Medical College Plans Expansion

By DR. JOHN E. DEITRICK, Dean

THE HOSPITAL affiliations of the Medical College include The New York Hospital, a division of Bellevue Hospital, Memorial Hospital and the James Ewing Hospital both for cancer patients, and the Hospital for Special Surgery for orthopedic conditions and arthritis and rheumatism. The total capacity of these institutions exceeds 2200 beds. The New York Hospital with more than 1000 beds and the Medical College are intimately related. A Joint Board composed of three members of the University Board of Trustees and three members of the Board of Governors of the Hospital deals with policies and problems involving both institutions. The New York Hospital provides space for the clinical departments and pays half the salaries of the Faculty members in these departments. The Hospital makes a tremendous contribution to the educational activities of the Medical College. As Director, Dr. Joseph C. Hinsey reports to the Joint Board and helps to keep both institutions on the same course.

Faculty & Resources Increased

The staff of the Medical College in 1933 numbered 373; in 1958, 964; and in 1960, 1049 plus fifty-six members of the Sloan-Kettering Division. Our research funds which in 1933 totalled $88,500 expanded to $2,837,000 in 1958 and this year will approximate $3,500,000 of which more than half will be provided by the Federal Government.

In 1958, we discussed the need for expanding the Medical College buildings by the addition of several floors and the need for a new and expanded library. At that time the cost was estimated to be $3,500,000. We had approval from the Federal Government for a grant of $1,500,000 for research facilities, leaving $2,000,000 to be raised by the Medical Dean Deitrick spoke to the administrative board of the University Council, meeting at The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in March. He noted that he had addressed this Council group about two years ago and continued his description of the College as published here.

College. Last year, by a contact Dr. Luckey made through his dentist, we have been given $1,700,000 by a private donor for a library and research building and another donor gave us a sum in excess of $300,000 for expansion of research at the Medical College. By pooling these funds, we have received approval from the Board of Trustees for the construction of a new seven-story library and research building which, together with renovation of three adjoining buildings, will cost slightly in excess of $4,000,000. Construction will begin this spring and upon completion of the building we will have solved a large portion of our space problems.

In 1958, we stressed the need for increasing Faculty salaries, especially of instructors which then ranged from $6000 to $7000. Our goal was to establish a minimum of $8000. This has been done with the aid of a grant from the Josiah Macy Foundation of $50,000 a year for three years for the purpose of strengthening the instructors' salaries in the basic medical sciences. Today we have only one full-time instructor receiving less than $8000 a year. Salaries of Faculty members of a higher academic rank have also been increased. About two years ago, The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center received a large legacy of more than $10,000,000 for support of research, teaching, and patient care in the fields of neurology and psychiatry. That portion of the income allocated to research and education will be expended primarily in adding six to eight new assistant and associate professors to various basic and clinical departments.

College Maintains Quality

The quality of the Faculty which was recognized by the Ford Foundation when it made its grant to the Medical College three years ago has received further recognition by the fact that in a little more than two years University of Miami Medical College, University of Florida Medical School at Gainesville, Vanderbilt, Harvard, Stanford, Kentucky, Vermont, and Northwestern have all chosen men from Cornell to become professors and chairmen of one of their major departments.

Our undergraduate students have remained the same at approximately 330. The number of applicants has been slowly decreasing, apparently paralleling a national trend. This year with tuition of $1250 we had 1041 applications for 84 places. This is the smallest number of applicants in more than ten years. In 1957, there were 1324 applicants. Next year the tuition goes to $1425 and we are watching with some concern to see if increased tuition charges will affect the number and quality of our applicants. We are constantly striving to increase our scholarship and loan funds and to provide moderate-cost housing for the students. Last year we were given $100,000 for interest-free loans to needy students and this coming year we will complete a $250,000 addition to our housing facilities for married students.

A major need of the Center is for a dining and club facility where Faculty members may meet in large or small groups for both formal and informal contacts with one another. Communication is essential in education and with the growth of the Center, we feel every effort must be made to provide the Faculty with opportunities to meet freely together. The Hospital and the College have plans for a completely new dining facility for the entire Center, a portion of which would be set aside for a Faculty dining room connected with a Faculty Club. We have a promise of $500,000 for the Faculty Club and dining room and hope that construction can begin on the entire project in the near future.

Looking back on the period of a little more than two years, it is apparent that the College has made considerable progress which those of us who work here daily may not fully appreciate. We are more acutely aware of the needs which must still be met. The Hospital must have new elevators, enlarged laboratories to meet the needs of the patients, renovation and enlargement of the space of Pediatrics and Obstetrics & Gynecology Departments, and enlarged parking facilities the lack of which is seriously hampering the activity of the Center. Most important of all, both the Hospital and the Medical Center must increase their endowment funds. Our competitors such as Harvard and Columbia, to mention two, have completed or are in the midst of fund-raising drives. This Center has comparable needs. The Cornell Medical College, we believe, is a very strong and famous College of the University. The New York Hospital is the second-oldest in this country and has a tradition of high quality service unsurpassed by similar institutions. We propose to maintain and constantly strive to improve the quality of the services we render to the people of this country through education, research, and the establishment of better standards for patient care.

class hours. 'Both men and women have similar needs; they need good housing and they need good counseling,' she said. 'And while some of their problems will naturally be different, the approach to solving these problems is largely the same'."

Harold E. B. Speight was Dean of Students at the University from January, 1945, until September, 1946; the only other person to hold that title.

Cookbooks Stir Interest

SAM HORTON's dissertation in the March ALUMNI NEWS on the collection of cookbooks in the Hotel School Library brought the offer of an addition from his own library from Berkeley Snow '13 of Arch Cape, Oregon. The book is The Bachelor and the Chafing Dish, by Deschler Welch, published in 1896.

Snow wrote to the Hotel School Librarian, Katherine R. Spinney, that the rare volume "of anecdote, whimsy, poetry, and cookery" had come to him from his father and he offered to give it to the School Library if it was not already there. "On your shelves," he said, "it will have the opportunity of delighting many more browsers through the literature of cookery than it would on mine. It might even inspire some venturesome budding restaurateur to throw out the mummery of the flaming swords and the shiskabob skewers and supplant them with a chafing dish. Then we could have Welsh rabbit (or rarebit, if you insist) à la Welch, or that of Brillat Savarin, whose recipe is quoted in Welch's book. Who knows; such radical procedure tossed into the jaded fleshpots might turn out to be a bonanza!"

Miss Spinney answered Snow that the same first edition of The Bachelor and the Chafing Dish is one of the "prized books" in the Hotel School collection and thanked him for his generous interest.

Japanese Visitors

FIFTEEN industrial training specialists from Japan came to the University, April 7, for a two-day inspection of the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration and School of Industrial & Labor Relations. The group was on a three-week tour of United States industries, with Cornell the only university visited.

They came to the Campus to see how the University handles its management development program and training education and provides educational services for business and industry. The visitors attended lectures and seminars in the two Schools, conferred with Faculty members, and were guests at a dinner and reception in Statler Hall.

Miss Cross to be Dean of Students

PRESIDENT MALOTT has announced that Frank C. Baldwin '22 will become Secretary of the University, July 1, and that K. Patricia Cross will become Dean of Students.

Baldwin has been Dean of Men since the post was created in 1948, having come back to the University in 1946 as Counselor of Men Students, after serving as a major in the Air Force. He had previously taught at Blair Academy and the Pingree School and was academic dean of Penn Hall Junior College and headmaster of Harrisburg Academy. He received the BS in 1923; rowed on the Varsity crew; is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and Sphinx Head. Last fall, he was elected to the Ithaca common council. He and Mrs. Baldwin have four Cornell children: Mrs. Arthur E. Tenney (Anne Baldwin) '52, Frank C. Baldwin, Jr. '55, Mary E. Baldwin '58, and Nathaniel P. Baldwin '62.

Secretary's Office Revived

There has been no Secretary of the University since Raymond P. Howes '24 resigned in 1951 to become administrative assistant to Arthur S. Adams, former Provost, who is president of the American Council on Education in Washington, D.C. The Secretary's duties, assigned by the President, will include the scheduling of non-academic events, helping to care for official visitors to the University, and serving on various University committees and boards.

Miss Cross will administer the office of Dean of Students under direction of John Summerskill, Vice President for Student Affairs. She came to the University last September as acting Dean of Women and had been appointed to become Dean of Women, July 1. For six years, she was assistant dean of women at University of Illinois, where she received the MA in 1951 and PhD in 1958, with a fellowship from the National Institute of Mental Health. She received the BS in 1948 at Illinois State Normal University, where her father, the late C. L. Cross, was a teacher; then she taught mathematics for a year in Harvard, Ill. high school. She is a member of the National Association of Women Deans & Counselors, American Psychological Association, International Council of Women Psychologists, and of the honor societies Sigma Xi, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Delta Epsilon, and Kappa Mu Epsilon.

A special dispatch to The New York Times, April 21, announcing Miss Cross's appointment, said: "Women deans are something of a rarity in major coeducational universities, except in those areas where the activities largely concern women students. Miss Cross said, however, that she did not anticipate any difficulties in her new post, which will involve responsibility for the welfare of all students during out-of-

Cornell Fund Campaign Progresses

WITH SEVEN WEEKS and a few days until the campaign for the 1960 Cornell Fund ends, June 15, gifts totaling $528,720 had been received from 8767 contributors through April 22. The goal for this year's Fund is $1,120,000 from 21,000 contributors.

At the same time last year 12,038 contributors had given $547,759. Alfred M. Saperston '19, chairman of the Cornell Fund committee, notes that a new campaign plan for the Fund was instituted this year. Solicitation of alumni by mail, which started in February last year, did not begin this year until April 7, with members of committees soliciting their Classmates personally all over the country throughout March. "This delay in the letter campaign," Saperston says, "undoubtedly accounts for the smaller amount and fewer contributors so far this year. But the results of personal solicitation earlier by some 2500 workers should bring more gifts and a larger total to the University than last year by the time the Fund closes, June 15." He notes that the average gift so far this year is $60.30, as compared with $45.50 at the same time last year.

Contributors to the Cornell Fund may now designate their gifts, or parts of them, for any of eight purposes: alumni annual giving, Art Museum Associates, Cornell Plantations, CURW, Law School Fund, Library Associates, Medical College Alumni Fund, or Parents Fund. All such gifts are included in the Class tabulation which appears on this page and the next.

Some Classes Do Well

By April 22 the largest amount, $22,052.86, had come from the Class of '10 men, with Harold T. Edwards as Class representative. Next is the Class of '00, headed by John T. McGovern, with $21,755.60. Class of '19 men, led by Lawrence S. Waterbury, are third with $21,027. Leading the women are the Class of '30, whose representative is Mrs. Walter M. Bacon (Caroline Dawdy), with $3121; Marjorie MacBain's Class of '27 with $2264.83; and the Class of '39, led by Mrs. Ernest Lowens (Madeleine Weil), with $1477. Four classes had exceeded their year's goal by April 22: '08 men, led by Herbert E. Mitler; '09 men, whose Class representative is Newton C. Farr; '12 women, headed by Mrs. Karl E. Pfeiffer (Annie Bullivant); and Mrs. Bacon's '30 women.

Class of '39 men, whose Fund representative is Ralph McCarty, Jr., had the largest number of contributors, 155. Then followed the '53 men, headed by Howard David, with 150; and '43 men, led by George C. Salisbury, Jr., with 139. In percentage of contributor-goal reached, '16 men, headed by Francis H.

Scheetz, led with 60.3; '09 men followed with 58.9; then '17 men, led by Donald Mallory, with 47.6 per cent.

Of the women's Classes, '47 with Mrs. Edward Silver (Melba Levine) as Fund representative, led in contributors with 126. Next came the '49 women, whose representative is Mrs. Milton Kurtz (Diane Barkan), with 86; and '51 women, led by Mrs. Keith M. Seegmiller (Nancy Russell), with 79. The women of '12 had exceeded their year's goal; '51 were next with 73.8 per cent; and the '47 women were third with 73.3 per cent of contributor goal.

Bequests for Memorials

REQUEST from the estate of the widow of William H. Boehm, MME '93, establishes the William H. Boehm Scholarship Endowment to support tuition grants "to worthy students of Cornell's selection." Mrs. Boehm's will left 18 per cent of her residuary estate to the University for this fund and $27,000 has been received. Boehm died January 23, 1957, in New York City. He retired in 1931 as vice-president of Fidelity & Casualty Co.; had been dean of engineering at Clemson College, S.C.

The widow of Henry G. White '93 left the University $25,000 for scholarships in the School of Civil Engineering in memory of her husband. White died August 15, 1952, in Rochester. He retired in 1940 as vice-president of I. M. Ludington's Sons Construction Co.; was a member of Phi Delta Theta and Sphinx Head.

William K. Auchincloss '99, who died last January 24, left the University $1000 "to be used for the improvement of its grounds and buildings." He had retired as an engineer with American Car & Foundry Co.; was a member of Kappa Alpha and Quill & Dagger.

Van Loan Whitehead '08, who died last March 3 in Santa Cruz, Cal., provided in his will that 2 per cent of his residuary estate should come to the University as an unrestricted gift. This will amount to about $2000. For many years, he managed the Buffalo office of Whitehead Brothers Co. He was a Varsity wrestler and secretary of Masque; a member of Theta Delta Chi and Sphinx Head. His brother is James H. Whitehead '06.

US Supreme Court Justice William

O. Douglas and other friends of the late Michael W. Mitchell '56 have established an endowment of $500 in his memory for an annual "award to a Geology student who proves himself adept in other liberal arts fields as well as geology: a student of the world." Mitchell was exploration manager for Lance Corp.; was killed in a uranium mining accident in New Mexico, last August 22. He was a member of Psi Upsilon; brother of Stephen A. Mitchell, Jr. '54 and John A. Mitchell '58.

Dr. George A. and Nora W. Newton Scholarship Endowment for a student in the Medical College is established with a bequest of $15,000 from the widow of Dr. George A. Newton, MD '05. He practiced medicine fifty-six years in Freeport and died March 20, 1956. From Coppermines Foundation of New York City, the Medical College has received an endowment of $27,658. 61 to support scholarships for "medical students of promise who are in need of financial assistance."

Oldest Alumnus

Clarence H. Lee '89 was photographed shortly after his ninety-eighth birthday in his home at 632 Via de Monte, Palos Verdes Estates, Cal. The oldest alumnus of Cornell, he was born January 25, 1862, near Baraboo, Wis.; entered the University in 1885 after five years of teaching and bookkeeping; received the BS in 1889. He was a secretary with Provident Building & Loan Association and Fidelity Building & Loan Association in Los Angeles from 1899 until he retired in 1932. He is in good health and has a lively interest in Cornell.

A centenarian who lives in the Dunham Nursing Home at Saratoga Lake attended the Winter Course in Agriculture when he was forty-nine. Ephraim Wiltsey was born March 5, 1860, in the town of Clifton Park, Saratoga County; was an engineer and then a farmer. He came to the Winter Course in 1909-10.

Togs on the Distaff Side

IN THE LAST ISSUE, possibly under the influence of a belated spring, this reporter became somewhat lyrical on the appearance of Cornell girls at formal evening affairs. Scholarly conscience compels me to inform you that this glamor confines itself to dances and other dates of importance. The run-of-the-mill attire of the co-ed, with only rare exceptions, usually beats the male's for casual informality, and often appears to be downright sloppy.

Nonetheless, I am inclined to think the modern Cornell girl more attractive, on the average, than her forerunners in the nineteen-twenties. She has the advantage of insistence on looking like a girl, in spite of her ventures into various versions of the pantaloons. A couple of years ago, some idiotic dress designers made an attempt to promote the sack or chemise style of frock for young women. This, even though it was only a watered-down version of the hideous abominations that afflicted us thirty-five years ago, failed to go over, and a good thing, too. To recall the full horror of the feminine apparel of the twenties, it is necessary to attend a musical called "The Boy Friend," which is still played occasionally in summer stock. I wasted an evening on this piece in Corning some time ago; it was ruined for me by overly accurate costuming.

Clothing Customs Change

The co-ed of the twenties, I regret to say, conformed to the dictates of the stupidest clothing designers to appear since the landing of the Pilgrims. I was not an admirer of the high lace collars and pleated blouses which came still earlier in the century, but at least they left the wearer shaped like a woman. By contrast, the garb of the nineteen-twenties aimed at "the boyish silhouette" and came disastrously close to attaining its end. In those dismal days, the co-ed wore dresses whose waistline, if one could call it that, dropped almost below her hips. The skirt was so brief as convincingly to reveal that most women have knees far short of a sculptor's dream. Above, some sort of lacing did its best to make the poor girl appear bosomless. If the costumer attained his ideal, she looked something like a stovepipe on stilts, topped by a cloche hat which good taste prevents me from describing. It is a tribute to the life force that the human race survived the twenties.

By contrast, today's co-ed looks female even in pants. And pants she has in diverse variety. They run from full length slacks to shorts sometimes so abbreviated as to suggest the Bikini style. They include dungarees reminiscent of wartime farmerettes. In material, they range from shimmering dacron to near-burlap. These garments are not necessarily unbecoming. It is well to remember that college girls are too young to have developed the figure of a Helen Hokinson matron. Today's co-ed diets down to her trousers, and usually fills them attractively. An exception is Bermuda shorts, in which, I will affirm upon the rack, no one can look well. At Cornell, when worn, they appear usually in peculiarly horrible large check patterns of flannel. Fortunately, fewer and fewer girls seem to be wearing them.

Hair & Tights Get Longer

Whereas the Cornell girl of the nineteen-twenties was almost universally bobbed and shingled, the hair-styles of today show a wider variety. Even long hair has been resurrected, sometimes with spectacular result. That charming popular song, "Scarlet Ribbons for My Hair," has had its effect apparently; among other things, it provides one of the methods of tying up the oft-affected pony-tail. A less appealing method is to use a plain rubber band. Coiffeurs of the bobbed type still abound. For a while there was a rash of Brigitte Bardot's hair-do (or lack of it, if you prefer); a few of these survive, but they are diminishing monthly.

Hosiery also runs a gamut, from non-existence through the bobby-sock into full-length stockings actually disappearing under skirts. Recently, nylons seem to appear only in the evening. This winter, the co-eds began the sensible practice of wearing long woolen tights to protect their shins from the winds howling off Cayuga's waters. These woolies were generally black, though some greens and other solid colors also appeared. Most bobby-socks seem to be white, unless they are bought to match the louder shades of shoe.

Shoes and weird substitutes for them are the items of the Cornell co-eds' garb which most commonly arouse the vociferous ire of their boy-friends. At the risk of my neck, I venture the guess that high heels really are the most favorable manner of displaying the girlish foot and ankle (unless carried to the extreme of making the lass totter in her stride, of course). Now unfortunately, the high heel, like nylon hose, has been almost exclusively relegated to formal evening use, and formal evenings at Cornell are relatively rare. Betwixt and between, the co-ed wears the flattest-footed shoe she can get. The loafer used to predominate, but recently there has been a virulent epidemic of tennis sneakers, with green tops, for instance, and temporarily white soles. All these ersatz shoe-models are of materials impossible to keep clean, or to refurbish when dirty.

Ah well, they are still girls, and no one has suggested a substitute for them!

Add Third Generation

ANOTHER third-generation Cornellian is discovered among the 301 children and grandchildren of alumni who entered the University in 1959. Barbara A. La Chicotte '63, Freshman in Chemical Engineering, was listed in the December 1 ALUMNI NEWS as the daughter of Walter B. LaChicotte, Jr. '33 of Freeport. Her grandfather was the late Walter B. LaChicotte '92. This addition brings the number of known third-generation Cornellians who came last year to forty-one. This compares with twenty-seven new ones in 1958.

Further additions to our published listings of new alumni children are welcome.

Top Insurance Men

MILLION DOLLAR Round Table of the National Association of Life Underwriters has in its membership Carman B. Hill '49 of the Ithaca office of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., for the fifth consecutive year; and Walter W. Schlaepfer '51 of the same office, for the second year, for writing at least $1,000,000 of new business. Lauren E. Bly '38 started this office ten years ago and has with him now also R. Selden Brewer '40 and Frank A. Bettucci '53. Brewer won the Syracuse agency's highest award for increase in new business last year, and all five are in the Massachusetts Mutual Leaders Club, comprising the top 25 per cent of the company's agents in amount of life insurance written.

Two Ithaca representatives of New York Life Insurance Co. have also continued in the Million Dollar Round Table: Dr. Charles H. Webster '04, repeating a record of many years; and Avery D. Gentle '37, for the tenth consecutive year.

Reunion Stamp Exhibit

ALUMNI who are stamp collectors are invited to show their prize specimens in an exhibit in Willard Straight Hall during Class Reunions, June 9-12. Robert L. Markovits '59 is arranging the exhibit. He asks that prospective exhibitors write him at 319 Highland Road, Ithaca, by May 25, describing the stamps they wish to send, number of album pages, and approximate value. Frames and insurance will be provided, he says.

Sculptor's Descendant Here

EDITOR: I was interested in your March 15 article about the stone heads from Boardman Hall that are being put into the new John M. Olin Library. You mentioned that the assistant sculptor's name was John Quayle and I believe he was an ancestor of mine from the Isle of Man. My four grandparents and father were born and brought up on the Isle of Man. I am a Canadian citizen and became interested in Cornell through my step-father, Ross Preston '19. Just a coincidence!

To Amend By-Laws

AMENDMENTS to the by-laws of the Cornell Alumni Association are proposed, to add a standing committee to arrange Faculty Forums such as have proved popular at Reunions the last two years. A proposed addition will be Section 7 of Article VI, "Standing Committees," as follows:

Committee on Faculty Forums consisting of five members, one of whom shall be an Alumni Trustee, two shall be Faculty members, and two alumni, all to be appointed annually by the Alumni Board, which shall designate the chairman. The Committee shall have the duty of planning and conducting such Faculty Forums for alumni as the Board may direct, the purpose being to provide for visiting alumni a presentation of educational activities and research work being undertaken by the University Faculty and thus stimulate continued interest of alumni in Cornell. Participation in the programs, which are to consist of lectures, seminars, and panel discussions, is to be limited to the Cornell University Faculty.

Further changes will make the chairman of the new committee a member of the Association board of directors and of its executive committee. The amendments will be voted on at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in Alice Statler Auditorium, June 11. All alumni are members of the Association.

For Puerto Rican Hotelmen

FOUR NEW SCHOLARSHIPS designed to stimulate interest in Puerto Rico's hotel industry have been presented to the School of Hotel Administration by Laurence S. Rockefeller. Each scholarship is for four years and provides $2500 yearly for each recipient with which to cover tuition, fees, and living expenses. In addition, the scholarships provide $1000 per recipient for transportation. Qualified candidates must be residents of or have strong ties with Puerto Rico, must be bilingual (English and Spanish), and must show a serious interest in practicing hotel administration in Puerto Rico.

The scholarships will begin next fall.

Named after the beautiful resort development which Rockefeller constructed in Dorado, Puerto Rico last year, the "Dorado Beach Scholarships" were arranged through H. Victor Grohmann '28, whose firm, Needham & Grohmann, Inc., directs the advertising of the Dorado Beach Hotel and other Rockefeller interests.

Hold Management Sessions

STUDENTS in the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration planned their annual Management Conference this year on the topic, "Management's New Partner: A Symposium on the Impact of Quantitative Techniques on Administration." About seventy business executives came for the sessions in Statler Hall, April 21-23. They were welcomed by Dean C. Stewart Sheppard of the School and members of the Faculty conducted the discussion groups that ran through Friday and Saturday morning.

Cornellians Take Part

At the conference banquet, President Deane W. Malott introduced J. Carlton Ward, Jr. '14, board chairman of Vitro Corp. of America, who spoke on "Science & Technology in Our Changing Economy." He showed that the United States leads Russia in the 'cold war' through its expenditures for research. Speakers in the discussion sessions included members of the School Faculty and these alumni: Lawrence W. Wheeler '40, executive vice-president, Hardware Products Co., Sterling, Ill.; David H. Shepard '45, vice-president, Farrington Manufacturing Co., Alexandria, Va.; Arthur Snyder, Jr. '50, manager of data processing, Norton Co., Worcester, Mass.; and Robert B. Murray '56 of Eastman Kodak Co. general controller's staff.

Among those who attended the conference were William H. Pope '21, president of W. S. Pope & Sons, Philadelphia, Pa.; Kenneth G. Van Wynen '25 of Bell Telephone Laboratories, New York City; William E. Mullestein '32, vice-president, Lukens Steel Corp., Coatesville, Pa.; Robert J. Schmidt '37, General Aniline & Film Corp., Binghamton; J. Joseph Driscoll, Jr. '44, Scott Paper Co., Chester, Pa.; Kenneth S. Colmen, MBA '49, American Machine & Foundry Co., Springdale, Conn.; E. John Caruso, MBA '51, Nikluk Chemicals, Inc., Niagara Falls; David H. Gruen '51, Marine Midland Corp., Buffalo; H. DeForest Hardinge '53, Hardinge Co., York, Pa.; Edward J. Connell, MPA '55, City Director of Public Safety & Service, Rocky River, Ohio; Marsh A. MacMillan '56, IBM Corp., Endicott; and Per A. Arneberg, MBA '57, president, Peraco Chartering Corp., New York City.

Advisory committee for these annual management conferences has among its members J. D. Tuller '09, Donald McMaster '16, chairman, executive committee, Eastman Kodak Co.; Roland G. Fowler '22, factory manager, Adding Machine Division, National Cash Register Co.; Oscar T. MacMillan '24, vice-president, New York Telephone Co.; Eugene M. Kaufmann, Jr. '26, investment counsel, Philadelphia, Pa.; Charles E. Treman, Jr. '30, president, Tompkins County Trust Co.; and John D. Griswold '50, Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass.

Student chairman of this year's conference staff was Frank W. Bachinsky of Beacon Falls, Conn.

Alumni Law Firm

NEWLY-FORMED law firm in Ithaca is that of Wiggins, Tsapis, Golder & Freeman. Walter J. Wiggins, LLB '51, the senior partner, is a graduate of Union; has practiced law in Ithaca for nine years. Stanley Tsapis, AB '54, LLB '58, played Varsity football for three years and was selected by the Associated Press as all-East and all-Ivy guard in 1953. Arthur J. Golder, Jr. '54 received the LLB here in 1956. Mrs. Golder was Margaret Miller '54. Norman D. Freeman, AB '53, LLB '56, is the son of Professor Harrop A. Freeman '29, Law, and the former Ruth St. John '22. He was a Varsity swimmer and captain of the Corinthian sailing team.

On the Sporting Side - By "Sideliner"

Most Teams Win

THE FIRST big competitive week end of the spring season was an illustrious one for Cornell teams and athletes. All the Varsity teams except lacrosse won, April 29 & 30, and an undergraduate and an alumnus qualified for the US Olympic wrestling squad.

Track Men at Penn Relays

Red track forces performed creditably in the Penn Relays at Philadelphia, April 29 & 30. Friday, the mile relay team placed a close second to Yale in a Heptagonal Games event, won by the Elis in 3:15.9. Less than a stride back was Cornell in 3:16, the fourth-fastest time ever made by a Cornell relay foursome. They ran in this order: Raymond C. Burton '60 (50.4); James J. McSweeney '62 (49.0); Peter W. Brandeis '61 (48.4); Murray B. Moulding '61 (48.2).

Captain John S. Murray '61 tied for the top spot in the college pole vault at 14 feet; Robert Schmitt '62 was third in the college javelin competition with 198 feet 7 inches; sprint medley team of Moulding (440), George A. Ekstrom '61 (220), Burton (220), and Brandeis (880) ran third behind Yale and Manhattan; four-mile relay team of Eric P. Groon '62, Peter G. Slater '62, Paul B. Deignan '62, and Brandeis finished fourth behind Michigan, NYU, and Georgetown. Michigan won in 17:30 and Cornell was only nine seconds back.

Red alumni also did well. Irvin Roberson '58 won the open broad jump with 25 feet 3¾ inches and defeated Olympic champion Greg Bell, who leaped 24:7¼. Albert W. Hall '56 was third in the open hammer throw with 188:5½. He was behind Bill McWilliams, formerly of Bowdoin, and Bob Backus, formerly of Tufts.

April 23, the Red overwhelmed Colgate in a dual meet at Hamilton, 104½-35½. Cornell took first in fourteen of the sixteen events. Ekstrom won both dashes, taking the 100 in 0:09.8, the 220 in 0:21.5.

On the same day on Schoellkopf Field, the Frosh track team was soundly beaten by Penn State, 78-53. Hurdler David M. Dornbusch of Maplewood, N.J. was the only Cornellian to win a running event. He won the 220-yard low hurdles in 0:25.9. State's Bob Grantham won the 100, 200, and broad jump and Gary Norman won the mile and two-mile.

Baseball Team Beats Dartmouth

After two inept performances against Upsala and Brown, April 21 & 22 on Hoy Field, the Varsity baseball team beat Dartmouth, 10-5, at Hanover, April 30, and looked pretty good.

This well-manned team had seemed to held respectable promise, but was its

Cosmologists Expound Space Theories—Professor Thomas Gold (right), Director of the new University Center for Radiophysics & Space Research and professor of Astronomy & Electrical Engineering, arranged for three of his colleagues to discuss their theories and discoveries relating to outer space for the benefit of scholars and laymen. For three and a half hours in Phillips Hall, April 5, the four talked about the work in which they are engaged. At left is Professor Ray A. Lyttleton of Cambridge University, who is lecturer at the Space Center here. His topic was "An Electric Universe?" Next is Professor Hermann Bondi of Kings College, London, who is visiting professor of Mathematics and discussed "Relativity." Professor Edwin E. Salpeter, Physics & Nuclear Studies, spoke on "Age & Evolution of the Galaxy." Professor Gold's topic was "The Steady State Universe & the Condensation of Galaxies." Professors Gold, Bondi, and Lyttleton are three of the four members of the "Cambridge group" of young scientists who studied together there and are said to have contributed more valid new space theories than any other group of contemporary scientists.

own executioner in the Upsala and Brown games when it committed six and five errors, respectively. Upsala won a six-inning game, 7-2, called because of darkness, and Brown won a nine-inning contest, 10-6. The only exciting thing in either game for the hardy local fans was a prodigious home run by outfielder Robert L. Reed '61 in the Brown game. He hit one over the fence in the second inning between right and center at the 415-foot sign and brought in 2 runs besides his own. That was it. The Red scored 2 in the first and 4 in the second and then closed up offensive shop for the day.

It was Bob Reed who started off the big fireworks at Hanover, too, but he had some help on this occasion. With the score 4-2 for the Indians, Reed hit a triple to start off the eighth inning. This was followed by singles by third baseman Richard C. Goldstein '60 and shortstop Patrick J. Pennucci '62. With the bases thereby loaded, first baseman Ronald S. Ivkovich '61 hit a triple and cleared the bases except for himself. He came in later, as did two more runners.

Senior pitcher H. Laurance Fuller started the game for the Red, but was relieved in the fourth when the Dartmouth batters got to him consistently. Sophomore Harvey L. Kaufman stemmed the tide for a while, but another Sophomore had to give him relief in the sixth. The bases were loaded and there were two outs when Arlo R. McDowell '62 assumed the throwing post. He threw the next man out and gave up only one hit the rest of the game.

Both teams had frustrations. Dartmouth had seventeen men left on base; Cornell, fourteen. The box score:

The Freshman team beat Oswego State Teachers junior varsity, 7-2, April 22, and Cortland junior varsity, 5-4, April 27, both on Hoy Field.

Two Lightweight Crews Win

In a heroic struggle on Lake Carnegie, the 150-pound crew won a slim four-foot victory over Princeton, April 30. Timed in 6:33.2 over the mile-and-five-sixteenths course, six-tenths of a second faster than the Tigers, the Red Varsity lightweight boat had to come from behind to win.

Princeton started in the lead, but the Red boat, understroking by as much as four and five strokes, quickly took over. Princeton came up with about 200 yards to go and shot ahead, but Coxswain Phillip Herkenhoff '60 brought the beat up and overtook the Tigers just before the finish line.

The Red Junior Varsity won by a length and a half. The Freshmen lost by a close 1.1 seconds.

Princeton had won its two previous races. It was the first competition for the Cornell squad coached by Walter W. Schlaepfer '51.

Yale Beats Lacrosse Team

Varsity lacrosse team lost its first official game at Ithaca, April 30, when it was soundly defeated by Yale, 11-6, on Lower Alumni Field.

April 20, Penn State was defeated at University Park, 12-3; April 23, on Lower Alumni Field, Dartmouth was an easy victim, 19-1; and Colgate was no harder, April 27 at Hamilton, when the Red won, 11-2.

But Yale was making up for two years of defeats. It was a tight game until the last period, however. Cornell had a second-period scoring spree during which it hit the nets three times in 1:14 to move ahead, 5-3. It was raining, but the large crowd stayed and cheered. Yale had its splurge right after that. It scored 2 within thirty-eight seconds and got another just two seconds before the half-time break. All-Ivy John Allen with 4 goals was too deft a scorer for the Red and the Eli defense was rugged and effective. John E. Beeby '61 made the only Cornell score in the second half on a solo dash. Cornell star Captain David L. Dresser '60 was the prime target of the Blue defense and he was held to one goal.

The Freshmen won their third straight game by walloping Union, 23-0, on Upper Alumni Field, April 30. They defeated Penn State, 14-5, at University Park, April 20; Syracuse, 12-2, at Syracuse, April 22; and Colgate, 13-1, at Hamilton, April 27.

Tennis Team Takes Harvard

For the first time since 1950, Cornell defeated Harvard in tennis. It won the exciting match on the Cascadilla Courts, April 29, by a 5-4 score. April 20, the Red netmen beat Colgate 6-3; and April 23, Penn State was beaten, 8-1, both on the Cascadilla Courts.

With the score tied at 4-4, the Harvard meet hinged on the outcome of the second doubles match in which Samuel Dugan '60, son of William D. Dugan '35 and the former Ruth Harder '35, and Peter H. Moeller '61 met Mark Woodbury & Alden Briggs. The Cornell duo won the first set, 6-2, but lost the second by the same score. To continue the tenseness, the bitterly fought games stood at 5-5 in the third set. Dugan netted the ball fiercely. Moeller hit mostly "junk" balls. The Harvard combination were constantly thrown off in their timing and the Cornellians went on to win, 9-7.

In the No. 1 match, Donald Rubell '61 defeated Bob Bowditch, New England singles champion, 6-3, 0-6, 6-3. One of the most thrilling was the second match, in which P. Kay Champion '60, son of Dr. Phillips K. Champion '30, won over Harvard's captain, Tim Gallway. Down 4-1 and 5-3 in the third and decisive set, Champion rallied to win, 7-5. Moeller's calm victory over Fred Winton and the doubles win by Rubell & Champion over Gallway & Nowditch set the stage for the frenzied finish. The summary:

Singles: Rubell, C, defeated Bowditch, 6-3, 0-6, 6-3; Champion, C, defeated Gallway, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5; Moeller, C, defeated Vinton, 6-4, 6-2; Smith, H, defeated Dugan, 6-1, 6-3; Woodbury, H, defeated Braverman, 6-3, 6-3; Briggs, H, defeated Ripp, 6-1, 6-0.

Doubles: Champion and Rubell, C, defeated Gallway and Bowditch, 6-1, 6-1; Moeller and Dugan, C, defeated Woodbury and Briggs, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7; Smith and Vinton, H, defeated Braverman and Ripp, 6-1, 6-2.

Other Sports

CORNELL GOLFERS lost to Colgate, 5-2, at Hamilton, April 20, and defeated St. Lawrence, 7-0, April 30, on the University Golf Course. Shooting in No. 1 position for the Red is Warner B. Berry '62 son of the late Romeyn Berry '04 and Mrs. Berry (Hester Bancroft) '22.

The Freshman golf team was also beaten by Colgate at Hamilton, April 20, but the score was closer, 4-3. They defeated Broome Tech twice, at Binghamton, 6½-2½, April 23, and 6-1 April 30, on the University Course.

Varsity polo team won a 15-14 squeaker over Cleveland Riding Club at the Riding Hall, April 23. A last-seconds goal by Frank S. Butterworth III '63 just made the difference. Cornell opened up a 12-5 lead at half-time, but was tied at 14-14 with one and a half minutes to go. Bennett M. Baldwin '61 and Dierk M. Terlouw '60 were Butterworth's teammates.

David E. Barlow '61 of Canton was elected captain of the 1960-61 Varsity hockey team. A Junior in Agriculture, he is the first captain to be elected since the sport was revived in 1957. He made five goals and had six assists for the season.

Two Win Olympic Trials

CAPTAIN DAVID C. AUBLE '60 won the wrestling trials at Ames, Iowa, April 28-30, in the 125.5-pound class for the Roman Games this summer and Frank A. Bettucci '53 won his way to qualification in the 145.5-pound class. Under new regulations, they must continue their mastery until August 4, when the team is finally selected. Until then, the next two finishers in their classes continue to train with the squad when it reconvenes at Norman, Okla., July 22, and may challenge them twice for their berths. The US team takes off for the Olympics via Pan-American Airways, August 12.

For two Cornellians to finish first in Olympic wrestling trials is unusual enough, but to have both boys hail from Ithaca enlarges the local phenomenon. No Cornellian has wrestled in the Olympic Games since Charles E. Ackerly '20 won the 136-pound championship for the US at Antwerp in 1920. Only fourteen Americans have won Olympic titles. Bettucci was the Olympic trials winner in 1956 at 145.5 pounds, but injured his knee while on the scene at Melbourne, Australia, and had to be replaced.

Olympic trials are conducted on the international system, as are the Olympic Games, and a system of bad points determines the outcome. Only a pin in every match escapes bad points. Six bad points eliminates. Auble had only one bad point in his seven matches. He pinned Dave Keating of Lincoln, Nebr., Lloyd King of the US Marine Corps, Wayne Simons of Norfolk, Va., George Jurineau of Chicago, Ill., Ray Osborne of San Francisco, Cal., and Art Rapoza of New York Athletic Club, and won by lop-sided decision over Larry Lauchle of Pittsburgh, Pa. He had a narrow escape against Jurineau. Suffering from badly bruised ribs, he was having some difficulty in this bout and was behind, 5-2, as the clock approached the end and Jurineau was prudently on the run. The dogged Cornellian caught Jurineau with eleven seconds to go, took him down, and the referee signalled that he was pinned with just four seconds remaining. In spite of the bruised ribs and a painfully swollen knee, Auble went on to beat Lauchle and Osborne. Auble's one penalty point was three less than runner-up Lauchle.

Bettucci had four penalty points, one less than the next man, Shelby Wilson of Oklahoma State. Bettucci and Wilson drew in their bout, but Bettucci's point-score brought him out ahead. Other Cornellians at Ames were Stephen Friedman '59, who was eliminated in the 160.5-pound class, and Carmon J. Molino '58, who lost out in the 114.5-pound division.

Sloan Fellows at MIT

TWO CORNELLIANS are among the forty-eight young executives sent by their companies this year to the School of Industrial Management at MIT and receiving Sloan Fellowships in executive development. Conrad F. DeSieno '45 has been since 1951 with American Gas & Electric Service Corp. and is now a staff engineer. He received the BSinEE at Illinois Institute of Technology in 1948. Donald C. Beaumariage '46 is manager of electronics systems design & project manager of advanced radar system contract at the RCA Defense Electronics Products Division in Moorestown, N.J. He received the MSinEE in 1948 and ScDinEE in 1950 at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

As part of their course at MIT, the Sloan Fellows flew to Europe, May 20, to interview political, financial, and industrial leaders in England, France, and Belgium; to return June 6. Earlier, they spent a week in Washington, meeting with members of the Cabinet and other government officials, ambassadors, business leaders, and had dinner with Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Among the Sloan Fellows at MIT in former years have been George C. Brainard, Jr. '38, Norman F. Rohn '41, Philip E. Hogin '42, Edward H. Carman III '44, William S. Wheeler '44, H. Follett Hodgkins, Jr. '49, and Douglas W. Anderson '50.

Library Group Elects

LIBRARY ASSOCIATES at their annual meeting, April 25, elected Newton C. Farr '09 of Chicago, Ill. as president for the next two years. Farr is a book collector noted especially for his interest in books, manuscripts, and pamphlets concerning the Civil War. He succeeds William G. Mennen '09, who gave the Library the Wyndham Lewis papers and was the principal donor of the James Joyce papers and earlier, gave the Shakespeare Folios. During Mennen's presidency, the Library Associates attained the highest membership and made the largest number of gifts to the Library in the eighteen years of the organization's existence.

Wins New Memorial Soccer Trophy—Ronald P. Maierhofer '60 holds the Clive Beckford Memorial Trophy, of which he is the first winner. The Trophy was given by Quill & Dagger, Red Key, and the Redmen in memory of Clive S. Beckford '60, last year's soccer team co-captain who died playing soccer, last September 6, at Kingston, Jamaica, where he lived. He was all-Ivy League center halfback in 1958 and was secretary of Quill & Dagger. The Trophy is for "that soccer player who in the opinion of his teammates typifies the outstanding ability, spirit, and determination that made Clive Beckford '60 dear to us all." Maierhofer, all-America soccer player, is a Senior in Industrial & Labor Relations, from Buffalo. He is president of Quill & Dagger and of the Class of '60; a member of Delta Upsilon. At left is Director of Athletics Robert J. Kane '34; at right, Coach George D. Patte.

Photo Science

Professor Bertram F. Willcox '17, Law, was elected vice-president of the Associates and Felix Reichmann, Assistant Director of the Library, was re-elected treasurer, as was Professor George H. Healey, PhD '47, Curator of Rare Books, secretary. Professors Paul W. Gates, History; James Hutton '24, Classics; and Lauriston Sharp, Sociology & Anthropology, were elected directors.

To Train Bacteriologists

DAIRY INDUSTRY Department of the College of Agriculture has received a grant of $109,000 from the National Institutes of Health for additional research and graduate teaching in Bacteriology. Apportioned over five years, the grant will enable the Department to train about six more students a year for the Master's and Doctor's degrees besides the ten a year it now has. Professor Harry W. Seeley, Jr., PhD '47, directs the work in Bacteriology.

Rainy weather put some restrictions on activities of the annual Parents Week End, April 29-May 1. President Deane W. Malott led a student-Faculty symposium which explored the advantages of technical versus liberal education; Red Key members guided visitors around the Campus; the Big Red Barn provided music at a barbecue in Barton Hall; the Repertoire Band gave its first outdoor concert of the season in front of Willard Straight Hall; the Glee Club and Savage Club of Ithaca gave a show in Bailey Hall Friday evening; and a "Spring Tonic" concert was given by the Sherwoods and seven other collegiate singing groups, Saturday night. Willard Straight Hall held its traditional open house featuring such events as folk singing, a crafts display, a spring fashion show, and a casino night club. Arnold S. Jacobs '60 of New York City was chairman of the all-student committee which directed and coordinated the many activities for an estimated 800 parents of students.

Captain David C. Auble '60 of the wrestling team was the recipient of the Sun Athlete Award at the annual Sun banquet in the Ithaca Hotel, April 22. Selected as the Senior athlete "most exemplary of the best in Cornell athletic tradition for four years, 1957-1960," his award was presented by the retiring sports editor, Robert L. Laufer '60 of Flushing. Also honored at the banquet was Foster M. Coffin '12, who will retire as chairman of the board of directors of the Sun corporation. Coffin was presented a certificate recognizing his contributions to the paper, both as editor and as a director.

New Assistant Editor

MRS. MARGARET BAYNE Hollister '45 has joined the staff of the ALUMNI NEWS as assistant editor. She replaces Ian Elliot '50, who resigned to manage the Ithaca office of Stewart Howe Alumni Service.

Mrs. Hollister will write news stories and features and will make up the magazine. She was born and grew up in Ithaca, the daughter of Professor Thomas L. Bayne, Jr., PhD '26, who retired in 1951 from the Department of Rural Education, and Mrs. Bayne, Sp '21-'22. She entered Home Economics in 1941; played in the University Orchestra and was elected to Pi Lambda Theta; is a member of Alpha Xi Delta. The last three years, Mrs. Hollister has been on the staff of the trade magazines, Cooperative Digest and Farm Power in Ithaca. She is the former wife of John G. Hollister '41.

Represent University

ACADEMIC DELEGATE of the University at the inauguration of Paul G. Bulger as president of the State College of Education in Buffalo, May 7, was Mrs. James W. Kideney (Isabel Houck) '22. The same day in Washington, D.C., Patricia M. Williams '59 represented Cornell at a twenty-fifth anniversary convocation of Dunbarton College of Holy Cross.

Robert O. Case '48 was Cornell's delegate at the inauguration of Donald E. Walker as president of Idaho State College in Pocatello, May 14.

Tutoring Fund is Gone

FOR TWO AND A HALF YEARS, the College of Engineering has offered tutoring aid in Mathematics and Physics to Freshmen, to reduce the number of failures in the College. About sixty upperclassmen with academic averages above 83 were employed in each of the first two years. The program originally made possible by a gift from an anonymous donor, has now been discontinued because the fund is exhausted.

Robert T. Franson '61 of Rowayton, Conn., the new editor of The Cornell Engineer, points out that not only have the Freshman Engineers benefited greatly from the program, but it has provided both financial aid and teaching experience to qualified Engineering upperclassmen. The tutors have shown great ability in their tutor work and one-third of them are considering teaching as a career. "The experience obtained and the interest aroused in the teaching profession are valuable by-products," Franson's editorial says. He concludes:

"The cost of continuing this program is small in terms of the great benefits it offers. Unfortunately, the University's heavy financial commitments will not permit an appropriation to assure its continuation. It is our earnest hope that some of our alumni will see the important benefits of the tutoring plan and provide the funds needed for its support."

Familiar red and white Cornell pennant has been prominently placed in the Hall of Learning at the University of Natal in Durban, South Africa. The pennant, along with a printed scroll, were gifts of the students enrolled in the Hotel School's first Public Relations class, directed by guest lecturer Robert L. Bliss '30. The gifts were sent in commemoration of Natal's International Educational Conference which opens July 9. The scroll was signed by the forty members of the class, representing nine countries.

"Gold-plated gizmos" were the product around which centered a recent contest between students in the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration and those of University of Virginia. The contest ended in a tie for the championship of International Business Machines Corporation's collegiate management games. Playing the parts of competing companies, the two finalist teams competed in New York City to solve simulated marketing problems with an IBM computer. Kenneth T. Derr '58 of Merion Station, Pa. acted as president of the "Cornell Co." His teammates were Richard G. Brandenburg '57 of Ithaca, Donald G. Armstrong '58 of Pittsburgh, Pa., James M. Edgar '58 of Ithaca, and Thomas W. Kemp '58 of Kettering, Ohio.

Panhellenic Council is investigating a request for establishment of a new predominantly Jewish sorority at Cornell. By the end of the month, a questionnaire distributed to 300 women who chose not to pledge sororities after formal rushing will tell whether there is a desire for a new sorority. The recommendations of the Council will be submitted to Dean of Women for further consideration.

Mary E. Guyer '61 of Bogota, Colombia, has been awarded the J. G. White Tuition Scholarship for next year. She was selected by the Division of Modern Languages and the Department of Romance Literature for the excellent quality of her work in Spanish.

Twenty music students of voice, piano, and 'cello presented a recital in Barnes Hall Auditorium, May 1, sponsored by Willard Straight Hall and the Department of Music. The performers are pupils of Professors Keith Falkner, Daniel Eller, and John Hsu.

Forty fraternity men from Pi Lambda Phi, Delta Tau Delta, and Pi Kappa Phi spent the afternoon of April 23 at Camp Barton and, under supervision of the Boy Scout Council camping committee, helped to prepare the Camp for the summer season. This type of work project has been carried on for many years. It provides not only a beneficial service to the community, but stimulates fraternity houses in the annual contest for the IFC community-service trophy.

New service of Willard Straight Hall is an automatic telephone-answering device which gives the caller a complete listing of all current movies showing in the area. The main desk has been answering about 250 calls a day asking for information on movies in town. Anne W. deForest '61 of Ithaca provides the half-minute "recorded voice" on tape.

Patricia A. Parker '63, Freshman in Home Economics, won commendation for heroism in her home town of Brownville and a letter from President Malott. March 30, while she was at home during spring recess, she waded into a flooded stream with her two younger brothers and saved the life of a ten-year-old boy who had been swept into the water. She is the daughter of Mrs. Eugene J. Parker (Joan Rochow) '40.

Certificates of merit were presented at the first annual banquet of the Executive Board, April 30, to students who have served on student government activities. President Victor L. Butterfield '27 of Wesleyan University, former Alumni Trustee of Cornell, and President Deane W. Malott were featured speakers.

April issue of ILR News has a photo of a Freshman in that School taken at the Hudson Coal Co. mine in Scranton, Pa. It was used to illustrate an extensive article on the School in the magazine, America Illustrated, that circulates behind the Iron Curtain.

Home Economics Club has elected as president for next year Jean R. Stelljes '61 of Trenton, N.J. Karen C. Mars '62 of Great Neck is vice-president; Patricia A. Morrison '62 of Wilmington, Del., secretary; and Kay L. McIntire '62 of Wilmington, Del., treasurer. The Club gave the College of Home Economics two $200 scholarships, one for an upperclasswoman in the Club and one for an incoming Freshman. The funds were profits from Club coffee hours held weekday mornings in the Warren Hall student lounge.

Cornell Committee Against Segregation has been given official recognition by the Student Government Executive Board. Peter Sterling '62 of Rye is chairman of the group; Robert S. Starobin '61 of New York City, treasurer; and Lawrence E. Goldman '60 of New York City is secretary. Professor Bertram F. Willcox '17, Law, is advisor of the Committee, which has some eighty active members. The students have been working in close cooperation with a local advisory group which includes Ithacans. In an attempt to promote constructive protest to segregation and to help in raising funds for the legal expenses of Negro students in the South, the Committee and a similar Ithaca group have sponsored a "Walk for Freedom" program designed to promote student and local interest and support of their objectives. A part of this program was a discussion of segregation led by Professors Robin M. Williams, Sociology & Anthropology, and Edward W. Fox, History. To May 1, the student group had raised almost $1000.

THE FACULTY

Professor Fisher manages the structural testing facilities at the University; he designed the new structural model analysis laboratory in Hollister Hall and much of its equipment. He teaches courses in structural design and graduate courses in advanced structural analysis.

Professor Mary B. Wood '37, Economics of the Household & Household Management, has been appointed assistant to Dean Helen G. Canoyer of the College of Home Economics. She received the AB in 1937 and MSinEd in 1942; has served as Extension home economist in providing marketing information for consumers. From 1944-48, she was a staff assistant for the American Red Cross in the European Theatre and in Labrador. In 1954, she received the Faculty Traveling Fellowship in Home Economics and attended an international conference on methods of extension at University of Wageningen in the Netherlands. She has contributed to trade magazines and is the author of a chapter, "Food Purchasing," in the book Food Guide & Quantity Cookery for Young Children. She is a former president of the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca.

Professor Hans A. Bethe, Physics & Nuclear Studies, who maintains that an atomic test ban is feasible, testified April 21 before the Senate-House atomic energy committee. The public hearing was on technical and scientific problems involved in a nuclear weapons test ban. Professor Bethe has served as a member of President Eisenhower's scientific advisory committee.

Research grant of $57,000 from the Air Force Office of Scientific Research has been awarded to Professor Martin Gibbs, Biochemistry & Nutrition, for work on photosynthesis, the process by which green plants take in carbon dioxide and release oxygen. Through his research Professor Gibbs hopes to shed light on a controversial question among scientists: namely, what chemicals enable a plant to take a one-carbon compound (carbon dioxide) and convert it, along with water, into a six-carbon compound (sugar) and oxygen. He will feed radioactive carbon dioxide to algae, simple water plants that alone replenish about 80 per cent of the earth's oxygen, and note which compounds in the plant become radioactive and in what order. He notes that photosynthesis as conducted by tiny, easy-to-carry algae would be an ideal way to replenish oxygen on a space ship. Easily grown algae would not only absorb carbon dioxide and give off oxygen, but could be eaten as food for their high protein and fat content.

Director Edgar A. Whiting '29 of Willard Straight Hall, secretary since 1941 of the Association of College Unions, attended the thirty-seventh annual conference of the Association at Indiana University, April 24-27, along with Raymond Becker, director of the Straight's dining services, Ronald Faircloth, workshop director, Mrs. Leona Chang Crozier, MS '58, assistant program director, and Joyce Hauber, food production supervisor. Director Emeritus Foster M. Coffin '12, Association historian, was speaker at a luncheon.

"Alcoholism afflicts about 3 per cent of the nation's industrial work force," Professor Harrison M. Trice, Industrial & Labor Relations, is reported as saying at the annual meeting of the National Council on Alcoholism in New York City, March 26. The New York Times quoted him as saying that "while many companies would not admit it, the incidence of alcoholism among the executive group was also very high. It is more easily concealed among this group than in the industrial worker's, but ultimately costs business a great deal in poor decision-making and expensive errors."

New York Farmers' Award for outstanding research was presented in New York City, April 19, to Professor Michael Peech, Agronomy. Established by a group of professional and business men interested in farming, the award consists of $500 and a bronze medal. Professor Peech was cited for his many years of fundamental research in soil chemistry, the results of which have been applied to solving many practical agronomic problems. He developed a system of rapid micro-chemical tests for estimating the fertilizer needs of soils which are now being used throughout the United States and in many other parts of the world. His research on the significance of ion activity has uncovered crucial information about the ionic environment of plant roots in soil-water systems and the mechanism of uptake of nutrient elements from soils by plant roots. Professor Peech is responsible for a publication with the US Department of Agriculture which led to standardization of chemical methods for soil fertility investigations.

Professor Philip Morrison, Physics & Nuclear Studies, contributes a discussion of "Cause, Chance, and Creation" to the "Adventures of the Mind" series in the Saturday Evening Post for April 30. The "Keeping Posted" section of the magazine explains that the article was negotiated with the author and completed while he was lecturing successively at the Imperial College of Science & Technology in London; in Rome; at Weizmann Institute of Science in Rehovot, Israel; at Tata Institute, Bombay, India; and at University of Tokyo, "just before he departed for Kyoto." The report concludes: "A good man's hard to find, the song goes, and that seems to go double for space-age scientists on a sabbatical."

Join Farm Loan Group

RALPH D. MORGAN '29 of Linwood and Walter J. Banker '48 of Plattsburgh have been appointed to the advisory committee for New York State of the US Department of Agriculture Farmers Home Administration. Robert A. Van Order '35 is State director of FHA, with offices in Syracuse. FHA loans to farmers.

Dr. Miller '34 Dies

PROFESSOR MALCOLM EUGENE MILLER '34, head of the Anatomy Department in the Veterinary College since 1947, died April 18. An expert on the anatomy of the dog, he was working on a monumental book, the most complete and authoritative to be written in English. His Dissection Guide to a Dog's Anatomy is used in many veterinary schools in the United States and England.

Professor Miller came to the Veterinary College in 1930 after two years at Penn State. He received the DVM in 1934; BS in 1935; MS in 1936; PhD in 1940. He was appointed assistant in Anatomy in 1932, instructor in 1934, assistant professor in 1940, associate professor in 1946, professor in 1947. He was a member of Omega Tau Sigma, Alpha Zeta, Phi Zeta, and Phi Kappa Phi and of the American & State Veterinary Medical Societies. He and Mrs. Miller (Mary Wells) '35 lived in Danby, RD 4, Ithaca. Jesse W. Miller '59 and Faith V. Miller '62 are their children.

Alumni Win AIA Honors

CORNELL ARCHITECTS had a large share of the honors awarded at the annual convention of the American Institute of Architects in San Francisco, Cal., April 18-23.

Philip Will, Jr. '28 was elected president of the AIA for this year and his firm of Perkins & Will (with Lawrence B. Perkins '30) was given an award of merit for recent buildings "which demonstrate true leadership in architectural design." One of five honor awards in this class went to the firm of Corlett & Sparkman, Kitchen & Hunt, Architects Associated, of which Robert S. Kitchen '34 is a member, for the Blyth Arena (used for the Olympic Games) at Squaw Valley, Cal. Awards of merit were given also to buildings designed by Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, of which Nathaniel A. Owings '27 is a partner, and by Pietro Belluschi '24 and Associated Architects Rogers, Taliaferro & Lamb. An award of the National Association of Home Builders & AIA was won by the firm of Jones & Frederick E. Emmons, Jr. '28, and a Better Homes award was given to the firm of Russell T. Pancoast '22, Ferendino, Skeels & Burnham.

Geoffrey N. Lawford '28 of New York City and Robert A. Eyerman '32 of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. were elected Fellows of the AIA, and honorary Fellowship was awarded to Santiago Agurto-Calvo, MArch '48, of Lima, a past-president of the Peruvian Society of Architects. Henry S. Churchill '15 of Philadelphia, Pa. was made an honorary member of the Mexican Society of Architects by an official delegation from that country.

Chairman of the general AIA convention committee was Donn E. Emmons '33 of San Francisco.

About fifty alumni attended a luncheon arranged by the Cornell Club of Northern California at the University Club in San Francisco, April 19. Dean Thomas W. Mackesey of the College of Architecture told of recent developments at the University.

Addresses are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians are welcomed for publication. Class columns are written by correspondents whose names appear. Names & addresses in column headings are for Classes with group subscriptions or those in which at least half the members are News subscribers.

'02 AB—Bibliography Society of London, England, has announced the award of its Gold Medal to "the distinguished paleographer, Dr. Elias A. Lowe." Lowe's address is Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N.J., where he has been professor of paleography since 1936.

'10 Roy Taylor
Old Fort Rd.
Bernardsville, N.J.

At our last Reunion, the 45th, the West Coast was represented by John S. Longwell of Piedmont, Cal. and Glen (Woodie) Woodruff of Oakland. This June they will again be back and hope to be joined by Ernie Cobb, Hill Jones, and Charlie May from California, Oregon, and Washington, respectively, and who have not been seen by their old friends and Classmates for many moons here in the East.

One of the West Coast contingent is pictured above, John Longwell, who writes that he will come East early in June with Mrs. Longwell and they plan to be at our 50th in Ithaca. They will also visit a son in Westfield, N.J. John's family is a bit scattered as he has a daughter living in San Leandro, Cal. and a son in Caracas, Venezuela. After getting the CE at Cornell in 1910, John spent fourteen years with the US Reclamation Service in various parts of the West on irrigation work. After that, he spent twenty-six years with the East Bay Municipal Utility District of Oakland, Cal., retiring from the District in 1950. During the last sixteen years with the District, he was general manager and chief engineer. This District develops and supplies water to the many cities and communities on the east side of San Francisco Bay.

After leaving the District, John opened his own office in Oakland as a consultant on water supply problems. During the last few years he has served on a board of consulting engineers in connection with the selection of the aqueduct route to bring water from northern California into southern California. This is the project for which the California Legislature during the past year has called a bond election for November, 1960 in the amount of $1.75 billion dollars. John says: "I am looking forward to seeing you and the others of '10 at Ithaca in June. My last visit was in 1955, which I enjoyed very much, and which, incidentally, was the first time I had been back since leaving Ithaca in 1910."

'11 Howard A. Lincoln
80 Bennington St.
Springfield 8, Mass.

About Howard D. (J.C.) Hadley (above) Whisper Heath writes as follows: "I first met JC (a nickname he acquired in Ithaca High 'cause he always preceded sentences with the full name of a Biblical character) in the fall of 1906 when we both arrived at Ithaca High to take more stuff so we could enter Cornell with less than four conditions. His full name was Howard David Hadley and he hailed from a crossroads called Mumford, which I was told was somewhere near Le Roy and Caledonia, and although I have always remembered the name of the place, it wasn't until two years ago that I

CLASS REUNIONS IN ITHACA, JUNE 9-11

'00, '05, '10, '15, '20, '25, '30, '35, '40, '45, '50, '55, '57

satisfied my curiosity by going off my route to Buffalo and taking a look. What I saw wasn't much, but I had a h--- of a time trying to explain to my wife why I was there as the old gag of 'wrong turn' didn't seem to get over. She still thinks I was looking for one of my old gals and probably did see her beating the drum in the Salvation Army Band which was really out that day trying to gather in the coins. Well, to get back to JC, we were thrown together quite a bit as our names both began with 'H' and we sang in the School Glee Club and attended the Deutscher Verein together. He tried out for baseball in the spring of 1907, but he never made the team as there wasn't a pair of pants in stock that would fit him. He was then about 6 ft. 3 or 4, and the pants he brought with him from Mumford were skin tight and only came down to within three inches of his knees. And when he tried to bend over to field a ground ball, well, he just couldn't, so the coach benched him 'til more pants could be found; but JC couldn't wait, so he wandered down to the Cornell Boat House and watched the crews work out, and became interested, and as you know, he made our Freshman crew which was one of the best on record. So, one might say, 'For want of a pair of baseball pants, JC became a crewman.' After his Freshman year, he decided not to follow the strenuous crew training and took up soccer football in which he excelled, but he still liked crew, and ended up coaching the college crews, and from which several men advanced to Varsity due to the knowledge he was able to give them to perform properly. After graduation as an EE, he was engaged building power houses, bridges, and other structures along the New York Barge Canal. Then went with Cyanamid Corp. and finally after World War I, he became interested in the hardware business in Seneca Falls and hit the tops. He still owns it, but one of his sons runs it while he is wintering here in Florida. At first he used to worry about what was going on back home, but he admitted last year that the business makes more money when he is in Florida than when he is back home; but he says it's the busy season in the winter, and hence the more profits, but he knows better, so stays longer each year."

Notes and Quotes: "Missed 40th & 45th, but hope to make 50th."—Harry S. Graham, 200 East 66th, New York City 21. "Expect to be at our 50th. Will see you all then."—George S. Hendrickson, 1555 Half Day, Rd., Bannockburn, Deerfield, Ill. "Nothing new; arthritis still with me. Trying a new doctor; says he can get me in shape for the next cruise."—Charles G. Beavers, 54 South Country Rd., Bellport. "Nothing new just keeping fit for June, 1961."—Colonel A. (Gus) Norton, USA (ret.), 1339 Westover Ave., Norfolk, Va.

'13 Harry E. Southard

South Bend 14, Ind.

John J. D. McCormick, 68 Harvard St.,

Holyoke, Mass., is still in the stone business. He has five daughters, all married, scattered all the way from Switzerland to Elmira. And there are ten grandchildren. John keeps up his interest in Cornell, bringing likely prospects down to Ithaca from time to time. He sees Fitz (Harold A.) Fitzsimmons occasionally. Fitz recently received a pin for twenty-five years service with the Springfield newspaper. He is court reporter for the Springfield Daily News and lives at 2 Silver St., South Hadley Center, Springfield, Mass.

Here is an interesting picture (above) of John Paul Jones, our Class president, reacting to the news that the Australian Herb Elliott had run the mile in 3:54.5, the world's record. As you know, JP in our time held the world's record for the mile run. In fact, on that same afternoon in his Sophomore year that he ran the record mile, he also broke the record for the half mile. He was the world's fastest miler during our Cornell days, and could just about win as he pleased in any distance from the half up to the cross country race.

JP moved out to Tucson, Ariz. (Box 55, Route 4) seven years ago, ostensibly to retire. Actually, he very quickly got back in business again there as a consulting engineer. JP can boast of quite a few grandchildren. His wife passed away shortly after they moved to Arizona, when JP had eight grandchildren. In 1957 he married Mrs. Ruth Pierce, whom he had known for forty years. She had two grandchildren. Then, since they were married, two more grandchildren have been added to the progeny. So they now have a total of twelve grandchildren which Ruth classifies as "8—His'n, 2—Her'n, and 2—Our'n. Herm Coors lives a quarter of a mile from them and they see them real often. Spide Clute usually gets down there every year in February. And Bill Hazelton '12, an old track buddy of JP's, lives about a mile from them. So it looks like they have quite a few Cornell contacts.

Beeb (Edgar V.) Beebe, 44 Mohonk Ave., New Paltz, announces he was remarried March 5 to Gertrude Thompson of Los Angeles, Cal. Beeb has a son and daughter, both Cornell graduates, and five grandchildren. He is looking forward to having some of the five grandchildren constitute a third generation "on the Hill."

So long!

'14 Emerson Hinchliff
400 Oak Ave.
Ithaca, N.Y.

Sherwood Smith of New York and West Nyack, his wife, and two attractive grandchildren, who may be on Campus eventually, gave us a thrill April 14 by hailing us between the acts at The Savoyards' production of "Iolanthe." It was the kids' spring vacation. Sher was in his element, being a Masque, Savage Club, and Dramatic Club alumnus. He says he has shed some of his advertising-firm detail work since the merger, though he almost commuted during the winter to see a client in Boca Raton, Fla. Anson L. (Pink) Clark promises from Dallas to visit Ithaca this summer. Had a nice letter from Ramsay Spillman, who claims he has retired. He mentions: "I was in school a long time with Al Potter (they went through Cornell Medical together) and never knew that his store of erudition included Greek." Dick Ainsworth of Gilbertsville sent March 17 greetings from Erin, N.Y.; everything but the postmark was green, though the stamp incongruously showed a prairie schooner headed for Oregon.

Sell Woollen brought over the news of Chuck Bartgis's death. They were Senior-year roommates, both coming from Baltimore. Sell remembered that Chuck was one of the group under Paul Haviland who taught citizenship classes downtown; he was later mayor of Chatham, N.J., and a Shriner. Grief over the death of their only child, Marjory, last November, may have accelerated his own passing. His widow is the former Elizabeth Kulp of Ithaca. Sell is looking forward to attending his high school's 50th reunion, May 21—Baltimore City College. He gave me at Christmas two nice color prints of our 45th. Which reminds me that our New York dinner is definitely set for Monday, May 23, at the Cornell Club, with Morris Bishop as the speaker.

J. Carlton Ward was here April 22–23 as chairman of the Engineering Council and to deliver the banquet address at the 12th Annual Management Conference of the Graduate School of Business & Public Administration. I heard from a young cousin there that Carl wowed 'em, as usual. The Sun reported: "The speaker asserted that the Russian claims that their country will triumph in the area of research are not valid, and that politicians have over-emphasized the 'missile gap.' The US leads in the 'cold war' through its expenditures for scientific research, Ward said." Carl was planning to leave for Europe, April 30, returning early in June. He is chairman of Vitro Corp. of America.

Chairman of All Outdoors is our Classmate Colonel Gilbert E. Parker, retired, with thirty-two years of Army service, former president of the University of Nevada, now of 8860 Amors St., San Diego 11. It's too bad that he's half crazy. If you don't believe this last statement, get the April issue of Sports Review and read pages 16–41. It's a thrilling story of how Gil and a 56-year-old veteran guide, Ben Ferrier, accompanied through the worst of it by a 35-year-old metallurgist and then by a neighbor's boy at the end, retraced the final 1200 miles of Alexander Mackenzie's famous journey across Canada to the Pacific Ocean in the 1790's. The laconic tale is told from Mackenzie's journal and the diary of the guide. It wasn't dude ranch stuff. It was a question of paddle, shoot rapids, hack out portage paths around the worst stretches, backbreaking dangerous work. They even had Indian troubles, though not quite so serious as Mackenzie's. One thing that struck me was Gil's bounce; after a murderous day, he would still unlimber his rod and go fishing, appropriately so, because it was the fishing number of Sports Review. Wonderful fishing it was, too. Gil wrote that he was going down the Colorado the following month, the last through Glen Cañon, and expected to do the rest of the Mackenzie route (back toward Lake Superior) this summer, starting about July 1. It's great to be crazy!

1915 plus 45 equals 1960. Reunion headquarters has heard from many members of the Class saying solution of the foregoing equation was a cinch for them and that they will be back for Reunion. All of which goes to show the value of a college education.

The New York (Metropolitan) division held a tuning-up Reunion dinner at the Cornell Club, April 7. It must have been quite a nifty affair. Tom Keating sent a table-side account of the occasion. There were unmistakable stains of caviar and champagne on his notes. Present: Roy Underwood, Ray Riley, Ken Kerby, Claude Williams, Ed Williams, Bob Lea, Gil Terriberry, Art Peters, Ira Cole, Abe Kaufmann, Charley Reader, Al Cadiz, Lloyd Craver, Charley Heidt, Bill Pickslay, Bob Hendrickson, Ernie Mossman, Vern Foster, Tom Keating. Regrets (but assurance of presence at Reunion): Walt Priester, Obie O'Brien, Al Marks, Herb Adair, Ken Austin, Ted Blancke, Dan Wallingford.

Note to Charley Reader: Be sure to bring your bugle. At our 1955 Reunion you were good enough to blow taps at about 3 a.m. Better make it 10 p.m. this year. Our boys are too old to be out after dark. Note to George Ruby: Don't forget your flute (or was it piccolo?). We're counting on you and Charley for the field music. Vocal music section: Kindly note that our famed basso profundo, Bill Pickslay, will be back. He and Elliott Wood, leading baritone of University Glee Club, New York City, should make the welkin ring with song (high class).

George M. Heinitsh, 5227 5th Ave., Apt. 3, Pittsburgh, Pa.: "Am hoping to join with lots of our Class at our 45th. Still working on Fort Pitt Tunnel in Pittsburgh and expect to complete it and open to traffic by Sept., 1960." Arthur Hildebrant is general manager of Bethlehem Steel Co.'s new eastern ship repair district-yards in New York, Hoboken, N.J., Boston, and Baltimore.

Cornell Fund

The Annual Meeting of The Cornell Fund will be held in joint session with the Cornell Alumni Association Saturday, June 11, 1960, at 10:30 a.m. in Alice Statler Auditorium, Ithaca, N.Y. The agenda will be:

1. Report of the Cornell Fund
2. Election of officers & members of the Cornell Fund Committee

—W. G. BRUSKA '50, Secretary
Cornell Fund Committee

'16ers. Those of you who bought the 1960 Cornell Directory will note that this was made possible through the generosity of Jim Friend and his brother, Bob Friend '08. We doff our hombergs to the Brothers Friend.

Buddy (Soft-Shoe) Fay and his wife, Janie, made a recent Sunday visit to your reporter at Scarsdale, driving in from their home in Southport, Conn., just to say "hello," and they are the same cheerful and charming duo as always. Rosy de la Roza now has established an office in New York City at 441 Lexington Ave., specializing in complete service from planning to production of Bagasse Paper and Furfural Plants (a by-product, I think, of sugar cane). He would like to hear from some of his Classmates.

A letter from Jim Moore advises that he had just returned to his home in Chatham, N.J., after spending two months in Florida. Jim and John Benore, accompanied by their wives, attended the spring dance of the Lackawanna Cornell Club at the Old Mill Inn. Jim reports that he has three children and eleven grandchildren. Last fall, while attending the general assembly of the Telephone Pioneers of America in Cleveland, he and Mrs. Moore dined with Connie and Red Zeman. Jim will be on hand for the coming June 10 annual dinner in Ithaca.

My brother, Karl (Dutch) Pfeiffer '12, spent a few weeks in Florida and called on Jack Birkhead '12, who told him that his brother, Pete Birkhead, had retired from Bucyrus in Milwaukee and was resting from life's labors in the Virgin Islands. Johnny Hoffmire following his retirement and a trip to the West Coast, has alighted at Auburn, living at 107 South St. He also will be with us June 10 at the annual dinner in Ithaca.

Herb Snyder, now removed from his professorial and Army duties, wrote from Washington, D.C. that he was honored last February by a group of his old boys whom he had taught in the '30's when he was at Cincinnati Country Day School, at a dinner in New Canaan, and that they presented him with a beautiful Tiffany tray engraved with their signatures, all of which made his old heart beat a little faster. Some weeks ago, he and Mrs. Snyder attended the launching in Newport News of the attack submarine, Shark, a nuclear powered boat. His son, Jack Snyder '52, is a career lieutenant and a member of the crew of the Shark. Alex Kellar '14 wrote from Summit, N.J., about many other and various Cornellians.—BUB PFEIFFER

'17 Men — Our second "Baby Reunion" was held at the Cornell Club of New York, April 18, with fifty-three attending. It was strictly informal; no set speeches and no formal program. Again Glen Acheson deserves and gets the thanks of his Classmates. He made all plans and acted as master of ceremonies. The fellows began to arrive at noon with Herb Schneider from Harrisburg being the first to register. There was a round table for lunch with Herb Schneider, Doug Hoyt, Bob Willson, Rev. Pete Weigle, Herb Johnston, and Glen Acheson talking over old times. The "freshen up" hour began shortly after five o'clock and dinner started promptly at 6:30 so the out-of-towners could leave for home on early trains. Class officers John L. Collyer, president, Herb Johnston, secretary, and Don Mallory, Cornell Fund Class representative, gave brief reports. Shortly after 6 o'clock Howard Ludington, Jr. '49 phoned from Rochester, that his Dad, Howard Ludington, was on a plane between Miami and New York and would arrive late for the dinner. He did, and gave us a preview of what we can expect at our Big 45th in '62. Al Mitchell had hoped to arrive from Albert, New Mex. in time for lunch, but at the last minute was asked to stop in Washington for a brief meeting with Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Al arrived about the middle of the afternoon and made up for lost time. He then had to leave on a 10 p.m. plane for Chicago. No wonder Cornell and '17 can "go places" with a University Trustee like Al!

Our own Rev. Pete Weigle gave the invocation after which there were impromptu talks by many '17ers and some of our guests from other Classes. We were honored to extend our hospitality to Dan Tuller '09 of Red Bank, N.J., who had just returned from Florida. Walt Kuhn, president of the '12 Class, was there with his undercover agent, Frank Cuccia '12, and the Class of '16 was represented by Bub Pfeiffer, Class secretary, Charlie Eppler, Class photographer, and R. K. Burnett. The baby Class of '18 had a worthy representative, Al Stolz, to learn how the older and more experienced (?) alumni run Class affairs so successfully.

It's a tribute to '17 spirit and Class loyalty that forty-five sent cards of regret that they could not attend, thirty-one sent cards with a note extending best wishes and explaining why they could not attend, and an additional twenty sent telegrams or wrote letters wishing us a successful Baby Reunion. After the dinner was over, a card arrived from Beirut, Lebanon with best wishes from Bill Vanderbilt.

472 Gramatan Ave.
Mount Vernon, N.Y.

The '19 Class dinner at the Cornell Club of New York, April 25, was a great success, even though some Classmates who expected to attend did not make it because of illness or prior commitments. One of the great features of these dinners is that there are no speeches. I suppose the custom started a long time ago, but I have never been impressed with the idea that one must necessarily be entertained, admonished or educated as the aftermath of a meal. However, there was improvised entertainment, notably singing by Hendrie, Beakes, Carples, et al. While these lads are a trifle below operatic caliber, I insist they are better than what we hear on the radio.

Those attending the dinner were Rudolph H. Deetjen, Mahlon H. Beakes, Charles F. Hendrie, Edmond N. Carples, James R. Hillas, Colonel L. Brown, Willard C. Peare, Edgar S. Banghart, Chilton A. Wright, Parmly S. Clapp, Jr., Malcolm F. Orton, Benjamin Solovay, James C. Mac Dougall, B. John Shepard, Robert K. Story, Jr., and Lawrence S. Waterbury. We were particularly glad to have Mike Orton with us. He lives in Albany, and stayed over for the dinner after completing his business in town. Mike is a consultant on public utilities, and appears before the Federal Power Commission and State commissions on public utility matters.

Bob Story is now on the board of appeals of the State Labor Department. As we understand it, this deals with unemployment cases, among other things. It's nice to have a friend on the board just in case. Ned Banghart has moved to 11 Franklin Court E, Garden City, after living at Douglaston many years. His office is at 25 Broad St., and he is New York manager for Pennsylvania Transformer Co.

John Hollis and Jack Leppart had intended to come to the dinner but both had contracted the "flu," which is currently prevalent, and were unable to make it. Clyde Christie had a board of directors meeting that took precedence. Arthur Dean had to be in Geneva, Switzerland, on the 25th, and Damon Douglas was in Europe. Dick Dyckman is the mayor of Plainfield, N.J., and a Republican. Believe it or not, he was being entertained by the Democrats, and hence couldn't attend.

Alan L. Eggers was ill, and William A. Papke was unable to attend because of his wife's illness. Dan Lindsay and Charlie Baskerville are out of town at present, missions unknown. Dr. Paul F. Nugent was also away from home. Frederick W. Loede was unable to make it. Percy S. (Syd) Wilson had a borough council meeting to attend; Gene Beggs insisted he had to attend a bowling meet, and George Minasian was unable to make it, but Mike Hendrie came, giving Glen Ridge, N.J., an attendance record of 25 per cent for the evening. Charlie Lerner, Lloyd Bemis, Larry Luce, and Walt Measday, usually on hand for Class affairs, were absent and unaccounted for.

And so ends the chronicle of a day in the life of the '19ers.

It's only a whiff and a poof from now until June 9-10 when '20 will blast into orbit with the World's Greatest Reunion, the fabulous 40th! Gosh, it'll be nice to get back on that beautiful Campus, see all the old familiar landmarks, and get acquainted with a world of new ones. But best of all will be greeting old friends, and the neat job of trying to read the names on the buttons through your bi-focals, or trying to remember their nicknames and ending with a slap on the back and "Well, well, you old b—(uzzard), it's good to see yuh!" One hundred times one hundred that same greeting will be shouted, echoed, and re-echoed until "the sound wakes the blue hills around," in just about three weeks from now. You just can't miss this 40th Reunion; it's an important milestone, the memory of which you'll treasure the rest of your days.

Just for practice, check your memory on the rest of these names; they'll all be there to greet you: Ashton, Archibald, Atwood, Benisch, Baier, Baer, Ballou, Boorstein, Carney, Carpenter, Conable, Covington, Curtis, Daily, Degling, Diamant, Dodson, Donaldson, Duffies, Duncan, Fishman, Fitzpatrick, Fratanduono, Frenkel, Glasser, Green, Grigson, Hettinger, Hill, Hirsch, Hoagland, Hopkins, Howard, Hulbert, Iler, Johnson-Carl, Johnson-Deyo, Johnston-Ray, Karg, Keller, Kevelson, Kilborne, Kline, Koehler, Lamoreaux, Lefferts, Lins, Livingston, Littlewood, MacKenzie, Merrill, Mertz, Milstein, Munisteri, Myers, Nstrand, Owen, Perrine, Pflueger, Plass, Pregler, Previn, Purdy, Markthaler, McDonald, Raymer, Reed, Reese, Reich, Reynolds, Rogers, Rupert, Rurode, Smith-M, Solomon, Spivak, Stansky, Stanton, Stevens-D, Stevens-R, Terry, Trowbridge, Velsey, Wade, Walker, Wayne, Weiant, Weinheimer, Whitehill, Whittemore. There are others who have indicated they will attend, but haven't yet sent reservation and check. We'll try to list these "last-minute-men" next issue.

You remember the one about the guy who looked at the obituary column each morning and if his name wasn't there, he'd go out and play golf? Well, look over this list real carefully and if your name isn't there, maybe you're not alive! If you want to prove you are, you can still get in under the wire by sending a wire to Hank Benisch saying, "Hold everything, count me in, check on way"! That'll do it, believe me, and you'll never regret it!

Well, at least it didn't take you guys long to cast your ballots for Alumni Trustees.

That decision didn't require any cogitation, and should have taken just two seconds flat! How about that? Having two candidates from 1920! Harold Brayman, newly-nominated, and Bill Littlewood up for reelection! The calibre and ability of these men are such that they will make a great contribution to the Board of Trustees and to Cornell, and together with Paul Fitzpatrick will bring honor to a great Class. If by some remote chance you haven't sent your ballot to Ithaca, for Pete's sake do it now, so Harold and Bill will know '20 is supporting them 100%.

Earnest Class correspondents find The 1921 Cornellian an invaluable aid. Many fellow Classmen achieve prominence, a few preëminence, but almost none write legibly. So to check unfamiliar names in news contributions, one consults the Cornellian for accuracy of spelling. Nicknames also must be verified to avoid embarrassment. It is fairly safe to guess that Allan Hosie Treman might be "Al," but who could figure out that Chun Jien Pao was known familiarly as "Star" or that Thaddeus Henry Szymoniak was called "Ted."

The record of school activities is of mild interest, but the Class portraits in The 1921 Cornellian are staggering. What a morbid experience, once again, to see ourselves as underclassmen. It is difficult to identify your contemporaries among the vapid faces of the yearbook. The expressionless, self-conscious poses are scarcely up to passport standards. Most of us wore high, hard collars for this occasion and plainly showed our resentment. What a panorama of protoplasm is here preserved for posterity. It would be immensely more interesting to pass along pictures of us as we are now. The beating of the years has intensified the peculiar twists and oddities of the features and made them interesting; character has formed and expressed itself plainly on the exterior. You will see what I mean in the group portrait to be taken on Hoy Field in June, 1961.

Bill (William H.) Rometsch (Chem) progressed from business manager of The Cornell Annuals in 1921 to treasurer of the Greater Philadelphia Council of Churches in 1960. Bill also is lay leader of the First Methodist Church of Germantown and chairman of the property committee of the Methodist Hospital in Philadelphia. He lives at 802-A Alden Park Manor, Philadelphia 44, Pa. We would like to know what Bill did with his degree in Chemistry and how he escaped the Quakers.

Rudolph E. Krause of 623 Shell Beach Dr., Lake Charles, La., celebrated the arrival of his fourth grandchild, Susan Dows Blake, last winter. As Rudy "has no gray hairs that show," he expects to attend the 1961 Reunion with his oldest daughter, Della ("Dudie.") '51. He says the alumni group in his town is very active.

Eddie (Edwin F.) Chobot (CE) of Scenic Highway, Lookout Mountain, Tenn., "retired from the structural steel fabricating business in April, 1958, and became interested in continuous horizontal casting of metals, ferrous and non-ferrous." That is not exactly my idea of retirement, Eddie, nor a busman's holiday, either. However, this is only the beginning. He "became associated with the Industrial Research & Development Corp. of Chattanooga, Tenn." This led to the installation of "an electric beam welding machine, for welding of all rare metals; such as tantalum, molybdenum, uranium, and, of course, stainless steels, aluminum, etc." When you pikers retire to potter around a work bench in your basement, ponder the example of Eddie Chobot. On the non-ferrous side, Eddie reports that his son, Dr. Edwin F. Chobot, Jr. '47 recently opened an office in Chattanooga for the practice of neurosurgery which will come in handy to help support his family of five children. The Chobots are thorough.

'22 Men—If you are one who comes to Reunions and other Class functions wherever they are, you will surely recognize the above picture of George S. Dunham, more affectionately called "Shorty" by us, the mob. We have known that he has been a director of Socony Mobil since 1953 and now we can announce with pride his imminent election as a senior vice-president and director. Shorty started with Socony Mobil in 1925 as a maintenance foreman in the Augusta, Kans. refinery and subsequently became manager of refinery engineering and the head of manufacturing operations in the United States. An authority on refinery design, he was responsible for the installation of TCC units by Socony Mobil and many other companies for the production of aviation gasoline during World War II. Nice going, Shorty, and on behalf of the Class, congratulations.

We know that Frank W. (Shorty) Lake was away somewhere during the winter months and guessed it was South America. He recently checked in and said he had gone around the world in 150 days, mostly by boat (SS President Monroe). Between Siem Reap, Cambodia, and Bangkok he used a small plane on which he met up with more Cornellians. Shorty is one of those big Texas oilmen we hear so much about. He can be relied upon to be on hand at Reunions, though.

This column also got the impression that A. Lynam Satterthwaite had gone on an extended trip to the Far East. It has since been learned that it was only an idea. He would like nothing better, now that he is retired, but has stayed right there in Wilmington. Also, this department is going to have to do a little more proofreading. That Caesar Grasselli's name had gotten so jumbled, twist pen and print, without detection is unpardonable. I'll bet that even Caesar is wondering who that guy is that toured Europe, according to the April 15 issue of the NEWS.—JOE MOTYCKA

'22 BS—Mrs. Christian L. Martin (Mary Hershey) and her husband are credited by the supervising principal of the district for the fine record made at Cornell by graduates of the Manheim Township High School at Neffsville, Pa. In the last seven years, eight students from the school have come to the University and made good records and seven more have been accepted for next fall. Martin is secretary of the school district; they live at 1116 Crest Lane, Lancaster, Pa. Their son Jack H. Martin '54 married M. Elizabeth Kerr, MNutrSc '59, and their daughter is Mrs. James K. VanBuren '55 (Mary Martin) '56.

'23 *Dr. George J. Young

George K. (Mouse) Reilly has cornered the "president and vice-president" market around Hoboken, N.J. He's vice-president of Hudson Trust Co., president of Hudson County Bankers' Association, vice-president of Hoboken Chamber of Commerce, past-president of Rotary Club of Hoboken, and director of United Fund of Hoboken, just to mention a few of his many activities. Mouse lives on S. Mountain Ave., Montclair, N.J., and just a few blocks away on Brookwood Dr., Carl I. (Bake) Baker hangs his hat. Bake says life is peaceful, tranquil, healthful, thoughtful, and reasonably prosperous. All these things he attributes to a lifetime of avoidance of all forms of athletics, and the temperance and sobriety characteristic of the Class of '23. Well, Bake, times have changed because I had a note from Turk Humphrey of Memphis, Tenn. saying that Charlie Brumbaugh promised to stop in on his way to the Jack Daniels Distillery, but work interfered with that pleasure, so Charlie saved himself a headache. As for farther news about this fellow Brumbaugh, he writes, "All the news about myself that I can think of is that I'm getting a year older every year, and feel every year of it."

When many of us brag about the number of grandchildren who, we hope, will be future Cornellians, Albert S. (Bert) Muller ends up his news item with "no wife, no children, yet." (I like that "yet.") Bert, who has taught plant pathology and has had administrative experience in colleges of agriculture in five Latin American countries for twenty-six years, is now completing his eighth year as professor of plant pathology and counselor to Latin American students in agriculture at University of Florida. George Adams married Loretta Whipple last November. Loretta is the widow of Earl Whipple who died in 1943.

William A. (Bill) Schreyer was asked to represent Cornell last March at the inauguration of Dr. J. I. McCord as president of Princeton Theological Seminary. Bill was all dressed up in cap and gown sent to him by the University. H. M. (Mickey) White of Baltimore, Md. is working for the Lord as vestryman of his church, working for the community as president of the Roland Park

Association, and working for a living as a lighting engineer. "It's just work, work, work," says Micky, "But no complaints."

Edward C. (Hook) Blackman has come up with a pretty good idea. He thinks we're old enough to be allowed some looking back and some fond memories of our youth at Cornell. Most of it was hard work, and we all had our problems, but there were some screwy things happened which will bring a smile to our Classmates as they recall them. So he suggests that there be included a "Remember When" paragraph in this column. Your reporter will welcome any "Remember When" items that you care to send him. Hook starts it off with: "Remember the Sunday night in '21 or '22 when spring burst into Ithaca, and nobody wanted to stay indoors? The amateur musicians, both instrumental and vocal, climbed to the roof tops and serenaded each other. A crowd of several hundred gathered at University and Stewart and listened to a concert of the combined musicians who used the porch of the ATO House for a stage. Best damned concert I ever heard."

Solution to Picture Puzzle of April 15: Bruce Evans. Bruce grew the whiskers to play the part of an old man, but when it came to doing the Broadway version of the play he did last summer, the new director took one look at him and said, "Nothing doing; you're too young." So Bruce went home that night and told the missus, "You may not know it, but I'm a young man. I've just been told so." Did she believe him?

Roland Schultheis writes extensively (bless him) about his obviously active life as trustee of a church and a hospital, member of the board of managers of the Flushing YMCA, director of its Chamber of Commerce, many offices in the Lions Club, and so on. Roland is superintendent of the Flushing Cemetery Association. He just returned from a well deserved rest in Bermuda and discovered that the president and general manager of his hostelry was a Cornell graduate. Comments Roland: "Just another reason why Cornellians should always make themselves known; it would be so much more fun for all." He further remarks: "I wonder what happened to our 'Quintette' from the Cornell Glee Club? Allan Treman '21, Red Falconer '23, Lou Martin '22, and Charlie Brumbaugh '23. Wonder how we would sound today?" Any comments?

Letcher W. Bennett writes from Ridgewood, N.J. that he is still operating Bennett Machinery Co. Letcher reports that his oldest son got married January 30 and that his youngest son is majoring in skiing (?) at University of Colorado in Boulder. It was good to hear from him.

Sally Beard sends word that Gwendolen Miller (Mrs. S. Webster Dodge) of Princeton, N.J., having had her children leave the "nest," is enjoying secretarial work in the engineering building at Princeton. Her son Kenneth '51, EE '57, is an engineer with Sperry Co. Her daughter, Kathleen Dodge McWilliams, is the wife of a mathematics professor at Florida State University and a research aide in the botany department there.

C. B. Moore from what looks like "Vwchland, Pa." reports with a magnificent abandon, "No news is good news!"

Johnny Brothers got a great letter from Bill Worth in the Belgian Congo. It's so interesting that I quote it extensively:

Your letter has wrung my heart again. I am proud that our "Great Class" of the "Greatest University" in the world has an alumni leader like you. You won't let us forget that we were and still are a part of this Great Class of '24. Thanks for the reminder. I am now operating a printing press here for our mission (American Presbyterian Congo Mission) and three neighboring mission, another American mission and two British missions, a total of 21 stations working among 5 or 6 tribes that all speak the same language, Tshiluba. There are probably about two million people who use this language spread out over a territory of something about the size of New York State. The two largest tribes are the Baluba and the Bena Lugua and they are at war with each other at the moment. They have been at peace for 100 years or more and many have intermarried. Now that the Congo is about to receive "Independence" they are at each other's throats because each thinks the other might get ahead faster in the new independent state. So we are under martial law with some guerilla action cropping up here and there from time to time. They are far from being ready for even a token independence and they know it, but they want it anyway. It's pitiful to see. Our press prints about seven million pages a year, mostly religious books and school books for the Protestant schools. The Catholic mission schools and the Protestant mission schools are about the only schools out here. About 20% of the people can read and write, but there is next to nothing for them to read in their own language other than what we print here. Our presses are all more than thirty years old, and as we set type by hand and all the folding and binding is by hand, it takes a staff of about thirty Congolese men besides my wife and I to keep things moving along. I have not had any more brushes with hippos, but they are here. We are close to a large river, the Lulua River. We have fun fishing and harpooning crocodiles at night by use of a strong spotlight.

A provoking letter; a Mene, Mene, Teckel, Upharsin message.

From Detroit we have learned that Pearl E. Landback who is mechanical equipment engineer for Detroit Edison, has recently been appointed to a four-year term as commissioner of the water commission of the city of Detroit. Landback is married and the father of two children. Dr. Marcus T. Block reports that his older son, Arthur M. Block '59, will complete his fourth year this spring and will have another year to finish his chemistry major. Block is wondering what transportation will be available to Ithaca when Marcus T., Jr. is ready for college in 1961.

Covering the northeastern States for the industrial division of Johns-Manville is H. Ross Poulson whose son, Thomas Poulson '56, is pursuing the PhD in zoology at Michigan. We hope that Ross enjoyed a vacation with his wife and daughter in Tucson. Joseph H. Nolin of Scarsdale was recently elected an honorary life member of the National Association of Hotel Accountants, which he helped found. Joe's eldest daughter, Katia, is in Cazenovia Junior College and three younger children are in public schools in Eastchester.

Andrew V. Ackerman of Little Falls is division manager of Cherry-Burrell Corp., manufacturers of equipment for the dairy, food, and beverage industries. Dr. Samuel H. Klein (MD '28) is in the practice of general surgery and attending surgeon at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City.

After thirteen years at the post, E. Lewis B. Curtis is retiring as chairman of the social science department at State University College of Education at Oneonta. Lewis wants to devote full attention to teaching. The Curtises' older son, Arthur E. Curtis, Grad '62, is studying at Cornell under a fellowship in history for a graduate degree in modern European history.

Distinguishing between changing jobs and retiring, John F. P. Farrar writes from his Woodlawn Farm in St. Francisville, La. that he has traded the life of an industrialist in Chicago for the good life in the South raising Herefords. Surprising himself, although possibly not his friends. Cartter Patten of Chattanooga, having served in the 1959 House of the Tennessee Legislature, plans to run for the State Senate for the 1961 session. Cartter has a son, Bryan Patten '62, at Cornell and his twin, Cartter Jr., is in the same class at Princeton.

From San Juan, Puerto Rico, J. M. Canals writes that he has just completed his first dozen grandchildren, 9 boys and 3 girls. Three born in Spain, one in Italy, and the rest in Puerto Rico. Not bad, he says! Henry S. Wade is enjoying the life of a San Francisco commuter where he pursues his hobby of horseback riding through several thousand acres of Stanford University property. Henry won't be able to make Reunion this year since his daughter is being married at that time.

With open season in full swing for the 1960 Cornell Fund, your correspondent takes this opportunity to extend from the entire Class sincere thanks to Steve MacDonald of Maplewood, N.J. and his entire committee for the fine job they are performing on behalf of Cornell.

Hats off to Steve and his leaders! Shorty Aronson of Fayetteville, Jim Brooks of Closter, N.J., Walt Buckley of Wynnewood, Pa., Frank Edminster of Richmond, Va., Julian Foss of Verona, N.J., Gardner MacGregory of Norwich, Conn., Randy Martin of Short Hills, N.J., Jean Miller of Summit, N.J., Harry Morris of New Canaan, Conn., Ken Owen of Houston, Tex., Carv Pope of Cleveland, Ohio, Mike Silverman of Lakewood, N.J., Meade Summers of St. Louis, Mo., Harry Wade of Indianapolis, Ind., and Del Vincent of Lake Charles, La.

Classmates recently visiting Ithaca, with whom it was a pleasure to chat were Class Treasurer Gene Kaufmann of Philadelphia, in town for the School of Business & Public Administration's Management Conference; Irv Woolson from Detroit, attending the Engineering School Council meetings; and Trum Lacey of Binghamton, here for a Sunday afternoon. And on a recent trip to New York, it was a special surprise to run into Class President Harry Wade at the Cornell Club. Harry was just back from a six-week trip to Italy with his wife Agnes. Their trip included a visit with son Douglas, who is stationed with the US Army in Germany.

Nathaniel Owings (above), FAIA, is senior founding partner of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, architects-engineers, San Francisco, New York, Chicago, and Portland, Ore. Nat heads the San Francisco office, but spends much time on the firm's national accounts, making good use of air travel. Fortune Magazine's story, January, 1958, about this great organization stated: "At the top of US architectural firms stands S.O.M., specializing in group design, it is unmatched in the creation of distinguished buildings for American business." The firm has designed everything from a hotel, Terrace Hilton, Cincinnati, to a city, Oak Ridge, Tenn., 75,000 population. They have won many awards and international fame for their excellence in architectural design. A few examples are Lever House, Manufacturers Trust, Pepsi Cola, Chase Manhattan, and Union Carbide buildings, New York City; Connecticut General Life Insurance Headquarters, Bloomfield, Conn.; Inland Steel, Chicago; Ford Administration Building, Dearborn; US Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs; Crown Zellerbach and John Hancock Buildings, San Francisco; and Newman Laboratory of Nuclear Studies, Cornell. Nat was architect in residence at American Academy in Rome, Italy in 1958-59 and holds the American Institute of Architects' highest award, fellow in design. He is a trustee of the US Committee on Economic Development and the National Fund for Medical Education. The Owingses have one son and three daughters. Home: Big Sur, Cal.

George M. Schofield (above) is still practicing architecture in Nyack with Jack Colgan '31. He is president of the Rockland County Society of Architects and a member of the American Institute of Architects. His other main business interest is banking and he was one of a small group who helped to organize Tappan Zee National Bank of Nyack, the second bank to be chartered in New York State in the previous twenty-five years. He now serves as president and chairman of the board of directors.

Other civic and community activities of George's include president of the Nyack YMCA, member of the State executive committee of the New York State Association of YMCA's, former member of the National Council of YMCA's. He is also a vestryman of Grace Episcopal Church. Both George and his wife, Annette Pye '28, have been active in Cornell affairs. Together they helped organize the Cornell Club of Rockland County. George is also a member of the Class council (his name was regrettably omitted in a recent listing of the council in this column). When time permits, the Schofields enjoy traveling and taking colored photos of their trips. They have two children, Robert H., Princeton '55 and MIT, BArch '59, and Anne H., Wellesley '56. Their address is 19 Central Ave., Nyack.

At a meeting of the executive committee,

Wednesday, May 25, was selected as the date for the annual Class dinner to be held at the Cornell Club of New York. These affairs have been very successful in recent years, so if you are in the New York area on that date, don't fail to come. There will be no solicitations for funds, just good songs, good food, and good fellowship. Drinks will be served from six o'clock (Dutch treat) with dinner at seven for a total of $5.75 including taxes and tips. Our speaker will be John Summerskill, Vice President for Student Affairs, who will bring us up-to-date on happenings on the Hill. If you want more information, drop a note to me at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20, or call Circle 5-6200.

'29 Men—As per the column's promise and in answer to the many requests, especially from the '29ers who were unable to attend the Thirty-year Reunion and were particularly anxious to know who the fortunate attendees were, I will highlight Reunion Chairman Mike Bender's report: "My personal thanks to all of you and a special salaam to Bob Lyon and Bob Crum (they kept bobbing up all over) for their help in making the gathering a grand and glorious affair. I know the big news will be a big surprise. Instead of having a whopping deficit, which we all expected, the Class wound up with a surplus and it was contributed to Cornell as a '29 gift. By way of statistics, about eighty-five 'boys' showed up." Here is the first (alphabetical) listing of the attendees:

Andy Andrews has completed a college textbook, Optics of the Electromagnetic Spectrum, which will be published this spring. Besides being chairman of the department of physics at the New York State College for Teachers in Albany, Andy is a consultant to the GE research laboratory. His son Merrill, a Physics major, will graduate from Cornell this June, and Andy will attend our Reunion.

Milt Gould finally decided that he has had enough of commuting and moved from suburban Great Neck to New York City. Bill Hays is in the business of importing and retailing. He buys from Central and South America and sells in New York and Washington, D.C. where he makes his home. He, too, plans to come to The Greatest of Thirty Reunions.

Jim Morrison is executive director of the Convention & Visitors Bureau in Philadelphia. He notes, with some surprise, that he is "the oldest living alumnus of the Hotel School in the Philadelphia area!" The Morrisons live in Radnor and Jim also plans to be with us in Ithaca this June. Richard Churchill is resident landscape architect at the Stone Mountain Memorial, a 3000-acre State park now in the early stages of construction. Churk lives in Atlanta. His son Geoffrey, a junior at University of North Carolina, has set his sights on the Cornell Graduate School of Business & Public Administration.

Dr. Lawrence Radice is an associate in neurology at University of Buffalo medical school. He has practiced neuropsychiatry since 1938 and is writing a book on the mental side of golf. It should also be reported that Larry now gets his exercise bowling at the Buffalo Athletic Club. Lorillard Spencer is celebrating his twenty-third year as a rancher near Big Timber, Mont., and likes it better every year.

Babe Powers is a member of the Cornell University Council from the Cincinnati area. He headed up organization of the Cornell conference there, serves on the Cornell Corporation Committee, and has been the number one man in the Leadership Gifts drive for three years. Babe also finds time to organize 1930's Cornell Fund campaign in the Midwest. His work for Cornell has brought him back to the Campus for the last three years to attend Council meetings and we look forward to seeing him there in June.

ant for a construction company in Sarasota, Fla. Ray has had a long experience in public accounting and for six years was secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Their daughter Alice is a student at Goucher College. Home since 1958 is at 2434 Tulip St., Sarasota.

Carleton H. Endemann (above) was appointed associate general counsel of Esso Standard division of Humble Oil & Refining Co., effective April 1. After graduation from the Cornell Law School in 1933, he was with the New York City law firm of Milbank, Tweed, Hope & Hadley until 1941. He then was with the Federal Government in Washington, and at the start of World War II he joined the Navy. He had three years' service in the Navy Air Combat intelligence section, including duty in China, India, and the European Theatre. He is now a lieutenant commander, USNR (ret.). He joined Esso Standard law department in 1945. His home is at 171 Whitehall Blvd., Garden City. His wife is the former Barbara Buck of Brooklyn, and they have three children, Carleton, Jr., Suzanne, and Frederic.

T. James (Jim) Gilligan is almost a newcomer to the columns. Welcome! His last news to us was all family, so we must assume that he is still with the Daystrom Furniture Division of Daystrom Corp. We must agree with Jim that the family is most important. His daughter Sally is a Freshman at Cornell in pre-med. His son Tom is at Admiral Farragut Academy preparing for the Naval Academy, and daughter Nan hopes for Cornell in September in Home Ec. We did not hear of the fourth child. Home for Jim and the family is 207 N. 5th St., Olean.

We must admit to some disappointment. Our son Roger, after four years at Loomis in Windsor, Conn., will enter Gettysburg in the fall, while daughter Judith has two years to go. She is at Miss Hall's School in Pittsfield, Mass. A third generation at Cornell may come, but we must work hard. In spite of divided loyalties, for the family is still first, our main effort will be for Cornell and 1931.

'31 BS, '38 MAinEd—Lacquer paintings on pella by Mrs. Francis H. Hoyt (Dorothy King) were exhibited at Juster Gallery in New York City, March 28–April 16. Mrs. Hoyt lives at 14 Stuyvesant Oval, New York City 9.

Apparently there are still a few laggards who haven't paid their $7 dues and who are still receiving the ALUMNI NEWS. Stan Hubbel would appreciate it if you would either get current or drop him a note saying that you are no longer interested.

Clarence B. Frankel, DDS, writes that he is very busy with Cornell alumni secondary school committee work, and that they can use more volunteers. He has two sons now at Cornell, Kenneth, Arts '61, and Eric, Arts '64 (early division candidate). His son Paul is a Brooklyn Poly Prep (Cornell '70?). Clarence can be reached at 1600 Church Ave., Brooklyn 26.

Edward C. Nichols reports that he married last September Charlotte W. Wintermann of Albany. Ned has the idea that he was the last bachelor in our Class. Can this be true? We would like to have reports on this situation. Ned practices law in Albany as a partner in the firm of Herzog, Nichols, O'Brien & Leahy, 11 North Pearl St.

Caius M. Hoffman, who teaches foreign languages at Manhasset High School, has been awarded a John Hay Fellowship for a year's study in the humanities. Only eighty-three fellowships were awarded in the United States and Caius considers himself fortunate to have received one. He hopes to go to Columbia University graduate school where he proposes to study new and improved laboratory techniques in teaching foreign languages. A 1932 BA at Cornell, Caius received the MEd at Albany State Teachers College. He has continued his graduate work at Middlebury College, NYU, and at Albany. He holds a certificate from the Paris Institute of Phonetics, as well as from University of Grenoble in France, and the French government department of University of Paris. He was on General Eisenhower's staff during World War II, is a lieutenant colonel in the Infantry Reserve as battalion commander of the 1329th Training Division, Wantagh. Caius lives at 111 Nassau Ave. with his wife, Helen, and three children, Connie, 17, Carole, 13, and Bob, 9.

Joseph L. Jones lives in Cheyenne, Wyo., with his wife, Helen, daughter, Jodie, and son, Tim. For the last seven years he has been vice-president and director of sales for Old Faithful Life Insurance Co. His home address is 3438 Douer Rd., Cheyenne.

Fred B. Ferris is still with The Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia, Pa. He is also assistant treasurer of the Philadelphia chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management. He can be reached at Greenwood Terrace, Jenkintown, Pa.

We have struck a low in the flow of news items and ask your cooperation in forwarding information to us. Why don't some of you modest fellows who have never appeared in print let us know what you're up to?

'33 AB—Dr. Solomon Aronoff presented a paper, "The Treatment of Hay Fever with Emulsified Pollen Extracts," at the sixteenth annual congress of the American College of Allergists held recently in Miami Beach, Fla. It works in conjunction with the cash register."

Congratulations to Jack Forsyth, who was recently appointed manager, sales training, for TWA. Jack, who has been with TWA for seventeen years, has crossed the Atlantic, via TWA, of course, sixteen times. A year ago, the Forsyths moved from Maplewood, N.J. to 50 Great Oak Dr., Short Hills, N.J.

Morton P. Matthew, who received his degree in Electrical Engineering, is now a registered mechanical engineer. He is doing consulting work and engineering model buildings out of his home in Silvermine, Conn. Mort met his wife Anita in a club for tall people in Washington, D.C. in 1955. For diversion, the Matthews sing with the New Canaan Community Chorus, and their address is RFD 2, Kreiner Lane, Norwalk, Conn. Perhaps unknown to Mort Matthew, he has a Classmate nearby, Alexander C. Wall of 36 Beach Dr., Noroton, Conn.

Harold Deckinger is assistant counsel of Title Guarantee Co. in New York City. The Deckingers live at 85 Locust Ave., Millburn, N.J., and have three boys, 17, 13, and 8.

Please note a change of address for Victor H. Dropkin, who now lives at 4417 Chestnut St., Bethesda, Md. Victor earned the PhD in zoology at University of Chicago, and then got into the war effort as parasitologist with the malaria unit in Okinawa. He returned to teach at Roosevelt University in Chicago for five years, but left teaching to take a full-time research job with the Department of Agriculture. He is now working at Beltsville, Md. on problems concerning plant parasites. He married in 1940 and has one son, 12.

Louis J. Dughi has been appointed county attorney for Union County, New Jersey. He serves as a director of the National Bank of Westfield, N.J., and has just completed his term as a school board member. Lou, who recently had an article published in the Northwestern Law Review, is the senior partner in the law firm of Dughi & Johnstone. Lou also has been able to find time to do an excellent job as a member of the University Council. He lives at 601 Lenox Ave., Westfield, N.J., with his wife and four children.

Some changes of addresses: John N. Goodnow, 219 East 69th St., New York City 21; Jacob C. Bauerfeind, 6 Waldron Ave., Glen Rock, N.J.; H. W. Buell, 9118 Rivershore, Niagara Falls; George M. Dime-ling, PO Box 908, Clearfield, Pa.; Charles Brunelle, 37 Lewis St., Hartford, Conn.; Howard H. Sturdy, East Lake Rd., RD 3, Skaneateles.

'37 Women—Last month I received a change-of-address card from the Alumni Office that really gave me a pleasant surprise. The card read: Mrs. Philip M. Price (Dorothy Brown), 1333 Stockton Ave., Dayton 9, Ohio. Another '37 gal to keep me and Louise McLean Dunn company here in Dayton! As soon as I recorded her new address in my Class directory, I telephoned this newly-discovered Classmate.

It turned out that she has been living in Dayton for five years! After Cornell (Dottie's husband is Philip M. Price '39), the Prices lived in Ithaca a year, then in Albany, Chicago, Ill., Oregon, back to Johnstown, Pa., and finally moved to Dayton where Phil is housewares buyer at Elder's, one of our largest department stores. The Prices have six sons and one grandson. Phil, Jr., the married son, is co-manager of a Kroger store here. The second son will graduate this year from Fairmont High School and plans to "co-op" at University of Cincinnati, hoping eventually to become a cpa. The other four sons are 17, 13, 12, and 5 years old. Dottie sends greetings, especially to all Chi Omegas and her old roommate Betty Haas Conrad.

Note from Mary Chaney Carson: "Cary is in his element at Carleton College; the people, atmosphere, and philosophy of the place fits him like a glove. Someone gave him an old raccoon coat; well, it's the weirdest! He has it at school now and I imagine it has caused a ripple in his dorm. Bobb had the lead in the junior class play ('The Night of January 16th'). Bobb is taking four accelerated subjects and one standard, which keeps him busy late and early. We all look forward to Bobb's senior year when he will have a foreign boy as a brother. Last year we had a Swedish 'nephew' who lived with friends and we fell in love with him. Candy and Marg also look forward to this new brother who will arrive in August. Candy is taller than I am now and wears heels, which really dwarfs me. Marg is still a joker and a muffin."

From Dot Shaw Jones: "You'd have been proud of me this winter when I worked for the Cornell Fund because I ferreted out some Classmates just the way you would." (Oh! Dottie will visit me in Dayton when she comes out to visit her son Rick at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio for Mother's Day week end and is she ever going to get a scolding! She didn't give me a single news item about any of those Classmates she "ferreted out"!)

Which reminds me: Have you contributed to the Cornell Fund this year? Betty Baranousky Ramsey tells me that we can meet our dollar goal if all the "regulars" come through, but as of April 8 only twenty-five (out of 339) gals had contributed. We do fairly well in dollars each year, because we have several very generous donors (and I understand that Schusty's employer, General Electric, matches her generous contribution as they do for all GE employes). But we never do very well in the number of women who contribute. 1960 is a good year to get into the Cornell Fund habit. Get your contribution in the mail today.

Chester Woodward has been promoted to the newly-created position of assistant director of research by Philco Corp. of Philadelphia, Pa. Chester lives at 1450 Wynwood, Riverton, N.J.

Two of the Class officers had a meeting outside the country; no, it wasn't at the Class's expense. Ned Gregg and your correspondent happened to take vacations at the same place, French Leave, Governors Harbor, Eleuthera, Bahamas. We all had a wonderful time and Ned and I got a lot of things settled.

'40 BS—A son, Karl Milton Mayhew III, was born March 25 to Mrs. Karl M. Mayhew, Jr. (Bette Limpert) of 18 Pleasant Street, Canton. Karl joins Stella Ann, 12, Grayce Elizabeth, 9, and Frederick James, 7. "Wish I could arrange to come to my 20th in June. Just have to wait and see how Karl III thrives," his mother says.

Parties and Politics in America

By CLINTON ROSSITER '39

John L. Senior Professor of American Institutions

REPUBLICAN OR DEMOCRAT?
Before you decide, read this concise and invaluable guide to the American political scene.

Here is a decidedly realistic picture of our two main parties — their make-up, how they grew, their accomplishments and failures, how they differ, what we can and should expect from them — what we can't, and why.

Full of fresh and perceptive judgments, this is a lively presentation of the hard facts of our political life by a well-known Cornell University professor who writes with critical affection and admiration. His heartening appraisal of the "glorious stew of American politics" will help every reader make more sense of our unique and disorderly democratic process.

Professor Benjamin Nichols (above), 111 Irving Place, Ithaca, sails on the Queen Mary for a two-month tour of Western Europe, June 29. Ben will be accompanied by his wife, the former Ethel Baron, PhD '51, and daughter Mary, 15, and son Jeffrey, 13. In February, Ben addressed the Cornell Society of Engineers in New York City on space research at Cornell. Last July, he was promoted by the University to professor of Electrical Engineering.

Dr. Roy C. Swan, Jr., 116 Pinehurst Ave., New York City 33, is professor and head of the Department of Anatomy of the Cornell Medical College. Last September the Medical College Alumni Bulletin announced Roy's promotion and included a photograph and an article. He received the MD at the Medical College in 1947, interned at New York Hospital, and began teaching at the Medical College in 1948. Roy is treasurer of the New York State Society for Medical Research and is a member of both the American Physiological Society and the American Society for Clinical Investigation. Mrs. Swan is the former Marian E. Morse. They have three boys.

N. Travers Nelson, 326 Suffolk Rd., Baltimore 18, Md., is assistant to the superintendent, Bethlehem Steel Co. Mrs. Nelson is the former Marjorie Demarest. The children are Anne, 11, Coates, 10, and Elizabeth, 2. Travers is a member of The Wire Association and The Sparrows Point Country Club. He is also a director of the Progress Federal Savings & Loan Association.

'41 Women—I received a wonderful family picture and long newsy letter from Mrs. Alex Nelson (Eloise Crosby), 69840 McLeod St., Richmond, Mich. She is married to a school superintendent and busy with the usual activities: PTA, Women's Club, Girl Scouts, etc. She and her family David, 14, and Jane, 12, garden as a hobby. They have travelled and are planning a tent trip to California in 1961.

Mrs. Hale Hughes (Elizabeth H. Hughes) lives with her daughter at 602 Prospect St., Westfield, N.J. She has lived in California and has travelled in Europe and Hawaii. Mrs. Joseph D. Overman (Mary Garmong), 111 Cloverdale Circle, New Shrewsbury, Eatontown, N.J., sends no news but thinks it would be fun to hear about her friends in a newsletter.

Mrs. Stuart E. Pierce (Grace Kingsley), 94 Adrian Rd., Pt. Pleasant, has 3 boys and 1 girl ranging in age from 5-12 and an 11-year-old foster daughter. She is recuperating from a six months' illness and two operations.—VIRGINIA BUELL WUORI

'44, '43 BEE—James R. Olin has been appointed manager of manufacturing for General Electric's small AC motor and generator department in Schenectady. Associated with GE's induction motor operations for eight years, he had a large part in designing and setting up the famed "automated motor factory" at the Schenectady plant. Since 1954 he has been superintendent of motor and generator manufacturing for the department. He and Mrs. Olin (Phyllis Avery) '45 and their five children live at 4 Sunnyside Road, Scotia 2. He is chairman of the Town of Glenville Democratic committee, president of the First Unitarian Society's board of trustees, and a director of the Schenectady Bureau of Municipal Research and of the Senior Citizens Center.

'47 Men—Our happy boy (above) is Ed Sharafanowich. Sorry for the bad picture, but it's a blow-up from a Christmas card and I'm desperate for pics. Ed is a good boy and won't mind a bit, I hope. April 20, Ed and I were joined by Ed Good, Walt Fedirko, Bill Hale, Joe Coleman, Gil Feldman, and Bill Evers, Class secretary, at the Cornell Club of New York for drinks and Dutch-treat dinner. Herb Brinberg was a last-minute cancel-out. Most entertaining time and all of us enjoyed spreading general news about selves. The purpose of the meeting: start activity rolling toward good Class council work with an eye toward Reunion in '62. The seven local men, Ware being a Finger Lakes boy, agreed to review lists of Metropolitan area dwellers and issue invitations for small groups to gather; beer-and-TV evening sort of thing. At this Cornell Club meeting, Evers swore a Class newsletter was in production. Wait and watch, I say. Incidentally, Joe Coleman is co-chairman of our '62 Reunion and he would be delighted to receive any offers of assistance this far ahead. Joe prefers to receive mail at 342 Madison Ave., New York City. The Class should take heart in this surge of enthusiasm. If future meetings of Class members are as much fun as the April 20 one, '47 can look forward to many productive years for Cornell alumni activities. Maybe our generation needs 12-15 years to blossom.

From Pittsburgh comes the sad confirmation of Arnold Hayward's death, August 12. He lived at 8151 Remington Dr. There are no further details.

Near the end of February Pete Peterson (Edgar B.) was escorted to Ware's office by old friend Walter Bacon '30. Both were on a recruiting trip for Bell Telephone Lab. There was time for a few minutes of enjoyable conversation. Pete shares a keen interest in hockey with this writer. We'll get him here for some hockey next year, hopefully. Pete is a New Jersey resident, 117 Burnham Rd., Morris Plains.

Jay Roy Bergen has a change of address. Moved into new house April 1: South Point Terrace, Fayson Lake, RD Butler, N.J. And another move involves Marvin M. Wedeen to 55 Coralyn Ave., White Plains.

Catching up with Don Ayers, our Class treasurer: Children are David Christopher, 3, and Patricia Ann, 15 mos. Don, a lawyer, works at 75 Fulton St., New York City 38, his own business, and deals mainly with defensive insurance work.

As I write this column, my copy of the Class council ballot has not been received. I'm looking for mine and will act upon instructions at once. When you receive your copy, do the same, and give the Class a good show on the vote.—BARLOW WARE

'48 Women—It is a pleasure to announce that Joan B. Holden was married to John S. Witte, August 1. John is a Columbia graduate and is now dean of freshmen and director of admissions at Hobart College, Geneva. The Wittes live at 218 Hamilton St., Geneva.

Madeleine Miller Bennett writes to tell us about her new daughter, Bonita, born June 27. The Bennetts have moved to 123-60 3d Ave., Kew Gardens.

—HELEN CORBETT JOHNSON

'50 Men—Francis A. Curry (above) has been named assistant to the director of advertising & public relations for Rockwell Manufacturing Co. Frank's prior experience with the company, which he joined in 1955, was in the industrial relations department and as headquarters personnel manager.

Rodger W. Gibson, 2329 North Haven Blvd., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, is now sales manager of Moock Electric Supply, Westinghouse distributors in northeastern Ohio. Rodg is vice-president of the Cornell Club of Cleveland and will definitely be back in June for our Ten-year Reunion. While I'm on that subject, I wish to remark on the terrific job that is being done by Walt Bruska and his committee in Ithaca. The planning that is going into this affair is tremendous and I know we are going to have a really fine show in June.

Thomas A. Beattie is manager of The Beaumont Hotel, Duray, Colo., which he purchased January 1. The Beaumont was the first hotel in the world to have electricity and was wired by Thomas Edison. Duray is an old mining town and the Camp Bird Mine there provided the money which eventually brought the Hope Diamond to the United States.

Theodore Eskild, 270 Vienna St., Palmyra, is a project engineer with Garlock Packing Co. and has three children. Ted is also active in local politics and in the power squadron and is general superintendent of his church's Sunday school. Stanley Pogroszewski, 2390 Lake Rd., Hilton, has a 370-acre farm and seventy head of registered Holsteins. He is chairman of the Monroe County Farmers Home Administration and is very active in other agricultural activities in that area. He and his wife have three children with the birth of their first boy in December.

Captain John E. Peterson recently completed a military orientation course at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam

Houston, Tex. John's wife is the former Ann Sullivan '50. Before entering the Army, he was a surgeon at Bellevue Hospital. Walter S. Helly, 215 W. 88th St., New York City, has received the PhD in physics at MIT. Walt had done graduate work at University of Illinois until 1954.

Word has it that Frank Wydo is coming out of retirement to play professional football with Boston in the American Football League. Frank, of course, had been a star performer with the Philadelphia Eagles before he retired in 1959. Pennsylvania State University has awarded the PhD to Robert Angus in the field of agricultural economics.

—JOHN MALONEY

'50 Women—Sarah Morss, weight nine pounds, was born February 25 to Ken '49 and Sally Wallace Murray, Teugega Point, Golf Course Rd., Rome. "Ken's big feet, my Schoellkopf-type voice," writes Sally, "and a mind of her own. She'll probably pick Wellesley." Alumni Fund Representative Jo Kessel Buyske (Mrs. Donald A. Buyske) also produced an offspring, little Jo, in the middle of January. The new baby joins Carl, 5½, and Donna, 4. The Buyskes live at 869 Hillcrest Rd., Ridgewood, N.J.

Former Reunion Chairman Mary Green Thompson (Mrs. Donald L. Thompson of 1521 Buena Ave., Berkeley 3, Cal.) writes us a fine long letter after a deafening silence of several years: "In June, 1958 I retired, at least temporarily, from my journalistic career at Pacific Telephone Co., where I was editor of an employee newspaper, and our daughter, Jillian Ellen, was born July 7, 1958. In September of that year, my husband went back to school at University of California to work on a PhD in the graduate school of business administration with the ultimate aim of becoming a professor of business economics. So far I am quite happy staying home and being wife and mother full time, although every once in a while I feel I should be doing something else like writing a book, but I'm sure I'll get over this." Mary wonders whether there are many '50ers in the San Francisco area; if there are enough, she suggests trying to work up a regional Reunion for all the Californians who won't be able to make it back to Ithaca next month.

Kitty Carey has been in San Francisco since last fall and has finally written to tell us what she is doing. "I was fed to the back-teeth with Detroit and dying for a change of scenery. San Francisco is just that. I arrived in October, searched madly for a job, and finally hooked up with an outdoor advertising firm. Good jobs in San Francisco are few and far between; the majority of my friends here are doing boring things from 9 to 5, but from 5 to 9 and on week ends it's worth it. I inherited a divine apartment at 1160 Clay St. It's exotically oriental and has a heavenly view of the bay. And I'm still tourist enough to rush to the window periodically and look at Navy ships and freighters steaming in and out."

The J. Richard Suchmans (Fay Binenkorb) have moved to 2001 Cureton Dr., Urbana, Ill. Dick '49 was recently promoted to associate professor of education at University of Illinois. Pat Haller (Mrs. Allen B. Harbach) reports: "Al is now chief electronic development engineer with Bell

'51 Men—My winter surplus of news has disappeared and I've started the scratching process again. All of you who have sent in news and dues envelopes, faint not nor fear. Shortly after you read this column, a newsletter should be coming your way.

Had a nice note from Marcus Bressler, 3252 Stanley Rd., Akron 13, Ohio. Marcus is a stress analysis engineer for Babcock & Wilcox Co., Barberton. He reports, "Have been in my new house more than one year and, if I could only get my grass to grow as fast as my kids and the weeds, I'd be happy." The Bresslers' second child, Lisa Ann, was born March 1. Marcus puts in a request for a Reunion program next year, including "lots of events for the wives, so that I can have a good salespoint for insuring our attendance." Sounds like a good idea. Reunion Chairman George Myers, please note.

And speaking of George, by George, he reports that he is on an assignment for McKinsey & Co., management consultants, which will keep him in Texas for several months. Normally, the Myerses can be located in Chicago. George writes he talked with Al Gleitsman in the Houston airport—Al was on his way to New York—and then rode from Houston to Chicago on the same plane with Pete Williams who was on his way back to Columbus.

Class philosopher (I'm not sure of the particular school; it seems to change from letter to letter) Walt Zielinski has sent forth another epistle. His faithfulness as a Class correspondent is only exceeded by his wit with words and what have you. I quote:

On occasion, Fred Gillan can be seen purposefully striding down 42d Street of a Saturday's morn as if to council of state with his tailor, tobacconist and/or tonsor or, perhaps, all three. Pigeons, please note and stand clear!

Ed Coene's wife, in Philadelphia, and Don McNamara's, in Hackensack (goodness, what outlandish names!), have been heard to say they are tired of camping out and are thinking about getting back into the swim of things here across the Hudson. Ed and Don are honing up their mashie-niblicks for a fight to the finish. Kind of reminds you, doesn't it, of what happened to poor old George in that bunker on the back nine of the Little Big Horn. And finally, if you are ever asked by one of your children, and you might very well be, on a particularly disagreeable day, what a patent attorney is, you may say he is a lure cast upon the waters from Champlain to Pontchartrain for the fascination of rising thinkers with sometimes fishy ideas. And, for your own information, you can't hardly catch a cornell no more from the mellifluous shores of Ticonderoga, Saratoga, Memphis, Bastrop, El Dorado, Olla, Smackover, Vidalia, Natchez, or Baton Rouge.

Once again, we plead with Gothamites to encourage this happy, homely philosopher by dropping words to Walt at 220 E. 42d St., New York City 17.—JACK OSTROM

Arno D. Scheffler writes that he and his wife, Marjorie Shaw '53, have built a house in Sands Point on Shore Wood Dr. The Schefflers have two children, Todd and Kim. Arno is assistant director of retail sales with Lehman Bros. in New York City.

Jack Veerman, 90 Beekman Place, New York City, reports that he saw Eric S. Schuss in Tokyo, Japan in February when Jack was there on business for Amsterdam Co., of which he is head. After more than a year in the Soviet Union working on a novel, Eric is now a special assistant to Yoshiaki Banjo, director of the forthcoming Japanese skiing movie, "Hero of the Silvery Mountain." The picture is being produced by the big Shochiku Motion Picture Co., and it stars Toni Sailer, Austrian ski champ, and Haruko Wanibuchi, a beautiful 15-year-old Austrian-Japanese girl, who, according to Eric, can make screen love far beyond her teens. In addition to helping the director, Eric is assisting the three German specialists in skiing photography who have been imported for the occasion. They have one camera strapped to Sailer's ski, with a cable running up inside his imported European skiing underwear to his hand. As the skier presses the release button the camera catches a close-up of his face and then "pans" the surrounding scenery. Another camera is strapped to Eric's back, and Eric precedes Sailer down the slope, shooting wide-angle cuts of the actor and maintaining the proper distance so as to keep him in focus. Eric says that the skiing has been pretty good, particularly at Fuji-Hakone, but that for the most part the snow is crusty, with very little powder. Both he and Sailer prefer the slopes at Zermatt, however. Jack said that Eric hasn't decided whether to write a separate novel about his experiences in Japan, or to simply weave them into his as yet unfinished novel about Russia.

Frank J. Veith, '55 MD, Quarters 7254B, Ft. Carson, Colo., was recently appointed assistant chief of surgery and chief of general surgery at the Ft. Carson Hospital. Frank, an Army captain, anticipates a two-year tour of duty. Frank was previously senior resident in surgery at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston. The Prudential reports that Jeremy G. Judge, 11 E. Wilson Circle, Red Bank, N.J., is now senior administrative assistant in the comptroller's division in Newark, and has three children. He is married to the former Margot Perona of Bernardsville, N.J.

Peter Banks, "Overlea," North Bennington, Vt., has been elected president of Bomco, Inc., makers of metal spinings and stampings for the electronics industry, in Gloucester, Mass. For the last four years Peter has been production manager with Warren Wire Co. Alfred H. Pagano received the PhD at Ohio State in March, and Class Reunion Chairman John F. Craver has just been appointed assistant general manager of the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City. Jack was formerly administrative assistant to the general manager.

By now, you will all have received and, I'm sure, returned your news-filled card for the Class newsletter. Though the deadline is now past, I'm sure Jean Brown Craig would still welcome your reply if you haven't yet sent it. In case you've lost your card, send your news to Mrs. Cassin W. Craig, 475 Elliger Ave., Fort Washington, Pa.

Two new babies to report. Dell (Tauscher) and Konrad Bald '55 added Susan Liddell to their family, April 8, making two girls and one boy in their happy brood. Evelyn (Kris) Hoffman Huffman writes that her second daughter, Maude, arrived March 1. Maude's sister Abigail is now 2½. Kris continues: "We have been in Kansas City for almost two years, since leaving New Haven. John is with a local architectural firm, and in his leisure hours is working on our house. In the one year that we have lived in this house, we have done major and minor remodeling, but now he informs me that we have only just begun!"

'53 Men: W. Fletcher Hock, Jr. 60 Sherwood Rd. Ridgewood, N.J.

Jim Logsdon writes: "1959 was evidently a vintage year for many '53 Men and I was no exception. In February, my wife, Judy, and I had our first child, Leslie Ann. During the year we completed building our house at 1328 Pine St., Glenview, Ill. This proved to be one of the most comical, exasperating and, finally, satisfying experiences I hope to have. 1960 has also started out in an enjoyable way. Took my vacation the last of February (I've been an account executive with Merrill Lynch in Chicago since 1955) and went to Sicily. While I had always thought of that island as the HQ of the Mafia, it turned out to be a delightful place with temperatures in the 70s and spectacular scenery."

William E. Doll, Jr. is on the faculty at Park School, Brookline, Mass. He is also a candidate for a Master's degree in philosophy at Boston University. Dave Flinker is a resident at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich. He plans to head east to Philadelphia this summer to study hematology at Jefferson Hospital. The Flinkers have a two-year-old daughter. Dave Repass is doing graduate work in political science at University of Michigan. He holds a Ford Fellowship this year and hopes to complete his PhD work by June, 1961. Dave is aiming for a career in college teaching. Ralph Stevens has moved to 9 Gold St., Los Alamos, N. Mex.

Donald F. Johansen has been promoted from traffic supervisor to division staff supervisor in the Chicago area traffic department of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. Nelson C. White, Jr. has been appointed manager of product information for General Electric's rocket engine section, Evendale, Ohio. White has been assigned to the rocket engine section since joining GE in 1956. Before his new appointment, he was a specialist in programming, contracts, and marketing research. The Whites have three children.

Jerome B. Lando of 198 Ocean Ave., Woodmere, is in his second-semester studies under a Socony Mobil Oil Co. graduate fellowship at Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. His special research project is electrochemical measurements. He expects to receive the PhD (chemistry) in June. Frank A. Bettucci, a representative in Ithaca for Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co's Forbes S. Tuttle Agency in Syracuse, has completed two weeks of study in Springfield, Mass. as a member of his company's forty-second home office school for career underwriters. Frank is an honorary member of the Ithaca Junior Chamber of Commerce, having been chosen "Young Man of the Year" in Ithaca in 1956. He is also a member of the Ithaca Life Underwriters.

Charles H. Harper is architecting in the Milwaukee, Wis. environs. Chuck designed the family castle at 9441 N. Regent Ct., Milwaukee 17, so that all slices off the fourth tee of a neighboring golf course funnel into a large vat in his living room. Chuck's sideline: selling golf balls, of course. He and his wife, Pat, have three daughters, Jane, Diane, and Susan, and a son, "C.B."

that I had received her exciting news via "Ye Old Grapevine," wrote me a nice letter full of news of Ed's work and her activities. Ed is with the East Pittsburgh plant of Westinghouse Electric and is working for a Master's at University of Pittsburgh. He recently became a full-fledged member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. For a Texan, Tex sounds mighty sold on Pittsburgh. Their address again is 1070 Old Gate Rd., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Busy planning a summer vacation? If you should happen to visit any Cornellians, do let us know all the news you exchanged.

'55 Men: Robert I. Landau

While I can't say the US postal service beat a path to my door, my plea for news brought several letters jammed with notes, enough to keep the column going for the next few issues.

Thanks to you who did write. I appreciated both the notes for the column and your wishes for my marital happiness.

"I have good news," starts a note from Judy Jankowitz. The news is that she became Mrs. Martin P. Gura, March 27. Judy does publicity work for Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn department store. Her husband is "an advertising man (heaven help our ulcers!)." Judy also reports that Sue Kleinman became Mrs. Jerome Luskin September 6; that Jane Susskind Narins and her husband are now in Albany, and that Lorna Jackson Salzman is in New York City. You may recognize her husband's name. He's Eric Salzman of the New York Times music reviewing staff.

From Myra (Dickman) Orth comes news that she and husband Bill returned from an Army-paid stay to Europe in November and are settled at 114 Hicks St., Brooklyn 1. Bill is with General Motors overseas division ("the wanderlust has not worn thin," Myra writes) and they're finding Brooklyn's Heights charming. The night before writing, the Orths attended a party given by Bette (Wendt) and Bob King '55. The Kings are still residing in the 50th State, but returned to Larchmont to get a taste of those late winter snow storms. A welcome change from Hawaii's sands! I wonder? Myra writes that she also sees Pete (Jensen) Eldridge often; that Carolyn (Wolfinger) and Tom Selldorff had a boy, John Paul, January 16; and that Ginny (MacDonald) and Jon Linseth now live at 125 Catham Rd.,

Waynesboro, Va. The Selldorff's address, by the way, as reported in a recent column is 103 Bobrich Dr., Rochester 10.

Myra writes: "Like everyone else who is sent to Europe on Uncle Sam, we travelled like mad, but soon found our enthusiasm for historical monuments wearing thin; so we took to eating, and thus every trip was planned around the restaurants enroute. You might say we travelled on our stomachs. And, since the best food is to be found in France, we spent most of our time driving in circles there." After Bill's discharge in August, they stayed on and "kept poking around until November when, reluctantly, we returned home."

On this next item you can accuse me of getting the cart before the horse, but in newspaper tradition, the new news first. Dorothy (Zimmerman) Bynack writes that she is enjoying married life with husband Earl. They were married last August 14 and I didn't get it in the column. Earl is head mechanic for a construction company and they live on Job Hill Rd., Box 196, RD 1, Ellington, Conn. Dorothy also writes of Beth Anne who made her appearance at the home of Sandra (Pond) and Rodney H. Cornish '54 September 28. The happy parents live at 701 N. Aurora St., Ithaca.

'58 Men: William R. Hazzard
Box 502, Olin Hall
445 E. 69th St.
New York 21, N.Y.

With head held high and softly humming "As the Caissons Go Rolling Along," Jim Harper has marched off to Uncle Sam's Army. He'll hardly be through with the second chorus before he resumes his chores as correspondent in the fall, but in the meantime we'll do our best to keep you up-to-date on your Classmates. Who are we? We is I (how about that one, Professor Mizener?), Bill Hazard, secretary-chairman of that labyrinthine structure which is your alumni Class council.

Jim has fairly inundated me with letters from you, some very new and others very old. News is by definition new, so we'll report only those items which have arrived since the mailing of the newsletter. We apologize to you good Classmates whose names never appeared in print. How about trying us again?

To take care of one per cent of the Class at a single fell swoop, we'll list those men who are in their second year of medical school here at Cornell: Barry Tharp, Don Vichick (who will marry Marie Adair of Boston June 24), Mike Gershon, Art Edelstein, Dick Niles, Joe Raziano, Bob Brennan, Gerry Mandell, and Richard Severance. Other Cornellians in the Class are Muriel King, Barbara Weisinger, and Naomi Remen, all '58, Ken Cestone '59, Carl Dieterle '55, Frank Brunstetter '53, and Ed Dean '56.

Now to start from the top of the pile. Marty Blinder will be an extern this summer at Mary's Metropolitan Hospital, 145 Guerrero St., San Francisco 3, Cal. Bob Tyler reports that he and partners Hal Skorpen and John Gibbons (both '59) have purchased the Hague Town House in Hague, and will open their first season this month. Herb Hess, Jim Herman, Jim Baughman, Lucas Vicens, Dave Goldenberg, Eric Bloch, and Dave Hill all recently graduated from their respective Army training schools. Also in service training is Dave Cadiz, who is a Marine second lieutenant at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Fla. Gary Davidson is working for the Chief of Naval Operations in the Office of Naval Intelligence, Washington. August 22, he married Janet Toll, a Sophomore at Cornell at that time. He and Jan live at 207 North Wayne St., Apt. 5, Arlington 1, Va. Steve Briggs writes that he is the European sales representative for Outboard Marine International and is living in Bruges, Belgium. He married Lorna Sargeant of Denver November 28; ushers at the wedding included George Link and Tom Tuttle.

Lots more to come. See you again in two weeks.

'58 Women: Patricia K. Malcolm
415 East 85th St.
New York 28, N.Y.

A letter from Class V.P. Carol (Ostie) Ostergren Ortz provides some much appreciated news for this issue. Barbara Hauck and Ted Yates '58 were married April 9 in Verona, N.J. Betsy Hyde was one of the attendants. Hank Yates '58 was best man. Other Classmates attending the wedding included Betty Parker, Betty Ann Steer, Mary Thornton Carr, and Sally Snyder. Sally is with AT&T in New York and lives at 136 East 62d St. Mary and Chuck Carr '55 have purchased a home in Norwalk, Conn. on Lloyd Rd.

Another Class officer came to the rescue with news of her busy life as a new mother. Renni Bertenthal Shuter makes a plea on behalf of the Cornell Fund for generous contributions from all of us this year. Many of our Classmates are devoting hours of their time to the Fund drive, so please make their efforts worthwhile and mail your contribution in soon.

Roberta A. Arvine and Ted Fishman are engaged and plan to be married in late August. Ted is an electrical engineer at Brookhaven National Laboratories. Robbie plans to teach social studies in junior and senior high school next fall. Until then, she's living at 115 Colonial Rd., Great Neck. She was with Doubleday & Co., Inc., where several Cornellians are located: Jo Brizdle was starting out there; Kathy Davis Fishman is in the same building working for Mademoiselle. Kathy and husband now live at 56 East 66th St., New York City. Ellie Springer teaches home economics in Brooklyn in junior high school. She previously sold fashions at A&S department store. Marian Chow Altschul is working hard at Johns Hopkins on her degree. Nancy Foth is in Rochester at 1375 Highland Ave.

While seeing a former roommate off on an Air France flight from Idlewild to Paris, I saw Ann Weingarten who was taking the same flight. She was off for three weeks in Paris. Some people have all the luck!

'59 Men: Howard B. Myers
308 Mercer St.
New Castle, Pa.

Stanley Moraniec, whose home address is 5640 Neckle St., Dearborn, Mich., has been stationed in Patuxent River, Md. Stanley works for the US Navy, but it seems that Ken Rosen has a better job with the Army. Ken recently escorted a prize-winning USO hostess on a grand tour of Philadelphia, compliments of the local USO group there. While all this was going on, Mike Daule and Ed Hodge were pacing through a twelve-week paid vacation in Quantico, Va. à la US Marine Corps. Mike and Ed became second lieutenants and sent along a couple of photos to prove the commission. They both needed shaves, however, so the pictures have been edited out of this month's copy. Jim Hobson, heard from previously, also serves. Jim is with the Armor Division at Fort Knox, Ky., but I imagine it's easier to contact him at 2919 Greencastle St., Arlington, Va.

Alan Bowerman is doing graduate work in animal reproduction at Iowa State University. He's working for the PhD on an Armour assistantship and can be reached at 33 Curtiss Hall, Ames, Iowa. Neil Mendelson is teaching and studying in the zoology department of University of Indiana in Bloomington. Neil married Joan F. Rintel last July, and they can be located through the zoology department of University of Indiana. Richard Shope, 2369 Fulham St., St. Paul, Minn., is doing virus research at University of Minnesota, and writes that he misses Ithaca. Don't we all?

Henry Schaffer is working for a degree in genetics at North Carolina State College. Henry reports that he's working with fruit flies and that there are a lot of Cornellians in North Carolina, a dubious correlation I must say. For a listing of the latter species, which Henry omitted to supply in his letter, write to him in care of the department of genetics at the college. James Thomas Williams, 1238 Main St., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is a student at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa., and is a new member of Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity.

Harold M. Jenkins, RFD 1, Pound Ridge, is a student at University of Pennsylvania Wharton School, majoring in banking and finance. His loyalties are untarnished at Thanksgiving, however; his heart is still with Lefty's Big Red. Eugene Mirrer's mother writes that he is living with Marv Frogel, 14 Gustave Revillied, Geneva, Switzerland. And speaking of mothers, please relax Mrs. Peter Riskind; I was only kidding when I said that your son Kenny Riskind was going to re-enlist as a paratrooper. He hates the Army and can't wait to get out.

Stuart Alexander is a loan officer for the First National Bank of Cortland, Marathon, and Stephan Susskind is an insurance broker while finishing up his education at NYU. Steve can be reached at 1136 Fifth Ave., New York City 28. Farming is the present vocation of "retired hotelman" F. M. Phillips, Persimmon Hill, Jobstown, N.J. F.M. is a manager for Medowby Farms, Inc. and writes that he saw Margo (Canton) '57 and Mort Berger '50 recently. He also added that Bill Schern is a sales manager somewhere, Rocco Angelo is with Harris Kerr Foster at the Ambassador-Atlantic City, John Vaughan is back in Ithaca after military service, and Bill Boxntor is in Boulder, Colo., working for the PhD. address to the Miami Hotel, Dayton, Ohio. Dave resigned as manager of the Rutland, Vt. Country Club to accept an appointment to the US Naval Officers Candidate School, Newport, R.I.

Lieutenant Samuel Huff, US Naval Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., reports nothing in particular, but adds a glowing testimonial to American education systems with the observation that in his capacity of chief of the food service division, he is sometimes amazed at the applicability of the courses studied at Cornell. Bruce Steele writes from 143 Cornell Quarters after a two-year absence from Ithaca. Now married to Sally K. Johnston '59, he is the proud papa of Michael Steele, 2, and will graduate in 1961.

Beauty is more than skin deep ... GULFSTREAM beauty

The beauty of the Gulfstream, Grumman's outstanding new business transport, goes way beyond the obvious. For example, sandwiched between the Gulfstream's clean exterior and custom interior is a rugged Grumman structure built to withstand fatigue for the equivalent of more than 50 years of operation! This structure is based on the most recent knowledge gained from designing supersonic airplanes.

The Grumman Gulfstream starts new with you. When you select it, you get an airplane new from nose to tail, conceived and engineered by Grumman for modern business flying. Optimum performance, utility, reliability and all-weather safety are "standard equipment." Add to that the two Dart turbo-prop engines that power the Gulfstream. The Gulfstream cruises at 350 mph and has a range of 2200 miles plus 200 miles and 45 minutes reserve. Pressurization at 25,000 feet provides a comfortable air-conditioned altitude of 5500 feet—permitting operation above the weather and traffic.

Corporation executives and pilots are invited to inspect the Gulfstream and arrange for demonstration flights through one of the following distributors: Atlantic Aviation, Wilmington, Delaware; Southwest Airmotive, Dallas, Texas; Pacific Airmotive, Burbank, California; Timmins Aviation, Montreal.
