CORNELL FIRST.

Columbia and Pennsylvania Defeated in the Second Varsity Race.

The long cherished hopes of Cornell men for retrieving the losses of the last two years on the water were partially realized on May 30, when the second Varsity crew triumphed over the second crews of Columbia and Pennsylvania. The Cornell shell crossed the finish line in ten minutes and fifty-two seconds after the start, with plenty of reserve force, two and a half lengths ahead of Co-37 at the half-mile, going up to 39 at the mile mark and rowing that stroke through to the finish. Pennsylvania rowed about 36 for almost the entire length of the course.

In the early morning the weather was most unpropitious. A heavy rain was falling, most discouraging to the Navy management and the officials of the Lehigh Valley who had spared no effort to make the observation train arrangements perfect. But an unexpected breaking away of the clouds during the forenoon delayed the rain until the race was over. The unpromising weather had apparently no effect on the crowds who had planned to see the race, and except

An elaborate souvenir program was prepared by the Navy management containing twenty pages of interesting information regarding the competing crews, the rowing records of their college and accounts of the former second Varsity races. The programs contained no advertising and were illustrated with cuts of the crews, their captains and managers, the observation train of two years ago, and various other scenes of interest.

Soon after the train had reached the start, the steam launch Clara appeared followed by the three crews. The arrival of the shells was the signal for an outburst of cheers from the

TRACK TEAM VICTORIOUS.

Princeton Beaten by a Score of 64 to 40—Notable Work by Sears—Games a Great Success.

Decoration Day the Cornell track team scored a victory that ought to arouse the enthusiasm of every loyal Cornell graduate. For the first time since Princeton and Cornell have been holding meets Cornell came off victorious. Even the most sanguine had not looked for such a score as the team rolled up. After the first four events it became evident who would win the meet and when Cornell scored point after point in events conceded to Princeton the joy of the home college was beyond bounds.

The management of the meet was admirable. The first events started promptly at two o'clock and in two hours the meet was concluded.

As the result of a week of rain the track was quite heavy, which undoubtedly prevented several records being broken. Sears, however, succeeded in lowering one record, and Lyon equalled another.

The work of F. M. Sears, '04, was the feature of the afternoon. Sears had been picked as a sure winner in the two dashes, but when he won the 440, also, the crowd went wild with excitement. Six watches caught his time in the 100 yard dash, three of which registered 9 4-5 seconds, and three 10 seconds. Consequently it is probable that his time was slightly better than ten.

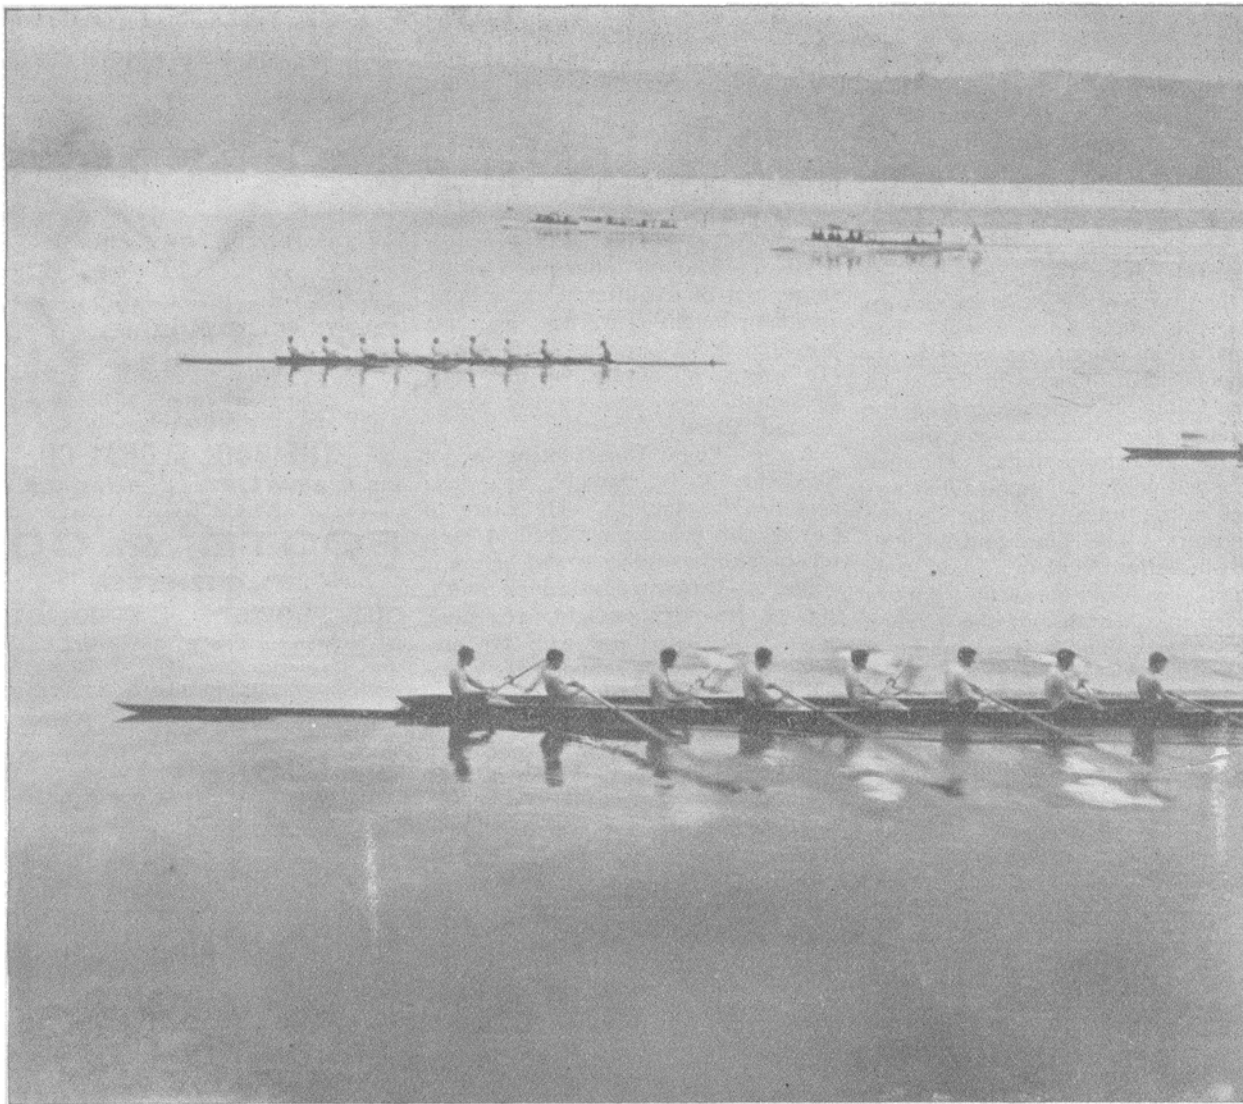

Capt. Hastings and C. D. Young also did good work in the races won by Sears, securing the second places in all three events.

In the low hurdles H. H. Lyon, '01, ran a magnificent race, equalling his former Cornell record of 26 2-5 seconds. The ease with which he took the jumps won for him the congratulations of Trainer Robinson of Princeton.

In the mile run, the home team made a fine showing, capturing every place. The Cornell runners worked well together, Berry taking the lead in the first lap, Flanders in the second and Trott in the third. At the finish Trott and Berry easily led, while Flanders after a sharp contest won third place.

The high hurdles saw some more points scored for the Ithaca team. Walton and Ketchum won the first two places with ease, the former leading from the first hurdle.

After his brilliant victory in the two mile run at the Intercollegiate meet everyone looked to Gallagher as a sure winner in that event. From the start Gallagher set the pace but his freshman antagonist, Williams, Princeton, stuck to him with the greatest persistence. When the time for the final spurt came Williams forged ahead with seeming ease, winning the race by about five yards. The Princeton men claim that in the Intercollegiate had Williams been directed to follow Gallagher instead of Teel of Yale he would have won first place. Williams' plan is to follow the pace set by the other men and then win on the sprint. On the other hand Gallagher's strength lies in setting too hot a pace for his antagonist.

lumbia and as many more in front of Pennsylvania. The Philadelphia crew by virtue of its record last year and its preparatory work during the present season was the public's favorite for first place, but there were very few odds offered on any of the three crews.

A prettier aquatic event or one more fairly won has never before been seen on Cayuga lake and to every member of the victorious crew is due unbounded praise. Columbia rowed a stroke not unlike that of Cornell save that the men jerked it through at the finish. After the crews settled down to the race at the half-mile flag, Cornell swung at 34 strokes to the minute and did not vary materially to the end, rowing with the greatest ease and regularity. Columbia rowed a higher stroke, beginning at 43, dropping to for the two end cars every seat was occupied at 5:15 when the train left Buffalo street for the starting point. It is estimated that over three thousand persons saw the race from the train which was considerably longer than those at Poughkeepsie. As the train drew out to the start, it passed hundreds of people gathered along the shore of the lake to witness the race.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the excellent arrangements made by the Navy and Lehigh Valley officials for handling the immense crowds without confusion or loss of time. The long tedious wait at the starting point of two years ago was not repeated because of the Navy's decision not to row the race until five o'clock and because the train was held at Buffalo street until the crews were ready to leave the boat house.

Columbia was at the stake nearest the shore at six o'clock. Pennsylvania paddled up to the middle stake one minute later and at about the same time Cornell took her position on the course nearest the middle of the lake. The officials' boat did not steam up to a position where Referee Forbes could accurately judge the relative positions of the boats, but remained about fifty yards down the lake.

Less than five minutes after the time scheduled for the calling of the race, the crews were ready for the start. The thousands on the observation train were waiting patiently for the pistol shot. Then followed a series of instructions to the coxswains and the engineers of the observation train. The train was started and a moment later the crack of the referee's

The time of 10 minutes, 11 seconds was eleven seconds slower than that made at the Intercollegiate meet.

In the half-mile run Perry of Princeton and Bellinger of Cornell furnished the grand stand with an exciting finish in a contest not unlike the one witnessed at New York the Saturday before. Both men ran beautifully until finally with a tremendous sprint Perry went ahead, winning by about three yards.

The field events saved Princeton from utter downfall. In the high jump James tied Curtiss of Princeton for first place. The height of 5 feet, 7 3/4 inches would in all probability have been exceeded had the field been reasonably dry. In the broad jump Longnecker and Bates did very good work swelling Cornell's score by seven points.

With the weights, DeWitt of Princeton did notable work securing both firsts. In the hammer throw, which he won by a distance of 149 feet, he would have broken the collegiate record had he not fouled. The distance, 166 feet, was one foot greater than that of Plaw of California, the present champion. Unfortunately he stepped over the line about two inches.

In the pole vault Captain Coleman of Princeton easily won first place but only came within ten inches of his former record.

Trainer Moakley has scored a personal triumph in the winning of this meet. Before the games he expressed himself as satisfied with the men's work, and considered Cornell's chances of winning good; after the meet he said they did better than he had dared to hope. The best of good feeling prevailed on both sides throughout the meet. The way the Princeton men bore their defeat reflects the greatest credit upon the team.

The following are the summaries of the events. First place counted 5 points, second 2, and third 1.

CORNELL FIRST.

revolver announced that the race was on. The Columbia coxswain had become anxious and had sent his men off a couple of strokes ahead of the shot; Pennsylvania and Cornell caught the water together. The New Yorkers dug their oars into the water at a lively rate and their shell shot ahead with bounds that augured ill for the other crews. Before an eighth of a mile had been covered, the shell of the blue and white had a lead of about a quarter of a length while Cornell was close upon Pennsylvania. The superior oarsmanship of the Cornell crew was quite apparent, and it soon sent the crew ahead, cutting down Columbia's lead. In a moment Cornell forged ahead of Pennsylvania, and soon after the half mile was passed, was even with Columbia who was rowing at a 38 clip. Pennsylvania was rowing desperately but had not the power of the other two crews.

At the mile mark Cornell had earned a half length lead and was not again headed. Coxswain Comstock of the Columbia crew discovered the advantage the Ithacans were obtaining and called for a spurt. The men responded nobly and again a fear was raised in the breasts of the Cornell supporters. The blue and white's shell shot ahead, and in a short time Cornell's lead had been cut down to a quarter of a length, but the Cornell oarsmen were not exerting themselves and had no trouble in keeping ahead. Apparently unmindful of Columbia's spurt, they moved on at the same steady stroke.

At the mile and a quarter mark, Cornell seemed to have more than a length advantage. Again Columbia spurted but could gain no more than before and at the mile and a half Courtney's men were still three-quarters of a length ahead. Pennsylvania followed doggedly on but was more than three lengths behind, seemingly unable to make a spurt of any sort.

A quarter of a mile from the finish, Cornell hit up the stroke and the boat seemed to walk away from the others. Columbia tried again but to no purpose. Cornell shook off her rival and a good stretch of open water was between the two boats when Coxswain Smith called for the final ten. Columbia struggled on but the race was lost by two and a half lengths. Ten seconds after Cornell finished, the flag was dropped on Columbia. In true sportsmanlike manner the Quakers pulled on and in six and a half seconds more, Coxswain Tupper called out "Let 'er run." Cornell had drawn the outside course and on account of the curve near McKinney's, was allowed a handicap of thirty feet.

When the Cornell men rested on their oars, there arose a din such as Ithaca was seldom heard. Steam whistles were tied down and allowed to shriek unmolested, and the observation train carried its load of cheering, shrieking humanity past Renwick into the city.

After the race the three crews rowed to the boat house on the Inlet. When the Cornell eight arrived there, they immediately turned to help the visitors pack their belongings. The outriggers were removed from the Columbia and Pennsylvania shells and the boats carried to the cars. Captain Beyer and his men assisted the other crews in carrying their luggage to the station.

The statistics of the Cornell crew are as follows:

R. E. Mueden, '03, has been elected to the board of editors of the Sibley Journal as a result of the recent competition.

Preliminary plans have been drawn up for a new medical building for Harvard University. The estimated cost of the new structure is $2,000,000.

Resolutions.

The Rochester Alumni association of Cornell University has adopted the following resolutions, which are entered on the minutes of the association:

"Warner White Gilbert, a graduate of Cornell University, class of 1895, and a member of the Cornell University Alumni association of Rochester, departed this life on May 19, 1901.

"The members of the Alumni association, appreciating the conscientious, brilliant work of Warner White Gilbert, as a student and investigator in the natural sciences, and his sterling qualities of mind and heart as a man, and moved by a deep sense of their loss, hereby give expression—however inadequate—to their profound sorrow at the demise of one of the most promising sons of their Alma Mater, and tender to Mr. and Mrs. H. Roy Gilbert, his stricken parents, their warmest sympathy in their great and sudden affliction."

Arrangements have been made whereby persons attending the Cornell Summer Session of 1901, who purchase tickets in nearly any of the states east of the Mississippi may secure a reduction of two-thirds of the railway fare on the return journey by complying with certain conditions. Further particulars will be furnished on application to the Registrar of the Summer Session, DAVID F. HOY, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

"Stimson Hall" to be the Name of the New Medical Building.

The new medical building which is being erected on the Campus will be known as "Stimson Hall," in honor of Lewis Attorbury Stimson, Professor of Surgery in the College of Medicine at New York City. Professor Stimson is a personal friend of the donor of the new building, and it was largely through his influence that Cornell secured the generous gift.

Dr. Stimson received his A. B. degree at Yale in 1863, and studied medicine at Zurich, Paris, and New York. In 1878 he was appointed professor of surgical pathology in the University of New York, and since then he has occupied the chairs of physiology, anatomy, and surgery at the same institution. The last named position he held at the time of his appointment to the chair of surgery in Cornell. In 1900, Dr. Stimson received the degree of LL.D. from Yale.

About 1886 he was chosen corresponding member of the Société de Chirurgie (Paris); during the years 1887-89 he was president of the New York Surgical Society; and in 1893-96 vice-president of the New York Academy of Medicine. Dr. Stimson has written a text-book of Operative Surgery (1878), and treatises on Fractures (1882), and Dislocations (1888), and is joint author of the American Text-Book of Surgery (1892) and of a System of Surgery (1896).

Changes in the Department of Oratory.

The absence of Professor D. C. Lee from the University next year has necessitated several changes in the department of Oratory. Professor Lee's place at the head of the department will be taken by Acting Assistant Professor J. A. Winans, who has been instructor in elocution and oratory for two years.

W. Ross Lee will occupy the position left vacant by the advancement of Mr. Winans. Mr. Lee graduated from Hamilton College with the class of 1900, and for the past year has been teaching public speaking to the freshman class at Hamilton. As an undergraduate he won distinction in public speaking and debate, having competed successfully for the debate prize and the celebrated Clark Prize. The latter corresponds to our Woodford Prize, and is awarded to the best orator of the college. Mr. Lee also won the Latin Scholarship, and at graduation was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was salutatorian of the class of 1900 at Hamilton. As a teacher he has been eminently successful during the past year. In his new field, he will devote his time to the course in public speaking and the courses in debate. In the latter courses he will carry the major portion of the work.

The assistants in the department will be George A. Oldham, '02, president of the Debate Union, and a contestant on the '86 stage last year, and William A. Frayer, '03, this year's winner of the '86 competition. They will have the supplementary drill work of the course in public speaking.

All the regular courses will be given next year excepting that on "Masters and Masterpieces of Oratory." Professor Lee will leave on his vacation during the summer and will spend the entire year at Oxford, England.

The University golf tournament has been postponed until next fall.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

More than two hundred alumni to whom the ALUMNI NEWS has been regularly sent this year have as yet neglected to pay their subscriptions. If these subscriptions are not paid, the paper will end the year with a deficit. In that event the question of discontinuing the publication of the ALUMNI NEWS will be seriously considered.

A DOUBLE VICTORY.

Memorial Day was a day of delight to all those interested in Cornell's athletic successes. Of the two victories won on that day each has its peculiar significance. One victory was achieved upon the track and field where Cornell in the past has been unaccustomed to win victories. The other victory was achieved upon the water where Cornell up to the Saratoga race of 1898 was practically invincible for over a decade. The track and field victory tells us more strongly than words could do how much we have progressed in this branch of sport. It was our first victory over an institution which has long been strong in its track and field men. It is significant as an indication that our track team has at length reached a plane where it will be a dangerous antagonist for any institution. It cannot be ignored in the future, but must be accorded a respectful consideration. But while this victory was new to us, the aquatic victory seemed an old friend who had left us temporarily only to return again. It is significant as an indication of a return to our old rowing habit of occupying almost exclusively the position of head of the river. The glory of our aquatic history is not a thing of the past. We are going to win just as gratifying victories as were those at Saratoga in '75 and '76, and those upon the Hudson and Thames in '96, '97 and '98; not so regularly, no doubt, for other coaches have come to learn in part Mr. Courtney's cunning, but, nevertheless, while Mr. Courtney remains alive, the lion's share of the victories will continue to be ours, we think.

THE ALUMNI HALL AGAIN.

We are indebted to Professor Trowbridge for the statement published in this issue relative to the Alumni Hall. While it is not an authoritative utterance of the Alumni Hall committee, but is merely the personal opinions of one of its members, it, nevertheless, undoubtedly expresses the views on the subject entertained by the committee as a whole. It is of the utmost importance that there should be a practical unanimity of sentiment between the members of the committee, on the one hand, and the alumni and students, on the other hand, on the main features of the building and the general scheme to be carried out. We deem it important to acquaint the alumni and students with the views of the committee, in order that if there be any difference of opinion it may be brought out before the plans have been carried too far to be easily changed. In approaching the subject it must be borne in mind that the members of the committee have given the problems presented the most careful thought. The conclusions they have reached are not to be lightly treated, but ought to be given the most respectful consideration. They would be the first, however, to disclaim any pretension to infallibility, and it may be that the necessities of the situation here at Cornell call for a different building than the one they have in mind. They are the ones most interested in knowing whether this is the case or not, and they will doubtless welcome any discussion which will enable them to plan a building satisfactory to alumni and students generally, even though the discussion brings out considerations necessitating a modification of their present views. The time to interpose objections is now,—not after the building is in process of construction. We bespeak a careful reading of Professor Trowbridge's statement.

Regatta Week Concert.

The concert of the Musical Clubs was given Wednesday evening, before a house which completely filled the Lyceum. The theatre was appropriately decorated for the occasion with the blue and white of Columbia, red and blue of Pennsylvania, yellow and black of Princeton and carnelian and white of Cornell. The front rows and some of the loges were filled by the Princeton and Pennsylvania athletes.

The program contained several college and rowing songs, all of which were very enthusiastically received.

The entire program was as follows:

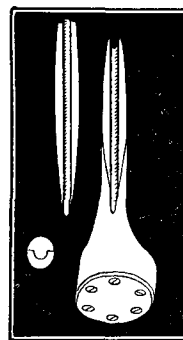

Part I: 1,—(a) "Red and Blue," Pennsylvania; (b) "Sans Souci," Columbia; (c) "Alma Mater," Cornell; by the Glee club, and as encores, "Old Nassau," and Dixie's Land." 2,—"The Viceroy," Herbert, by the Banjo club, and as encore "Goo Goo Medley." 3,—"Arise from Dreams of Thee," R. A. Bole, '02, and Glee club; and an encore, "Serenade." 4,—"San Toy," Jones, by Mandolin club and as encore, "Soloma." "Tell Me, Pretty Maiden," Messrs. Culver, Cross, Downs, Fowler, Kyle, Mott, Morrison, Siyver, Slocum and Sommer; and as encore, same.

Part II: 1,—"Boating Song," Glee club; and as encore, "Crew Song" and "Alumni Song." 2,—"Burgomaster," Banjo club; and as encore "Campus Reveries." 3,—"Marching," Glee and Mandolin clubs; and as encore the new "Percy Field Song." 4,—"Valse, Bonheur Perdu," Mandolin club. 5,—"Queries," Messrs. Cavanaugh, Sommer, Morrison, Culver, and Glee club; and as encores, "1875," and "Encore Song." 6,—"Evening Song," Glee club.

Through oversight, the ALUMNI NEWS neglected to make proper acknowledgment for the cuts that appeared in last week's issue of the paper. They were used by courtesy of the Ithaca Daily News.

Mathematics and the Languages.

This school is for two classes of pupils:
1.—Candidates for admission to Cornell University who wish a better preparation on the entrance requirements.

2.—Students who, by reason of illness, change of course, or other cause, have deficiencies to make up.

This school is entirely distinct from the Summer session of Cornell University, and the work of the University classes is not duplicated. Its classes meet in Barnes Hall.

INSTRUCTORS.—George W. Jones, A. M., Mathematics; Virgil Snyder, Ph.D., Mathematics; Clark S. Northup, Ph.D., English; Robert J. Kellogg, Ph.D., French and German; Elmer E. Bogart, A.B., Greek and Latin; Edith M. Bickham, A.B., Greek and Latin.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.—Instruction is given in all the subjects necessary for admission to the Freshman class in any course in Cornell University, and in the freshman mathematics.

TUITION FEES.—For the full term, regular classes, $50. For the half-term, $25. For periods less than half a term, $5 a week. For a single study half the regular rates. For special studies, special rates, as agreed on.

CALENDAR FOR 1901.—Instruction begins Friday, July 5, at 3 P. M., and ends Friday, Sept. 20.

New classes are formed Wednesday, August 14, at 9 A. M., for more rapid review, particularly in mathematics. These half-term classes are specially adapted to the needs of conditioned students.

For other information, letters may be addressed to PROFESSOR JONES, or to any of the instructors.

Communication.

To the Editor of the Alumni News:

Dear Sir:—The editorial which appeared last week in the ALUMNI NEWS in answer to a letter from an alumnus, seemed to the undersigned to be very much to the point, particularly with regard to the reason why it is better to place the building on the Campus, than to cater to the wishes of the comparatively small number of persons who would like to have wine and beer served in the club. In the latter part of the editorial there was an atmosphere of doubt and uncertainty in regard to the intention of the committee having the competition in charge. It will be a favor to the committee if you can find space to print this brief account of the work of the committee to date; an account that will doubtless set straight any fears on the part of interested persons as to the successful outcome of the undertaking which is under way.

The committee, consisting of Messrs. Warner, Rossiter, Eidlitz, Van De Water and the undersigned, has been busy on this matter for about three years. At the first meeting, held in New York City, sub-committees were appointed to visit other universities and report upon existing buildings or projects for buildings of a character corresponding to an undergraduate club. It was learned that Harvard, Columbia, University of Pennsylvania, and Princeton either were formulating plans for such buildings or already had buildings in full running order. The sub-committee reports made plain two things:

1st. That Cornell could not have a building which would be regarded as second to none, without an expenditure of at least $150,000.

2d. A practical club was demanded at Cornell, rather than a Memorial Hall which was at one time suggested. By a practical club is meant a building which would be used every day of the year by students and alumni, as a general meeting place. The memorial hall idea involved a large open hall which would be used for mass meetings, dances and similar purposes when large numbers would wish to get together for any cause.

In considering the question of cost, it was believed by the committee that Cornell alumni would never take an active interest in the project unless they knew they were to have as good a building as any similar building that exists in American universities. From the very beginning then, the committee has had to face the problem of raising, from our very small number of graduates, a sum equal to and greater in some cases, than the amount that has been raised in institutions much older and much richer than Cornell. The committee foresaw, however, that a few years' delay would give the opportunity to study the results obtained at Harvard, and therefore the committee was able to gain some consolation from the enforced delay.

In considering the kind of building needed, much thought was given to Cornell conditions, though the buildings in use at Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania were helpful in enabling the committee to make a start. He is a rare individual who does not realize that Cornell's greatest need is something that will bring all the students together every day. The dormitory systems in other universities accomplish this to a certain extent. At Cornell the fraternity houses have come to stay. Whatever may be said in favor of or against the Cornell fraternity system, it is evident that these houses are always going to be lived in and that the dormitory system when it is put into operation at Cornell, will not suffice for the true and satisfactory development of a broad, democratic university spirit. A place is needed where all students, both fraternity members and independents, may meet on common ground where Cornell spirit may grow naturally and not have to be fertilized and nurtured by occasional campus meetings.

A great deal of discontent has existed for some time with the armory as a place for the University dances. This discontent has manifested itself through the expressed wish of some of the undergraduates that the proposed University Club contain a room large enough for the junior and senior balls. The committee heartily agrees with this sentiment and yet is faced with a difficulty which is practically insurmountable. The room proposed for the University balls ought to be considerably larger than the armory, in order to insure satisfaction in future years as well as now. This requirement, from the point of view of cost alone, makes it out of the question to build a large auditorium or dance hall in addition to club rooms. It is going to be hard enough to raise $150,000 and it would be extremely unwise, not to say foolish, for the committee to set out to raise $200,000 or $250,000 for the purpose of including in one building all the desirable accommodations which suggest themselves. So the committee had to choose between the one-hall idea and the club house scheme.

Similarly, the committee discussed the question of grill room. It is evident that dining accommodations are very much wanted on the campus, but in view of the demand, a grill room would be absolutely inadequate and the question would immediately involve a dining commons like Memorial Hall at Harvard. Any one who is familiar with the cooking odors in Memorial Hall will realize at once the impossibility of combining a dining hall with club rooms. To provide for the future demand such a commons ought to be considerably larger than the room which is needed for dancing.

In view of the above outlined objections, the committee decided to go ahead with a scheme for a University club, believing that the problem of a dance hall must be solved by the erection of a new armory and gymnasium. From the standpoint of the military and physical culture departments, there has been for a long time a need of a new armory. The question of dining on the campus must, by force of circumstances, be taken up by the Trustees when the dormitory problem is solved. Dormitories can not be used without an accompanying dining hall. These two buildings, the armory and the commons, are an inevitable part of the future growth of the University. The alumni who are subscribing almost all of the funds for the proposed club house want something which they may use, when they visit the University, as a kind of big fraternity house—in the broadest sense of the word fraternity. In the program of competition the first floor and basement are given over to undergraduates and the second and possibly the third will be for the exclusive use of alumni.

The problem of maintenance was taken up and discussed though it was believed that the details could only be settled after the building is completed. In brief it is believed that the expenses of maintenance can be met by membership fees of from $3.00 to $5.00 per head, by the rental of certain privileges or concessions, such as news stand, etc., and by the receipts from the use of billiard and pool tables, bowling alleys, etc. The committee has not worried about the maintenance question as there will be a number of ways by which money may be raised, the most important of which, perhaps, will be from the dues of resident and non-resident members.

It may be well to state here for the benefit of the faint hearted, that the committee is composed of men who propose to see this thing through if the alumni and students will give their loyal support. The chairman, John DeWitt Warner is an ideal chairman for a difficult undertaking. During periods of comparative discouragement Mr. Warner has been optimistic and strong hearted and his spirit has been infused into others. Success in the face of the difficulties that are apparent will only make the committee the more happy, and it not only invites the loyal support of everyone but it believes it has a right to count upon such support without the asking.

At the meeting of the alumni on June 19 the committee will present a report with recommendations for future action. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance for the committee has spent a great deal of time and thought in getting down to the present status of the matter and will ask for authority to proceed with the erection of the building as soon as such an action is possible, without the necessity of further reliance upon the vote of the alumni.

ALEXANDER BUEL TROWBRIDGE.

Cornell Defeated at Lacrosse by Toronto.

In the last lacrosse game of the season played May 28, Cornell was easily defeated by the University of Toronto team, the crack players of the Canadian intercollegiate league, by ten goals to two.

Toronto's playing was a revelation to Cornell. It was surer, quicker, and far less rough than that of any team played this season. The passes were all swift and accurate and were handled with a skill that was admired as much by the Cornell players as by the spectators. Such stick-work as was exhibited by Toronto comes only as a result of years of practice and the Toronto men have had this practice.

Cornell's stick-work was rather poor, appearing especially so in comparison with Toronto's, but her teamwork was quite good though marred by inaccurate passing.

For the home team the work of Givens, Magoffin, Wagner, Wood and Kelly was especially noteworthy, and for the visitors O'Flynn, Groves and McIntire deserve especial mention.

The line-up was as follows:

TORONTO (10)		CORNELL (2)
Greig	goal	Givens
Hanley (Capt.)	point	Alexander
McArthur	cover point	Armstrong
McKinnon	first defense	Wagner
Martin	second defense	Magoffin
Kyle	third defense	Adams
Groves	center	Keeler
O'Flynn	third attack	Moody
Gladney	second attack	Wood
McNeil	first attack	Kelly
McIntyre	outside home	Woodward
Graham	inside home	Dodge
Final score: Toronto, 10 goals, Cornell, 2 goals. Goals: McIntyre, (3); McNeil, (3); Gladney, (2); Graham, (1); O'Flynn, (1); Kelly, (2). Referee, Mr. Smith, Cornell. Two thirty-minute halves.

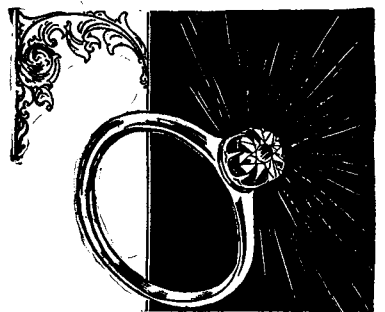

The Athletic Council has decided to allow the second freshman eight to take the place of the Cascadilla crew in the race with the Syracuse freshman crew on Onondaga Lake, June 14. The freshmen will accompany the Francis Club, which is scheduled to race the Syracuse Varsity crew the same day.

THREE DEFEATS IN BASEBALL.

The Nine Loses to Holy Cross, Harvard, and Brown—Two Close Finishes.

The New England trip of the Varsity baseball team resulted disastrously, all of the three games played being lost. Two of the contests, however, were closely played, and reflect no discredit on the team.

The game with Holy Cross was played at Worcester on May 29. It was hotly contested from start to finish and until the very end the result was in doubt. In the ninth inning after one man had struck out, and another flew out, the Holy Cross pitcher gave two men their bases on balls and was in fair way to give the third man his base when Lyon was caught off second by a quick throw from the catcher to the second baseman.

The defeat is to be partly attributed to hard luck and partly to the umpire who at all close decisions favored Holy Cross. Lyon pitched a fine game, and deserved to win. He struck six men out, allowed but four hits, one of them a scratch and gave no bases on balls. The game was filled with sensational fielding plays but Holy Cross was steadier than Cornell at critical stages of the game.

The game opened auspiciously for Cornell. Brewster and Robertson both hit safely. Whinery struck out. Drake singled, but Brewster was caught off third by a quick throw from the field. Robertson scored on Noonan's error. Lyon went out at first. Holy Cross earned a run in the fifth on a three-bagger by Skelly followed by a hit by Joyce. She scored two more runs in the seventh on a scratch hit and errors by Whinery and Morrison.

Cornell also scored in the seventh. Drake singled, Lyon secured a base on balls. Harvey hit to center, and Lyon was caught off third. Harvey got second on the play and stole third. Brown hit safely and reached second on a poor throw by Connor. In sliding he broke his ankle and was replaced by Morrison. Harvey scored on Chase's hit. Neither side scored in the eighth or ninth.

The game between Harvard and Cornell on Soldier's Field on Memorial day was postponed until the following day because of rain. The game resulted in a shut out for Cornell, the score being 11 to 0. The Harvard team played a star game, not an error being made. Clarkson, the Harvard pitcher was very effective. In the first inning he gave a base on balls and made a wild pitch but after that not a Cornell man reached second base.

Chase started in to pitch but Harvard scored seven runs off him in two innings so he was replaced by Morrison. Morrison was more successful and kept the hits scattered. Cornell's batters were at Clarkson's mercy, who allowed them but three hits. Cornell's fielding was very ragged. Costly errors in the outfield netted Harvard many runs while the infielders were slow and their throwing very inaccurate. The features of the games were two phenomenal catches by Chase in center field.

In the game Saturday with Brown University, Cornell lost by a score of 2 to 1. The game was a pitcher's battle, in which Washburn and Chase did some clever work, Brown securing four hits and Cornell three. In the third inning it looked as though the Ithacans might win the game. The bags were filled, but the Cornell batters failed to hit Washburn and the side was retired without a run.

Cornell's only score was made in the sixth. Lyon got to second on a wild throw by Washburn. Drake then came up for a single and brought him home.

Ithaca High School Wins the Interscholastic Banner and Cup.

On May 31, the Ithaca high school won the interscholastic championship by defeating the Syracuse high school team in an exciting game on Percy Field, which resulted in a score of 11 to 8. This makes the second consecutive year that the Ithacans have won the championship. The Ithaca team outplayed the visitors in nearly every point of the game. Their batting was much better and more effective, the battery worked together more smoothly and the general team work was much more steady.

DeLima pitched a steady game for Syracuse, but the Ithacans found him easily and pounded out effective hits.

For the Ithaca team Jackson pitched in excellent form and displayed good headwork. A heavy downpour of rain began at the first half of the ninth inning but the game was not stopped and the three Syracuseans to the bat were put out in order.

The score by innings:

Pennsylvania realizes thoroughly that it is useless to expect to win the big race at Poughkeepsie, and therefore she will concentrate all her efforts on the four and freshman eight. The red and blue is forced to acknowledge that two first-class eights cannot be developed at Pennsylvania in one season.

The Navy Ball.

The Navy ball in honor of the guests of Regatta Week was held in the University Armory, May 29, the evening before the race. It was a very successful and most enjoyable affair in all respects. Dancing began at 10:15, shortly after the close of the concert given by the combined Musical Clubs in the Lyceum. Mrs. Schurman, Mrs. Gauntlett, Mrs. Trowbridge, and Mrs. Van Ness were the patronesses. Coleman furnished the music which consisted of sixteen waltzes and fifteen two steps. Alberger was caterer.

The decorations were singularly appropriate and the color scheme exceptionally happy. The west end of the hall was draped in the red and blue of Pennsylvania. Columbia's delicate colors of blue and white adorned the east end. Overhead and in the center glowed the red and white streamers of Cornell. From the ceiling in the center of the hall an eight-oared shell was suspended, its oars resting in the outriggers. The boxes were marked off by short pillars at each corner. The beauty of the decorations is due to the skill and taste of Rothschild Bros. Twenty-two of the boxes were filled by the fraternities and in addition there were six private boxes.

The guests who were present were:

Congress held its first smoker on Saturday evening, May 18, in the Hall of Oratory. About fifty members and invited guests were present.

The program of the evening consisted mainly of speeches, varied frequently by University songs and yells. R. K. McGonigal, '03, paid a tribute to the winning debate team of the organization, and E. S. Mosher, '02, responded for the team. Romeyn Wormuth, '01, described the preparation of the winning debate. Professor Lee commented briefly on the value of parliamentary training. H. D. Mason, '00, described the work of Congress during the time of his speakership, and instructor Winans took as his topic the inter-club debates, speaking of their value and of changes which should be made.

During the evening a letter of regret was read from Carleton Sias, '98, a former speaker. A number of humorous and impromptu addresses concluded the evening's entertainment.

Track Team Elects a Captain.

On Saturday afternoon the members of the Varsity Track Team elected Daniel S. Bellinger captain for next year. This is Bellinger's third year at Cornell. He entered the College of Law in the fall of '98, but later changed his course and is now a sophomore in Forestry. In the spring of his freshman year he won his "C" in the Princeton-Cornell meet. This spring he won second place in the half mile at the Intercollegiate meet, and secured the same place in the dual meet with Princeton. Bellinger is 21 years old, and was prepared for Cornell at the high school in North Tonawanda, N. Y. He is a member of Kappa Sigma, and has recently been elected to membership in Aleph Samach, the Junior honorary society.

Undergraduates Favor the Proposed System of Athletic Subscriptions.

Of the sixteen hundred postal cards sent out by the Athletic Council last week, five hundred and seven have been returned. Of these, three hundred and sixty-eight favor the new plan of $10 season tickets, one hundred and twenty oppose it and nineteen are doubtful.

From the percentage of affirmative answers received it is evident that the new system is received with favor. Six hundred answers favoring the new system, however, must be received before the change will be assured, and the Council earnestly urges that those who have not yet replied will do so at once, as it is desired to establish the new system on a firm basis before vacation, moreover, it is a matter which concerns every student personally, and should therefore receive everyone's attention.

Sage College Notes.

"A Tompkins County Fair" was held in the gymnasium of Sage College on Friday evening, May 31, when the women of the freshman class entertained the rest of the college. Among the various exhibits were a Baby Show, a Snake Dance and an Animal Exhibit. The Fair closed with a grand country dance.

On account of rain, the Tennis Tournament at Sage has been indefinitely postponed.

New Quarters for the School of Railway Engineering.

Immediately after Commencement work will be begun upon the new quarters for the Sibley School of Railway Mechanical Engineering, which will be in that portion of East Sibley now occupied by the Museum. The new Sibley building will not be ready for the removal of the Museum until next winter, but the material on exhibition will be so arranged as to afford space for Professor Hibbard's work at the opening of the fall term. The present Sibley reading-room will be partitioned into a recitation room to be used by the department of Machine Design for Junior work. The recitation room on the third floor of the building will be turned into a Junior Machine Design draughting room. Professor Hibbard's office will be in the front of the present Museum; the lecture room, in the north-east corner; the railway draughting room will occupy the remaining space.

The New York State Household Economic Association held its annual meeting in Barnes Hall on Friday, May 29. This was the first meeting that was ever held outside of New York City, the many members of the University who are interested in the association having induced it to depart from its custom and hold this year's meeting in Ithaca. The organization has for its object the betterment of the home, not only through the medium of domestic science, but in every way that the object can be accomplished.

Among the members of the University who took part in the program were President Schurman, Professor Trowbridge, Professor Craig, and Alice E. G. Bugbee, '01.

A Japanese student and one from the Argentine Republic will enter the College of Architecture next fall.

The Sheffield Scientific School at Yale is to have a new Christian Association building of granite and Indiana limestone. The building will include beside the regular office features, reading rooms, gymnasium, assembly hall, and bedrooms.
