The man who bought Renoirs in 1948 is the kind of man who buys Blue Chip life insurance.

The basic requirements are the same: an eye for quality and the foresight to judge values. There's no better coverage than Connecticut Mutual. Yet the net cost of Blue Chip life insurance is just about the lowest in the field (proven in latest industry study, 1948-1968). Your insurance picture is brighter when you paint it blue.

*An AUTHENTIC Engraving
Now SPECIALLY Offered
To Alumni and Friends of Cornell*

- GENUINE ENGRAVING This beautiful engraving was drawn in the early 1900's and signed by Richard Rummell. It is believed to be the only panoramic engraving of the college now available. Each print is a hand printed restrike—taken from the original copper plate—not a photograph or reproduction. Each is certified to be genuine by an accompanying certificate of authenticity.
- IN FULL COLOR Each engraving is delicately hand painted in soft browns, blues, reds and greens with the finest imported water colors—and faithfully captures the charm and beauty of Cornell in the early 20th century.
- HANDSOMELY FRAMED You may order the print alone—or custom matted and framed in black and gold. It is available in two sizes—medium and large.
- FULLY GUARANTEED Only the finest materials and craftsmen are employed in this print—from paper to framing—to guarantee quality and satisfaction. If you are not fully satisfied with this print, your money will be immediately refunded.
- LIMITED OFFER This is a special offer designed for alumni and friends of the college. It will not be possible to make the offer in this form again. We urge you to order your print now and avoid disappointment.
- THE PERFECT GIFT May we suggest this engraving as a gift for Christmas, anniversaries and graduations! Please allow four (4) weeks for delivery. This offer effective until Dec. 1, 1969.

A noisy high point of summer in Ithaca is the July 4 fireworks display at Schoellkopf. Two negatives by photographer David Ruether '64 are superimposed to create the picture. One is of aerial lights, the other of a groundpiece within the stadium. Other summer photos start on page 24.

The word is 'hope'

■ Cornell's football coach, Jack Musick, told sports writers in August, "The word for '69 is hope, hope for development from a bunch of fine kids we hope will come along." A reporter on the education beat couldn't help thinking the words might apply to other aspects of the university as well.

Coach Musick had his problems. None of his running backs had carried the ball in varsity competition before. His toughest opponents come up first on the schedule: Colgate, Rutgers, Princeton, Harvard, Yale.

Over on the other side of the campus, Coach Dale Corson faced somewhat the same problems. Most of his backs were returning, though two key ones had graduated. The rules had changed, or in some instances disappeared. The toughest opponents come early on the schedule: judicial system, conduct code, Constituent Assembly, Hatchett, black faculty selection.

In the absence of solid information on which to predict performances, pre-season speculation was wild on both fronts. For Ithacans, it would be a relief to have the two coaches' seasons under way. Coach Corson's on September 15 and Coach Musick's on September 27.

Coach Musick has one disadvantage in facing the new season, not shared by Coach Corson. Each football season stands on its own. When Musick's team falters, little public sympathy accrues from the glories of past Big Red teams. Each Saturday's game is the whole story.

For the university, past accomplishments do weigh in judging present performances. A Willard Straight incident hurts, but observers know this is not the whole institution.

Its Veterinary College, Medical and Agriculture colleges, the specialized School of Hotel Administration—all continue to stand at the top of their disciplines worldwide. Engineering, Industrial & Labor Relations, Arts & Sciences, Law—all the academic divisions of the university stand far up in their fields.

This record of performance should make the tests ahead for the academic team a good deal easier to face.

The quiet days of summer were good ones for reflection on some of the broader issues raised by the several crises on US and foreign campuses. Some argue that the campus reflects society's problems, others argue the university itself is in one way or another the problem.

Walter Berns, the departing professor of government, put the larger case well in a debate during Senior Week. If I understand him correctly he was saying that democracy always faces the problem of how to make the majority will reasonable, how to prevent majority misrule. The separation of powers within the government is one force working in this direction. In the past, the church acted as a restraining force on the majority. But Berns said with the church gone as a restraining force, it falls to universities to act in a similar way. In their conduct they should use standards of discipline, rather than the views of the day.

● Two staff members at the Center for Advanced Study of Educational Administration at the University of Oregon have come to a discouraging conclusion. They have checked the data from ninety-one studies of college teaching, conducted over a forty-year period, and conclude the studies fail to show one teaching method does a better job of conveying subject matter than any other. It's enough to make one believe man is, indeed, not perfectible.

● A classmate, John (Swede) Vickers '17, wrote a short tribute to Elmer Sperry Jr. '17 earlier this year, which was passed along. Sperry died last December.

My old roommate Elmer Sperry Jr. was a phenomenon in math. He read three books in two days on Solid Geometry, Advanced Algebra, and Trigonometry and passed all three entrance exams with 90-plus marks. He'd never taken any of the courses at Exeter.

I saved him a seat in Differential Calculus one December day. He couldn't wake up in time to get to an 8 o'clock. Silverman, our prof, had three of those old slate blackboards covered with a proof. "Pop" came sneaking in on all fours and just as he was getting up at the seat I'd saved him, "Ah-ha, Mr. Sperry, perhaps you can do this," said Silverman.

"Sure, I guess so, what is it."

Silverman erased the boards, left the premise intact and handed Sperry the eraser and chalk.

Pop went to the board, wrote down three lines. Put the eraser and chalk on the rail, dusted his hands, and said, "I think that does it." Silverman looked at the board, then at Pop, then at us and then back at Pop. "Well, Mr. Sperry, I've never seen it done like that, but it's right."

- The Cornell Alumni Committee for Balanced Education, about which we wrote in May 1967, has written a number of alumni to explain its stand on the selection of a new President for the university, as follows:

Although this office has taken cognizance of various aspects of Cornell's current problems it is important that we make it plain that our concern with these matters is principally as they pertain to our basic objective.

For example, if an extreme Liberal were chosen as the next president of Cornell a realization of our objective in the near future would be extremely unlikely. . . .

- Monsignor Donald Cleary, for years chaplain to Catholic students on the Hill, delivered an invocation benediction to the twenty-fifth Reunion dinner of the Class of 1944 in June that many have asked to have repeated here:

Almighty God—we ask your special blessing on the members of the Class of 1944 and their loved ones at home. This class was reared during a depression, graduated into a war (which they won with no help from the preceding Class of '43 nor the Class of '45), married and fertile during the '50s, they now return sleek and successful to tell each other, mendaciously, that they haven't changed a bit.

Forgive them the tiny lies—they do it out of love or embarrassment when they can't place a face or name. Keep each one of them, O Lord, in the palm of your hand; give them the strength to transmit to their troubled Alma Mater a potent Geritol for tired academic blood. Bless us, O Lord, . . .

- Introducing another writer for the News in this issue, Mrs. Thomas E. Weinstock (Sue Rosenberg) '54. She is a mother, housewife, and reporter for the Newark Star-Ledger and lives in Livingston, New Jersey. The article by her in this issue is adapted from one she wrote originally for the Star-Ledger.

- A note of practicality was affixed to the wall in the men's room in Barton Hall, early the night of the main political sleep-in in April: "Save paper towels. We'll be here a long time."

• Several works have come out on the university's problems of last spring. Milton Konvitz, PhD '33, professor of Industrial & Labor Relations and of Law, wrote a short article the day after the second Faculty vote in April that very accurately reflects the contradictory feelings of the voters. Titled, "Why One Professor Changed His Vote," it appeared in the May 18 New York Times Magazine.

A second expression of opinion on black militance and the generation conflict was a marvelous TV show, "Fathers and Sons," on CBS TV the night of August 12. Four sons and their fathers told of their attitudes and differences. The most moving, as I saw it, was the exchange of Theo Jacobs Jr. '70 and his father. Theo is a Negro, the chunky middle guard and co-captain of this fall's football team. You will find the text of their remarks on pages 20 and 21 of this issue. —JM

More on 'The Week'

■ EDITOR: . . . Rather than ignore the divisive problems of our day, the trustees and administration of Cornell chose to face them head-on. Let us not forget that Cornell was founded to serve the needs of a similarly tumultuous time in American history. Perhaps at no time since that founding has she so properly chosen to reaffirm that purpose.

. . . Undeniably the administration made tactical errors and bad decisions before and during the events of last spring, but I for one am proud that my alma mater erred while trying to do her share in solving our nation's difficulties, instead of waiting idly by until they overwhelmed us all.

HACKENSACK, N.J. LAWRENCE EISEN '66

EDITOR: . . . I have been fortunate enough to live and work closely with the black community and I have seen how the life of any black man or woman who tried to operate in or close to the black community is harassed, insulted, and often physically endangered. Black Cornell students were harassed, insulted, and physically endangered by white students, white townspeople, and white police. A cross was burned on the lawn of a black co-ed residence. Black students stayed indoors or traveled in groups on campus even in daytime.

How could the black student help being defensive, draw closer into a closed group and consider violent retaliation? We have consistently goaded them until they take whatever defensive action they can, then we clobber them as militants. I'm sorry but I'm very much on their side . . .

THE ACADEMIC WORLD IS DOMINATED BY... COLLECTIVIST THOUGHT

In our September space in the ALUMNI NEWS we quoted S. I. Hayakawa on the responsibility of college professors for the current student alienation, as part of our efforts to document our contention that there is a serious educational imbalance in today's colleges.

Increasingly, college students are becoming aware of the indoctrination they are receiving from their professors. The lead article in the April 4, 1969 issue of the Stanford University student paper, The Arena, stated:

"There is a student unrest on campus which runs far deeper and far broader than . . . the SDS. . . . The unrest is a disenchantment with the prevailing values of the liberal academic establishment. It is impatience and revolution with the valueless, depersonalized, collectivist, centralized, quantified world of the liberal professor.

"The 'liberal' set of values runs thru much of the social sciences and humanities. In the field of economics, government action, or collective action, is considered more noble than private enterprise. In sociology and psychology, man is analyzed in highly quantified terms, as simply part of a larger, equally quantifiable body called society. In political science and law, man's actions are described in terms of his environment, rather than in terms of objective moral standards. In philosophy and religion, relativism is rampant, and man's ultimate responsibility to God and a higher law is pooh-poohed.

"The academic world is dominated by this line of collectivist thought.

"All one hears is the collectivist viewpoint. And this hammerhold on the academic community held by the collectivists perpetuates itself. As Joseph Katz, executive director of the Institute for the Study of Human Problems, recently said, 'The (graduate) student cannot easily risk offending some of his professors by advocating a position not in conformity with the theoretical or methodological party line. When it comes to getting a job,' he continues, 'the graduate student discovers that placement is almost entirely dependent upon the academic grapevine and the chain of friendships and connections. . . . Hence the cultivation of the right professor with the right connections is very important.

"The most profound source of student alienation is a growing spiritual emptiness and lack of pride, which has resulted from decades of valueless, agnostic, collectivist professors. Let the liberal establishment . . . pay close heed to the enormous numbers of students . . . who are sick and tired of hearing the same old liberal, collectivist, valueless platitudes year after year."

Readers wishing the complete text of the article from The Arena or information regarding this Committee should write to the Committee.

For character, leadership

EDITOR: A little over a year ago, a letter of mine set off a series of letters pro and con with regard to Cornell University's admission policies. My premise was that more emphasis should be placed on clean cut, well rounded applicants and less on strictly scholarship. I also suggested that instead of taking in students unsight unseen as we do now, the Cornell Secondary School's Committee, who in most cases are the only people to actually see applicants, be given veto power if they don't like what they see and hear during interviews.

The university's official position was 1) our Admission Office has nothing to do with the admissions itself, it was left up to the faculty completely, 2) the suggestion regarding the Secondary School's Committee was completely ignored, and 3) a statement was published to the effect that Cornell was doing pretty well and was very proud of the fact that it had had a relatively few number of problems compared to other schools.

In the light of what has happened, over the last few months in Cornell, I would like to reopen this issue and for possible interest am quoting a paragraph from a speech by Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of Brigham Young University, regarding this subject. Brigham Young has 23,000 students and therefore is considerably larger than Cornell. They have been completely free from riots, sit-ins, etc. and I think Dr. Wilkinson's comments might be of interest to all Cornellians. "At the beginning of the present century, emphasis for admission to our universities was placed primarily upon character. Ministers and priests recommended young men and women of character for admission to universities. By the 1920s and 1930s, the emphasis had shifted to that of leadership. Universities were after those students who, in their high school years, had shown that they had qualities of leadership. At the present time, and in my judgement this is unfortunate, the emphasis is entirely on scholarship. I submit that a young man of character and leadership is much more important to our society than a genius who is an anarchist. I therefore submit that universities should devise some formula whereby admissions officers think not only in terms of scholarship, but also in terms of character and good citizenship."

Hoping the power of alumni feelings can accomplish something in this direction, I remain

Reflections on blackness

The sole surviving founder of the first Negro fraternity [September NEWS] returned to his 60th Reunion with his wife. He is Henry Arthur Callis '09, a physician in Washington until his retirement. Class President Gus Requardt '09 sends along the following exchange of letters:

EDITOR: Henry Arthur Callis of my Class of 1909 . . . has come to almost all of our Reunions, on the last two of which he was accompanied by his wife, Myra. He has difficulty in walking but at my persuasion as manager of our 60th Reunion

The Cornell University Industry-Research Park

Among the industrial research teams presently located at the Cornell Research Park, Cayuga Associates, Inc. is unique in several respects: 1) it is the first and only company founded at the Park; 2) it is owned and operated by Cornell University professors; 3) it may be the cornerstone for an entire new industry. The firm, which develops prototypes of solid state microwave generators and amplifiers of the type used in radar and satellite systems, began at the Research Park in 1967 with a staff of three. Today it employs ten full-time people, seven consultants and, in summer, five part-time workers, most of whom are Cornell graduate students.

Both Dr. G. Conrad Dalman, chairman of the board, and Dr. Lester F. Eastman '52, president, agree that the company could not have come into existence if Cornell had not been already deeply involved in advanced microwave technology, one of the first universities to work in that area. The two officers highlighted several other advantages provided by their company's location at the Research Park. These include the ability to:

- attract and keep top faculty consultants, men seeking intellectual challenge and the opportunity to apply their own ideas.
- tap an excellent labor market of technicians and machinists, as well as unskilled workers.
- travel easily and quickly to most major metropolitan areas from Tompkins County Airport located right at the edge of the Research Park.
- exchange information and ideas with electrical engineering experts visiting from abroad.

For further information about Cornell University Research Park and its opportunities, write or call: William G. Rolley, Director, Cornell Research Park, 330 Sheldon Court, 420 College Avenue, Ithaca, New York 14850. Telephone: 607-256-3432.

Mrs. Callis has written me a remarkable letter, dated July 25, and attachments . . .
BALTIMORE GUSTAV J. REQUARDT '09

EDITOR: We have received a copy of Gus Requardt's letter to you regarding my comments on the black protest movement and my reaction to remarks by well meaning white persons at the 60th Reunion of the Class of 1909. If anything I may have said can narrow the chasm between white and black, we shall be glad to have it used. . . .

WASHINGTON, D.C.

MYRA C. CALLIS

GUS AND TERRY: . . . In your letter of June 19 you asked me to share with you what I learned about conditions on the Cornell campus. Unfortunately, I could not circulate as freely as I would like to have so that my contacts were mainly in Residential Hall. A great deal of reading before and since have added to my thoughts. I have read aloud to Arthur the complete stories featured in the July CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS, and our reactions to them will enter into this message.

The "Happening" at Willard Straight Hall seemed on everyone's mind whether or not it was mentioned. The impression I gained, chiefly from letters to the Cornell News, is that it was possibly a great mistake to try to educate a few more Negroes. "The experiment was a failure." After all, the data in the Cornell News for July, page 33 [academic record of blacks at Cornell], reads like a success story. The young white student who served us so well in Residential Hall talked with me. He said the Willard Straight affair had opened his eyes. At first he thought the blacks should be thrown out. Then he talked with some of them and his attitude changed from condemnation to understanding.

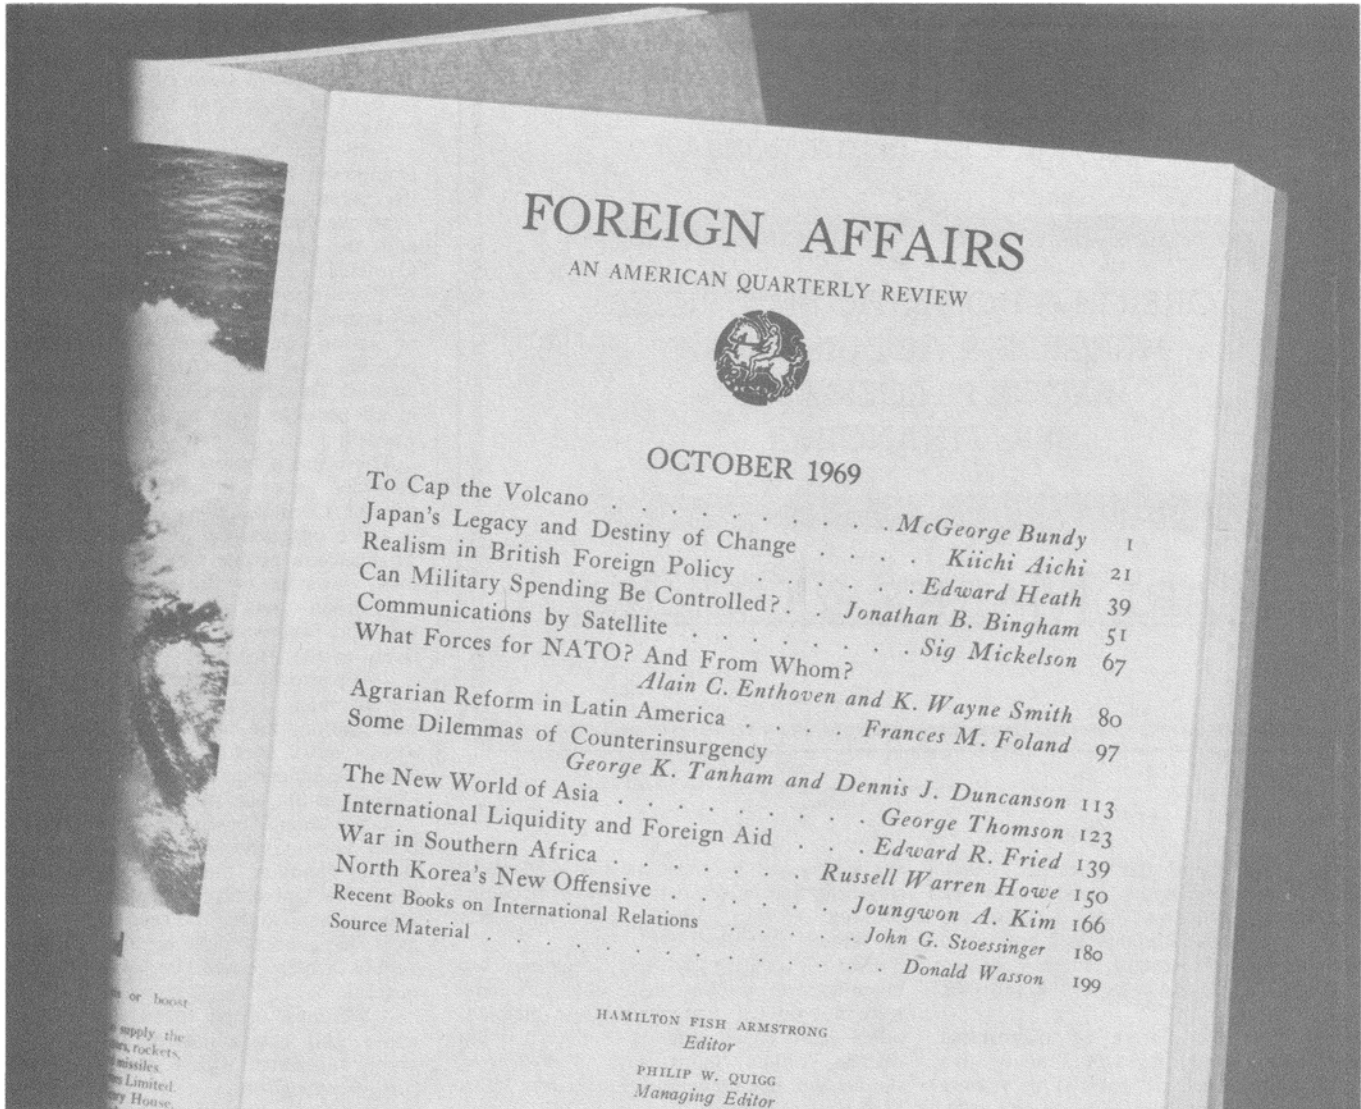

How could Cornell justify the low ratio of Negro students over the years? It was not in keeping with the high aims with which the university was founded. How does the ratio of blacks to student population compare with the percentage in Arthur's time [1905-09]? The white man is so ignorant and so misguided as to the history, the condition, and the capabilities of his black brothers that it is not surprising he permits the situation to remain static.

President Perkins initiated in 1962 a program to bring disadvantaged students into Cornell. His address to the 101st Commencement as well as other of his releases, indicate that he appreciates the problem of "One America" better than the alumni who condemned his action during "The Week." Some of the letters denounce the program and protest that students should be selected on the basis of present achievement rather than potential capacity. Is it quite fair to relegate brilliant minds to second class achievement, inadequate incomes, ghetto housing just because skin color has made them victims of poor education?

Arthur and I attended the Friday morning and afternoon forum meetings in Statler Auditorium. The morning session was particularly meaningful to us. Edward Whitfield of the Little Rock Ten gave an extemporaneous account of the occupation and departure from Willard Straight. He was so calm and cool. I heard some of the older alumni remark that of all the speakers on the program he was the most persuasive. Without written paper or notes he brilliantly recounted his view of the Negro situation in the US and its relation to the take-over of Willard Straight.

It is only within the last fifteen years that the courts have begun to construe what are our rights. Only recently have Negroes been free to raise their voices in the land. And instead of a general improvement in the lot of the majority of blacks, only a relative few have advanced. Non-violence helped bring about the favorable decisions but did not open the gates. Public opinion has frozen; the income gap has widened; educational segregation is greater than ever. Frederick Douglass said that if you gave a slave a little freedom, he wants more. That has happened at

If you're interested in Foreign Affairs

For over 47 years Foreign Affairs magazine has served as an international forum on foreign relations.

In every country, the men responsible for foreign policy look to Foreign Affairs for authoritative opinions and a fresh analysis of the problems they wrestle with day by day. For them it is required reading. They trust its editorial integrity. They know it does not take a partisan position and welcomes to its pages all honest and intelligent points of view regarding the great issues of our time.

But most Foreign Affairs subscribers are not experts or professionals. They are Americans with inquiring minds and a desire to keep themselves informed. With it they gain a new grasp of today's critical problems and an understanding of those that must be faced tomorrow.

While Foreign Affairs is read by heads of governments, foreign ministers and our officials in Washington, it is edited in the conviction that important ideas and issues of policy can be as comprehensible and interesting to the layman as to the professional.

Cornell. You open the eyes of black students and they want more, shall we say academic freedom? As I read the accounts the black students did not carry guns into Willard Straight. They were acquired after white students broke into the building.

As I read the letters of disgruntled alumni who vowed they would never give Cornell another cent, I guessed they were the ones who had given least in the past. I note that 40 per cent of them had never made a contribution.

Arthur has put his stamp of approval on what I have written. He has contributed to the Ad Hoc Committee of Concerned Cornellians that promises to make an objective study of the disorders at Cornell. The welfare of Cornell and the future of educational opportunity for blacks are at stake.

Thanking the Class of 1909 again, and for you two particularly for your civility, interest, and affection.
WASHINGTON, D.C. MYRA C. CALLIS

P.S. Wish I could live to see the end of black-white divisiveness.

P.P.S. I see among the letters proof of mishandling of Cornell's problems based on the observations of those sensational columnists Evans and Novak. I read their column regularly and although I do not know the substance to which the letter writers refer, I do remember that for years those two have tried to discredit the civil rights movement.

Enclosed with my letter are [these] afterthoughts on Cornell '09: a few remarks of alumni and relatives [italicized] and my reactions.

Let's forget the past: How can we forget 400 years of oppression, degradation, misery sanctioned by the Christian Church—a situation that still exists when you cannot put out of your mind a short occupation of Willard Straight Hall?

Our paths never crossed: Great care was taken to prevent that happening. The paths were not on the same level—one high, the other low. Read what a Southern white woman, Lillian Smith, says in Killers of the Dream. See especially the chapter, "Two Men and a Bargain."

Africa is a rich continent with untold resources. Why did not the blacks build dams and bridges? To live at the time the empire builders took over, Africans did not need dams or bridges. For the history of the take-over read A History of East Africa by Kenneth Ingham. For African civilizations read Basil Davidson's Five Lost African Cities.

Blacks are talented in art, music, dance, and "medicine": Another way of saying we are intellectually lacking.

It is said the blacks burned the cross before the women's cooperative: Is this wishful thinking to put the burden on the lawlessness of blacks where it has lain for decades?

Two choices for alumni

The following letter was addressed in mid-August to members of the Cornell Club of Chicago:

FELLOW CORNELLIAN: We share the common bond of being Cornell alumni. Each of us were proud to enter Cornell to earn all or part of our formal educations. All of us have reflected in the glory and the esteem of Cornell.

Unquestionably, the recent events in Ithaca have concerned and troubled all Cornell alumni. We've wondered how American universities in general, and Cornell in particular, have come to face such great difficulties. Each of us have thoughts both as to causes and possible cures.

We really have two choices—

—We can deplore Cornell's actions and abandon it by disassociating ourselves with its current affairs or, we can work to restore the character and the image that we feel should be Cornell's.

If we abandon our university, we leave a vacuum which will be filled. This course of action—or inaction—will make it impossible for us to influence any future actions. Thoughtful alumni must participate in all possible ways to affect the future of Cornell.

There are a number of meaningful ways in which we can influence the future direction of Cornell University—

—We can actively work to see that the Trustees are people who will represent our own views as to the purpose and future of Cornell—and we must make sure that we have expressed these views constructively to the trustees.

—We should also express our views to our personal acquaintances among the administration, the faculty, and the students. These views should reflect our best personal judgment as to the future role of Cornell in our society.

—We should continue our financial support. The university is going to continue. If we abandon our support, we merely force the University to replace these funds from other sources. These other sources may bring constraints on the private university which could be even more distasteful.

—We must assure that the students who apply and are admitted to Cornell are highly motivated with a genuine desire for further education.

—You can remain or become active in the Cornell Club of Chicago and see that this local alumni body properly uses its influence for the future good of Cornell. Toward this end, an envelope is enclosed for your annual dues, which are now payable.

This is the course I have chosen. I hope that you will join with me.

dozen others. The secretary had been the first personnel officer, the first director of financial aid, the first alumni secretary, the first university publisher, and the first director of public information, among other responsibilities. As the individual activities became sufficiently important, separate offices were established. Many of them carried forward policies originated by Woodford Patterson.

I first met him in 1920, when as a freshman I applied for a loan. Mr. Patterson was a friend of my father and knew the family's financial condition. He bent the rules to the limit to help me. He was a kindhearted man who tried to cover his nature by a surface brusqueness.

On one occasion, many years later, I really irritated him. It was the fall of 1937, and I was writing and editing the Cornellian Council Bulletin, a quarterly distributed free to all alumni. We had an issue due in October, just a week or so after the inauguration of President Day. Archie Palmer '20, then secretary of the Cornellian Council, directed me to write a piece in advance describing the inauguration as if it had actually happened. It was a challenging assignment, but I did the best I could, taking most of the details from the published records of previous inaugurations. When I presented the manuscript to Archie, he told me to submit it to Mr. Patterson for review.

Mr. Patterson was affable enough at first, but soon he was frowning and scratching out sentences with his pencil. Finally he pushed one of the sheets back to me and barked, "Where in the world did you get that idea?"

The passage to which he pointed portrayed the chairman of the Board of Trustees handing the President a brass-bound oaken casket containing the Charter and Great Seal of the University. "I got it from the records of previous ceremonies," I said. "They always seem to do it."

"Young man," he roared, "you must realize that we are now in the Twentieth Century. We no longer need physical symbols." He went on for five minutes or so, elaborating the theme, growing more and more emotional.

"Besides," he concluded, "we've lost the God damned thing."

SPECIAL REDUCED RATES FOR CORNELL ALUMNI
SIXTH ANNUAL TOUR PROGRAM—1970

This unique program of tours is offered to alumni of Cornell, Columbia, Dartmouth, and the University of Pennsylvania and their families. It is comparable to a highly successful program which has previously been offered only to alumni of Harvard, Yale, Princeton and M.I.T.

The tours are based on special reduced air fares which offer savings of hundreds of dollars on air travel. The tour to India, for example, is based on a special fare, available only to groups and only in conjunction with a tour, which is almost $400 less than the regular air fare. Special rates have also been obtained from hotels and sightseeing companies. Air travel is on regularly scheduled jet flights of major airlines.

The tour program covers four areas where those who might otherwise prefer to travel independently will find it advantageous to travel with a group. The itineraries have been carefully constructed to combine the freedom of individual travel with the convenience and saving of group travel. There is an avoidance of regimentation and an emphasis on leisure time, while a comprehensive program of sight-seeing ensures a visit to all major points of interest. Hotel reservations are made as much as a year and a half in advance to ensure the finest in accommodations.

Preliminary information concerning the 1970 tour program is presented below. Definitive information and tour brochures will be available shortly.

THE ORIENT

30 DAYS $1649

1970 will mark the sixth consecutive year of operation for this fine tour, which offers the true highlights of the Orient at a sensible and realistic pace. As a special attraction, spring and summer departures will include a visit to the "EXPO 70" World's Fair in Osaka. Twelve days will be spent in JAPAN, divided between TOKYO, the FUJI-HAKONE NATIONAL PARK, and the ancient "classical" city of KYOTO, with excursions to NARA and NIKKO. A further highlight will be a comprehensive visit to the famous ruins of ANGKOR WAT in Cambodia, together with visits of 4 to 5 days in BANGKOK and HONG KONG and a shorter visit to SINGAPORE. Optional pre and post tour stops may be made in HONOLULU and the WEST COAST at no additional air fare. A complete program of sightseeing will include all major points of interest. Features range from a tour of the canals and floating markets of Bangkok and an authentic Javanese "Rijst-tafel" dinner in Singapore to a launch tour of Hong Kong Harbor at sunset and a trip on the ultra-modern 125 mph express trains of Japan. Most tour dates include outstanding seasonal attractions in Japan, such as the spring cherry blossoms and beautiful autumn leaves and some of the greatest annual festivals in the Far East. Total cost is $1649 from California, $1819 from Chicago, $1887 from New York. Special rates from other cities. Departures in March, April, June, July, September and October, 1970.

INDIA

Including NEPAL and PERSIA

28 DAYS $1699

An unusual opportunity to see the diverse and fascinating subcontinent of India, together with the once-forbidden kingdom of Nepal and the rarely-seen splendors of ancient Persia. Here is India from the mighty Himalayas to the palm-fringed Bay of Bengal: the great seaport of BOMBAY; the magnificent cave temples of AJANTA and ELLORA, whose thousand year old frescoes are among the outstanding achievements of Indian art; the unique "lake city" of UDAIPUR; the walled "pink city" of JAIPUR with an elephant ride at Amber Fort; AGRA, with the Taj Mahal and other celebrated monuments of the Moghul period such as the Agra Fort and the fabulous deserted city of Fatehpur Sikri; the holy city of BANARAS on the sacred river Ganges; the industrial city of CALCUTTA; a thrilling flight into the Himalayas at KATHMANDU, capital of NEPAL, where ancient palaces and temples abound in a land still relatively untouched by modern civilization; the great capital of NEW DELHI; and the fabled beauty of the VALE OF KASHMIR amid the snow-clad Himalayas. PERSIA (Iran) includes the great 5th century B.C. capital of Darius and Xerxes at PERSEPOLIS; the fabled Persian Renaissance city of ISFAHAN with its 16th century palaces, gardens, bazaar, and famous tiled mosques; and TEHERAN. Outstanding accommodations include hotels that once were palaces of Maharajas and luxurious houseboats on Dal Lake in Kashmir. Total cost is $1699 from New York. Departures in February, August and October, 1970.

AEGEAN ADVENTURE

21 DAYS $1299

This original itinerary explores in depth the magnificent scenic, cultural and historic attractions of Greece, the Aegean, and Asia Minor—not only the major cities but also the less accessible sites of ancient cities which have figured so prominently in the history of western civilization, complemented by a luxurious cruise to the beautiful islands of the Aegean Sea. Rarely has such an exciting collection of names and places been assembled in a single itinerary—the classical city of ATHENS; the Byzantine and Ottoman splendor of ISTANBUL; the citadel of Agamemnon at MYCENAE; the ruins of ancient TROY, the sanctuary and stadium at OLYMPIA where the Olympic Games were first begun, the beginnings of western civilization at CRETE, the ruins of SARDIS in Lydia where the royal mint of the wealthy Croesus has recently been unearthed; centers of the Ionian League such as MILETUS and PRIENE; the magnificent marble city of EPHEBUS; crusader castles at RHODES and other sites; beautiful Aegean islands such as DELOS, MYKONOS, PATMOS and HYDRA, as well as CORINTH, EPIDAUROS, DELPHI, PERGAMUM, DIDYMA, IZMIR (Smyrna), the BOSPORUS and the DARDENELLES. Total cost is $1299 from New York. Departures in April, May, July, August, and September 1970.

EAST AFRICA

21 DAYS $1649

A luxury "safari" to the great national parks and game reserves of Uganda, Kenya and Tanzania. These offer a unique combination of magnificent wildlife and breath-taking natural scenery; great herds of elephant in QUEEN ELIZABETH PARK, in the shadow of the fabled "Mountains of the Moon"; a launch trip on the White Nile through hippo and crocodile to the base of the thundering MURCHISON FALLS; multitudes of lion and other plains game in the famous SERENGETI PLAINS and the MASAI-MARA RESERVE; the spectacular concentration of animal life in the NGORONGORO CRATER; tree-climbing lions around the shores of LAKE MANYARA; and the AMBOSELI RESERVE, where all types of big game can be photographed against the towering backdrop of snow-clad Mt. Kilimanjaro. Air travel is used where possible, enabling longer stays within the parks. Also seen are the fascinating capital cities of KAMPALA, NAIROBI and DAR ES SALAAM, the exotic "spice island" of ZANZIBAR, and the historic MOMBASA, a beach resort on the Indian Ocean, with its colorful Arab quarter and great 16th century Portuguese fort. Tour dates have been chosen for dry seasons, when game viewing is at its best. The altitude of most areas provides an unusually stimulating climate, with bright days and crisp evenings (frequently around a campfire). Accommodations range from luxury hotels in modern cities to surprisingly comfortable lodges in the national parks (some equipped even with swimming pools). Total cost from New York is $1649. Departures in July and September, 1970.

'Heart surgery without a license'

Dr. Kessler '16 is both pioneer and Johnny Appleseed in overcoming physical impairment. by SUE R. WEINSTOCK '54

■ "Rehabilitation is practicing heart surgery without a license," says Dr. Henry H. Kessler '16, director and founder of the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation in West Orange, New Jersey.

"When a man loses his arms or legs, he also loses his 'heart.' We have to replace that 'heart,' which is his self-respect. We not only have to rebuild a shattered body, but also a shattered life."

Dr. Kessler pinpoints the basic theme of rehabilitation—hope. Then, translating that hope into action.

"The average person looks at the disabled person and sees the disfigurement or the impairment. We look at the patient with hope. He has heart, background, education, traits and a place in the community. We work, using these qualities, towards restoring the patient to as full a life as he enjoyed before. Our object in helping the disabled is to make help superflous."

In the fifty years that Dr. Kessler has been in the field of rehabilitation work—since its inception—he has seen vast changes, particularly in the areas of money and knowledge.

"It has been said that the government has the money and no heart, and the community has the heart and no money. Rehabilitation work has brought them together. The federal government has played a major role in this field by matching the funds allotted by the states for rehabilitation. In 1918, this amount was a mere $5,000. This past year, that sum had grown to almost $6 million for the United States.

"In the beginning, we knew so little about rehabilitation work. We now know that it is not only surgery and medicine for restorative work, but also psychology and training the patient to use the help that is available. We now have a vast group of professionals who are trained in the philosophy, goals and techniques of rehabilitation work. The spinal cord injuries, for instance, that we used to consider hopeless, are being helped. Eighty-five per cent can work again, if the lesion is below the waist. Statistics are also improving for those with lesions above the waist."

The future of the rehabilitation field will, in essence, be an expansion of the services now in vogue, Dr. Kessler said.

Much has been written about the development of a "miraculous" electronic arm, which can be used to replace an amputated one. It works by means of using the signal of a muscle left in the amputated stump of the forearm, which is then amplified by a device worn around the waist. The current produced is sufficiently strong to operate a motor encased in the hollow of the artificial hand. This motor allows the hand to open and close. The electronic arm, at this time, is limited to amputations of the forearm only.

This arm is only part of the answer, according to Dr. Kessler.

"Ultimately, the future of a prosthetic (an artificial device to replace a missing part) arm lies in the development of a hybrid arm. It will be a combination of the electronic arm, a pneumatic arm (which is controlled by compressed carbon dioxide) and external power.

"We could actually make a perfect arm now and program it perfectly. However, it would weigh a ton. We must accept a little less than perfection. We must be realistic. The Divine Power who created a natural arm made it an extension of the brain. A knife, a sword, or a pen can be held and used. The arm is the eye of the blind and the tongue of the mute.

"I can recall seeing so many people who had been fitted for artificial arms going around with an empty sleeve again," Dr. Kessler continued. "When I asked them why, the answer was always the same. They didn't use it because it was a 'dead' hand.

Physical therapists and assistants work with patients at the Kessler Institute.

—Photos by Robert Mottar, USIA

"I would never want to discourage anyone from inventing and improving on the prosthetic devices that are available today, but it is important to be realistic about miracles. Also, we must realize and remember that a human being can adjust despite an impairment."

According to the gray-haired founder, the Kessler Institute's greatest contribution has been as an educational force in the community.

"We have helped to tell the community, the state, and the world, of the potential of the disabled person. In doing so, we have brought the disabled from the backwaters to the mainstream of life.

"Many employers refuse to employ the handicapped. Others are willing, but fear the risk. At the Kessler Institute, we give trial tests of the disabled. We can actually tell an employer what he can expect in production and hours. The sincerity and honesty of our placement officer, together with proof of skill and abilities has won places for our patients with over 200 employers," he said.

"This testing department will soon be expanded so that more patients can be tested physiologically, psychologically, and with actual work samples. Even the prospective place of employment is carefully checked to make sure that the employe can get to the bathroom and master the physical plant. Often, a job opportunity can hinge on a small thing like a curb. The ability to master it on crutches or in a wheelchair can mean the difference between being self-supporting and having self-respect, or failure.

"Some employers use the argument of the prospective employe must be accident prone and that his insurance premiums would go up as a result of hiring him. This is wrong. Insurance companies have become most enlightened on the subject of hiring the handicapped. The employer is really saying, in effect, that he hates to have a cripple around. We try, and have succeeded in so many cases, to change the thinking of the employer."

Seventy-three-year-old Dr. Kessler has found his greatest satisfaction and rewards in his international work. A veritable Johnny Appleseed in the world of rehabilitation, he has had the pleasure of planting the seeds of hope and help around the globe, particularly in the underdeveloped countries.

"If you just plant the seed, there are people who have a concern. For instance, in Southeast Asia where they have so little. There were 20,000 polio cases in Uganda alone. I couldn't provide the means for helping. I just planted the seed. That seed aroused the community which in turn aroused the United States and Canada to provide polio vaccine and rehabilitation facilities."

After fifty years of working with the disabled, Dr. Kessler never ceases to be in awe of "man's indomitable spirit"—his will to survive. His favorite anecdote attesting to this appears in his new book, The Knife Is Not Enough (W. W. Norton and Company, 1968).

While serving at the US Naval Hospital at Mare Island during World War II, Dr. Kessler escorted Eleanor Roosevelt on a visit through the wards. She stopped to talk to a man who had lost both legs and questioned him about his plans for the future.

"What do you expect me to do?" he asked bitterly. "All I'm fit for is to sell pencils on a streetcorner."

"And what do you plan to do when you leave the Navy?" Mrs. Roosevelt asked the occupant of the next bed.

"Oh, I'm going into the manufacturing business," he answered.

"That's the spirit," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "What do you plan to manufacture?"

"I'm going to make the pencils that this kid is going to sell on the streetcorner."

Dale Raymond Corson

Cornell's eighth president

■ Provost Dale R. Corson became the university's eighth president on September 5, after twenty-three years as a teacher and administrator on the Hill. He became the second president selected from within the university; the other, Jacob Gould Schurman, served from 1892 to 1920.

The Board of Trustees named Corson President at a special meeting in Ithaca on September 5 after receiving the formal resignation of his predecessor, James A. Perkins.

Speaking of the action, board chairman Robert W. Purcell '32 said, "The situation called for prompt action. During the past three months our principal aim has been to find the best man for this arduous job, and then persuade him to accept it. We are fortunate that Dale R. Corson . . . is ideally qualified to lead the university in these challenging times.

"We decided to supplement the trustee deliberations with a questionnaire to faculty, students, and alumni. This procedure, we felt, provided the most rapid and widespread assessment of the wishes of all three groups. The responses have been numerous, thoughtful, and helpful."

A committee of the trustees and one of the University Faculty considered the presidency over the summer. A questionnaire was sent to all faculty and students, and to several thousand leading alumni. More than 800 replies came back from faculty, 2,400 from students, and 2,600 from alumni.

Prof. William W. Austin, music, chairman of the Faculty committee, reported, "It is clear . . . Dale Corson is the outstanding candidate of each group."

Purcell said, "The fact that time did not allow greater student participation in the selection process is regrettable as their stake in these matters is large and their interest is lively and legitimate. However, we are confident that they will continue to be alert and demanding, yet deeply serious and responsible. We are confident too that they will support a president whose ability, honesty, and commitment to Cornell are so manifest."

Accepting the presidency, Corson said, "I am appreciative of the confidence in me shown by the board, and I shall do my best to justify it. I am basically an educator and the focus of my efforts will be on the business of education and on the students, faculty, and staff of Cornell University.

"To provide the leadership necessary for a modern university, and particularly for one of Cornell's complexity, is an overwhelming task. I expect to work with the board, with my administrative colleagues, and with any others with useful ideas to find an appropriate way to divide overall executive responsibility."

The low key nature of his response is characteristic of the tall and lanky Kansan who has come to be one of the best liked and most widely respected men on the campus.

President Corson, who turned 55 in April, earned the BA from the College of Emporia, the MA from Kansas, and the PhD in physics from the University of California. He came to Cornell in 1946, and helping design the synchrotron housed in the Newman Lab. He was elected chairman of physics in '56. In 1959 he was named dean of Engineering, and became provost in 1963 when James Perkins assumed the presidency.

During World War II he served on the staff of the MIT Radiation Laboratory, and as an adviser to the Air Force, receiving the Air Force Commendation for introducing new radar techniques into military air operations. After the war he joined the Los Alamos Laboratory, assuming primary responsibility for organizing the Sandia Laboratory, later to become a major AEC engineering facility. He received the Presidential Certificate of Merit in 1948.

He was a member of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics in 1957-58, helping to develop an initial program for NASA before its formation. He served on the Department of Commerce Technical Advisory Board and chaired a panel on transportation research and development.

He is an outdoorsman, finding time during an otherwise busy summer to get away for hiking, mountain climbing, and canoeing. He is a sailor and a first-rate photographer.

The new President and his well liked wife, Nellie, are regular concert and lecture goers on campus, both active over the years in the community. Mrs. Corson is currently a trustee of the county library. They have four children, one a Cornellian, David '65 who is completing a doctorate.

Corson's appointment was not a surprise. He had handled the chief executive duties of the university since July 1, after President Perkins announced his intention to resign. As provost he was the second officer of the university. —JM

A father and a son

Co-captain of the football team finds his values not too far removed from those of his father. On blackness, they agree.

■ On August 12, the Columbia Broadcasting System television network ran an hour-long CBS News Special, "Fathers and Sons." One of the four sons featured was Theo Jacobs Jr. '70, the chunky fireplug of a middle guard on the Big Red football team, co-captain for 1969. The following is a verbatim transcript of the segment involving Jacobs and his father, © Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc. 1969. The narrators are producer Harry Morgan and correspondent Charles Kuralt.

THEO JACOBS, JR.: To be a black on an Ivy League campus is like being in a pressure cooker. From all sides, you're getting this pressure. You—you feel pressure from black people because they want you to be blacker and they want you to do more, and they want you to talk and think and act blacker. White people are constantly asking questions. What's it like to be black? They really have a sense of guilt.

Sometimes I think I'm a minority of one. I feel like that a lot.

CHARLES KURALT: His name is Theo Jacobs. He's a junior at Cornell University, majoring in social psychology. Captain of the football team. This is his form of activism. [View in downtown Ithaca.] Working with kids in Ithaca's ghetto is more meaningful for him than taking over a university building.

As one of 250 blacks in a student population of 14,000, Theo walks a delicate line between several worlds. Between black and white. Between evolution and revolution. Between his father's principles and the demands of black extremists.

For Theo Jacobs and many like him, the gap within a generation is just as great as any differences between father and son.

THEO: Right now everybody is really emphasizing blackness. You have to be black. You have to be aware of being black. I said I didn't realize—I didn't think—I don't think I knew color until I came to this campus and I met what people would call black militants. Well I consider myself a black militant, but I think the difference is I'm not a hostile black militant in that I don't hate white people because they're white. I was never taught to hate. My parents never taught me to hate. And I really believe now that if I accepted this separatist idea, this hate-hostility, you know, anger idea, it would break my father's heart. I'd be rejecting everything that he's spent his life trying to teach me.

THEO JACOBS, SR.: Our home has taught our children to have pride in their color. For instance, I feel that an article that's wrapped in brown paper or white paper or yellow paper doesn't take anything away from the article because of the paper in which it's wrapped, and I think pigmentation is only one of the wrappings of the inner man.

KURALT: Theo Jacobs, Sr. is 68 years old and nowhere near ready to retire. He works as a signalman on construction projects. He's also an official of his union, an occasional chiropractor, and a minister in the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mr. Jacobs lives with his wife and two other sons in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, an area containing the largest concentration of blacks in the country.

HARRY MORGAN: Mr. Jacobs, are you worried about the direction that youth is, some youth is going in in this country?

JACOBS: Truly I am, and I think I'm worried because there is no restriction on the other side. The other side is just giving in all the time. They're not putting the brakes on them. There are no checks and balances. They're just letting them have their way. So I wonder what is the outcome of such a civilization or a society. I'm worried to that extent.

MORGAN: You see no good in it at all?

JACOBS: Many times you must be vocal, and many times you must protest because if you don't oft times, as the saying goes, they'll push something down your throat. So you ought to open your mouth and speak up, but I think anything that goes beyond the normal border at that—at this point, you may ask me what is the normal border. I don't know, but anything that goes too far over, over that is lopsided and is no good, and I think youth is really going overboard.

MORGAN: Some of the demands of black students at Cornell and other campuses—how do you feel about those?

JACOBS: Black students who demand the teaching of Negro history or African history, black history, I salute them. I congratulate them. Black, black students who demand that there should be black representation on the faculty, I salute them. But I'm definitely opposed to students black or white who demand the screening or what should I say putting the stamp of approval on a professor before he is hired, and more. So it's pretty bad that the administrators are capitulating to them when they say they want amnesty for going into a dean's office, destroying papers, breaking up furniture doing anything that they feel like. Closing the doors, locking the people out and then demanding amnesty, I think that it's outrageous.

THEO: What I believe today isn't what it's most fashionable to believe, and it might be a little bit dangerous. Not dangerous, but it takes a lot of guts to stand up and tell somebody who has the following, you know, of lots of people—stand up and say look I think that's all wrong, I don't believe that way. The easiest thing in the world is to be intimidated by numbers. It's very easy.

There's another thing that bothers me. I don't want to digress but there's—there are these guys on campus that come out of some weird bag. I don't know where they came from. All of a sudden, they jump on campus, and the thing to do is be from a notorious section, you know. "Man I come from Chicago's South Side. Every other night, ten guys was getting killed, and I, shoot, man, you can't tell me nothing about being black. I know it all." See now that's really phony.

Really, really phony because most of the guys that come to Cornell when they were seniors in high school, they were thinking of a good education. You know. Yet the minute they get on the campus all of a sudden they say, "Cornell isn't relevant to me. I don't, why should I be studying this stuff. It's not relevant," you know. And it's ridiculous because what they wanted was an education, and they get here and they switch, and it becomes super blackness.

"Where I come from I ran with a gang," you know. Everything you can talk about, white people become very impressed because they say here's a kid from the slums, you know, like Claude Brown. "Here's a kid from the slums, and he writes about it in Manchild in the Promised Land, look at what he did," so everybody—that's fashionable. So everybody takes it on and begins to do this.

Well, I don't think that's necessary. I know where I came from. I did come from—my brother's kidding me now because there was an article in the school newspaper about, about me coming from "notorious" Bedford-Stuyvesant, and they always say, "Oh, we didn't know he lived in such a notorious block," you know. But the place is bad, and I knew it. Why should I have to tell anybody else. Does that make me blacker. Does that make me any more worthy to carry the reins of leadership. I mean, what does that do for me?

MORGAN: What's made you what you are Theo?

THEO: Well, in a word it's my parents because I'd say my parents are the strongest influence in my life. I mean there's no question about it. I didn't realize it until I got to Cornell and started seeing, you know, the effects of others' parents on them and when I got away from what my father'd been telling me for ten years and could sort of reflect back and think about it and say, "Hey, the old man was right," you know. And we laughed at him, you know. And then you get a respect for your parents. It's really weird. Like you have to go away from home to find out that everything you had been taught at home was right, and I really respect that. You know, I'm amazed at how accurate my parents are. Sort of proud of it too.

Ben Nzeribe on:

Biafra's war no one wants

■ Ben U. Nzeribe, PhD '58, of Awo Omamma, Biafra, has seen much of his work of building a modern community destroyed by war, yet he still has hope for his people. "What has been demonstrated," he says, "is that Nigeria cannot win the war militarily because this is a war of sophisticated weapons versus human determination to survive. It is a war against nature, as survival is man's first instinct. We have no choice; we either fight or die."

The son of illiterate farmers, Nzeribe was born in Awo Omamma and worked at "all manner of chores" in order to get his education: elementary school, the University of London, Stanford, and Cornell. For the past eleven years he has been working in his native town, whose population has grown from 20,000 to 200,000 in that time, under the auspices of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee (UUSC), a world-wide service organization. In 1960 he was elected to the first independent parliament of Nigeria.

Before the war, Nzeribe and the UUSC helped the people of Awo Omamma build themselves a seventy-five-bed hospital, two new schools, an unpolluted water system, six well baby clinics, and a post office, as well as introducing modern agricultural methods. Today the school is closed, many of its brightest students have been killed, and the seventy-five-bed hospital provides care of a sort for 700 military and civilian patients.

Despite the war, the energy that made Awo Omamma a model community is still evident. "Our people have their hands and heads in work though their feet are in war," Nzeribe says. "We have not been dismayed by the war. We are not just standing around bemoaning our fate or begging for food. My people are farming, building homes, driving cars. They are cooking their own gas from crude oil to offset the $20 per gallon inflationary price of petrol."

Tragically, Nzeribe feels, all the destruction and suffering is being caused by a war no one wants. "Neither side really wants to continue the fighting," he says. "There have been millions of people killed and there is starvation and destruction. Why would anyone want to continue the war?"

What is needed, he believes, "is a third party to come in and act as liaison between the two sides. Biafrans and Nigerians cannot solve this conflict themselves. Since the war, when they come into contact with each other they feel that they should fight. It has come to 'an eye for an eye' philosophy. First one side strikes and then the other strikes back and then the first side strikes again."

Nzeribe believes this third party should be the United States. "We have a military stalemate. The American government should really explore the possibility of trying to end the war. America is a leading world power and by reason of the fact that America has not committed itself to any side in the conflict, it stands in a good position to apply pressure on the countries [Great Britain and the Soviet Union] who are supplying weapons to Nigeria. When the weapons stop the war will stop."

Ezra Cornell IV '70

The first student trustee

■ Almost every day during the school year, a tall, well-built young man passes in front of the famous statue of Ezra Cornell on the Arts Quad. Few people detect any resemblance between him and the university's founder, but this Agriculture college senior will soon continue a 104-year-old family tradition of service to Cornell.

He is Ezra Cornell IV '70.

Cornell, who is known to his friends as "E.C.," will officially join the university's Board of Trustees when he turns 21 on November 17. Under the provisions of the Cornell charter, the oldest lineal male descendant of Ezra Cornell serves a life term on the board. Cornell was named to the board in 1960 following the death of his father, William Ezra '40, who was the life trustee at the time.

Ezra Cornell IV, the great-great-great grandson of the founder, will be the first undergraduate to serve on Cornell's board. He is not, however, the first undergraduate to sit on a university board of trustees, since Princeton recently appointed undergraduates to its governing body.

Despite his name and future post, Cornell is generally unknown on campus. As a result of his distinct aversion to personal publicity (the only other article written about him besides this was an Associated Press story printed in 1960), he has been able to lead a life similar to other undergraduates. Now that he will be a trustee, he fears things will be different.

"I don't think I'm a public figure," he told the ALUMNI NEWS. "I would not like to see my name tossed about on campus as a political football.

"I have a very strong interest in the university and what it should do, what it should be. Like everybody else right now, I question the university's role," Cornell said.

Nevertheless, Cornell was unwilling to discuss his opinions on the many problems which have confronted the university in recent years: "I won't tell because I'm not prepared."

Although he was not in the public view, Cornell played a significant part in some of the behind-the-scenes discussions following the takeover of the Straight. Along with two officers of the Interfraternity Council, Cornell advised President Perkins on possible courses of action following the Faculty's initial vote to affirm the decision made by the Student-Faculty Board on Student Conduct. Along with the two IFC officials, he suggested something similar to what became the Barton Hall teach-in.

"I think it helped," Cornell said. "It was the first cold water in the hot coffee cup."

While Cornell thought Mr. Perkins "handled the situation well considering the crisis situation," he thought the administration "missed the boat" in their reaction to the affair. He did not suggest any recommendations he would have liked to have seen implemented at the time.

The administration, Cornell believes, expects him to represent the undergraduate viewpoint on the board. He does not pretend to talk for all the undergraduates, but he thinks his views will parallel those of many students. Cornell realizes many students may question his justification for being a member of the board. He answers, "The justification is in the Charter—I would express the Cornell philosophy, the original intent of the university. I am going to represent Cornell at Cornell."

He feels family obligations will be influencing him while he is a member of the board. Cornell said he is "very proud" of his family heritage, but "it's not a preoccupation." It took him a few minutes, for instance, to recall whether he is the great-great-great or the great-great grandson of the original Ezra Cornell. "It's not something I think necessary to keep at the tip of my tongue," he said. Incidentally, Ezra Cornell III '27 is not a member of the immediate family of the new trustee. The two are cousins.

Like many other Cornellians returning home for the summer vacation, Cornell was confronted with questions and comments by relatives and friends. He found "it took my mother and myself a month to adjust."

His summer job is one of the more unusual positions held by Cornellians making "honest coin" during the summer months. Cornell is in charge of liquidating machinery from a former shipyard in Hoboken, New Jersey, where his relatives and associates plan to build a refinery. Besides familiarizing himself with the latest going prices for winches and hoists, he put in long days contending with potential buyers, unreliable watchmen, vandals, pranksters and thieves. Despite some of the problems, Cornell said he enjoyed the job. "I'm very interested in the business world and the stock market," he noted. Not unnaturally, he has considered finance or law as possible careers.

Cornell is a lifetime resident of Bloomfield, New Jersey, a quiet residential town which is not far from Newark. A graduate of the Bloomfield public schools and the Morristown School, a small New Jersey preparatory academy, Cornell is one of two children. His sister entered this fall as a freshman in Arts and Sciences. "It will be interesting for me to have her up there," Cornell said.

Like many other undergraduates, Cornell is a member of one of the university's still numerous fraternities—he belongs to the prestigious Sigma Phi fraternity. While he is not a member of any athletic teams, Cornell likes all outdoor

Summer, time of quiet

■ Summer, always a peaceful time on campus, seemed especially so this year, at least by comparison with the tumult of the preceding few months. What activity there was was largely cultural and intellectual as the campus's year-round and occasional residents allowed their social consciences a breather.

The usual concert, lecture, and film series were joined this year by the Cornell Summer Repertory Theatre, part of the theatre arts department's new MFA degree program designed to train professional actors and sports. Besides his interest in the outdoors, Cornell spends a great deal of time with his family. "I'm very involved with the family—it's quite an activity," he said.

When Cornell was first named to the board in 1960 following his father's death, he said "They (his elementary school classmates) keep saying 'Bow to the king.' All the razzing is funny, though." Nine years later, just a few months before he officially becomes a member of the Board, Cornell said, "I don't know exactly what's best for the university on the issues which will be confronting us in the fall, I believe I can contribute to the formation of some new answers."

"Razzing" about his new answers, however, is not likely to be funny.

A wreath of steam surrounds the polyglot summer student body on its way back from class across Triphammer Bridge. High school pupils, college students, post-college executives in training, and former students here for Alumni University provide a variety of dress, shapes, and sizes during July and August. Steam escapes from one of dozens of building jobs under way during the summer months, from construction of dormitories and the new campus store, to the laying of new utility lines for the ever expanding university plant.

actresses. Throughout the summer the company, headed by department chairman, director, and actor James Clancy, presented three productions: an evening of French farces, Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" (the most popular), and "Filumena," an Italian comedy. While the overall attendance of 4,000 was not quite as high as the department hoped, plans are going ahead for a permanent repertory company which will go on tour and will eventually perform each year off-Broadway.

One performance only was given by Mark Rudd, national secretary of the Students for a Democratic Society, who appeared in the Straight Memorial Room in August and spoke to an audience that included more alumni (here for Alumni University) than SDSers. "I like to see people tearing apart institutions like Cornell University," he said.

Some Cornellians were active elsewhere. The University Glee Club and Chorus joined the

- As if to prove the various parts of a university keep functioning in their own, independent way, even during crisis, the University Archives in Olin Library has established a "Challenge to Governance" study. This study will welcome any documents or other items or recollections anyone has regarding the events of April 1969 and their aftermath.

- The university's forty-nine-member Board of Trustees went into the new school year with an uncommon number of vacancies.

One, which will likely become permanent when the University Charter is next revised, is that of the statutory librarian of the Cornell Public Library. Operation of this downtown, community library of Ithaca became a county function this year, and the Cornell Public Library Association exists almost solely in name.

As reported elsewhere in this issue, a lineal male descendent of the founder of the university will be seated on November 17, when he becomes 21, Ezra Cornell IV '70. That seat has been vacant since his father's death in 1960.

The Governor of New York State this year failed to nominate a trustee to one of the five seats he fills, which created the third vacancy. The fourth is among those named by the board itself.

Well before the April rhubarb, the trustees had been considering something of a dual presidency for the university, with James Perkins as "outside" president and Dale Corson as "inside" president. This idea was shelved in the chaos of 'spring. The vacancy was a seat on the board being held at the time for the second president. As matters turned out, only one chief executive and the chief budget officer of a university may sit on its board. The state law says this, and a second president could not have occupied the seat.

- The University Libraries, whose total volumes are expected to reach 3.5 million this year, acquired some rare books and manuscripts recently despite a problem of rising costs. Among the libraries' 1968-69 acquisitions (about 200,000 volumes altogether) were rare first editions of Swift and Pope, the original manuscripts and letters of Wordsworth, personal papers of Howard Taubman '29, and an early Latin edition of Sir Thomas More's Utopia bound with Erasmus's Epigrammata, printed in 1518.

- Less than a year after they dedicated the Wilson Synchrotron Laboratory, Cornell's physicists have begun making improvements in the huge electron accelerator. Their first major change is developing an external electron beam which will make the synchrotron more versatile and permit more accurate experiments. Without the external beam, experimenters had to use the cramped target areas within the synchrotron magnets and had to combat the problem of background radiation which is much lessened outside the synchrotron.

- Thanks to the United Transportation Union (UTU), Cornell's I&LR School is accumulating the largest collection of materials on railroad labor history in the US. All UTU's non-operating files are to be placed in the school's archives for the use of researchers. In addition to this collection of official documents and records, correspondence, and publications, the school will receive many museum pieces—badges, banners, posters, and pins.

The university's program in oral history, headed by Gould Colman '51, is recording the impressions of people who took part in the unification of the Railway Conductors and Brakemen, the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Railroad Trainmen, and the Switchmen unions into the UTU. These tapes will also be part of the collection

Faculty and Staff

Claude Kulp, MA '30, professor emeritus of education and superintendent of Ithaca Public Schools from 1930 to 1951, died in Ithaca on July 25, 1969. During his years on the Cornell faculty, 1952-62, Professor Kulp supervised an experimental project in teacher training and conducted surveys for many school systems throughout the East. In 1960 the auditorium at Ithaca High School was named for him, and in 1966 he received a life membership in the State Teachers' Association, becoming the sixth person in the organization's 122-year history to be so honored.

Prof. Emeritus Dexter Perkins has written an autobiography entitled Yield of the Years. Perkins was the first John L. Senior professor of American institutions and served on the faculty from 1953 until his retirement in 1959.

Emil A. Mesics, professor of Industrial and Labor Relations, retired this year after 13 years on the faculty. His specialty is industrial training, and he has conducted management courses throughout South America as well as teaching graduate and undergraduate courses in Ithaca.

The first Henry R. Luce professor of science and society is Franklin A. Long, professor of chemistry, director of the new program on science, technology, and society, and former vice president for research and advanced studies at the university. He has been a faculty member since 1937, was for ten years chairman of the chemistry department and for three years a faculty trustee. For the past six years he has been a vice president.

The Rev. Hugh A. Moran, Presbyterian student pastor at Cornell from 1919 until his retirement in 1942, has written and published a short book, David Starr Jordan, His Spirit, and "Decision of Character." The book contains Moran's recollections of David Starr Jordan '72, the only man other than Andrew Dickson White to receive an honorary degree from Cornell. Jordan, a scientist, educator, and worker for peace, was the first president of Stanford University, from which the Rev. Mr. Moran was graduated in 1905.

The new president of the American Meat Science Association is Prof. George H. Wellington, animal science. A faculty member for twenty-two years, he teaches a course in meat technology and directs research on methods of meat processing, meat yield, and quality factors.

Prof. James M. Smith, PhD '51, history, is editor of a new book, George Washington: A Profile, a collection of essays attempting to appraise the real Washington instead of his hero image.

Six faculty members of the Modernization Workshop, part of the Center for International studies from 1963 to 1967, have collaborated to produce a book, Modernization by Design: Social Change in the Twentieth Century, a study of the difference between pre-modern and modern societies and the ways societies can become modern. The faculty members are Chandler Morse, economics; Douglas E. Ashford, government; Frederick T. Bent, public administration; William H. Friedland, industrial and labor relations; John W. Lewis, now political science professor at Stanford; and David B. Macklin, MA '68, a research associate in the B&PA School. The University Press is the publisher.

ATHLETICS by Robert J. Kane '34

Just who is alienated?

■ I wrote a piece for the March 1967 edition of this journal entitled "The Verities Are Still Eternal." I was sure at that time that I was quite right in that declarative statement and that the beardies, the hippies, the weirdos, the revolters—which I calculated to be about 6-7 per cent of the Cornell student body at the time—were merely aberrants for the brief period they are in the protective atmosphere of a college campus. In other words, dear people, don't worry. Don't let them shock you. That's all they are doing their act for, to shock you. This too will pass away, I reported grandly. They will get a hair cut, a shave, and a bath, join our society when the proper time comes.

How innocent I was. The three days of Barton Hall "occupancy" following the Willard Straight take-over last April 19 proved that there are a good many more than 6-7 per cent of the alienated at Cornell. I was off too to think it was a temporary thing, and that they were a laugh to the vast majority of our students. It may pass away, whatever it is, but not soon.

I was driving through the Catskills on Route 17 on my way to New York City the Monday following the now notorious Woodstock Music and Art Fair and the sights along the highway on that day were boggling. Hundreds of scruffily attired youngsters shuffling along, making limpid efforts to bum rides; hundreds of cars were stalled alongside the highway, some apparently abandoned.

I stopped for gas and a sandwich and there were crowds of these youngsters sort of sleepwalking around the place, not seeming to be talking or laughing, and barely in locomotion. It was as though the lot of them were vaporized. The place was jammed because there were the watchers too, mostly oldsters like myself, sitting and standing around spell-bound, not leaving. It was a tableau requiring the talents of an Edgar Allan Poe to adequately portray.

I wondered, who are the alienated, them or us? I had to know.

I decided to give some of them a ride. Ordinarily, being alone, I would have considered it risky to pick up three people, as I did, off the highway, especially the way they looked. But in their state of utter listlessness I decided it was safe to chance it, for my edification. Two guys and a gal, of uncertain relationship. I know now what their word "zonked" means. They were zonked, in a semi-stupor, exhausted, debauched.

They were dressed in what we used to call hillbilly costumes. The boys had lots of teased hair, lots of facial shrubbery. It was hard to tell what their bare faces looked like. The girl was of short stature, had long, dank, dark brown hair, which might lighten up to light brown if shampooed. I'm not sure she even had a figure, disguised as it was in that outlandish outfit.

They were polite enough, uncommunicative except when questioned, but pleasant. They did not even talk to each other, in their torpor. I didn't learn much, or more accurately, I learned nothing. They parted company with me at the terminal of the New York State Thruway. They didn't say so, but I presume they were going New England way.

Not all of the young people at the Fair were in a debilitated state, I know, because my associate Pat Filley's son, Kevin, was there. He enters the University of Massachusetts this fall and they can count on a tough, talented halfback and a fine hockey player in this boy. A he-man. A couple of weeks before the Woodstock event his father noticed in startlement that his hair was getting bushy over his collar, curling down into the nape of his neck. What's the idea, howled Pat. "I'm going to a music festival, Dad, and I just can't go there looking like a jock!" was his reply.

Looking like a jock! Is it a shameful thing to look like an athlete? Who are the alienated? We don't have to worry about Kevin Filley. He got his hair cut when he got back and his eyes were bright and his walk spritely, as always, but it does bother one to realize that he figured he had to conform . . . Good heavens. Come to think of it, I didn't divulge to my pickups I was in college sports.

Our football players have been back for a couple of days. I had lunch with them today and I must say I was looking at them more searchingly than usual. And I wanted to talk with them. [cont'd]

You know, they looked and talked like the football guys in your day and mine. There were one or two with mini-sideburns perhaps. Somewhat like Dick Cavett's, Yale gift to the American Broadcasting Company's evening talk show, who explained away his median side hair thusly: "They're sort of a mild form of protest, like singeing your draft card."

And maybe some others of our football men got barbered just before they left home. We don't have rules. We just suggest in-season standards. The system seems to work ok that way, so far. Yes, I'm afraid our boys look like jocks, as always. They are clean-cut, clear-eyed, responsive, and are even friendly to those of us who have been injudicious enough to have come into the dark wood of middle life. They talk a lot, laugh a lot, and seem to be of genuine good cheer.

In these days of uninhibited self-expression they must also be remarkably old-fashioned to choose, of their own volition, to submit to the most spartan kind of body discipline, which the game of football requires. Can they be wrong? And the others right? Apparently it takes rugged self-expression to look like a jock these days. They've got that. I hope they can play football.

THE TEAMS by 'The Sideliner'

Optimists & pessimists

■ Coach Jack Musick shouldn't have the "favorite" pressure this fall.

But he could have some pleasant surprises.

He had a senior dominated team last year which had posted a 12-5-1 record his first two seasons. The team started brilliantly with two wins, next dropped four close games in five contests, and collapsed in the final two against mediocre Dartmouth and Pennsylvania for a 3-6-0 log.

No one is expecting miracles this season.

The pessimists expect two wins.

The optimists can see four wins, perhaps a fifth, for a winning season.

The team is inexperienced. Seniors are not dominant. This is because of the recruiting lag between when former Coach Tom Harp left for Duke University and when Musick was hired from Dartmouth, where he was chief assistant.

The passing game is suspect.

The defensive line is a question mark.

Cornell had a good football team last year; the Ivy League happened to have two East powerhouses—Yale and Harvard. They weren't in the class of a Penn State, but they were of a Syracuse, an Army, a Navy, etc.

The Ivies don't appear to have teams of such stature this year.

There will be strong, representative Ivy teams, however; last year, though, was an exception.

There are some strong points for Musick.

The running game, a failure last year, should be better.

The interior offensive line is experienced, and should complement the runners.

And the defensive secondary is likely to be an asset.

The problems?

Quarterback Bill Arthur is the man to beat. But in early drills he was being pushed by Junior Rick Furbush, who was switched last year at mid-season from quarterback to split end, where he became Cornell's best. What to do with Furbush is the big question this year. Especially since split end is void of experienced personnel.

But Furbush is also a good passer, and Arthur has yet to prove himself in this area. The question last year was what to do with Arthur: keep him as insurance for quarterback Bill Robertson '69 or switch him to a running back to utilize his running abilities. He was No. 3 groundgainer as a reserve quarterback despite limited play.

Cornell decided to keep him as a backup. The scene is somewhat reversed this fall, or was as of the first week of practice.

Otherwise, the situation after the first week of fall practice was the same as reported in this space last issue.

The hopes?

A winning season. If so, it would appear that Cornell would have to crack the jinx against the dominant Yale-Harvard-Princeton-Dartmouth quartet. In the 1960s Cornell's record against Yale has been 2-7-0; against Harvard, 2-6-1; against Princeton, 2-7-0; and against Dartmouth, 2-7-0.

From last fall's high of four alumni playing on American and National Football League teams, Cornell had to settle for a season-opening one in 1969. Only Pete Gogolak '64 survived the pre-season cuts.

Last year's other three were cut at various points late in the training camps: Quarterback Gary Wood '64 was off the Giants roster after five years, Pete Larson '67 was out of the Washington Redskins backfield after two, and Bill Murphy '68, wide end for the Boston Patriots last year, also failed to survive the squad reduction.

Doug Kleiber '69 went to rookie camp as a linebacker with the Cleveland Browns but was not on the squad after camp; John Sponheimer '69 made a strong bid for the front four of the Kansas City Chiefs but was sidelined by an injury. Several may be brought off taxi squads to play later in the season.

CLASS NOTES

Addresses in the following columns are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes are welcomed for publication.

■ '06 Men: Edward A. Evans writes: "Still hanging on at the same address (1826 Arcola Ave., Silver Spring, Md.), same occupation (retired professor of engineering). Keep busy taking care of ½ acre of lawns, fruit trees, flowers, etc."

'07 Men: J. M. Fried
2512 Cherry St.
Vicksburg, Miss. 39180

First letter received by the secretary since leaving the ivy leaves of the stately old buildings of Cornell was from J. W. Schwarz, 1517 Palmway St., Lake Worth, Fla.: "I have not had much time to engage in social activities; making a living has kept me busy, being associated with the following: General Electric Service of NJ; Stromberg Carlson USL Battery; Taylor Instrument Co. Retired 1952, moved to Orlando, Fla., and now reside in Ft. Worth (Sub. of Palm Beach). Married, no children. Member of University Club, Winter Park; Cornell Club of Eastern Fla.; Mason.

"Attended dinner for ex-president Perkins in Pompano Beach, and Ted Lindorf was there. My present activities are of the outdoor type, i.e., swimming, golf, and travel. Four years ago visited Western Europe, since then have traveled to the Orient. Last year Scandinavia and this year just returned from a trip up the Rhine and three weeks in Switzerland. While there met two Cornell undergraduates of whom we're very proud—no beards nor sideburns, nor long hair, although they were on a hiking trip. Their appearance was a credit to Cornell. That is more than we can say about others we saw. Both Mrs. and I are enjoying good health and hope you and yours are also."

'09 Men: Frederic O. Ebeling

Several of you have called attention to gross errors in my Reunion attendance record. Jim Grant was there big as life in the picture and everywhere. Nan Wilson Bruff and Florence Bibbins McMaster got there but not into the picture; Louise Atwater Chester, whom I did include, did not make it. Blame it on concentration on breaking down the wife's preconceived idea that she wouldn't enjoy it, to the neglect of my real job.

In spite of that performance many have written of their enjoyment of the report, mostly our women, or men unable to get there. Gus Hallberg explained that he could not inflict the chore of helping him dress and undress and wheeling him around, forgetting that we would gladly have taken it all off her hands for the privilege of having him with us. Gus checked on Al Hutchinson at mid-July to learn that Al had been a month in an intensive care home, his memory almost gone. Howard Welch, 89, writes that nearly all whom he knew as an undergrad think he has been 20 years dead. There was hardly a familiar name in the Reunion list. Next time he enrolls at Cornell he will mix and get acquainted. Ed Mayer approved playing down controversy on campus disorder. He can't understand the attitude of student activists except perhaps for some dissatisfied with inadequate grad student instructors. Bessie Stern is not as sensitive as in earlier days about competition with cocktail party noise, says time was when she would not have gone on playing, except for the song accompaniments. But there was full appreciation of her glorious rendition at the Memorial Service though that was not an occasion for the applause which it deserved. She hoped to have as good a time back in Ithaca for the two week Alumni U, then a week of music festival at U of Maryland. Charlotte Moffet regretted the conflicts that kept her from our 60th but promises to see me at our 65th. Mabel Utz has many Cornell neighbors at Meadow Lakes, Hightstown, NJ, although no classmates. If she had realized what comfort was provided at Reunion she might have risked it in spite of severe emphysema. Ida Bouck includes me in her thanks to Anna Genung, Jim Keenan, "and others who made it possible for me to come," although exhortation was my only contribution. She had given up but cousins came through with transportation in Charlotte Moffet's place.

Even if Harry DeWitt had planned to re-une a nasty case of shingles, still potent after eight weeks, would have knocked it out. Edna Finch couldn't work it in, thinks it was just as well because she would have suffered in the heat that turned up. She has taught English for 46 years (also German at first) and supervised the department, thanks to Martin Sampson and Lane Cooper, her mentors at Cornell. Slats Rossman is sorry wife Lena was not up to accompanying him to Reunion. They celebrated a 55th on July 15th. He went home with a bad cold, still with him after thirty 90-degree days, due back at Mayo clinic Aug. 1. They had him looking fine after a lot of going over last spring.

Walt Todd drops a card from Banff Springs, enjoying himself beyond expectations on his way to Lake Louise, Jasper, Vancouver, and Alaska. Ed Bullis is selling his Wilmington home (can still be addressed there), has been at his lovely lake camp, Cuttingsville, Vt. Terry (Geherin) '51 and Gus Requardt looked in there, then the three dropped in on neighbor Dick Bishop's mountaintop Enock's Acres. It has splendid flower and vegetable gardens, overlooks three mountain ranges but no other human habitation, is filled with priceless antiques and art masterpieces, including some of his own work. Gus planned an '09 group meeting at Ed's camp in September, another at the October Council meeting in Ithaca, then in Florida some time this winter.

Your correspondent had hoped that perhaps with a short questionnaire he might be able to pry loose (especially with the 60th Reunion in the offing) some information from classmates but he has procrastinated in sending it out. Fortunately there is some news from Garret S. Claypool of 37 W. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio (office). Over the years he has been specializing in public utility law, hence he is presently director and member of the executive committee of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co., as well as counsel in Ohio for Columbia Gas Corp., and consulting counsel for Dayton Power & Light Co. He makes his home at 1075 Western Ave., Chillicothe, Ohio, spending the winter months at 2850 Palm Aire Dr. in Pompano Beach, Fla. He is still breeding thoroughbred and harness horses, even racing some.

Abe Doris (whose offspring continue to be included in present-day classes on the Hill) tells us, "Joining the family alumni group is grandson Michael Cohen, June graduate of School of Industrial & Labor Relations. Older grandson, Edward I. Cohen '66, LLB '68 admitted to the NY State Bar in June 1969."

Thomas Spring McEwan, 1046 Dinsmore Rd., Winnetka, Ill., consulting engineer, was named as governor of the Illinois Society of the National Society of Sons of the American Revolution and was one of four of this group to receive national awards. Tom has grandsons at Williams, Dartmouth, and Cornell and granddaughters at U of Wisconsin and Wellesley College. Not bad. Your correspondent wonders if any class member has more than five grandchildren in college. If so, please advise.

'12 Men: Charles C. Colman
2525 Kemper Rd.
Cleveland, Ohio 44120

Some wondered why this column was missing from the July issue. Only one reason: at copy time Mrs. Colman and your scribe were enjoying another long trip abroad—all of April and May, starting with a flight to Copenhagen to visit our oldest granddaughter (an exchange student at the university there). Then we flew to Barcelona, a busy city. Before a tour through much of Spain, we took a long, rough jaunt through the Pyrenees to satisfy a childhood fantasy into the unfrequented tiny republic of Andorra. The mountain scenes there do not approach those of Switzerland, and the small village with its honky-tonk shops does not enhance the surroundings. It was an experience.

Spain has much to offer with considerable variety. The mountainous sections are quite rugged—dramatic and sometimes frightening—but they do not have quite the grandeur of the Alps or the Rockies. One appeeling matter is the intensive cultivation of the lowlands and the mountain slopes, whose terraces form attractive patterns. In the early season extensive areas were green instead of the noted brown, due to increased government irrigation, six times greater than two decades ago.

From Madrid we had a fine fast train ride of about 450 miles to Lisbon, which afforded splendid views of two countries. Then we made a full circle of all of Portugal—and it was beautiful. Yes, it was delightfully beautiful, being spring. We had never seen so many flowers and blossoms—just everywhere. Portugal is more intimate than Spain. The mountains are closer, and the roads are narrower with the planting trimmed right to their edges. Spain and Portugal are alike in having monuments—walled cities, fortresses, monasteries, churches, palaces, and captivating towns of all ages, dating back over 2000 years to the Romans, followed by the Moors, and then through the later periods. This exciting architecture is being preserved and restored without change. There are many fine beaches to entice the vacationers.

The capital cities of Madrid and Lisbon are magnificent—two of the five most beautiful—Paris, Washington, and Buenos Aires complete our recognition. The people are friendly and courteous. The pace in the cities is fast. Cars are driven everywhere at great speed in crazy fashion. Prices are high, except for transportation, which is very cheap. On to Madeira for a few days and it is a garden island. The glorious sight was the abundance of jacaranda trees in full blossom—a heavenly blue that is superb. There is always much of charm to see in this world.

Ham Allport of Glencoe, Ill., after a brief visit to the campus this summer, wrote: "I like to think of Ithaca and Cornell as they were when we arrived there in 1908—simple, sincere, willing, and anxious to work, and with respect and admiration for the administration, the faculty and the other students. That was happiness; not this shirking from work, from cleanliness, and from contacts with others." We need to restore happiness to the campus.

Our conscientious secretary, Dr. Phil Sainburg of Ithaca, suffered a slight stroke early in July and was in the hospital for two weeks. A month later, I have just talked to him at home and am pleased to report that he is much improved and hopes to get to his office next month (September). George P. Brockway of Sturbridge, Mass., who has passed his 82nd birthday, informs that: "I keep busy around home and grounds and vacation on the Maine coast. Both Mrs. Brockway and I enjoy pretty good health." Karl and Annie Bullivant Pfeiffer of Baltimore took a trip to Michigan in August to visit their all-Cornell family, so that they could help "Dutch" enjoy his 80th birthday.

See you at Homecoming,—Oct. 10 and 11.

Burr C. Copley, who still lives at 366 Washington St., Canton, Mass., writes that he retired in 1966 after 49 years with Agway Inc. He and his wife were guests of honor at a company banquet in recognition of his long service with the organization. He had been with them ever since the company was founded. That year, 1966, really was eventful for Burr and his wife as they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Their four children staged a party for them with 150 relatives and guests attending. Frank Pendle- ton and his wife were there from South Orange, N.J. This was especially appropriate as each had been best man at the other's wedding. Burr says he was reminded that "time marches on" when in Florida recently a young lady gracefully took his arm and assisted him at a street crossing. Guess the cycle of being gracefully helped is upon us.

Holbert W. (Pink) Fear, 112 Kingsboro Ave., Gloversville, has a granddaughter, Susan Heldt '68, and a daughter, Marion Fear Heldt '44. So his is a three-generation family. Pink entered the US Geological Survey, Water Resources Div., in 1914 at Albany. After filling subsequent assignments in Washington, DC., Denver, Colo., and back to Albany, he retired as assistant district engineer in 1960. He was honored with the Meritorious Service Award of the US Dept. of the Interior. During his business career he was a member of numerous engineering societies and was a fellow, American Society of Civil Engineers. He served as president of the Federal Personnel Assn., Federal Safety Council, and Mohawk-Hudson Section, ASCE. He continues to work as a consulting engineer in water resources investigations, particularly analysis of floods. Pink likes to travel—Europe, Bermuda, Florida, California, and Canadian Rockies. And his hobby is photography.

Clarence W. Barker, 39 Mayo Rd., Wellesley, Mass., retired a long time ago, in 1957, after 23 years with the US Dept. of Agriculture, when the rest of us at that time were still a-working. But not Cy. And no wonder. Just read on. The first summer after retiring he drove to Alaska for a wonderful five months. Summers since then he spends at his camp on an island in the French River in Ontario, going in as soon as the ice goes out and staying until it freezes in the fall. Some winters he travels by freighter trips around the world, to the Mediterranean, to the West, and to Florida. Cy reports his health is excellent. To keep it that way, he cuts and splits 20 cords of fireplace wood every year and eats three times every day, cooking his meals himself. There, folks, is a he-man!

Back from their recent journeys and looking nostalgically to our Reunion at Ithaca in June 1970 are, among others, Olympian Al Williams who completed his circle tour via the Mediterranean, Africa, the Canary Islands, and Portugal, back to California; "Mave" Warren of Somis, Cal.; and Hawaiian retiree J. D. Scott Pratt. A note from secretary Art Wilson en route from Waikiki after his trip "down under" to the Antipodes described a happy meeting with Scott Pratt across the customs barrier at Honolulu where he was waiting with the island greeting of flower leis made of frangipani of his own culture. The Wilsons then called with the Pratts on vice president Lester Marks at his lovely home. There a mini-reunion was staged when the three Cornell '15ers discovered they were all born in 1892. A discussion of old times led to plans to be back for the 55th Reunion, if possible, with their wives. Later Scott and Art joined Pratt and wife at his apartment and the three couples were then hosted by Scott at the Hilton. The party ended in the beautiful high-rise condominium of which Scott is president. Some 300 families live there. Art reports the view as "magnificent" and the ladies all charming.

Your correspondent was expecting visitors at our Harwichport, Mass., summer spot including Dee and Isobel Abel of Barrington, RI, and Roy and Sally Underwood, as well as Claude and Eleda Williams. Many other Cornellians on Cape Cod promise pre-Reunion get-together here. Claude reports over 58 replying to date expect to attend.

Ben Pratt Jr. has finally retired from his insecticide manufacturing company. He will spend winter in Florida and most of the summer in Vermont, stopping en route at his permanent residence, still in Hackensack, NJ.

A new 1915 Golden Wedding Club member, Clark D. Abbott, of Hudson, Ohio, and his wife celebrated their 50th anniversary last year and "are still greatly enjoying life together." He reports all's well with Luther (Lute) Banta, T. Burr (Teebee) Charles, and J. H. (Johnhenry) Alsop, according to messages received.

Robert Glose is "still enjoying every day at the same old address": 701 Amberson Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa. He "would like to see Cornell football improve this year." From Orlando, Fla., comes a message from George E. Cornwell who observes: "Living in central Florida has now become a rat race similar to the one left behind in the New York area almost 35 years ago. But we are not too bad, considering the shape we're in."

Dr. Lloyd Craver tells us he and Mrs. Craver are starting their seventh year at Indian Rocks Beach, Fla. He has finished his last bit of medical writing by contributing, by invitation, a chapter on his specialty to a recently published book. This has been dedicated to him. He now is "hoping the fishing will be better than last year." The Cravers have 12 grandchildren and 2 sons of whom they are properly proud. John '52 is general manager of the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, DC, and area manager of the Hotel Corp. of America. The other son, Bill '49, MD '52, enjoys a splendid reputation as a thoracic surgeon in Rochester.

Sherman U. Grant of Akron, Ohio, says, "Have been retired 10½ years and still going strong, although limping a little due to a fall downstairs in 1967 and despite losing 14 pounds due to the flu last December." But he bowls twice a week and has enjoyed a perfect attendance record for 34 years in the Lions Club of Akron. He was treasurer for 24 years. He has been a member of the American Legion, Post 19, for 33 years, the Akron Garden Club for 41, and the Congregational Church for 63. He attended 1915's big Reunion in 1966 and writes, "God willing I hope to attend our 55th in '70." As a medical friend says, "He is limping better than most."

Another note in July from Mildred Watt Haff about the death in May of Martha Whitworth McCloskey of whom we have the fondest memories. She was a loyal reuner but we missed her in 1968. We extend our deepest sympathy to her family.

I also read in the '16 notes of the death in March of Margaret R. Gill, daughter of Prof. A. C. Gill, mineralogy, who lived in Cornell Heights next to the Elmer family with whom I resided my junior and senior years. We were very friendly. I had not heard from her since 1963 when a relative, Mayda B. Gill '34, of the same Chattanooga address, then at a Girl Scout camp in Carlisle, Pa., requested a Girl Scout history I had written. A copy was sent to Mayda and Margaret. I am sure the '15 girls in Ag and Home Ec will remember Margaret and join me in heartfelt sympathy to her family.

Mildred's letter continues: "My news is all connected with Asbury Towers. I know I have written that Dr. Weld, psychology, lives here. He is in his 90s and blind but still very keen. (Your correspondent has fond and vivid memories of gentle, brown-haired, brown-eyed H. P. Weld in whose class I received my first ideas of psychology.)

"Betty Reigart Gilchrist '19 reported back from Reunion. The class had a good one, but of course it was clouded by current circumstances. She and I drove over to Sebring, Fla., to see Gertrude Bates (read in '16 notes she had been ill; hope she is fine now). We had a fine day. Minna Shepard Proper's brother, Leslie M. '21, on my corridor, is gone most of the time. He has a home in the mountains in North Carolina.

"Cecile Hardy Schlieper spent this weekend with me. Her husband, Mark, died after you received my last notes. I spent several days around July 4 at her attractive home on Eagle Lake. We two have signed up for a trip to Hawaii in November.

"I wish more of our girls would write you and hope we make a good showing at our 55th in 1970."

This I heartily second!

If ever our class had a challenge and opportunity it came at Reunion 1969 when the Alumni Office asked for our help in raising funds for a European trip of the Glee Club during Christmas vacation Dec. 20 to Jan. 3, 1970. Our Executive Committee voted unanimously to accept this challenge and to raise $8,000. Public relations for Cornell would be greatly enhanced and that is what we all want. This is a project we should all support. In our hearts Cornell is still Cornell—recent happenings do not alter that feeling. Never forget, we are '16ers. Birge Kinne as secretary was appointed chairman to raise the money. Although the money will not be needed until October he reports as of Aug. 10 over $6,000 has been pledged. No general solicitation has been made, but should you like the idea, please mail your check to Birge now. Any amount will be appreciated.

Fish Hiscock retired from the poultry business 10 years ago, but he still keeps busy as a director of the Skaneateles Savings Bank and is a renowned bird watcher. He says, "While so many class associates migrate to all parts of the world, I prefer to let the world migrate to me. In short, I am an active birder. I like birds because they never talk back." Fish and his wife recently celebrated their 53rd anniversary and a granddaughter was graduated from Rochester School of Nursing.

Grant and Florence Schleicher will move permanently to Green Valley, Ariz., this winter. Last winter while there they had a visit with Alice and Murray Shelton, who were visiting the Dr. Otis Sheltons '24 who have retired there. They also attended a Cornell Club luncheon in Tucson. Bill Dogget says, "The latch string is out for all

Mrs. Francis H. Scheetz has presented her late husband's personal library of some 1,200 volumes—novels, short stories, and non-fiction—to the university. Included with the collection of books are four world maps dating from 1740 and 1741. The books will form the core of a student library in the commons building of the new dormitory complex now under construction. Mrs. Scheetz was for eight years a trustee of the university's Laboratory of Ornithology and was recently elected to the University Council. Her husband, Francis '16, was a trustee of the university from 1951 until 1967, then a trustee emeritus and presidential councillor until his death last year.

'16ers at Beacon Hill, Block Island, and at Sandy Valley, Dedham, Mass. His hobby is making wood carvings of game birds and dog breeding—especially Brittany Spaniels.

John Toolan has accepted his appointment as chairman, class estate affairs for the Class of 1916. His job is to encourage testamentary giving to Cornell in wills and other forms of deferred giving such as life income agreements.

Herb and Dickie Snyder have an undergraduate son in the Vet college who recently married. Four cheers to Herb, Dickie, Randy, and bride Janet.

Pat and Ruth Irish set sail in August from Nassau, via the Panama Canal, for a cruise to the Orient and Australia. They were to have a 10-day stopover on the West Coast, part of which they planned to spend in San Diego with Frances and me in September.

Willis and Irene Henderson have moved to 301 White Springs Rd., Geneva. Willis is happy in retirement and Irene is keeping him young and visa versa. Congratulations to Pop and Peg Frost for having a Cornell '68 son who is an officer in the Air Force. "Peg is writing an amateur play and Pop sits on his duff and admires her." Can't blame you for that, Pop.

Johnnie Hoffmire was given a tenor uke by Barbara and sons so we will anticipate a trio at our 55th of Peggy and Andy Anderson and Johnnie, with Peggy singing as only she can sing and the boys strumming. Plan now for our 55th.

On last May 20 vice president Frank Hunter, who has been an ardent Cornellian, '16er, and sports enthusiast throughout his life, was given a testimonial dinner at the Cornell Club of New York. As you know, Bay Hunter is a former Olympic tennis champion and ranked second only to the immortal Bill Tilden. The Class of 1916 salutes you, Bay!

Kay and Jim Moore have sold their home in Chatham, NJ, and will move in a few months to their Florida home permanently. Their address will be 7 Davenport Lane, Mt. Dora. Jim also gave me the sad news that William Holler, hon. '16 and a generous contributor to our class fund, died recently in Mt. Dora. Bill and Birge have been close friends for many years. Our sympathy goes to his widow, Cora, and all of the family.

Our Baby Reunion was held at the Cornell Club of New York on May 19. Three '17ers who have served as trustees of the university were present: John L. Collyer, George A. Newbury, and Albert K. Mitchell. Others enjoying the dinner were: Antell, Barton, Bellis, Blanchard, Brinckerhoff, Sam Brown, Chandler, Filby, Fuchs, Hoyt, Kephart, Koslin, Lieblich, Don Maclay, Mallory, Nadler, Oboler, Parsell, Ramsey, Spreckels, Stern, C. A. Thompson, Weigle, Wheeler, and Willson. University vice president Steve Muller, PhD '58, brought us up to date on campus conditions, about which there was considerable discussion.

One of the reasons we worked so hard to set a great record for the Cornell Fund at our 50th Reunion was to encourage the younger classes to beat our record. No younger class has yet done this, but the Class of 1909, at their 60th, gave $217,000, beating our record by $16,000. Our sincere congratulations go to this great class. This year 1917 raised $49,000, despite the fact that many of our usual donors either refused to give or cut down their contributions considerably because of their disapproval of the administration. Our thanks go to all the donors and to all the committeemen who worked so hard against some tough odds.

From Rochester comes the news that Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Cartwright spent their usual three-month winter vacation in Hawaii. Having been manager of the City of Rochester for 13 years, Lou appreciates the way Dr. Perkins handled his problems.

Prof. Emeritus and Mrs. A. Wright Gibson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last April at the home of their daughter, Sally '47, and her husband, Cmdr. Noel, of Falls Church, Va. Present were their son, Wright Jr. '42, and his wife, Joann Taylor '47; Philip '43 and his wife; and 11 grandchildren. Gibby served on the faculty of the Ag college from 1921 until he retired in 1960 as director of resident instruction. He was also in charge of the Cornell Liberia program and made several trips to that African republic. As you know, Gibby, as special gifts chairman in 1967, helped us break all Cornell Fund records.

Abraham Feitelberg, MD, is elated because his son, Samuel '49, has become the father of a boy who they hope will also be a Cornellian. The new grandson rounded out the family, for Abe now has five grandsons and five granddaughters.

Dr. Roy L. Gillett, PhD '22, of Delmar, a former statistician with the NY State Dept. of Agriculture & Markets, has retired, and reports that he is "just enjoying the pleasures and rather nominal duties of retirement." His oldest grandson graduated from the Ag college in June.

Albert K. Mitchell came all the way from New Mexico to attend our class dinner. Al's two children and ten grandchildren are all being raised on large ranches and are making top cow-hands, thus enabling Al and his wife to spend a great deal of time during the summer at their cottage on the shore at Madison, Conn.

In 1919, about 30 oarsmen in the AEF formed some crews that rowed in Paris, France, and in Henley, England. Several of these men held a 50-year Reunion luncheon on May 23 at the Harvard Club in New York. After the luncheon they proceeded to the Columbia boat-house and took a pleasant paddle on the Harlem River (picture). Roy Bird '16 rowed No. 2; Don Maclay No. 3; Wm. A. Stowe '62, Columbia rowing coach, No. 6; and Doug Kingsland stroked. Attending the luncheon but not rowing was Jim Brinckerhoff.

According to the latest alumni statistics there are 633 living members of '18 for whom the university has current mailing addresses. Of this total it is nice to know that slightly more than half, 322 to be exact, regularly receive the ALUMNI NEWS under our class subscription plan. Of course that means that almost half of the living members of '18 no longer have any interest in their class or in the university. Too bad! I mention these figures partly to remind you that you will be receiving your regular annual letter from Jack Knight calling for the payment of class dues, which includes cost of the NEWS subscription.

At long last, and after much hunting through scattered files, that letter of last May from Les Fisher has finally come to light and can now be quoted. Les writes: "Marge and I spent February in Florida—

Recent Bequests

■ Bequests for May 1969 totaled $269,042.01, of which $5,000 came from the estate of Arthur J. Adler '10, $35 from the estate of Charles W. Brown '12, $10,000 from the estate of Edgar F. Wendt '11, and $6,400 from the estate of Philip G. Woodward.

June bequests totaled $55,200.55, of which $1,500 came from the estate of Dorothea Bauer, $5,145.59 from the estate of Harry Cohen '07, $24,800 from the estate of Mary Opie Dix, $500 from the estate of Anna C. Downs '41, $100 from the estate of Ralph Pappenheimer '12, $10 from the estate of Daniel G. Robinhold '27, and $500 from the estate of Murray Weiss '21.

Bequests for July totaled $750,331.38, of which $400,000 came from the estate of Mary Butts Cady '07, $15,927 from the estate of Edward T. Foote '06, $297,398.52 from the estate of Dorothy Mix Meigs, $33,310.60 from the estate of Marjorie Munroe, and $254.75 from the estate of James C. Thomson.

mostly at Delray Beach—and saw a number of Cornellians but no '18ers. Among those we saw who now reside in Florida were Wes Reese '19, Kaye Hunter '21, and Gene Adams '23. While on the West Coast we visited Wells Thompson '21 at his delightful new winter home on Anna Maria Island, due west of Bradenton. Tommy resigned from the presidency of H. K. Ferguson Co. several years ago, and he and wife Alma spend about half their time at their farm in Bridgewater, Conn. Classmates whom I have seen within the past month or so are Harry Moore, Paul Miller, and Mal Malcolm. All of them look fit enough to be members of the 39 Club. Although to all intents and purposes I am finally retired, force of habit keeps me going to the office two or three days a week—rather short days, however. I continue as a director of the Channing mutual funds.

"Our son, Perry '62, and his bride of some seven months, Claire, are setting forth in June on an extensive trip in their little Volkswagen, which will last about two months and will involve considerable camping out. Their itinerary calls for visiting several national parks, going to various scenic areas, seeing a few large cities, etc. The sort of things you described in your Christmas letter last year would be right up their alley although I'm not sure how much time they plan to spend in Canada. However, en route to visit relatives and friends in the San Francisco area they want to see something of southern California. By way of background, Perry now has two master's degrees—mathematics and meteorology—and is working on a doctorate in meteorology which he hopes to get within a year or slightly more." My thanks to Les for his long chatty letter and for the news in it.

And now without further ado your correspondent must leave his typewriter to start packing for another foreign venture, this time to six countries of the Far East, to be followed by a week or so in Hawaii.

Back from a week at Cornell's Alumni U, I can report that lectures and seminars were stimulating and alumni groups congenial. By good fortune I was in Prof. George Staller's seminar, a group comprised of a surgeon, a vet, an editor, a former Extension agent, some retired executives, a grad student, a housewife, and others. This seminar was on economics, a favorite field with me. Prof. Staller handled all questions expertly, even some far afield.

In a phone call with Hazel Torbet Weber on College Ave., I learned that she had broken a rib. "I just leaned over to pick up something," she explained, "and felt a pain." X-rays taken July 21 showed a break. Taped up and obliged to rest, Hazel was keeping her household going. She stays abreast of Cornell affairs and thinks it will be "hard to find a new president." We hope her broken rib heals quickly. Hazel's son, John William Weber '49, has four boys and a girl, so some grandchildren may likewise be Cornellians.

Amy Pendleton, granddaughter of the late Prof. Claude Pendleton and Mrs. Pendleton, was to enter in September. Mrs. Pendleton is recovering from a bout with high blood pressure.

Not finding a telephone listed for Dorcas Ball, I failed to get in touch with her. The three days of 90° heat limited my activities a trifle. I did, however, lunch with Ruth Davis '17 in air-conditioned comfort in the Statler. We were less gay than we might have been, owing to the loss of our mutual friend, Laura W. Gray '19, in June.

A well deserved honor to 1918's class president, Judge Elbert P. Tuttle: he was named trustee emeritus by the board at its June meeting, and given a Cornell medal in appreciation of his services as a trustee since 1949.

Our column is read, I find, by many who are not 1918. For example, Adelheid Zeller Lacy '16 writes, "Every time the ALUMNI NEWS comes, I say I'm going to write and ask you to visit me (in Rochester)." This will be a pleasure, as—like most of us—I have fond memories of many 1916 women.

In July a letter came from Kay McMurry Benson with a color snapshot of Dagmar Schmidt Wright and daughter Nancy standing beside a huge 50th wedding cake. It's very natural of Dagmar, dressed in blue, with a lovely corsage of orchids. The wedding anniversary was May 3, and Cornellians were prominent in the celebrating, which began, says Kay "with a grand family dinner Friday at Stouffers." Dagmar and Oliver '20 sat side by side at one end, with daughter Dagmar and son Oliver at the other end.

"The Wright house was overflowing with family, children, guests, refreshments, and flowers. The house, built and decorated by Oliver, was fascinating in itself. Outside, flowers and shrubs were at their peak. The only member of the original wedding party present was Joanne Donlon Huntington, who came with her husband." Oliver had given Joanne as well as Dagmar a corsage of orchids. "Dagmar's gown of aqua silk and lace could not have become her more, and she and Joanne, also in blue lace, set each other off to perfection. Dagmar was her happy, bubbling, efficient self, having a marvelous time and giving everyone else a marvelous time."

Kay had intended to write earlier, "but grandchildren, animals, plumbers, electricians, health, and weather kept intervening!"

First of all, don't forget we have a luncheon on Wed., Nov. 19, at the Cornell Club in New York. The meeting is billed for "officers, executive committee, and nearby council members." We suggest to any '19ers who can make it come anyway. If you have no title, one will be provided on arrival.

The official count for the Reunion now stands at 92 men and 48 women, a total of 140. We have had several different figures, not entirely because we couldn't count. Some classmates proved elusive or did not register. But the above is now official.

We assume you received a copy of the "Final Report—50th Reunion" written by our president, Mike Hendrie. This was a very complete and well written report, and hope you had an opportunity to read it over.

Mike has not only become an accomplished correspondent but an excellent typist as well. Your scribe, who is burdened with numerous other writing chores besides those for the '19ers, has instructed our personnel department to make a bid for his services. He can practically name his own salary and thus be sure of getting a nice, big, fat check every month on the First National Bank of Kunming, China.

We missed a number of classmates who usually attend. Illness was the most important reason for non-attendance but some were out of the country or had engagements they could not break. Among those who come to mind are Charles Baskerville, Charles W. (Buddy) Cahoon, William Corwith, Damon G. Douglas, Edward L. Duffies, Eugene Durham, Parmly Clapp, John Hollis, Ben Solovay, George Hiscock, and Lawrence Waterbury. Our very best wishes are extended to the above and all the other "regulars" who did not make it.

Richard H. (Dick) Brown, after retiring Jan. 1, 1968, celebrated by taking his wife on a three-month cruise to the South Pacific, Southeast Asia, and Japan. Harold Judd Bradley of Minneapolis, Minn., is enjoying retirement. He spends summers in Minnesota and winters in Florida, and enjoys playing golf in both states.

Since 1961 George H. Combs of Trenton, NJ, has been retired and living on a 200-acre farm that has been in the family since 1783. He is first vice president of the First National Bank of Hamilton Square (NJ), which is five miles from Trenton. George and his wife Mary attended the 45th Reunion. They have two daughters and five grandchildren.

Albert L. Dittmar worked for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for 37 years. For the last several years he has been retired and enjoys hunting, fishing, and traveling. Byron Hicks has a grandson, Bob Kugler, who played end on the freshman football team last fall. His son, J. Byron Hicks '54, has six sons, so they have an abundance of potential Cornellians.

Fredrick W. Loede of Passaic, NJ, made the suggestion that classmates should bring scrapbooks back to Reunion but we didn't get a chance to spread the word around in time. "Fritz" has one grandson graduating from Oneonta State and two granddaughters graduating from high school this year. Regards to all '19ers are sent by Ross L. Milliman of Phoenix, Ariz. He has been recovering from the effects of a partial stroke suffered last year.

Oldest Alumna and Alumnus

■ Mrs. William T. Miller (Mary Rogers '96) of 3543 Emily Street, San Pedro, Calif. was born on April 22, 1868. She is Cornell's oldest alumna. After eight years of teaching in rural, village, and city schools in Iowa and Minnesota, she entered Cornell in 1893 and after graduation three years later remained for a few years as a science lecturer. During her time on campus she became friendly with Profs. John Henry and Anna Botsford Comstock. Her marriage to the late William Tyler Miller, PhD '00, took place in the Comstock living room.

The Millers left Ithaca around 1900 for the West Coast where Mrs. Miller continued teaching at the University of California Extension Division in Los Angeles. She wrote in 1938, "Have succeeded in transforming partial deafness from a liability into an asset to the extent that am employed to teach and train teachers of the handicapped."

This clear concern for helping others bears out her Quaker faith and is further evidenced by a note on her university "war record": "Did everything in my power to prevent war in all its manifestations."

Mrs. Miller is the author of two books, The Brook Book and Outdoor Work for Boys and Girls. Since her retirement, Mary Rogers Miller has found much to do. She built a house "with a view of the Pacific," attends book review and bridge sections of the San Pedro chapter of the American Association of University Women, attends the Quaker meeting, and writes her memoirs.

Robert Adger Bowen, '91-'93, of Greenville, SC, was 100 on December 30, 1968. Described by a Greenville reporter as "assiduous, insatiable, involved," Mr. Bowen has had a varied career as teacher, secretary, novelist, poet, newspaperman, and government worker.

After leaving the Ithaca campus, Bowen spent close to forty years (the "best years of my life") in New York City reading and editing for publishers and free lance writing. During this time he worked for and became a close personal friend of J. Edgar Hoover. ("I wrote him some things he ought to know after I left the bureau.")

"By the time I left New York [1929]," Bowen recalls, "it had lost atmosphere."

Writing has always been central in Bowen's life and he has done a lot of it. His novel, Uncharted Seas, was sixth on the best seller list for a time and a short story, "House by the Side of the Road," was turned into a successful opera by Giulio Viotze of Trieste, Italy.

Since his nominal retirement to Greenville in 1929 Mr. Bowen has been both a proofreader for the Greenville News and a frequent contributor to its editorial pages. Still a bachelor, he says, "I have no hobbies because I value too highly literature, history, music, and other arts."

Despite failing eyesight and "shaking" legs he maintains, "My hands and voice are as strong as ever."

"I could tell you a book full of interesting things—things few, if any, other people could," Bowen says. "It has been a scintillating life."

will direct the plays. Ho has a great team, an impressive backfield, and a strong line (chatter mostly).

For running backs he has a fleet-footed pair, Kay Mayer and George Stanton, who can do the 100 yard dash and fall flat. Stout-hearted Hank Benisch at fullback will do the heavy stuff—or charm the opposition with his violin. At center is that Rock of Gibraltar Capt. Walt Archibald, who always delivers the ball at the right spot at the right time. For assistance in moving the ball Ho will rely heavily on a couple of upstanding ends, Jeff Kilborne and Deyo Johnson—a little short on height but long on performance. The tackle positions will be occupied by ferocious Whitey Terry and Bull Dog Dick Edson, known to tackle anything or anybody and increase gate receipts by their taking ways. The stalwart guards are those watch dogs Dapper Don Hoagland and O. G. Daily who guard and preserve the Dues & News. The original nest egg is still in the class treasury which has grown to manhood under Don's tender care. O. G.'s appetite for news is insatiable, constantly calling for fresh, unadulterated tid-bits.

In addition to this stellar team we've got the friendly coaching of our pals in 1919 who tell us how it's done, and the loyal support of those on the sidelines in every corner of the country who will help make our big 50th the biggest ever.

As announced in September all issues of the ALUMNI NEWS are being received by every known living member of 1920. This will continue right up to Reunion in June. Those who haven't seen the ALUMNI NEWS in recent years will be amazed at the outstanding magazine it has become. As you read it from cover to cover each month, it is hoped you will become imbued with the same wild enthusiasm for Cornell you had as a freshman, and with a fierce determination to be at the 50th Reunion in June, come what may!

Glory be! We've got a new directory! The one we've used for five years is dog-eared and has so many red-pencilled changes it looks like it's all cut and bleeding. This is an invaluable tool in your communications. Why not make this your constant companion for the next nine months and each week write at least one classmate you'd like to see at Reunion? Attendance can be easily doubled. Get with it—communicate!

Ira Houston of Goshen says he's heard that many fellows already are in training for the big "blow-out" in 1970, but he won't join them because his wind is still plenty strong. Ed Prewitz, Box 1342, Peconic, says he's mighty busy since he retired and joined the "affluent poor," and in spite of his reputation as a notorious "non-reuner," he hopes to be with us in June. Dudley Merrill and wife of East Patchogue visited Hawaii for the second time and were impressed with the "vitality, desirability, and potential" of the islands. How true! On our recent visit we were impressed by the busy-ness of Honolulu, the beauty of the outer islands, the high degree of integration among the people, the happiness everywhere. No one seemed conscious of racism or of any lack, except perhaps the lack of unrest, lack of hurry (no wicki wicki) or worry. A lovely happy land. Dud and wife are not going to Hawaii next year—it's Ithaca for sure!

Charles H. Marchant, prof. of bus. adm., Husson College, Bangor, Me., was honored by having the Husson Yearbook dedicated to him. He reports he is "continuing to struggle with the preparation of a manuscript on data processing textbook." Sure hope he gets the doughty data in the right slots before next June and programs himself for the big 50th.

Writing in late August for October publication and after reading the recent issues of the ALUMNI NEWS in which editors, contributors, and alumni letter writers have discussed the tragic campus events of last spring, I am concerned to realize how simplistic the views are of many, both as to cause and cure. There seems to be an assumption that tactics of force meeting tactics of violence would have saved the day, and that Cornell might then have lived happily ever after in a sort of fairy tale existence.

In a similar confrontation, only a few weeks earlier, Harvard did resort to force and found that calling in the well trained and well equipped Boston police force was not the sure cure that it was thought to be.

It was encouraging to me, therefore, to read two thoughtful articles on the Harvard situation in the July Atlantic Monthly. If you have not already seen them, let me urge you to get the magazine at your library. The two articles are published under the composite title, "The Campus Crucible." Both authors are Harvard professors, one of education, the other of government.

What they have to say, although in specifics it deals with Harvard, is pertinent to American universities generally, including Cornell, and indeed to the nation itself. As we enter this new academic year with the cause of student dissatisfaction largely unidentified and unresolved, it seems to me that all of us, thoughtful and dedicated alumni and citizens, should face up to realization of the serious communications gap that exists today. We should remember, too, that communication is, by definition, a two-way enterprise.

Of course I do not condone violence. It can solve no problems. But when problems are too long ignored, sooner or later there is likely to be resort to violence by those whose problems have been glossed over. Examination of the underlying causes of student discontent with the education they are receiving, and correction where correction is indicated, are not solely or even principally the duty of administrators. They are chiefly the duty of faculty, but they are also the responsibility of all in whose behalf the administrators administer.

Next month I hope to have news of classmates for you. And again my thanks for the understanding letters I have received from several of you.

Warren A. Stevenson is retired at New Hamburg and enjoys gardening and golf.

He spends part of the year in Florida. For recreation, Craig Sandford hunts predatory animals, both in the US and foreign countries.

The New York Times for July 11 gives considerable space to one of the best known writers in our class under the heading: "E. B. White: Notes and Comments by Author." On the occasion of his 70th birthday, Mr. White was interviewed at his North Brookline, Me., home by Israel Shenker. For many years Mr. White wrote "Notes and Comment" for the New Yorker. He is also the author of poetry, books of essays, and children's books. He was unsuccessful as a daily reporter because he aimed for quality rather than speed in writing. For those of you who did not read this article in the New York Times, I strongly recommend that you look it up in the library. It is almost impossible to summarize, but among other things, it refers to the problems of aging, the relation between parents and children, the ills of New York City, and plans for possible publication of parts of his journals.

Because it may inspire others to organize local alumni groups, I will quote at length from a recent letter from Albert L. Lentz of Charlotte, NC, who is certainly known to all who have attended our Reunions.

"Well, in early 1968, I muscled myself into a Dartmouth gathering when they were entertaining Bob Blackman, their football coach. Just wanted to see how the Ivys functioned here in Dixie. They had a good turnout, among them some high school football coaches and a few promising high school football players from North and South Carolina. During the meeting, I sounded out the Dartmouths about the possibility of putting on a joint meeting in the fall and piping in a radio broadcast of the Cornell-Dartmouth football game.

"There seemed to be a general interest, so I started the wheels rolling, and on Dec. 16 we had a buffet lunch at noon and cocktails and the game broadcast following. About 70 turned out, of whom about 11 were Dartmouth. We had a whale of a time, and the feeling among the Cornellians was that we should get a formal Cornell alumni group organized here in the Carolina Piedmont.

"Using the Secondary School Committee, of which I am chairman, as an organizing committee, we drew up a formal constitution and by-laws, which we approved and adopted at a formal dinner meeting at the Charlotte City Club on May 3. We also adopted the name, Cornell Piedmont Alumni Club, and elected a slate of officers and governors. I was elected president of the club and we have a very fine group. Our club covers the area of a circle of 100 miles radius, centered in Charlotte and including Columbia, SC, and Greensboro, NC. We made plans for a summer picnic on Aug. 17, and another football broadcast on Oct. 11 of the game with Princeton. We have a roster of about 700 alumni living in our club area and are looking forward to a lot of activity."

Add one more convert to Florida gravitation. Dave Dattelbaum may now be reached at Lake Towers, 250 Bradley Pl., Palm Beach. He still gets mail at his old New York address where he returns from time to time for consulting purposes. New York also has a pull.

True McLean and Blanche (Brooks) are now established at 2551 Windward Way, Naples, Fla., but someone saw them in Ithaca this summer for a few days.

Ted Banta has moved to 19 Birchwood Dr., Greenwich, Conn., Fred Walton is now at 1655 Fernald Point Lane, Santa Barbara, Cal. Frank Black's new abode is 3913 Canterbury Rd., Baltimore, Md. Jim Harper is still in Rosemont, Pa. and is associated with H. W. Newbold's Son & Co., investment securities, in Philadelphia.

Another responsibility has come to Walker Cisler lately—as though he didn't have plenty already! He has been appointed to the advisory committee of the Export-Import Bank of the US. This nine-member Eximbank Committee is broadly representative of production, commerce, finance, agriculture, and labor. It meets several times a year to advise the Bank's board on policy matters.

George Teare recently participated in the Composers' Showcase song-writing competition. His snappy song was played with gusto at the annual ball on May 16 in the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel.

If and when any of you visit Ithaca be sure to drop us a card, give us a ring or better still—stop in to see us. It will be a pleasure to show you the sights on and around the campus, a few of which may look familiar!

Dorothy Powell Flint visited six European capitals in June 1968. At home she is interested in the Long Island Environmental Council and the Regional Council of the Future of Nassau County. In February 1969 she and her husband attended the installation of the first president of Dowling College at Oakdale where their son, George Flint Jr., is assistant dean of students and personnel. The reception was held in the William Vanderbilt mansion in Oakdale which is now the college library. She continues her work of contacting girls who have applied for admission to Cornell, as a member of the Secondary School Committee for South Shore, L.I., Women's Club. Last winter she interviewed 22 girls.

Josephine Catlin Jackson of Montour Falls writes that they "enjoy all the activities of a small village and are interested in anything pertaining to the livelihood of the community."

Sylvia Bernstein Seaman and husband William, PhD '29, spent the winter of 1969 in Mexico. They have seven grandchildren. She writes, "A recent paperback book, Tess Tube Father, a novel about artificial insemination, was published." This was written, as were her other novels, with Frances Wexler Schwartz '23.

Sunshine Ulman Roy wishes her office address used, 400 Madison Ave., New York. She is still practicing law. Her husband, who was also a lawyer, died in 1965 and she finds she is happier keeping busy. She writes, "I began practicing law when the cards were stacked against a woman but, thank goodness, things are quite different today. Women have many more opportunities now than they had 30 or 40 years ago." She continues, "I have had little contact with Cornell over the years. Had to work hard without ever making enough to endow a library or build a dormitory as so many Cornellians have done. Each year I planned to go back to Ithaca but something always turned up at the last moment to make it impossible. But in spite of everything I still have a soft spot in my heart for Cornell."

Frances Griswold Ballentine, 32 South Rd., Kingston, RI, lost her husband in May 1968. Because of his health he had to leave his post-retirement job in the Virgin Islands and return to the U of Rhode Island where he had been dean of the College of Business Administration for 25 years and where Balentine Hall was named for him. Frances calls the Virgin Islands her second home. She loves to spend her winters there where her health is much better. She has one daughter in New Hampshire, and the other one lives near her and teaches at the College of Home Economics at the U.R.I.

If any of you want to drop back to the 18th century without crossing an ocean just stop off at Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Your reporter spent three days there in June. The high spot of the trip was the garden tour conducted by Mildred Rowe Holmes. She made you feel you were living in the 1760s with her stories of the trees and the many gardens that use only plants known to the 18th century colonists. She had recently spent six weeks in England doing more research on 17th and 18th century gardens.

Carl I. Baker, who now hails from Silver Springs, Md., is all in favor of retirement. He gives his views well phrased as follows: "Retirement is vastly better than working for a living. We did indeed find a little paradise to retire to; I am freed from gardening, travel, athletics, and other pre-retirement afflictions. We seem to know almost all of about 1,500 delightful neighbors and spend a surprising amount of time in neighbors' company. I fiddle with statistics—with no purpose in mind, just for fun. I write stories and poetry with no intention of trying to publish, and I play in the numerous bridge events at the clubhouse. At the moment there are no economic, status, prestige-type, duty-type, or survival goals to be striven for. There could be no more free or pleasant life."

Wesley H. Childs has a different story. He bemoans that fact that he and his wife were patients at the same time at the Mayo Clinic earlier this year. They both underwent surgery. He comments, "Hell of a way to help the economy." Withal, they are now both fully recuperated and glad that the remodeling and renovating is over. Dr. Richard D. Wagoner '56 took care of the Childs, and apparently quite capably.

Edwin L. Smith has retired from long service as a civil service employee of the Navy Dept. However, he is still kept busy as president of Local 23 of the National Federation of Federal Employees. He has been at this job for seven years and is quite active taking care of the problems of some 30 groups in federal activities in the Philadelphia area. His two married daughters have sought milder climes and are now living in Southern California.

Marvin A. Clark has retired from income-producing activity, but in his own words he is "up to his ears in no-pay community and charitable jobs." A good way to keep out of mischief.

Marcus H. Phillips, having spent a good lifetime in banking in upper New York State, has retired from that crass counting of the filthy lucre, and has gone into the more majestic area of the law. After many years in Steuben County, he has returned to the Phillips homestead in Hulberton and is now deputy county clerk of Orleans County. His duties cover the court clerkship of both county and supreme courts, with headquarters in Albion, where he had previously spent 20 years with Marine Midland Trust Co. He likes being back among old friends, but I suppose the job might sometimes entail putting some of them in the clink. Be merciful, Marcus, they really don't mean to be criminals.

Herbert D. Schedler has retired from his regular activity as an attorney in admiralty law and is doing only consulting work now. However, if you have a sinking ship that needs legal attention, he might be tempted to get back in action. Turn the bilge pump over to the First Mate and telephone Herb in Morristown, NJ. Don't tell him I sent you.

C. F. (Frank) Gilligan is still practicing law in Dansville. He spurns the idea of the rocking chair, but just in case something happens, he has a good backstop in son Francis, an alumnus of the U of Buffalo Law School. Francis has completed a three-year term of service in the Judge Advocate General Corps in Munich and is now stationed at Falls Church, Va., with the rank of major. Probably won't be long before that shingle up in Dansville will read Gilligan & Gilligan, Attorneys at Law.

A few well intentioned classmates have not yet paid their dues. Shame.

This is being written late in August (the deadline for this issue of the NEWS is Aug. 18), which will help my understanding classmates to bear with me for some of the ancientness of the news and to accept, I hope; my apologies for some sloppy reporting I was guilty of in the June issue (deadline about Apr. 20). I reported that Dave Cook had written in April 1968, that he and his wife had recently visited their son. When I returned from the Reunion I heard that Dave had died prior to such an intended visit. This infuriated at least one of Dave's friends and must have annoyed his family. For this I tender my sincere apologies.

Memories of the Reunion still linger with me. I had the pleasure of the companionship of Norton Stone during some of the time. As he had a car and I had not and as he was further willing to let me accompany him in various peripatations to and from class activities and other destinations I enjoyed a far wider prospect of the campus than is usually my lot. For example, we drove to the Ag campus and inspected from the outside that vast and imposing pile, castellated, rounded in tower, and truly formidable structure housing the Department of Animal Husbandry. I could not resist the hope that the university had paid for the building in cash, for as you all know borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry. As you see, my resistance is still low. I wish further to report the grounds of our university are being beautifully maintained.

On June 28, 1969, the office of the White House press secretary reported that the president that day had announced his intention to nominate Dr. Roger O. Egeberg to be assistant secretary of Health, Education & Welfare for health & scientific affairs; Following his graduation from medical school, Egeberg served his internship with Wesley Hospital in Chicago and his residency with the University Hospital of the U of Michigan. He practiced medicine, specializing in internal medicine, in Cleveland, from 1932 to 1942. He was the chief of medical services, at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Los Angeles, from 1946 to 1956, and medical director of the L. A. County Hospital from 1956 to 1958. Those of us who attended Reunion had a wonderful time. The program included three dinners with the '24 men, exciting forums twice a day in Alice Statler Auditorium, and luncheons in Barton Hall with friends from other classes. Mary Yinger and Carol Lester, as co-chairmen, were great. Flo Daly was responsible for the good looking red bags. We even had bus transportation, courtesy of the '24 men. A few classmates, unhappy because of the spring events on campus, didn't come. Those who did now have a much better understanding of those events.

A letter from Mary Yinger says: "It was a good Reunion, wasn't it? We all want to tell you that we're glad you came. You were ready and willing to stand up and be counted' at a critical time. The university needed you and we are proud of you for coming. We trust that you secured information and inspiration to take you through at least the next five years.

"As a class we had 133 guys and dolls registered. So that indeed is a goodly number—but what wonderful quality '24 brought back."

Women of '24 involved in class activities and in our 45th Reunion were: Sally Beard, secretary; Mary Casey, alumni fund; Florence Daly, costumes; Miriam McAllister Hall, nominating; Carol Lester, Reunion co-chairman; Ruth Oviatt, nominating; Dorothy Larrabee Palmer, treasurer; Madeline Ross, Reunion reports; Helen Nichols von Storch, president; Mary Yinger, Reunion co-chairman; and your correspondent.

Eleanor Bayuk Green wasn't able to attend Reunion but writes that she and Dorothy Cohen Spitz, her former roommate, plan to take the alumni flight Orient tour in October. Laura Duffy Smith and her husband, Paul, are having several two- or three-week trips through the Northwest.

Marian Danmeyer Hackett was unable to come because of illness, as was Dorothy Allison. Carol Johnstone Sharp and husband Myron were in Lichtenstein during June. They wrote that they had a story published in the June 1968 Yankee magazine. The story was based on a mountain trip led by Dorothy Allison. Edith Beasley and Ruth Campbell Yost were also unable to attend because of illness.

Miriam McAllister Hall and husband Thomas are moving into a new home on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Vera Dobert Spear and husband Kenneth '23 were in Heidelberg on Reunion weekend.

Marjorie Kimball Gephart was unable to come because of husband John's illness. Marj reports they have nine grandchildren. She has retired from active community work and is writing poetry. She has a book of children's poems ready for the publisher.

Madeline Ross acted as secretary at our class business meeting, and you'll be hearing from the new officers soon. Meantime, do send me news about yourself.

Myron Zucker, 708 W. Long Lake Rd., Bloomfield Hills, Mich., is general chairman for 1969 meeting of industry & general application group of Electrical & Electronic Engineers in Detroit, Oct. 13-17. He adds, "If there are any more '25 engineers still in operation, come and give me a call."

Frank Hoffman, Box 1213, Rancho Santa Fe, Cal., says: Returned again in December for a holiday stay in Madrid to renew friendships with old Spanish friends and visit with my wife's family. Hope to make this an annual trek—not so easy to forget my 15 years on the job over there with IT&T after graduating.

Ralph D. Reid, RFD 1, Salem, writes, "I have been gradually retiring since April 1968; almost completed now." That sounds like a good way to make the transition.

"Kirk Savage, 618 Oakhurst Rd., Mamaroneck, whom we reported in November as retiring, says that in addition to spending time at home and at his cottage on Block Island he is catching up on some long deferred traveling.

James C. Warden, 545 Henry Dr., LaVale, Md., retired two years ago, spent two winters in California and says, "We headquarter here in LaVale spending the summer taking care of a two-acre suburban property—just chock full of work. Still keeping up with the weeds and horticultural ailments leaves no time for loafing."

Joseph F. Jelley and his wife Betty, 3 Sierra Vista Dr., Colorado Springs, Col., took a seven-week trip to New Zealand and Australia last winter and had a wonderful time. (Your correspondent highly recommends these two countries.)

Edgar W. Kroehle, 6101 Brookside Dr., Cleveland, Ohio, reports: "Enjoying retirement since Feb. 1, 1968, but busier than ever in fraternal work, stamps, and Hammond organ lessons." (He doesn't say whether he's giving or taking lessons.)

Eugene Ovenshine, RFD 1, Box 78H, Easton, Md., says, "Retired so I can watch the swans, geese, and ducks and try to catch fish." That sounds like a relaxed and peaceful kind of retirement.

Joseph Nolin, 13 Bronson Ave., Scarsdale, is still active as a general partner in a large CPA firm. He has two married daughters, a son who graduated in June from the Hotel School, and a teenage daughter.

Thomas C. Hobbie, 71 W. Main St., Sodus, says his fifth daughter just finished her freshman year at Cornell. He has six grandchildren, one of whom was pictured on the cover of September 1968 NEWS.

Alfred Mills, 4771 NW Fifth St., Miami, Fla., is still working at the Miami Plant Inspection Station, USDA, and keeping in close touch with local Cornellians.

George A. Porter (Box 5734 Biltmore Sta., Asheville, NC) has retired, left Michigan, and is building a new home in Asheville. He seems to find some difficulty in accommodating to the slower pace.

Herbert Wallace, 18 Lexington Ave., Buffalo, retired after 40 years with SKF Industries and says, "Spend my time sailing on Lake Erie summers and traveling winters to Asia, Europe, etc."

Walter T. Southworth, 744 Lawton St., McLean, Va., has been appointed as one of its hearing examiners by the Federal Power Commission. Walter practiced law in New York for many years and for nine years was general counsel and secretary of Mack Trucks.

Retirement seems to be the news of the year for a good many classmates.

N. Knowles Davis, a utility rate expert who joined the Tenneco Inc. organization in 1956 and rose to vice president of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., a Tenneco subsidiary, retired June 30. He joined Tennessee Gas after long service on the Georgia Public Service Commission as chief engineer from 1938 to 1941 and as director of the utilities div. from 1945 to 1955. As electrical engineer and a lawyer, he came to Tennessee Gas as director of rates, was promoted to vice president in 1959, and named senior vice president and assistant to the president in 1967. He received a BS degree from Georgia Tech in 1925 and an EE from Cornell in 1926. A member of many professional societies, Knowles and wife Jean live at 3420 Overlook Lane in Houston.

Donald K. Blood pens, "We have just moved into our house up here in Rockport, Me. It is to be our retirement home permanently." A note from Harry F. Hartman, Box 3292, Baytown, Texas, reads, "Will be retiring from Humble Oil & Refining first of '70. See Phil Baker at least once a year when we make a duck hunt."

James E. Frazer, 555 Milton Rd., Rye, writes, "Daughter Ann, husband, and three children have started a three-year session in the Peace Corps in Sierre Leone, Africa. They must like it hot! Son Jim '53 is now with Scovill-Hamilton Beach div. I've gone into my second childhood: Boy Scouts, Rye Conservation Society, wood carving, taking pictures, and playing with my nieces and nephews since my grandchildren are in Africa. My wife, Frances, has now retired from her job as school dietitian in order to keep an eye on me!"

Lee Fraser advises that since becoming a widower, he has forsaken industry and metropolitan areas for the rustic life around Lake Sunapee, NH, where he can be reached c/o A. A. Osborne, Garnet Hill Rd., Sunapee, NH.

Arvine C. Bowdish, 53D Bayview Gardens, Clearwater, Fla., sends the following message: "Had a nice visit with Frank and Martha Carpenter Kearney who came through St. Pete for a few days in March. Frank retired in April and was given a dinner by his fellow workers of the City of New York. I'm still fishing, crabbing, golfing, bowling, playing bridge, and helping to paint the interior of our new Methodist church in Clearwater. Since my marriage a year ago, I've put on some weight. It is now 175 lbs.—about 40 lbs. over my fighting weight of 1922-26!"

Dudley F. Phelps, 2 Fenmore Rd., Port Washington, claims five grandchildren ranging from age 7 down to "a bit over 16 months. Sure helps to keep your viewpoint young!" Pictured in the Easton (Pa.) Express was Charles M. Merrick, retiring professor and head of the dept. in industrial engineering at Lafayette College, receiving an engraved silver bowl from Lafayette President K. Roald Bergethon, PhD '45, on the occasion of a retirement dinner in June.

The traveling Buckleys, Walt and Elvira, have been on the go again, this time on an East African safari. A postal report tells of three other Cornellians in the group: Edith Stenberg Smith '29, Raymond C. Fingado '27, and Dr. Charles G. Murdock Jr. '27.

Classmates becoming re-educated at the highly successful second annual Cornell Alumni U were Morris and Gerda Goldstein, Seth and Audrey Jackson, and Len and Elizabeth Richards, all of whom were highly enthusiastic about the experience.

Daniel M. Coppin, 387 Circlewood Lane, Cincinnati, Ohio, reports, "Had a very enjoyable Hawaiian trip last September. Weather in Florida this March was not the best for golf. Son Dick is being moved from Saginaw, Mich., to Baltimore to take over PPG office there."

Walter R. Miller, 1505 Stoneybrook Ave.,

Mamaroneck, visited the Bahamas last winter and then planned a trip to Finland and Scandinavia for some fishing. He has three grandsons and two granddaughters.

Frank C. Edminster, Reynoldsville Rd., RD 1, Trumansburg, writes, "Retirement life continues to be pleasant and busy. Between writing a book, taking care of lawns and gardens on the place, and hunting and fishing, there is never a slow time. And hear about that hockey team again this year, wasn't that great?"

Rachel Childrey Gross of Huntingdon, Pa., has recently received the Citation of Merit of the American Library Trustee Assn. It was presented during the First General Session of the 88th Annual Conference of the ALA in Atlantic City. Rachel, trustee of the Huntingdon Valley Library, is a former president of the Pennsylvania Library Trustee Assn.

The citation for Rachel reads: "For her guidance in the destiny of the Huntingdon Valley, Pa., Public Library from its inception, continuing through stages of community interest and action, and culminating in permanent local tax support.

"For her vision in inspiring library trustees throughout her home state to assume roles of vital activity."

I received an interesting letter from Judge Raymond Reisler of New York about his exciting trip last April to Yucatan and especially their most enjoyable visit in Mexico with former trustee Juan Martinez and his delightful family. Ray says Juan retired four years ago as Mexico's outstanding figure in the power industry after it became nationalized. Then with son Claudio '61 founded Mexico's leading Automotive Parts Manufacturing Co. in Toluca where they also built and maintain a fine school bearing his name. His pride in Cornell is exemplified by Cornelliana on display about his beautiful home, including a plaque his father did while a student in Sibley. The originals grace the Eddy St. campus entrance. Ray hopes his grandchildren, Michael '88 and Karen '90, by Nancy '63 may have the privilege to join up with Juan's grandson Jorge '90, of daughter Terry Orvananos to keep the Cornell family tradition continuing. Of course we have Claudio and Ray Jr. '68 to report on later. A footnote seconds the generous compliment to this column from Ray's good old roommate Hal Gassner to which we bow humbly with thanks.

Thomas LaMont keeps busy overseeing his 2,000-acre apple farms under the able operation of his sons, George '57 and Roger '64. He continues as secretary of the New York State Horticultural Society and is chairman of the Conference Board of Farm Organizations, director of Pro. Fac. and v.p. of NY State Council of Churches. The LaMonts reside at 3117 Densmore Rd., Albion.

Stanley Noble, 16 Lake View Ave., N. Tarrytown, retired from his family's 83-year-old publishing firm and continues as consultant to Knowledge Industry headed by Eliot Minsker '56. Al Van Schoick, 6 Elm St., Cobleskill, retired, keeps active in Boy Scouts of America, Schoharie Co. planning, development, and village boards. His son, David, is Class of '69. Son Alfred is U of California, Berkeley, PhD.

Lester D. Melzer, counsellor at law, 1407 Broadway, New York, wrote in April that his son, Arthur '71, is doing very well in the liberal arts college and daughter Sara, U of Wisconsin '69, U of Poitiers at Tours, France, and at Aix-en-Provence, France, plans to enter U of Chicago doctoral program in Romance languages and literature to join her fiancé, Richard Fielding, a candidate for the doctorate in political philosophy. Les, with wife, took off then for a month's trip to the Orient.

Good news comes from the White House wherein President Richard Nixon appointed Michael Rapuano to the commission of Pennsylvania Ave. The commission was set up in 1967 to plan for orderly phased improvements of the Capital's renowned thoroughfare which is the principal scene of inaugurations and other important state occasions. Mike, a landscape architect and engineer, is vice president of the famed Clarke & Rapuano firm of New York, designers of cities, college campuses, and related services. Nathaniel Owings is chairman of the Pennsylvania Ave. Commission. Nat heads the outstanding architectural and engineering firm of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, New York, San Francisco, Chicago, and Portland, Ore.

Let's not forget the coming Big Red football season. Coach Musick and his able assistants have some surprises in store. Why not make Homecoming a must? You will enjoy the beautiful campus, together with all that Cornell has to offer. See you at the Big Red Barn!

Interesting news from classmates in various parts of the world. Marjorie MacBain decided to "beat the heat" by taking her July vacation in England and Scotland. After touring Devon and Cornwall she went on to Edinburgh not only to see historic spots, but also to visit relatives she hadn't seen since 1939. "I waited nearly 30 years to return to Britain after the Athenia incident. At present I'm staying with a cousin who lives in a 16th century thatched cottage which has been a bit modernized a la English style—I'm in a very quiet country town boasting about 50 houses. We have to walk to a bus stop, catch a bus for Winchester to get a train for London. This summer country is so lush and green and there are such lovely flower displays." She remarks on the contrast with her December 1968 trip through Lisbon, London, and Dublin. "It's a different pace from the city touring."

Marge was in Ithaca in June for the graduation of her nephew, Bill MacBain '69. While there, she saw Nitze Schmidt '26 at Barton Hall.

Edith Horton is living in Lakeland Apts., 319 Highland Rd., Ithaca. As a resident Ithacan she hopes that the campus will proceed with the business of education this fall. She mentioned an interesting fact—that President Perkins is of Quaker background. Henrietta Moench Miller's son, Jim Mitchell, a professor at U of California, Berkeley, is also connected with the Apollo moon program and was present at Houston during the historic moon walk. Son Michael is living in Syracuse, married, with two daughters. "Travels this spring and early summer included California, Hawaii (married daughter living there), and the Canadian Rockies.

Have not seen Ethel Mohr for some time but hope to this fall." Please say "hello" for us, Henrietta.

Muriel Lamb McFarlin writes they are "still in 'mfg rep' business, I as president and my husband acts as chairman of the board and tells me what to do!" Their 9-year-old grandson was staying with them this summer while the rest of the family were visiting their other grandparents in Spain.

A nice note from Katie Barton Brauner. She was visiting her daughter and son-in-law and their three children in Cincinnati. Barbara Muller Curtis keeps healthy "with my daily job and jogging with husband Ed '23." She continues to say that Ed is very much involved with the Connecticut Playmakers. Son Edward is still a pilot with Eastern and to date "hasn't been hijacked to Cuba."

Lillian Fasoldt Schumacher is "in the process of relocating from busy 71 By Pass, having been evicted by the (Missouri) State Highway Dept. to permit a four-lane highway through our home, to a quiet rural road just over the hill." Emily spent three weeks with them early in the summer. "My hobby is knitting for the grandchildren of which we now have four."

From Greta Osborne via Jeannette Fowler we have the following news written by George Hearnden, London, about his wife Estelle Uptcher Hearnden: "Estelle has great trouble with double vision and other eye troubles that now virtually preclude reading and writing to any practical extent. To add to this, she had a heavy fall some six or so weeks ago. The left leg was mainly affected by a fall onto her knee and hip, but the unseen damage was a badly impacted pelvic joint, torn muscles and ligaments, and the results are heavy bruising and great pain which has virtually immobilized her for some weeks past." She evidently has made a good recovery from the fall, since he goes on to describe a trip they made to see a Nottingham Theatre production. They were also planning a 23-day revisit to Venice where they have friends. George concludes, "To all of you everywhere, we both send our fondest regards."

We are delighted to hear that Alice Altmann Chase has recovered from an operation on her right leg. Good to have news from Helen A. Smith who retired as chairman of the guidance dept. at New Rochelle High School last August. "Actually they had to burn the school down to get me out. I have had a wonderful year enjoying Fun City with a subscription to the Metropolitan, the New York City Opera, and the Philadelphia Symphony, Boston and New York Orchestras from time to time. As a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, I have enjoyed their group activities in the art field and some of their musical programs. I am really enjoying being a third generation New Yorker. In September I shall enjoy the luxury of traveling in the off-season for the first time in many years. I plan to concentrate on Spain and Portugal."

Ray Russell recently sent along this very interesting account of his early training on the hill: "Over several of the past months, I have had to dig deep into past training to enable me to lay out a new plant, restoring one lost in a disastrous fire last August, and to include automation of processes that had too many 'bells and whistles' outside of the basic training we received in engineering in our day. In the work required, I found time to be thankful for those of my instructors who, while not really outlining the present day problems, laid groundwork which enables us, with a little study, to catch up, relatively, with present day methods."

Edgar Waite Averill (picture) is a professor of mathematics at Clarion State College in Clarion, Pa. He and his wife live at RD 1, Shipperville, Pa., where he is president of the Highland Park Assn. and faculty advisor to the Young Republicans. Bill's two sons have graduated from Cornell, one in 1956 and the other this year. His hobbies are bird dogs, hunting, and fishing, lucky fellow.

Word comes from John W. Gatling that he is un-retired and is serving as executive director of Crossnore School in Crossnore, NC. It is a unique working institution where all students pay part of their way by working 12 to 15 hours a week. John writes: "It was my intention upon my return from an assignment in Iowa early last spring at least to semi-retire and enjoy my perfect retirement home in Biltmore Forest in Asheville with my wife, Eleanor Hulings '26. However, this challenging opportunity came along unexpectedly in April, and to be able to revive and rehabilitate this unusual and wonderful school was too much to resist.

"We sold our perfect home with a great wrench and now are ensconced pleasantly here with our life completely changed and our retirement plans pigeon-holed on the shelf. We have guest facilities here and would look forward for any classmates who may be touring the Blue Ridge to drop in and partake of our festive board."

Good luck to you, John, in your new endeavor.

Don't forget to see the Big Red play this fall. It promises to be a young (mostly juniors and sophomores) but a spirited team. Home games in October are Princeton on Oct. 11 (Homecoming) and Harvard on the 18th while away games are with Rutgers on Oct. 4 and with Yale on Oct. 25. I hope to see you there.

Very best wishes came in from Manuel Del Rosario, Bacolod City, Neg. Occ., Philippines. He and wife Letty were to celebrate their 38th wedding anniversary June 27, 1969. Family of two girls and a son—all married—plus seven grandchildren. Manuel is a director of the Cornell Alumni Assn. of the Philippines, of Consolidated Funds, and of the Apex Mfg. Co., and a vice chairman of the Overseas Bank of Manila. He regrets that he could not join the 40th festivities.

Stephen W. Allio Jr., Garden City, reports that he has been appointed loan officer-real estate financing, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. as of Jan. 1, 1969. Our distinguished architect, Robert Evans Alexander, Los Angeles, is currently designing a 1,500-room convention headquarters hotel in "my favorite city," L.A., what else! R. The classically handsome lines of the Cornell Swivel-seat Bar Stool make it a most welcome guest (and your guests most welcome) at your parties and casual get-togethers. But don't be surprised to find it at the kitchen counter, behind the ironing board, near the telephone, or in use just as a comfortable place to sit with a cup of coffee. In fact, you'll never get away with owning just one . . . or even two! The Cornell Bar Stool is sturdily built of Northern hardwood. Its gold decorated, hand-buffed satin black finish, accented by the Cornell Seal, quietly attests to its fine quality. excellent work horse for Cornell!" For the record, John underscored the word excellent. As president of the American Rock Garden Society, Bernard Harkness, Geneva, states that the annual meeting conflicted with the dates of the 40th Reunion and regretted very much that he could not be with his brother Cornellians.

Morton Singer, White Plains, also regretted he could not be aboard due to recuperation after a long illness. Is on the road to recovery and hopes to visit his son in St. Paul, who is a candidate for his PhD. Mort states that God willing, he hopes to be among those in attendance at the 50th. We sincerely hope this will come to pass!

Another retiree coming up shortly is Arturo R. Fisher, Woodside. He reports he was with Equitable Life Assurance Co. for many years. His son was to graduate from Providence College this year. We wish him well from here on out!

Late last spring your correspondent and Mike (Sheik) Bender were the guests of David W. Lewis, Banker's Trust executive in charge of getting the job done with a flair. The pleasant meeting of the minds was held in the Manhattan Club. If this place fails to register, it can be noted that this establishment is housed in what used to be the old Cornell Club, Barclay Hotel. A look around MC's quarters gives evidence of a decorator having been brought into the act. Highlight of the lunch was the revelation that Dave had been mugged one evening last year as he was about to enter a subway station. While he was relieved of his wallet, he was fortunately not hurt in the roughing up process. If you must work in Manhattan these days, be prepared to live dangerously.

Nothing newsworthy happens to me—maybe I should rejoice, reflects Edson Alden Edson. From Setauket comes a note from Albert Hostek. He still plays the cello (badly) and is proud of his new crop of azaleas, developed through careful hybridization. He also mentions that he and wife Helen have five grandchildren.

From the Buckeye State and Cincinnati, where George E. Heekin lives, word comes to the effect that a winter spent in Honolulu is a big improvement over winters in the Ohio valley. George should live in Buffalo, where snow swirls around your ears for days on end. I know, the Bison City is this correspondent's old home town!

Our new class president, Ethel Corwin Ritter, has appointed the following: for our Reunion chairman in 1974, Catherine Curvin Hill; for alumni fund representative, Rosalie Cohen Gay; and yours truly as ALUMNI NEWS reporter.

Billie Kitt Norton's son, Thomas, was married July 26 in Washington, DC, to Miss Carol Walters. Best wishes to the bride and groom.

A note from Hannah Hunsicker Carty tells of her return to Allentown, Pa., where she was born and raised. She boasts of two grandchildren, one in New York and one in Berkeley, Cal. Hannah says she's doing nothing earth-shaking, but enjoying life.

Betty Harris Brandt has become a grandmother to a little girl. Betty's present job is part-time in a technical library at the U of Michigan. She also assists in entertaining guest professors and their families from Europe. Any spare time goes to hospital volunteer work.

Mildred Truscott Clark has four children and nine grandchildren for whom she enjoys babysitting. She is treasurer of the Susquehanna Valley Presbyterian Church and president of the Delhi Bird Club. Bird watching is her hobby and she has made reports to the Laboratory of Ornithology at Cornell. She has a new little home where she's enjoying her flower garden.

Your reporter has had recent visits with all five grandchildren. Husband Bill retired in May and we have been on the move ever since. We will be homeless for a few months as we have just sold our home of 32 years in Madison, NJ. Our new home in Saratoga, Fla. (the southern '29 colony), will not be completed until the end of the year. We plan to go to Saratoga in October, but do not know our address. We note with profound sadness the death of our distinguished classmate, Eugene W. Kettering, on Apr. 19, 1969, at Memorial Hospital in New York. Philanthropist and benefactor to educational, scientific, and medical institutions, Kettering was honorary board chairman of the Charles F. Kettering Foundation at the time of his death. After spending nearly 30 years as engineer and then research executive with GM's Electromotive div. in La Grange, Ill., Kettering resigned in 1959, following the death of his father, to devote himself to his institutional and family responsibilities. In 1966, he gave Cornell Medical College $250,000 to help strengthen its teaching program, and in 1968 he gave the university $1 million. He is survived by his widow, Virginia, of Dayton, Ohio; son Charles F. Kettering II of Colorado; two daughters, Mrs. Peter (Susan) Williamson of Greenwich, Conn., and Mrs. Richard (Jane) Lambard of Rye; and nine grandchildren.

Paul N. Hunt wrote recently that he had moved to 137 S. Girard St., Woodbury, NJ. Paul has been at the Texaco refinery at Woodbury since it was constructed and is now president of the Woodbury Kiwanis Club.

Wallace C. Blankinship retired last Jan. 1 from Stouffer Foods Corp. He and wife Jo celebrated by a trip to the Orient visiting Bangkok, Hong Kong, Japan, and Hawaii. He says it's a "great life" and hopes to go to Australia next year. Wally was the spearhead of the development of Stouffer Frozen Foods, was corporate vice president of the Frozen Foods Systems Development, and at the last was general manager of Stouffer's Somerset Inn complex. His home address is 1175 Edgecliff Dr., Cleveland, Ohio.

Credit the Bulletin of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen for the following items: Milton C. Smith says he is now working for his son, Kirk (W. Kirkland Smith '61), but Milt retains the title of president of the firm. The Bulletin says that Milt and Kirk joined with a group which will own or lease and manage three motor inns. Three more are in the planning stage. Milt and Peggy (Wilkinson) have three married children and a like number of grandchildren. Daughter Sharon recently married, so the nest is empty: 408 Upper Guelph Rd., Wayne, Pa.

John A. Bullock lives at 59 Yacht Club Dr., Lake Forest Reservation, Lake Hopatcong, NJ. The Cub Snowdons spent a weekend with Jack and Marian a while back. The Bulletin has some updated news about Cuthbert C. Snowdon's family. Richard is assistant dean of student affairs at North Carolina State U; Betty is a sophomore at Wesley College in Delaware. Cub still enjoys boating and travel and, presumably, an occasional weekend with Jack and Marian Bullock.

Ralph Bevier reports that he is still managing the Hotel William Baker in Chautauqua in the summer and operating his own Motel Moulton in St. Petersburg, Fla., in the winter.

Harry Jackson writes that after operating the Asbury Carlton for 25 years, he sold it in March 1968. He and Barbara (Lee) '34 now live at the Carlton House, 510 Deal Lake Dr., Asbury Park, NJ. They spend part of each winter in Florida and during the summer enjoy cruising in their boat on Long Island Sound.

For the foregoing information taken but not always quoted directly from the organ of the Hotelmen, we are indebted to Ray Smith Jr., 610 N. Water St., Milwaukee, Wis. Ray is the Bulletin correspondent for the Class of '32.

Michael L. and Grace Wolfe's daughter, Martha, a graduate of Alfred U, was married on June 28. Mike is employed by Blydenburg & Saxe, land surveyors & engineers, Huntington. Their son, Michael L. Jr. '63, received his PhD in 1966 from U of Göttingen, West Germany, where he married Marieluise Kothe. They have a 2-year-old daughter and are living in W. Lafayette, Ind., where he is a research associate at Purdue (a wildlife biologist). Their other son, Stephen H. '64, is a research assistant at California Institute of Technology, where he's working for a PhD in geophysics. He is unmarried to date.

John H. Battle's daughter, Hellen, has written a book, Every Wall Shall Fall (Hewitt House, Old Tappan, NJ). It covers her harrowing ordeal in an East German prison after she offered to help a young man escape from the East to the West, to his American fiancée and freedom, and was arrested and forced to endure long months of brutal interrogation, prison indignities, and false accusations.

Charles S. Tracy advised in May that his son, Charles S. Jr. '68 graduated from USN Officer Candidate School, Newport RI, in April 1969 and was ordered to USS O'Brien (DD-725) for Pacific duty. Daughter Elizabeth was to graduate in June 1969 from Wellesley and planned to attend Ohio State graduate school in English literature. Daughter Kathryn was to graduate from Vail-Dean School (Elizabeth, NJ) in June 1969 and planned to enter Smith College in September. Daughter Anne will finish sixth grade.

Sidney A. Johnson reported. "Still travel a lot in North America for Mobil, namely to Texas, California, and Calgary. One advantage is that it gives me more opportunities to visit children in the Boston, Chicago, and Los Angeles areas. Will have to pay my own way to visit my soon-to-be second grandchild in Montevideo. Sorry to have been unable to attend the Reunion."

In July, William F. Miller and Charles N. Mellows traveled to the wilds of northern Ontario near Hudson Bay. Charlie sent me a beautiful color print (not usable) showing the two of them in a "well earned" moment of relaxation over a spot of "tea" (etc.) following a hard morning of fishing and exploration. It shows them comfortably seated (in portable chairs) being served "beverages" by their two Indian guides garbed in starched white coats and white gloves! Bill is being served what appears to be wine and Charlie, from a coffee pot into a cup, what looks water white to me. Charlie advised: "Uniforms for the Indian guides were loaned, courtesy of Carl Witteborg Jr.'s Beaumont Hotel, Green Bay, Wis.'s newest and finest. Much credit for the exceptionally high standards of cuisine and service, which we were able to maintain during the trip, is due Carl for his equipment and helpful advice."

Note: Make those glossy or semi-glossy prints black and white. Color prints can't be used. Also, if you enjoy reading this column, please keep me well supplied with material.

Betty Moser Jett writes from New Hampshire: "Each year seems busier and more challenging than the last. New and varied diets in the hospital and consultant work in the nursing home keep me on my toes, but I like it—occasional trips to New York and New Jersey to visit our four grandchildren."

"Just mellowing along!" Fran Staley Durham calls it, mentioning an expected June grandchild. Was it a boy or girl? Frances is serving as president of the Camden County Mental Health Assn.

Marie F. Mantel has been appointed administrative director of Catholic Charities Guidance Institute, a psychiatric clinic for children, with offices in Manhattan, Bronx, White Plains, Yonkers, and Peekskill.

"A wonderful five-week trip to Africa in February and March," writes Mary Snell LaMont, who with her husband, Tom, PhD '32, visited South Africa, Kenya, Uganda, and Tanzania. Another one to travel, in the summer of 1968, was Harriett Davidson Bolan who visited Portugal and Spain, then spent a delightful week in the Canary Islands with Kathryn Hawkes Fischer.

Karin Peterson Fennow from Copenhagen, Denmark, says, "As an American residing in Europe, I am distressed by the current uproars in US universities, in particular, Cornell. But we have our share of commotion here, too. After resigning as executive director of the US Educational Foundation in Denmark (Fulbright Program), I have become president of the American Women's Club in Denmark which is affiliated with the Federation of American Women's Clubs Overseas. I find that volunteer work is harder than professional work, but we do much good: scholarship awards, philanthropy, and the like. Via FAWCO we are active in trying to promote voting rights for Americans overseas, are working at problems involving dual heritage, bi-lingualism, education in the US, etc."

Send in news of your family and activities you get involved in! I've just completed the requirements for teacher-librarian certification at Paterson State College, NJ, and will return to the Mahwah High School library. I've joined a number in that field in our class: Mildred Coats Bassett is at present reference librarian at Hartwick College; Katharine M. Holden retired from the Westchester Library System in 1967 and is now a library consultant, at present working about half time on a project for the Connecticut State Library; Virginia Haviland, head of the children's book section in the Library of Congress, participated in a summer workshop as an instructor.

At the annual class banquet in June, Eleanor Clarkson, class fund-raising representative, paid high tribute to her committee, and a look at class standings when the final report came in at midsummer emphasized the fact that it was praise well deserved. Our 71.8 final donor percentage was one of the top 10 in that long list of classes that now stretches almost 70 years. In the woman's class reports this is the significant measurement, for we are dependent on husbands' salaries, or earning at a traditionally lower level than male colleagues, and smaller in number, besides.

Eleanor also found it heartwarming in a year that our alma mater is staggering through a major crisis that so many classmates had faith in the soundness of its inner core, and continued to be willing to provide the moral and financial support to help the university weather it.

That hard-working committee was not listed in our Reunion program or elsewhere, and we thought you might like to know who shares with Eleanor the responsibility for our fine donor record: Helen Bruno, Cos Cob, Conn.; Margaret Stillman Deitrich, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mildred Jayne Gould, San Francisco, Cal.; Caroline Sutherland Gregg, Pittsford; Phyllis Wald Henry, Huntingdon, Pa.; Alice Goulding Herrmann, former class representative, still helping out, Babylon; Violet B. Higbee, Kingston, RI; Gladys Hesselbach Leonard, Flint, Mich.; Margaret White Martin, Ithaca; Ellen Mangan McGee, River Edge, NJ; Winifred Loeb Saltzman, Passaic, NJ; Hazel Shattuck Wood, Peekskill; and Alberta Francis Young, Arlington, Va. Of these, Phyllis, Margaret, Ellen, and Alberta attended Reunion to hear Eleanor's comments in person.

A reminder, as we begin our class Group Subscription and many of you are beginning to receive the ALUMNI NEWS: Word about your doings can only come out here, if it comes in up there, at 3710 Los Feliz Blvd., L.A. Please write about interests and activities, major and minor to you and yours, without questionnaires, or coaxing, or undue modesty. He is a past president of the Philadelphia Securities Assn. and the Bond Club. He is a member of the Raquet Club Philadelphia and Whilford Country Club.

Robert R. Sprole, 630 Highland Rd., Ithaca. For the record—three daughters, one son, four grandsons. Currently director of First National Bank of Ithaca, trustee of the new Tompkins Cortland Community College, director of WCNT-TV of Syracuse, director of Rotary and YMCA, president and chairman of Challenge Industries (a workshop for the handicapped), and president of Therm Inc. of Ithaca (manufacturer of Turbo machinery components). Two daughters are still in school: one at Syracuse U, the other at Penn Hall Girls School. All put up with by good wife Zelta (Kenfield) '31.

Dr. Henry C. Weisheit, Highway 9W, Selkirk, has two Cornell children. Daughter Dianne '66 is with the Peace Corps in Tunisia teaching English. Son Henry '68 is with the US Dept. of Agriculture in Albany.

Gordon J. Berry, 1725 Clarkstone Rd., Cleveland, Ohio, writes, "Merged my business and trying to learn the ropes of working for a boss."

Stanton Fowler, 8 Skiff Pkwy., North Haven, Conn., is senior engineer, building design, for the Southern New England Telephone Co. Stan writes that he finds it challenging trying to help others get into Secondary School Committee for several years. Wife Marion is secretary to associate librarian, manuscript dept., Yale's Sterling Memorial Library. Daughter Sara is married, and sons are at Bethany College in Bethany, WV. A second daughter, Susan, just graduated from Northfield School.

Frank Albanese, 1324 Elmira Rd., Newfield, went to Africa last July with wife Loe and son Jon. This was a special safari trip advertised in the ALUMNI NEWS and sponsored by Cornell and other Ivy League colleges.

Victor G. Anderson, Dancing Bear Rd., Rowayton, Conn., reports that his new three-dimensional picture business looks very promising and they have moved into larger quarters. Perhaps he will take our class picture at the 35th Reunion next June.

John P. Batchelar, 5539 Oaks St., Pittsburgh, Pa., is still in the sand business, producing molding sand for foundries in the Pittsburgh district. His oldest child is now Mrs. John D. Culbertson and is living in beautiful downtown Trumansburg. She is teaching in the Waterloo High School and her husband is in his first year of the Cornell Graduate School of Business. His oldest boy is now attending Tri-State College at Angola, Ind., and his youngest boy is a senior at Shady Side Academy in Pittsburgh. He and wife Larry enjoy their summer cottage at Point Chataqua whenever they can get there.

Our president, George A. Lawrence, has called a meeting of the Class Council to be held in Ithaca on Sat., Oct. 18. There will be the usual 8 a.m. breakfast session in the Statler as a warmup for the Harvard football game in the afternoon. Jack McManus is handling campus arrangements, including the usual night-before social gathering, with wives, at the Country Club of Ithaca, starting around 9 p.m. on Friday. All '36ers within shouting distance are expected to attend. The class events are tied in with the CU Council meetings which usually attract about eight classmates.

Walter B. Grimes attended Cornell Alumni U for one week in July and highly recommends the campus program. He was the only '36er enrolled during his week, but Herb Hoffman was scheduled to attend the final session in August. CAU opened in 1968 and Herb also attended then. Walt described the week in Ithaca as "most stimulating" and added, "We hope to go back next summer." He took along his wife and children, ages 11, 13, and 16, and said, "We hardly saw the kids, they were so busy with their own programs and with new-found friends."

The aforementioned Mr. Hoffman called your correspondent after his spring trip to Italy, reporting that he and Charlie Keller were unable to get together and had to settle for a telephone conversation. Herb is the current president of the Alumni Assn. of New York City, as well as a leading fund-raiser for Cornell.

Remember that recent blast by US Tariff Commission Chairman Stanley D. Metzger reported in this space with the prediction Stan must be planning to resign? Well, he did quit, with nearly four years to go before his term expired.

Chuck Lockhart spent a week in Mexico City last spring and had a reunion with Hank Godshall, whom he described as "Mr. Scott Paper in Mexico." They spent an evening together, with wives, and Chuck forwarded an unreproducible (color) picture showing the classmates behind Hank's bar.

It did not take long for Chicago to discover Charlie Dykes. He is the general chairman for the 1970 Heart Fund drive in the Chicago area. All he has to do is to top a 1968 record which produced 10 per cent more revenue than any previous year. Charlie is a vice president of US Gypsum Co., as well as a Cornell trustee.

Col. Kryder E. Van Buskirk, who spent three years with us before switching to Penn to get his MD, has been awarded the Legion of Merit for distinguished service as chief of urology at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for five years. Henry Untermeyer sent a postcard in August from Freeport, Bahamas. His message was: "This spot is like a year-round Sauna—with the wrong humidity." He also mentioned visits to New York, Bermuda, Nassau, and Miami Beach, after which he said, "San Francisco will look good."

To close on a sad note, Vertner S. Kenerson died suddenly on Aug. 8. A previously undiscovered stomach cancer cut him down after only a two-week illness. Vert was an Ithaca native and he had a lifelong interest in Cornell affairs. He lived in Vienna, Va., outside Washington.

To meet the October deadline, I'm hastily pecking this out in mid-August on Dilly's typewriter in Lockport on my way back to Ohio from a colossal '37 Mortar Board reunion at Fran White McMartin's delightful home on Lake Willoughby at Barton, Vt. More about that laugh-filled week next month, gals, when I get myself and my recollections and notes collected in one place. Meanwhile, let's catch up on the mail, shall we?

Sarah Thomas Curwood sent an announcement of the marriage of son Stephen on June 7, 1969, to Wendy Pamela Kellam at Cambridge, Mass. (Let's have some news about you, too, Sarah.)

Here's part of a letter from Marion Owen Kish: "All Kishes are thriving happily. Last fall our daughter, Karen, married an engineer, Victor Hodson, who happens to be British too. And our son, David, married his college sweetheart (U of Mass), Gail Monprode, from Livingston, NJ. Karen and Victor are enjoying a fascinating life in Tehran, Iran, where Victor is on a two-year engineering assignment. Karen is teaching English at the U of Tehran and at the Iran-America Society. David and his bride are at Ft. Lewis, Wash. He's an Army lieutenant. Our youngest, Jacqueline, is a happy, active high school sophomore and a real joy to her proud parents. On June 27, Al '39 and Jackie and I are flying to England. Will visit Ireland, Scotland, and Wales too. Since this is the first time back for yours truly (having come over on the Mayflower empty-nine years ago!) you can imagine how we are anticipating it. We enjoy living in Syracuse now and seem to thrive in the whirlwind of activities. Al is vice president-treasurer of Agway. We held Karen's wedding in Ithaca—our favorite Msgr. Donald Cleary, whom you must remember, married them in his St. Catherine of Siena Church on Hanshaw Rd. Do remember me to any of the jolly '37ers you may bump into."

Marion, I read all of your nice letter to the gals gathered in Vermont and they sent greetings right back to you and Al. And I do remember Father Cleary—especially the time he showed Clare McCann and me how to break into a car with a coat-hanger when I locked myself out of my '33 Plymouth "coupe" at a CURW Board meeting. Do you remember that little tan Plymouth "coupe"—it had "Free Wheeling!"—with Mary Couch sitting in the rumble seat singing "When we ride in the old machine" at the top of her lungs? We surely did cart a lot of stuff around in that rumble seat to class picnics, to the WAA cabin, to McCann's and Lauman's, to Peg Wilson's ('36) camp on Lake Cayuga, to Raven & Serpent initiation, etc.

Louise Davis wrote that her mother died last Christmas Eve. Many of you will remember Davy's mother from her visit to Cornell our senior year for the Model League of Nations meetings on campus and from visits to Davy's home in Hoboken when her Dad was president of Stevens Institute and they lived in the big old president's mansion on the campus high above the Hudson River.

(There must have been at least ten '37 gals having breakfast there one morning shortly after the end of World War II—we were there to see Windy Drake Sayer and her two tiny tots off to her family home in Bermuda later that day—when we had the unforgettable thrill of watching a large part of the US Naval fleet steaming up the Hudson while hundreds of tugs, other small craft, and factories blew their whistles in a wild "welcome home—well done!") Davy also wrote that she was planning to visit her brother, Nathaniel Davis, US Ambassador to Guatemala, last April. "I tried to visit him in Venezuela and in Bulgaria but both times he was transferred back to Washington before I got there." (Let us know if you make it this time, Davy.)

Peg Bryan Loveland wrote that she visited daughter Sue in Morgantown, NC, in September 1968 to welcome Kelly, her third granddaughter. She and Russ '36 planned to spend Christmas in San Francisco and "then on to the Phoenix area for a week of golf. Still enjoying our boat—in Canadian waters twice last summer."

Keep those cards and letters coming, gals.

I received a huge envelope of cherished mementoes from Eleanor Bahret Spencer the other day. Included were two plaid Glangarries (from '48 and '53 Reunions, remember?). Nice work cleaning out, and I heard she is househunting? Also received recently are pictures of the April luncheon group. In addition to those mentioned in the July NEWS were the following attendants: Bobbie Brannin Miller, Elsie Harrington Doolittle, Marcia Aldrich Lawrence, and Barbara Hunt Toner. The pics are great and have nothing whatever to do with a few of our class going on new diets! (But we could use, in more ways than one, a few of those Ithaca hills.)

Elaine Apfelbaum Keats reports that daughter Kathy, 17, is in Holland living with a family via Experiment in International Living. Daughter Nancy, 22, is studying in Rome for six weeks this summer. We thank Elaine for the April pictures and now let's all send her our class dues. Five dollars, please, to her at: 61 Everit Ave., Hewlett Bay Park, Hewlett, LI.

We have had word from Julie Robb Newman in Iran. She and Paul, PhD '37, traveled east in the States in February, stopping to see Betty Ladd Tate in Louisiana and visiting the Mardi Gras before departing for Paul's overseas appointment with IESC (see September NEWS). She returned home

FOUR GOOD REASONS FOR OWNING A CORNELL CAPTAIN'S CHAIR

Four good legs of northern hardwood, as sturdily dependable as the New England craftsmen who made them.

They symbolize the quality of the Cornell Captain's Chair they support—a chair fashioned in the old way, slowly and carefully, with a pride worthy of the Cornell Seal it bears.

in July and he is soon to join Julie. They reported that Iran was surely the example of today's contrasts, i.e., women in chadors standing next to others in mini skirts. They had some puzzlement in adjusting to time-tables of meals, store hours, and such. Guess it was all a great experience for both.

Jean Duncan Patterson, who attended the '58 Reunion, was then a WAVE CPO. In 1964 she was married to the Navy man she met while in Memphis. They are both retired and living there, after extensive tours of duty. "Pat" has grown children and Jean is enjoying knowing them.

This is the extent of the news and send yours now. I have had a busy week, with a three-day golf tournament (managed a win), house guests from St. Louis two days, wedding shower and preparations for October, mother-in-law visit, etc. So what is your excuse? I'm sure it is as good, so write.

After long and honorable service as your class correspondent Marion Putnam Finkill has retired and I will be taking over. Filling Put's shoes is a tremendous undertaking but with your help I will try. If all of you '39ers will send along to me whatever news you hear of classmates and, of course, all there is about yourselves and your families, this column will be assured of success.

Thirty-eight classmates attended our glorious 30th Reunion. All credit for its smooth sailing and warm, relaxed atmosphere must go to Betty Luxford Webster, our great Reunion chairman. She did a superb job. Our thanks to her and let me quote Luxy on Cornell Reunions: "It's hard to explain to those of you who do not return what it is like. Three or four days at Reunion is inexpensive, relaxing, comfortable, heart-warming, educational, and fun. You don't have to know anybody when you arrive; you'll know enough before you leave. Man, it's beautiful!" Luxie was re-elected Reunion chairman which insures that our 35th in June 1974 will be another tremendous success.

At our class meeting Betty Schaffer Bosson was re-elected class president, Barbara Babcock Hirshfeld was elected vice president, June Thorn Cobb will be our treasurer again, and Ruth Gold Goodman will be the Cornell Fund chairman. Ruth and her family are now residents of Ithaca. Lucky people. In appreciation for so many years of class service Gladys Frankle was elected life secretary of our class.

This was our first shared Reunion with the men of '39. I'd say that we, unanimously, thought it a successful innovation and one which should be repeated in 1974.

Betty Stocking retired July 1 after 19 years as head librarian at Ithaca High School. Her future plans include a trip to Greece and Turkey and far more time devoted to her hobbies of gardening, ceramics, and photography. Betty (Schaffer) and Al Bosson's daughter was married on June 21 at a lovely outdoor wedding at their home in Hartford.

Elaine Dunning Eskesen arrived breathless at Reunion. She had just come from her son Hal's graduation from Harvard. Traveling from Boston to Ithaca is no easier than it was in the '30's. Alice (Quinn) and her husband, Judge David Lee, spent the summer touring Ireland.

Olive Vroman Rockwell, our candidate for Traveler of the Year, sent us a postcard of an attractive couple from the Fiji Islands. Somehow they didn't look all that different from some of the students we see today—it was hard to tell the boy from the girl, the outfits were really "with it," and their hair was shorter than some we've seen in the local shopping plaza.

Don't you believe that this column is being written by the gentleman named above—he went to Lake Tahoe. We are approaching the deadline so the "ghost in the background" takes pen in hand. The gambling risks that he and his wonderful Sis might take while vacationing are not nearly as great as the one resulting from his leaving this bit of unfinished business behind!

Each month, Wright goes through considerable antics to get his hand on a photograph to include in the column. In his absence, we received some photographs that were taken during a recent interview on "Pizzazz" Makes Difference" and so you may judge for yourself how he has weathered the years, one is being included.

Arthur H. Schatz, 77 Norwood Rd., West Hartford, Conn., is a busy guy. Art writes that son Bob will be a freshman at Cornell in September, joining daughter Ellen who is in the Class of '70. Art was elected secretary-treasurer and member of the executive committee of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences and of the executive committee of the international organization. Art says that the organization is made up of a great bunch of guys in 77 countries, exchanging information for the good of mankind. Congratulations!

Heard from Dr. Melvyn Johnson who writes that he was recently elected president of the staff assn. of Butler Hospital, Providence. Mel is active in the Cornell Club of Rhode Island as vice-president and lives at 206 Governor St., Barrington, RI.

Had an interesting note from Hyman M. Lockwood of 177 Milk St., Boston, Mass., regarding his son, Richard '66, MNS '68. Dick is on a two-year tour of duty in Vietnam with the International Voluntary Services, a non-profit organization which provides small-scale technical assistance in developing countries.

From Mexico come word that Robert P. Ogden is heading up the Latin American operations for Pennwalt Chemicals. Son Bob is a junior at Cornell and daughters Deb and Polly are attending the U of Colorado. The Ogdens reside at Lluvia 239, Mexico 20, D.F., Mexico.

Bill Fisher advises that he has moved to Pebble Beach, Cal., and is practicing law in Carmel. He stated that he is looking for other Cornellians in the area. Please tell him where you are by writing to Box 404.

Reunion chairman Pete Wood advised that a welcome addition to his committee is George Walker. George practices general surgery in Fitchburg, Mass., and resides with his family at 269 Prospect St. He is also a consultant in surgery at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston and is affiliated with the Boston Surgical Society.

As reported in previous columns, Pete Wood has been talking about plans for a Reunion tour. The advance publicity has already drawn responses from classmates and there seems to be a great deal of interest. During a telephone conversation with Mr. Wood this morning, he advised that by the time you read this column, you will have received the Reunion letter. Please respond promptly to this letter so the groups can be formed—you all know that a lot of advance preparation goes into the planning of a successful tour and the Class of '40 wants nothing less than the best!

By this time, you must have marked your calendar for the event of the century—the 30th Reunion of the Class of '40—as a reminder, this will take place on June 11, 12, and 13, 1970.

If you are in New York on Oct. 2, plan to attend the round table luncheon of the Class of '40 at the Cornell Club.

Well, your vacation over, children and grandchildren back in school, and ready to start your fall program? Time has passed so fast for me, as I write this in mid-August I can't remember spring; when you read this in October I will have forgotten most of summer. I should have been twins.

To date, our second year on the News & Dues program has brought me replies from a total of 47 gals. Forty-three "repeaters" heard from include Lucy Rathbun Antoni, Priscilla Coffin Baxter, Cornelia Snell Bensley, Muriel Glick Brill, Elizabeth Schmeck Brown, Martha Willerton Bruce, Leigh Grimes Colver, Jean Rodger Condon, Elizabeth F. We're happy to welcome four who are new to the plan: Wanda Wyler LaSalle, Esther Smith Nichols, Rebecca Foote Urraro, and Kathryn Maggio Whelan.

I received a brief note from Marge Baker Tummons telling of their move to Germany for about a year. Their address: 75 Karlsruhe, Marie Curie Strasse 24, Germany. She gave no news but I hope to have some in a later News. She did say she hoped they would return "in time for our 30th Reunion." How could we have a real Reunion without Marge?

Shirley Richmond Gartlir has asked that I include a note of thanks from her to all the wonderful people who had worked with her for the Cornell Fund.

In a nice chat with Marion Wightman Potter I learned about her really Cornellian family. Son James '65, a Lt. j.g. in the Navy, will enter U of Denver this fall for studies toward an MBA degree. Daughter Susan '66 received her master's in special education at U of Minnesota in 1968, and is teaching part-time in a school for retarded children. Susan's husband, Larry Newman '65, is working for his doctorate at U of Minnesota. Son Robert '69 is returning this fall for further study. Youngest son, Thomas, will be a junior at Clarkson College of Tech; daughters Mary Jane and Janet will be a senior and junior respectively, both at Homer High School. The Potters' address: Box 66, Homer.

Lucy Rathbun Antoni wrote from "The Eddy," Hancock, Me., where they were spending the summer. She left her position as director of meals on wheels, as her husband was given a six month leave from Syracuse U, where he is a professor of civil engineering. She said they were enjoying the coast of Maine, the weather was "sunny and sparkling, the lobsters and clams superb."

'40 MS—The new Ambassador to the Republic of the Philippines is Henry Alfred Byroade who has been with the State Dept. since 1949. His most recent post was as State Dept. and Foreign Affairs Advisor to the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

Despite the memories of bleak days in April and the shadow which cast itself over Cayuga, fall is with us again with new faces in Ithaca. Band music will fill the air and once again prowess on the football field will assume a certain importance. Perhaps we of '41 were too heavily blessed with the carefree days of the big band era and post-depression and pre-war days. Anyhow, many of us hope that the college community will not be completely entangled in the morass of social adjustments to the exclusion of many of the endearing facets of college life that for us spell Cornell.

The university is "Our Cornell" to more than just undergraduates. She is alma mater to some 100,000 men and women who climbed the slope as the chimes rang out before 8 o'clock classes. These are the loyal Cornellians who still feel that "While breezes blow, or waters flow, we'll honor thee, Cornell."

Class treasurer Reed Seely (picture) has been appointed manager of the Wamsutta Club in New Bedford, Mass. Reed still maintains his home at 84 Rocky Neck Ave., Gloucester, Mass., and your dues checks should continue to be addressed there. Incidentally, Reed lives right on the water and this summer enjoyed another great season of boating, one of his favorite hobbies. For six years Reed successfully managed the Harvard Club of Boston, improving its services and cuisine. Mrs. Seely is Helen M. Strobe of Cranston, RI. They have a daughter, Pamela, who was graduated from Vernon Court Junior College and now attends Salva Regina College in Rhode Island. Reed is a member of the Club Managers Assn. of America and is on the board of directors of its New England chapter. In February he was featured speaker before the national convention in Dallas. Our 25th Reunion chairman also comes from a line of distinguished Cornellians including his father, the late Hart Seely '09; his aunt, the late Grace Seely '05 (we remember her as head of Sage Hall); his uncle, the late Charles A. Seely '04, and his sister, Constance Seely Lane '37.

Stevenson W. Close, Cool Branch Farm, Churchville, Md., tells us he was married in January to Beverly Michael of Aberdeen, Md. Steve's first wife, Betty, passed away in June 1967. Son Steve Jr. returns to the Ag school as a junior. Oldest daughter, Sally, is a nurse at Doctor's Hospital in Coral Gables, Fla., while son Michael is a junior at St. James School in Hagerstown, Md. Says Steve, "I am in the farming and real estate business and recently saw a picture of Jim Fortiner of Ft. Myers, Fla., in the Farm and Land Realtor magazine."

Attention Hotel School alumni: In your summer mail you should have found a notice of the passing of Prof. H. B. Meek and a suggestion that you perpetuate his memory by contributing to the H. B. Meek Visiting Professorship. Your check should be sent to Dean Robert A. Beck, Statler Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, payable to Cornell University-H. B. Meek Fund. The Ithaca Journal wrote, "His colleagues and friends will miss him, but he will not be forgotten. The School of Hotel Administration is his monument."

Jean Mackie Furgol of 45 Leland Rd., Chestnut Hill, Mass., reports that her son is now about six inches taller than she is. Writing in January, she reported the death of Ruth Marshall's husband, Dr. Richard G. Kibbey in Tuscaloosa, Ala., where they lived.

Jean R. Humphrey is assistant law librarian at the U of Georgia Law School. She lives at 4140 E. 4th St., Tucson, Ariz. She seldom makes it back east—spends her vacations in Mexico when possible.

Betty Dicker Kaplan, 37 Lakeland Rd., Staten Island, welcomed her first grandchild on Aug. 30, 1968: Elizabeth Hilary Zoller, the daughter of their daughter, Dorothy, living in Chicago. Their other daughter, Barbara, went to Northwestern and enjoyed being near enough to be a "doting aunt."

Dues, but no news, from Evelyn Wahl Frank, 155 Monte Rey Dr. S., Los Alamos, NM, and Marjorie Brass Greene, 198 Scott Ave., Syracuse.

We had an impromptu and fun reunion on Wednesday night, July 9, with Capt. Kirk Hershey and his wife, Marge (VanBuren) '42. Leo '42 and I hadn't seen them since 1946 in San Francisco, and we had great fun "catching up." Kirk has three more years till retirement from the Navy and they both look wonderful. The Hersheys live at 915 S. Lee St. in Alexandria, Va. Joining us for cocktails and dinner were Walt Sickles and his wife, Jean (Haupin) '43, and Bob Tallman and his wife Claire. We find this one of the distinct advantages of living in Ithaca and extend to all classmates and Cornellians a cordial invitation to "drop in."

"Great to be a student again," says class president Grace O'Dare Kimball. She is working for her master's in library science at Case-Western Reserve in Cleveland. The Kimballs live at 18102 Clifton Rd., Lakewood, Ohio. They are fortunate enough to have two of their children at Cornell—Clark '70 and Spencer '73.

Agnes Glueck Manston, 630 Carleton Ave., Claremont, Cal., teaches math and is the head of the math dept. She too had an experience of being a student when she had an NSF grant, went to the U of Redlands, and "worked harder than I ever did at school." They have two sons, Peter, entering college, and Gregg, a junior in high school. The four of them spent July and August in Spain and Portugal.

Ruth S. Puff lives at 98 Whiting Lane, West Hartford, Conn., and is still doing school social work in the Hartford public schools. She and Kay Barnes spent their spring vacation camping in the Virgin Islands.

Another faculty member is Estelle Richmond Robinson who is assistant director of the Bureau of Community Services at Rutgers U. They are developing a program of urban Extension in an effort to bring university resources to help solve urban problems. Her husband is a pediatrician. They live at 835 State St. in Trenton, NJ. Their daughter, Amy, attends Sarah Lawrence; Joy is at the U of Chicago; and Eve is in high school.

Charlotte Kovitz Schaffner is a "retired bacteriologist who collects antique glass paperweights"—an exciting hobby. They have lived in Denver for 17 years. Their present address is 3941 W. 78 Way, Westminster, Col. Their children are Susan, 9, and Bill, 13. She adds, "If they ever go east, I hope it will be to go to Cornell."

This is your deadline-misser at last. Forgive, please. To get right on with it: Edy Newman Weinberger wrote me way back in June to report that she had attended daughter Jane's graduation and it was "just beautiful." There was no jarring note nor evidence of the turmoil that had occurred several weeks earlier. Glad to hear it, Edy. I still love the place myself. Edy says Barbara Liveright Resek was there to see son Jim graduate from Engineering School, her younger son, Tom, having just completed his freshman year at the U of Wisconsin. Also Ann Morganstern Cohen "watched" her eldest son graduate.

We sadly note the passing of Marjorie Cooke Pace in March. Caroline Norfleet Church writes that Marjorie was at the '63 Reunion and seemed her usual peppy self.

Marjorie Reed Sheffer wrote me in April from Helsinki that Ann Hanchouski Compton lives at 10925 Dayton St., Silver Springs, Md. The older of their two daughters is a student at Oberlin. The Sheffers returned to Burnt Hills in August.

Dottie Kellogg Conti writes that she went to Japan last November with Lou '41, had a fabulous time, and they are planning to go to Expo 70 next spring.

Mary Jo Borntreger Ray has a daughter at Miami U in Oxford, Ohio, and Mary Jane (daughter #2) is at Marietta College in the Buckeye State. Debbie is still at home.

My used-to-be Haddonfield neighbor, Shirley Shapiro Woods, is now in New England where hubby Bill is a staff scientist with Honeywell. Their daughter, Barbara, is a senior at Syracuse, and Stephen is a soph at the Wharton School. Shirley joined the League of Women Voters and "wishes everyone would."

Alice Kincaid Cochran writes that daughter Jane graduated from Cornell in '68 and married Robert Richards '69. Son Thomas Fletcher Cochran II is a member of the Class of '71. Two more sons are at Summit High School in Summit, NJ.

Got lots more news but must get this off or I'll be off everybody's list.

People passing through Philadelphia (writers state that nobody ever stops here) might think that the city is in the late summer doldrums. But below the surface is the rumble of the Cornell Secondary School Committee warming up for another year of heavy activity. During recent years it has been a leader among all committees, and this year it should reach even greater heights under the chairmanship of Mort Goldenberg. Other classmates among the 60 Cornellians working with Mort are Dick Hillman, Peter Miller, and your correspondent. In Connecticut, new president Art Kesten has been chairman of the Fairfield County committee for the past two years. Many others in the class have been mentioned in previous NEWS columns. But we don't have a record of all '44 presently active on secondary school committees, like Alan Kaplan, Fred Bailey, and Ray Van Sweringen. If each of you who is active will drop a note to your correspondent, or mention it when returning the notice with 1970 dues later in the year, a list of the '44s taking part in this most important program will be included in an early 1970 class column.

The promise to include something in a column six months hence is a good lead to our next two delayed "news" items. Reunion dominated the column to such an extent that a backlog of personal news items sent in by classmates has developed. Despite the delays, the items are still news to most classmates. So we'll report that two '44s were named to new positions early in the year by W. R. Grace & Co.'s polyfibrin div. William H. Starr (picture, left) was named vice president; principally, he will be responsible for the division's automotive products. Bill has been with the company since 1951 and served in a number of management positions in Grace's Dewey & Almy Chemical div. He has four sons. The Starrs' address is Shattuck St., Pepperell, Mass. Also promoted (and also pictured, right) is James F. Murphy Jr. who is director of engineering & purchasing. Previously he had been chief engineer of the company's Dewey & Almy Chemical div. He joined Dewey & Almy in 1946 and had a major part in the design, building, and expansion of the company's manufacturing facilities. His wife is Ruth Wall '45. The Murphys have two daughters and live at 310 Singletary Lane, Framingham, Mass.

On the campus, Cushing Phillips Jr. was named director of operations in Cornell's Dept. of Buildings & Properties. He joined the department in 1965 as a staff engineer, and was named assistant director of operations in 1968. (Among others happy with the promotion was Reunion chairman Art Kesten, who found Buildings & Properties particularly receptive to '44 requests June 12-15!) Prior to returning to Ithaca he served in the Civil Engineers Corps of the Navy. His assignments included duty at Guantanamo, Cuba; the Marine Corps Air Station at El Toro, Cal.; and as assistant director of the Shore Establishments Div. of the Navy Bureau of Yards & Docks in Washington, DC. Cushing lives with his wife and four children at 1240 Ellis Hollow Rd., Ithaca.

Charles H. Hoens, 350 N. Wyoming Ave., South Orange, NJ, is a trustee of the Masonic Home & Charity Foundation, and this year was elected president of the home. This is a home for 225 aged. It has 160 employees and an annual budget of $1.2 million. With this in addition to his law practice, it appears Charlie will have two full-time jobs this year.

John W. Goepel sends a new address: 46 Litchfield Rd., Watertown, Conn. (Memories—Jack turning in shoes for repair at Ft. Bragg, in the summer of 1943, and getting back new pairs. The Army could never figure out how Jack could march and hike his way through two pairs of "indestructible" GI shoes during 17 weeks of basic training. But he did.)

Phil McGinnis was sorry to miss Reunion. And he is losing one reason for visiting New York's Southern Tier; his daughter is transferring from Elmira College to the U of Delaware. But keeping up the Cornell tradition are Norm Brandt's daughter and Dick Best's son. Dick comments, "A third generation legacy made it!"

Dr. Martin Rackow's daughter is going to Hofstra, but Martin is still a Cornellian: "The ALUMNI NEWS is excellent—keep up the good work." Thanks. We'll try!

With our 25th Reunion a most happy memory we look to the 30th, eagerly but not hurriedly. L. Sigrid Henley Holliday might find her daughter in the '69 tent. Kathy received her AB in June. Older daughter Lynne '68 is teaching at Kenmore Junior High, Kenmore, while husband Ben Lowenstein '68 serves in the Army at Ft. Sill, Okla. Twins Rob and Jan, 14, and Blake, 13, are junior high students in North Springfield, Pa.

Blossom Penney Loper writes from 2634 SW 60, Oklahoma City, that her two sons are enrolled at Oklahoma State U and her daughter is a high school senior.

From Helen Couch Darling in Odessa comes word of her newly acquired title of medical technologist.

Dorothy James Baker and husband Seward J., MD '46, recently welcomed home their son, Bradley, who had been stationed in Korea with the Second Military Intelligence Detachment. Bradley was married in 1966. The Bakers' address is 195 W. Mt. Pleasant Ave., Livingston, NJ.

Margaret Pearce Addicks, your erstwhile correspondent, reports that son Walter is studying civil engineering at Vanderbilt U. Son Tom is a senior at the Gunnery. Having served long and well as social scribe, Peg has been rewarded with election to high office in the new combined Class of '44 organization. She hopes you will approve and encourage her replacement by sending news.

Robert E. Heilman was elected president of the National Restaurant Assn. during the National Restaurant-Hotel-Motel Convention at Chicago's International Amphitheatre on May 27. He is the president of Heilman's Restaurants, Clearwater Beach, Fla., and is the second generation of his family in the restaurant business. Bob has served as vice president, director, and chairman. He also served as chairman of the public relations and membership committees.

Heilman's Restaurants have spanned nearly 50 consecutive years of operation in both Ohio and Florida. The original Heilman's was opened in Lorain, Ohio, in 1920, by his father, the late Ross B. Heilman. In addition to working in the restaurant from an early age, Bob attended the Hotel School. He has served as president of the Florida Restaurant Assn., as president of the Clearwater Chamber of Commerce, and is a member of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen. Bob has been honored by Hospitality magazine and is a member of the Restaurant Hall of Fame. Bob and his wife, Nelle, have four children: Nancy, Pamela, Barbara, and Robert Jr.

The architectural firm of Arthur E. It was decided to hold this type of a mini-reunion more often and interest more people to come. I hope that the next time we will have twice as many people. In addition to our alumni and families, our son, Michael '73, brought two Cornell classmates along." The picnic was held at Karl's house, 626 Sheridan Ave., Plainfield, NJ.

Victor Hershman, 71 Sandberg Dr., Sacramento, Cal., writes, "My wife, Maria, and I, together with our two boys, ages 8 and 6, just completed a rewarding three years in Germany and Spain for the Air Force. We now return to our home in Sacramento, where I will resume my position as budget officer at the Sacramento Air Depot. Although I have not been able to attend Reunion due to distance rather than lack of desire, my wife and I are planning to make the big trip for the class's 25th Reunion in 1972. I hope lots of others make a special effort to attend this notable milestone."

Edward S. Sharafanowich has been named director of planning and development international by Gibbs & Hill, a New York consulting engineering firm. Ed joined Gibbs & Hill in 1968 as a planning and development engineer. Previously he served as European marketing manager for American Standard, which has manufacturing companies in 10 European countries. Gibbs & Hill is engaged in engineering projects on five continents in the fields of steam-electric power generation (including nuclear), transmission, rail and rapid transit, water and wastes engineering, and industrial facilities. Ed is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and lives on Cutler Rd., Greenwich, Conn.

Glenn W. Cline, formerly of Jamestown, became the agricultural div. leader and staff coordinator for the Tompkins County Extension Service on Aug. 1. His major responsibility will be in resource development. Glenn was assistant agricultural agent in Chautauqua County from 1947 to 1953, associate agent there from then until 1964, and agricultural div. leader from that time until his new appointment. He and wife Patricia have moved to Ithaca. They have a son, Theodore, who is a high school senior, and a married daughter.

Football News

■ NEW HAVEN: The Cornell Club of New Haven will sponsor a tent for Cornellians at the Cornell-Yale football game in New Haven on Oct. 25. The tent will be open before the game, at half-time, and after the game, and will provide glasses, ice, and mixers for a BYO bar. Admission will be $1.50 per person, $2.50 per couple; children under 18 with parents will not be charged.

NASSAU AND SUFFOLK COUNTY: The Cornell Clubs of Nassau and Suffolk County will sponsor a trip to the Cornell-Yale football game on Sat., Oct. 25, and will provide bus transportation and special seating. Alumni interested in the trip should call Jim Hutchison '47 at 516-PI 2-2835 before Oct. 9, 1969.

PHILADELPHIA: Alumni in the Philadelphia area who cannot attend the Cornell-Penn game at Franklin Field will be able to listen to the game over WCAU Radio.

From Lois Rabenstein Rochat, RD 3, Cortland, comes word: "I completed an MS at Cortland in 1965 and now teach first grade in Dryden Central School. We have four children—the eldest, Charles III, 19, in the USAF; Robert, 16, Jeannine, 13, Tommy, 12, are in school. We're looking forward to a family project of skiing this winter."

Carol Cole Rothenberg, 62 Birchall Dr., Scarsdale, sold the Park Nursery School to a Montessori school in the summer of 1967 and "since that time I have been working as a project associate on the Beginning Reading Project, a research project at Teachers College, Columbia U, financed by the Center for Urban Education. The project hopes to identify the best method of teaching reading to disadvantaged children. Our subjects are 7,000 pupils in the New York City public schools."

If you want to sit with your classmates at the football games, remember to attach a note to your ticket application, addressed to Pat Filley, requesting "seating with the Class of '48 group." Pat very kindly groups all these applications for our convenience. This will help you avoid the possibility of being lost in a group who are under 30 (not to be trusted) or over 60 (who don't trust us). There should be a good '48 turnout in Ithaca on Oct. 11 for Homecoming, and at New Haven on Oct. 25 when we play that boys' school.

The last time we saw Peter McTague was at the ticket counter at the Plattsburgh airport six years ago. Then, just recently, he walked into the Admiral's Club at JFK on his way to San Francisco. (Moral: The most likely place to meet classmates in this day and age is at airline terminals.) Pete has been busy since leaving the Hill. He has graduate degrees in law and business administration. His management consultant work for Gilbert Associates in Reading, Pa., keeps him moving so often that he is known around home as "the phantom."

Congratulations to our ex-president, Bob Colbert, who was appointed vice president of the Savings Bank of Tompkins County in June, and to our treasurer, Joe Komaromi, who was appointed assistant administrator of Tompkins County Hospital in May. We hope the two of you do not have to help each other on business matters.

Girard S. Haviland is now manager of the equipment div. of Loctite Corp., Newington, Conn. Since graduation, Girard's career has been devoted to "friction." At Jacobs Manufacturing Co., where he previously held forth, he was instrumental in developing many new products, including the Cummins Diesel Brake and a new anti-skid brake control. Now at Loctite he continues his campaign to develop friction products which will guarantee "that absolutely nothing moves." The five Havilands live in West Hartford, Conn.

John F. Vance is now group vice president for McGraw-Hill in charge of "school publishing." John has been associated with McGraw-Hill for 19 years with time out as an Air Force officer in the Korean War. Royal M. Douglass has been with Babcock & Wilcox for 21 years and was recently named assistant manager of the Naval Nuclear Components Dept. at B&W's power generation headquarters in Barberton, Ohio. With wife Ingrid and three children he lives in Bath, Ohio.

John C. Agathon should be living in the New York area now, having moved from Charlotte, NC. He was appointed corporate director of management development of Celanese Corp. at its NYC headquarters last fall. Lucius B. Donkle has been manager of development and engineering for In-terlake Steel Corp., Riverdale, Ill., for a year now. He lives with wife and three children in Park Forest, Ill.

If you have a cow which you desire to put in a family way, contact Frederick A. Buschner, now regional sales manager in the Northeast for American Breeders Service. Fred was recently promoted to this position after breaking all the previous insemination records in Wisconsin and northern Michigan. His firm takes care of 1½ million cows per year. The five Buschners now live in Windsor, Conn.

Our class treasury operated in the black last year thanks to all you duespayers. A total of 300 paid their dues and receive this magazine—22 per cent of the class. The best support from all classes between 1938 and 1958 was from '38 where 36 per cent of the men paid their dues. We should be able to match them.

Be sure to send in news of yourself and your family when you send your dues.

With the closing date of mid-July for the September news column, we were unable to focus on the fall schedule of events in time to announce plans for football games last month.

Oct. 11 is Homecoming and the Class of '49 has a bloc of seeworthy seats (somewhere near the 50-yard line). We also plan to join the group cocktail party after the game at the Hotel Statler. In addition, the usual busy university weekend calendar, alumni luncheon, and Big Red Barn open house will provide interim activities.

The Yale game at New Haven on Oct. 25 will be the scene of another '49er meeting. Two years ago we participated in a hospitality tent near the Yale Bowl itself. But most '49ers preferred their own tailgate parties, so the tent facilities were not heavily patronized. No tent this year. However, we will have bloc seating and informal tailgating get-togethers in the parking lot off Derby Ave. near the armory. We hope to see our membership from Westchester and Fairfield Counties turn out en masse.

Of course, the big news about one of our classmates is that Norm Baker was almost successful in navigating Thor Heyerdahl's papyrus reed ship to Central America. Unfortunately, the venture had to be abandoned 600 miles east of the Barbados as the ship was badly waterlogged and sharks made underwater repairs too dangerous. We hope to run an extensive account of this adventure in a later column or perhaps as a CAN feature.

James B. Schryver (picture) has been appointed sales manager for the commercial construction div. of Owens-Corning Fibreglas. Jim has been with Owens-Corning since 1952. His new appointment is in addition to his responsibility as branch manager in San Francisco. His home address is 108 Ardmore Rd., Larkspur, Cal.

Public Service Electric & Gas Co. announces the appointment of Frederick A. Christiana to controls engineer in the electric engineering dept. Fred joined PSE&G upon graduation in 1949. He also served as a pilot with the Air Force from 1940 to 1945. His home is located at 50 S. Munn Ave., East Orange, N.J.

Ray-O-Vac div. of ESB Inc. announces the appointment of John M. Bilhorn as manager of the materials engineering dept. He, his wife, and five children live at Rte. 3, Highway 73, Edgerton, Wis.

The Wall Street Journal reported recently that F. Joseph Van Poppelen was assuming the responsibilities of general manager of Fairchild Camera & Instrument's semiconductor div. According to the article, the division's net sales for 1968 were $99 million. Prior to joining Fairchild, Joe was director of business & planning for ITT Corp. The best address we have for him is the Fairchild Camera & Instrument Corp., 464 Ellis St., Mountain View, Cal.

From the lively world of life insurance, it was announced that Willard G. Eldred, 103 Kendall Rd., Kendall Park, NJ, has been promoted to counsel by Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York. Arthur M. Wood, 3 Putters Rd., Succasunna, NJ, has been promoted to associate director of claims by the Prudential Ins. Co.

I guess I should start drumming up our 20th Reunion this June. As this column was prepared in early August, a lot of the developments have not been ironed out, but Anne Johnson and Mike McHugh, who are both in Ithaca, have promised us an outstanding job as Reunion chairmen if you will promise to come to Ithaca in June of 1970.

Rodney C. Leland, 60 Massey Pl. SW., Calgary, Alberta, Canada, has been elected vice president of Tenneco Oil & Minerals, moving to Calgary from Midland, Texas, where he had been district exploration superintendent for Tenneco. He will continue to be responsible for the company's exploration activities.

Maj. Paul J. Gruber, 94-1015 Lumiaina St., Wapahu, HI, completed Texas A & M graduate school in August 1967: MBA with computer science option. Present assignment, with wife Shirley and four children, at Pacific Air Forces Command Headquarters, working in area of computer support of operations in Southeast Asia. Hawaii sounds like a good assignment!

Walt Jensen, 244 Colonial Rd., New Canaan, Conn., informs us that we were in error recently in indicating he had been transferred back East to New Jersey after 15 years in California. He lives in Connecticut. He works in the New York office of Reliance Electric as regional sales manager.

G. G. Tenney was elected a divisional manager to corporate vice president in the Capitol Foundry div. of Midland-Ross Corp., in Phoenix, Ariz. Capitol Foundry manufactures grinding balls and related castings for the copper mining and cement industries.

William P. Yetter, 933 Cancho Dr., Whittier, Cal., tells us, "This was the year I got what I wanted: an Alfa Romeo sports car after about 15 years of kicking tires and after four lovely daughters and a son, William Paul, born June 24, 1968."

Anson R. Stone, Ridge Mobile Estates, Holley, after spending a cool winter in Mesena working on the repair of one of the locks there, was transferred to a Rochester job in April. His old roommate, Al De Young, stopped by to see him this summer. He is working for Erdman & Anthony, consulting engineers, who also happen to have the inspection on the same lock job.

Wayne H. Friedrich, 96 Mariner Cir., Trumbull, Conn., has been named publicity chairman of the Cornell Club of Fairfield County. He says he has a great program this year and urges all '50s to attend.

Walter Spalding Jr., 26677 Waterbury Cir., N. Olmsted, Ohio, in full-time practice, is building a new home. Walt says serving as city prosecutor has kept him out of mischief during the past year. For those who like camping and enjoy doing something a little different on their vacation, he recommends a trip to the Salmon River near Sunbeam, Idaho, where his whole family tried, in vain, to strike it rich panning for gold. Even though they didn't bring home much gold, the trout fishing made the effort more than worthwhile.

Marshall and Harriett Washburn Pellar have recently opened a Mexican restaurant in LaJolla, Cal., as one of their many business ventures. Harriett told me when I saw her in La Jolla last winter that she and Marshall didn't like any of the Mexican restaurants in town so they decided to open their own. It's called Su Casa ("your house"), specializes in Sonora-style cooking (which the Pellars describe as milder and more subtle than conventional Mexican cooking) and sounds elegant indeed (its decor was inspired by a 16th century hacienda). The Pellars moved from Chicago to LaJolla several years ago and live at 7145 Country Club Dr.

The class again seems to be engaged in one of its periodic movings-about. "We moved again last summer," writes Jane Wigsten McGonigal, "as husband Dick '51, commander in the Navy Chaplain Corps, returned from two years in Vietnam, where he was stationed with Marines in I Corps. We now live on base at Quantico, Marine duty again, as Dick is teaching at Command and Staff College here. We are all very pleased to be under one roof again." Jane's address is 4435-B, MCB; Quantico, Va.

Dottie Patterson Dodds writes, "We moved to DeForest, Wis., in the summer of 1968. Our daughter, Mikey, is a sophomore at Kirkland College in Clinton, and our son, Ralph, is in the freshman class at Purdue this year. Two boys, Rick, 8, and Bert, 13, are still home. We live just a few miles from Madison. Should any Cornellians come this way, look us up!" Dottie's address is simply Box 377, DeForest, Wis.

Our Cornell Fund representative, Midge

Downey Sprunk, has moved to 6110 Lorcom Ct. in West Springfield, Va. Maj. Ellen Gregory, one of our nurses, has been re-assigned from Hamilton Air Force Base in California to Torrejon Air Base in Spain.

Natalie McWilliams Straub has both a new address and a new name: Mrs. Perry Cobb. She writes, "In 1968 I attended summer school at Cornell and worked at the State 4-H Club office. It was a very busy summer, ending with nine days at the State Fair in Syracuse. On Nov. 24 I was married to Perry Cobb, a landscape gardener. After a trip to Boston, Maine, and Nova Scotia, we returned to his home at 559 Mill Dam Rd. in Stone Ridge. I'm still teaching home economics at the Bailey Junior High School in Kingston and have been taking courses at Albany to get my certification in guidance. Recent extracurricular activities include singing in the chorus of 'Finian's Rainbow,' put on by a local dramatic club."

As expected, some of the news returns express strong reactions to the "spring uprising." I am in sympathy with all who wish to be heard but agree with the ALUMNI NEWS staff recommendations that this column is probably not the place for the airing of these views. Consequently, if I gloss lightly over what was an emotional release for you, at least recognize that this stance was deliberate, right or wrong.

Of interest to me in connection with the above thought were two notes from overseas classmates. Charles Busch, with two more years to go in the Middle East before returning stateside, writes, "The American paper reports on the proliferation of riots and other forms of violence in the States make the local forms of intrigue seem peaceful by comparison." Thomas Blohm in Caracas says although few details were given, the pictures made it look bad—and sad.

Our military classmates are faithful news contributors. Lt. Col. Guy deChadenedes returned last March from duty in Vietnam. The first six months there, writes Guy, were with the pacification effort; the second half of the tour as IG for the advisory effort. His new assignment is with Headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs. Maj. Ed Young was chief, military pay, for Northern California until last April. He then attended a 12-week professional military comptroller course at Maxwell AFB in Montgomery, Ala. Ed says wife Norma and their girls are fine and were looking forward to summer. A news release announces Lt. Col. Dick Manion was awarded a Certificate of Achievement for meritorious service as author-instructor at the US Army Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

The ALUMNI NEWS staff forwarded the Ithaca Journal coverage of Louis Esterbrook's marriage to Linda Lee Adams of Ithaca. They honeymooned on an extended motor trip to the West Coast. Lou has his master's from RPI and is pursuing his doctorate at the same school. He is an advanced engineering analyst with GE in Schenectady.

I received another news clipping—this time from the Dayton Journal-Herald on John Slish. John recently opened the Pressure Wash Service, a unique firm which washes grocery carts. Seems John did this to help put himself through Cornell. He has been with a janitor supply firm since graduation, but somehow never lost sight of the need for the wash service. Now, with over two years behind him, he reports "it beats working for someone else."

Homecoming

Cornell vs. Princeton

Bob Ackerly sent a nice note, repeated here in its entirety. "After almost six years here in Southern California, we are getting quite firmly entrenched. My position, as assistant to the vice president for academic affairs, keeps me quite busy at San Diego State College (23,000 students) but I still find time to play tennis twice a week all year long. I have maintained an active status in the Air Force reserve and am now a major. My wife, Lin, keeps busy with substitute teaching, civic activities, and keeping the household functioning smoothly. Dan, 10, is in fifth grade and now that the hockey season is over has turned to Little League baseball. Wendy, 8, is in third grade and active in Brownies. All of us are looking forward to another summer of camping, hiking, and traveling.

"Dick Darby is on our college faculty as professor in marketing. We get together now and then to talk either about Cornell days or to play bridge and discuss current affairs."

Two other classmates in education wrote notes with their dues returns. Edgar Abram is assistant principal of Windsor Central High School in Ouaquaga. His activities include public relations chairman for NYS Teachers Assn., Academy of Model Aeronautics, assistant golf coach, and the Alumni Secondary School Committee. Jim Gallup is guidance counselor at East Aurora Junior High School. His wife, Celia, is also in education as a reading specialist for Iroquois Central School in Elmira. They have a 16-year-old son and 13-year-old daughter. Jim lends encouragement by adding he appreciates the ALUMNI NEWS.

Tinker Williams Conable sent a good report of a meeting of the Washington-Baltimore-Wilmington branch of Cornell '51, which was held June 7 at her home at 5800 Kennedy Dr., Chevy Chase, Md. Joan Koelsch Ehn is back in Washington, temporarily anyway, as husband Dick is still in the Army. Ellen Bohall Andrews lives at 4022 25th Rd., N. Arlington, Va., and is still going to school. Terry Geherin Requardt is enjoying married life and living in Baltimore.

Arlene Getz Solomon is an active board member in Hadassah (Women's Zionist Group) and Associated Jewish Charities as well as a constant annual worker on the Cornell Fund. She was planning to attend Cornell Alumni U this summer. Her address is 7108 Minna Rd., Baltimore, Md. Winifred Bergen Hart lives at 115 N. Highland St., Arlington, Va., is currently president of the Arlington Branch of AAUW, which plus two 12-year-olds, one 10, and a 2½-year-old is enough.

True Woodruff Marlowe is busy writing up all the anthropological data collected during 3½ years in Thailand and being wife and mother to a 4- and a 2-year-old. Jane Overly Stockton and family were planning to move to the New Haven area so that her husband can work on his MPH at Yale. Jane hopes to be doing something in the line of social work. Joan Carson Hulbert lives at 6141 Westpath Way in Washington, DC, was enjoying a year of being wife and mother.

Susan Pardee Baker had just returned from a very exciting weekend in New York during which she presented a paper to an international safety symposium on the results of her accident research, was interviewed for a news program on TV, and went out on the town with her husband, Tim. They live at 4705 Keswick Dr., Baltimore, Md. Sabra Baker Miller daytimes as office manager of 10th District (Va.) Republican headquarters, on weekends a den mother and sometimes Senior Girl Scout leader, and in evenings a one-credit-at-a-time student in natural history at USDA graduate school. She lives at 1811 Underwood St., Arlington.

Pepper Dutcher Fluke has been in Gaithersburg, Md., for the year while Don, on leave from Duke, is a technical representative for biophysics at the Atomic Energy Commission. Liz King is still teaching anthropology at Howard and trying to finish up manuscripts. Also at the meeting were Sally Alspach Anderson, Tracy Morrow Robinson, and Libby Hunsberger Craver '52.

Tinker and children, now ages 14, 13, 11, and 8, were planning to spend most of the summer at their home in New York. Husband Barber '43 is very involved in Congress where he serves on the Ways & Means Committee, and the Joint House-Senate Economic Committee.

'51 MEE—Joseph L. Rosson of 44 Woodcrest Ave., Ithaca, has been promoted to the rank of professor on the Cornell faculty. He is assistant director of the EE school.

Clarke T. Harding and his wife have recently adopted a boy, Ted, and a girl, Leigh, who join the rest of their family, Clarke III and Peter. The Hardings have relocated at 39 Tan Oaks Cir., San Rafael, where Clarke is chief of pathology at Letterman General Hospital, Presidio of San Francisco.

George Landew writes that he has been appointed assistant to vice president and general manager-marketing, Chevron Oil Co., Perth Amboy, NJ. He can be reached at Chevron Oil Co., 1200 State St., Perth Amboy, NJ.

Larry Weingart, 30-19 88th St., Flushing, sent an interesting note which I won't attempt to paraphrase but will repeat: "I've been elected president of the Lincoln Square Chapter of the Assn. for Systems Management (nee SPA) for the coming year (1969-70) and am awaiting the Japanese edition of my Management Uses of the Computer so that I can submit it to Charlie Cohen, our man in Tokyo, for validation of the translation. Lord knows, I don't read Japanese! Charlie was in NYC on home leave during the summer of 1968, underwent a hernia operation, then emerged to help at his father's funeral. He retreated to Tokyo (I think) with some sense of relief. I visited J. David Pfeiffer and Shirley Bouck Pfeiffer '53 at their home in Downingtown, Pa., last month. They're on the verge of relocating to Rochester; I was in the area while working on a project out of my company's Philadelphia office . . . a communications system study for the New Jersey State Police. Last year, I was involved in a rescue operation for a mutual fund-stock transfer agent who was losing $1 million that year on his operation. We managed to keep the patient's head above water but we couldn't get him to dry land. He died (as far as this side of his business was concerned—only 15 percent of his gross) from too great a success in selling his service without an equal success in planning for, and providing, said service. This project led to me meeting a real 'gunslinger' (as defined by Adam Smith). I was next assigned to a delightful crowd of psychology PhDs, explaining to them what their $250,000 black box (computer, optical mark reader, and special computer programs) was really doing. I'm still active there, trying to make the black box do what they want it to do, as easily as possible for them. Other assignments I've been on for my firm lead me to the conclusion that my next book will be entitled Management Misuses of the Computer. Most computer systems have 'jest growed, like Topsy' with about equal care and foresight."

Jack Ogden, 10 Lowell Rd., Port Washington, and his wife, Peggy Mara '50, and son Ward took what sounds like an interesting three-week trip to Spain, Portugal, Gibraltar, and Morocco.

Lillian Schneider Innerfield Gerstman and her husband, Hubert '44, sound more than active, their "Know Your Neighbor" Panel has been on a New York State-wide invitational circuit ending up in Lake George last summer. Lillian's husband is running for a place on the local school board, which contest she describes as a "rough one." Their summer ended on a travel note with a trip to Israel for the Maccabiah games.

Connee Honig Bandes, 5 Major Ct., Rockville Centre, writes that she is becoming involved with teaching children with learning disabilities, which involves a new program in the Rockville Centre elementary schools. The Bandes' oldest son will become a Cornell freshman this September entering as a pre-veterinary student in the Agriculture College.

They, along with Paul Downey, Foster Cunningham, and Fred Hobbs have invested and produced a full length film in California titled "Troika." It stars Nate Thurmond, the basketball star, as the "Attenuated Man." Billy is living in Hamilton, Mass., and heads his own company selling insulation to the electronic industry around Boston.

Jack Tullos, president of the Sheraton Chateau Charles at Lake Charles, La., was elected president of the Louisiana Hotel-Motel Assn. For those in the class who thought four, five, or six years was a lifetime, here is a list of classmates still in school: Robert L. Robertson Jr., assoc. prof. of economics and sociology at Mt. Howard, assoc. prof. of biology at Skidmore College; James Blackwood, MD, instructor of surgery at NJ College of Medicine; Edward Powers, recently appointed assistant director of personnel at Harvard; John W. Wysong, professor of agricultural economics at the U of Maryland; Nicholaas Luykx, assoc. prof. of agricultural economics at Michigan State; Myron Kelsey, assoc. prof. at Michigan State; Ernest Hardy, research associate at Cornell's

Tallahassee Alumni Honor Malott

■ A number of Cornellians at Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University honored President Emeritus Deane W. Malott during his recent visit to Tallahassee. The alumni are Benjamin L. Perry, PhD '54, president of Florida A & M; A. E. Teele, PhD '53, secondary education; E. E. Ware, MS '33, biology; and H. R. Partridge, '34-'37 Grad, director of business services.

Center for Aerial Photographic Studies; and David Allee, assoc. prof. of agricultural economics at Cornell (who has also been appointed to the governing board of State U's Water Resources Center).

From the latest mechanical engineering survey, I find two in our class living abroad. Bruce Boehm is manager of Dow Corning and lives in Bad Homburg, Germany. The other is Charles Rodes who is a project manager for Procter & Gamble in London.

'53 MS—Erna Bamford Breton of 41 Charrington Rd., Irondequoit, has been appointed a research manager for the R. T. French Co. in Rochester. Mrs. Breton has been engaged in the development of new spice blends and packaged gravy and sauce mixes.

Well here we go, a month late but on time at last. My apologies for missing the September issue. Unfortunately the first deadline announcement and I did not get together until too late to do anything about it.

A somewhat subdued and very concerned group met in Ithaca in June to celebrate our 15th Reunion. The bands, the beer, the tents were all there . . . yet the many new buildings, the new directions in education, the new problems in social adjustment somehow made these 15 years seem longer than they were. Nonetheless, it was a genuine pleasure to see old friends again, and the active program Peg Bundy Bramhall and Clancy Fauntleroy planned and ran so well for us gave ample opportunity for reminiscing and fun.

The big news at the class meeting held Saturday morning of Reunion was the merger of the men's and women's classes into a single class organization. Now that our new constitution has been voted on and approved, we are simply the Cornell University Class of 1954, period. Elected to the executive committee were: Bill LaLonde, president; Lyn Murray Allison, vice president; Duane Neil, treasurer, (you'll be hearing from him about dues shortly); Mike Hostage, men's class secretary; Rosemary Seelbinder Jung, women's class secretary. In addition, Fred and Jane Barber Wood were chosen to handle our 20th Reunion plans, Sorscha Brodsky is Fund representative, and I assumed class column duties from Barbara Johnson Gottling, whose fine work in assembling this column all these years I have just begun to appreciate.

Attending Reunion were: Monie Moynihan Schmitt, Barbara Johnson Gottling, Peg Bundy Bramhall, Peggy Polson, Shirley House Spencer, Ann Heagle, Betty Wagler

Striso, Nancy Moskowitz Wachs, Rusty Carlson Schenck, Ruth Carpenter Everett, Barbara Schickler Hankins, Lucille Fein Saunders, Jennie Towle Farley, Rosemary Seelbinder Jung, Jane Barber Wood, Mitzi Sutton Russekoff, Dot Noll Hostage, Sallie Capron Marchant, Sorscha Brodsky, June Greene Wood, Eloise Mix Unbekant, Diana Heywood Calby, Janice Jakes Kunz, Polly Hospital Flansburgh, Carol Stitt Sokolski, Jan Peifer Bellamy, Jean Lanigan Lenehan, Peg Rogers Huyler, Mary Lou Bishop Dopyera, Cindy Noble, Midge Myers Weiner, Karyl Palmer Gottlieb, Jane Shanklin Warter, Nancy Blackburn Dale, Barbara Dewey Sommer, Annadele Ferguson Walter, Lyn Murray Allison, and Elinor Schroeder Price.

And now for class news. Two new addresses with activities to match were reported by Joan Beebe Quick and Sarah Ann Sills Wright. Joan's new address is 6 Philips Dr., Hyde Park. She writes that son Steven, 12, is involved in Boy Scouts and plays piano and clarinet; Kevin, 10, is a Cub Scout and adds to the practicing problems by taking piano plus the cornet; then comes Bradley, 6, and Cheryl, 3, to complete the family. Joan has taken up knitting "hopefully for profit," and she's also going to start raising Persian cats.

The Wrights' new address is 9 Bedford Rd., Kendall Park, NJ, where daughter Elisabeth Ann was born late last year, joining three brothers who are 10, 8, and 5. Sarah's husband, David, became controller of the Keene Corp. in New York on Jan. 1, resulting in a great deal of traveling for him, and a lot of home fire tending for Sarah.

Joan Klein Jacobs reports from California that her four boys keep her busy and the house buzzing. She also mentions seeing Don and Joyce Bookman Belk last year. Joan's address is 8031 La Jolla Shores Dr., La Jolla.

Jane Gregory Wilson writes of teaching Sunday school, playing golf, and Girl Scout activities, all of which sound like stateside living, but aren't. Jane is in the Philippines where Lyn now holds an administrative post at Clark AFB. High point of their year was a 10-day vacation in Bangkok and Thailand. The Wilsons' address is 64 FLS—Box 575, APO SF 96274.

Taking part in the New York State Morgan Horse Show was Velvet Bo-Kay, one of Peter '56 and Peggy Rogers Huyler's Morgan horses. The Huylers, who can be reached at Franklin Rd., Walton, now have four Morgan horses and a pony.

Oct. 11 is Homecoming, and if you're planning on going to Ithaca for the game this year, don't forget the '50s Cocktail Party after the game at the Statler. It's a great place to meet.

Let's hear from you!

'54-'58 Grad—Harper & Row has recently released Beever & Company by Joseph A. Davis. The narrative, which is illustrated with drawings by the author as well as photographs, concerns the problems and complications that arise when Davis, a young zoo curator, takes an otter home to study its behavior at close range.

Ruth Lauterbach Hutter writes that she, husband Robert, and their three children have moved from Yonkers to Richard Sweet Dr., Woodbridge, Conn., where they are presently in the process of completing their new home. Robert has been appointed professor of pathology at Yale Medical School, and Ruth is vice president of the Women of Woodbridge Club. She writes that their children—Andrew, 12, Edie, 9½, and Randi, 6½, are enjoying country living on their 1½ acres. The Hutters would enjoy hearing from any classmates living in the area.

Naomi Freistadt, 107 W. 86th St., is no longer a travel agent, but is now director of sales for the Hotel Piccadilly in New York. Her first function in her new position was to attend a convention in Florida! Naomi would like anyone who happens to be in the Times Square neighborhood to come in and say "hello."

Marilyn Taig Bloom, 89 Sunnyside Way, New Rochelle, writes that she is to be vice president of her children's school's PTA this year. She is also a member of the New Rochelle League of Women Voters. Marilyn sees Arlene Kirschenbaum Alpert and Helen Rose Mettler frequently.

'55 PhD—Herman Bouwer, chief hydraulic engineer at the US Water Conservation Laboratory in Phoenix, Ariz., was awarded a certificate of merit by the Soil Conservation Society of America for contributing the outstanding article published in the society's Journal of Soil and Water Conservation during 1968. Bouwer's article, "Returning Wastes to the Land, A New Role for Agriculture," outlined the potential for disposing sewage effluent and other liquid wastes on land thereby allowing the soil to purify the wastes as they soak into the ground.

Many exciting things have happened to Bill Greenawalt in the past months. He was made a partner of the fine law firm of Royal, Koegel & Wells and has just moved to Hartsdale (57 Ridge Rd.). Bill was in charge of Paul O'Dwyer's senatorial race in the Upstate counties and is currently chairman of Applied Resources Inc., a group of people trying to help solve the problems of the inner city and help minority businesses. It would not surprise this reporter if Bill is headed up the Democratic political scale as well.

Dr. Ernest D. Abeles is practicing orthopaedic surgery in Manhattan and Brooklyn, having recently opened an office in Brooklyn at 175 Adams St. His other office is at 110 E. 90th St. in Manhattan.

William L. Maxwell has been raised to the rank of professor of operations research at Cornell. He has been completely Cornell bred, having received his doctorate from the university in 1961. He was awarded $1,000 for "excellence in teaching" by the Cornell Society of Engineers in 1967. He is presently on leave from Cornell at the Graduate School of Business, U of Chicago.

Richard W. Barger has been appointed general manager of the Sheraton-Boston Hotel. He had previously been in Memphis for the Sheraton chain. He and wife Barbara have two children, Scott and Christopher.

Further news from the Sheraton people has it that Stephen S. J. Hall has been appointed vice president of Sheraton Inns. At the same time he continues as director of operations for Sheraton Inns. He is the father of four children and lives in Scituate, Mass.

Nicholas Reitenbach has received his BEE from Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn at its June Commencement. Ernie Stent has been named assistant general counsel for the Greyhound Corp.

Received a letter from Phillip and Myrna Britz Danzig announcing the July 20 birth of son Nickolas Rex. The Danzigs have two other sons, ages 8 and 5. Phil is presently finishing up a project for the New Jersey State Council on the Arts. That group, working on the premise that during the next 10 to 20 years a new city—fully responsive to a higher level of urban life and cost in a new form—will be created in the New Jersey meadowlands, commissioned a project called the Meadowlands Cultural/Artistic/Esthetic Potential Study. Phil, an architect, notes that this has been more of a cultural-social planning project than an architectural one. The meadowland includes about 18,000 acres of undeveloped lowlands in northern New Jersey, an area larger than Manhattan. The goal is to encourage planning that will include study and reexamination of every facet of urban culture, life, and needs. The full study will be released this fall. The Danzigs live at 86 Edgemont Rd., Upper Montclair, NJ.

Rabbi Howard R. Greenstein has been named educational director at Temple Israel in Dayton, Ohio. As of July, Howard assumed duties relating to the religious school, youth group, adult education program, and new college program. Howard, wife Lenore (Brotman) '56, and three children went to Dayton from Peabody, Mass. Howard, as many of us will remember, sang in the Cornell Glee Club. He was studying for a career in medicine when he decided to become a clergyman. He is a graduate of Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati.

Roger H. Jones was awarded a Juris Doctor degree by American U in Washington, DC, last January. Roger had received both a BA and MPA degree from Cornell. Alan R. Hinman received a master of public health degree from Harvard in June.

Carl W. Schwarz has joined Peabody, Rivlin & Kelly in Washington, DC. Carl was formerly with the foreign commerce section, antitrust div. of the US Dept. of Justice.

Who says Cornell women complete their families by the time they are 30? This month we report 10 new members of the classes of '90 and '91:

Judith Ilene, now 1½, was born Feb. 26, 1968, to Ronald, MBA '57, and Helen Kuver Kramer. She lives at 28 Cornwath Cres., Willowdale, Ont., Canada, with siblings Danny, 7, Sally, 5, and Margie, 4.

Mark Requa Brownlow, born July 4, 1968, to Arthur and Anne Requa Brownlow of 876 Central Ave., Needham, Mass. Mark has a sister, Jennifer, 8, and a brother, Allan, 5.

Adam Samuel Abelson became the third son of Hirschel '55 and Elaine Goldberg Abelson on Oct. 18 just a year ago. He lives at 325 E. 79th St., New York.

Susan Erica Goldbas joined Barbara, 8, and Julie, 6, at 60 Beverly Rd., West Orange, NJ, on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28, 1968. Her parents are Howard and Sylvia Westheimer Goldbas.

Stephen Fisher Dyott became the third son of our alumnae class v.p., Arlette Stevens Dyott, and Mark, MS '56, on Dec. 27, 1968. David is 8½, Michael 6½, and they live at 3317 Arawak Pl., Dallas, Texas.

Robert Cowie was born just at the end of last year to Vanne (Shelley) and Bob Cowie '55. Anne is 5. The Cowies live on Stone Church Rd., RD 1, Berwick, Pa.

Judd Raphael Grayzel evened things up in his family on Jan. 15, 1969, by making it two girls and two boys. Jeffrey is 6½, Eva 5, and Abby Gail 3. The parents are Joseph '52, MD '56, and Elli Sager Grayzel of 262 Fountain Rd., Englewood, NJ. Joe is chief of cardiology at the Bergen Pines County Hospital in Paramus and Elli is active in the League of Women Voters. Also, both are quite active in their local synagogue. Elli is fortunate enough to have full-time help, so with two at school this fall she plans to get back to some modern dancing.

Paul Wendell Bleakley joined Laura Jean 5, Jeffrey, 3, and Jimmy, 2, on June 3 at 45 Hillside Dr., Geneva. His folks are Paul '55, MD '59, and Joanne Field Bleakley. Paul is in the private practice of internal medicine and cardiology. Having received a master's in social work and being a member of that profession for several years, Joanne keeps active as the secretary of the board of directors of the Family Counseling Service of Ontario and Seneca Counties. She is also

Members of the newly formed New York City Alumni Advisory Council to the Cornell University Industry Research Park (from left): Robert G. Engel '53; William G. scholarship chairman of the Ontario Medical Wives Auxiliary and active in a cooperative nursery school.

Karen Elizabeth Lacy brought sunshine and happiness on July 10 to Dick '57 and Martha Ballard Lacy at Wesley Woods Inc., RD1, Grand Valley, Pa. Martha is most excited to have a little one in the house again as Susan, 8½, and Jimmy, 6½, are gone from 7:30 to 4:30 each day, with a long school bus ride each way. Last year, before Karen, the Lacys had a delightful seven days in Florida, courtesy of 22 books of Green Stamps, which covered all their motels except for $2/night for the children.

Linda Jean Morrison joined Laurie, 10, and Ken, 7½, on July 21 at 32 Fair Way, Poughkeepsie. The proud parents are Bob '56 and Anita Wisbrun Morrison.

We really like California and its lovely weather. We have joined a tennis club and I'm afraid we are not proceeding with straightening up our new home and yard as quickly as we should. We can't seem to say "no" to a tennis game and a swim in the pool there. They start teaching children tennis at age 3, so Casey, 6, and Craig, almost 4, are also out swinging a racquet.

We have gotten together with several other Cornellians. We spent an enjoyable evening with Ken Gillett '57 and his wife, Mary. Also there were Tom Criswell '59 and his wife, Barbara, and Joe '57, PhD '62 and Ann Bordeaux Douglass '59. Joe and Ann live in McLean, Va., but were out here on business and pleasure.

My mother, Jo Mills Reis '29, spent about 10 days here in August and we took in the Universal Studio tour, Disneyland, and Marineland.

Just as I mailed in the last column I got a birth announcement from Pat (Malcolm) and Doug Wengel. Their second daughter, Deborah Lee, was born May 10, 1969, and she was a healthy 7 lbs. 5½ oz. Cathy, 4, is her older sister. The Wengels live on Hollow Rd., Skillman, N.J. Pat, Doug, and Cathy spent a week in Pompano Beach, Fla., at the Silver Thatch Inn which they highly recommended. It had loads of tennis courts, a beach, two pools, and a sporty, rather than brassy, atmosphere. The Wengels also spent time camping at Lake George. Pat went back into the business world. She was the bookkeeper for a firm that publishes a guide to graduate schools and took on a library project for a former employer, Princeton Applied Research, compiling a bibliography to complement a new instrument they will soon introduce. Congratulations, Pat, and I hope you're getting a lot of good ideas from our classmates on a class project.

In a nice note from Bernice Goodman Henderson she enclosed a birth announcement from Judi Welling Mintzer and her husband, Hardie. Their new offspring is Joanna Faith, born June 15, 1969. The Mintzers reside at 913 W. Levering Mill Rd., Bala Cynwyd, Pa. Bernice is starting her second year of grad school in the field of biology at Georgia State. This past summer she and daughter Norma traveled all over the Southeast, following Roy on various business trips. They spent time in Tampa, Savannah, and New Orleans. Bernice recently did a session of jury duty for the Grand Jury.

Also in her note she mentioned that they see a lot of Julie (Gilbert) and Ron Cohn, LLB '59. Julie will be serving as vice president of the Council of Jewish Women in Atlanta, is teaching seventh grade Jewish history at Sunday school in a new congregation, and is also studying Hebrew. Julie is also the mother of two boys, Gregg and Bryan. Julie, you don't sound as if you have enough to do! The Hendersons' address is 3377 Pine Meadow Rd. NW, Atlanta, Ga.

The Cohns live at 115 Biscayne Dr. NW, Apt. B1, Atlanta, Ga.

Let me hear from any of you ladies who went to Cornell Alumni U. I'd love to write about your experiences and impressions in this column.

John M. Harrison writes that he recently married Carlene Brown of Springvale, Me. In April 1968 he purchased his own hotel, The Higgins Inn, Higgins Beach, Scarborough, Me. He says that all Cornellians are welcome to drop in anytime. It is seven miles south of Portland, and they live there year around. He says he will give special low rates to Cornellians.

Dr. Paul A. Rosenberg of 420 E. 23rd St., New York, writes he is now practicing endodontia and teaching at NYU College of Dentistry. He and wife Maxine have two boys: Mark, 4, and David, 2. Stephen M. Weissman, MD, writes that in July 1968 he completed two years as a clinical associate doing psychiatric research at the National Institute of Mental Health. He is currently in private practice in Washington, DC, and is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at George Washington U Medical School. Steve lives at 3000 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington, DC.

Ira C. Wolpert of 1000 Playford Lane, Silver Spring, Md., writes that he is in private law practice in Washington. He and his wife and their two children, a boy, 5, and a girl, 2, have recently moved into a new home. John E. Tartaglione of 353 Prospect St., E. Stroudsburg, Pa., writes that he is practicing veterinary medicine in E. Stroudsburg.

Robert S. Rich is practicing international tax law with Shearman & Sterling in Paris, France. He and wife and their son, David Maurice, 10 mos., live at 23 rue Royale, Paris.

Philip E. McCarthy of 11 Ridge Terr., Short Hills, NJ, works for the Wall Street law firm of Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett. He and his wife, Eleanor, have two sons, Philip II, 5, and James J., 2. Philip's twin brother Paul and his family are moving to Chicago in May.

Dr. David Kitzes of 4711 Round Lake Rd., Indianapolis, Ind., writes that he is presently a National Heart Institute Cardiology fellow. Lawrence E. Glassberg writes that he is presently a fellow in cardiology at New York Hospital, Cornell Medical Center. He, wife Irene, and their children, Linda, 5, Pamela, 4, and Michael, 1, live at 435 E. 70th St., Apt. 8B, New York.

Charles W. Carpenter was married May 31 to Susan McKinley of Bedford. Charles is in his second year of orthopedic residency at the Hospital for Special Surgery at Cornell Medical Center, and they live at 310 E. 71st St., New York.

Dr. Richard Miner of 1050 Park Ave., New York, writes that after being in the Army for two years he has now resumed civilian practice. While Dick was in the Army, he and his wife, the former Trudy Cochane, took their dog with them on their leaves when they visited places such as Israel, Singapore, and Bangkok.

Samuel H. Lewis, 1226 King St., Wilmington, Del., writes that he has entered a law partnership, Barrett & Lewis. He has also received appointments as attorney for the State Senate and as town solicitor for Newport, Del.

Donald S. Ferguson is currently a research fellow at Makerere U College, Kampala, Uganda, for a two-year period while completing a dissertation on the economics of meat and other animal protein production in Uganda. He will also lecture at the university on livestock economics in the Dept. of Rural Economy. He may be reached at Makerere U College, Dept. of Economics, Box 7062, Kampala, Uganda.

Paul C. Marcus continues as western region sales manager with Idle Wild Farm, Pomfret Center, Conn. He covers the US and Canada selling prepared frozen foods to airlines, clubs, hotels, and restaurants. His home address is 98 Van Cortlandt Park, S., New York.

The news of our class seems to speak more and more of continuing academic success. Abraham D. Wunsch received his PhD from Harvard in June. Within his field of applied physics, his thesis topic was "Aspects of the Dipole Antenna Immersed in a Plasma." Michael D. Andrew, within the discipline of science education, wrote his thesis on "A Proposal for an Eclectic Teacher-Development Program," and received his doctorate in education, also in June from Harvard. Gerald B. Goldstein, whose MD was earned at Buffalo, was awarded an MS in experimental medicine by McGill U.

Charles A. Shoup, who is a former admissions counselor in the College of Agriculture, has been named dean of student affairs at Glen Oaks Community College in Centerville, Mich. Chuck received both bachelor's and master's degrees at Cornell, and anticipates the award of a PhD in higher education administration from Michigan State in September. Although no new address has yet been selected by the Shoups, Chuck and Karen (Rice) '64, who is a Trumansburg native, plan a migration to Sturgis, Mich., concurrent with Chuck's new position.

David Lefevre's name also comes to the fore. Dave is currently working on his MBA at George Washington U while moonlighting (my term, not Dave's) as an account executive for Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & what's-his-name, in Washington.

Pleasing it is to pass along your notes and news—and the following pleasure is a credit to David J. Williamson. Dave is a guidance counselor at Byrum Hills in Armonk, and has acquired a wife, Judy, three children, and an address of 16 Hunter Ave., Armonk. Dave writes that he has had the pleasure of seeing many Cornellians—mainly skiers, mainly Vermont. Dave also passes along the note that Peter T. McLean now lives in Ridgefield, Conn., and works for World Academy. Pete is married and has one child. He has recently authored a book on golfing which discusses, among other things, his play at courses around the world.

Capt. Raymundo C. Leonor, FV3149251, 405 FMS Box 108, APO San Francisco 96274, writes he is now stationed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines with the 405th Fighter Wing, and that he would welcome the opportunity to greet fellow Cornellians—Manila being a particularly convenient point.

Having reached the bottom of the mail bag, I'm pleased to pass on this news of the Hazlett household. After six years as a stockbroker, I resigned July 1 as a partner of Hazlett, Burt & Watson to become trust investment officer of the Wheeling Dollar Savings & Trust Co. As coincidence would have it, Robert C. Hazlett '31 is president of that institution, and if any of you have discovered a formula for successful negotiations with your father, I'd be delighted to know of it. Judy and I now have four children: Susan, 8, Jean, 6, Robert III (Bert), 4, and Edward, born June 19. For the next year, our household also includes Guilmette Chamuiel, whose visit from France provides us with a "mother's helper" and her an opportunity to learn English as it is spoken in West Virginia. Happily, also, her presence lets us anticipate the pleasure of attending our 10th Reunion. It's not too soon to make your plans; it'll be nice to see you there.

In the meantime, if you wish to assist me in my campaign for election for a full term as class correspondent, please pass along your news; the mailbox is truly empty.

News this month consists of a new degree, new job, new baby, and new address.

Beryl Clemetsen Gillespie received her MA in anthropology from the U of Iowa in June.

Bobbie (Marshall) and Eric Matthews, PhD '60, have been in Australia for two years and love it. She is teaching science at Canberra High School and Eric is a senior research fellow at the CSIRO div. of entomology in Canberra. Their girls, Lisa, 7, and Leslie, 5, are both at school full-time and in swimming training the year round at a heated pool near home. Lisa, according to her coach, has tremendous potential as a backstroke swimmer and trains twice daily. She will compete in the state championships next month in Sydney in the under-10-year-old division. Bobbie received her MEd in June 1967 from the U of Puerto Rico and in August of that year published a book entitled An Ecological Guide to the Littoral Fauna and Flora of Puerto Rico.

Sue (Wood) and Don Brewer '59 are the proud parents of David Allen born July 12. His brother, John, just turned 4. Don is with DuPont in Wilmington. Besides Sue's chairmanship of the Secondary Schools Committee there she is active in AAUW.

Beth (Hooven) and Ed Morsman, along with their 1-year-old son, Jimmy, are receiving mail at 3727 Jackson St., Omaha, Neb. Before leaving New York they saw Pummy Miles Yarnall, husband Kent, and son, Dewitt, 2, in Dobbs Ferry, and Harriet Hall Bloch, husband Fred, and son, David, 2, and daughter, Ericka, 8 mos., in New Paltz. Harriet and Fred are both teaching at SUNY this fall.

S. Kent Dohrman, formerly assistant director of dining halls at Yale, has become director of food services at the U of Rochester. Kent previously worked in food management with the Navy and with North Carolina State U. Kent will now be responsible for serving more than 6,000 meals and 1,500 snacks daily plus the university catering service. The Dohrmans reside at 62 Kings Lacey Way, Fairport. Fotis C. Kafatos is professor of biology at Harvard. He has taught at Harvard since 1965; his research centers on developmental biology. Fotis received an AM in 1962 and a PhD in 1965 from Harvard. Jon Greenleaf recently joined The Caldwell Davis Co., a New York advertising agency, as a vice president and account supervisor. Harold S. Finkelstein was named assistant professor of mathematics at Emory U. Harold recently completed his PhD at the U of Colorado. He received his MA from the U of Michigan.

Gerald Schneider has been executive director of the Audubon Naturalist Society of the Central Atlantic States since June 1. The society is a conservation and natural science organization operating in and around the Washington, DC, area. In addition to its action and educational activities, it publishes The Atlantic Naturalist, a quarterly magazine. Gerry's new address is 8940 Jones Mill Rd., Chevy Chase, Md. The Peter Meinigs, Monte Blanco 310, Mexico 10, D.F., have announced the arrival of their third girl, Sarah Paige, born last July 4. Nancy (Schlegel) '62 reports everything is well in Mexico. It's nice to see they haven't forgotten how to celebrate our holidays.

John Petry is resident manager for Stouffer's Riverfront Inn in St. Louis, a new 486-room luxury motor inn. John was formerly resident manager of Stouffer's Oakbrook Inn, Chicago, and prior to that with the company's Northland Inn, near Detroit. John and his family live at 49 Forest Crest Dr., Chesterfield, Mo. Ed Capra joined the marketing dept. of Distillation Products Industries, div. of Eastman Kodak in June 1967. During 1966-67 Ed served as treasurer of the Cornell Club of Rochester and is currently serving out the second year of a two-year term as a member of the Club's board of governors. Ed has served as a co-chairman of the Cornell Fund Area Campaign for Rochester during 1966-67 and 1967-68. The Capras have a son, 1, and a daughter, 3. They live at 624 Beverly Dr., North Webster.

Some members of our class are still collecting advanced degrees. Marco Einaudi received a PhD in geology from Harvard last June. His thesis was "Pyrrhotite-Pyrite-Sphalerite Relations at Cerro de Pasco, Peru." Also from Harvard, Bob Melzer received an MBA and William Hinds a master of science in hygiene. Willard L. Reed received a master of arts in liberal studies at Wesleyan's Graduate Summer School for Teachers. Gary Busch, who previously earned a certificate in international studies, London School of Economics, received a PhD from American U in Washington, DC. His dissertation was "Pan-Africanism and Pan-African Trade Unions." Bob Smethurst got a master of arts from American U in January 1969, and Bill Shellenberger obtained a master of public administration from American U.

Please note that the Lawrence A. Fraser Fund has been established for use in a new athletic building at Exeter. Anyone who wishes to donate may send a check, payable to The Phillips Exeter Academy, to William J. Cox, Secretary of the Academy, Exeter, NH.

Vincent F. Kubly wrote a pleasant note to me from Baton Rouge, La. He finished his PhD in art history at the U of Wisconsin this past June. His last three years have been spent at LSU as an assistant professor in the fine arts dept. Vince says he is one of the last bachelor hold-outs in our class. I also received a note from Gary Hellinger proudly announcing the birth of a third daughter during May. Apparently most of the responsibility for the event was with Gary's wife, Marilyn (Schur) '63.

Celanese Plastics in Newark has appointed David M. Rutkin (picture) to advertising and communications manager. Dave has worked for Celanese as an advertising production assistant, sales promotion supervisor, and most recently advertising and sales promotion manager. The Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. announced that Sidney

S. Watt is now manager of banking operations.

Harvard Business School graduated three more classmates this past June: Peter Campbell Green, Kipton Cornelius Kumlner, and John Richard Smutko. Harold Randolph Lewis received an advanced architecture degree from Harvard.

Western International Hotels has named Peter Flood as San Francisco regional sales manager. The final news item finds John F. Abele being named coach of the Columbia lightweight crew. I congratulate John and suggest that he be investigated for possible future conflict of interest at forthcoming crew races!

Summer means moving, and several classmates were among those changing their addresses.

Daniel '61 and Linda Quick Tomkins moved from Michigan to 109 Wellington Heights Rd., Avon, Conn. Dan is assistant to the vice president in charge of product control of Fafnir Bearing Co. in New Britain.

Marla Bramwit moved to 350 E. 19th St., Brooklyn, when she became Mrs. Eugene Lind. Marla teaches kindergarten in Brooklyn, and her husband is a resident in urology at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Dr. Patricia A. Hughes is receiving mail at 419 Hillbrook Rd., Bryn Mawr, Pa., while she is in London doing research in endocrinology. She received her MD from Penn in 1967, interned at Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital, and has been engaged in research since then. She left for London last month.

It's a temporary move for Margaret (Sandelin) and Thomas Benson, MA '61, PhD '66. Tom will be a visiting assistant professor at Berkeley for this academic year. Margaret, Daisy, 5½, and Sarah Beverly, born July 9, flew out to join Tom in August. Added Margaret, "It sounds as if he is going to be teaching some good courses and will even get a chance to teach grad students (every professor's dream is to teach grad students at a top university). We are all looking forward to an exciting time this coming year—though not, I hope, too exciting. I want neither wars nor earthquakes to mar our escape from the dullness of Buffalo winters." The Bensons can be reached through the Dept. of Rhetoric, U of California, Berkeley, Cal.

Celebrating a first anniversary this month are Michael and Barbara Woll Jones, who were married last Oct. 26. Michael (Princeton '58) is an architect-developer and partner in the Easton Co. Barbara has reduced her work as an architect to part time and she fills the other part with housewifery and civic activities. She enthused, "We bought an old Victorian brick bow-front townhouse in the heart of the city—a great and welcome change from apartment living for both of us. We have great plans for remodeling the kitchen (my husband terms it the 'disaster area') but so far the garden gets most of the attention." That garden is located at 23 Cumberland St., Boston

American U informs us that Mary Jean Smith Madigan received her MA in history a year ago. The population continues to explode. Among the newcomers is Michael David Patterson, born to Dr. Jack and Kathy Cavanaugh Patterson on July 7. Michael, Katie, 2, and Jafer, 3, along with Kathy and Jack, have changed their address to 322 Linden Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

A note from Carolyn Johns Mullins: "As I read in the News of another transracial adoption I felt we should let people know about our new daughter, Nancy Carolyn (born Jan. 12 and adopted by us in March), who is part Negro, part white. She's a simply delightful little girl, as warm and friendly and bright as her two brothers Nicky (now 3 and also adopted) and Robert (now 2½, our home-grown product). We'd be delighted to talk to anyone interested in adopting across racial lines or even just in adopting. Our experience has been wonderful, and we enjoy sharing it." You can write to Carolyn at 1 Bridgman Rd., Hanover, NH.

More news coming next month—this column has suddenly reached its maximum length.

'62 MBA—Neil K. Robertson of Clifton, NJ, has been promoted to investment manager in the Prudential Insurance Co.'s common stock dept. in Newark, NJ.

'62 PhD—The new head of the solid state and molecular physics lab of the Kodak Research Laboratories is Benjamin B. Snavelly. During the past year he has been guest professor at the Physical Chemistry Institute, U of Marburg, Germany. Snavelly, who has been with Kodak since 1962, lives at 23 Aspen Dr., Rochester.

Indianapolis, Ind. 46260

Sitting here in the hot, humid, central US in the middle of August it is somehow hard to think of football and balmy October weekends in Ithaca, but by the time this column reaches you the time will be upon us. Let me assure you that if at all possible I'll be there looking for you. Let's support the Big Red and Cornell this year. Still on the sports side, Peter Revson returned to Indianapolis, this time for a win at the Indy "200" in Jack Brabham works car.

Bob Filner was awarded a master of arts in history by the U of Delaware in June. Guerdon H. Sauter has been transferred by Hormel to Philadelphia as eastern regional manager for the food service div. Jerry transferred to Ryder College in Trenton, graduating in 1967 with a BS. He also spent two years in the Navy. Also in the meat business, Bill Oliver '64 has been transferred by Oscar Mayer from St. Catharines, Ontario, to Knoxville, Tenn., where he is the district sales manager. The R. T. French Co. has promoted Gerald L. Schuth to the position of district sales representative in Cincinnati. Jerry is married and has two children.

Capt. Patrick A. Schlenker has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service. He is presently at Walter Reed Medical Hospital where he is aide-de-camp to the commanding general. Capt. and Mrs. Schlenker make their home at 6601 Gude Ave., Takoma Park, Md.

Richard Wallace Clark has resigned as the associate executive director of the Akron Community Service Center and Urban League to accept a one-year fellowship in urban administration from Yale. Dick was selected for the program as one of 26 young men and women in the country who have demonstrated unusual potential for urban leadership. The program is designed to help solve urban crises through development of new administrative talent. The program is co-sponsored by Yale, the National League of Cities, and the US Conference of Mayors.

During the summer, Mr. Clark will participate in an intensive academic session on the Yale campus. He will then be assigned to mentor an outstanding urban administrator for a period of 10 months. Mentor assignments include among others Mayors John Lindsay of New York, Walter E. Washington of DC, and Joseph Alioto of San Francisco.

'63 Women: Dee Stroh Reif 1649 Jarrettown Rd. Dresher, Pa. 19025

Several of our classmates were the recipients of advanced degrees and awards from various universities around the country this past June. Sara Mills, who received her MS in urban planning from Columbia, was awarded a William Kinne Fellows Memorial Traveling Fellowship for study during the coming year. American U awarded the degree of master of arts to Shirley Morrison Loveless who majored in economics, and to Mary Jean Smith Madigan '62 whose field is history.

At the Harvard commencement exercises Janet Klein Marantz received her MA and Ellen Tremper O'Brien was awarded a PhD in English. Valerie French Allen, who did her graduate work at UCLA, won a Woodrow Wilson Dissertation Fellowship for work toward a PhD in ancient history. Sarah Schilling Winans received her PhD from Cornell's Medical College. Sarah will spend the coming year as an instructor of anatomy at Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn.

A prize of another sort was delivered to Christian '65 and Helen Downs Haller in the form of a baby daughter, Helen Hartley, born July 2.

As you can see from the length of this column, I am desperately in need of news. How about dropping me a line or two about your current activities?

'63 MPA—S. Gustavo Levy is assistant chief of the budgeting studies dept. of the Bureau of the Budget in Chile. His office address is Teatinos 120, piso 13, of. 11, Direccion de Presupuestos, Santiago, Chile.

Irwin Davis reports via an emissary that June's Reunion was definitely top-grade. That news should send all non-attenders to their 1974 calendars to reserve early June weekend space.

Capt. Peter Stauder USAF comes back to the fold, announcing he'll spend the next three years in the Far East. He joined the Air Force in 1965 and married Catherine Flaherty in 1966. Mail goes to Box 25, CMR #1, 348 Cmbt Spt Cp, APO San Francisco 96529.

Harvard says Carl Bender got a PhD in physics, Cary Rosenthal got a PhD in chemical physics, Martin Minsker got a JD, and

Alumni Trustees

■ Ten of the 49 members of the Board of Trustees are elected by the alumni body, two each year. The Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations urges all alumni to take part in the nomination and election of their trustees.

The deadline for the nomination of alumni trustees is November 5, 1969. To nominate an alumnus or alumna for this office, send his or her name and biography to Dr. William A. Barnes, chairman, Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations, 862 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10021.

Thom Chirurg got an MBA, all in June. Michigan State gave Roger Murray a chemistry PhD, and American U gave JD degrees to William Frommer and Roger Jones.

James Karr lives at 205 Mt. Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass. (roommate Don McCarthy) while selling IBM computers. Thomas Helfrich is working on a business administration PhD at Syracuse U, living at Bldg. B-1, Apt. 6, New Slocum Hgts., Syracuse. He has a son, Todd, born May 21, 1968. Frank Roberts married Linda Gallin in Syracuse on June 22, 1969. Laurie Roberts '67 was a bridesmaid. Eddy LaDue (914-I Cherry Lane, East Lansing, Mich.) is working toward an agricultural economics degree at Michigan State U. He has a son, Steven, born May 18, 1967.

Lynn McGill is assistant professor of agriculture at Canton Agricultural & Technical College. He lives at 50 Wells St., Canton, and he and wife Barbara have a girl, Kelly Lynne. 2. James Reyelt is a salesman for a division of Litton Industries. Mail goes to Northland Inn, 21000 Northwestern Hwy., Southfield, Mich. Jack Wittman, leaving the Air Force behind, does research and development for a molded fiberglass manufacturing company, lives at 398 Clarendon Rd., Uniondale.

Dennis Sweeney designs food service facilities and provides other services to "clients in the hospitality field" of a New York CPA firm. He and wife Kris live at 1808 21st Ave. (Apt. 2E), Astoria. Terry Young owns and operates Holly Hill Farms, Clarksville, Ga., with 710 breed cows on 1,330 acres.

Art Oblas has a new address: Wellington Manor Bldg. 2, Apt. 2, 4389 Plantation Blvd., Liverpool. He is a doctoral candidate at Syracuse U, and wife Carol planned to work in the fashion industry in Syracuse.

Fred Rosevear and wife Joyce Yelencsics '65 celebrated their first anniversary in August. They live at 6130 Century Ave., Apt. 204D, Middleton, Wis. John Franzreb is in showbiz part-time as operator of Clove Lake Stables (1025 Clove Rd., Staten Island), and you'll see his horses, buggies, and drivers in Hello Dolly with his friends Barbra Streisand and Walter Matthau.

A class planning meeting will be held during Homecoming Weekend, October 11, at 10 a.m. in the Straight Kimball Room. Everyone is invited.

'64 Women: Judith Chuckrow Goetzl 25 Lebanon St. Hanover, N.H. 03755

Our five-year Reunion resulted in the election of yours truly as class correspondent. Not having attended Reunion it was quite a surprise when I received the letter of congratulations—sort of like being inducted into the Army but without the training period. Now how about someone writing in and telling me about Reunion and our other newly elected officers? If everyone writes in and we turn up some lost souls, this could be fun. So do let me hear from you.

First news of myself. My husband, Ugo Goetzl, and I have just moved to Hanover, NH. Ugo is a resident in psychiatry at the Dartmouth Medical School and Mary Hitchcock Mental Health Center. I am working for Dartmouth College as a researcher on a project sponsored by the National Historical Publications. We are presently beginning to write and edit a 10-volume work on the papers of Daniel Webster. Hanover, with its unpolluted air, one movie theatre, and its lack of "crime in the streets" is quite a change from New York City—and we love being in the "provinces."

So far the only other Cornellian I've met living near Hanover is Peter Leff who is a resident in internal medicine at the Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital. He and wife Sandy have two children: Stephen, 2½, and Jonathan, 11 mos. The Leffs live at Huntley Rd., Norwich, Vt. Peter passed along the news that Bill Klempner married Sharon Saks and is presently a surgical intern at Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York.

Since my husband went to medical school with Arthur Birnkraut we frequently see and hear from him and wife Janet. They make their home at 601 Richmond Ave., Buffalo, when they aren't sailing the 21-foot yacht they bought this summer or when Arthur is not on duty as a resident in internal medicine at Buffalo General Hospital.

From Arthur I learned that Stephen Herr is a resident in internal medicine at Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York. His address is 1215 Fifth Ave., New York. Also up in Buffalo as a resident is Jean Dwyer.

Bobby Fisher is head of the customer relations dept. of Steuben Glass. She just returned from California where she saw the Mac MacCorkles (Carol Britton) and their two little boys. The MacCorkle clan resides at 208 Bayview Dr., San Carlos, Cal., and according to Bobby roll out the red carpet and open a few beers for any Cornellians passing through. Bobby was off on another trip, but in between I managed to get her address: 215 E. 21st St., New York. Suzanne Stephens has been summering in East Hampton.

From the news bureau of American International College, Springfield, Mass., comes the announcement of the appointment of Rita Kissan Brodsky of 198 Regency Dr., Agawam, Mass., as an instructor in English effective in September. Last year Rita lived in Ithaca and was administrative secretary of the Ithaca Neighborhood College.

A clipping from the Ithaca Journal announced the marriage of Ruth Ann Geise to Jason Seabury Pettengill Jr. on May 31. The Pettengills plan to live in East Hartford, Conn. Janet is employed at the U of Connecticut-McCook Hospital.

Paul and Bonnie Nelson Reading are on the move again. Bonnie writes, "We are temporarily joining my parents at 8516 Robin Ridge Rd., Fairfax, Va. Paul is beginning a two-year tour of duty as a general medical officer with the US Army. He will be 13 months in Korea and if it is possible with two 1-year-olds, I will join him there."

house, and a son, Daniel, born early in August. Her address is 108 Skyline Dr., Morristown, NJ. Helen Fetheroff Evans writes of a classmate at Cornell for Daniel—Eric Evans born in May. Helen is living at 3709 Vestal Rd., Vestal, and waiting for husband Doug to return from Vietnam where he is with the Army as a helicopter pilot.

There's a branch of the Cornell Club of New York at 105 E. 38th St., New York where Lynn (Korda) and Jules Kroll '63 reside. They are both very active in the New Democratic Coalition in Queens and in a new organization called Fund for New Priorities, which is "working against the military drain on the nation and misdirected national priorities." Last winter Gray Hodges and Paul Wexelblat were married and now reside at 18A Forest St., #43, Cambridge, Mass.

Nan Seelig Podewils has been working for over a year at Family Service of Delaware County. If you have any problems with your husband or child, contact Nan at 410 Woodlawn Ave, #C-1, Collingdale, Pa. Sue (Loveland) and Giles Shepherd '63 are in a newly built house in North Carolina. While Sue cares for daughter Kelly, Shep teaches physics and physical science at Western Piedmont Community College.

Last summer Joyce Yelencsics became Mrs. Frederick Rosevear. Their home is at 6130 Century Ave., #204D, Middleton, Wis., where they are attending the U of Wisconsin, he in secondary science education and she as a grad student in psychology with the UW Primate Center.

Dorothy Brown Janis is a retired third grade teacher at Secor Rd., Mahopac. Last spring Mark Lewis was born to Nina (Schwartz) and Norman Lotstein '63. His crib resides at 34 B. Hamilton Ct., Stamford, Conn.

The following classmates have been uncovered: Sally Fry Morgens, 3 Maple Hill Rd., Hopkins, Minn.; Terry Kohleriter Schwartz, 185 Parkwood Ave., Rochester; Marilyn Zesch, 64 Culebra Terr., San Francisco, Cal.; Linda Fischer Troy, 90 Gordon Hurst Ave., Upper Montclair, NJ; Janet Snyder Rooker, 5 Horizon Rd., #1604, Ft. Lee, NJ; Elissa Sena, 1105 Rutledge St., Madison, Wis.; Susan Schafflander, 193-15C 73rd Ave., Flushing; Carol Sander, 2041 Penfield Rd., Penfield; Margaret Mulholland, 1247 Redondo Dr., San Jose, Cal.; Penny Skitol Haitkin, 3030 Edwin Ave., Ft. Lee, NJ; Joyce Crego Dwyer, 42 Midland Dr., Webster; Marjorie Sussman Davis, 55 W. 14th St., 10K, New York; Cheryl Kurtzer Brachfeld, 433 E. 82nd St., New York; Jane Mushabac, 170 Second Ave., New York.

Sharon Plahy has been involved in the nutrition aide program for families to provide nutrition education in South Jersey. She lives at Chestnut Square #64, Vineland, NJ. Eileen Cholden Herman has recently moved to 17 Mont Ave., Dix Hills, with husband and two daughters. Jeanne Serenberg Gallagher is up north at Newport Center Rd., Newport, Vt. Husband Greg '65 is doing large and small animal work while Jeanne is working part-time as a physical therapist in the local hospital and consulting with nursing homes.

Joan Herman Benjamin is busy caring for three children and mighty proud of husband Steve '64, PhD '68, who has been appointed assistant professor of comparative medicine at the Hershey Medical Center. Their address is 2508 Garrison Ave., Harrisburg, Pa.

Please note the new address at the top of the column when you send a note to me this month about what's new (hint!). Mary and I just moved down the street to celebrate our new jobs (that's all!). Mary is now in charge of the Management Intern Program at the Internal Revenue Service. I am now off the Intern Program at the National Institutes of Health, and am assistant to the executive officer for one of the divisions, the Div. of Educational & Research Facilities, to be exact. This means I am the budget officer for the division, which gives grants for the construction of new medical, dental, etc., schools. I am also traveling around the country to prospective grantees, writing speeches and testimony, and designing a computer system. I think it's a great job.

I'm proud to report that a '66er has been selected as one of the 1969-70 group of White House Fellows. Bill Kilberg, just out of Harvard Law School, will work for a year on the immediate staff of Secretary of Labor Schultz as a special assistant. There were 18 White House Fellows selected from over 1,000 applicants.

Speaking of Harvard, a bunch of '66ers have just received graduate degrees. Receiving law degrees were Ken Abbott (magna cum laude), George Glover (cum laude), Ronald Goldstock, David Grant, Edward Haber (cum laude), David Landrey, Bill Kilberg (that White House Fellow), Brian Meltzer, Richard Mezan, Stephan Moldof, Ken Oettle, Roger Schnapp, Bob Schubert (cum laude), and Richard Turbin. Other Harvard advanced degrees went to Douglas Gurin (MCP), Francis Kearns (bachelor of divinity cum laude), Robert Leaf (doctor of dental medicine), Gary Schwartz (AM), and Lee Swardenski (MBA).

Tom Cleary was second in the NY Amateur Golf Championship in July, and is a real optimist (all insurance men are) about the future. Jim Pawlicki was married in July after working for a year as a veterinarian in Honeoye Falls. He married an Ithaca girl, Karen Marie Mix, who was a secretary in the Vet School. Another DVM in our class, David Scoville, was married on June 24, also to an Ithaca girl, Cheryl Clough. David is now attending Faith Theological Seminary, just outside Philadelphia. Another '66er to take the vows was Bob Kerchner who is going for his PhD in physics. He married another doctoral candidate, Marcia Davis, whose study is in computer science. They will be living at 522 Dryden Rd. Mike Turback, owner of the restaurant of the same name on the Elmira Rd. was married to Marsha Rocker, a senior in the Arts college. Address: 919 Elmira Rd.

Lt. John Van Amber has finished a training course for aircraft maintenance officers and is being assigned to Plattsburgh AFB. Got a letter from Bucky Buchwald '66, now a captain in the Army. He is in Vietnam as the commander of an artillery battery. He has the Bronze Star with "V" and the Army Commendation Medal. He, wife Peggy, and Bucky Jr. will be in Ft. Sill, Okla., for training starting in January 1970.

Lots of weddings, lots of babies, and lots of other news to report.

Marion King married David Lonsdale '67 and they are both working towards doctorates. They live at 27-8 Ross Ade Dr., West Lafayette, Ind. Barbara McConnel is now Mrs. O. B. Pettit Jr. and mother of a son, David Zachary. Barb is working at the Aku Tiki Motel in Daytona Beach, Fla. Address: 1055 Volusia Ave. in Daytona Beach.

Betsy Cohn is now the wife of Graham Barkham LLB '65, MPA '67, and living at 330 Third Ave., New York. Betsy received an MS in special education from Columbia and spent some time teaching neurologically impaired children in New York. Sondra (Turner) and Bill Robb spent a year in Pottsdam after their marriage while Bill worked on his master's at Clarkson. Sondra and Bill now live at 3710 Jean Pl., Apt. B, Metairie, La., with their St. Bernard, Brandy!

Pamela Hobart Obolsky and husband David live at 20 Valley Ave., Apt. 6-B, Westwood, NJ, where Dave is a pharmacist and Pam is a bilingual secretary (Spanish-English and some French).

Carol Farren was married to Steven Bagdan '65 last May. Cornellians at the wedding were Carol Helmke Sapaki '67, Al Sapaki '65, Ginny Schein Dunda '65, Georgie Wiggins '65, Dave Kirtland '65, and Stanley Sterenberg '65, best man. The Bagdans are living temporarily at 316 E. 34th St., Apt. 5D, New York. Mary (Bunny) Whitley was married to David Brima Rogers recently. Cornellians in the wedding party were Ebow Essandoh and Henry Richardson, and soloist Sharon Williams '69. Other Cornellians at the wedding were Janet Simons, Diana Frese, Suzette LaVigne Woessner, and Margaret Knight Snowman. Bunny has received an MS in nutrition from Syracuse and David, a graduate of Hampton Institute, has been working as a structural designer. Write to them c/o Whitley, 1316 Prospect Pl., Brooklyn, since they will soon be moving to Sierra Leone.

Donna Gier Sprague writes that her husband, Ellis, has been discharged from the Navy and is now working for the forestry dept. at the U of Vermont in Burlington. Donna and Ellis live at Lake Sunset Trailer Court, RD 1, Richmond, Vt., with their son, Steven Ellis (born Feb. 12, 8 lbs., 2 oz.). Thanks for writing, Donna.

From Carol Baker Sabora comes word that she is teaching English and creative writing in high school while husband Bob is working towards his PhD in English and teaching freshman English at the U of Connecticut. Their address is 18 D Dartmouth Rd., Storrs, Conn.

Joanna Tom received an MBA from the U of Michigan last summer and is now a program specialist with the Pacific Training Council, the training arm of the Hawaii Hotel Assn. Her function is to coordinate hotel training programs for disadvantaged employes hired by hotels under a federal training contract. Joanna lives at 4451 Sierra Dr., Honolulu, Hawaii.

Jeanne Mozier has what sounds like a very interesting job in Washington, DC. She is a propaganda analyst for the CIA with Vietnam as her area. She has worked there since completing her MA in international relations at Columbia. She was a bridesmaid at Jane Weikel's wedding to Bryce Manthorne (they live at 203½ E. Fairmount Ave., State College, Pa.) and says Becky Moore Lipowich was there, too. Jeanne loves Washington but hasn't seen very many Cornellians there and wonders if "I just don't make the right scene." Write to Jeanne at 1200 S. Courthouse Rd., Apt. 239, Arlington, Va.

Madeleine Levine Fay writes that husband Freddy '65 is finishing his PhD in physiology this year and she is kept busy by Andy, 2½, and Nicki, 1. The Fays live at 30 Peabody Terr., Cambridge, Mass.

Joyce Wilcox Graff is teaching French in Ann Arbor, Mich., while Frank '65 is working for his PhD in history at the U of Michigan. Joyce says Ann Arbor is nice, although it's not "half as pretty as Ithaca." Joyce and Frank live at 826 S. Main St., Ann Arbor.

Mary Wellington was to lead a group for the Experiment in International Living to Germany for the summer. Mary received an MAT from Harvard and has been teaching German at Darien High School in Connecticut.

Friends of Jerry Kestenbaum '65 might be interested to know that he is married and living in Yonkers, where he works for the American Chicle Co. Sorry, I don't have his address.

That's all for October; much more in the months to come!

R. Steven Jonas is enrolled in the urban teacher preparation program at Syracuse U, having just finished two years of alternative service as a conscientious objector. He spent the time at Hawthorne Cedar Knoll School in Hawthorne and at the Wiltwyck School for Boys in Yorktown where he worked with emotionally disturbed children. Wife Paulette Stewart '68 taught at Yorktown High and will teach in Syracuse this year; their address: 806 South Ave., Syracuse.

The Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York, in a missive from Fraunces Tavern, have informed me that James Yancy Brame III was elected to membership in their society last May 19 "through descent from his Revolutionary War ancestor, Joseph Ramsey, who enlisted in 1776, at the age of 29, as a private in the Unterdon County (New Jersey) Militia and was at the battles of Long Island, Short Hills, and Springfield."

Melzar Thayer Richards and Jane Catherine Marshall '68 were married in Ithaca last June 28. William Fuess was best man; other Cornellians in the wedding were ushers David Johnson '69 and Arthur Neal '68, and bridesmaids Eileen Barkas '69, Andy Roberts '68, Cathy Sutton '68, and Robin Silverstein '68. Mel and Jane are living in Baltimore where he's studying at the U of Maryland Dental School.

Also wed over the summer were Bob Laureno and Karen Knoller, in New York last July. Bob's in his third year at Cornell Medical College. David Rutherford wed Diane Elizabeth Barr; among the ushers was David Console. A graduate of Wells, Diane is a candidate for a master's degree in zoology at Syracuse U; Dave is an electrical engineer with Crouse Hinds Co.

Married in Forest Hills last June were Josef W. Konvitz and Isa Naomi Schwartzberg, a graduate of Queens College and Columbia U, where she is on the library staff of Teachers College. Josef is a candidate for the PhD in French history at Princeton.

Degrees aplenty to report: Jeffrey Cuzzi received his MS in geology from Caltech, while Hubert P. Conlon Jr. and William R. Romig were awarded the MS degree by the U of Delaware in horticulture and plant pathology, respectively. Harvard conferred AM degrees on Henry C. Kelly, Howard L. Reiter, and Reeve D. Vanneman; Donald R. Shapiro received his MBA.

Michael F. Hall was named a research physicist at B.F. Goodrich's Brecksville, Ohio, research and development center. He resides at 4088 Brush Rd., West Richfield, Ohio.

Cal Warren was appointed sales manager of Homeway Sales in Ithaca, where he and wife Carole live at 125 South St.

Vista's training program at the U of Oregon graduated Byron Rendar, who will spend a year working in Portland, Ore., for a community action agency. Pvt. Jonathan B. Lyttle completed military police training at Ft. Gordon, Ga. Lt. Terry P. Erdle arrived for duty as a weapons controller with the Aerospace Defense Command at Duluth, Minn., international airport. Ben Capparossa was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force upon graduation from OTS at Lackland AFB, Texas. He has been assigned to Craig AFB, Ala., for pilot training.

The letters were late going out, I'm told, but do forward your class dues to Allan Paller since the subscription list must be sliced soon if we are to take advantage of the ALUMNI NEWS Group Subscription Plan. And add a note or two on where you are and what you're doing.

It's a delight to write this month's column because so many of you sent news. Ellen Schmidt, for instance, wrote to tell us about her recent marriage. She met her husband, Stephen Greenblatt, at Yale, while she was taking an MAT and he was finishing up a PhD in English. They are living out in Berkeley where Steve is an assistant professor and Ellen teaches high school English.

June Sobelsohn married Dr. Michael Lee, a pediatrician, back in April. June and Michael were introduced by Amy Rubin Marcus and her husband Steve. Seems that Steve and Michael were roommates back in medical school. The Lees are living at 815 Thayer Ave., Silver Spring, Md., while Mike has a fellowship at Walter Reed Hospital, compliments of the Army. June plans to teach this fall.

Marjorie Lodwig Rayburn and husband Walker '67 have completed MS degrees at North Carolina State. Marjorie has her degree in genetics and Walker has his in zoology. They are living at RD 5, Chambersburg, Pa.

The Ithaca Journal reported the July 26 wedding of Virpi Pantilla and James Warner Loomis. Ellen Lampila was maid of honor. Virpi is a probation officer for the Chemung County Probation Dept. and Jim works in the School of TV & Radio at Ithaca College. They are living in Van Etten.

At the Harvard commencement exercises in June, six of our classmates received the MAT degree. Congratulations go to Jane Capellupo, Nina Gould, Kate Klippert, Mary Neufeld, Claudia Sack, and Sandy Stone. And at Drexel Institute of Technology in June, Lynn Baxter Blaine received an MS in library science.

Keep the news coming!

Here's a switch. In Warren Franz's engineering work on avionics systems, he writes that he has "had the unexpected opportunity to apply everything that I learned while at Cornell." Warren applies his knowledge as a consultant with Booz, Allen Applied Research in Bethesda, Md. His work has brought him into contact with many top Navy officials in the Washington area. In addition to finishing up on a master's degree in aerospace engineering, Warren spends his evenings studying languages and training in karate. His address is Apt. 1005, Triangle Towers, 4853 Cordell Ave., Bethesda, Md.

After reading this column in July's NEWS, Russell Stein (444 Community Dr., Manhasset) dashed off a note telling me he had seen David Radin, this class's world traveler whose whereabouts are never certain. Russ saw David in Hawaii last April while the former was there "surfing and taking some courses at the U of Hawaii." Dave, wearing all his possessions on his back, apparently saw the Cornell decal on Russ's Volkswagen bus and dropped in on him. Reliable sources have traced David to his home base of New York where he was residing at the end of the summer.

Jay Berke was relaxing on the Long Beach (NY) shores when I saw him in August. Jay recently married Susan Zodikoff and has begun his second year of law school at NYU.

Unfortunately, I was unable to attend the wedding of two of our classmates in Chevy Chase, Md., Aug. 16. Alfred (Tod) Reynolds and Susan W. Bowie were married that day. Tod, former photography editor of the Cornellian, had been studying landscape architecture at Berkeley.

Rudolf G. Richter (82 Lincoln St., Garden City) was part of the mission support team for the Apollo XI lunar landing mission that this country rejoiced in last summer. Rudy had been working for Grumman Aerospace as an analytic engineer in the environmental control subsystem of the lunar module program. Due to his knowledge of the system, Rudy landed the job of lending technical support to the NASA flight controllers in Houston. Presently Rudy is in his second year of graduate study at Polytechnic Institute in thermal engineering.

Paul E. Dunn has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, and is now assigned in the supply field. Henry E. Ketcham has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force upon graduating from Officer Training School, also at Lackland. Henry's next step was to Laredo AFB for pilot training. Also in the air force is Robert E. Lange, presently with the tactical air command after being trained as a radio repairman.

David W. Fradin and Stephen G. Wagner both received master of science degrees from Harvard last June. Thomas C. Schongalla is back at Cornell business school, after serving in the Army and working as an administrative resident in Highland Hospital in Rochester.

John S. Stambaugh completed his master's in electrical engineering from Cornell and is employed by Singer Industries. John's new address is Knox Ter., Apt. 44, 1-A, Wayne, NJ.

Finally, as reported in the L.A. Times, Christopher F. Hoerber married Mary L. Gould last spring. The groom is continuing his engineering studies at Cornell.

Reminder: Homecoming is Oct. 11 against Princeton.

'68 Women: Mary Louise Hartman
22 Godwin Lane
St. Louis, Mo. 63124

Karen Pollack was married on May 29 to Charles Schader (Dartmouth '68). Chuck is entering his second year at NYU Law and Karen is working for the NYS Dept. of Social Services. After their honeymoon in Bermuda, they moved to 54 Orange St., Brooklyn.

Janet Catalfano married Randall Snyder '69 on May 31 in Ithaca. After a honeymoon in Virginia, they returned to Ithaca to live at 764 Triphammer Rd. Randall is a student in the Vet College.

Elizabeth Drake was married to John W. G. Lowe on Dec. 27 in Urbana, Ill. Since their marriage, Elizabeth discontinued her graduate studies at U of Michigan School of Social Work and is now selling ladies' ready-to-wear. John is working toward his PhD at U of Illinois in Champaign where he had a teaching assistantship. This summer he entered Army OCS.

Karolyn (Kinsinger) and A. Richard Mangeot are living at 414 Fountain Ct., Louisville, Ky. Richard, who received a CO classification last summer, is doing alternative service as a floor boy for Goodwill Industries. Karolyn is a church and community worker for four inner city churches and a settlement house.

Marion (Wong) and Richard Chew '66 have a baby daughter, Lisa Susan, born May 9. They are living in Vestal.

Sharon Wolf Wright writes that she and Rick '67 celebrated their first anniversary July 6. They were married in Sage Chapel. The reception served as a farewell party to their Cornell friends. Their honeymoon was a three-week trip cross-country to San Diego where they went to live. Recently they purchased their first home and now spend most of their spare time fixing up the place and gardening. Rick works for the Navy, having been transferred to San Diego from Washington, DC. That means he takes plenty of cruises at sea in order to gather research data. His most frequent West Coast ports are San Francisco and Portland. He has also been up to Alaska and said the country up there is great. Soon he hopes to see Hawaii and Japan. Sharon is a medical technologist trainee at one of the local hospitals. After the one-year training program she will be able to register with the ASCP and will be qualified to work in a hospital laboratory. Most of this work consists of pathology and blood-banking. They have run into David Bouck '66 and on a recent trip to San Francisco saw Lindy Zesch '65 and her roommate, Betsy Bierds '66. Other classmates of ours whom she has heard from are her former roommate, Bobbi Harmon Garman and husband Jack '67 who are living in Hollywood, Fla., and were expecting their first child in September.

Jeanne Hughes is in Rochester doing social work. Another social worker is Karen Faber Haberman in Endwell. Mary (Sander) and Tim Janaitis '67 are in one of the Maryland suburbs of Washington. He is an oceanographer with the Navy and she is teaching. Phyllis Lepri Meyer is at Purdue doing graduate work.

'69 Men: Steven Kussin
812 E. 22nd St.
Brooklyn, N.Y. 11210

Several foreign students have already contacted me. Hans Ola Berg is an assistant to the manager with the Esso Motor Hotel in Stockholm, Sweden. Hugh N. Dawes has returned to Jamaica, West Indies, to serve as an extension officer at the Ministry of Agriculture & Lands. George Dommering has entered the Law School at the U of Leiden, Holland. An interesting note came from Christopher R. Davidson. "My mother came from Australia for my graduation—and I traveled with her for a month around the US. In July, I left for one year of teaching animal science at the U of Venezuela—after which I will leave for a tour of Europe and Asia, before finally heading home."

Another round of June marriages. First, on May 31, Erik K. Lunkenheimer wed Carol A. Crowley, Grad, in St. Catherine of Siena Church in Ithaca. On June 19, Martin Isenman and Phyllis Wolff were married in Brooklyn. And on June 21, John F. Brady III and Darlene V. Donsel were wed in Sage Chapel. They will live in West Springfield, Mass.

August was also a busy marriage month: a wedding a week. On the third, Richard Greenberg and Marion Eckstein were married on Long Island. On the tenth Howard Liebovitz wed Reesa Mensch. On the 16th, Fred J. Keller and Merial Kay Ezell were married in Texas. And on the 23rd, R. Peet Brown and Suzanne Devins were wed in Croton-on-Hudson.

Two other marriages reported: Syracuse U's Hendrick's Chapel was the setting for the wedding of Robert Henry Jacobs and Barbara Jean Pomeroy. And Timothy Blankenhorn and Elizabeth Ann Peters were married in Los Angeles.

Michael Waxman is attending Boston College Law School. Robert Ganz is returned to Cornell to get his master's in chemical engineering. And Phillip A. Griswold is working for his MS at the U of Vermont where he is a graduate resident advisor.

Donald P. Bredder has joined the Babcock & Wilcox Co. in the initial phase of a company-wide orientation program. He participated in a five-week session at Barberton, Ohio, prior to being assigned to the naval nuclear division field. Ronald J. Fitzgerald is a staff engineer with Procter & Gamble.

THE GIFT OF LIFE
ONLY YOU CAN GIVE.
RED CROSS BLOOD PROGRAM.

Bruce W. Waddell is a pharmaceutical sales representative with the Upjohn Co. Jeffrey Gersten spent the summer working at Monticello Race Track. No word on what he is doing now.

Chip Cargas, recently commissioned a Naval officer, is in Georgia doing his ROTC stint. Mark Friedman spent the summer working for the new Federal Dept. of Transportation. He is currently teaching in the Baltimore school system. Peter Schubert is teaching in New York, and Greg Churchill is in the Peace Corps.

I've heard from and about several "new" classmates. First, three Cornellians have requested change of classification. Welcome Seth G. Kaye, William H. Maddison, and Christopher Ritter to the '69 ranks. Also, more news from our foreign students. Naem S. Mirza is the assistant manager at the Hotel Intercontinental in Lahore, Pakistan. He and wife Farida have one daughter, 3½, who goes to nursery school. Koji Hayashi sends his new address in Japan: 31-2, 1-chome, Momoi, Suruginami-ku, Tokyo.

I usually will not print the address of each person mentioned in the column since I want to include as many people as possible in the limited space I am given. However, I am keeping an up-to-date file of all mailing addresses. If you would like to know where someone can be reached, just drop me a postcard, and you'll get a quick reply.

This column is being written before the September issue is published. Hence, I'm still waiting for feedback from you on our class project. If you would like to make a contribution toward our new goal, please write a check payable to "Class of 1969 Endowment Fund" and mail it to me at the above address. By the way, the July figures (based on pledges paid) for the Senior Gift drive total over $3,000.

June Schlecker Orkin writes to say that she and husband Rick '68 spent seven weeks last summer on a car tour of France, Italy, and Switzerland. June is now the assistant director of financial aids at Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia. Rick is completing his MBA requirements at Wharton Business School. They can be reached at Penzel Apts., B-13, State Rd., Upper Darby, Pa.

Judy Marsilio has signed on to be a systems analyst for EDP div. of BES of the Pennsylvania Dept. of Labor & Industry. Letters to Judy should be addressed to Apt. 42A, Thomas St., Harrisburg, Pa.

Aug. 21 was the wedding day for Bonita Fair who married Michael Granat Langsdorf, Johns Hopkins '67. They are now living in Philadelphia as Michael is finishing doctoral studies at the U of Pennsylvania.

Jane Bupp Harwood is now living in Denver, Col., where husband Alexander '67, is stationed in the Air Force. At last word she was looking for a job as a home economics teacher.

Word from Penelope Smith Austin, member of the Class of '69 who transferred to San Jose State: She and her husband are now the parents of Clement Robert Austin IV. Her husband is at Stanford Business School.

Allison Ferris spent her summer as an intern with the Agency for International Development in Washington and as a volunteer for the National Capitol Housing Authority. September found her at the U of Chicago Business School.

Do You Believe in Your Stocks?

Think over your list for a moment.

Do you have confidence in all your stocks—or were some of them bought on impulse—the casual remark of a friend, somebody's assurance that a certain issue was "hot"?

If you think that some of your holdings may not be all-weather friends, this is a good time to place your investments with the Trust Company.
