TO BRAZIL FOR A YEAR.

Professor McDermott to Carry Out Important Commission for a Ship Company.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, sabbatical leave of absence for the ensuing year was granted to Professor George R. McDermott. He will spend the time in carrying out a contract which he has undertaken with the Lloyd Brasileiro, the largest ship owning company in South America, to organize, erect and equip extensive shipyards, engine works, boiler works and drydocks at Rio de Janeiro, capable of undertaking the repairs of their fleet of steamers and those of the Brazilian navy, as also the construction of new vessels complete in every respect.

In order that this important undertaking may be carried to a successful completion, a commission, headed by Professor McDermott, will leave next month on a tour of inspection of the more important shipbuilding works in England, Scotland, Germany and France; returning to this country, a similar inspection of American shipyards will be made; on the completion of which, the commission will make selection and purchase of the necessary metal and woodworking machinery and power-plant of the most modern and up-to-date type; it is gratifying to learn that the larger proportion of these will be of American manufacture. Professor McDermott will then sail for Rio de Janeiro, sometime in October, to superintend the erection and completion of the works.

The Lloyd Brasileiro owns twelve lines of steamers, constituting a fleet of over seventy vessels, which ply between the ports of the Brazilian coast, rivers Amazon and Plate, including two lines of passenger and freight steamers with regular sailings between Rio de Janeiro, New York and intermediate ports. A contract with the Brazilian government provides for the navigation by the vessels of the Lloyd Brasileiro of 1,429,348 miles yearly.

Appointments in Sibley.

The following new appointments to the staff of Sibley College were made at a meeting of the Executive Committee held on May 24:

George Burr Upton, M. E., '04, assistant professor of experimental engineering (promoted).

Percy Hodge, Ph. D., '08, assistant professor of mechanics of engineering (promoted).

Leslie David Hayes, M. E., '08, assistant professor of machine design (promoted).

Frank Arthur Burr, '07 G., assistant professor of power engineering (promoted).

Fred Edgar Klinck '10, William Raymer Straus '10 and Myron A. Lee '09, instructors in machine design.

Paul Wheeler Thompson '10, instructor in power engineering.

John George Pertsch, jr., M. E. '09, instructor in electrical engineering (promoted).

No Senior Ball This Year.

It has been decided to cancel the senior ball, which was scheduled to be held on Monday evening, June 20. The committee took this step because it had been unable to get assurance of financial support. So few fraternities are planning to give house parties at Commencement time that the ball seemed likely to be very poorly attended, and the committee decided to cancel it rather than to involve the class in a loss of several hundred dollars.

The Cornell University Club of New York has elected the following officers for one year: President, Ira A. Place '81; treasurer, Bert Hanson '93; secretary, Frederick Willis '01.

The new fraternity "rushing" rules have been adopted as printed last week.

'86 MEMORIAL PRIZE.

Won by Alan H. Colcord, of Brooklyn, a Sophomore.

The twenty-fourth annual contest for the '86 Memorial Prize was won by Alan H. Colcord '12, of Brooklyn. The contest was held in the Armory on Friday evening. It is somewhat unusual for a sophomore to win this contest, as seniors have been the successful speakers for a number of years past. Colcord's declamation was "The Eloquence of Daniel O'Connell."

The competitors for this stage are chosen from the members of the class in public speaking after a series of three elimination contests. The speeches are not supposed to be original, and in making the award attention is directed to manner of delivery rather than to subject matter.

The judges were A. E. Tuck '98, of Rochester; the Rev. Wallace E. Brown, D. D., of Ithaca, and Professor V. Karapetoff of Sibley College.

Phi Beta Kappa.

On Saturday evening the Cornell chapter of Phi Beta Kappa held its spring meeting and banquet at the Ithaca Hotel. The occasion proved most enjoyable. Fifty-one persons, all but six of whom were members, were in attendance. Professor Frank Thilly acted as toastmaster, and speeches were made by Bishop Courtney, Mrs. Andrew D. White, representing the Swarthmore chapter; Profs. Charles Mellen Tyler, Martin W. Sampson, and William W. Comfort; the Rev. Edward A. George, and William F. Russell '10. Mrs. Paul R. Pope was to have responded for the women, but was called away before her name was reached. The following were elected delegates to the Tenth Triennial Council, which meets in New York on September 13-14: Professor Madison Bentley, president of the chapter; Dean James E. Russell, of the

A Phi Beta Kappa Souvenir.

The Phi Beta Kappa Society has just published, as New Series No. 10, a handsome illustrated pamphlet giving a brief history of the society, portraits of the founder, John Heath, and the present Senators of the United Chapters, a cut of the original medal, and a list of existing chapters with officers. The Cornell Chapter has purchased a limited number for the use of its alumni, and the Secretary, Professor Clark S. Northup, will be glad to send a copy gratis to any member of the Chapter who will furnish his or her exact address.

The English club has elected the following officers for next year: President, M. R. Sanderson '12; vice-president, Miss A. B. Curtis '12; secretary, L. A. Rodenhiser '11; treasurer, Miss Cassie Marsh '11.

THREE CREW VICTORIES.

Two Crews Win Against Harvard and One Against Pennsylvania.

Cornell won a double victory in rowing against Harvard on the Charles river at Boston Monday, both the 'varsity and the freshman eights carrying the Carnelian and White across the finish line ahead of the Crimson. The junior 'varsity also defeated the Pennsylvania junior crew on Cayuga Lake.

At Boston the 'varsity won by a length and a quarter over the course of one and seven-eighths miles. Its time was 11 minutes, 23 seconds; Harvard's time was four seconds slower. The freshmen ran away from their Harvard rivals and won by six lengths in 11 minutes, 15 seconds.

Both races were rowed in rough water and against a head wind. The 'varsity race was started shortly after 5 o'clock. The Harvard crew caught the water first and immediately dashed into the lead. Pulling their strong, slow stroke, the Crimson crew maintained an advantage for the first half mile, although Cornell was pegging away at a stroke which sometimes reached forty to a minute. The two shells splashed by the half mile flags 2 minutes and 58 seconds after the start, with Harvard in the lead by a couple of yards. Immediately after came a Cornell spurt, and at the five-eighths mark the crews were even. Still the Cornell eight had not quite settled down to business, and Harvard had no difficulty in drawing away in the next quarter of a mile.

The Harvard Bridge is at the one mile point. Under this, in the middle of the stream, is a long row of piles which prevents the racing crews from seeing each other. When they passed under the bridge Harvard was a quarter of a length to the good. Then, at a signal from Coxswain Clark, Bowen hit up the stroke to the utmost he was capable of. The crew was with him to a man, and when the two eights emerged from the shadow of the bridge and caught sight of each other again Cornell had a lead of almost a boat length. A good lead was maintained to the end, Cornell rowing the last half mile at about 38. Both crews finished in good condition, although they were drenched with spray and both boats had shipped much water.

Conditions on the river were better by the time of the freshman race, which was started a few minutes before 6 o'clock. This race was a close parallel to the 'varsity race. Harvard jumped into a short lead at the opening sprint but could not hold it after the quarter mile. Passing under Harvard Bridge, the Cornellians had half a length to the good and in the stretch below the bridge where the water was smoother they drew away rapidly. They rowed the race through with the stroke averaging 34 to the minute and Harvard was two points slower.

Francis S. Bangs, of Columbia, was referee of the races. Following are the names of the Cornell oarsmen:

'Varsity—Bow, C. N. Seagrave '11; 2, L. D. Simson '11; 3, G. B. Blakeley '12; 4, W. M. Aitchison '11; 5, S. H. Sutton '11; 6, P. L. Day '11; 7, Sewell Names '11; stroke, E. F. Bowen '12; coxswain, J. A. Clark '10.

Freshman—Bow, W. F. Thatcher; 2, E. S. Bates; 3, C. W. Brown; 4, B. W. Shaper; 5, J. H. Munn; 6, R. G. Nevins; 7, C. H. Elliott; stroke, E. H. Dole; coxswain, B. L. Crandall.

The Cascadilla School crew defeated the Stone School eight by two and a half lengths.

Over the two mile course on the east side of Cayuga Lake, the race between the junior 'varsity crews of Pennsylvania and Cornell was won by Cornell, the advantage at the finish being about three lengths and the winner's time 10 minutes, 50 seconds. Penn started with a stroke of 39 to the minute but soon dropped to 34. Cornell's was not far from 36 all through the race. For the first quarter mile the shells were even, but from that point Cornell gained steadily. The Cornell oarsmen were: Bow, C. E. Carpenter '12; 2, Walter Johnston '12; 3, B. D. Beyea '10; 4, Alfred Bonney, jr., '12; 5, S. N. Stimson '12; 6, W. O. Kruse '12; 7, K. E. Pfeiffer '12; stroke, W. G. Distler '12; coxswain, C. F. Merz '12.

Agriculture's Crew Wins.

The crew of the College of Agriculture won the intercollege rowing championship on Cayuga Lake on Monday, defeating Law and Mechanical Engineering. The race was rowed immediately after the Penn-Cornell contest and was the more exciting of the two. It was a pretty race to watch, as the oarsmen showed excellent watermanship, and at the finish the three boats were lapped. The course was one mile and the three crews made it as follows: Agriculture, 5:33; Sibley, 5:36; Law, 5:39. This time is pretty good considering that the crews rowed in barges. Sibley got a poor start. Agriculture drew into the lead after a few strokes, with Law second. A quarter of a mile from the finish the Sibley men began a spurt which put them ahead of Law and brought them to the finish in second place. These three crews were the winners of preliminary heats which were rowed on the day before. The winning college gets possession of the Barr trophy for a year.

Outing for Schenectady Cornellians.

The Cornell alumni of Schenectady will have an outing on Saturday afternoon, June 4. This is one of the series of monthly meetings they have had since last October and is the first one to be held out of doors. A small pleasure steamer which plies on the Erie Canal has been engaged, and the party will go to Vischers Ferry for the afternoon and evening. A ball game will be one of the events of the afternoon. Any alumnus who is in the vicinity of Schenectady on Saturday will be welcome. The steamer will leave at State street and the Erie Canal at 1:30 p. m., June 4.

BASEBALL.

CORNELL 5, MICHIGAN 0.

Michigan got only four hits off Pitcher Carvajal on Saturday, and the four were all made by Lothrop, the third baseman; two of them were "scratch" hits. Cornell made twelve hits and shut the visitors out by a score of 5 to 0. In 1908 Michigan was beaten 3 to 2 in a sixteen-inning game, but last year the westerners won 6 to 5. Carvajal's good pitching on Saturday was reinforced by good support, Cornell playing an errorless game.

Lothrop opened the game by beating out a slow grounder toward third. He stole second. Hays struck out. The side was retired on a fast double play, Howard throwing Mitchell out at first and receiving the ball from Watson in time to catch Lothrop at third. In the second and third innings Michigan went out one-two-three.

Lothrop's fumble gave Wagner his base in Cornell's first inning, but he got no further. In the second inning Cornell scored a run. Smith dropped Williams's boulder and the Cornell captain went to second on Thompson's sacrifice, to third on Howard's single over shortstop and scored on Watson's liner over second. Howard was forced out at third when Carvajal hit to the pitcher. Owen was passed, filling the bases, but Matchneer fled out to left field. In the third Wagner struck out, Rutherford was put out at first and Williams singled but was caught stealing second.

After the third inning Michigan had a man on second only once, and only four of her men reached first. Three of Lothrop's hits and a base on balls was all Michigan got from Carvajal in those six innings.

In the sixth Cornell scored two more runs. After striking out Owen, Smith passed Matchneer and Wagner, and they both crossed the plate when Rutherford slammed the ball against the clubhouse. The ball was thrown to the plate, but Wagner slid home ahead of it and Rutherford went to second, where he was caught out a moment later when Williams hit to the third baseman. Williams was out trying to steal.

Owen opened the seventh inning with a three-bagger over the center fielder's head. Matchneer was thrown out at first by the pitcher, but Owen scored on Wagner's liner to left field. Rutherford fled out to center but Williams and Thompson each got a safe hit and Wagner scored Cornell's fifth tally. In the eighth Verheryn took Smith's place as pitcher. Watson hit to the clubhouse for two bases and went to third on Owen's single but was thrown out at the plate on Matchneer's grounder to shortstop. Carvajal had fled out and Matchneer was forced out at second.

In the fifth inning Thompson made a spectacular running catch of Enzenroth's long fly beyond the cinder track. Clever playing was done by the infielders on both sides.

PENN 2, CORNELL 1.

The varsity nine lost the second game of its series with Penn, played at Percy Field on Monday afternoon, by a score of 2 to 1. It was a hard game to lose. Cornell outbatted Penn and fielded without error, but lost for lack of hits when hits would have meant runs. The fact that twelve Cornell men were left on bases tells the story. Goodwillie pitched excellently. After a bit of hard luck in the first inning he held Penn to five widely scattered hits. Watts was hit hard and got himself into tight places, but he always seemed to have something for an emergency. Despite wet ground, the fielding was accurate and fast. Howard's work at third base was spectacular. He accepted six chances, some of them apparently impossible, without an error. Owen covered a large territory in left field. For Pennsylvania, Thayer in center field twice prevented a run by catching a fly from Rutherford's bat within arm's reach of the clubhouse.

Penn got her two runs in the first inning. With one man out, Aldendifer got in the way of one of Goodwillie's out curves and took his base. Wood hit between first and second. Aldendifer went to third on the play. Rutherford threw to that base, but on a close decision the runner was declared safe. Wood had gone to second, and two runs came in when Smith hit over Matchneer's head. Hayden struck out and Deacon fled out to Owen, who made a difficult running catch. In Cornell's first inning Watts gave three bases on balls, but two men had been put out in the meantime and all three runners were left for lack of a hit.

Cozens opened the second with a single to deep left. Watts sent a grounder toward first which Watson fielded, Matchneer covering the base. On Smiley's out, Goodwillie to Watson, Cozens went to third, but Thayer's hot grounder was captured by Howard. For Cornell, with two out, Goodwillie and Owen both hit safely, but Matchneer fled out.

In the third, Howard slipped and fell on the wet turf in fielding Aldendifer's slow grounder, but he threw as he was and put his man out. Wood was passed and Smith singled, but again Hayden struck out and again Deacon fled out to Owen. Cornell failed to hit in this inning till after two were out. Then Williams and Thompson both singled, but Smiley threw Howard out at first.

Cozens earned his base in the fourth, but was forced out at second on Watts's grounder to Wagner. Smiley hit to Howard and the side was retired by a pretty double play, Howard to Matchneer to Watson. For Cornell, Owen went to bat with two out and hit for two bases, but again the hit was lacking to bring him home.

In the fifth nobody reached first. Smith drew a pass in the sixth and went to second on Hayden's single, but Hayden was caught off first and put out, Williams to Wat-

THIS NUMBER is published one day late in order to include in it accounts of the athletic events of Monday, Memorial Day.

THE ATHLETIC NEWS of the week does not leave much room for anything else, but it is virtually the ending of the season for all but the crews and the baseball team. The nine has yet to meet Harvard and Yale and it will have another game with Pennsylvania. Monday's victories on the water point to another successful day for Cornell at Poughkeepsie.

AFTER THE GOOD showing made by the three crews which took part in the intercollege race last Monday, there is no doubt that intercollege rowing has come to stay. Now that the crews have a boathouse of their own on the Inlet, interest is keener and the men have a far better opportunity for practice.

The result was seen in the best exhibition of watermanship ever shown by our college crews. For a month the Inlet has been ploughed every afternoon by the three barges owned by the intercollege boat club and the float at the new house has been filled with oarsmen awaiting their turn. Some of Mr. Courtney's graduate pupils, including Weed and Bullen, have coached the candidates. As soon as the club can raise the money for more boats an even larger number of men can take part in the sport which has been Cornell's own for so many years.

The Cornell Manual of American Literature.

Count Angelo De Gubernatis, professor of Italian literature at the University of Rome and one of the best known writers of Italy, publishes in a recent number of the Roman daily, Il Popolo Romano, a long and appreciative review of the "Tauchnitz Manual of American Literature," the joint work of Messrs. Bentley, Northrup, Cooper, Bailey, Cox and Adams of the Arts Faculty of Cornell University, and of Theodore Stanton, one of the early graduates. Professor De Gubernatis closes his critical notice with these lines:

"We here learn for the first time, thanks to Mr. Theodore Stanton, that 'Democracy', where political corruption also appears for the first time as a theme for romance, was the work of the historian, Henry Adams, descended from two Presidents; and that the author of the sociological novel, 'The Bread-Winners,' was John Hay, which fact Mr. Stanton states on the authority of the widow of the late Secretary of State."

A. S. Meldrum of Buffalo has been elected editor-in-chief of the Sibley Journal, and W. K. Frank of Pittsburg business manager.

The senior class will have a boat ride to Atwater's next Saturday afternoon and evening. There will be a barbecue.

Annual inspection of cadets was held last Thursday.

OBITUARY.

C. C. DICKINSON.

Charles Courter Dickinson '91, one of the alumni members of the University Board of Trustees, died early on Tuesday morning, May 24, in St. Luke's Hospital, New York, of pneumonia and kidney disease. According to a statement made by his brother, Stanton C. Dickinson, the immediate cause of his last illness was the inhaling of some deleterious gas while he was witnessing an experiment in a chemical laboratory at Scranton, Pa., an experiment performed in connection with an industrial project in which he had been invited to interest himself. He was not able to return to New York until the day after the experiment. On the Wednesday before his death he was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Dickinson was born in Schoharie county, New York, on July 12, 1870. He prepared for college at the Cobleskill Academy, graduating at the age of fifteen, and won a State scholarship in Cornell University. He entered the University in 1887 and graduated in 1891 with the degree of B. L. He was a Commencement orator, won a certificate for proficiency in military science and also won a prize, awarded by Joseph H. Choate, George William Curtis and Charles Kendall Adams as judges, for the best work written by an undergraduate in any college of the United States on "Electoral Corruption."

Mr. Dickinson was one of the founders of the Cornell chapter of Delta Tau Delta and was afterwards president of the general fraternity. He was also a member of the law fraternity of Phi Delta Phi.

During his undergraduate course Mr. Dickinson read law, and by the time he won his baccalaureate degree he had completed the necessary study for admission to practice. He accepted, however, an appointment as an examiner of banks of the State of New York. He was designated to make the first complete examination of the trust departments of all the trust companies of the state, which involved over a year's work. Then he obtained leave of absence from his post, entered the Cornell law school, and after one year's study took the degree of LL.

B. in the class of 1894. He divided second prize for a graduation thesis on eminent domain. He was admitted to the bar of the state in May, 1894. He was the author of several law works, including Dickinson's Eminent Domain, Groesbeck and Dickinson's Banking Laws of New York, and Dickinson and Cummings's General Municipal Laws of New York.

Soon after beginning the practice of law in New York city, Mr. Dickinson became interested in banking, and he was instrumental in organizing the Colonial Trust Company and the Colonial Safe Deposit Company. Then he organized the Carnegie Trust Company and in March, 1907, persuaded Leslie M. Shaw to resign the Secretaryship of the Treasury of the United States and to accept the presidency of the company. Mr. Dickinson became a director, then vice-president, and finally, upon Mr. Shaw's resignation, president of the company himself. He resigned the presidency and retired from active business last October, after his health had been impaired as a result of being thrown from his horse while riding in Central Park.

In June, 1909, Mr. Dickinson was elected an alumni trustee of the University, receiving more than four thousand votes.

He was a member of the Mayflower Society, Sons of the Revolution, Huguenot Society, Society of Colonial Wars, American Museum of Natural History, Metropolitan Museum of Art, Geographical Society, Botanical Gardens, Municipal Art League and the Manhattan, Lotos, New York, Cornell University, Democratic, Lawyers' and Railroad Clubs.

He married in January, 1905, Grace Georgette Kidd. She and one son, Charles Courter Dickinson, jr., who is four years old, survive him.

At his funeral the University was represented by Trustees Henry W. Sackett, Robert T. Morris and James H. Edwards.

E. H. FREAR '00.

Edward Hughson Frear died at his home in Ithaca on the morning of May 24. He had been stricken with apoplexy in the city court room on the previous afternoon. Mr. Frear was a graduate of the College

No doubt there is some "sub-frosh" in your neighborhood who contemplates entering college next fall. What college? Naturally you would like to have him enter Cornell. You talk to him. How much can you tell him accurately and systematically, about the place, its history, associations, splendid setting, student life, etc.? Would not a book, full of pictures, well written, covering all the points, endorsed by former President A. D. White and many others be the thing to loan or give to that sub-frosh? Such a book has been published within the year. The title is "At Cornell." Undergraduates have bought over a thousand copies, alumni hundreds more. We want you to have the volume. Costs only $1.70 Post Paid. Write today to THE ARTIL CO., Ithaca, N. Y., or to any of the bookstores.

The Roads are fine for Walking or Driving, but you can take a Trolley to ROGUE'S HARBOR COUNTRY CLUB. Bell Phone 2009.

CORNELL FIFTH IN TRACK.

Pennsylvania Wins the Intercollegiate Meet—Taylor and Berna Winners.

The track team of the University of Pennsylvania won the intercollegiate meet, held on Franklin Field last Friday and Saturday, with 27½ points. Yale was second, with 25½; Michigan, third, with 20; Princeton fourth, with 17, and Cornell fifth, with 14. Harvard scored 13½, Syracuse 8, Amherst 6, Brown and Dartmouth 3 each, Columbia 2½, and Bowdoin, Wesleyan and New York University 1 point each.

The victory is Penn's second since the present intercollegiate championship trophy was offered. Cornell has held the cup three times, Yale once and Harvard once. It will become the permanent possession of the college that first wins five victories.

Cornell's point winners were Percy J. Taylor '10, of Oak Park, Ill., who took first place in the mile run, defeating Paull, of Pennsylvania; Tell S. Berna '12, of Ithaca, winner of the two-mile run; Edward G. MacArthur '11, of Hudson, N. Y., who finished second in the 440-yard dash, and Henry W. Ford '11, of Montclair, N. J., fourth in the broad jump.

Other Cornell men who qualified but failed to win a place in the finals were Noland Blass '10, who won his preliminary heat in the 100-yard dash; Ford in the 220-yard dash; Newman Ebersole '10, and H. N. Putnam '12, who finished respectively fifth and sixth in the half-mile; and V. A. Stibolt '11, in the low hurdles. Taylor also qualified in the half-mile, but did not enter the final, having run in the two-mile after winning the mile.

Taylor's victory over Paull in the mile run was the surprise of the meet and it furnished one of the most exciting finishes, the Cornellian winning in a sprint by a single yard. There were twenty-one starters in this race. Paull's teammate, Baker, a former Swarthmore runner, set the pace for the first half, Paull and two other Pennsylvanians, Bodley and Masters, being grouped behind him. Cornell had Taylor, Bogert and De Golyer in the race. Taylor was in tenth place through the first quarter, which Baker, setting the pace, ran in 56 4-5 seconds. At the half-mile Baker walked off the track and Bodley and Masters fell away. Paull was then about thirty yards to the good of Taylor, who, as he drew near the post, began to come up strongly. Jaques of Harvard was third, followed by DeGolyer and Bogert of Cornell. Through the third quarter Paull managed to hold his lead, but when the bell rang for the last lap Taylor started after him. The Cornellian had cut down the lead to fifteen yards by the time he reached the top of the stretch; ten yards from the finish he was within three yards of Paull, and he crossed the line just a step the better. Tabor of Brown was third and Jaques fourth, barely ahead of De Golyer.

Berna held the lead in the two-mile run except for a short distance in the fifth lap, when he turned an ankle and was passed by May of Michigan and Green of Brown. He kept on, however, and won by about a yard from May.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Ramsdell, Penn.; Craig, Michigan, second; Minds, Penn., third; Cooke, Princeton, fourth. Time, 10 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Navy Week.

Many alumni were in Ithaca for the events of "navy week" and the town was pretty well filled up with visitors. There was a large attendance at the ball games and the Lehigh Valley's observation train of twenty-one cars which followed the races was crowded. The only disappointment of the period was the loss of the Penn baseball game. It rained hard on Monday morning and the field was so wet that this game was delayed until 4 o'clock. As a consequence, the boat races did not begin until after 7 o'clock. The freshmen wound up the festivities on Monday evening by burning their caps in a big bonfire on the library slope and then parading through town. They had a crew victory and a successful baseball season of their own to celebrate.

Nineteen Seven, on your toes! "Back to the Burg" is the cry. The "Water Wagon," the "caravan of sheiks" and other devices may be necessary to get some classes back to the good old town at reunion time, but the good scouts who got out three years ago are coming back by the simple automatic process. They don't need prodding.

The Lake is still there. So are the Hills, the Green Grass and all the other stage properties that made our four-act play, which ended its run three years ago, such a winner.

The curtain goes up for the All Star Revival of that Four Act Play on Tuesday, June 21.

Wednesday is the Big Show.

Remember, Back to the Burg.

New Activity in Kansas City.

The annual meeting of the Cornell Association of Kansas City was held on Saturday, May 21, at the Kansas City Athletic Club. The principal discussion was about the proposed visit of the Cornell musical clubs to Kansas City next winter, and all the men present promised hearty support. A committee of five, consisting of G. F. Mosher '07, chairman; J. C. Swift '93, C. S. Burns '94, George J. Mersereau '99, and Howard L. Snider '08, was appointed to arrange the details of the concert. Officers were elected to serve until November, as follows: President, W. B. Richards '83; vice-president, R. J. Thorne '97; secretary and treasurer, A. H. Place '94. It was decided to hold an informal luncheon at the University Club the last Saturday in each month.

Prize for Poetry.

C. E. Simonson '12, won the $25 prize offered by the English Club for the best original poem written by a Cornell undergraduate. There were nineteen competitors, who submitted thirty-five poems in all. The winning poem is entitled "Evening" and has twenty-eight verses. It will appear in the June number of the Era. Honorable mention was made of "Aspiration," a fourteen-line poem written by Edwin Roane, a short-course student in agriculture. The judges were Professors Lane Cooper and J. Q. Adams, and Mr. H. S. Gutsell.
