A TENSE MOMENT UNDER THE BASKET IN BARTON HALL

Wetter Water is on the job

THE SMOKE SWELLS . . . the flames roar . . . firemen push into the heart of the conflagration behind a wall of spray. Then almost as if by magic the crackling flames die down . . . the fire is out.

Wetter water is on the job again!

What is this remarkable fire fighting tool? How can water be wetter? The answer is an astonishing chemical called Unox Penetrant.

Add as little as one per cent of Unox Penetrant to water and a wonderful change takes place. The water actually becomes wetter . . . spreads rapidly and evenly . . . sinks almost instantly into any even slightly porous surface.

Sprayed on burning wallboard, wood, even bales of cotton—wetter water penetrates below the burnt outside to the fire beneath . . . puts it out faster with less than one-third of the water usually needed.

Fire departments find that Unox Penetrant reduces fire, smoke and water damage . . . makes the fireman's work safer and more efficient. Alumni Help Campus Celebrate Willard Straight Hall Birthday

WILLARD STRAIGHT Memorial Room was filled, December 15, for a gala birthday dinner celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Hall's opening. All former members of the board of managers and board of governors of the Hall had been invited to come back to the Campus to help celebrate the twenty-five years of service of the student union building. Many of these alumni were at the dinner, together with Deans and administrative officers of the University, wives and husbands.

Friends Honor Coffin '12

The dinner was also a tribute to Foster M. Coffin '12, Director of Willard Straight Hall ever since its doors were first opened, November 18, 1925. Ray S. Ashbery '25, who was assistant director of the Hall its first five years, paid tribute to Coffin's leadership and presented to him a book containing signatures and notes of greeting of those who had been connected with the Hall, announcing that $600 had been deposited to his account to do with as he pleases, the gift of his present and former associates. Ashbery also presented to Coffin, as an ardent supporter of the Brooklyn Dodgers, a life pass to their games and a telegram from Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, offering his congratulations and a box seat for any home game at Ebbets Field.

Kenneth S. Jaffe '51, president of Willard Straight Hall, introduced at the speakers' table Harry S. Waterbury of the firm of Delano & Aldrich, architects of the building; Doris A. Baird '51, chairman of the anniversary committee for the board of managers; L. D. Froelich, a friend of the late Willard Straight '01 and editor of the magazine, Asia, which Straight founded; Acting President Cornelis W. de Kiewiet; Coffin; Mrs. de Kiewiet; and Edgar A. Whiting '29, assistant director of the Hall.

Building's Service Noted

Whiting presented watches to five employees who had been at Willard Straight Hall since it opened: to Coffin and from a front table, Mrs. Grace Bakko, head housekeeper; Mrs. Anna B. Campbell, ticket office manager; Burt Middaugh, chief engineer of the building; and Howard F. Schlicht, head of the receiving department. President de Kiewiet paid tribute to Coffin and to the important place that he has built for Willard Straight Hall in the life of the University. Greetings from Mrs. Leonard K. Elmhirst, widow of Willard Straight, who gave the building, were extended on a recording made in England for the occasion by British Broadcasting Corp., and a recording of greetings from Willard Straight's son, Michael Straight, ended with a message from his eight-year-old son, David, saying that he hoped to follow his grandfather to Cornell in ten years.

Coffin, speaking of the experiences of twenty-five years, noted that thirteen former presidents of the Hall were present and three of the social directors. He called to their feet Fred Todkill of Dartington Hall, England, an associate there of Leonard K. Elmhirst '21 and Mrs. Elmhirst, and George Bennett, who had been a friend and neighbor of the Straight family in Old Westbury.

After the dinner, the company were guests at a Dramatic Club performance of the Cornell musical, "Once Upon a Hill," in the Willard Straight Theater, and afterward, gathered for renewal of old acquaintances in the south lounge of the building.

Week-long Celebration

The celebration of the anniversary began with a Sunday afternoon broadcast by University Station WHCU, December 10, in which incidents from the life of Willard Straight '01 were dramatized. Romeyn Berry '04 spoke of him as a fellow-student and associate on the Widow board. Coffin spoke of him and of the Hall built in his memory, and Mrs. Elmhirst's and Michael Straight's recorded messages were broadcast.

In various rooms of the building during the week were exhibited examples of Willard Straight's drawings and paintings, pictures, student scrap-books, and object of art which he collected; an exhibit of historical pictures of the University; and a collection of photographs of college unions all over the country, of which Willard Straight Hall was one of the first.

A mammoth 200-pound birthday cake, created and decorated with silver in the University bakery, was displayed on a raised platform in Memorial Room, and some 4500 pieces were served, with punch, to all comers, most of the day, December 14. Part of the birthday celebration, for students, were the usual holiday tea dance, December 15, and an elaborate Christmas open house, December 16, the Saturday evening before vacation.

Foresters Honor Professor Hosmer

PROFESSOR RALPH S. HOSMER, Forestry, Emeritus, received the highest forestry award in the English-speaking nations, December 15, during the golden anniversary meeting of the Society of American Foresters in Washington, D. C. The Society awarded him its Sir William Schlich Medal, previously given to only five persons: President Franklin D. Roosevelt; Gifford Pinchot, founder of the Society; Henry S. Graves, dean of the Yale school of forestry; Colonel William B. Greeley, Federal Forester from 1920-33; and Herman H. Chapman of the Yale school.

Professor Hosmer's citation read in part, "A graduate in forestry of Yale University, Ralph Hosmer served with distinction as a field assistant in the old Bureau of Forestry (now the US Forest Service) from 1898-1903, as superintendent of forestry of the Territory of Hawaii from 1904-14, and as professor of forestry and head of the Department of Forestry at Cornell University from 1914-42, when he became professor emeritus. A charter member of the Society of American Foresters in 1900, he has served as president in 1923, as author of the historical summaries of the Society published in 1940 and 1950, and as chairman of the Society's Committee on International Relations. He was elected a Fellow in 1932."

Sixty-five alumni attended a Cornell dinner, December 14, in Hotel Mayflower, including eleven graduates of the "old" New York State College of Forestry at Cornell, 1898-1903. They represented the twenty-eight living alumni of the fifty-two who stayed in forestry work. These were Hugh M.

Curran '00, Raphael Zon '01, Ernest A. Sterling '02, Stanton G. Smith '03, Burt P. Kirkland '05, Jay P. Kinney '03, Herbert O. Stabler '03, Horace E. Brinkerhoff '06, and William C. Shepard '07. Charles A. Gillett '25 was dinner chairman.

Writes History of Cornell Teaching

Cornellians at the dinner received copies of Professor Hosmer's new booklet, "Forestry at Cornell: 1898-1948." Published by the College of Agriculture at Humphrey Press, Geneva, it tells the complete story of Cornell's work in this field, with information on Faculty, students, alumni, equipment, research, publications, and other matters.

Because of its limited edition, it is available only to libraries of forestry schools in this country and Canada, and to alumni of the "old" College of Forestry or of the Department of Forestry (1910-1937). These alumni may request copies from Professor Hosmer. An up-to-date directory of names and addresses of living Forestry alumni was prepared by Gillett and distributed at the dinner.

Cornellians Take Part

Eleven alumni participated in the Society meetings: David B. Cook '24, New York State Conservation Department, Albany; John R. Curry '24, Northeastern Forest Experiment Station, Paul Smiths; Daniel DenUyl, MF '26, Purdue department of forestry; Bernard Frank '25, Division of Forest Influences, US Forest Service, Washington; Gillett, American Forest Products Industries, Washington; Paul A. Herbert '21, Michigan State College division of conservation; Willard R. Hine '19, US Forest Service, Atlanta, Ga.; Sterling, Montrose, Pa.; Professor Earl L. Stone, Jr., PhD '48, Agronomy; Harold G. Wilm, PhD '32, US Forest Service, Portland, Ore.; Zon, St. Paul, Minn.; and Professor Hosmer.

Charles W. Mattison '28 was publicity chairman for the convention and Seth Jackson '25 and Frank served on committees.

Professor Hosmer contributed the chapter on "Education in Professional Forestry" in the Society's anniversary book, "Fifty Years of Forestry in the U.S.A.," published in December. He also wrote the lead article in the November Journal of Forestry, "The Society of American Foresters: an Historical Summary."

He attended the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Yale school of forestry in New Haven, Conn., December 11-12, and contributed a chapter on "Yale Foresters as Teachers" in the book, The First Half Century of the Yale School of Forestry. Its editor is Samuel N. Spring, dean emeritus of New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse and professor of Silviculture in the Cornell Department of Forestry from 1912-31.

Employees Take Benefits

AMENDMENT of the Federal Social Security Act made it possible for employees of the University for the first to participate in the retirement and death benefits of the Act if two-thirds of those eligible elect to do so. The Trustees approved an enabling resolution and about 90 per cent of some 2100 service and administrative employees, Faculty and staff of the endowed Colleges elected to participate. For these, beginning January 1, the University contributes 1½ per cent of salaries and wages up to $3600 a year and each employee has an equal amount deducted from his pay. Employees of the State divisions are not covered, since they participate in the State retirement system.

The five full-time staff members of the ALUMNI NEWS, as employees of the Cornell Alumni Association, a separate corporation from the University, all elected to participate.

Give Fall Degrees

THE UNIVERSITY awarded 363 degrees to students at Ithaca, September 19, after the Summer Session: 109 first degrees and 254 advanced degrees. Fifteen students who were doubly registered in Arts and the Medical College received the AB as of June 12.

Fifty-four students in all received the AB. The BS was granted to twenty-two in Agriculture, ten in Hotel Administration, eight in Industrial and Labor Relations, and five in Home Economics. Four persons received the BEE, three the BME, two the BEE, and one the BChemE.

The PhD was awarded to ninety-eight advanced students, the AM to thirty-three, and the MS to ninety-two. Of the MS, twenty-three were in Education, nine in Agriculture, and three in Industrial and Labor Relations. Eleven received the MEE, six the MME, five MEd, three MCE, and one each Doctor of Education, MChemE, MFA, Master of Nutritional Science, Master of Aeronautical Engineering, and Master of Regional Planning.

In addition, the MD was conferred on seventy-eight students, June 14 in New York City; the BS in Nursing was awarded to thirty-one, September 26, and to five last March 17.

Fraternities Get Awards

INTERFRATERNITY ALUMNI Association honored Sigma Phi and Sigma Chi at its annual award dinner in Statler Hall, December 8, and the Interfraternity Council, meeting in Willard Straight Hall December 10, gave special awards to Sigma Phi, Pi Lambda Phi, Alpha Zeta, and Alpha Chi Rho.

H. Victor Grohmann '28, president of the Interfraternity Alumni Association, presented to Sigma Phi the Association's Achievement Award for outstanding performance in scholarship and Campus activities beneficial to the University community and to Sigma Chi the Association's Improvement Award for the greatest advancement in the same two fields. Josiah B. Dodds '51 accepted for Sigma Phi and James E. Struh '53 for Sigma Chi large plaques to be retained for one year and replicas for permanent possession.

The Improvement Award was awarded for the first time this year. The Achievement Award was given for the first time last year and was won by Psi Upsilon.

Acting President Cornelis W. de Kiewiet, Dean of Men Frank C. Baldwin '22, and President of the Interfraternity Council Donald T. Grady '51 spoke at the dinner.

Interfraternity Council plaques went to Sigma Phi for greatest participation in extra-curricular activities; to Pi Lambda Phi for the greatest contribution to University life; to Alpha Zeta as the house with the highest scholastic average; and to Alpha Chi Rho for greatest improvement in scholarship.

Interfraternity Council sponsored again this year a Pledge Activities Week which ended the night of December 17 with an assembly of all pledges in the Willard Straight Memorial Room. The Rev. Richard B. Stott, chaplain to Episcopal students at the University, addressed the group of some 150 pledges on "The Responsibilities of a New Initiate to the Fraternity," and Glenn

W. Ferguson '50, president of the IFC last year, also spoke. Pledge exchange dinners among all houses were held December 13 and five fraternities were hosts at smokers for all pledges, December 15.

Dean Cottrell To Leave

ANNOUNCEMENT came from Russell Sage Foundation, New York City, in mid-December that Dean Leonard S. Cottrell, Jr., Arts and Sciences, would join its staff as social psychologist. The appointment is effective February 1, but during the spring term, Dean Cottrell will divide his time between the work of the Foundation and conclusion of his duties at the University. As social psychologist with the Foundation, Dean Cottrell will plan and direct research in social psychology and study its application to practical problems in human relations. He will work with the staffs of various universities.

Dean Cottrell received the BS in 1922 at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, the AM at Vanderbilt University in 1926, and the PhD at the University of Chicago in 1933. After teaching sociology at the University of Chicago for four years, he came to Cornell in 1935 as assistant professor of Rural Social Organization. He was appointed professor of Sociology in 1938, became chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology the next year, in 1945 was made head also of Rural Sociology, and in May, 1948, was appointed Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. As Dean, he has been a consistent advocate of closer integration and coordination of the teaching of the various Departments and appraisal of the over-all program both within the College and as a basis of liberal education for the University.

Since last summer, Dean Cottrell has been secretary of the Trustee-Faculty committee appointed to consider the selection of a President.

On leave from 1942-45, he was in Washington, D. C., as chief sociologist and director of survey analysis in the research branch of the special services division of the War Department. He edited the Social Science Research Memoranda Series on Social Aspects of the War, distributed in 1941, and since 1942 has made numerous studies of the morale of US troops. He has written and collaborated on several books including American Opinion on World Affairs in the Atomic Age and the widely-known Predicting Success or Failure in Marriage. He was president of the Sociological Research Association in 1949 and of the American Sociological Society in 1949-50, is a director and chairman of the policy committee of the Social Science Research Council and a member of Sigma Xi.

Memorialize Schoellkopf '06

SCHOLARSHIP FUND of $50,000 in memory of the late Paul A. Schoellkopf '06 has been established at the University through a gift from members of the Schoellkopf family and Niagara Falls Power Co. of which Schoellkopf was president at the time of his death. The fund will provide awards to students up to $1000 a year on the basis of scholastic aptitude and need. Among equally qualified applicants, preference will be given to those from New York State who are entering or enrolled in the School of Business and Public Administration, the College of Arts and Sciences, or the School of Electrical Engineering.

Alumni Trustee from 1939 until his death in 1947, Schoellkopf had been vice-chairman of the Trustee buildings and grounds committee and was a member of the committee of four Trustees under chairmanship of James Lynah '05 organized in January, 1941, to raise funds for expansion of the University's sports facilities. With his cousins, J. Frederick Schoellkopf '05 (University Trustee, 1928-38), Walter H. Schoellkopf '08, William G. Schoellkopf '19, and others he shared in contributing to the fund which in 1914 completed Schoellkopf Field and built the original stadium in memory of Jacob F. Schoellkopf, the founder of the family in this country. He was vice-president, and from 1931-34, president of the Cornellian Council. He was chairman of the boards of Power City Trust Co. and Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corp., a member of the Dean Leonard S. Cottrell, Jr.

Niagara Frontier Park Commission from 1915 until his death, and a director of numerous other utilities, real estate, and industrial firms.

Schoellkopf received the AB in 1906; was a member of the Varsity football team in 1903, of the Glee Club, Masque, Savage Club, Mummy, Quill and Dagger, and Zeta Psi. Paul A. Schoellkopf, Jr. '41 is his son.

Concerts Bring Praise

AN INSPIRING combination of individual and ensemble musicianship was evident through a concert by the Hungarian String Quartet, December 5 in Willard Straight Theater. The artists met the severe demands of chamber music, blending the tones of the separate instruments with accurate and lucid timing and interpretation.

This quality appeared particularly in the Bela Bartok Quartet No. 2. The composition, with its involved and dissonant harmonies, required and received the best of workmanship and the deepest of musical understanding. The program opened with the Haydn G major Quartet, Op. 77, No. 1, played with delicacy and clarity. Final number was the somewhat sombre Quartet in B flat major by Beethoven.

The four musicians were Zoltan Szekely and Alexander Moskowsky, violins; Denes Koromzay, viola; and Vilmos Palotai, 'cello.

Elena Nikolaidi, Greek contralto, charmed and delighted a University concert audience in Bailey Hall, December 12. Especially in a group of German Lieder by Gustav Mahler, in two folksongs of Greece, and in the aria from the sleep-walking scene of "Macbeth" by Verdi, the artist seemed completely to captivate her audience with the range of her talent and her sparkling personality. She opened her program with lyrics by Gluck, Purcell, and Morley; sang a group of Lieder by Franz Schubert; and an aria from the Rossini opera, "Semiramide."

Miss Nikolaidi and her accompanist, Jan Behr, were called back to the stage for three encores. After the concert, they were guests at a Statler Club reception.

To Consider Far East

SPEAKERS at the annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York will consider "Enigma of the East." They will be Arthur H. Dean '19, chairman of the Board of Trustees executive committee and of the Pacific Council, Institute of Pacific Relations; Catherine L. Porter '19, chief of the Philippine and Southeastern Asia section, Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs, US State Department; and Professor R. Lauriston Sharp, chairman of Sociology and Anthropology. Dorothy Peets '29, president of the Club, will preside at the luncheon, which will be in the Waldorf-Astoria Starlight Roof, February 3, at 12:30. Reservations may be made before January 31 with Mrs. Roy M. Hart (Adele Dyott), Grad '23-4, 135

East Fifty-fourth Street, New York 22.

Chairmen of the luncheon committee are Mrs. Richard Davis (Nathalie Cohen) '22 and Janet Kuntz '24.

Miami Club Active

CORNELL CLUB of Southeastern Florida organized for the winter season, December 10, at the Miami home of E. Eldridge Pennock '28 with its annual barbecue breakfast and election of officers. Pennock was elected president; Richard C. Steele '29, vice-president; James E. Neary '06, secretary; and Edwin G. Bishop '14, treasurer.

The Club entertained Jeffrey R. Fleischmann '51, Frank M. Miller '51, and John G. Pierik '51 while they were in Miami to play for the North in the annual North-South football game, Christmas night. January 19, Coach George K. James will speak before the Club and show movies of 1950 Cornell games. Re-activated last winter, the Club meets regularly in Miami and welcomes all Cornellians.

Publish Conference Report

PAPERS presented at the second annual Management Conference, sponsored by the Student Association of the School of Business and Public Administration at the University last February 10-11, have been published by the School.

The 107-page publication with the title of the theme of the conference, "Security in an Enterprise Economy," contains these speeches and the discussions that followed them: "General Economic and Sociological Aspects of Security and the Steel Board Recommendations" by Professor Carroll R. Daugherty of Northwestern, chairman of the President's fact-finding board in a steel industry dispute; "Informing Employees and the Community about Pension Plans" by Roscoe C. Edlund '09, chairman of the plans board of Fred Rudge, Inc., New York City, management consultants; "Government and Voluntary Security Programs" by J. Waldo Myers '13, manager of insurance and Social Security for Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; "Labor Unions and Security" by Stanley H. Ruttenberg, director of education and research, CIO; "The Role of the Federal Government in Social Security" by William L. Mitchell, deputy commissioner, Social Security Administration; "Financial and Economic Aspects of Security" by Emerson P. Schmidt, director of economic research, US Chamber of Commerce; and "Alternatives in Old-Age Security Plans" by Professor Joseph Shister of the University of Buffalo. The publication is $1.

This year's conference, scheduled for

C. Hadley Smith

February 9 and 10, will be devoted to "Mobilization," with speakers from government agencies, business, and labor organizations.

Professor Huzar Dies

PROFESSOR ELIAS HUZAR, Government, died unexpectedly December 28 in Washington, D. C., where he had gone to attend the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association. He had taught at the University since 1938.

Born in New York City in 1915, Professor Huzar received the AB at William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., in 1935, the AM in 1937 and the PhD in 1938 at Princeton. Joining the Faculty as an instructor, he became assistant professor in 1943 and associate professor in 1946.

From 1943-45, he was administrative analyst in the Bureau of the Budget and a consultant to the same Bureau in 1946 and 1947. In 1948, he served as a consultant on Indian affairs for the Hoover Commission and made a survey in Alaska for the Office of Indian Affairs. Last October, he lectured for a week to staff officers at the Army War College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., on the responsibility of Congress to provide for the armed services. He was the author of The Purse and the Sword, a study of Congressional spending for military purposes, and wrote widely for political and social science publications. The School of Business and Public Administration issued this year his paper on "Reorganization for National Security" as the first of its publications.

Professor Huzar married the former Eleanor J. Goltz, PhD '49, last summer. They lived at 518 Dryden Road.

Jobs Open

OPENINGS listed in the current University Placement Service Job Bulletin for men are mostly for engineers. The eight-page bulletin also announces positions available for chemists, physicists, lawyers, and Hotel Administration graduates.

A two-page Women's Job Bulletin includes Civil Service openings overseas for recreation directors, secretaries, and clerk-typists, and requests for an applied mathematician, an engineering designer, a tea room manager, and a Home Economics graduate to take charge of a daily television kitchen show. Alumnae who live in the New York Metropolitan area are again being interviewed for placement by the New York office of the Placement Service. Lois M. Birrell '49 is interviewing by appointment; phone PLaza 5-7210.

Now In My Time!

Cornell Daily

A STUDENT asked us where the University Print Shop is; he wanted to borrow a cut. We told him it is in that new group of service buildings that have reared themselves in the vicinity of the East Ithaca station, an area that has now become Cornell's back yard, where the more drab forms of corporate housekeeping may go on with some degree of polite concealment. The easiest way to get there, we said, is to follow the spur trolley line that splits off at Huestis Street and guides the wayfarer up Oak Avenue to the E. C. & N. depot.

Our directions drew nothing but a glassy stare from the student. We repeated them, slowly and louder, but with like result. At this point, we began to entertain doubts as to the efficiency of these scholastic aptitude and other tests by which students are now screened for admission to the University. This boy doubtless possessed the ability to transfer facts and formulae from a textbook to an examination paper, but in other respects he was obviously mentally retarded.

And then it suddenly dawned upon us that the fault was ours and not his: that we'd been talking a language that to this boy at least might just as well have been the English of the late Geoffrey Chaucer. The East Ithaca station is but a memory. Huestis Street has not been Huestis Street within this boy's lifetime. No trolley has groaned up Oak Avenue since he was in swaddling clothes. A reference to the Elmira, Cortland & Northern Railroad by its initials would be as meaningless to him as it would be to all the Vice-presidents and to 90 per cent of the University Faculty as now constituted.

All of which, up to here, is told you merely as a parable. The incident is completely unimportant save as it illustrates how time and change draw a veil between the graduates of one decade and the next; prevent any common grasp of current University and Ithaca matters among our far-flung alumni. The Classes of '01, '21, and '51 just don't talk the same language when the sparkling debate brings up references to Ithaca persons, practices, and place names. Newcomers sitting in the high places of University administration listen to the interchanges as glassy-eyed with complete befuddlement as was the student when we referred to Huestis Street and to the E. C. & N.

It is, perhaps, too much to ask that a highly qualified Vice-president in Charge of This or That should be familiar with the complicated interrelations of the half-dozen Ithaca clans which up to the turn of the century constituted the chief source of the University's benefactions. It is too much to expect that in the early days of his stewardship he should recognize the significance of such terms as the Rhine, Pewtown, Rogues' Harbor, the Hog Hole, or the Second Switch. But there is a large and growing element in the community who feel that it would help if, after two years in office, newcomers in high places had found out where Stewart Avenue is.

The Trustees now have, no doubt, more pressing matters on the agenda, but even so they should not be unmindful of the important office of University Historian which has remained harmfully vacant since the death of Professor Carl Becker. Things have been going to pot, we fear, in connection with keeping historical records and preserving ancient landmarks. We doubt if there are a half-dozen University officers who are now aware that the parking space on the north side of the Old Armory was once the terminus of the Shoo Fly Railroad, who distinguish John McGraw from Joe, or are even dimly aware of the marked differences in the contributions made to the moral tone of the community by Eb Treman and R. H.

The proper celebration of the University's first Centennial looms up as a thing to be prepared for right now, whether the celebration occurs in 1965 or in 1968, an even century after the arrival of the first students at the Steamboat Landing. Filling the vacancy in the office of University Historian is the first step in preparation. The poor man will need a full fifteen years in which to straighten out the records and come up with some sort of publication which will enable Cornell to enter its second century with its leaders and members informed on what happened prior to the week before last and on the relation of the Shoo Fly Railroad to the E. C. & N. Ezra Cornell was in both up to his neck!

"Once Upon a Hill" Returns

A BIGGER AND BETTER revival of the hilarious 1946 musical extravaganza, "Once Upon a Hill or What Happened to Mr. Cornell's Cow Pasture," was presented by the Dramatic Club to enthusiastic audiences four evenings, December 14-17, as part of the silver anniversary celebration of Willard Straight Hall. The old songs, costumes, and especially the settings of the ten scenes and tableaux depicting important events from the original conception of the University in the State Senate through the first Spring Day were greatly enjoyed, both by the spectators and by the cast of some fifty student actors.

Andrew D. White was portrayed by Stephen R. Franken '53; Ezra Cornell, by Stephen B. Gray '51; and among the other important personages who figured in the events of the new University were shown the first co-ed, Emma S. Eastman '73, Leroy A. Foster '72, David F. Hoy '91, Willard D. Straight '01 as a BMOH, and T. Frederick Crane as a young instructor. Women's costumes given to the Dramatic Club by Mrs. White, the old "tormentors" from the Lyceum stage, antique properties and special settings by Robert F. Gatje '50 and Jan V. White '50 all contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion.

One of the three authors of the piece, Walter Witcover (Scheinman) '44, came back to Ithaca to direct its revival, but returned before the first performance to his part in "Captain Brassbound's Conversion" at the Civic Center, New York City. His collaborating authors, Priscilla A. Okie '45 and Virginia M. Genove '48, also came back for the Willard Straight celebration. Musical director for this revival was Donald J. Reis '53 and Professor Walter H. Stainton '19, Director of the Club, supervised the production.

Establishment of the John L. Senior University Professorship by the family of the late John L. Faculty Acts on Senior '01 has touched University off quite a chain of Professorships events. Until certain things are done, the man to be appointed might have a chair but he would have no place to put it.

First step is to make provision in the By-laws of the University. Until now, the teachers who are members of the University Faculty are those of the rank of assistant professor or higher who are on the Faculties of the several Colleges and Schools. There was no provision for a University-wide appointment. The University Faculty acted in December to recommend to the Board of Trustees amending the By-laws to create the grade of University Professor, and this will undoubtedly be done.

The Faculty also authorized special committees, partially appointed by the President and partially elected by the Faculty from the fields concerned, to advise the President on selecting nominees for University Professors. Appointments will be made by the Trustees at the President's recommendation. Ordinarily, a professorial nomination proceeds from a Department through its chairman to a Dean or Director, then to the President and Trustees. A friend who heads a department at Yale recently told me that it is even more complicated there: as I remember it, a department head has to defend each candidate at length before four different gatherings of his peers!

Is a University Professor doomed to be a lone wolf and deprived of close colleagues? The Faculty, through its committee on University policy, has studied that too. Colleges and Departments may elect the man to membership in their groups if they desire. This follows precedent, as several of our Faculty hold membership in more than one College or Department Faculty. But courses given by University Professors will carry credit toward degrees only after they have been accepted by some College, School, or Department as part of its curriculum.

It will be interesting to watch the development of the University Professor idea as it works out in this first instance. Mrs. Standard Senior and her children designated a chair of "American Values." That can develop into pretty nearly anything. One man phrased it that a University Professor will be a novel creature with opportunity to do almost anything he wants. Not a bad assignment!

I am reminded of "The Becker Book" (Cornell University: Founders and the Founding, by Carl L. Becker. Cornell University Press, 1943) and his essay on "Freedom and Responsibility." He there recounted how he came to Ithaca, expecting to be told what and how many courses in American History he was supposed to teach. Instead, he was left entirely on his own, with the result that his conscience, and his pleasure in doing something that he liked, drove him harder than any outside directive would have. In this "American Values" instance, the man might be primarily interested in research and do only sporadic teaching. Or he might just as possibly be an inspiring lecturer with a message, to whom students would flock. The important thing is to catch your Carl Becker!

I wonder if the University Professor idea will catch on and the species proliferate. I rather doubt it. There are not too many fields, in this age of specialization, broad enough to demand such coverage. Also, I think that many donors would have special interest in more limited subjects and some professors will prefer the intimacy of a particular Faculty. On the other hand, it may come to pass that a distinguished University Professor or so might become the brightest jewels in Cornell's crown. Time will tell!

Cornell Crew at Saratoga—This tableau brought the first-act curtain of the hilarious and spectacular revival by the Dramatic Club of "Once Upon a Hill or What Happened to Mr. Cornell's Cow Pasture." It shows the proud victors of that "sunny summer morn" whose results brought forth the Cornell Cheer, rendered here by the applauding students of 1875.

"Big Red Revue"

KOMOS AEDEIN ("comedy set to music"), a student group organized to present a Campus musical show each year, made its first presentation of "Big Red Revue" in Bailey Hall, December 8 and 9. Small audiences saw a large and hard-working cast of men and women in an uneven series of topical skits, with music and dancing, in ten scenes and two acts. Outstanding were three "Russians" in the persons of Paul N. Herman '52, Richard W. Dye '52, and Henry C. Lyon '52, and an "Engineers' Nightmare" in which the principals were J. Duncan Newton '52 and Joyce Guthrie '54.

Most of the show was written and directed by Vahan Hovhannissian '51 and Arnold B. Goland '52, who together conceived the organization. Hovhannissian is the first president of Komos Aedein and conducted the special orchestra recruited from its members, with Goland as pianist. An affiliated Entertainment Agency has provided "floor-show" acts for Campus parties and dances. Profits from the annual productions were to be used to bring noted artists for free appearances at the University.

More On Bulls

EDITOR: "On the Campus and Down the Hill" in your December 15 issue contains a most interesting resume of William D. Hammack's description of "bull session."

I have no quarrel with his conclusions, and he is probably right, but you will notice that he qualifies himself as an expert because he once traveled with a sideshow. After all, as an old carny hand, he is undoubtedly qualified on the subject of "geeks," but he has certainly never traveled with the "big top."

My circus experience extends from Sig Sautelle to the "Wait Brothers" (i.e., "Wait for the Big Show," Ringling Brothers' slogan). On the lot, elephants are designated as bulls, but they are invariably females, since males are unpredictable.

A Parable About Libraries

By PROF. MILTON R. KONVITZ, PhD '33

IN HIS AUTOBIOGRAPHY, Ground Under Our Feet, Richard T. Ely relates that when he became a student at Dartmouth College in 1872, he found that the College library was a sad reflection of the poverty of Dartmouth at that time. "The few volumes were poorly catalogued and contained a good deal of duplication. The library was unheated in spite of the severity of the winters, but this made little difference, since it was open only one hour twice a week. It was presided over by an undergraduate who received $60 a year for his services."

After a year at Dartmouth, Ely was admitted as a sophomore at Columbia College. The library at Columbia, he discovered to his dismay, was open only two or three hours a day; in itself an improvement over the Dartmouth library, but the Columbia librarian seemed to resent its use. "He had what he considered a fine collection of books, which were meant to be looked at rather than read. After classes, when I went to the library to study, I would hardly begin, it seemed, when he would tell me it was time to close."

For these and other deplorable conditions at Columbia the students, as is the way with students, blamed the head of the institution, President Barnard. Later, however, Ely learned that Barnard was as dissatisfied and unhappy as were the students, and that Andrew D. White, who had only a few years before been made first President of Cornell University, had been invited by Barnard to survey conditions at Columbia and to recommend improvements.

White was shocked to discover that the trustees of Columbia each year laid aside $90,000. They were very pleased with themselves, for they paid all running expenses and not only balanced the budget, but also managed to save a sizeable sum each year. President White was not the man to put his seal of approval upon this type of university management. This mercantile attitude, he said, had no place in an educational institution. "He told the trustees," Ely reports, "that they should be ashamed of themselves, for such a college surplus was a token of stagnation. He recommended that they should spend not only the $90,000 surplus, but another sum equal to it, and then appeal to the alumni to make up the deficit." White told Barnard that "We never made a friend at Cornell by doing something for him, but when he does something for us, he becomes our friend."

The result of Andrew D. White's survey of Columbia was the adoption of his philosophy by President Barnard and his successors, with the consequence that today Columbia is one of the world's leading universities. Since Ely's student days, Columbia University has built several libraries on the campus at Morningside Heights, each in turn a symbol of Columbia's faith in Andrew D. White's philosophy; a philosophy built on trust in humanity and faith in the future.

What President White preached at Columbia he practiced at Cornell. It was not on any mercantile bookkeeping philosophy that he and Ezra Cornell built the University, but rather on faith, hope, and charity. The University Library, built in 1890 and dedicated by President White, symbolized the spirit of the man, even as the new Columbia library, opened less than a decade ago, symbolizes his spirit.

The future belongs not to those who are intent only on building underground air-raid and atomic-bomb shelters; it belongs to men who insist on facing the future at the same time that they face danger; to men who build universities and university libraries above ground and as challenges to all the forces of evil and darkness; to men of unusual daring, like Andrew D. White, who had no fear that the future would default on the promissory notes of the present.

Folklore Quarterly

NEW YORK FOLKLORE Quarterly for Winter has seven Cornelian contributors.

Sidney L. Freeman, Grad, gives the history and meaning of expressions used by carnival and circus people as explained to him by William D. Hammack, AM '50. Folklore from Negroes in Ithaca is told by Mrs. Corinne Brown Galvin, PhD '43, and folklore of the Netherlands, by Paul P. Mok '51; Indian tales from Western New York are related by Doris E. Eggen '48. Dorothea O. Benner, AM '50, writes on "Neighbors: The D. & H. Canal, Pennsylvania and New York"; Robert W. G. Vail '14, on "A Philadelphia Variant of the Hitchhiking Ghost"; and Walter Herrmann '52, on "Anecdotes about Hitler." Also in the issue is a review of a book by Mrs. Stella Brewer Brookes, PhD '46, Joel Chandler Harris: Folklorist.

Editor of the Quarterly, published for the New York Folklore Society by the University Press, is Professor Harold W. Thompson, English. Contributing editor is Mrs. Barbara Walker, assistant editor at the Press and wife of Warren S. Walker, teaching fellow in English. Edith E. Cutting, AM '46, is secretary of the Society.

Students Reflect War Uncertainties

WAR TENSION was beginning to be felt at the University as students returned from the Christmas recess, January 4. An editorial in the Sun just before the vacation noted "the first signs of reaction to the Korean crisis." It said, in part:

Ever since September, of course, there has been unusual interest in international events on the part of students, and a dim nagging idea in the back of their minds that this was no normal year. The feeling was intensified as reports began to circulate of former Classmates serving overseas, or of fellow students called from their studies for physical exams or active service.

But there were no real changes in the life of the Campus. The parties went on as before, with no marked upsurge of drinking or any noticeable tendency toward increased sobriety. The crowds still went to the football games, at home and away, and acted as college students generally do when faced with the familiar three-way academic, extra-curricular, and social split.

But in the past few weeks, there has been a change. Midnight fraternity bull-sessions are taking on a foreboding tone. The question is no longer "will we be called?" but "how soon?" There are signs that interest and enthusiasm in academic work is beginning to deteriorate, as well. So far, the trend is just barely noticeable. A late report here, a missed reading assignment there, a tinge of the "what the hell, I'm leaving in February anyway" outlook over in the next class: the familiar signs of approaching military service which were last known at the University just about nine years ago, in the months before and after Pearl Harbor.

On the surface, life at Cornell proceeds about the same as it has for the last five years. But a close observer can see changes taking place, changes which are likely to continue and increase in the months ahead.

It is with horror and a sort of despair that we view these changes. The result must inevitably be a reduction in the value of University life, and in the worth of the education we receive. We hope the changes will be slow in coming, that students will have the courage and the faith to continue with their work to the best of their ability so long as it is possible for them to do so.

And at the same time, we must realize that the rising force of mobilization will make itself felt on the Campus just as it will make itself felt throughout the land. General Eisenhower spoke words of bitter truth when he told Columbia freshmen that even at the very best, they could expect to live most of their lives in times of tension. This is the world we face today. It is not surprising that it has begun to reflect in the actions and attitudes of college students here and elsewhere.

Then the morning after vacation, the Sun editor said:

Students everywhere are wondering just what the future holds in store for them. Will college students be exempt from the draft? All students, or just engineers and pre-meds? Any student who is doing satisfactory work, or just the top half of each class? Will the army send men to school? Will the army draft men out of school? Should I volunteer now and pick my branch of service, or wait to see what General Hershey decides? What kind of draft law will come out of the 82d Congress? Will Cornell start running three full terms a year?

A round of questions in the Administration Building, plus a scrutiny of the daily papers and the national news-magazines, reveals the stark and simple fact that nobody, literally nobody, knows the answers to these and all the other questions which will rise in the minds of America's college students as the machinery of the draft clanks onward and the end of the school year approaches. The limit of real knowledge on the subject boils down to two simple facts:

1. Under existing regulations, college students (except members of the Reserves) will not be drafted until the end of their school year.

2. Congress is expected to pass a revised draft law, including specific provisions for college students, sometime within the next few months.

Until this law is passed, the nation's colleges and universities must remain in darkness and confusion. The colleges at present do not know how many students they will have next year, what subjects or courses they will be asked to teach, or how many of their faculty members will be called off to government laboratories. This same confusion is inevitably reflected in the uncertainty of the student body.

There are no pat answers. There is no easy solution. There is nothing to do except continue to do the best we can in our present jobs and wait to see what the future, and the Congress of the United States, will bring.

Meantime, it was believed that some students might not have come back from the holiday because of enlistment in the armed forces, but only eight were known to have withdrawn for military service this term to January 4. Here and there, one heard of a member of the instructing staff called to active duty or a civilian emergency job, but no general exodus was noted. A survey thought to be virtually complete showed that 325 members of the University staff, or about 15 per cent, are members of military reserves. Students in Reserve Officer Training programs this term number approximately 2,100 Army, 1,000 Air Force, and 300 Navy.

Applications Drop Slightly

As for new students next year, the Admissions Office noted decline of only 3½ per cent in the number of applications from prospective students to enter next fall. To January 3, 3,299 applications had been received, as compared with 3,418 a year ago. The number for Arts and Engineering was about the same, with decline principally in those for the State Colleges. Assistant Director Robert W. Storandt '40 points out, however, that these figures mean little at this time because of general uncertainty about the military status of boys who will graduate from secondary schools next June.

Extension Service Organizes

In the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, Director Lloyd R. Simons '11 announced appointment of an Extension Service Defense Council to plan for possible emergencies in food production, with local security committees in each county and a State Agricultural Security Committee activated by the Conference Board of Farm Organizations. Members of the Extension Service Defense Council are Research Director Carl E. F. Guterman, PhD '30, and Professors Ralph H. Wheeler '06, director of finance for the State Colleges; Catherine J. Personius, PhD '37, assistant director, Agricultural Experiment Station; Albert Hoefer '16, 4-H Club leader; Fred B. Morris '22, county agent leader; Orrilla Wright, assistant leader of home demonstration leaders; and Montgomery Robinson and Elton K. Hanks '26, Extension. Miss Personius heads a review of State and county nutrition committees; Professor Hanks is coordinator of Extension programs concerned with farm labor; and Professor Iva M. Gross, Extension, will report on civilian defense organizations and activities.

Speech Teachers Talk

CORNELLIANS contributed seventeen papers at the Mid-century Speech Conference in New York City, December 27-30. The meetings were sponsored by the Speech Association of America, American Educational Theatre Association, National University Extension Association committee on debate materials, and the National Thespian Society.

Gather from Away

Wilbur E. Gilman '23 of Queens College, as second vice-president of SAA and chairman of its convention program, presided at the opening general session.

Joseph F. O'Brien, Grad '29, of Pennsylvania State College, presided at a meeting on "Effective Methods of Teaching Speech," where James A. Winans '07, emeritus professor of public speaking at Dartmouth and a founder of SAA, discussed the qualities and skills most essential to the teacher of speech. Donald C. Bryant '27, Washington University, talked on the role of rigor in speech teaching. At another meeting on "The Scope of the Field of Speech," he discussed "English and Speech."

In a session on "History of Rhetoric," Wilbur S. Howell '24, Princeton, talked on "Ramus and English Rhetoric: 1574-1700" and Ross Scanlan '24, CCNY, discussed "The Nazi Rhetorician." Frederick W. Haberman, PhD '47, was program sponsor and chairman.

Many Studied Here

Professor Charles K. Thomas '22, Speech, discussed "The Kenyon-Knott System" at a meeting on "Descriptive Phonetics." Professor Carroll C. Arnold, Speech & Drama, presided at a meeting on "Rhetorical Criticism" at which Leland M. Griffin, teaching fellow from 1948-50 and now at Washington University, talked on "Critical Methods and Objectives in Case Studies of Speeches and Speaking Situations." William E. Utterback, PhD '38, gave an "observer's report on the work conference" at a meeting on "Discussion in Colleges and Universities." Dorothy Kaucher, PhD '28, San Jose State College, talked on "The Eternal Word." She spoke on "The Lilting Voice and the Great I Am" at the Associations luncheon.

Under the subject "British Oratory," Harold F. Harding, PhD '37, Ohio State University and editor of Speech Monographs, discussed "Some Characteristics of British Orators in the Late Eighteenth Century." A section on "Speech in the Elementary Schools" included a discussion by Mardel Ogilvie '31, Queens College, of "The Philosophy of Speech Education for the Elementary Schools."

Represent Theatre Groups

In the AETA general session on "A Mid-century Survey," Professor Alexander M. Drummond, Grad '12-'15, Speech & Drama, spoke on "The University Theatre." Professor Mary E. Duthie, Rural Sociology, discussed "The Community Theatre." In a meeting on "Cooperation with ITI and UNESCO," she talked on "Theatre and Adult Education." Robert E. Gard, AM '38, University of Wisconsin, described "Teaching Playwriting State-wide" in a section on playwriting. Edward J. West '25, University of Colorado, was chairman.

In a joint session of the AETA and the Theatre Library Association, Bernard Hewitt '28, University of Illinois and managing editor of Educational Theatre Journal, discussed "The Theatre Micro-Film Project."

Professor Walter H. Stainton '19, Speech & Drama, was chairman of a Cornell alumni luncheon, December 28. Other alumni who were meeting sponsors or chairmen included Ramon L. Irwin, AM '37, Syracuse University; Lee S. Hultzen '18, University of Illinois; Karl R. Wallace '27, University of Illinois; Everett L. Hunt, former teacher at Cornell, now dean of Swarthmore College; Wayland M. Parrish,

PhD '29, University of Illinois; William G. Hardy, PhD '43, Johns Hopkins Hospital; Marvin G. Bauer, AM '24, Brooklyn College; Charles F. Hunter, PhD

'42, Northwestern University; Henry G. Roberts, AM '30, Navy Department; and George P. Rice, Jr., PhD '44, Butler University.

Emerson '19 Appointed Vice President Will Direct University Council

ANNOUNCEMENT was made in New York City, January 3, by Neal D. Becker '05, chairman of the Board of Trustees, of the appointment of Willard I. Emerson '19 as Vice President for University Development. Emerson succeeds Asa S. Knowles, who resigned, effective January 31, to become president of University of Toledo, Ohio.

Emerson has been a general partner in the New York City investment banking firm of Hemphill, Noyes, Graham, Parsons & Co., with which he was associated for thirty years. As Vice President of the University, he becomes executive director of the Cornell University Council, recently organized to coordinate all fund raising for the University. He was a member of the Greater Cornell Committee which the Council superseded and of the Administrative Board of the Council.

Under Emerson's leadership, his Class of '19 was the first to raise $25,000 in unrestricted gifts in any year for the Alumni Fund, the Class exceeding this goal at its delayed Twenty-five-year Reunion in 1946. For its Thirty-year Reunion in 1949, men of the Class gave $37,000 including Greater Cornell Fund credits. Emerson as vice-president of the Alumni Fund Council has headed the Quinquennial Reunion Class committee, which he conceived, to raise for the Alumni Fund at Reunions every five years $1,000 for every year the Class has been out of the University. This effort in the five years has brought more than $680,000 in unrestricted gifts from Quinquennial Reunion Classes.

Emerson also led his Class in perfecting a continuing organization, it being the first to adopt a 100 per cent group subscription to the ALUMNI NEWS, and he was elected the first president of the Class of '19 under the new plan.

He was born in Ithaca in 1894, the son of the late Professor Alfred Emerson, who was the first professor of Classical Archeology at the University, from 1891-98, and first curator of the Museum of Casts which he collected as the result of a gift of $7,000 from Henry W. Sage. Emerson's mother was a concert pianist who taught in the Ithaca Conservatory and later at University of Chicago and Wellesley.

Willard Emerson came back to enter the University in 1915, but left as a Sophomore for Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Madison Barracks. He went overseas with the 311th Infantry, 78th Division, and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross by General John J. Pershing and promoted from first lieutenant to captain for taking command of his battalion when all the other officers had been killed or wounded and leading his men to capture the heights beyond Grand Pre near Sedan, France. In World War II, he was a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force in the European Theatre, and won the New York State Conspicuous Service Cross.

He returned to Cornell from the first war in 1919 and became manager of the Musical Clubs, colonel of the ROTC, and president of the Anglo-American Society. He also attended Cambridge University in England and Columbia; received the AB at Cornell in 1931.

He is a member of Theta Delta Chi and Sphinx Head; has been vice-president, a governor, and chairman of the entertainment committee of the Cornell Club of New York. He is a member of the Bankers Club and Bond Club of New York; is a governor and past-president of the Fairfield County Hunt Club at Westport, Conn., and has been chairman of the Club's polo committee and active on the press committee of the National Horse Show Association; is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

His brother is Alfred E. Emerson '18, professor of zoology at University of Chicago, who was a graduate instructor in Nature Study in 1921 while working for the PhD at Cornell. Willard I. Emerson, Jr. '51 was captain of the Varsity polo team last year.

Cornell	55	Colgate	51
Cornell	63	Bucknell	47
Cornell	62	Yale	45
Cornell	82	Gettysburg	45
Cornell	59	Stanford	56
Cornell	58	Canisius	49
Cornell	69	NYU	56

THE BASKETBALL team returned to Ithaca after the holidays with a perfect record of nine games won and no losses. The first seven games, except one with Gettysburg, December 20, were played in Barton Hall.

Against Rider, December 6, the Varsity equalled the Cornell record of 82 points. Cornell made good 42.4 per cent of its shots as it led all the way. Coach Royner Greene used sixteen players and eleven of them scored. Co-captains Walter S. Ashbaugh '51 and Paul J. Gerwin '51 led with 22 and 19 points, respectively.

More than 6,000 spectators saw Cornell down Colgate in an exciting game, December 9. Cornell gained an early 3-2 lead, but then trailed until there were nine minutes left to play, when it led, 41-40. The score was tied at 41-41 and again at 45-45 before the Varsity went ahead to stay. The score at the half was 29-22, Colgate leading. Although he scored only 8 points compared with 15 for Gerwin and 12 for Ashbaugh, Hugh S. MacNeil '51 gave the spark that pulled the Cornell team together. He played aggressively in taking the ball off the backboards during the second half and scored his points when they were most needed.

December 13, Cornell led Bucknell, 20-9, after ten minutes of play and coasted to an easy win. Again, Coach Greene cleared the bench and Ashbaugh led the scoring with 18 points.

Gerwin and Roger W. Chadwick '52 each made 11.

Cornell's first League game was against Yale, December 16. The Varsity fathomed Yale's defense early and led, 35-17, at the half. Chadwick was outstanding with his best game of his two years on the team. Always a fine play maker and an excellent defensive man, he starred offensively against Yale as he made seven field goals and shot five goals in five tries for a total of 19. Gerwin had 11. Frederick J. Eydt '52 played his best game of the year. He held his opponent, five inches taller, to 6 points and scored a like number.

At Gettysburg, Pa., Cornell again matched the record of 82 points. The Varsity was never headed, but moved to the lead on Ashbaugh's foul with just over a minute gone. It held a 34-23 lead at the half. Five players were in the double figure: Gerwin tallied 17; Ashbaugh 14; John E. Werner '52, '12; Eydt and Chadwick, 11 each. Replacing Ashbaugh in the second half, Werner scored six field goals in as many minutes.

The squad went home from Gettysburg, but reassembled at Barton Hall, December 26, to prepare for the holiday games with Stanford, Canisius, and NYU. The Stanford game, December 28, was the first to be played between the two universities, and was a thriller. Cornell, showing the effects of a week's lay-off, was 12 points behind with six and one-half minutes to play. At this point, Cornell started an all-court press that paid big dividends and with just over a minute to play, a foul toss by MacNeil tied the score at 55-55. There was no further scoring before the buzzer sounded. In an overtime period, Stanford scored early on a foul by Ashbaugh, his fifth. That was the end of Stanford's scoring. MacNeil's 2-pointer put Cornell ahead for the first time since the twelve-minute mark in the first half, and Gerwin and Eydt added foul shots to make the final score 59-56. MacNeil was high for Cornell with 13 points, 11 of which he scored after he came back into the game in the second half. Even with students on vacation, a crowd of more than 4,000 saw Cornell win its seventh straight.

The Varsity invaded Buffalo, December 31, to hand Canisius its second loss in ten games. Cornell led through most of the game and at halftime had a 28-19 margin. Their tight defense was their best weapon, as Canisius's two leading scorers were held to a total of 2 points on fouls. Gerwin led with 13 points, followed by Ashbaugh with 12 and Chadwick with 11. Cornell scored on 40.5 per cent of its shots from the court and made twenty-four of thirty-seven tries from the foul line.

Team Comes from Behind

Ninth win was over NYU, 69-56, New Year's Day, in Madison Square Garden. This was the first Cornell team to win in the Garden and the first of the Ivy League to take a regular-season contest there. The game followed the same pattern as those with Colgate and Stanford in that Cornell overcame a considerable lead to win. The Varsity got off to an early lead, however, as it clicked on the first three baskets tried from the court. Then NYU tied the score at 8-8 and again at 10-10. There the Cornell attack stalled while NYU went to a 25-12 lead. Cornell, led by Eydt, rallied and tied the score at 34-34 just as the first half ended. NYU went ahead again in the second half to lead 46-40 with five minutes gone. With ten minutes to play, Cornell forged to the front, 49-48, and increased its gain to win. Eydt, playing perhaps the best game of his career, was the leading scorer with ten field goals for 20 points. Ashbaugh had 18, and Goldsborough, Gerwin, and Chadwick each had four field goals and one foul. MacNeil was responsible for the other 4 points, scoring the first and last field goals of the game.

This team's brand of basketball has greatly pleased the fans. There are no stars, as the team works as a unit, with scoring uniformly distributed. Poise and coolness have been principally responsible for the fine record. The "iron-man" outfit of seven has the regular starters with Werner and Goldsborough playing much of the time.

Freshmen Start Well

After losing to the third varsity, 62-34, December 6, the Freshman basketball team defeated its next four opponents. It took the Colgate frosh, 60-39, December 9, and Cortland State freshmen, 48-21, December 13, in Barton Hall; Ithaca College freshmen, 82-61, December 15, on the Ithaca College court; and Ithaca College junior varsity, 73-39, December 16, in Barton Hall. Lawrence Kravitz, Donald P. Jones, Peter N. Paris, Wendell T. MacPhee, and Richard L. Coddington have been the leading performers.

Wrestlers Win and Lose

THE WRESTLING TEAM opened its season, December 9 at Ithaca, defeating Gettysburg, 24-6. The team has two Seniors and six Sophomores. Peter G. Bolanis '51 of Pittsburgh, Pa., is captain. The other Senior is Richard G. Clark of Canastota, a five-year Engineering student who wrestled in the heavy-weight division during 1947-48 and 1948-49, but did not compete last year.

Against Gettysburg, Clark, Donald G. Dickason '53 (175 pounds) of Champaign, Ill., and Frank A. Bettucci '53 (147 pounds) of Ithaca won by falls. Ehret B. Page '53 (157 pounds) of Glen Moore, Pa., William K. Van Gilder '53 (137 pounds) of Allentown, Pa., and Bolanis (130 pounds) gained decisions. Lester D. Simon '53 (167 pounds) of Paterson, N.J., and Robert K. Spellman '53 (123 pounds) of Bethlehem, Pa., lost their matches on decisions.

Cornell lost to the always-powerful Lehigh team, 19-11, at Bethlehem, Pa., December 16. In the heavyweight match, with Lehigh ahead 14-11, Clark had a commanding advantage over his opponent in the second period when he slipped on the mat and was thrown. Van Gilder scored a fall and Bettucci and Dickason won by decisions to give Cornell all its points. Richard J. Delgado '53 (123 pounds) of Freeport, wrestling in his first Varsity match, was thrown. John Arnold '53 (157 pounds) of Mineola, also in his first match for Cornell, lost a 3-1 decision. Bolanis lost by referee's decision and Simon lost on points.

Several members of the team kept in condition during the holidays by competing in the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., invitational tournament. Van Gilder, Bettucci, and Clark won in their respective divisions. Simon and Paul E. Steiger '54 placed second. Steiger wrestled his fellow Ithacan, Bettucci, in the finals and was thrown in 1:23.

Freshmen Win

Freshman wrestlers defeated Ithaca College freshmen, 35-5, in Barton Hall, December 9. Cornell won two matches by forfeit and five by falls. Ithaca College scored its points on a fall in the 130-pound class. Competing for Cornell at 130 pounds was William C. Morgan, Courtdale, Pa.; 137 pounds, Peter Whiteford, Toronto, Ont.; 147 pounds, Paul E. Steiger, Ithaca; 157 pounds, William B. Joyce, Hamilton, Ohio; 167 pounds, Dan Johnson, Teaneck, N.J.; 177 pounds, John R. Soars, Muncy, Pa.

Sport Shorts

Robert L. Robertson '52 and Robert B. Grossman '52 have been elected co-captains of the 1951 cross country team. Grossman was chosen the squad's most valuable player, by team vote, and Leslie W. Knapp '52 was voted the most improved. David Pratt '54 was named the most valuable Freshman.

The rifle team opened its schedule, December 9, with a 1356-1267 victory over St. Bonaventure at Olean. Captain Bruce T. Wilkers '52 led the Cornell scoring with 282 points of a possible 300.

Eight members of the swimming team went with Coach G. Scott Little to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to take part in the annual aquatic forum sponsored by the College Swimming Coaches' Association of America, December 18-January 1. They were among 600 swimmers from seventy-eight colleges and universities. An East team (chosen from colleges east of Pittsburgh) which Little coached was defeated by the Western aggregation.

Cornell players for the North in the annual North-South football game at Miami, Fla., December 25, were John G. Pierik '51, Jeffrey R. Fleischmann '51, and Frank M. Miller '51. Charles W. Taylor '51 and Vincent DiGrande '51 played in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., December 30. Harvey E. Sampson '51 was invited, but did not accept.

Forty-three players and the managers were awarded the "C" for football.

Novice boxing tournament, run by Professor Frederick G. Marcham, PhD '26, History, brought championships in their respective weight classes to Richard H. Cascio '54, 120 pounds; Nikos Thomaidis '54, 130 pounds; Alvin R. Graham '54, 140 pounds; Edward A. Polasky '54, 150 pounds; Richard Schoff '53, 160 pounds; Gilmary M. Hostage '54, 170 pounds; and Richard N. Brown '54, heavyweight.

With sponsorship of the Cornell and Yale alumni clubs of Chicago, Ill., the polo teams of the two universities met there, December 30. Cornell won, 7-4.

Richard Savitt '50 has been ranked the number seven tennis player in the United States for 1950 by the US Lawn Tennis Association. Savitt is a newcomer to the top ten and is rated by the experts the most improved player in the country. For several weeks he competed in tournaments in Australia.

Edward T. Peterson '48, who has been playing professional basketball with the Syracuse Nationals the last two seasons, was traded to the Tri-Cities Blackhawks.

(Reprinted from the ALUMNI NEWS of earlier days)

Forty-five Years Ago

January, 1906—The ancient institution of Junior Week has been receiving attention from the Cornell Faculty of late, with a resulting modification in its form and scope. Summed up in a few words, the reform is as follows: Junior Week has been changed from a five-day period of much festiveness and some little work, during which the University was nominally in session, to a three-day period of still greater festiveness and no work at all, during which the University shuts down altogether.

Thirty-five Years Ago

January, 1916—"Cornell Victorious," a song recently written and composed by S. Hibbard Ayer, Jr. '14, has made a great hit with the undergraduates. . . . Professor C. V. P. Young '99, head of Physical Culture and Director of the Gymnasium, has been elected president of the Association of College Physical Directors.

Twenty-five Years Ago

January, 1926—Dean Dexter S. Kimball of the College of Engineering was elected January 15 to the presidency of the American Engineering Council, highest elective honor in the engineering profession in this country.

Ten Years Ago

January, 1941—A new building for the School of Chemical Engineering, to cost $700,000, was presented to the University by Franklin W. Olin '85 at a meeting of the Board of Trustees at the Medical College in New York, January 18.

Supply New York Water

EMERGENCY WATER SUPPLY for New York City will come from the Hudson River through an engineering job being completed by Tuller Construction Co., headed by J. D. Tuller '09. For the New York Board of Water Supply, the firm has built an intake about 700 feet long, extending out into deep water, and on shore near Beacon a combined pumping station and treatment plant along the main line tracks of the New York Central Railroad. A long steel pipe line connects to the Delaware Aqueduct through an existing shaft. All the work is in rock. It is designed to meet a water shortage such as New York experienced a year ago.

Tuller Construction Co. was the successful bidder among seventeen firms, on the basis of design and construction. Besides Tuller, the firm has Arvin J. Dillenbeck '11, chief engineer; Clark W. Wallace '27, in charge of the New York City job; and C. Powell Beyland '31. They also built the steel stands at the west side of Schoellkopf Field: a difficult structure with tall foundations built on the edge of a steep bank and its front anchored down to hold the stand cantilevered over Bacon Hall below.

SAGE CHAPEL CHOIR of 160 voices, assisted by the University Concert Band and Professor David Daiches, English, reading from the Scriptures, presented its annual Christmas concert in the Chapel, December 17. A 225-voice chorus and a fifty-piece orchestra from Ithaca College presented Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," in Bailey Hall, December 15. Both concerts were well attended.

JUBILANCE on New Year's Eve was increased by the sound of the Chimes played by Chimemaster Gardiner W. Powell '53, who started his half-hour program at 11:45.

REPORT TO THE SUN by a member of the Labor Youth League that a group of fellow students had grabbed a box of LYL literature from him and thrown it into Cascadilla Gorge brought out several editorials, including "Blackshirts in Cascadilla," letters pro and con in The Sun, and a flurry of LYL members selling their literature on Campus. Students dressed in black shirts burlesqued a chastisement one noon in front of Willard Straight Hall.

JORDANI, undergraduate Zoology society, has elected Robert H. Gibbs '51 president for this year. Richard A. Booth '51 is vice-president; Marjorie Crimmings, '51, secretary; and Somers F. Conover '51, treasurer.

JUNIORS Phyllis S. Gurfein, Isabel W. Kutz, and Joan L. Winston are studying in France this year as members of the Sweetbriar College Junior Year in France group.

"RED" LAMPHIER has left The Dutch after more than thirty-five years as bartender there. He continues to live in Ithaca at 204 West Yates Street, and hopes some day to open a "Red's Cafe." Cornell Club of New York recently presented him with a book containing the names of all its members.

STUDENT BRANCH of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers has as its chairman Richard L. Freeman '51. Vice-chairman is Loren F. Kahle, Jr. '51; secretary-treasurer, William S. Gere, Jr. '51.

PRESIDENT of the Class of '54 women is Ruth E. Carpenter, daughter of Dr. Alvin R. Carpenter '28 and Mrs. Carpenter (Helen Worden) '28 of Binghamton.

CORNELL DAILY SUN has elected to its news board Alison Bliss '52, daughter of Mrs. Harold N. Bliss (Thrya Jeremissen) '15 of Ithaca; Winfield F. Hock, Jr. '53; Michael W. Milmoie '53, son of

On The Campus And Down The Hill

Wheeler Milmoie '17, State Assemblyman and publisher of the Canastota Bee-Journal; Stuart H. Loory '54, Ellen R. Shapiro '54, and Ross D. Wetzsteon '54; and to its photography board Stanley Shell '54, Robert M. Stuckelman '54, and Harry E. Schlafman '54.

THETA CHI fraternity has adopted an eight-year-old girl in Thebes, Greece, through Save the Children Federation, New York City.

CHAIRMAN of the student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers at Cornell is Richard B. Brundage '51, son of Ralph W. Brundage '22 and Mrs. Brundage (Mae Morris) '18 of Oakfield. Theodore J. Holmes '51 is vice-chairman and Lloyd H. Hobson, Jr. '51 is treasurer. Secretary for the AIEE is Herman A. Hanemann '53, son of H. Andrew Hanemann '17 and secretary for the IRE is Thomas T. Burger, Jr. '51.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB has elected Anne M. Forde '51 president; Mary H. Pelton '53, vice-president; Margaret E. Martin '51, recording secretary; and Betty J. MacMillian '52, corresponding secretary.

MARTHA E. CARY '54, daughter of Richard E. Cary '18 of Baldwinsville, was injured seriously and Mary R. Shepard '54, daughter of Alvin F. Shepard '24, less seriously, when their toboggan and a car collided at the foot of the Library Slope, December 19. Four others on the toboggan escaped injury.

PARTIES for Ithaca youngsters were part of the Christmas celebrations of many fraternities, sororities, the Independent Council, and other Campus groups, organized by the Interfraternity Council. The picture above is of the Christmas party at the Sigma Chi house for children of the West Side House given by Sigma Chi and Alpha Phi. Santa Claus is Arthur T. Gormley, Jr. '51.

CO-EDS can now sign out more than once on the same night. Berry Patcher "E.S." in The Sun commented on the new ruling a few days before a "turnabout" dance (the co-ed does the inviting) in Willard Straight Hall. "The recently passed change in WSGA rules may help her out a bit. This new rule permits the co-ed to sign out more than once in one night so that after bidding one man a fond farewell, she may sign out again and go out with another. So, come Friday, we may find out that many more than one-fourth of the men on Campus have a date to the turnabout, thanks to WSGA. The implications of the new rule go far beyond the turnabout dance. It means that now the practice of late dates may come out into the open. The co-ed will no longer have to worry about being at one place with one man while signed out to another place with another man. This means she'll have to check more carefully than ever and see that she is not dating roommates, fraternity brothers, Classmates, or lab mates. The co-ed won't have time to get bored with one man; she won't be with him long enough."

JUNIOR HOTEL Men of America held its first annual Christmas Ball in Statler Hall, December 15. Physics Department held its annual Christmas party in Statler, December 18.

ROBERT S. WAILL '52 resigned as president, Jacqueline M. Howell '51 as secretary-treasurer, and David J. Kallen '51 as publicity chairman of the Cornell chapter of United World Federalists because they believe that methods employed by the national organization to achieve world government are ineffective in the present world situation. The chapter found a new president, James J. Allen '53, but elected Waill chairman of the constitutional committee for a proposed new organization for world federation.

BORDEN Co. Foundation, Inc., $300 cash scholarship award given annually to the highest ranking Senior in Home Economics went this year to Ruth M. Slowik of Syracuse. Miss Slowik is a member of Omicron Nu, national home economics honorary scholastic society, and for two years received the Home Economics Alumnae Association Scholarship.

FOR THE FOURTH consecutive year, the Poultry judging team from the College of Agriculture, coached by Professor Golden O. Hall, PhD '26, placed first in the Eastern Intercollegiate Poultry Judging Contest. Warren E. Bishop '51 was high man in the contest, with 1,356 points out of a possible 1,500. Louis Talbert '51 was second with 1,292 points.

THE FACULTY

Acting President Cornelis W. de Kiewiet was named, December 1, a director of Lincoln-Rochester Trust Co., Rochester. He will become president of the University of Rochester, July 1.

Professor John W. MacDonald '25, Law, was elected by the University Faculty its representative to the Board of Trustees for five years. He succeeds Professor Frederick G. Marcham, PhD '26, History, whose term expired December 31. Dean Joseph C. Hinsey was re-elected by the Medical College Faculty for a five-year term, beginning January 1.

Principal speaker at a meeting of Republican Business Women, Inc., November 21 in New York City, was Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20, chairman of the New York State Workmen's Compensation Board.

Former Trustee Edward R. Eastman was elected vice-chancellor of the University of the State of New York, December 15. President and editor of the American Agriculturist, he was appointed a regent of the University in 1946.

Customary annual gathering of present and former track men and many messages marked the eighty-seventh birthday of Coach John F. Moakley, December 11, at his home in Ithaca at 201 Willard Way. He is in good health and lives quietly with his daughter, Mildred A. Moakley '18.

Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey, Agriculture, Emeritus, who suffered a fractured thigh in December, 1949, walks unassisted and comes to the Statler Club for weekly luncheons of a Faculty group headed by Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, Emeritus. Dr. Bailey will be ninety-three next March 15.

Director Howard B. Meek, Grad '29, Hotel Administration, was elected president of the National Council on Hotel & Restaurant Education at its fifth annual conference in Statler Hall, November 24-26.

Chief speaker at the installation of Nancy D. Lewis as dean of Pembroke College in Brown University, September 19, was Sarah G. Blanding, who also received an honorary degree. Former Dean of the College of Home Economics, Miss Blanding became in 1946 the first woman president of Vassar.

Professor Mary E. Duthie, Rural Sociology, was a delegate to the National Theatre Assembly in New York City, January 2-4, representing the New York State Community Theatre Association, of which she is executive secretary. She also read a paper before the American Educational Theatre Association in New York, December 28; she is chairman of its committee on community theater and adult education. Professor Duthie has an article on community theaters in the December issue of Theater Arts magazine.

"Harmless nutrition studies" with elderly patients of institutions were urged by Professor Clive M. McCay, Nutrition, at a symposium on "Nutrition Fronts in Public Health" at Yale School of Medicine, November 10. He explained that almost no such studies are being made because "mental hospitals are in the hands of psychiatrists" who have little interest in biological research. The meeting was sponsored by the Yale nutrition laboratory and its department of public health and the Connecticut State Health Department.

Professor Connie M. Guion '17, Clinical Medicine, Medical College, has been elected to the board of governors of Sweet Briar College in Virginia.

James B. Trousdale '22, University Auditor and Assistant Treasurer, was surprised at the Treasurer's Office Christmas party, December 22, with recognition that it was the twenty-fifth anniversary of his joining the staff there. Vice-president George F. Rogalsky '07 told how Trousdale came to the job December 22, 1925, as assistant to Rogalsky, who was then Treasurer of the University. He and Mrs. Trousdale (Ruth St. John) '22 and their small son, Robert B. Trousdale '45, came from Rochester to make their home in Ithaca.

Mary A. Malone, secretary-stenographer in the Botany Department, retired November 1. She had worked in the College of Agriculture since March 1, 1912.

Two Faculty members read papers at the annual meeting of ASME in New York City in November. Professor Kendall C. White '34, Industrial & Engineering Administration, discussed "Predetermined Elemental Motion Times: A Step Forward in Work Standardization." Professor Dennis G. Shepherd, Heat-Power Engineering, gave a "Review of Combustion Phenomena for the Gas Turbine."

Donald K. Tressler, PhD '18, former head of Chemistry at Geneva Experiment Station, is scientific director of Quartermaster Food & Container Institute for the Armed Forces at the Chicago, Ill., Quartermaster Depot. As head of Donald K. Tressler & Associates in Westport, Conn., he has been a consultant on food freezing.

Professor David P. Barr '11, Medicine, Medical College, has been appointed medical director of Russell Sage Institute of Pathology in the College, succeeding Professor Eugene F. DuBois.

Rosa Too Little, a children's book published by Doubleday & Co., was written and illustrated by Mrs. Sue F. Kerr, assistant illustrator in Extension Teaching & Information. Her husband is Jami H. Kerr, Jr. '51.

Dr. George A. Schumacher, MD '36, resigned July 31 as associate professor of Clinical Medicine at the Medical College in New York and as director of the College neurological service at Bellevue Hospital, to become professor of neurology at the University of Vermont school of medicine.

New assistant professor of Plant Pathology at the Geneva Experiment Station is John J. Natti, who recently completed requirements for the PhD at the University. He graduated at University of Massachusetts in 1944 and was with US Rubber Co. for three years, working on fungicides.

Professor Frank B. Morrison, Animal Husbandry, has established the Morrison Fellowship in Livestock Feeding with an initial endowment of $12,000. An annual award of $500 and free tuition in the Graduate School will be made to a qualified student for graduate research in livestock feeding and nutrition, beginning next year. The endowment fund may be added to by Professor Morrison and others. He is an international authority on animal nutrition and author and publisher of the widely-used textbook, Feeds and Feeding.

Ian McDonald, who spent last year doing research in Biochemistry & Nutrition, is at Cambridge University, England, in the biochemistry section of the laboratory of the late Sir Joseph Barcroft. While here he did research in rumen physiology and spoke to various veterinary groups.

Professor Julian E. Butterworth, Rural Education, attended a conference, November 6-7, at Columbia University Teachers College to discuss working with the Co-operative Project in Educational Administration. The five-year project, financed by the Kellogg Foundation, intends to improve the training of school administrators.

An illustrated lecture on "Conservation in New Zealand" was given by Professor E. Laurence Palmer '11, Nature & Science Education, October 20 in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. The lecture was presented by the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

A British edition of a French text, Te-moins d'une Epoque, by Professor Blanchard L. Rideout, PhD '36, Romance Literature, and Wilson Micks of the University of Rochester, has been published by the Clarendon Press, Oxford. The book, readings from contemporary French writing, was first published in 1947 by Oxford University Press.

Prints by James L. Steg, Fine Arts, were in an exhibition which opened November 5 in the Munson-Williams-Proctor Institute in Utica.

The College of Physicians of Philadelphia, Pa., awarded its Alvarenga Prize for 1950 to Professor Ephraim Shorr, Medicine, Medical College, for his work in shock.

Professor Charles I. Sayles '26, Hotel Engineering, was elected a director of the New York State Hotel Association at its annual meeting in New York City.

Willis R. Fisher, Plant Pathology Department photographer, retired November 16 after more than forty years on the Cornell staff, and is living in Bradenton, Fla. Fisher used color photography long before it was in general use and improvised equipment for special problems. Also interested in optics, he maintained the optical equipment in the Department and was in charge of the stock room.

Dr. Gustave J. Noback '16 resigned as associate professor of Anatomy at the Medical College in New York, June 30, to become head of the anatomy department at University of Puerto Rico medical school.

NEWS OF THE ALUMNI

Personal items and newspaper clippings about Cornellians are earnestly solicited

'77—A nephew of Mrs. Chester Badger (Jennie Briggs) writes that she has been invalided for a year; until then she was in good health, and a few years ago traveled by plane from San Diego to Los Angeles, Cal. She lives with her daughter, Mrs. C. C. French, 8127 Lemon Avenue, LaMesa, Cal.

'80 BS—The results of more than thirty years of research by the late William Trelease are contained in a two-volume monograph, The Piperaceae of Northern South America, published by the University of Illinois Press. The work describes more than 800 species of plants of the pepper family, fewer than half of which have ever been identified before, and contains 675 plates. Trelase was professor and head of the botany department at Illinois from 1913 until his retirement in 1926. He died in 1945.

'92 CE—John C. L. Fish is co-author with Theodore J. Hoover of a second edition of The Engineering Profession, published by Stanford University Press. Fish is emeritus professor of civil engineering at Stanford and lives at 1336 Emerson Street, Palo Alto, Cal.

'93—John D. Mickle is vice-president and a director of the Chatham State Bank. From 1934-46, he was sanitary engineer in Columbia County. He was president of Chatham Electric Co., 1914-24; treasurer of Deposit Electric Co., 1912-14; sales-manager in the Syracuse office of Westinghouse Electric, 1900-12; and school commissioner in Columbia County, 1894-1900.

'01 BArch—An appreciation of the life and character of the late Frederick L. Ackerman, by Lewis Mumford, appeared in the December Journal of the American Institute of Architects. Ackerman, who died in March, 1950, was architect for Balch Halls and the Administration Building.

'02—Henry Bruere was chairman of the 1950 appeal for funds to support the New York City Central Reference Library. He was also elected, November 20, president of the National Municipal League. He is president of Bowery Savings Bank, 110 East Forty-second Street, New York City 17.

'05 AB—Arthur D. Camp sends word of an "enjoyable reunion" with Bill Fisher '05 from San Diego, Cal., at Camp's home, 56 Hughes Avenue, Rye. A chemical engineer, Camp is assistant to the manager of the Dorr Co. foreign division on Barry Place, Stamford, Conn.

'05—John S. Gorrell, retired executive of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., is making a study of telephone needs for the US Marine Corps at Quantico, Va. He lives at 405 Magnolia Avenue, Frederick, Md.

'07 ME; '39—John W. Sheffer has retired as general improvement engineer for American Car & Foundry Co., after forty-two years of engineering in plant operations. His address is 1557 Overbrook Road, Williamsport, Pa. His son, John W. Sheffer, Jr. '39, is purchasing agent for Paulsboro Manufacturing Co., Fullerton, Pa., and lives at 123 Elm Street, Emaus, Pa.

The Peets have been American farmers for eleven consecutive generations; for the last five generations in the Town of Webster, on the shores of Lake Ontario. So, naturally, Nelson R. Peet '10 went back to the home farm after graduation. There he has prospered abundantly through raising fruit, registered Holstein cattle, and children: four boys and two girls. Six grandchildren now promise that there will be Peets on the land for some time to come.

But the work of one farm was not enough to fill the vision or consume the energy of Nelson Peet. He has thought and acted under broader horizons. In his first ten years out of college, he organized seventeen cooperative fruit-packing houses in his own county; thirty-three others in neighboring counties. The next step was to become the general manager of all these and to sell the entire output of the lot. In one year, this amounted to 3600 carloads. He now heads N. R. Peet & Son, apple brokers of Webster, and deals in apples for export in carload lots. He believes his was the first American house to ship apples to Morocco.

While acting as Farm Bureau manager for Niagara County, Nelson originated his Fruit Spraying Service, a then-novel method of telephone relays to warn fruit growers when to spray and with what materials. This has now been adapted to radio and is in general and valuable use in most fruit-growing sections.

But the home farm of 200 acres has now become mainly a high-grade dairy operation. Holstein bulls bred there have been selected for artificial breeding in such dairy states as Wisconsin and Illinois. And Westinghouse Co. uses the Peet place as its only dairy proving farm. Every possible operation is there performed by electricity and is separately metered. There are thirty-two meters, which gives you a rough idea of what kind of a farm Nelson runs.

All this has brought the man honors, recognitions, and hard jobs, both from the State and from agricultural organizations. The list is too long to be included here.

What kind of a man? His hobbies are fishing and refinishing old furniture. When he came back for his Forty-year Reunion, he confesses that he wept without shame when Eddie Goodwillie sang the "Evening Song." He looks forward to shedding more tears when Eddie does it again at the Fifty-year. He's that kind of a man; rather a nice kind!

Stanley W. Cook is living comfortably, and in what he calls semi-retirement, at Royal Oak on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, where he does a good deal of boating and fishing. But he still retains his vice-presidency of George B. Hurd, Inc., manufacturers of high-grade stationery, and in the company's behalf gets around to Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia three or four times a year.

Dr. James Elmer Baker practices medicine at 1239 Fifty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, and has been doing so since 1912. Fishing, hunting, photography, and oil painting are his diversions.

The address of Stanley V. Wood is 334 South Franklin Street, Wilkes Barre, Pa. He is now retired and divides his year between Wilkes Barre in the winter and Ocean Grove, N.J., in summer, with an occasional trip to Florida or the West Coast.

'11, '12 CE—George A. Belden has been reappointed for a five-year term to the Georgia board of registration for professional engineers and land surveyors. He is assistant chief engineer for Central of Georgia Railway, Savannah, Ga.

AGAIN, as five years and more ago, our pages of alumni "Personals," especially of the more recent Classes, begin to be sprinkled with stars★, denoting Cornellians called to duty in the armed forces. We regret that this becomes necessary again, and hope that these stars will not begin to spill over into the Necrology column, as they did before.

But the present world situation seems to make the reappearance of the stars inevitable and gives promise that their number may increase. It is our hope to make the Alumni News more than ever a "letter from home" to Cornellians in uniform who are far from the Hill and from their friends.—Ed.

'11 LLB; '16; '23 AB; '29—Four Cornellians have been "profiled" recently in the New York Herald Tribune column, "Business and Finance Leaders." George V. Holton, chairman of Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., was written up, October 31, and Harold L. Bache '16, senior partner of Bache & Co., stock exchange and commodity house, December 14. The November 20 column described Houlder Hudgins '23, president of Sloane-Blabon Corp., linoleum manufacturers. Philip R. Distillator '29, president of Vogue China Co. and Jackson China Co., was the subject, December 8.

'12 BSA, '13 MLD—John R. Van Kleek, golf course and landscape architect and town planner, sends greetings from Oficina Correo, Macuto, Venezuela. "May finish my contract before," he writes, "but June '52 sure brings me back to The States."

'12 BS—An article by Edward L. Bernays, "Hawaii: the Almost Perfect State?" appeared in the November 20 issue of The New Leader.

Mystery telegram received by Class of 1913 at its Executive Committee meeting in Statler Hall, Ithaca, November 17: "Cornell '13 in Racine greets Cornell '13 in Ithaca. No recounts on Strahan. (Signed) Dratsab A & B."

Cipher experts Jess Whyte, Vic Underwood, Johnny Dittrich, Aerts Keesbey, Les Slocum, Snooze Snyder, Joe Hinsey, Neill Houston, Morris Neifeld, Paul Reyneau, and Fred Norton finally broke the code to read that Joe Strahan has agreed to take on as Alumni Fund Class representative and that Tris Antell and Spide Bridgeman were busy in Racine hosting for Johnson Wax at the dedication of a unique research "Heliolab" especially created by architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

Designed like a tree and looking like a Rube Goldberg contraption, the new laboratory is an unusual vertical 154-foot tower, fifteen stories high, with all work space and no corridors. Apparently suspended in space, the floors, alternately circular and square, are anchored to a central core of reinforced concrete. The appearance of the unusual cantilever arrangement is heightened by the play of sunlight from without or electric light from within on the wall structure composed of bands of twenty-four kinds of custom-built bricks interspersed with horizontally-laid glass tubing bonded by synthetic rubber. Spide reports that only eighty researchers will be housed in this Racine landmark.

In the rush of Class business, your cryptic experts did not have time to assign priority of rank as between Dratsab A and B. Instead, they acknowledged regrets at absence postcarded by Ros Rausch, Leon Finch, Tommy Wurts, Johnny Olin, Larry Lawrence, Harry Tillou, Ced Major, and Lysle Aschaffenburg; passed a vote of thanks to Jess Whyte for his past leadership of the Class in the Alumni Fund; pledged support to Joe Strahan as he takes over; expressed sense of loss at announcement of the resignation of Asa Knowles, Emmet Murphy '22 and Cornelis de Kiewiet who leave Cornell for areas of greater usefulness elsewhere; approved final forms of two resolutions (informative University "house organ" to be sent gratis to alumni, and extension of right to vote for Alumni Trustee to non-degree holders if they had formally matriculated as students) to be forwarded to University authorities with copies to the president of the Alumni Association, president of the Alumni Fund Council, and to the presidents of all Cornell Clubs; took note of some names suggested by Les Slocum for a new President of Cornell; heard from Neill Houston that, subject to further response from the reluctant many, each of the forty underwriters will be stuck approximately $7.37 apiece in the '13 Class Group Subscription project; grieved at George Rockwell's siege of sciatica and at the medico's prescription against shoveling snow this winter by Marcel Sessler (Siesta Key, Sarasota, Fla.); sampled the Statler menu; drank a cup of cheer to fortify against the nip of mid-November; and sallied forth to see Cornell take Dartmouth.

'14 BS—Robert C. Shoemaker, general secretary of the Worcester, Mass., YMCA and former president of the Massachusetts Laymen's Fellowship Committee, was Laymen's Sunday speaker at the First Congregational Church in Wakefield, Mass., October 29.

'15, '37 BS—Mrs. Henry L. Doyle (Katherine Stebbins) of Broome County was one of fifty-three home demonstration agents cited for outstanding service at the annual meeting, November 29, of the National Home Demonstration Agents Association.

Sorry not to have made the deadline for this December 15 column, but we were snowbound in Cleveland for four days over Thanksgiving week end. Never saw a snow storm its equal, even in Ithaca!

As these immortal lines are written (December 17), the exodus from the Campus for the Christmas holidays is about to begin. Remember what a swath we cut at vacation time with those derbies and modified peg-top pants? Recall those Musical Club dudes when they took off for the Christmas trip with their hat-boxes and canes, the extra snappy dressers sporting fancy overcoats with mushrat collars? Wasn't it the old collegiate stuff to get an early start (a measure of time only) down the Hill on the way to the Lehigh or Lackawanna and stop in at the Senate to say goodbye to Martin Gibbons, there to have a beer or two with Stuffy DeMunn or the "Senator," and then to the Dutch to catch a fast one with "Red" or "J.B."? Finally, the rush with your heavy suitcase to nail a crowded streetcar down State Street to the Rhine and off for home. Ah, me! "Golden days, when we're young, golden days."

1951 will be upon us when this reaches you, so here's "Happy New Year" to all of you!

Be sure to read this column in the next issue of the ALUMNI NEWS. We will break a sensational story, relating to the contest for the member of the Class having the youngest child. You wouldn't believe it!

Roger Williams Clapp is vice-president and cashier of the Exchange National Bank, Winter Haven, Fla. "Fuzz" says he is "aging" (Aren't we all?). He is the father of three daughters and one son, and has two grandchildren. Says he has been back to Ithaca but once since 1915. (Better make the next Reunion, "Fuzz.")

Russell Brewer Bean is general manager of Mountain States Automatic Sprinkler Co. His new address is 1079 South Fourth Street West, Salt Lake City, Utah.

George M. Heinitzer is district bridge engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways. Lives at 5227 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa. He regularly attends meetings of the Cornell Club of Pittsburgh; points out that the Club had two cars on the special train for the regatta at Marietta, Ohio, last June.

Herbert (Deacon) Ridgeway is with American Bridge Co., 71 Broadway, New York City.

Allen (Spike) Mulford is commercial vice-president, International General Electric Co., Schenectady. Mail address, 1 River Road.

Erich E. Schmied is president of S. & W. Construction Co., 983 Shrine Building, Memphis 3, Tenn. One daughter, two grandchildren.

Stanley S. Greene is district conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, US Department of Agriculture; address, 134 Genesee Street, New Hartford. Stan sure gets over the terrain. Under "Travel" in the questionnaire he reports "in US (all but 9 Western States), Canada." Gets to see many Cornellians, among them Charley Reader '15.

Dean W. Kelsey is with Co-op GLF Exchange, Inc., Mills Division, Buffalo; lives at Franklinville. Says two grandchildren "are rapidly renewing my youth??"

Duane Hatch is in Costa Rica; address, Apdo. 74, Turrialba. He is head of Extension Education Service Research and Training, Inter-American Institute of Agricultural Sciences. Was on an assignment to New Delhi, India, in September. Duane's questionnaire came by air mail: postage 75 centimos. (That may soon be the price of our present 3-cent postage if the boys in Washington don't quit watering the dollar!)

Samuel W. Guggenheim is president of Guggenheim Television, Rochester, and is membership secretary, Cornell Club of Rochester. Reports eighty new members this year; total membership 430. (Nice going, Sam! We missed you and your pictures at the Reunion last June.)

George Woodle, 663 West Onondaga Street, Syracuse, says "married and living with original wife. Had intentions of returning to Ithaca last June but doctor said not to do." Under "recreational" George puts down "cards, reading, and drinking." (Maybe, you are doing too much reading, George!)

'16 LLB—Mahlon B. Doing is a member of the law firm of Coudert Brothers, which has moved from 2 Rector Street,

New York City, to 488 Madison Avenue.

'16 ME—Knibloe P. Royce writes from 39 Vine Road, Larchmont: "No startling personal news except that I am a grandfather. This isn't unusual thirty-four years after graduation." He is sales manager in the medical apparatus division of Cambridge Instrument Co., Grand Central Terminal, New York City 17.

'17 AB—Ralph H. Blanchard is executive director of the newly-formed United Defense Fund, Inc., as well as director of Community Chests & Councils of America, Inc. He is also on the administrative board of the Cornell University Council. The Defense Fund plans a "single-package" drive for $7,000,000 for national defense health and welfare services for civilians and the armed forces. Community Chests will be asked to provide $6,000,000 of this amount.

'18 CE; '40 AB, '43 MD; '45 AB, '48 MD—Juan M. Bertran, civil engineer at PO Box 125, San Juan, Puerto Rico, reports on the activities of his two sons. Dr. Juan M. Bertran, Jr. '40 is chief of surgery in the Bayamon (P.R.) District Hospital and an assistant in anatomy at the University of Puerto Rico medical school. Dr. Carlos E. Bertran '45 is resident in internal medicine at Bellevue Hospital, New York City.

OPENING QUOTE FOR 1951 AND THEREAFTER DEPARTMENT: "Mankind is puny and feeble under the heavens as long as it is ignorant. It is ignorant in so far as it is self-limited by dogma, custom and most of all by fear, fear of the unknown. To science, the unknown is a problem full of interest and promise; in fact, science derives its sustenance from the unknown, all the good things have come from that inexhaustible realm. But without the light of science, the unknown is a menace to be avoided by taboo or propitiated by incantation and sacrifice. A healthy awareness of grave danger should lead to clear, considered, decisive action. Hysterical fear results in the setting up of taboos around emotionally charged words and symbols. The real objective, security for the free development of our institutions, becomes hazy and possibly perverted when panic takes over."—I. I. Rabi, Nobel Prizewinner, Higgins Professor of Physics, Columbia University.

SNEAK PREVIEW DEPARTMENT: Galley proofs of the Class directory including Abbott, George M. through Minier, Julian R. urge preliminary bows to Dean C. Wiggins, editor, and his assistants, with more coming later.

BOOK DEPARTMENT: Trent E. Sanford is the author of Architecture of the Southwest, published by W. W. Norton Co., Inc., a continuation of his Story of Architecture in Mexico, 1947.

William Shack is editor of A Manual of Plastics & Resins, in Encyclopedia Form, published by Chemical Publishing Co., Brooklyn. His earlier book was And He Sat Among the Ashes, a biography of the artist, the late Louis M. Eilshemius '84.

PINE TREE AT VALLEY FORGE DEPARTMENT: Percy L. Dunn was one of the thirty-five section directors at the Boy Scout National Jamboree, representing the Pine Tree Council, Inc. "Perce" and his wife (Clara R. Tailby of Ithaca) have four married children, all of whom went to Cornell. Home: 37 Highland Street, Portland 5, Me.

CLOSING QUOTE DEPARTMENT (HELP WANTED DIVISION): "Your correspondent is most anxious to receive any news about our Classmates and you are all constituted members of a committee to supply him with information whenever you hear something interesting or whenever you have any personal, business, parental, or grandfather news to report."—Second annual 1919 Letter from President Willard I. Our Class dinner December 5 was a memorable occasion. It was good to renew old friendships and to relive our Thirty-year Reunion of last June. We were particularly thrilled to have Stu Solomon give us his sound and color film as a thrilling account of our Reunion activities. He even showed us the film which he took ten years ago at our Twenty-year Reunion. Stu probably wanted to show us that we don't look as young now as we did then.

Several members of the Class have sent us news about themselves which we will include in this column, but we need more information from more Classmates, so let us hear about you. If you have not already done so, will those who have children who are also Cornellians, be sure to send their names promptly to Walt Archibald, as we would like to have a column devoted to the Class's second generation.

Joseph Diamant, 920 Broadway, New York City 10, writes that this is his thirtieth year with Lloyd Winthrop Co., real estate. He is treasurer of the company. Incidentally, he is also treasurer of the Class of 1920, and will willingly accept your checks for Class dues.

Jack Meadow, 205 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York City 1, is senior member of the law firm of Meadow, Mann & Clyne, and is a director of Federation Bank & Trust Co.

Jim Carney, 31 The Crescent, Montclair, N.J., is with Elliott Co. working on the sales of motors, generators, turbines, blowers, etc.

William Spivak, 8714 Twenty-first Avenue, Brooklyn 14, is a civil engineer connected with the office of the President of the Borough of Brooklyn. He is vice-president of the Municipal Engineers of the City of New York, president of the Association of Civil Engineers in the New York City Service, and director of the Kings County chapter of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers.

Samuel S. Wolkind, 4811 Terrace Drive, Niagara Falls, is president of the North End Business Association, is on the executive committee of the Merchants Association of the Chamber of Commerce, is a director of the Niagara Falls Baseball Club of the Middle Atlantic League.

W. Horace Whittemore, composer and author of our Thirty-year Reunion song, thrilled us with his story of how he fulfilled a lifelong ambition. After a career in business, he returned to Ithaca twenty-seven years later to complete the education required of a teacher of English. He is now a teacher of American literature and public speaking at the Leelanau Schools, Glen Arbor, Mich. Congratulations, Whit!

Cornell Blankets, now at The Triangle, are just the thing for picnics next summer and football games next fall. We think that at $9.00 you can't match them anywhere.

The heavy, 100 per cent wool, dark Cornellian Red blankets measure 54" by 72" and might be just the thing you're looking for to dress up that den or the rooms at school of your sons and daughters. A large block C in the center and white stitching around the edge give that distinctive Cornell appearance.

Your orders will be promptly filled and postage will be paid by The Triangle.

We'd like to remind you again that a Cornell Class Ring makes a fitting gift for the June graduate. Perhaps you'd like one for yourself. We can supply any Class numerals desired and can have the ring on your finger several weeks after your order is received. Please include size, numerals, and initials.

Right now, It's SUMMER
in Romantic Rio!

Rio's Copacabana Beach (left) is one of the finest in the world. Go now—it's summer south of the Equator! There's plenty of room, plenty of sun, and the people are interesting, cosmopolitan. Or you could go deep-sea fishing off Acapulco, Mexico (above). Some Acapulco catches have set world records.

Montevideo's Pocitos Beach is typical of those that stud the east coast of South America. Montevideo is overnight by Clipper from New York.

Yes, 20 $\frac{2}{3}$ hours after leaving New York in a giant double-decked "Strato" Clipper, you can be in Rio de Janeiro . . .

where the seasons
are reversed.
No snow! No ice!

• South America is, literally, as near as tomorrow—when you go Pan American. The Clipper way is the fastest way—the most luxurious way. You can board your Clipper in the United States in the middle of North America's winter—and fly into the middle of South America's summer in a matter of hours.

Pan American World Airways, Chrysler Bldg., N. Y.

PAN AMERICAN

World's Most Experienced Airline

"El Presidente" is the first Blue Ribbon air service of the Western Hemisphere . . . New York to Buenos Aires. On this extra-fare "Strato" Clipper you enjoy a 7-course dinner with champagne. Sleeperette* seats.

You have your choice of 3 Clipper services:

1.) "El Presidente" (see above). 2.) Regular first-class service. Four-engine Clippers equipped with exclusive Sleeperette easy chairs. You can sleep in bed-length comfort—at no extra charge. 3.) "El Turista," popular four-engine Clipper service. You save up to 25%.

Today, Clippers can take you to any kind of climate you want—at any time of year! Get details from your Travel Agent or nearest Pan American office.
