sales technologist with the duPont Co., Richard S. Noyes lives at Apt. 2, Park Lynn Apts., Delaware Blvd., Wilmington 5, Del. He and wife Lois Patterson Noyes '56 have just had a baby daughter, Dianne, added to son Scott.

Attorney Lawrence M. Ginsburg now has offices at 717 Loew Bldg., Syracuse 2. Edmund F. "Ned" Nolan, Apt. 10, 348 Beacon St., Boston 16, Mass., has recently been assigned to the Boston office of Armstrong Cork Co. He sees Terry Miskell and Dwight Robinson 'round the town.

Robert S. Bickley, 40 West 67th St., New York City 23, graduates this June from Columbia's school of business. Living at 25 Randall Place, Pelham Manor, William F. Gratz is currently tackling a major plant modernization program in the Yonkers sugar refining business. Bill recently talked with Stan Weissman, who practices veterinary medicine in New York. Roy T. Norton sends his address as 79 Central Avenue, Apt. 317, Dayton 6, Ohio.

Since finishing the Master's at the Wharton School of Finance Robert D. Corrie has been working in branch administration with Meadowbrook National Bank of Nas-2101 Hillgrove Pkwy.

Midland, Mich.

I had a nice note from Mrs. Arno D. Scheffler '52 (Marjorie Shaw) telling of the arrival of their second child, Kim, December 25. Kim joins brother Todd who will be two years old in July. The Schefflers live at 32 Knollwood Drive, New Shrewsbury, N.J. Arno works for Lehman Brothers in New York City.

Allan Underberg '51 and Mrs. Underberg (Joyce Wisbaum) announce the arrival of Amy Elizabeth March 3. Mark Alan Underberg is two-and-a-half years old. The Underbergs' address is 319 Chelmsford Road, Rochester 18.

Mrs. Tommy Miller Lockard, Greenbrook Road, North Caldwell, N.J., wrote a grand letter telling of their present home which is a converted dairy on what was once a farm estate, and is now a little community within a community. The Lockards' daughter Christianne Jewell was born April 9, 1957. Tommy wrote that they "see Claire Engle quite often and saw Bert and Ellen Meitzel Anderson '54 around Christmas. They are now living in Brooklyn. . . Heard from Timmy Ramsey at Christmas. She is teaching near home. . . Also a note from Sue Finn Smith, who recently moved into a new home which her husband, Don, designed."

For this column, I am indebted to Mrs. R. A. Lincoln (Anya Kurotchkin) who heeded my plea for news with the following letter. Thank you, Anya!

"You say you want news? Only logical thing to do is to go through the address book and tell what one knows:

"Midge Myers Berner and her husband, Sten, MBusAd '55, are at Hinds 432, Sweden. They have three daughters: Isolde, 4, Sonja, 2, and Ruby, born last November.

"Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brauner (Ellen Reed) stopped by here enroute East from Tucson, Ariz. We had a wonderful visit. Their address: 50 Stuyvesant Ave., Larchmont.

"Mr. and Mrs. Gren Boicoreert (Rosemary Hammer) have a new address: 2138-B 34th Street, Los Alamos, N.Mex. Gren is a research physicist at Los Alamos. They have a daughter, Paula Christine, born last summer.

"In the commissary on Sandia Base, I ran into Noel Alexander Benson. She and her husband, Lieutenant James H. Benson '55, are at 166 Perimeter Drive SE, Albuquerque, N.Mex., while he is stationed here at Sandia Base.

"Got a wedding announcement of Ariadne Plumis's marriage to Robert Beck. Their address: 5742 Maryland Ave., Chicago 37, Ill. Bob is working on a degree in physics at University of Chicago.

The smart place to stay in NEW ORLEANS

bow. They're now living at Apt. 5N, c/o Friedman, 225 E. 74th Street, New York City. Ruth Behrens's address is 204 College Avenue, Ithaca. She's at General Electric Advanced Electronics Center as editor of their daily plant paper.

"Occasionally hear from Noga Gelman. Her address: 1651 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn 25. She's a medical research assistant at a hospital.

"Mr. and Mrs. (Evie Nagler) Barron Hirsch '54 are at 132 South 39th Street, Philadelphia 4, Pa., while he is finishing his senior year in dental school. Evie has a very glamorous job as a buyer. We hope they'll be coming out this way this summer.

"Tish Holloway, 2 E. Melrose Avenue, Baltimore 12, Md., is teaching. She wrote a very enthusiastic letter about her last summer's trip to Europe.

"Bobbie Behrens Knowlton and her husband, Ken '54, and their year-old son, Kenneth Daniel, are in Ithaca while Ken is doing graduate work.

"Jackie Hosford Kellner, 282-C Garfield Ave., Collingswood, N.J., and Gene '53 and two children, Margo and John, are just outside Philadelphia. Gene works for RCA. Lillian Lucas Milofsky has a new address: 4112 Tuam, Houston 5, Tex. She is with the Cancer Research Hospital.

More quotes from Anya's letter in the next issue.

A short word from Diana Heywood Calby with an urgent plea for contributions, however small, to the Alumni Fund. She also sends thanks to her committee which includes Ann Klauber Berson, Joan Clifton Bosshardt, Alice Green Fried, Barbara Johnson Gottling, Mary Ann Kane, Jean Lanigan, Mary Lou Treharne Warren, and Jane Barber Wood.

'55 Women: Mrs. Harry C. Olsen
ROICC Area III
APO 284, New York, N.Y.

The news this month runs mostly to the announcing of many little heirs. Starting with the Robert Schers (Evelyn Holland) who live at 10 William St., Great Neck, a daughter was born December 14. They are also announcing that Bob passed his Bar exam in January and will be among the nation's lawyers soon. Evie's final statement, "Would love to hear from alums in the area." Another December baby was born to the John Woottons '56 (Ruth McDevitt) on Christmas Eve. Baby, John Randolph, and parents are now comfortably settled in their new home at 115 Overlook Ave., Boonton, N.J.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond E. Seay, Jr., Grad '53-'56, (Heather Duncan) had their second child and first son, Edmond E. Seay III, February 15. The Seays live at 12 Whitney St., Northboro, Mass. Walter I. L. Duncan '20 is the maternal grandfather. James and Carolyn Wheeler Williams '55 have found that prices have gone up since their arrival home from Germany where their first child, Kathleen Jean, was born August 26, 1956 for a grand total of $7. Kevin James who arrived March 2 was a bit more on the costly side!

The Williamsses live at 26266 Lehigh Ave., in Inkster, Mich., where Jim is a railroad perishable inspector ("fruit and vegetable pincher") for the Michigan railways.

From Rudy and Ben Hawkins '55 (Ruth Clarke) of Benson, Vt. comes word of their latest, Timothy Clarke, who was born March 9. Ben was recently discharged from the Army and has resumed work on his farm in Benson.

Radcliffe College has announced that Claire Paisner Doubrovsky has been awarded the MA. Claire lives in Waban, Mass.

Nancy Farish of 800 Park Ave., Manhasset (for now anyway), wrote that she and Jim Bass were getting married April 19. Jim is a Stanford grad who works for an electronics lab in Stamford, Conn. Nancy has a position with Hope Skillman in New York selling cotton fabrics.

That does it on news for now, would appreciate help (news, that is) from you all so that we can finish up the year with a few full issues.

'56 Men: Keith R. Johnson
9 Park Ave., Apt. A
New York 16, N.Y.

An interesting letter from Bob Safford will make my life easier this time; he's hereby nominated for the post, such as it is, of chief of West Coast correspondents (Camp Pendleton division), Class of '56.

"It seems that Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Cal., is becoming quite a haven for Cornellians of '56 vintage. To wit: Don Curtis (11926 Sproul St., Norwalk, Cal.) and I work together in the Tactical Air Control Center of the 3d Marine Air Wing. Quite interesting, this air control, but for a two-year period only.

"Steve Hall (MOQ 253, Apt. 3, MCAS El Toro, Cal.) is getting the benefit of some pretty fine experience; he's in charge of the officers' club here. Apparently he's doing very well. The three of us are first lieutenants now and all finish up in June. All of us are married; Steve and wife had a baby girl, Donna, in October, and my wife and I became proud parents of a boy, Robert, Jr., last March.

"John McCurrach (MWSG 37, MABS-37, MCAS El Toro, Cal.) and his wife, the former Nancy Dade '56, followed us out here two months later. He's in supply; due to get his silver bar soon and out in September.

"Also a little news via US mail. Have seen Jim Gustin several times; his ship (USS Colahan, DD 658, FPO, San Francisco) has been in San Diego recently after spending six months in the Far East. He got back to the States in December after a wild and good time.

"Don Crean (115-C Baker Village, Columbus, Ga.) was married in December and took his wife to Albany, Ga., where he's weathering a two-year enlisted hitch. The name of the camp there eludes me; I imagine you know it. (We don't, but it won't be long now.)"

Bob's own address is MOQ 254, Apt. 11, MCAS El Toro, Cal.)

Pete Hearn has forwarded a letter from Jerry Tarr, who's now being entrusted with the transport of all sorts of hush-hush documents to and from Wheelus Air Force in Tripoli, Libya. He reports on temperatures (in the shade, yet) in the vicinity of 130°, two weeks' skiing at Kitzbuehl, gustatory delights in Rome, and sundry other items. Address: Second Lieutenant Jere-miah Tarr A03067356, 8th Air Postal Squadron, APO 231, New York City.

Ted Blomquist joined Rohm & Haas, a Philadelphia, Pa. chemical company, earlier this year, and is working with its accounting control group; which gets him to the company's various plants throughout the US on a fairly regular basis. I expect he can be reached in care of the company at Washington Square, Philadelphia.

Your correspondent is now in uniform for six months, and has asked Steve Kittenplan to take over the reins temporarily. His address will accompany his first effort, in the next issue.

'57 Men: David S. Nye
12 Kimball Road
Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Well, spring has arrived, even in Ithaca I understand, though there is probably still snow in the corners up there. Jim Macmillan writes of his engagement to Joan Reinberg '58. Jim is a graduate preceptor, which at Cornell would be counselor to Freshmen, at Colgate. His address is 33 Hamilton Street, Hamilton, "where the winters are more wintry than those experienced in Ithaca."

Fred Krieger, Jr. is making "Bigger & Better Pills" as a control chemist with Merck & Co. in Rahway, N.J. Before marriage later in 1958, Fred expects to spend six months with Uncle Sam. He lives at 80 Inwood Ave., Upper Montclair, N.J. Bob Coffin also works for Merck in New Jersey, while living at 49 W. 72d Street, New York City 23. Bob and I spent an enjoyable evening together at the ILR Seminar in New York a few weeks ago, being the sole representatives of our respective recent ILR classes.

Tom Keating, Jim Drennan and Tony Cashen as well as numerous "old" (Class of '56 and back) Delta U's were in the City for an alumni meeting and dinner April 3. Howard Citrin, 5115 Avenue I, Brooklyn 34, is a student at the New York College of Medicine. Ernest Irvin is with the food service division at the Naval Hospital at Camp Pendleton, Cal. He has recently purchased a home in Vista where he resides with his wife.

Dave Harvey lives at South Quaker Hill Road, Pawling. He is a laboratory technician and assistant with Pawling Rubber Corp. On the side, he has been initiated into the Masons and is now steward of the Harlem Valley Lodge; has been appointed to the official board of the Pawling Methodist Church and sings in the choir there; is active in local Republican politics; and last summer spent evenings at the local summer stock theatre. Pawling is a little town, but it looks as though there is plenty of activity for Dave.

Finally, back at Cornell, Kerry Washburn and John Black are both now in the Class of '60, Veterinary College, and Dave Hanselman and John Whitaker, Jr. are working on graduate degrees in the Department of Conservation. Dave is doing the "Cornell Farm and Home Hour" WHCU program, and is engaged to Mary Costa '58. Jim Stansfield, ChemE, is sweating out (not too much I hope), his last term in Engineering. Don't forget that most June '58 Engineering students, and for that matter any and all who entered Cornell in September '53, owe their loyalty (and money) to the Class of '57.

NECROLOGY

G(eorge) Harris Collingwood, assistant Extension professor of Forestry from 1916-23, died April 2, 1958, in Washington, D.C. He was a forester with the US Department of Agriculture, American Forestry Association, and National Lumber Manufacturers Association. '04 AB—George Jean Nathan, dean of Broadway's drama critics and for many years its most colorful one, April 8, 1958, at his home in the Royalton Hotel, 44 West Forty-fourth Street, New York City 18. With the late H. L. Mencken, Nathan delighted in needling the American conscience. His active collaboration with Mencken began when they served as co-editors of Smart Set magazine, 1914-23. In 1924, they founded American Mercury. Nathan wrote more than thirty books, most of them on the theater, and contributed articles to numerous publications here and abroad. He was a founder and editor of the American Spectator and a contributor to Encyclopedia Britannica. From 1942-51, he published annually The Theatre Book of the Year with his impressions and reviews of the season. Nathan was business manager of the Cornell Widow when the late Romeyn Berry '04 was editor. The 1904 Classbook says: "George . . . started in to make clever remarks four years ago. He did it then for the sake of fun, but now these jokes are 'fillers' for the Widow." He was also a member of the Cornell Daily Sun board in a time when only three members were selected from each Class, Kappa Sigma, Savage Club, Masque, Quill & Dagger. He married actress Julia Haydon in 1955. His will left his entire library to the University. It includes his own notes and manuscripts and letters from authors and playwrights. It also establishes an annual award for the best American dramatic criticism selected by heads of English departments at Cornell, Princeton, and Yale.

'04 AB, '05 MA—Frederick William Oswald, Jr., retired principal of Lafayette and Eastern High Schools in Brooklyn, February 28, 1958, in St. Petersburg, Fla., where his address was 124 Seventeenth Avenue, SE.
