CORINTHIANS GET CRAFT Sail in Intercollegiate Races

As one of the six charter members of the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association, the Cornell Corinthian Yacht Club is participating this season in all but one of the ICYRA regattas.

May 4 and 5 Cornell was represented with two crews in the fourth annual ICYRA dinghy championships for the Henry A. Morss Memorial Trophy at Cambridge, Mass. Lack of adequate practice and tricky sailing conditions in the Charles River Basin proved an obstacle to the Cornell team, which finished eighth in a field of sixteen, accumulating a total of 253 points.

May 25 and 26 two crews of three men each will journey to Annapolis, Md., as guests of the U. S. Naval Academy, to participate in the first preliminary series for the thirteenth annual McMillan Cup Regatta. If the hoped-for success is obtained, the Club will be eligible for the final series which is scheduled tentatively for June 26-28 on Barnegat Bay, N. J.

This season marks the passing of an important milestone for the Cornell Corinthians. A few weeks ago the Club purchased two new 11½-foot "dinks" designed and built by Murray A. Wright of Dundee. Although an inadequate fleet for the thirty enthusiastic members, it is a nucleus to which the CCYC will make additions in succeeding years. It is hoped that two additional boats can be bought each year until a fleet of about ten dinghies is assembled.

Another serious problem which must be surmounted in the very near future is the establishment of a permanent home for these boats. At present, the Department of Entomology has extended to the Yacht Club the use of its boathouse on the east shore of Cayuga Lake, but next fall it will be necessary to make other plans. To obtain adequate permanent facilities which will enable the Club to invite other members of the ICYRA for regattas on Cayuga Lake is the ultimate ambition.

A few years ago the Club and several of its interested alumni embarked upon a campaign to raise funds for a clubhouse and a fleet of boats. Although original hopes were far too high, members are very grateful to those who were generous enough to donate a total of $115. These gifts helped greatly toward the necessary $300 for the purchase of two boats, and served as a strong stimulus to the efforts of the Club in getting additional money, which came by raising the annual dues from $2 to $10.

Since its founding in 1935, the Cornell

Corinthian Yacht Club has looked forward to holding intercollegiate dinghy races on Cayuga, with facilities comparable to those at MIT, Princeton, and Brown.

Commodore of the Club for next year is Malcolm D. Vail, Jr. '41, son of Malcolm D. Vail '12, of Highland Park, Ill. Vice-commodore is Robert L. Bradbury '42 of Glencoe, Ill.; rear commodore, Lloyd J. Moulton '42 of Syracuse; secretary-treasurer, John F. String, Jr. '42 of Port Washington. Since the Club's founding, Professor Alexander D. Seymour, Architecture, has been its friend and adviser.—J. F. S., Jr. '42

ENGINEERS' GIFTS LEAD

Study recently completed by the Alumni Fund office shows that alumni of the College of Engineering led those of all other Colleges, both in number of contributors to the Alumni Fund last year and in amount given, unrestricted.

Of the 6,622 donors who gave $71,251.01 to the Alumni Fund during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939, 2012 Engineering alumni gave $30,385.30. Next were 1,904 alumni of Arts and Sciences, who gave $20,221.08. In third place were 1,063 alumni of the State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, who gave $6,657.80. Then followed Law, with 436 giving $5,600.90. Graduate School alumni were fifth in number, 274 giving $1,950.69, but 262 of the Medical College surpassed them in amount, with $2,277.70. Architecture had 118 contributors of $1,638.50, and 79 Veterinary alumni gave $425.00.

Contributors who attended two or more Colleges numbered 369 and their gifts amounted to $3,650.75; while 70 non-Cornellians gave $471.25.

About ATHLETICS

TWO CREWS WIN AT DERBY

Again coming from behind, as it did two weeks before against Navy, the Varsity crew won the Carnegie Cup on the Housatonic River at Derby, Conn., last Saturday, defeating Yale by the merest of fractions in time and distance. Timed in 9:33.4, Cornell finished just two-tenths of a second ahead of Yale, with Princeton more than a length back in third place, timed in 9:39.5.

The Varsity thus set a new course record, bettering the 10:11 set by a Cornell eight in 1922. All nine crews in the regatta bettered the existing record for the two-mile course.

The Cornell Freshman crew also beat Yale and Princeton in that order, and the Junior Varsity finished second to Yale, with Princeton again third.

Princeton took the early lead in the Varsity race and held it for a mile and one-half, until Yale, rowing at 36, took command. In the final half-mile, Cornell overtook Princeton and, rowing at 40 strokes a minute at the finish, literally pulling the shell out of the water, nipped the Yale crew as the flag dropped.

The finish was so close that for minutes no one but the judges knew which crew had won. Yale had been favored to win and annex its fifth straight Carnegie Cup victory.

Cornell took command in the Freshman race and won by two lengths from Yale. The times: Cornell, 9:46; Yale, 9:65.5; Princeton, 9:57.2.

Yale made the Junior Varsity race look easy, winning by three lengths from Cornell. The times: Yale, 9:42; Cornell, 9:53.5; Princeton, 10:07.2.

Varsity boating was shifted since the Navy race, Richard G. Davis '41 moving from the Junior Varsity to bow, and William E. Fisher, Jr. '40 moving to No. 3, replacing Christian J. Haller '42. The new boating: Bow, Davis; 2, Peter C. Foote '41; 3, Fisher; 4, John C. Perry '41; 5, Franklin P. Eggert '42; 6, Commodore James A. Young, Jr. '40; 7, John G. Aldworth '42; stroke, Richard K. Collins '40; coxswain, Charles E. Boak '41.

Lightweights Lose

Competing in the American Henley regatta on the Charles River at Boston last Saturday, the Varsity 150-pound crew finished fifth and the Freshman lightweights placed second.

Harvard crews won both events over the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths. In the Varsity race, Harvard nosed out MIT in 6:56, with Princeton third, Yale fourth, Cornell fifth, Pennsylvania sixth, and Columbia seventh.

Harvard Freshmen won by two lengths from Cornell in 7:02.4, with Princeton third and Yale fourth.

TRACK TEAM FOURTH

The track team lost the Heptagonal Games championship to Yale at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, last Saturday, finishing in fourth place.

Yale won with 55½ points. Pennsylvania was second with 44, and the others finished: Princeton, 42⅔; Cornell, 35⅔; Harvard, 29; Dartmouth, 28, and Columbia, 5.

Captain Walter W. Zittel, Jr. '40 won the only individual title, although Lester E. Murdock '40 shared another.

Zittel twice broke the record as he won a trial heat and the final in the 220-yard low hurdles. He negotiated his heat in 0:23.7, to clip one-tenth of a second from the mark set the year before by Wittens of Pennsylvania and Foster of Dartmouth. He ran the final in 0:23.6.

Murdock shared the high jump championship with Blount of Dartmouth at 6 ft. 3½ in., a new record. The old mark of 6 ft. 2½ in. was set by Pitken of Columbia in 1936 and equalled by Murdock in 1938.

Cornell scored in eleven of the fifteen events. Second places were taken by Willard C. Schmidt '41 in the mile run, John L. Ayer '41 in the two-mile run, and by the mile relay team. Third places were captured by Murdock in the broad jump and Frederick W. West '41 in the shot put. The 440-yard relay team finished fourth, as did Emery G. Wingerter '40 in the mile run. In fifth place were George A. Knoerl '42 in the 120-yard high hurdles and Harold F. McCullough '41 in the javelin throw.

Three pole vaulters tied for fifth place, including Robert C. Randall '41 and Robert D. Kelsey '41.

STRETCHING THE SAILS OF THE CORNELL CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB'S NEW DINGHIES

HOLD BASEBALL LEAD

The baseball team all but clinched the Eastern Intercollegiate League championship last week by winning three of four games.

In a Hoy Field doubleheader last Saturday, Cornell defeated Yale, its closest rival, 2-1 and 2-0.

May 13 at Princeton, Cornell split a doubleheader with Princeton, losing the first game, 9-3, and winning the second, 6-4.

A non-League game on Hoy Field May 15, Cornell lost to Syracuse, 10-1.

League standings:

	W	L	PC
Cornell	9	1	.900
Yale	4	3	.571
Dartmouth	4	3	.571
Columbia	5	5	.500
Princeton	4	5	.444
Harvard	2	5	.286
Pennsylvania	2	8	.200

The Yale games were thrillers from start to finish. Both were scheduled for seven innings. The first went ten innings, with Cornell producing a Merriwell finish to win. From the start it was a battle of pitchers: Cornell's James A. Young '40 against the Yale ace, Harrison. For nine innings they allowed no scores, Young giving two hits, one of them a scratch, and Harrison three.

In the tenth inning, after Cornell had staved off what looked like defeat when Yale put two men on base in the eighth, Yale scored with one out, Harrison batting a single to score Captain Alter. Then with one out in the last half of the tenth, Cornell scored when Captain George F. Polzer '40 singled, and went to second on an error by McClellan in left field. Scholl fouled out, sending Polzer to third. Alva E. Kelley '41, pinch hitting for Robert C. Ochs '42, scored Polzer with a single to left. Kelley stole second and scored the winning run on a single to left-center by Charles S. Bowen '40.

Spectators agreed it was one of the best games ever played on Hoy Field.

In the second game, Walter J. Sickles '41 allowed but one hit. It was a double by Harrison who, after pitching the first game for Yale, played left field in the second.

Cornell won in the sixth inning, again bunting three hits. Kenneth G. Brown '40 led off with a single and was forced at second by Ronald E. Stillman '42. Stillman went to third on Polzer's single, and the captain stole second. Walter Scholl '41 won the game with a single through the second baseman's legs, scoring both runners.

In the first Princeton game, Princeton scored 5 runs in the first inning and was never headed, collecting four hits off Raymond Jenkins '42. Sickles finished the game and allowed six more hits.

In the second game, Cornell started strong, scoring 3 runs in each of the first two innings as Kyle W. Morse '40, start-

The Syracuse game saw four Cornell pitchers in action. Leo Hamalian '42 started and was charged with the defeat as Syracuse scored 4 runs in the fourth inning. FROM FAR BELOW . . .

By Bob Bliss '30

Mr. Fred Lamphier came to New York recently. Mr. Fred is the son of Mr. Red Lamphier, who still presides in the Dutch at Ithaca. Red can tell you a lot about the old days working for Mr. Zinck that Mr. Zinck would like to have known, business-wise. And he's still a master at the repartee dished out of the side of the mouth, sotto voce. He considers Carl Hallock his foreign listening post, and vice-versa. And they both agree on one thing: Stuffy De Mun has gone to hell since he started serving canned beer to girls in Willard Straight. That makes their blood boil!

But we started to tell you about Mr. Fred, not père Mr. Red. Few weeks ago he came to New York on his way to a swell big job in a Washington store, stopping in to see the many customer friends he's built up in Ithaca last few years in his clothing business. He told us about his dazzling salary offer, a big advance—four good figures—and so forth. As we bade him godspeed amid the huzzahs of his sponsors, he said: "Ya know, I'm gonna miss the students!" Mr. Fred is a very literate guy; that's just his conversational tone. "Well," we said, "Mr. Fred, there are other things beside money, and Ithaca is a fine town, but that's a lot of money they're paying you down there in Washington as the top Mr. Esquire of the Ithaca haberdashers."

But we said goodbye to Mr. Fred and hoped he'd make good, even though his friendly face and ready wit didn't seem natural any place outside of State Street, Ithaca, New York.

Now a late mail has brought us a letter from Ithaca. It said, "Dear Bob, You will notice by the letterhead [which was very flossy] I have returned to Ithaca and on or about May 15 I will open up my new store."

You can't beat it. It's in the blood!

We imagine Mr. Red is very happy. We know Mr. Fred is.

The Fair has all the earmarks of being a wow. People have fun. They claim we've dropped modern art for the tactics of the county fair and you can let down your back hair, loosen your stays, and whoop out an eight-cylinder guffaw without raised lorgnettes and a stiff rejoinder. We found it much easier to take. People come back relaxed instead of sore. They all say fine things about what bankers can do when they go in the amusement business, and how they can get results because they know what Americans want, not what they want them to think they want. They all say swell things about a Mr. Gibson, but you don't see or hear much about a Mr.

W, who shall be nameless unless for the sake of epitaphing we may have your permission to refer to him as Joe Gardenia.

The other night an itinerant tourist looked in at the Cornell Club, dragged a compatriot into the Campus Room, and pointed at Carl Hallock. "That's the guy. Hi, Carl! Remember Ida?" As he went off again we heard him telling his running mate that that Hallock was the gent who'd played such a big part in his family life. We pressed the sage vintner from Marathon for details. It was one of those overlooked Congressional medal matters. Carl had pulled the lad's mother out of the frothing current near the Marathon bridge in the flood of '36. Carl passed it off as commonplace, much as you'd part your hair in the morning.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

What I miss most on warm nights is Renwick and Patsy Conway's Band.

What used to be Renwick is now Stewart Park. The city owns it now, and it's much larger and doubtless better behaved. But the long trains of trolley cars which once hauled thousands of students, professors, and townspeople down to the Lake shore on warm nights are no more. The long wharf and Captain Jarvis's boat livery had rotted away twenty years ago, and the only surviving member of Patsy Conway's Band that I know of is Dr. Fred Howe, the dentist.

Not the least of Renwick's charms was its cheapness. It cost a nickel to get in if you walked or rode down on your bike, but if you went on the trolley the five-cent fare covered admission and everything else. Not infrequently, too, the trains were so crowded that you were safely inside the park before the trolley conductor got around to where you were hanging on the running board. That meant a nickel more you could spend for something else, and everything was a nickel, including the theater where a repertoire company put on two performances a night.

To be sure, Captain Jarvis's boats cost twenty-five cents an hour, but they'd hold five and that made only a nickel apiece. Those boats became pretty important on nights when a breeze out of the south had blown mosquitoes down to Renwick by the millions. But if you lay a half mile out in the shimmering Lake you escaped the mosquitoes and the music sounded even better coming over the water that way.

And don't get the idea that Patsy Conway's Band was any small-town outfit. It played its annual engagement on the pier at Atlantic City in turn with Sousa and Pryor and the U. S. Marine Band, and the University's claims for the superiority of the Cornell Junior Promenade were largely predicated on the fact that all two-steps were played by Patsy Conway.

The late Ebenezer Mack Treman '72 was the Band's angel and went broke keeping it going, but the town contributed, too, and the annual Band Fair at the Lyceum was one of the big events in the University calendar and shook down the whole countryside much as the Community Chest does now.

The Faculty went to Renwick just like everybody else, and while you might hesitate to stop and talk to a professor on the Campus, everything was completely relaxed down by the Lake and if you ran into one of your instructors down there he'd be pretty sure to talk to you and sometimes he'd go out in a boat with you and listen to the music.

Students don't miss Renwick on warm nights any more because, of course, none of them ever heard of it. And besides, they have so many other things to do. A student nowadays can step from the house into a car after supper and be in Syracuse, Elmira, or the Ithaca Hospital in about the same time it took the trolley to fetch us to Renwick and Romance. But he can't do it for a nickel! Not for a nickel, any more!

DETROIT WOMEN ELECT

Cornell Women's Club of Detroit, Mich., has elected as its president Mrs. James E. Rasbach (Aline J. Brown) '35. Vice-president is Mrs. Otto H. S. Koch (Dorothy M. Nettleton) '25; secretary-treasurer, Ella R. Lyons '33.

BY AIRPLANE TO JUNGLE

An adventurous expedition into the jungles of Brazil by airplane was described and illustrated in a lecture before the Cornell chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers May 15 by Herbert F. Johnson, Jr. '22, president of S. C. Johnson & Sons, Racine, Wisc. Purpose was to survey the source of supply of carnauba wax, the indispensable basis of commercial floor-wax and allied products manufactured by his company.

Carnauba wax is originally a coating on the leaves of a particular kind of palm tree which grows under special climatic conditions in a distant portion of Brazil. Hence the world supply has been dependent on the crude methods of cultivation and preparation of the raw material practiced for centuries by the natives.

Soon after he joined the company, on graduation, Johnson decided that an expedition should be sent to the carnauba country to study the situation. After years of experimenting with different types of airplanes, advance surveys of the route, establishment of fuel supplies at strategic points, and diplomatic negotiations with various South American countries, he finally led the expedition to its destination in 1935.

As the result of direct observation and research in the laboratory they set up in the carnauba country, a new method of drying the palm leaves has been developed, and his company has opened a modern plant there to increase the quantity and improve the quality of the wax at its source. The story of the expedition and its results is told by its leader in a book, Carnauba Expedition, recently published.

Johnson emphasized the fact that carnauba wax is one of many natural products for which no synthetic chemical substitute has ever been developed. He urged the importance in chemical engineering of giving more attention to improving methods of handling natural resources rather than concentrating too much effort on finding synthetic substitutes.

As an undergraduate, Johnson was a member of Masque, the Officers Club, Beth L'Amed, and Chi Psi.—R. F. H. '24

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI News often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

ALUMNI SONS ROWING

TO THE EDITOR:

Unless my deductions are wrong, I saw the names of three sons of '12 men in the Frosh crew and two in the Junior Varsity, in the ALUMNI News account of the Navy races. I refer to South, Lanman, Kastner, and the two Kruse boys.

Five out of sixteen sweep-singers is some record, and shows the old Class carrying on, in the flesh as well as the spirit!—JOSEPH KASTNER, JR. '12

Add to these Henry A. Carey, Jr. '42, son of Henry A. Carey '12, who rowed in the 150-pound crew that beat Columbia May 11. This makes six sons of the Class of '12 who have rowed in races this year. Those who rowed against Navy May 4 are John W. Kruse '40 and William N. Kruse '43, sons of Walter O. Kruse '12, in the Junior Varsity shell; and Furman South III, son of Furman South, Jr. '12, Joseph T. Lanman, son of Henry A. Lanman '12, and Kastner's son, Donald E. Kastner, in the Freshman boat.

Only other Class that can claim more than one son in the first boats is '07. Robert B. Tallman, son of Carl C. Tallman '07, rowed in the 150-pound Varsity and Hugh E. Brown '43, son of Mrs. Walter E. Brown (D. Lucile F. Woodward) '07, was in the Freshman 150-pound crew that beat two Buffalo high schools May 11.

HERBERT F. JOHNSON, JR. '22

President of S. C. Johnson & Sons, whose new factory building in Racine, Wisc., designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, has attracted widespread attention as an example of modernistic architecture.

In the Varsity crew are also Peter C. Foote '41, son of Edward T. Foote '06, and Charles E. Boak '41, coxswain, son of Thomas I. S. Boak '14. The Junior Varsity has Harry M. St. John, Jr. '42, son of Harry M. St. John '10, and DuBois L. Jenkins '42, son of David M. Jenkins '17. Freshman oarsman is Herbert H. Wallower, Jr., son of Herbert H. Wallower '18. The 150-pound Varsity has also Robert S. Chamberlain '41, son of Professor Robert F. Chamberlain '08, Electrical Engineering. First Freshman 150-pound crew includes Frederick S. Johnson, son of Fred Johnson '01; Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., son of Edward H. Cumpston '09; and Bruce A. Pope, son of S. Austin Pope '14.—Ed.

HONOR CLUB FOUNDER

Communication with the founder of the Cosmopolitan Club and with its first president, both in Argentina, and presentation of a portrait of the founder featured the Club's annual farewell banquet, May 17, to its members who are soon leaving.

More than 100 members of the Club, of the International Association of Ithaca, and guests gathered for dinner at the Clubhouse on Bryant Avenue. They heard President Edmund E. Day, Donald C. Kerr '12, Professor Olaf M. Brauner, and Sala Dasananda '39, president of the Club, broadcast greetings by short wave radio to Modesto Quiroga, MSA '05, the founder, and William A. Reece '05, the first president. Quiroga had traveled 700 miles from his home in San Luis to join Reece in Buenos Aires for the occasion. Radio conditions made it impossible to receive the replies of the Argentinians, but word came back that the messages had been received and a cable to the Club brought Quiroga's greetings, reminiscences of the organization meeting which he called November 10, 1914, and his and Reece's best wishes for the future of the Club.

Professor Brauner presented to the Club at the dinner a portrait of Quiroga which he had painted. His gift, he said, was in recognition of his great interest in the Club since the days of its founding, and of the influence of such clubs for world understanding. He pointed out that the day of its presentation was a national holiday of his native Norway. The Club in a brief business session unanimously elected Professor Brauner and Mrs. Brauner to life membership in recognition of their gift.

Kerr, the toastmaster, read messages from Felipe A. Espil, Argentinian Ambassador to the United States, and Dr. L. S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan American Union, expressing their gratitude to Quiroga for his vision which started the Cosmopolitan Club movement all over the world with the founding of the first Club at Cornell.

President Dasananda, of Dhonburi, Thailand, and Jeannette C. Ross '41 of Nyack expressed the Club's farewell to its members about to leave for their homes all over the world. Responses were made by Margot B. Spiegel '40, a refugee from Germany, and Francisco P. Apeseche '40 of Buenos Aires, who told of having visited Quiroga at his home last summer.

Dean S. C. Hollister, recently elected president of the International Association of Ithaca, presented to the Club silver tea and coffee services given by friends of Floyd K. Richtmyer '04, late president of the Association, commemorating his many years of service to the Cosmopolitan Club. Kerr presented colored photographs of Ithaca, Greece, and Ithaca, N. Y., framed together, the gift of Costa G. Couvaras '37 who came to Cornell from the former city.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB RECEIVES PORTRAIT OF ITS FOUNDER, MODESTO QUIROGA, MSA '05

Brauner, Architecture, Emeritus, artist and donor of the founder's portrait; Fernando Carvajal-Barahona, Grad, of San Jose, Costa Rica; Sala Dasananda '39 of Dhonburi, Thailand, new president of the Club; Francisco P. Apeseche '40, son of R. Francisco Apeseche '14 of Buenos Aires, Argentina; former President Teh-chang Koo '40 of Shanghai, China.

President Day spoke hopefully of progress to be expected in the "age-long struggle to liberalize the human mind and spirit," even with the present world situation. He cited the Cosmopolitan Club's contribution to the understanding of nations, and wished for the departing members that "you may take with you the spirit and tradition of Cornell."

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

PRESIDENT'S REVIEW of the ROTC May 17 (see cover) was the culmination of a two-day inspection of the Corps by five Army officers headed by Colonel John W. Downer, FA. Sun columnists observed that there was better discipline during the review—less concern with fond parents and co-eds who watched from the balcony—than last year.

EXTRA CONCERT in the University series was by Egon Petri, famous Dutch pianist and teacher, in Bailey Hall May 15. He and Mrs. Petri fled on the last train before the Germans came to Zakopane, Poland, where he had lived and taught for fourteen years. Last February, visiting their Ithaca friends, Gilbert M. Weeks '26 and Mrs. Weeks, they were so impressed with the city that they expressed the desire to live here. Just before the concert it was announced that they would make their home in Ithaca henceforth, to the great delight of music lovers here.

SOLOISTS at the spring concert of the Ithaca High School chorus and orchestra, May 17, were J. Bruce Boyce '33 and Hilda Berry, daughter of Romeyn Berry '04.

FIRST TICKET purchased for the Navy Ball this year was by an ALUMNI NEWS subscriber in response to the committee's advertisement May 9. A check came with a request to give the ticket to a deserving student, in accordance with the advertisement's gentle suggestion of this as a good way for alumni to help the ROTC Band pay expenses.

FRESHMEN burned their caps at the traditional bonfire back of the dormitories May 13, after a mass meeting in Bailey Hall with football movies and a speech by Professor Charles L. Durham '99. It is said that Sophomores actually lit the blaze before the Freshmen got there, and stole the truck which had brought the wood, depositing it on the Quadrangle.

TREMAN, KING & CO. building at State and Cayuga Streets, vacated last winter by the retail hardware business which had occupied that corner since 1844, has been leased to Montgomery, Ward & Co. for a retail store. The adjoining block on Cayuga Street, which once housed the Lyceum Theater, will be razed and an addition will be built on its site for the new tenants, giving a five-story building with 55,000 square feet of floor space. Carl C. Tallman '07 is architect for the remodelling, general contract having been let to the George A. Fuller Construction Co. of Washington, D. C., of which Walter G. Distler '12 is vice-president. The Montgomery Ward store will open about September 1. Hickey's Lyceum Music Store, which has occupied the Cayuga Street store of recent years, moved last February to 330 East State Street.

STUDENT COUNCIL elections were preceded by statements in the Sun from campaign managers of three coalitions stating their platforms and the qualifications of their candidates. New president, Jack C. Antrim '41 of Worthington, Ohio, was a candidate of the so called "Trans-orge" fraternity coalition, as was the vice-president and treasurer, Kennedy Randall '41 of Staten Island. Another fraternity coalition, named for Theta Delta Chi, elected Wellington L. Ramsey '41 of Haverford, Pa., secretary of the Council. Each of these elected seven of their candidates, and a third Fusion Party representing largely the independent vote elected one candidate in each Class as members at large. One candidate who had announced himself as of "no party" and then withdrew his name at the last moment was caught voting the second time in the name of a student who had left the University, "to prove his support of a coalition," he said. Several other charges of violations were aired in the Sun.

BESIDES OFFICERS named above, five Seniors-for-next-year were elected to the Student Council: Herbert L. Abrams of Brooklyn, Richard G. Davis of Arlington, Va., William F. Robinson of Garden City, Walter J. Sickles of Pearl River, and Rex W. Wood of Mohawk. Junior members will be Walter L. Bird of Muncie, Ind., John A. Burditt of Rutland, Vt., Raymond Jenkins of Philadelphia, Pa., Donald S. Kent of Brooklyn, and Paul R. Thomas of Meadville, Pa. Next year's Sophomore members are Louis G. Helmick, Jr. of Fairmont, W. Va., Roy B. Unger of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and Richard L. Walter of Woodmere. Forty-three candidates were nominated for sixteen positions.

PROPOSAL that membership in the Student Council should be apportioned according to the number of non-fraternity and fraternity men in the University was defeated, 217 for, and 285 against.

PROMOTING Spring Day, Aaron Wells, proprietor of Zinck's, was to go over Triphammer Falls in a barrel. Wells got into the barrel (and out again when the crowd wasn't supposed to be looking), and the barrel was set afloat in Beebe Lake. But a west wind blew it back from the falls, the barrel leaked and wet the powder which had been substituted to blow it up, and the crowd that lined the rail of Triphammer bridge went home.

SS MANHATTAN, sailing from New York May 18, carried among sixteen Americans for service in France with the American Volunteer Ambulance Corps, William R. Orndorff '43. He is the son of the late Professor William R. Orndorff, Chemistry, and Mrs. Orndorff, who still lives in Ithaca.

"CLUB SKYTOP" on the terrace of Willard Straight Hall May 16 had 700 patrons who paid five cents admission to a "floor show" of student talent, with costumed "cigarette girls" passing out candy, and dancing. Chairman of arrangements was John M. Quackenbush '42 of Buffalo.

WIDOW BOARD last week gave a picnic at Stewart Park for Mrs. Fanny O. Smith, who has run the office since the Widow started thirty-two years ago. They gave her a plaque in appreciation of her services.

CORNELLIAN editor for 1941 will be Richard H. Paul of Elmira. Managing editor is Ellis Eisen of Brooklyn; women's editor, Ruth Ernest of Oneonta; business manager, Stuart A. Spaulding of New York City; circulation manager, Donald F. Flemer of Springfield, N. J.; women's business manager, Grace R. O'Dare of Yonkers.

DANCE CLUB gave a recital of original modern dances before a capacity audience in the Willard Straight Theater, May 14.

PURCHASER of five young animals at the Eastern Aberdeen Angus Association sale in the University's stock judging pavilion May 13 was William G. Mennen '08. He maintains a choice herd of the black cattle at his Hideaway Farm at Chester, N. J. Myron M. Fuerst '30 of Pine Plains, president of the Eastern Association, was manager of the sale.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER May 26 is Dr. Alexander C. Purdy of Hartford Theological Seminary.

ARTIST AND SCULPTOR friends of Professor Eric Gugler, Architecture, found much to interest them in a pilgrimage last week-end around Cayuga, Seneca, Keuka, and Canandaigua Lakes. Conducted by Professor Morris Bishop '14, Romance Languages, and Romeyn Berry '04, they were no less impressed with the architecture of some of the fine old structures they saw than with the natural beauty of the lakes and hills.

FINGER Lakes region, including Ithaca and its surrounding country, is pictured and described in an attractive booklet just published by the Finger Lakes Association. The booklet may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce, Ithaca.
