PRICE 12 CENTS

SENIOR singing on the steps of Goldwin Smith started for the year on May 22, and will continue each Thursday and Sunday evening at dusk until Commencement. John L. Sturges '24 of South Worcester is leading the singing this year.

MILLARD W. BALDWIN, JR., '25 of Marcy was elected president of the Electrical Engineering Association in a two days' poll which closed on May 13. Other newly elected officers are Eugene H. Emerson '26 of Ithaca, vice-president; G. Morgan, Jr., '25 of Buffalo, secretary-treasurer; and Alexander Whitney '25 of Philadelphia, Harrison R. Daniels '26 of Dayton, Ohio, and A. J. McConnell '27 of Atlantic City, New Jersey, members of the executive council. The Association also adopted its first permanent constitution.

ALEPH SAMACH on May 21 initiated six members of next year's Junior Class, as this year's chapter became inactive. The new members are Frank O. Affeld, 3d., Brooklyn, Walter S. Beecher of Dansville, Howard H. Hopkins of Youngstown, Charles B. Howland of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Frank Kearney, Jr., of Irvington, New Jersey, and Norman R. Steinmetz of Flushing.

FIVE WRESTLERS from Cornell, it is announced, are taking part in the tryouts in New York on May 27 and 28 for the American Olympic team against representatives from forty organizations. The Cornellians are Walter D. Wright, Jr., '24 of Webster, intercollegiate wrestler in the unlimited class, or the 175-pound; Charles R. Burr '24 of Pawling, 158-pound; Raphael Ayau '24 of New York, 145-pound; Charles M. MacWilliam, Jr., '24 of Perth Amboy, New Jersey, 123-pound; and Charles Cohen '24 of Brooklyn '24, 112-pound.

RUDOLPH T. TERMOHLEN '26 of New York was elected president of the Cross Country Club on May 20; Philip I. Higley '26 of Bergen was chosen vice-president; Howard W. Burden '25 of Homer, secretary; and James G. Craig '26 of New Rochelle, treasurer.

PHI BETA KAPPA undergraduates on May 20 elected Edward J. West '25 of Hudson, president; Sarah L. Ridgway '25 of Long Island City, vice-president; and Wilson L. Farman '25 of Fayetteville, secretary-treasurer.

MARTIN ROSENBLUM '25 of Middletown was adjudged winner from among the ten speakers of the '86 Memorial Prize Contest held in Barnes Hall on May 20. He gave "College and the Common Life" by Alexander Meiklejohn, Ph.D. '97.

THE AGRICULTURE ASSOCIATION on May 20 elected George B. Webber '25 of Pearl River, president; Dorothy Daly '26 of New York, vice-president; Edward S. Foster '25 of Argyle, secretary; and Ralph D. Reid '25 of Argyle, treasurer.

JOSEPH A. LAZARUS '25 of Bayonne, New Jersey, University 116-pound boxing champion, on May 20 defeated Ray Pruett, bantam weight champion of Indiana, in the first trials in Boston, for the American Olympic boxing team. In the semi-finals he defeated Traman of Cleveland, but in the finals he was defeated by Williams of New York, whom he had previously beaten in that city. It is said, however, that Lazarus will accompany the Olympic team to Paris.

CAYUGA LAKE claimed its first victim of the season when Ruth Brachman of Tamaqua, Pennsylvania, a student at the Conservatory of Music, was drowned in the icy water on May 20 after the capsizing of the canoe in which she was riding with two other students of the Conservatory. Attempting to change seats when they were about two hundred yards from shore is said to be responsible for the accident. Conservatory rules forbid students to go on the lake in canoes as do those for the women of the University.

SIGMA XI initiated forty-six new members, forty from the Faculty, and six seniors, on May 16. Professor Floyd K. Richtmyer '04 presided and presented the diplomas. Professor Glenn W. Herrick '96 was toastmaster at the banquet in Risley dining-room, introducing as the principal speaker Professor Roscoe W. Thatcher, Director of the State Experiment Station at Geneva and of research in the College of Agriculture. Professor Rasmus S. Saby, '08-9 grad., spoke for Phi Beta Kappa and Dean Robert M. Ogden '00 for Sigma Xi.

NEW CITY parking regulations resulted in the "tagging" by police of thirty-six student-owned cars parked along Thurston Avenue, just north of the Fall Creek Bridge on May 16. West Avenue has been officially designated as the parking place for students' cars since the enforcement of the rule forbidding them to park on the Campus during class hours.

WESTON M. GEETY '25 of New York is announced as the winner of the prize for the Spring Day poster, which depicts a cowboy riding a bucking bicycle against a vermilion background, with a crew and baseball group at either side. Geety also drew the winning cover design for the Junior Smoker program.

PROFESSOR CARL CRANDALL '12 has been appointed from among one hundred fifty applicants for the post of city engineer of Ithaca, and will start a two years' leave of absence from University duties for that purpose on June 1. He has for some time been compiling a new map of the city which will be the official map. One of his first duties as city engineer will be to design an adequate system of storm sewers for the city.

THE OWLS, honorary debating society, has elected Conrad C. Kirchner '24 of Poughkeepsie, president, and Edward J. Elliott '26 of West New Brighton, secretary-treasurer.

THE POTTER CUP, given by Daniel F. Potter, Jr., '16, for one year to the undergraduate who never having been on a freshman or varsity cross country team makes the best time throughout the spring trials, has been awarded this year to Howard W. Burden '25 of Homer, who won all of the three races of the series.

THE ANNUAL BANQUET of the student officers of the R. O. T. C. was held in Prudence Risley on May 20, with Colonels P. T. Hayne and A. A. Maybach, inspecting officers from the War Department as guests of honor. The representatives of the Inspection Board were in Ithaca making the annual inspection to determine if Cornell is to remain a "distinguished institution." Speakers at the banquet were President Farrand, Colonel Jesse C. Nicholls, Major J. P. Edgerly, and Major H. D. Selton.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for June 1 will be the Rev. Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, minister of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church of Detroit.

THE ANNUAL spring meeting of the Central New York Alumni Association of Phi Beta Kappa is to be held at Colgate University on May 30. The chief speaker will be Dean William H. Crawshaw, of Colgate, who will talk on "Dealings with the Oriental."

FIVE NEW SONGS, one of them written by Carl Schraubstader '24 of New York, author of the popular "Last Night in the Back Porch," are said to have been introduced in the presentation of the annual Savage Club show on May 22.

THE DEBATE COUNCIL on May 19 re-elected Arthur J. Keefe '24 of Elmira its president. Other officers elected were John D. MacDonald '24 of Woodbury, New Jersey, secretary; Charles L. Parsons '26 of Elmira and Herbert J. Runsdorf '27 of New York, jointly, assistant managers. Professors Harold L. Reed, Ph.D. '14, and Lyman P. Wilson were chosen as Faculty representatives of the Council.

ATHLETICS

Yale Baseball Team Defeated

A ninth inning rally which scored two runs gave Cornell victory over Yale in the Spring Day baseball game, and for the first time in years in the series as well, the Red and White having won the first game at New Haven on May 17. Yale assumed an early lead, scoring a run in the first, but Cornell went out ahead in the third inning and by the sixth had a five-run lead. A Yale rally scored three runs in the seventh and Yale actually went ahead in the ninth, but the Cornellians fought their way through to a triumph in their half of that inning.

Most of the game was played through a drizzle, which at times threatened a down-pour, but except for a ten-minute intermission at the end of the third inning, the teams kept at it and put up a creditable exhibition. It was a free hitting game, full of interest.

Milligan pitched effectively, though his support was ragged, five errors being credited against the home team. Yale got nine hits, Cornell five off Scott and five off Ashburn. Scott, who also started against Cornell at New Haven, was as wild in Ithaca as he was at home, allowing eight bases on balls, and hitting three batters.

In the first inning Ewing hit for two bases and was safe on third when Rossumondo dropped Davis's relay. When Capron and Tone mishandled O'Hearn's grounder, Ewing scored. In the third Capron received a base on balls, and scored on Frantz's triple. Dupree was hit by a pitched ball, and Davis tripled bringing Dupree home.

In the fifth Yale scored again. Ingram and Wear singled and Neale bunted safely, filling the bases. Ingram scored when Scott drove a fly to Thomas, but Wear was caught going into third on the play, Thomas to Tone to Rossumondo. Milligan struck Lindley out. Cornell came back in their half of the fifth with two more runs. Thomas and Frantz were passed and Davis was hit by a pitched ball. Tone's scratch single over Hatcher brought Thomas and Frantz home.

In the sixth Ashburn relieved Scott after two Cornellians had been given a free trip to first. A single by Dupree to right field scored Capron.

In the seventh Yale scored thrice, with the help of Cornell misplays. Rossumondo dropped an easy fly by Hatcher. Ingram hit safely to center field and Wear sacrificed.

Neale tripled to right, scoring Hatcher and Ingram. Thomas muffed Lindley's drive to right, Neil scoring, but Capron seized Ewing's drive for the third out.

A home run by Neale into center field in the ninth inning scored Ingram from second and gave Yale a one-run lead. But Cornell was equal to the emergency.

Frantz singled to left field. Dupree grounded safely along the third-base line, when Yale played in looking for a bunt. Davis bunted and Mallory threw wildly to first, Frantz scoring. Tone and Dupree worked the squeeze play, Dupree sliding under Mallory as Ashburn returned Tone's bunt to the plate. The box score:

Frosh Track Team Wins

E. W. Goodwillie, freshman sprinter, made his first appearance in competition in the dual meet with the Penn State freshman team May 17, and turned in two notable performances. He won the hundred-yard dash in ten seconds, and the 220 in 21 1-5. This performance was phenomenal, but Goodwillie was helped by a strong breeze that swept from the southwest. His work, however, was first class, especially since this was his first appearance since last winter, when he injured his leg on the board track. He is not in the best of condition even now.

Werle's victory in the 440 in 50 4-5 seconds, Mason's double victory in the hurdles, and strength in the pole vault, high jump, shot put, and discus were other Cornell features. For Penn Staters Stewart's fine running in the half-mile and mile and Fouracre's running in the two-mile were outstanding accomplishments. Cornell won the meet, 70 to 65.

Colgate Ties Tennis Team

Cornell and Colgate tied at tennis Sunday, score 3 to 3. Each team took two singles and one doubles match.

Harvard Races on Inlet

For the first time in rowing history Courtney Inlet was the scene of an intercollegiate regatta Saturday when the Cornell varsity and freshman crews defeated Harvard's eights over the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths, from the lighthouse to the intercollege boathouse.

Just as in 1922, when bad water conditions caused the abandonment of the two races scheduled with Harvard, Cayuga Lake was too rough for rowing, so rough indeed that three of the intercollege gigs sank on the way down to the starting point, a fourth just managed to make shore, and only one plowed through the waves successfully. But unlike 1922 the two principal races were rowed anyway, the Inlet course being chosen at the suggestion of the Harvard rowing committee and Coach Stevens. After the observation train had waited half an hour at the starting point, word came from the referee that Harvard was willing to row on the Inlet. Cornell agreed, and the train pulled back to the yards. Most of its occupants made their way to the banks of the Inlet, and from the boathouse south to Buffalo Street every point of vantage along both banks was crowded with persons eager to get a glimpse of part of a boat race anyway.

Through the fast falling twilight they could see the last quarter mile of the freshman race, but by eight o'clock, when the varsity crews came swiftly down the shadowed stream, it was so dark that the crews could not be seen more than one hundred yards ahead. That last quarter of a mile must have been trying on the coxswains, but they acquitted themselves creditably, steering a true course all the way.

In the freshman race, which started about 7:40 p. m., both eights got off well Harvard being slightly ahead. At a quarter of a mile the Crimson was well out in front, but the Cornell freshmen spurted and by the mile mark had a boat-length lead. Coming into the narrow finish lane Cornell had open water, but the Harvard yearlings spurted gallantly and were rapidly closing up the gap when the Cornell shell crossed the line. Cornell's margin was half a boat-length.

In the varsity race, which started a little after eight o'clock, Harvard got away first, and rowing a high beat, was soon a full length ahead of the Cornell varsity. Stroke Emerson then called on his men for greater effort and Cornell settled down to overcome that lead. Form and power soon told, and by the quarter mile mark the shells were on even terms. Then it became a case of a superior crew drawing ahead of its rival, stroke for stroke, until about at the Cornell boathouse the Red and White was four lengths to the good. This lead was increased, but approaching the finish Cornell let down a bit, presumably because the exact location of the line had been misjudged. At any rate Harvard picked up but Cornell had three lengths to the good when the bomb announced the end of the race.

The Stone-Cascadilla race was postponed until Monday, and the intercollegiate race is off. These oarsmen had a rather exciting time of it. Arts managed to reach the starting point, but Ag, M.E., Chemistry, and C.E. were swamped between Willow Point and McKinney's. One crew got near enough to shore to swim before abandoning their craft; one was picked up by the Horton and another by a launch, after an icy bath. Cottagers at McKinney's took care of the marooned mariners, fitted them out with improvised costumes, and sent them back to Ithaca on the train.

Official times: Varsity race, Cornell 6:53, Harvard 7:04. Freshman race, Cornell 6:51, Harvard 6:53.

Polo Team Wins

The Polo Team won from Pennsylvania, 4 to 3, in a game played Saturday noon on upper Alumni Field.

Freshman Baseball Team Loses

The freshman baseball team was beaten by the Pennsylvania freshman team, 4 to 2, on Franklin Field on May 17.

TAU BETA PI

At a recent meeting of the Cornell Chapter of Tau Beta Pi the following were elected to membership:

FROM THE ALUMNI

Professor Embury A. Hitchcock '90, dean of the College of Engineering at Ohio State University.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

Edward Francis Bird, Denver, Colo.

Ernest Whiting Bowen, Brockton, Mass.

Frank Lawrence Henderson, Detroit, Mich.

Harold Fitch Kneen, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

James Edward McGrath, Union Springs, N. Y.

Charles Osborn Mackey, Ithaca.

Frederick Clarence Mallery, Owego, N. Y.

CIVIL ENGINEERING

Clarence Gordon Eaton, Tonawanda, N. Y.

Richard Francis Graef, Danbury, Conn.

David Wallace Punzelt, Stamford, Conn.

Herman Greig Veeder, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

Millard Warner Baldwin, Jr., Marcy, N. Y.

John Bradley Cooper, Nunda, N. Y.

Alexander Whitney, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHEMISTRY

Harold Adlard Lovenberg, Summit, N. J.

At the initiation, held on April 24, Dean Kimball was toastmaster and speeches were made by President Farrand and Professor Louis M. Dennis.

A GOLF TEAM from the Faculty recently defeated one made up of students by the score of 9-3.

SPORT STUFF

On Spring Day the men of Cornell waged a mighty battle with the elements and against overwhelming odds turned apparent defeat into a very sporting draw. Rain, hurricanes, moments of bright skies, heat, dust, and a little snow. The gale blew down the circus tents again and again. Nevertheless the circus was held with indomitable compets hanging with white lips and bloodshot eyes to the windward guy ropes. It rained on the ball game and then rained some more. But the ball game was played just the same while the soaked thousands shivered with cold and apprehension in the stands.

At 4:30 the lake was flat and the intercollegiate gigs were ordered to the start. Then out of the north—the wind had previously blown from the south—came a hurricane that in twenty minutes turned Caugya into a mad sea of foam. Three boats were swamped and their crews with difficulty rescued. The observation train went down the lake holding on its to hat and then returned. It took no weather prophet to tell no races would be rowed that day. But the races were held. On the Inlet in the dusk the varsity and freshman crews struggled through to victory between rows of bonfires.

As a carnival Spring Day in 1924 was a washout. As a sporting event wherein good nature and guts prevailed in the most discouraging conditions it was a noteworthy success. R. B.

MEDICAL ALUMNI DINE

Alumni of the Medical College in New York held their twenty-sixth annual reunion banquet in the roof garden of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, on May 22. Two hundred fifty attended. The speakers included Dr. Farrand, Dr. James Ewing, professor of pathology, and Dean Walter Niles '02. Dr. Charles A. Gordon '05 was toastmaster.

THE SAMPSON FINE ARTS PRIZE, which consists of the income from a fund of $1,000 established in 1909 by Professor Martin W. Sampson for "intelligent appreciation of the graphic and plastic arts and architecture," was this year awarded to Priscilla C. Ogden '24 of Ithaca. The competition is in written criticism of reproductions of the fine arts.

FOLLOWING a meeting at the Old Armory at which they were addressed by Professor Charles L. Durham '99 and Lieutenant Theodore F. Twesten, the Freshman Class on May 23, the night before Spring Day, marched to upper Alumni Field and solemnly burned their caps. One of the features of the program was the presentation to the class by Proctor Twesten of a large wooden "Frosh cap" thirty feet in diameter, which was placed on top of the funeral pyre.

THE DELICATE BROWN

The fifth annual "Delicate Brown" dinner given by Sigma Delta Chi occupied the Dutch Kitchen on the evening of May 19 with the usual burlesqued review of outstanding events of the college year.

Its three skits satirized the tragi-comedy of the Cornell Masque, Rym Berry's nightmare about the pernicious effects of co-eds on athletes, and the classic fears of Professor Lewis L. Forman lest present times are not solving present problems by recourse to ancient wisdom. These unambitious playlets were entitled, respectively: "Let's Continue, and Why Not?"; "All God's Athletes Got Wings, or The Co-ed's Revenge"; and "Aphrodite of Melos." What they lacked in finish they made up in speed and directness.

Aside from these episodes, the general flavor of the performance was political, and each invited guest came as Presidential candidate,—"the dark horse and the white hope of the Sociable Party." At each place, on a delicate brown card, was a complete, though somewhat mendacious biography of the candidate, and many of the prospective Presidential timbers were required to read their life histories. One hundred and seven hotables among the Faculty, townspeople, and Senior Class sat down to the dinner, and were subjected to the delicate brown roasting that followed at the hands of the twenty-nine active undergraduate and alumni members who make up the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi. R. Warren Sailor '07, master of ceremonies, read telegrams, real and fictitious, from absent guests, and called on those present to disclose their qualifications, as given on the place cards.

The usual newspaper, The Delicate Brown, appeared with its travesties on current events including flings at the crew, the new stands, the turn-down of boxing as an intercollegiate sport, the beginners' class in Greek, Campus dogs, senior societies, freshman caps, and similar topics.

Sigma Delta Chi is endeavoring to make plain, even with the foolery of the annual roasting event, that it is strictly a professional organization, and not an honorary one for giving recognition to those who have made places for themselves on undergraduate publications.

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from Union College that Dr. Charles C. Bidwell, Ph.D. '14, who has been visiting professor of physics there, will return next year to Cornell.

AT A DINNER of the C. U. C. A. Council and Cabinet held in Barnes Hall on May 20, the newly elected officers assumed their duties. These officers for the coming year are Whitney M. Trousdale '25 of Ithaca, president; Harold F. Kneen '25 of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, vice-president; and Arthur R. Cowdery '25 of Glens Falls, New York, secretary.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Binghamton

The Cornell Club of Binghamton entertained Supreme Court Justice Abraham L. Kellogg at the regular luncheon on May 20. It had been planned to bring the luncheon season to a close with this meeting, but the vote to continue was overwhelming. Regular meetings will therefore be held until further notice, as heretofore, on the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Western Connecticut

Under the auspices of the Cornell Women's Club of Western Connecticut, Cornellians of that section of the country, with their wives and husbands, sons, daughters, and friends, will meet for dinner and an evening celebration at Bridgeport on Saturday, June 7. The dinner will be held at the Brooklawn Country Club at seven o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Archie C. Burnett '90, director of the New England District of the Cornell Alumni Corporation, and president of the Cornell Club of New England. Reservations for the dinner, at three dollars each, should be sent to Gladys M. Hall '20, 2204 Main Street, Bridgeport.

Washington, D. C.

At the last meeting of the Cornell Alumni Society of Washington the following members were elected to the Board of Governors for the coming year: Meredith C. Wilson '14, who succeeds himself as chairman; Eugene H. McLachlen '03, Abbie S. Tingley '19, M. Florence Lumsden '18, Francis E. Rogers '13, Edgar Williams '14, Walter L. Saunders '17, treasurer, and Jean Stephenson '17, 1791 Lanier Place, N.W., secretary. Permanent committees were appointed, with chairmen as follows: hospitality, Mrs. Harrison Dixon (Marguerite Decker) '10; membership, Francis E. Rogers '13; music, Earl A. Brown '13; publicity, Edgar Williams '14.

At a meeting of the board of governors and the advisory council the program for next year was outlined. The principal event to which the club is looking forward is the visit of the Musical Clubs during the Christmas holidays. Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze '01, Minister from China, who attended the meeting, expressed the hope that he might be able to entertain for the Musical Clubs at the Legation.

A picnic has been arranged by the society for the first week in June.

The Cornell Alumni of Washington donated a handsome cup to the team winning the most points in an interscholastic track meet held under the auspices of the "Central C Club" of that city on May 11. Twenty-five preparatory schools and approximately four hundred athletes competed. Any school winning the cup for three successive years retains permanent possession. This year the Central High School of Washington took first place. As the meet was conducted under the A. A. U. sanction, there is little doubt that the time made by Frank Hussey of Stuyvesant High School, New York, 9 7-10 in the 100-yard dash, will be accepted as a new scholastic record.

Allen C. Minnix '15 headed the committee of Washington Cornellians which arranged for the cup. He was assisted by Walter G. Distler '12, Frederick J. Schlobohm '23, Augustus J. Brown '11, Peter Remsen '12, Raymond S. Washburn '12, William J. Kuhrt '20, Peter E. LeFevre '18, Albert T. Coumbe J. '13, Arthur L. Thompson '11, and M. Florence Lumsden '18.

SHEEHAN HERE QUARTER CENTURY

Francis T. (Frank) Sheehan on May 14 completed his twenty-fifth year in the service of the University Athletic Association. He started on May 14, 1899, as general utility man and keeper of the grounds at Percy Field, then the athletic headquarters.

He has been a lover of sports and a baseball fan from boyhood, having become interested in athletics through his father, who was for thirty-nine years an employe in the Old Armory, now the university gymnasium. Back in the days when baseball was played on the quadrangle, Frank, at the age of ten, was Cornell's mascot and batboy, and used to run to the butcher shop for beefsteak with which to pad the players' gloves.

When, at the age of twenty-two, he accepted the position that was the goal of his ambition, the Athletic Association was in its swaddling clothes. "All the equipment we had then," he says, "could be carted across the field in a couple of wheelbarrows."

The entire equipment of athletic paraphernalia is listed in an old inventory he made on a piece of wrapping paper. It includes these items: 6 pairs of track shoes, 1 pair baseball shoes, 1 mask, 1 glove, 2 pairs baseball pants, 2 football pants, 3 track pants, 3 bats, 2 old trunks, 1 wooden hammer, 2 wire hammers, 1 hickory vaulting pole, 1 high jump and 1 pole vault standards, 10 good hurdles and 5 old hurdles.

Candidates for athletic teams in those days had to purchase their own outfits, and were outfitted by the Association only after they had made their teams. There was not money with which to buy equipment and insufficient management to care for it if it was bought. When the men wanted to take a shower in the old Witherbee Club House on Percy Field, they stepped under a bucket with holes in the bottom, and the track was sprinkled before the meet by means of a barrel on wheels.

The phenomenal growth of the Athletic Association Trainer Sheehan attributes to two men, whom he calls "the fathers of Cornell athletics." They are Robert H. Treman '78 and Charles E. Treman '89. It was the credit which they extended for equipment in its early days that put the Association on its feet, he says, and they have continued their support by numerous donations to the organization. Robert H. Treman, as the first manager and treasurer, was responsible, in Sheehan's estimation, for guiding the Association through its early difficulties.

"Many people ask me who is the greatest football man Cornell ever had," Sheehan says. "It is a foolish question, because there are so many different types of players and the methods of playing change continually." Among those players who he considers have best represented Cornell on the gridiron are "Bucky" Starbuck, "Heinie" Schoellkopf, and "Bill" Warner, all of them "rough-and-tumble" men. "If such football men as those only had the advantages which we have to-day what a team we could have!"

Frank vouches for honesty in Cornell athletics. "Since I have been here," he declares, "I have not known a single instance of a Cornell player's receiving financial aid from the Athletic Association or alumni, or in any way committing himself to professionalism."

The traifer himself, however, has more than once played the good Samaritan for athletes who were hard pressed for support. His favorite stunt has been to get the "check-room jobs" at dances for such men.

A phase of present-day athletics worries Frank. The C men, he says, do not have a proper respect for their letters. Whereas, in the old days a fellow who received a C put it on and wore it and was proud of it, to-day "he sticks it away in his drawer, and goes around without it."

Frank used to do all the work now assigned to the "compets." He still has enough to do, however, and every day he is on the job in the training quarters of Schoellkopf Memorial, a most important cog in the wheels of the athletic organization. The men who uphold Cornell's record on gridiron, diamond, and court would be lost if they couldn't shout "Hey, Frank" at someone.

FACULTY NOTES

PROFESSOR LEWIS KNUDSON, Ph.D. '11, lectured at the Boston Orchid Show on May 10 on "The Nonsymbiotic Method of Raising Orchids." He described a system of planting in sterilized glass tubes and feeding with salts and sugars that may shorten the period of growth by two years. Professor Knudson has spent several seasons in the West Indies and Central America, whither he will return this summer, studying a fungus disease of the banana which has caused great losses to growers and has resisted all efforts to control.

DR. RUSSELL H. CONWELL gave his famous lecture, "Acres of Diamonds," for the next-to-the-last time in Ithaca on May 13 before a crowded house. By doctors' orders he gave his last lecture in Syracuse the following day after sixty-four years of platform speaking, at the age of eighty-two.

PROFESSOR CLARK S. NORTHUP '93 attended the meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Senate in New York on May 14. He was elected a trustee of the Phi Beta Kappa Foundation, which is to have charge of the endowment and building funds accumulated in connection with the 150th anniversary of the founding of the society. There are fifteen trustees in all.

PROFESSOR FLORA ROSE of the School of Home Economics spoke before the twentieth annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Society at Atlanta, Georgia, on May 8. Her subject was the results of faulty nutrition on children.

DR. HOMER G. BISHOP, Ph.D. '17, instructor in psychology, on April 2 was married to Miss Margaret Kincaid, Ph.D., of Northampton, Massachusetts.

PROFESSOR HENRY N. OGDEN '89 in a talk broadcast from the General Electric station at Schenectady under the direction of the State Department of Health on May 9, warned against the danger of using public bathing pools not properly disinfected, and told how to make them safe.

Professor Ogden is a member of the New York Public Health Council.

PROFESSOR GEORGE F. WARREN '05 was one of the speakers at the meeting of the financial division of the National Chamber of Commerce held in the safe deposit vault of the Union Trust Company, Cleveland, on May 6. The mammoth vault, recently completed, is one of the largest in the country, providing ample room for the two hundred fifty delegates to be seated within it. Joseph P. Harris '01 is a vice-president of the Company.

PRESIDENT FARRAND was one of the speakers on the radio program arranged by the American Child Health Association and broadcast from WEAF on May 1. His subject was "Child Health and May Days."

PROFESSOR RIVERDA H. JORDAN took part in a symposium on college entrance examinations in the Montclair, New Jersey, High School, on April 14. Other speakers were President Benjamin Marshall of the Connecticut College for Women, Mrs. Douglas, dean of the New Jersey College for Women, Dean Angier of Yale, and Dean McClenahan of Princeton.

AN EXCITING ANNUAL MEETING

CORNELL'S general alumni organization, meeting in its fifty-third annual session on Saturday morning of the reunion period, will, we hope reach the height that this event deserves.

The meeting is the first such session since the thorough reorganization in 1923 as the Cornell Alumni Corporation. In its new form, perhaps more understandable and certainly more vigorous, it has won the interest of alumni who have hitherto been engaged in other but specialized forms of alumni work. It has gone through its year of reorganization in a workmanlike manner, and appears to be pointed for a career of usefulness as Cornell's really general alumni organization. Its chosen field seems to be Cornell problems other than those of raising funds and holding reunions. Until Cornell ceases to have other problems that alumni can help to solve, the Corporation may look forward to an existence as active as its officers and members care to make it.

Perhaps the most important reason for the apparent apathy toward the annual meetings of the old Associate Alumni was not so much that the meetings in themselves bored anyone. Presumably nearly all Cornellians care to know who are elected Trustees, and are interested in knowing the reaction of the retiring Trustees toward their trusteeships at the end of five years of service. Reports chock-full of Cornellianism were read by faithful and intelligent committees at nearly every meeting. A large part of the active work of the year was given to the members here for the first time.

There has, however, rarely been read or spoken at these meetings a word of any kind that was not later printed in full in the ALUMNI NEWS. The outstanding news, such as the results of Trustee elections, were available in The Ithaca Journal-News the same afternoon. To the busy reuners it was often soon enough.

No confidential talk, by perhaps the President or a member of the Board of Trustees or of the Faculty, setting forth conditions in a way that might not be susceptible of general publication, has served to attract those who would otherwise prefer to wait and read.

This year the opportunity is given to hear such talks, presumably not for publication, for the first time; a real contest for the Trusteeship will be reported there, and under certain conditions may have to be referred to the meeting for the final choice for the first time in many years.

Usually the principal weakness of annual meetings is the lack of attending members rather than an absence of Cornell matters worthy of the members' attention.

ARMS AND THE MAN

For the benefit of the alumni returning for reunions the Dramatic Club will repeat its highly successful performance of Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" at the Campus Theater, Goldwin Smith B, on June 13 and 14, beginning at 8.15 p. m. The performance on Friday evening will begin immediately after the senior singing. The performance on Saturday evening will be concluded in ample time for the spectators to attend the Senior Ball and the Alumni Rally afterward.

For each performance there will be one hundred reserved seats at $1.50 and one hundred at $1. Mail orders with checks should be sent to the Cornell Dramatic Club, 33 Goldwin Smith Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

Local critics spoke in high praise of the recent performances of this play by the Club. The Journal-News writer said that "the Dramatic Club was at its best in the Shaw comedy; it was an all-star cast, the lines were well presented; the staging was artistically done, and the costuming was a delight." The Sun remarked that this was surely a performance of the sort that one ought not to miss.

CHARITY SHOW REPEATED

The Charity Show given on May 13 will be repeated in the Lyceum on June 13 for the entertainment of the Senior Week guests. It will be identical in plot with the first entertainment, while the vaudeville acts will be improved. An attempt is being made to secure Hibby Ayer '14 for an act.

LITERARY REVIEW

The Best in Style

Excellence in English. By Frank H. Callan '90. With a Foreword by Dr. William L. Ettinger. New York. The Devin-Adair Co. 1924. 22.3 cm., pp. xxiv, 525.

Mr. Callan, who has been for many years a Buffalo lawyer and who is a loyal and enthusiastic Cornellian, now enters the field of authorship. In this book he has done the cause of good English a real service. He has produced a volume which can be read with pleasure by the average adult person and can also be used with good results in the higher grades of the high school, in the normal school, and in college classes. The book is just what its title indicates—a treatise on how to excel in speech, with numerous examples of how the masters have excelled. The author's introductions and comments constitute a little more than one-fifth of the whole. His plan is to tell us briefly what he understands by clearness, or rhythm, or simplicity, or urbanity, and then to set before us a number of well chosen selections, each complete in itself, from the best authors, illustrative of the quality or principle, concluding his chapter by sensible and judicious comments on the selections.

We are perfectly willing to help the sale of this book (in so far as these words may do this) by urging every person to buy and read it. If you are interested in refined and effective speech, it will help you to acquire refined speech habits and a feeling for what is best in language; if you are not so interested, it is time you became so, and this book will help you to develop such an interest.

Books and Magazine Articles

In Science for May 2 Professor Herman L. Fairchild '74, of the University of Rochester continues his serial on the history of the A. A. A. S. Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, '91-2 Grad., has a note entitled "In South Carolina" dealing with the Fundamentalists situation in that State, where two professors have been ejected from Chicora College for Women for holding liberal views.

In The Historical Outlook for May "Political Parties and Electoral Problems" by Professor Robert C. Brooks, Ph. D. '03, of Swarthmore, is reviewed by Lindsay Rogers. "The History of Assyria" by Professor Albert T. Olmstead '02, of the University of Illinois, is reviewed by Professor John R. Knipping '10, of Ohio State University.

In Science for May is printed the address of Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, '91-2 Grad., delivered at the dedication of the new National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council Building on April 28. Professor Fairchild concludes his serial on the history of the A. A. A. S. In 1841 the Association had 461 members; in 1920 it had over eleven thousand. Professor Augustus Trowbridge writes an appreciative obituary of the late Dr. Ernest Fox Nichols '93. Dr. Leland O. Howard '77 writes on "Portraits of Naturalists." Professor William S. Franklin, Ph. D. '01, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, reviews L. L. Campbell's "Galvano-Electric and Thermo-Magnetic Effects."

"A History of the Supreme Court in Résumé" by Professor Robert E.ushman has been reprinted from a recent issue of The Minnesota Law Review.

The opening article of The Cornell Law Quarterly for April is by Judge Cuthbert W. Pound '87, of the New York Court of Appeals, on "The Relation of the Practicing Lawyer to the Efficient Administration of Justice." It is the address delivered by Judge Pound before the New York City Bar Association on January 24 last. Professor Alvin E. Evans of George Washington University discusses "Property Interests Arising from Quasi-Marital Relations." Roscoe E. Harper, of the Tulsa bar, discusses "Liability of Directors for Creating Excessive Indebtedness." Frederick D. Colson '97, clerk of the New York Court of Claims, continues his serial on "Title to Beds of Lakes in New York." Notes and Comment fill forty-one pages. W. H. Coates, assistant in English history, reviews William F.

Walsh's "Outline of the History of English and American Law." Dean Burdick reviews John W. Burgess's "Recent Changes in American Constitutional Theory." Professor Lyman P. Wilson reviews the third edition of John Jay McKelvey's "Handbook of the Law of Evidence" and the second edition of Archibald H. Throckmorton's "Illustrative Cases on Evidence."

The Barnes Hall Bulletin, after a refreshing sleep of twenty-seven years, has once more appeared, evidence of the renewed life now characteristic of the reorganized Christian Association. No. 1 of the thirteenth volume is a well written four-page sheet, with four illustrations. In it is announced a Summer School for Town and Country Ministers to be held here July 7-19.

In American Forests for April Professor Edward G. Cheyney '00, of the University of Minnesota, writes on "A Phoenix of the Lumber Industry."

The Rochester Alumni Review for April-May has a good illustrated article entitled "Dr. Fairchild Back from Unusual Exploration." On January 15 Dr. Herman L. Fairchild '74 sailed from New York as a representative of the University of Rochester attached to the Marsh Expedition in quest of an alleged tribe of long lost "White Indians" in Darien. The article is made up in part of diary entries by Professor Fairchild describing his experiences. The Indian ladies and gentlemen in the picture do not, it must be admitted, look so very white; and that they are not especially fond of white may be inferred from the fact that a Cuna woman had her baby painted jet black, which was said to protect it from insects. There is also a portrait of Professor Fairchild.

In The Harvard Theological Review for October, the publication of which was delayed, Professor John R. Knipfing '10, of Ohio State University, writes on "The Libelli of the Decian Persecution."

The Missouri Alumnus for April includes an article on "How St. Pat's Came into Being," the history of the St. Patrick's Day celebration at the University of Missouri, by Walter Rautenstrauch, '03-4 Grad. There is a good portrait of Rautenstrauch, who is now vice-president of the Liberty Yeast Corporation, 56 West Forty-fifth Street, New York.

To The American Journal of Philology for January-March Professor Franklin Edgerton '05, of the University of Pennsylvania, contributes a study of "The Meaning of Sankhya and Yoga." "Olympic Funeral Monuments and Greek Athletic Art" by Professor Walter W. Hyde '93, also of the University of Pennsylvania, is reviewed by T. Leslie Shear.

The Extension Service News for March includes a review of "The Hymn as Literature" by Dr. Jeremiah Bascom Reeves '23 and of "The Extension Service Handbook."

[N.B.—Remember to Obtain a Railroad Certificate. You Pay Full Fare to Ithaca, and (if 250 are Filed) Half Fare for the Return Trip. Net Saving of Twenty-five Per Cent.]

The Michigan Alumnus for May 15 is a forestry number. Professor Emeritus Filibert (Daddy) Roth sends a forester's message "To the Boys in the Field." A portrait of him forms the frontispiece. Raphael Zon '01, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station, writes on "Research Problems in Forestry in the Lake Region."

In The Classical Weekly for May 12 "Cicero and His Influence" by Professor John C. Rolfe '84 is reviewed by Professor Grant Showerman.

In Modern Language Notes for May Guy S. Greene, of the Department of English, writes on "A New Date for George Wilkins's Three Miseries of Barbary."

In The Philosophical Review for March, recently received, is printed an abstract of an article on "Contradiction in Method in Maurice Blondel's Philosophy of Action," read at the recent meeting of the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association by Dr. Katherine E. Gilbert '12. Professor Frank Thilly reviews Julius Schultz's "Die Philosophie am Scheidewege: die Antinomie im Worten und Denken" and Robert Reininger's "Kant: seine Anhänger und seine Gegner." L. P. Chambers, assistant in philosophy, reviews the "Philosophical Essays Presented to John Watson," 1922. Professor G. Watts Cunningham, Ph. D. '08, of the University of Texas, a member of our last Summer School Faculty, reviews R. F. Alfred Hoernle's "Matter, Life, Mind, and God." Professor William K. Wright, formerly of Cornell, now of Dartmouth, reviews Alessandro Chiapelli's "La Crisi del Pensiero Moderno" and Lucien Lévy-Bruhl's "Primitive Mentality." Professor Harold R. Smart, Ph. D. '23, of the University of North Carolina, reviews Bernhard Jansen's "Leibniz, erkenntnistheoretischer Realist."

In The Christian Register for April 24 Professor Thomas N. Carver, Ph.D. '94, of Harvard, writes on "The Dawes Report."

In The Journal of Social Hygiene for April "Crystallizing Public Opinion" by Edward L. Bernays '12 is reviewed by P. S. A.

In The Crisis for February "There is Confusion," the new novel by Jessie R. Fauset '05, is reviewed by A. L., and there is a portrait of the gifted author. In the issue for March she prints a translation of "Kirongozo" from the French of G. D. Perier's "Curiosités Congolaises." In the issue for April Miss Fauset writes an illustrated sketch of Henry Ossawa Tanner and also has a poem, "Here's April!" In the May issue a poem, "To Usward," by Gwendolyn B. Bennett, is dedicated chiefly to Miss Fauset.

Orlando C. Harn '94 has written a book on "Lead, the Precious Metal," which is published by the Century Company, New York. It is reviewed in Extension Service News for February. There is also a review of Robb and Behrends' "Farm Mechanics."

The Macmillans have just published "Lectures on Legal Topics, 1920-21," delivered before the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. Among the contributors are Professor Charles K. Burdick, Clarence J. Shearn '90, Frederick Spiegelberg, father of Frederick Spiegelberg, Jr., '16, and Judge George Leal Genung '05. The volume contains 600 pages and sells for $5.

The Cornell Graphic for May 10 includes portraits of David F. Hoy '91, who began to manage things at Morrill No. 10 thirty-three years ago, and who will next year celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of his accession to the registrarship; the late Judge Morris L. Buchwalter '69, who died on March 3; Professor Frederick Bedell '91 on the camping trip around the United States of which Mrs. Bedell has written so entertainingly in her "Modern Gypsies"; and Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes as he appeared while professor of law here in 1891-3. Many other pictures combine with these to make an attractive number.

In The Cornell Chemist for April Dr. Frank K. Cameron, '94 Grad., writes on "Another Chemical Warfare." Lowell H. Milligan, Ph. D. '23, discusses "Grinding Wheel Action as Shown by Photographs of Wheel Faces and Abrasive Wheel Dust." Melvin L. Nichols, B. Chem. '18, Ph. D. '22, describes the Intersectional Symposium on Metals held in Rochester in January. Karl Fenning, assistant commissioner of patents, discusses "The U. S. Patent Office as a Field for Life Work." "Marine Products of Commerce" by Donald K. Tressler, Ph. D. '18, which we shall notice soon, is reviewed by R. T. K. Cornwell '18.

Professor Lane Cooper in The New York Herald for May 4 reviews Paul E. More's "Hellenistic Philosophies."

Garrett P. Serviss '72 has a note in The Philadelphia Bulletin for April 26 on "Mathematics for Sound Mind; Classics for Citizenship."

In the April issue of The American Journal of Medical Sciences Professor Charles R. Stockard, of the Medical College in New York, discusses the effects of alcohol on racial history. He thinks it acts as a selective agent in eliminating the unfit and thus producing, in those that remain, a group of unusually strong specimens with superior vitality. A summary of the article appeared in The Richmond News-Leader for April 17.

In The Scientific American for May Dr. William A. Murrill '00 of the New York Botanical Garden writes on "Truffles and Truffle Hunters." Truffles are small tubers of about the size of a walnut found under certain trees like the oak in Italy, France, and to a less degree in northern Europe and England. The article is illustrated.

OBITUARY

Professor Howard P. Jones

Professor Howard Parker Jones, of Dalhousie, from 1893 to 1898 instructor in German here, died at his home in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, on April 29.

Professor Jones was born at Weymouth, N. S., in 1863, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair Jones. He was educated at the Collegiate School and King's College, Windsor, taking his M.A. in 1891. In 1885-6 he studied in Germany, taking his Ph.D. with highest honors at Heidelberg. On his return he was appointed professor of modern languages at King's College, coming to Cornell in 1893. From 1898 to 1906 he was professor of modern languages at Hobart, whence he went to the chair of modern languages at Dalhousie. He taught there until January last, when failing health obliged him to rest.

In 1893 he married Isabel, youngest daughter of Thomas Ridd, of Barnstaple, England, who survives him. He leaves also two daughters, Helen, wife of R. E. G. Roeme of Dartmouth, and Edith, at home; one son, F. H. M. Jones, of the Eastern Trust Company staff; two sisters, Mrs. C. S. Stayner, of Halifax, and Miss J. M. Jones, of Weymouth; and four brothers, Sydney, of Hantsport, Harrison, of Weymouth, Cereno, of Pasadena, Calif., and Frederick, of Long Beach, Calif.

Dr. Jones was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

He had published a German reader and various articles on periodicals.

C. Stephens Thatcher '76

Cornelius Stephens Thacher died at Clifton Springs, N. Y., on March 16 last.

He came to Cornell from Hopewell, N. Y., in 1872 as a student of civil engineering and received the degree of C. E. in 1876. He continued as a student for two more years and in 1878 was given the degree of B. C. E. He was a member of Theta Delta Chi.

Leon J. Goetter '88

Leon Joseph Goetter died at the Hotel Majestic in New York on April 27 last.

He was born in Montgomery, Ala., and came to Cornell from that city in 1884 as a student in the optional course and remained for two years. He was a member of Zeta Psi, Undine, and Fruija. In recent years he had been prominent as an insurance broker in New York. He was a brother of Sidney J. Goetter '89.

Bernard Albert Sinn '97

Bernard Albert Sinn died in New York City on May 18 after a short illness of sleeping sickness, contracted on a trip to South America.

He was born in New York on September 21, 1876, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sinn, and after gaining his early education there and attending the College of the City

For the man beyond the campus

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO Joseph French Johnson, who was, and is, Dean of the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance of New York University, found himself faced with a problem to which there was no satisfactory answer.

He was constantly in receipt of letters from business men, many of them occupying places of executive responsibility. The letters asked such questions as these:

"What books shall I read?"

"Can you lay out for me a course in business economics?"

"How can I broaden my knowledge of salesmanship, or accounting, or factory management, advertising or corporation finance?"

Those were pioneer days in the teaching of Business. Dean Johnson, wishing to help, yet feeling keenly the lack of suitable facilities, conceived the plan of a faculty including both college teachers and business men, and a Course so arranged that any man might follow it effectively in his own home.

Thus began the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Dean Johnson has continued as its President; its Advisory Council includes these men:

DEXTER S. KIMBALL, Dean of the Engineering Colleges, Cornell University; JOSEPH FRENCH JOHNSON, Dean of the New York University School of Commerce; GENERAL COLEMAN DUPONT, the well-known business executive; PERCY H. JOHNSTON, President of the Chemical National Bank of New York; JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, the eminent engineer; FREDERICK H. HURDMAN, Certified Public Accountant; JEREMIAH W. JENKS, the statistician and economist.

To young men of college age, the Institute says: "Matriculate at a college or university if you possibly can; there is no substitute for the teacher." To older men, the universities and colleges, in turn, are constantly recommending the Modern Business Course of the Institute.

It is a Course for the man beyond the campus; the man who is already in business and cannot leave, the man who wants to supplement his college education. If you are such a man, may we send you, without obligation, a copy of "A Definite Plan for Your Business Progress?"

It tells how 200,000 men have profited by a business training founded upon university principles, and conducted in accordance with university ideals.

THESE COLLEGES and universities, and 80 others, use parts of the Alexander Hamilton Institute Course in their classroom work.

of New York for a time, entered Cornell in 1894 as a student of mechanical engineering and naval architecture.

He was graduated in 1897 with the degree of M. E., and for some years thereafter practiced his profession. In recent years he had been engaged in the export business in New York.

At the time of the Semi-Centennial Celebration in 1919, he presented to the University a collection of about six hundred volumes relating to naval history and biography, principally British and American. His interest in naval affairs dated back to his undergraduate days when he prepared his thesis on "An Investigation into the Action of the Screw Propeller."

In 1909 he was married to Miss Carrie Frenkel of New York, who survives him.

Therese K. Palmie, Sp. '04

Word has just been received of the death on June 12, 1914, of Therese Katherine Palmie.

She came to Cornell in 1903 from Brooklyn, N. Y., as a special student in the College of Agriculture, and remained for one year. She was a sister of Marguerite T. Palmie '04.

Agnes W. Speyer, Sp. '11

Belated news has arrived of the death in November, 1918, of Agnes Winifred Speyer.

She was born in Buffalo, N. Y., on November 27, 1885, and after graduating from Masten Park High School in that city, came to Cornell in 1909 as a special student in the College of Agriculture, and remained for two years. She was a sister of Elwin G. Speyer '07 and Mrs. Charles B. Ellison (Laura E. Speyer '16).

Charles W. Barrett '16

Charles Barrett, considered one of the greatest football players ever at Cornell, died at Tucson, Ariz., on May 21, after a long fight against the ravages of tuberculosis.

He was born on November 3, 1893 at Bellevue, Pa., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Barrett. After getting his early education there and at the University School in Cleveland, Ohio, he entered Cornell in 1912 as a student of mechanical engineering.

During his undergraduate days, Barrett was prominent in fraternal and athletic circles. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, Sphinx Head, Aleph Samach, Dunstan, Beth L'Amed, Duquesne, and the Sunday Night Club.

Beginning with his freshman year Barrett showed unusual ability as a football player. Albert H. Sharpe has said that he was the greatest player he ever coached. From 1913 to 1915, when he was captain, he played quarterback on the varsity teams which gained three successive victories over Pennsylvania, and was designated as an All-American player. The 1915 team also defeated Harvard and Michigan, and was generally rated at the top of eastern teams.

Barrett was chairman of the Freshman Constitution Committee, a member of the Freshman Advisory Committee in his junior and senior years, chairman of the Junior General Committee, and president of the Student Council in his senior year.

After leaving Cornell he went into the Naval Reserve Force, becoming an ensign. After the War ended he was assistant coach at Rutgers for a short time and then came back to Cornell and helped prepare the 1919 team for its last games.

About that time his health began to break down and he went West. For a time he tried coaching in California, but had to give it up and go to Arizona. About seven months ago he seemed to have recovered his former vigor and went to Los Angeles, where he entered the real estate business. He suffered a set-back, however, and had to return to Arizona, where he died.

He was married on November 19, 1919, to Miss Edna Stevens and she survives him with two children. His body was brought East for burial at his old home at Bellevue, Pa.

Allan K. Williams '22

Allan Kynor Williams died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., on August 20, 1923.

He was born at Wharton, N. J., on April 16, 1900, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams. After graduating from the Dover, N. J. High School he entered Cornell in 1918 as a student of mechanical engineering and remained for one year.

WOMEN'S TENNIS teams won from Wells College in both singles and doubles on May 17 in the first matches of the season with outside teams.

THE MUSICAL CLUBS held their annual smoker on May 20 in the Dutch Kitchen. Alexander H. Gardner '25 of Brooklyn, the new manager, announced that the next Christmas trip of the Clubs would include concerts in Wilmington, Washington, Baltimore, Birmingham, Atlanta, Greenville, and two other cities.

THE WEIL Scholarship has been awarded for 1924-5 to Donald Sims Rickard '21. Rickard's home is in Summit, N. J. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. The Weil Scholarship was established by Alphonse D. Weil '86 for study at the University of Strasbourg.

Business Life Insurance

Now Recognized as a Permanent Economic Factor—Executive Ability an Asset, and a Loss if Displaced

BUSINESS LIFE INSURANCE must be recognized as an economic factor in indemnity for the loss of capital and brains. The death of a man closely identified with a business cannot but result in a shock to the organization, possibly affecting its financial credit, its business-getting ability, or its efficiency of operation, all of which may bring about pecuniary loss.

Hence it is both wise and prudent for business concerns to have the lives of men whose death would affect them in this way properly protected by life insurance, thus assisting to tide over temporary difficulties and provide for continuance.

A man who has great executive ability, or whose knowledge assists in shaping the destiny of a business, is of distinct economic value to the organization, and the same may be said of the Financial Man in touch with business conditions, banks, bankers, etc.

The same is true of the Sales Manager, whose ability and tact have developed the producing factor. It may be true of the Buyer of the concern, whose knowledge of market conditions leads to closer trading and better profits; also of the Foreman of the shop, whose skill and industry have become a permanent and substantial part of the business.

The loss of any one of these may throw the organization out of gear, resulting in disarrangement and actual loss.

All business men recognize the need of adequate fire-insurance protection for their credit—in fact, they could get no credit if they did not have this insurance—and yet loss by fire is infrequent and may never occur, but death is certain to come sooner or later.

Here is developed a great need for the life-insurance policy, and it would seem that good business judgment would prompt the setting aside of the life-insurance premium among the fixed charges of a business concern.

The life-insurance policy is easily adaptable to varying conditions—to replace ability and brains, to safeguard credit, to buy out a retiring partner's interest, to satisfy the estate of the deceased member, to establish an emergency fund to tide over re-organization.

In contracts of this description, Security of the indemnity will be the first thought of the careful business man and in this respect this Company offers the very best.

Camp Nissequogue Harbor

Wholesome, Salt Water, Boys' Camp, near Smithtown, L. I.

THE owner of a large estate—with half-mile still salt water frontage—in Smithtown colony of Long Island—50 miles from New York—has converted his property into a wholesome summer camp for boys. All facilities are available for outdoor life, with companionship of qualified counsellors and necessary instructors for general and special study as desired.

Salt water contact is valuable for growing boys—particularly those living inland. Convenience to New York is appreciated by parents as well as boys.

Smithtown location is highly desirable.

The price is very moderate—$350 for the season.

Attractive booklets have been mailed to personal friends of the owner and will be mailed to readers of this magazine.

If fathers who read this have no boy that would appreciate this camp, booklets will be mailed to desirable boys or their parents on request.

There are books you should examine when you come to Ithaca

There are books about Cornell University and books by Cornellians that are attracting considerable attention. You should know about these books. An hour spent at the Co-op would enable you to examine the table of contents of each. A few of the titles are: "Concerning Cornell", "Cornell Rowing", "Autobiography of Andrew D. White", "Cornell Verse" and "Modern Gypsies".

"Shield" Chocolates Made by Whitman

This is the candy which is so popular at Christmas time and at Commencement time. It is an assortment of first class chocolates but a different assortment of flavors. Candy made by Stephen F. Whitman & Son is good candy.

Book Ends and College Jewelry

We suggest that you see the hand hammered "Cornell" bookends. These are made for us by a man who used to live in Holland. Those who have seen them certainly appreciate the value.
