WHO GETS THE LION'S SHARE?

In 1953 the Union Oil Company of California did a $325,103,000 business. That's big money. Who gets the lion's share of it?

The employees?

In wages and other benefits, 9,263 Union Oil employees earned $55,564,000. The average per employee: $5,998.

The tax collector?

He did all right, too. Federal and other taxes took $21,821,000.

(This does not include $55,239,000 additional in fuel taxes which we collected for the government.)

The stockholders?

No, the stockholders did not get the lion's share.

They were paid $11,690,000 for the use of their money, plus a dividend of one share of common stock for each ten shares of common held. This profit was divided among more than 40,000 people.

Well, who did get the lion's share?

After we replenished working capital by $20,088,000 (over and above the $55,564,000 paid employees, the $21,821,000 that went to the tax collector and the $11,690,000 to stockholders), the lion's share—or $215,940,000—was divided among more than ten thousand companies and individuals we do business with.

Some went for services. Some for materials. Some for wages.

But all of the lion's share of Union Oil's 1953 gross income was reinvested in the American economy. Maybe it helped make your job a better one.

Farm & Home Week Brings Crowd To See and Hear Newest Findings

FORTY-THIRD annual Farm & Home Week, March 22-26, brought 18,680 visitors and set a new all-time attendance record. There were 2000 more persons registered than the previous high of 16,512 in 1950. Last year's registration was 15,348. Requests for overnight rooms were unusually heavy this year, indicating that more visitors stayed longer, according to Professor Lincoln D. Kelsey, Extension Service, Farm & Home Week director. Even the University Infirmary was called on to accommodate some of the crowd; as guests, not as patients. A record 1350 persons took advantage of the free chest X-rays offered daily in Warren Hall.

Called by one official "the best Farm & Home Week in ten years," the five-day program of some 600 lectures, demonstrations, and entertainment events was definitely up with the times, reflecting the recent growth of agricultural and home economics interests in the State. Farmers old and young crowded the discussions and exhibits of public policies and problems in agriculture, newer aspects of farm management, disease and insect control, and farm mechanization. Popular homemaking topics were those on creative art for the whole family, responsibility toward older citizens, new household detergents, processing and cooking frozen foods, reupholstering chairs with foam rubber, and how the same meal could be prepared to suit the needs of an overweight woman and her non-dieting spouse.

National Figures Speak

Bailey Hall addresses by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson and Trustee Arthur H. Dean '19, recent United States delegate to the Korean peace conference, drew overflow crowds to radios in other buildings. The importance of price supports to the dairy industry and agriculture generally has been greatly overemphasized, Secretary Benson declared. "There are no real differences of opinion about our need to keep agriculture strong," he said. "The only differences are over how to do it. I'm sure I do not have to tell you that, as far as I'm concerned, the present system of price supports is not the way to do it. . . . Let us always remember that no man, no group of men, sitting in Washington can devise a plan for the best farm management on an individual farm. Such a decision must be made by the farmer himself."

An impartial commission of clergymen, educators, and others to eliminate communism from government was advocated by Dean, who also told of the Far Eastern situation and his part in the Korean peace conference as head of the UN delegation. "Let's stop the nonsense where the time of every official is taken by subpoenas to investigating committees," he suggested. He stressed the importance of more economic and technical assistance to Far Eastern countries. Refuting the view that the critical battle now raging in Indochina is remote and 'of no concern to us,' he reminded his audience that at the speed of modern bombers, the Far East is no farther away than Ithaca is by rail from New York. At a press conference, he said that he is "100 per cent convinced" that the free world can and will defeat communism.

Taking a tour of Farm & Home Week exhibits, Trustee Dean told those who accompanied him about his youth in Ithaca. At the Floriculture exhibit, he recalled that as a boy he had worked at the Ag College, cutting flowers and planting them. At the Poultry Building, he remembered that his boyhood chickens, developed from two given him by the late Professor James E. Rice '90, won blue ribbons at Farmer's Week poultry shows. He braved a drizzling rain and looked with satisfaction at the start of the new Agricultural Engineering and Veterinary College buildings, remarking that he had worked very hard for those State appropriations.

Deans Discuss Outlook

"The prosperity and political health of this nation depend to a great extent on a smoothly-functioning economic system," declared Dean Helen G. Canoyer of the College of Home Economics, a marketing economist, in her first Farm & Home Week address, "Is the Consumer King or Slave?" Our economy can function smoothly, she asserted, "only when producers and consumers work together on problems in areas where both groups have mutual interests."

Speaking on the outlook for New York farmers, Dean William I. Myers '14 of the College of Agriculture predicted that while levels of economic activity will be below last year, 1954 promises to be a good year: as good as 1952 or any before it. He said that no real depression is possible as long as stable prices and high construction activity prevail. He predicted a "sidewise movement" in farm prices, with minor ups and downs for the country as a whole. Some modest reductions in farm costs are to be expected because of keen competition among suppliers. He sees continued high consumer demand for choice food, and said that the recession has not been severe enough to have much effect on consumer demand for food.

Exhibits Show Newest Fashions

The revolutionary Cornell Kitchen was a popular exhibit in the Housing Research Center behind Martha Van Rensselaer Hall. On Alumni Field, farm tractors were driven to tip over and safe handling techniques were demonstrated. Eggbert, the talking egg-man who was "king" of the 1954 New York State Fair, reigned again, this time in Rice Hall. The fashion show, always a popular feature of Farm & Home Week and climaxing almost a year of work by students and Faculty of the Department of Textiles & Clothing, had four productions in Bailey Hall. Floriculture exhibit of new rose varieties in Plant Science was very beautiful and floral arrangements by the members of the Garden Club of Ithaca decorated registration headquarters in the Mann Library and entrance rooms of other buildings.

Alumni Association Elects

Agriculture Alumni Association at its annual Farm & Home Week luncheon, March 25, elected as president for this year Joseph P. King '36 of Fairmont, Minn. He succeeds Monroe C. Babcock '30 and becomes a director of the Cornell Alumni Association. Lloyd E. Curtis '35 of Geneva, Thomas E. Lamont '27 of Albion, and H. Joseph Pendergast '38 of Cobleskill were elected first, second, and third vice-presidents, respectively. Director A. Wright Gibson '17, Resident Instruction in Agriculture, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

About 100 Agriculture alumni attended the luncheon in Willard Straight Hall. Dean William I. Myers '14 sketched the year's developments in the College, saying it had last fall the second-largest number of new students in its history and has total enrolment about the same as last year, with more than a third of all the foreign students in the University. He noted improved relations between the State Extension Service and the US Department of Agriculture and the Department's increased recognition of the value of research and teaching to improve agricultural conditions in this country. He spoke of the new Agricultural Engineering building and Veterinary College plant which the State has started on the Campus and a new building for the Department of Food Science & Technology at the Geneva Experiment Station provided for in this year's State budget. He reported that the prize given by the Agriculture Alumni Association to the Junior in the College with highest average grade had been awarded last year to Rose M. Hammer '54 of Franklin Square.

Student Speakers Declaim

Rice Debate Stage first prize of $100 was won by Vera West '54 of Mamaronock, and Paul E. Steiger '54 of Ithaca took second prize of $25. They debated the affirmative of "Resolved: that the New York State Power Authority shall develop and operate water power facilities in the Niagara and St. Lawrence River areas." Eastman Stage first prize of $100 went to William J. Schmidt '55 of Westwood, N.J., who spoke on "Let's Have More Working Scholarships." Second prize of $25 was awarded to Donald M. Bay '56 of Canandaigua, whose subject was "The Physically Handicapped Comes Into His Own." Elsie Van Buren Rice Stage first prize of $100 was awarded to Elizabeth Rothermel '55 of Reading, Pa., who described the "Contribution of Pennsylvania Dutch to American Culture." Second prize of $25 went to Irene R. Adler '55 of Waterford, whose topic was "This Faith."

An evening performance of Henry

Purcell's opera, "Dido and Aeneas," by the A Cappella Chorus, a string ensemble from the University Orchestra, and soloists, under direction of Professor Robert L. Hull, PhD '45, Music, was enjoyed by a capacity audience in Bailey Hall. Farm & Home Week visitors were also entertained by Cayuga's Waiters, the University Concert Band, Women's Glee Club, Orpheus Chorus, and Kermis.

Many Use Printed Helps

Farm & Home Week visitors took with them more than 10,000 copies of Extension bulletins and other publications of the State Colleges on agriculture and home economics, and left their requests for more than 20,000 additional copies to be mailed to them.

Mohawk To Use Helicopter

MOHAWK AIRLINES has purchased a Sikorsky S-55 transport helicopter and will place it in passenger service on one of its regular runs in May. The eight-passenger S-55, which costs more than $150,000, cruises at ninety miles an hour. Mohawk is the first local-service airline to purchase a helicopter and will be the pioneer among local lines in operating scheduled helicopter passenger service over a certificated route, according to President Robert E. Peach, Law '45-'47. Mohawk has announced that it will eventually replace its twenty-six-passenger DC-3s with a fleet of thirty-five-passenger twin-engine helicopters.

Mohawk Airlines, based in Ithaca, began its tenth year of operation, April 6. It runs regular passenger, mail, and air-express flights serving twenty-four communities at fifteen airports between New York, Buffalo, Boston, Mass., has recently extended its service to Keene, N.H., and has applied to extend its operation to Detroit, Mich.

Trustees Approve Budget

ACADEMIC BUDGET for the endowed divisions of the University in Ithaca for the year beginning next July 1 provides for expenditure of about $9,000,000 as approved by the Board of Trustees at its March meeting. This covers the Colleges of Architecture, Arts & Sciences, Engineering, and the School of Business & Public Administration, Graduate School, and Law School. It does not include the State-supported Colleges and Schools or non-academic operations such as the Department of Residential Halls, Willard Straight Hall, Athletic Division, Infirmary, Radio Station WHCU, and University Press.

The 1954-55 budget is based on University enrollment of 9000 students in Ithaca, as compared with 9293 this year. Increased tuition and fees may result in slightly smaller enrollment next year.

Provost Forrest F. Hill, PhD '30, estimates that about $5,200,000 will come from tuition and fees and about $775,000 toward this budget from income on endowments. Special efforts, he said, will be made to increase contributions from corporations and from alumni, but an operating deficit is anticipated. Rising costs of maintenance, necessary increases of Faculty salaries, and addition of $100,000 to scholarship funds have brought financial problems for the University, Provost Hill points out. Accumulated deficit of the endowed divisions to June 30, 1953, was $295,109.

Treasurer Reports for 1952-53

For the fiscal year which ended last June 30, Treasurer Lewis H. Durland '30 reported that the endowed Colleges in Ithaca showed an operating deficit of $46,744.88. Of $15,348,015 income credited to these Colleges, 30 per cent came from student tuition and fees, 12.4 per cent from endowments, 10.7 per cent from gifts, 26.1 per cent from auxiliary enterprises of the University, and 16.6 per cent from Federal and State appropriations including research contracts.

Income of the whole University Durland reports as $33,060,116.28, with expense of $32,366,712.67. "If the volume of business carried on by the wholly-owned subsidiaries, interdepartmental services, and utility operations were added," he says, "the total volume would approach $47 millions. If some $49½ millions of the investment transactions were added, the volume would be over $96 millions." Market value of the pooled investments last June 30 was $61,967,620 and the rate of return was 4.198 per cent after deducting direct investment expenses. Funds were invested 45.38 per cent in bonds, 31.2 per cent in preferred and 41.15 in common stocks, 1.61 per cent in first mortgages, 2.47 per cent in leased real estate, and 6.07 per cent in University enterprises including dormitories and utility systems serving the Campus.

Dr. Milks '04 Dies

PROFESSOR HOWARD JAY MILKS '04, Veterinary Therapeutics & Small

Animal Diseases, Emeritus, died March 30, 1954, at his home in Ithaca, 113 College Avenue, after a short illness. He was director of the Small Animal Clinic for thirty-three years until he retired in 1947.

Dr. Milks entered the Veterinary College in 1901 from Cortland Normal, was assistant in Physiology, 1903-05, receiving the DVM in 1904. He spent three years as animal pathologist at the Louisiana State Experiment Station, and returned to Cornell in 1909 as assistant professor of Materia Medica & Therapeutics; was named professor in 1913. He was a member of Omega Tau Sigma, Phi Zeta, Sigma Xi, and Phi Kappa Phi, and had been president and secretary of the New York State Veterinary Association. He was the author of textbooks on veterinary pharmacy and therapeutics. A portrait of Dr. Milks presented by the Veterinary College Alumni Association and painted by the late Professor Olaf M. Brauner, Fine Arts, hangs in the Veterinary Library.

His survivors include Mrs. Milks; their three sons, Dr. Clifford H. Milks '29, Raymond C. Milks '31, and Dr. Richard V. Milks '39; and his brother, Harley H. Milks '07.

Cornell Fourth in Gifts

TABULATION made by John Price Jones Co. ranks Cornell fourth among American colleges and universities in amount of gifts received in the fiscal year 1952-53. With $6,206,730 reported, Cornell follows Harvard with $12,442,000; NYU, $9,192,000; Yale, $8,981,000. Next after Cornell is Columbia with $6,164,000. Total of $116,209,000 to the major colleges of the country is reported by the fund-raising firm, a decrease of 4½ per cent from that of the previous year.

The University report of gifts for the year to last June 30 shows $5,092,223 received for the Ithaca divisions and $1,114,507 for the Medical College in New York.

For the University in Ithaca, $3,113,908 was for capital operations including endowments and construction and equipment. For current operations, gifts totalled $1,952,420. Of this amount $531,137 was unrestricted, including $399,058 through the Alumni Fund, $65,000 from Cornell Associates, and $47,383 from non-Cornellian parents of students. Restricted gifts amounted to $1,421,283, including $242,851 for student aid and research grants of $999,503 of which $656,361 was for the endowed Colleges and $343,142 for the State Colleges. Other restricted gifts were $178,929 and $7,417 was given for loan funds.

Serkin, Pianist

UNIVERSITY CONCERT series in Bailey Hall closed for the season with a performance by Rudolf Serkin, pianist, March 21. Illness had prevented him from keeping his original engagement, December 4.

Serkin chose a program of great musical worth and interest. His fine renditions afforded the audience an unusual musical experience. The major work he played was Beethoven's "Thirty-three Variations on a Waltz by A. Diabelli, Opus 120." This was accompanied by Beethoven's "Polonaise in C Major, Opus 89"; Mendelssohn's "Three Caprices, Opus 16"; and Schubert's "Wanderer" Fantasy in C Major, Opus 15 (D. 760)."

Ithaca Landmark To Move

MAYERS SMOKE SHOP, familiar to Cornellians for more than forty years on State Street next to the corner of Tioga Street, will soon move into the larger store at 205, next door east of its longtime location. The Smoke Shop was opened in May, 1912, by Mrs. Dora Mayers, who had earlier run a news stand across Tioga Street on the Rothchild Brothers corner. She and her sons, Ralph, Frank, and Harry Mayers, operated the store until it was purchased by Ralph C. Smith '15 in April, 1928. Smith also operates a wholesale magazine distributing business, using the basement of the corner store and his own, and will expand this to the basement of his new store.

The two buildings, 201-203 and 205-207 East State Street, are the oldest in that block, built in 1842 after a fire destroyed the previous structures there. Another fire in 1871 destroyed the Ithaca Hotel and all the other buildings in the block, leaving only these two standing nearest to Tioga Street.

Alumni Nominate Six Candidates For Two Posts on Board of Trustees

OFFICIAL BALLOTS are being mailed to about 55,000 alumni who have degrees from the University to elect two Alumni Trustees for the five-year term on the Board starting next July 1. Ballots must be received by the Treasurer of the University in envelopes provided not later than Monday noon, June 7. Result of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in Ithaca, June 12, during Class Reunions.

The two Alumni Trustees elected will succeed Elbert P. Tuttle '18 and John S. Parke '23, whose terms will expire June 30. Pictures and brief biographies of this year's six candidates appear on this page and the next. Each was duly nominated by ten or more degree holders, the nominations filed with the University Treasurer by midnight, April 1, as provided by the University Charter. The candidates:

Dexter S. Kimball, Jr. '27

Kimball is the son of the late Professor Dexter S. Kimball, former Dean of the College of Engineering. He is vice-president, general manager, and a director of Bendix-Westinghouse Automotive Air Brake Co. with offices in Elyria, Ohio. He received the ME in 1927 and MME in 1928; is a member of Kappa Sigma, Quill & Dagger, and the Savage Club. He was assistant professor of Industrial Engineering from 1931-34. After production and management responsibilities with North American Aviation Corp., B. F. Goodrich Co., General Household Utilities Co., and Ansco Division of General Aniline Film Corp., he became factory manager of Bendix-Westinghouse in 1945. He is co-author with his father of Principles of Industrial Organization, has written texts for International Correspondence School, and developed industrial training programs during the war. He is a member of professional engineering societies and active in civic enterprises in Elyria. Mrs. Kimball was Myrtle Pullen '30.

Robert W. Purcell '32

Purcell is board chairman of Investors Diversified Services, Inc. and subsidiaries, largest investment organization in the country. His offices are in Minneapolis, Minn. Son of the late Francis K. Purcell '01 of Watertown, he received the AB in 1932 and the LLB in 1935 and practiced law with the New York City firm of White & Case until he went to Cleveland, Ohio, in 1938 for legal and administrative work in the reorganization of the Van Sweringen interests in real estate, railroads, and other properties. He became vice-chairman of Alleghany Corp. and an officer of other companies; then was general counsel and, until March, 1953, vice-chairman of the board of Chesapeake & Ohio Railway. During the last war, he was assistant to the Deputy Coal Mines Administrator in Washington. He was president of the Cornell Psi Upsilon chapter alumni association; is a member of Sphinx Head. Investors Diversified Services is a University Associate and Purcell is a member of the University Council and has been chairman of the steering committee of its corporations committee. He owns and operates Deer Lick Farm at Cape Vincent.

Joseph C. Pursglove, Jr. '30

A foremost expert in developing processes of converting coal into chemicals and gaseous and liquid fuels, Pursglove has been since 1947 vice-president in charge of research and development of Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. As a consulting engineer, he designed and directed construction of coal handling and preparation plants, was formerly head of Pursglove Coal Co., Pursglove, W. Va., and went to South Africa for Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey in 1946 to report on coal mining there and on making gasoline from coal. He was chairman of two committees of the Military Petroleum Advisory Board; is a registered professional engineer in Ohio and West Virginia. He received the CE in 1930; was president of Willard Straight Hall board of managers; was a trustee of the Alpha Delta Phi chapter corporation; is a member of Tau Beta Pi and Quill & Dagger.

Harold Riegelman '14

Riegelman is senior member of the law firm of Nordlinger, Riegelman, Benetar & Charney in New York City. He received the AB in 1914 and the MA and LLB at Columbia in 1916. Long active in civic and social service, Riegelman assisted in drafting the State Housing Law in 1926 and drafted the revised Tenement House Law in 1929. He is a trustee and counsel of Town Hall and the Citizens Budget Commission, serves on committees of the Welfare Council, State Chamber of Commerce, National Council of Christians & Jews, American Jewish Congress, and numerous other organizations. He was national president of Zeta Beta Tau and of the Interfraternity Conference; has received numerous decorations for public service. Riegelman led troops in combat in France and the Southwest Pacific in the two world wars, was several times decorated for valor, retired as a colonel in the Army Reserve. Last year, he was acting postmaster of New York City, resigning to be Republican candidate for mayor. He is a member of the Cornell Club of New York and the first president of the Cornell Alumni Association of New York City. As a student, he was on the Widow and Cornellian boards, won the Woodford and '94 Memorial stages, and was captain of the Varsity debate team.

Elbert P. Tuttle '18

Tuttle is completing his first term as an Alumni Trustee of the University; is a member of the law and investment committees of the Board. He started the practice of law in Atlanta, Ga., and Washington, D.C., in 1923 with the firm of Sutherland, Tuttle & Brennan; since January, 1953, has been general counsel of the US Treasury Department. Recently, he was appointed to a task force of the Hoover Commission on government reorganization to study the legal services and procedures of all Federal agencies. For five years during the last war, Tuttle was a combat officer. He was wounded in action at Okinawa and received decorations for valor; was commanding general of the 108th Airborne Division, Army Reserve. Receiving the AB in 1918, Tuttle was editor of the Sun, president of the Student Council and of CUCA. He returned to Ithaca in 1920 to direct publicity for the Semi-centennial Endowment campaign; was business manager and associate editor of the ALUMNI NEWS, 1921-23; entered the Law School in 1921, and received the LLB in 1923. He was national president of Pi Kappa Alpha; is a member of Sphinx Head and Sigma Delta Chi, and president of the Class of '18. Tuttle drafted the plan which in 1939 coordinated all University alumni activities in the present Alumni Association and was a director, vice-president, and president from 1946-48. He is a former president of the Cornell Club of Atlanta, was regional director of the Greater Cornell Fund campaign there, is a member of the University Council and of its bequest committee, and of the Law School committee for annual giving. His brother is Malcolm Tuttle '18.

J. Carlton Ward, Jr. '14

Ward served a five-year term as Alumni Trustee to June 30, 1953; was vice-chairman of the planning & development, vice-chairman and chairman of Board membership, and member of the executive, buildings & grounds, and audit committees of the Board. He is president of Vitro Corp. of America in New York City, concerned with atomic energy development. He is also industrial consultant to Rome Cable Corp., chairman of the Flight Safety Foundation, lectures at the Industrial College of the Armed Services, and is adviser to the National War College and Navy War College. In 1935, he became a director and vice-president of United Aircraft Corp. and general manager of its Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Division; was president and chairman of Fairchild Engine & Aircraft Corp. from 1940-49; and founded and headed the NEPA project of the US Air Force and Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, developing nuclear energy propulsion for aircraft. He received the ME in 1914; is a member of Tau Beta Pi. Ward has been a member of the Engineering College Council since 1940, and as a director of the Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo since it was acquired by the University in 1946, he helped to raise its working capital from the aircraft industry and has participated in planning its operations. He has been a member of the University Council since it was organized.

Committee Screens Suggestions

Alumni Association President Seth W. Heartfield '19 notes in a message mailed to voters that the Association's standing committee on Alumni Trustee nominations has endorsed the five candidates who are not now members of the Board. This is in accordance with the committee's function of seeking out new candidates for Trustees who "can serve the Board in long range and immediate problems." This committee, with members from all alumni organizations which comprise the Association and one Alumni Trustee, gathers and considers suggestions from Cornell Clubs, College alumni organizations, and other constituent bodies of the Association. With advice from its Alumni Trustee member as to needs, the committee selects new candidates whom it feels to be best qualified to serve the University as Alumni Trustees. These candidates are nominated by ten or more degree holders, as required by the Charter. The committee does not assess any Trustees who run for immediate re-election.

Dr. John E. Sutton, Jr. '15, representing the Medical College Alumni Association, is this year's committee chairman. Dr. Preston A. Wade '22 represents the present Alumni Trustees and the other members of the committee and their designators are Halsey B. Knapp '12, Agriculture Alumni Association; Mrs. Edwin S. Knauss (Dorothy Pond) '18, Alumni Association directors; Alfred M. Saperston '19, Cornell Men's Clubs Federation; William H. Hill '22,

Town & Gown Club Becomes an Apartment House—The building at 504 Stewart Avenue is now owned by Louis Herman, Ithaca furrier. He has modernized it into seven housekeeping apartments and single rooms for ten students. Designed by William H. Miller '72, architect of the Andrew D. White Gate at Eddy Street, the President's House, University Library, and many other buildings and residences on the Hill and downtown, it was erected for the Town & Gown Club which was founded in 1892 with University Trustee William H. Sage as its first president (see opposite page). The Club vacated it in 1934 and from 1936-42, it housed the University Tutoring School. From the fall of 1943 until the end of the war, it was an Officers' Club for the Army and Navy officers stationed here and their families. B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation owned the building as its University headquarters from late 1945 until Anabel Taylor Hall opened last year. Fenner secretary-treasurer; and Rosemary C. Sharood '39 of St. Paul, assistant secretary.

Cornell Women's Club of New York had as speaker at its March 10 meeting Mrs. Edward F. Shnayerson (Hilda Brook) '26, executive director of the Florence Crittenton League which maintains a residence in New York City for runaway adolescent girls. Her topic was "Inside the World of an Adolescent."

Add College Presidents

WILLIAM J. L. WALLACE, PhD '37, was inaugurated, April 9, as president of West Virginia State College at Institute, W.Va. Official delegate from the University was John W. Magoun, Jr. '40 of Charleston, W.Va.

A teacher of chemistry at West Virginia State since 1933, Wallace became administrative assistant to the president about ten years ago, acting president in 1952, and assumed the presidency last June. He received the BS at University of Pittsburgh in 1927 and the MA at Columbia in 1931.

Twenty-two other Cornellians are now believed to be heads of colleges or universities.

For Disappointed Women

FEWER WOMEN can be accepted for admission to the College of Arts & Sciences next fall than were admitted last year. Reasons for this situation are explained by Herbert H. Williams '25, Director of Admissions, in a letter sent to the principals or guidance directors of all schools from which girls have applied for the Arts College. Williams writes, in part:

Last year there were 1600 young women seeking entrance to Arts & Sciences and we had room for 275.

This year the corresponding figures are 1550 applying and room for only 220! These applicants come from about 500 different schools. The decrease from last year in our capacity to take girls can be simply explained. The total number of undergraduate women in the University is a constant figure determined by our capacity to house them properly. We have a relatively small number of girls leaving at the end of this term. We had an unfortunate experience last fall: although our capacity was 275 new liberal arts girls, 304 arrived! In other words, our experience of several years in estimating the number of withdrawals we might expect from among those accepted did not conform with last year's experience, for some reason.

So we will be taking even fewer girls than a year ago. We will be quite conservative in estimating the "average" we can accept, and will be inclined to be quite cautious in "accepts," using again that waiting list device for fill-ins as places develop.

Actions will be virtually completed by May 1. Notices are going out as quickly as possible. No change from our decisions can be considered until at least June 1, as we will not be

Society of Engineers; Franklin S. Wood '23, Law Association; Harry V. Wade '26, Architecture Alumni Association; G. Norman Scott '27, Association of Class Secretaries; Dr. George H. Hopson '28, Veterinary Alumni Association; Albert E. Koehl '28, Society of Hotelmen; Marjory A. Rice '29, Cornell Women's Clubs Federation; Mrs. Robert B. Crane (Almena Dean) '30, Home Economics Alumnae Association; Muriel R. Carbery '37, Nursing School Alumnae Association; Jansen Noyes, Jr. '39, Alumni Fund; and Richard J. Salisbury '49, Business & Public Administration Alumni Association.

Of 52,967 degree holders qualified to vote last year, 15,038 cast ballots for Alumni Trustees. To be elected by mail, candidates must receive the votes of at least one-third of the alumni voting. Any vacancies are filled from the two highest unsuccessful candidates, by vote of degree holders present at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association.

Clubs Active

TWIN CITY CORNELL CLUB has elected Raymond R. Critchlow '40 of Minneapolis, Minn., president; Harold E. Hazen '42 of Minneapolis, vice-president; Willis S. Zeigler '47 of Minneapolis, able to identify all of those coming until close to the end of May. I hope you will bear with us in this situation and will help by explaining it to those who must be disappointed.

Philco Cites Alumni

FIVE CORNELLIANs employed by Philco Corp. in Philadelphia, Pa., have received the company's 1954 Achievement Awards for meritorious performance of their work. They are George A. Just, Jr. '43 of the television & radio division; Richard A. Phillips '51 and Joseph I. Wilford '52, government & industrial division; and Frederic A. Jessen, Jr. '50 and Francis P. Keiper, Jr. '51, research division. The four most recent alumni all started at Philco in the cooperative program with the College of Engineering which began in 1947. They worked there in alternate terms while they were students and became full-time employees when they graduated.

Governor Reappoints Ripley

REAPPOINTMENT of Joseph P. Ripley '12 as a Trustee of the University by Governor Dewey was confirmed by the State Senate. The appointment is for Ripley's third five-year term, from next July 1. He was first appointed in 1944; is chairman of the investment committee and a member of the executive committee of the Board.

Ripley is chairman of the investment banking firm of Harriman, Ripley & Co., 63 Wall Street, New York City; board chairman and president of Cramp Shipbuilding Co.; and a director of United Aircraft Corp., West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., and Abitibi Power & Paper Co. He received the ME in 1912; is a member of Beta Theta Pi, Sphinx Head, and Tau Beta Pi. He lives in Smithtown Branch, Long Island.

Describes Shakespeare Gift

BOOKLET about the Shakespeare Folios in the University Library has been published by the Cornell Library Associates. This valuable set of the four earliest collections of Shakespeare's plays was presented to the Library last October by William G. Mennen '08. The booklet is written by Professor William R. Keast, English, who described the Folios in the February ALUMNI NEWS.

Alumni may obtain the booklet and information about the Library Associates from the secretary, Felix Reichmann, at the University Library.

At an open meeting of the Associates, April 12, the Folios were displayed and Professor William G. McCollom '33 of Western Reserve University lectured on "Two Ways of Reading Shakespeare."

Now In My Time! Conan Barry

THE OLD TOWN AND GOWN CLUB at the north end of the Stewart Avenue bridge over Cascadilla Creek has lately passed through still another metamorphosis. This time it emerges as the Towne and Gown Apartments and it houses both those whose daily tasks take them to the Quadrangle and down to the Flats.

And that brings up again the matter of ghosts! No other roof could possibly harbor a more heterogeneous collection of charming shades, and we like to believe that it takes more than a coat of paint, the rearrangement of internal walls, and the installation of trick plumbing fixtures to lay the ghosts of the many gifted talkers who must still frequent the old Club. On many occasions in the late attempts to revive the Town and Gown, your reporter has withdrawn himself on pleasant nights from what was going on indoors to stroll out upon the gallery overlooking Cascadilla gorge and there, to the music of the little waterfalls below, visit all alone with the spirits of the departed: Dean Woodruff, Jake Rothschild, Judge Irvine, Louis Bement, Martin Sampson, Judge Pound, Professor Charlie Hull, and on and on. All forms of polite and orderly entertainment flourished there, but the chief attraction of the old Club was conversation developed to a fine art.

The Town and Gown Club originated, largely through the instigations of Will Sage, as a meeting place which would tend to break down the barriers—there were never many of them, or very big ones—between the two orders in the same community. The venture proved abundantly successful, and the Club flourished for three decades. It died, as did so many other exclusively masculine organizations in small towns, with the simultaneous arrival of prohibition and the emancipation of women. When the girls took to cigarettes, mixed drinks, and the exchange of anecdotes, there was no sense in leaving them home any more, or any point in maintaining clubs as places of escape.

Sporadic attempts were made thereafter to revive the Town and Gown—the addition of squash courts was one—but gradually and almost imperceptibly, the place was taken over by the bank and it has passed to other owners and varied uses. Now the couples who inhabit its two floors of apartments and the single students who live below, where the billiard tables used to be, share their quarters with the amiable ghosts of David Fletcher Hoy, Bull Durham, Livingston Farrand, and many others.

To the students of my time, the Town and Gown Club was a house of mystery. It wasn't until we had graduated, moved away, and came back on visits that we were introduced there as a guest and learned the unique charm of the place. Membership was one of the many things we looked forward to when we became again a resident of Ithaca in 1919, and we were not disappointed. The Friday night gatherings were noteworthy, and particularly on the Friday nights preceding a meeting of the Board of Trustees when about the tremendous round table the affairs of the University were discussed informally and with utmost frankness alike by Trustees, professors, and local taxpayers, to the entertainment and enlightenment of all groups.

The Town and Gown maintained neither a bar nor a restaurant, but those handicaps were bypassed adroitly by having each member donate from time to time (about once in two years, as we now recall it) a half-barrel of beer which was placed on his Club bill automatically and from which all calls for refreshment were supplied without having anybody sign anything. And this unique privilege was never abused. Nourishment in the form of welsh rabbits, sandwiches, and short orders were as readily obtainable, and visiting Trustees accustomed to the best were as one man in agreeing that there was no place in New York, Philadelphia, or Chicago where you could get welsh rabbits comparable to those supplied at the Town and Gown. There was one year when Mr. Justice Felix Frankfurter, now of the Supreme Court but then a professor in the Harvard Law School teaching in the Cornell Summer Session, was said to have developed a passion for the Town and Gown welsh rabbits which led him to partake thereof at least once a day during his stay here.

They look like very nice apartments, judging from outside appearances. We entertain some mild curiosities as to what ever became of the picture of King Arthur in full armor and the portrait of Will Sage that hung over the fireplace, but haven't been inside the new place and never want to go. It's enough to sit at the entrance and visit briefly with Dean Woodruff, Judge Irvine, Jake Rothschild, Louis Bement, and Mr. Hoy!

INTELLIGENCE

Emerson Hinchliff '14

I SAW IT when it was called Farmers' Week and was the first week of the second semester. It thus came in February, in the off season for agriculture, and people would come by train, hole in, and usually spend four or five days. Availability of rooms was the limiting factor as it commenced to gather a reputation. Professor Emeritus Ralph H. Wheeler '09 told us at Rotary about its beginnings in 1908, with seventy-six lectures and 800 in attendance. This year, 18,680 registered and the program filled seventy-two pages. Incidentally, he struck quite a memory chord for me when he mentioned the thirty-three-inch snow of 1914 and what it did to transportation in that year.

You will get the over-all picture of Farm & Home Week elsewhere in this issue. My particular slant this time was the travel angle. Without stepping off Campus, one could be transported by word and picture to the farthest reaches of this earth. I only got in about two-and-a-half days' licks before I was sidetracked, but in that time I had a personally-conducted tour of Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, and Japan. Willard Straight Memorial Room was transformed into an international museum, with exhibits that foreign students contributed and were on hand to explain. If I had had time, I could also have gone vicariously to India, Mexico, Formosa, China, Ceylon, Iran, Syria, and Lebanon, and in between, could have seen Professor W. A. Anderson's slides of the National Parks of California, Utah, Colorado, Montana, Washington, and Oregon. Some travel bargain!

Couple all this with a personal report by Envoy Arthur H. Dean '19 on the Panmunjon conference, and by Secretary of Agriculture Benson on the price-support problem, and you can get the sense of immediacy, urgency, and authoritative history-in-the-making that Ithaca afforded in that one week. I might mention that warm applause greeted Dean when he reported how he walked out after Communist accusations of perfidy. I must also record my impression of Benson's earnestness and honesty; he got a rising ovation at the end. Incidentally, it was pleasant to hear him characterize Dean William I. Myers

'14 as "without peer in services to agriculture."

Some other highlights: The Liberty Hyde Bailey exhibit in Mann Library, which included pictures of his career and examples of his almost numberless books. The "Co-ed's Room at the Turn of the Century," with its oil lamp and Edison phonograph playing old records, in the Regional History Collection. The Rice Debate Stage, in which a co-captain of wrestling won second prize. "Birds on the Home Front" movies shown by Professor Paul P. Kellogg '29, Ornithology. The dog obedience demonstration one evening. The flower exhibit, especially of roses and orchids. Another thing of beauty was "Fashions Today," in which at least seventy-five students modeled clothes they had made; Bailey Hall grew a runway out into the orchestra, each promenading model was accompanied by descriptive fashion-pattern over the loudspeaker, a spotlight, and soft lights and Parisian music in the background; it filled the auditorium on four separate days. As a gesture toward Practicality as opposed to Culture, I took in an illustrated lecture-demonstration on controlling brush by mechanical and chemical means, which included portable buzz saws, spraying stumps to keep down suckers, basal and foliage sprays, gashing and poison-injecting to kill off trees, and information about different chemicals. It was largely directed toward control of trash in woodlots or eradication of bushes in pastures, but bushes grow in and around cranberry bogs, too!

* * *

Yes, it was quite a party. Its main characteristic, after its broadness, was its authenticity; when they talked about the Philippines, for instance, they had a half-dozen Filipinos and Filipinas in native dress there to talk and answer questions and the two professors participating had actually worked in those Islands. In brush control, slides showed the professor doing the work himself. In the lime exhibit in Agronomy, pictures and tables showed facts, not theory. As for its sheer broadness, I think one could paraphrase Ezra Cornell and say that Dean Bailey founded and Ralph Wheeler and present Director Lincoln D. Kelsey have developed an institution that can bring instruction in any subject to any farmer or homemaker.

Baker Chemistry Lectures

BAKER LECTURER in Chemistry this term is Ralph Iler, research manager of the experimental station laboratories in Wilmington, Del., of Grasselli Chemicals Department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. He began a series of ten semi-weekly lectures, April 6, on "Colloid Chemistry of Silica and Silicates." Iler is one of the foremost workers in the country in these fields; his lectures at the University are concerned principally with current research not yet published. A native of Canada and a naturalized US citizen, he has Bachelor's and PhD degrees from the University of Toronto.

I&LR Summer Programs

BULLETIN describing the 1954 Summer Sessions of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations may be obtained from the Office of Resident Instruction at the School. The several alternate summer programs include varied week-long seminars and workshops for persons in business, industry, labor, and government, and two six-week credit courses: one on industrial and labor relations and one on industrial education.

To Prevent Crash Injuries

IN HOLIDAY for April, Sam Boal reports on the findings of the Crash Injury Research group at the Medical College in New York, directed by Hugh DeHaven, Jr. '18. State police and physicians of Indiana, North Carolina, and Maryland are cooperating now by sending in injuries, with those of Virginia soon to start and with Connecticut perhaps next. The researchers "say theirs is a study of the spoilage and damage of people in transit," and they therefore study cars as 'packages,' the writer says. Title of the piece is "How to Survive a Fatal Crash."

The President White Library

By JANE S. MORESS '54 OF ROCHESTER

IF CORNELL alumni can look back on their undergraduate History courses as rich, inspiring, humane studies, they can thank two men who revolted against the verbatim memorization and "dry-as-dust" treatment of political and diplomatic intrigues which had for so long passed as the teaching of history. These men were the first President of the University, Andrew Dickson White, and his pupil and later colleague, George Lincoln Burr '81, who was for many years not only professor of History but the librarian of the President White Historical Library.

Each of these men tried, as Burr said, to teach "the history of civilization; that is, of thought and feeling as bodied forth in institutions, in literature, in art, in commerce, in noble endeavor of every kind." Each hoped to bring their students "face-to-face with the contemporary materials and monuments of history." To do this, they collaborated in the building of a historical library which has drawn great praise.

The money, effort, and time expended in this enterprise was immense. When it was offered to the University in 1887, President White estimated his collection at 30,000 volumes, some 10,000 valuable pamphlets, and not a few manuscripts. He estimated the cost at more than $100,000. He began collecting while still a student, adding to it yearly, especially while in Europe. Later he had the wisdom to employ Burr who, after his graduation, increasingly devoted himself to the collection. According to Burr's biographer, Roland H. Bainton, he acted as an entire staff in himself: he was the purchasing, the cataloguing, and the reference departments.

Burr Made Collection Usable

The catalogues alone were huge projects. Rather than merely list the books and manuscripts, Burr read and studied about them, embodying this information in notes for the aid of the history student. When funds were sufficient, he had helpers; when they ran low, for this as for other tasks, he undertook the whole job himself. Moreover, he donated his salary as librarian of the White Library to the purchase of books for this collection. The bringing together of the Library was a labor of love, but Burr's exhaustive knowledge and patient service especially made it the rich collection that it was.

And what was this collection? According to Burr, it was composed of the sources of history. It was a library of rarities, unique items, manuscripts that had never been put into print, collections of documents, epoch-making editions, and the like. In such fields as the French Revolution and the history of superstition and persecution, it had few rivals. Other fields in which it was rich were American history, the English Revolution, the Reformation, the Jesuits, theology and science, Palestine, and Egypt.

White did not gather books in a systematic fashion. According to Burr, "he loved too well to pick them up in old book-stalls, to spy out treasures in catalogues, to buy books everywhere for his current reading." (Fortunately, he read widely.) The collection also received books through the breaking-up of such private collections as those of Buckle, Macaulay, Gray, Lamb, and others.

He Tempered White's Enthusiasm

Purchase of books from dealers' catalogues was the main procedure, and in this White's enthusiasm and generosity had often to be tempered by Burr's caution and distrust for many dealers. The basis of this distrust is shown clearly in one incident to which Burr later called White's attention:

"... have you forgotten how he made up from French provincial catalogues which he thought we would never see a manuscript catalogue of what he claimed was a rich private collection on the French Revolution—enormously advancing the original prices, of course?—and how we pinned the fraud by ordering from it the identical copies which we had already on our shelves, and which of course he found himself unable to supply."

White looked to history for lessons and laws to apply to the problems of his day. Both men looked to history for its influence in broadening a man's life and increasing his efficiency by setting him in "the current of the ages." A man, said Burr, with not only a brain but a heart and a conscience, could teach such history. But not without books and the sources of history. Although much of the collection has been scattered into many parts of the University Library stacks, no student or scholar can enter the President White Historical Library room without feeling, as did Herbert Baxter Adams, educator and historian, that "It is one of the wisest and most far-reaching modes of human philanthropy thus to provide for the preservation and use through all coming time of an excellent collection of books and manuscripts."

On the Sporting Side - By "Sideliner"

Spring Sports Start

VARSITY TEAMS in golf, tennis, lacrosse, and track took part in spring recess competition in Southern areas. Tennis, lacrosse, and track teams did well. The golf team showed the lack of outdoor training. Only the baseball team did not have organized practice during the recess.

Tennis Team Wins All Meets

The tennis team defeated Georgetown, Maryland, William & Mary, Virginia Military Institute, and University of Virginia, to run its string of victories to fourteen since its only loss of last season to Princeton.

Except for the defeat of Captain Clyde F. Barker '54, by powerful No. 1 players Herb Von Urff of Georgetown, 6-3, 6-3, and Dick Rutledge of Virginia, 2-6, 9-7, 6-3, the tennis players had little difficulty in trouncing Georgetown, 8-1; Maryland, 9-0; William & Mary, 9-0; VMI, 9-0; and Virginia, 7-2. The only other setback was suffered by the doubles team of Gerald Barrack '55 and Donald L. Iglehart '55 against Virginia, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Captain Barker was undefeated in eighteen singles matches last year.

Sweeping their singles matches were Gilmore M. Rothrock '54, the 1952 Eastern Intercollegiate champion, No. 2; Barrack, No. 3; Harry R. Kirsch '54, No. 4; Alveric B. Kegerreis '55, No. 5; and Charles L. Bernstein '56, No. 6. Barker and Rothrock were the No. 1 doubles team, with Barrack and Iglehart the second combination. The No. 3 team included several of the others as well as Lawrence H. Brown '56.

Track Men Go South

Ten members of the track team, with Assistant Coach Edward G. Ratkoski '35 in charge, gave outstanding performances at the seventh annual Southern Relays at Birmingham, Ala.

Though they failed to defend their 880-yard and one-mile relay titles, they did win championships in the sprint-medley and two-mile relay events and tied Loyola of New Orleans for the unofficial championship of the carnival with 24½ points. The two-mile team of Paul W. Loberg '55, Charles Trayford '54, David Pratt '54, and Michael J. Browne '55 ran the distance in 7:52.2. The sprint-medley combination, clocked in 3:34, had Andrew Dadagian '55 running the 440; Lawrence Lattomus '54 and J. Albert Sebald '54, the 220 legs; and Browne, the half-mile anchor.

The 880-yard team finished fourth and the mile quartet of Lattomus, John F. Morris '55, Sebald, and Dadagian placed third behind Purdue, which set a meet record of 3:17.4 and also won the 880, and Ohio State. Dadagian started with a twenty-yard lead, but was so tired from having run two races shortly before that he could not maintain the pace and was passed on the home stretch by the Purdue and Ohio State anchor-men. Captain McAllister Booth '54 was second in the 120-yard high hurdles, Donald T. Farley '55 was second in the two-mile, and Norman H. Beachley '55 was in a four-way tie for third in the pole vault at 12 feet, 8 inches.

The boys were quartered for four days and worked out at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

Behind Cornell and Loyola in the scoring were Auburn, 21½; Purdue, 20; Louisiana State and Florida, 17; Ohio State, 16; Louisiana Tech, 14; Alabama and Georgia Tech, 13; Duke, 10; Mississippi, 8; Tulane and Georgia, 7; Mississippi State, 5; Michigan, 4; Mississippi Southern, 3; and Washington & Lee, 1½.

Lacrosse Team Wins Two

The lacrosse team won two games during recess and extended its winning streak of last season to seven. March 30, the Varsity beat University of Baltimore, 11-6, and April 1, they defeated University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 11-1.

Last year, Cornell lost to Baltimore, 14-7. The Red got off to a good start and had 4 goals the first period. Its attack combination of Thomas M. Hopper '54, Richard H. Shriver '55, and Daniel K. Jemison '55 accounted for 7 goals. A promising Sophomore candidate, David L. Grumman, will lend strength to this unit.

Golfers Lose Two

Coach George Hall's golf team, heavily handicapped by lack of practice, nevertheless turned in a good showing in losing to Virginia, 4-3, April 2 at Charlottesville. The following day they were defeated by Georgetown, 6-1, in Washington. Victories against Virginia were registered by Thomas E. Peterson '54, 1 up, 19 holes; Joseph L. Grattam '54, 1 up, 22 holes; and Richard J. Love '56, 2 and 1. William C. Sledge '55, playing No. 1, lost, 5 and 3. David S. Stotz '56 lost, 2 and 1. Other members of the team included Edward C. Lawson '56 and David W. Morse '54. Sledge scored the lone triumph against Georgetown, defeating Charles Slicklen, 2 up.

Lose Track Meet to Yale

YALE continued to the end its unbeaten indoor track string by defeating Cornell in Barton Hall, 61-48, March 20, before about 1000 spectators. Unexpected points in the 1000-yard run, the mile, and the high jump transformed the meet from an expected nip-and-tuck affair with Yale only a hair-line favorite.

Yale won seven events and tied for first in three others. Cornell, therefore, won only three outright firsts: Captain MacAllister Booth '54 in the sixty-yard high hurdles, Donald T. Farley '55 in the two-mile race, and the mile relay team's 3:24 winning performance. As usual, the relay team's personnel was Lawrence Lattomus '55, John F. Morris '55, J. Albert Sebald '54, and Andrew Dadagian '55.

One of the fine races was the 600-yard run in which Ross Price of Yale and Andy Dadagian ran a dead heat in 1:13.7. David Pratt's effort to beat Captain Michael Stanley of Yale in the 1000 proved too much for him and he almost failed to keep third place. Stanley permitted teammate John Meader to precede him to the tape. Stanley had won his blue ribbon by surprising John J. Rosenbaum '56 and Michael J. Browne '55 and beating them in the mile run.

Yale was Heptagonals and ICAAAA champion and succeeded in giving Cornell its first dual-meet defeat of the year.

Coach Montgomery Recuperating

The Cornell team was without the services of its head coach, Louis C. Montgomery, who was recuperating in Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, after a serious back operation. The team was under the supervision of Assistant Coach Edward G. Ratkoski '35.

Fencers Win Awards

VARSITY FENCING team took a creditable third place in the National Collegiate Fencing championships at the University of Chicago, March 26 and 27, and Phillippe Mocquard, Jr. '55 of Paris, France, Junior in Hotel Administration, was voted the outstanding fencer in the tournament and his teammate, Richard W. Pew '55 from White Plains, was selected second in the contestants' poll for the outstanding award. Thirty-four schools were represented.

Cornell, with 59 points, was close behind the co-titlists. New York University and Columbia, who made 61 points. Cornell shared the lead with Columbia the first day, and seemed destined to wage a battle for the title with its fellow Ivy League entry, but Co-captain Mocquard fell during one of his early foils matches on Saturday and sprained his wrist. He was undefeated until then, but ended by taking fifth place in the foils. His abilities were nevertheless recognized when he was chosen by the competitors to receive the Illinois Memorial Award for the fencer who showed the "best all-around fencing ability, displayed good sportsmanship, and showed to advantage in personality and in dress." Mocquard's family own and operate a chain of hotels in France.

Pew Almost Winner

Dick Pew led the epee until the last bout, when he was upset by K. Lowrat of Princeton by one touch. He therefore finished as runner-up. Cornell's other entry, James W. Brown '56 of New York City, figured in a tie for ninth place in the sabre with Schewchuck of Illinois, Johnson of Princeton, and Cisco of CCNY.

Navy was fourth with 58 points and Pennsylvania, last year's champion, placed fifth. It was Columbia's third team title and NYU's second.

Riflemen Shoot

CORNELL entered two squads in the National Intercollegiate rifle matches at Buffalo, March 20, and they finished fifth and seventh. The fifth-place team was led by Captain Bernard C. Hochmuth '55. The other members were Herschel H. Loomis '55, Joseph Brender '55, and Alan F. Cohen '54.

Swimmers in League Meet

VARSITY SWIMMERS did fairly well in the Eastern Intercollegiate League championships at Princeton, March 19 and 20.

The Big Red 400-yard freestyle relay team placed third behind Dartmouth and Yale; Harvard and Navy were fourth and fifth. The time was 3:35.6. Cornell's foursome was Robinson Ord '55, Ralph E. Delaplane '54, Roy L. Swanson '55, and Captain Frederick W. Peirsol '54. This is the same team that in the dual-meet season was defeated only by Dartmouth by a slim twelve inches. It almost beat awesome Yale in this race; it was an upset that Dartmouth beat the favorites from New Haven.

Swanson gained another medal by finishing sixth in the 150-yard individual medley. Stanley R. Byron '55 took Foils Team Shares Coveted Trophy—"The Little Iron Man," oldest American college athletic trophy, given by the Tennis & Racquet Club of New York City in 1894, comes to the fencing room in Teagle Hall for six months. Varsity fencers who tied Columbia for the Eastern Intercollegiate Fencing Association foils championship salute their coach, Georges Cointe. From left, they are William W. Post '56 of White Plains and team Co-captains Kenneth G. Paltrow '54 of Bayside and Philippe Mocquard, Jr. '55 of Paris, France. Mocquard won the Eastern individual foils championship and the medal for the best all-around fencer in the later National Collegiate meet at University of Chicago.

seventh in low board diving, and the 300-yard medley team of Ord, Peirsol, William A. Macomber '54, and Robert E. Browning '56 failed to place. These were the only Cornell entries.

The following week in the National Collegiate championships at Syracuse, the Cornell swimmers had disappointing results. The 400-yard freestyle relay team did not qualify. Roberto E. Manelski '56 of Caracas, Venezuela, failed to qualify in the 220-yard freestyle, and Charles R. Corner '56 also failed in the low board competition.

Basketball Statistics

SEVERAL BASKETBALL RECORDS of Cornell teams were broken this year while the Varsity was winning the first Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League title in thirty years. The three-season scoring total of 952 and 437 points for this year set by Co-captain Lee E. Morton '54 are new marks to shoot at. The team set a new scoring total of 1825 points, easily wiping away the previous high of 1583 made in 1950-51. Against Clarkson, December 9, it scored 92 points, a new single-game high. It scored 85 both against Yale in Barton Hall, December 18, and against Harvard at Cambridge, February 27, for a new Cornell high total in League play.

Charles G. Rolles '56 tied Morton's

1953 single-game Barton Hall high with 31 points against Syracuse, December 30.

New Record for League Victories

Another new Cornell record was its twelve League victories. Its previous high was ten in 1950-51, when it was runner-up.

The team made 39.9 per cent of its goal tries with 578 of 1447, and this was twelfth best percentage in the entire country, according to the statistics of the NCAA. Cornell was sixteenth in team defense in the country, too, having held 24 opponents to a 59.6 average. It was only forty-second in foul shooting, caging 519 of 773 for a 67.1 average.

Morton was second to Harold Haabestad of Princeton in individual scoring honors in the League. Morton made 246 points on 85 fields goals and 76 fouls, for a 15.4 average. Haabestad had 273 points with 95 field goals and 83 fouls, for an 18.2 average. Morton's average score for all games was 16.8. Rolles was eighth with 183 points, a 12.2 average; Raymond D. Zelek '56 was thirteenth with 157 points, average 10.5.

Chuck Rolles was runner-up to David Hobson of Yale in assists in the League. Hobson averaged 5.1; Rolles, 4.1. Co-captain David M. Bradfield '54 was third with 4.0. Zelek was the League's fourth-best rebounder.

Reorganize Safety Studies

AVIATION SECTION of Crash Injury Research at the Medical College in New York has become a division of the Cornell-Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center and moved, March 15, from the Medical College to the Center's quarters at 471 Park Avenue.

The crash-injury program aims to reduce death and injury from transportation accidents through studies of crash survival. It is supported by industry, government agencies, and the military services. The Aviation Safety Center was established with the University in 1950 by the Daniel & Florence Guggenheim Foundation to foster aviation safety through research, education, training, and dissemination of safety studies to the aviation industry and general public. Besides giving the crash-injury section more space, the transfer will contribute to a more coordinated aviation safety program.

A. Howard Hasbrook, advanced to associate director of Cornell-Guggenheim, will supervise the aviation crash-injury work under Jerome Lederer, director of the Center. Ruland M. Woodham remains the Center's associate director for research and education. The aviation program will continue its association with the Department of Public Health & Preventive Medicine of the Medical College through the presence on the operating committee of Cornell-Guggenheim of Professor Wilson G. Smillie, head of the Department, and Professor Emerson Day, head of the Strang Memorial Clinic.

The automobile section of Crash Injury Research will expand at the Medical College into the quarters formerly occupied by the aviation group. Hugh De Haven, Jr. '18, founder of Crash Injury Research and director for its twelve years, continues to head the automotive division, with John O. Moore as associate director.

Both the Aviation Safety Center and the crash-injury projects maintain liaison with other safety activities of the University through the Cornell Committee for Transportation Safety Research. The committee, which coordinates work on the Campus in Ithaca and at the Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo with that in New York, is headed by Theodore P. Wright, University Vice-president for Research.

George E. Shear '55 of Delmar and Charles R. Holcomb '55 of Westport, Conn., have been elected co-editors of the 1955 Cornellian. Nancy L. Budlong '55 of Oxford will be associate editor and David Preston '55 of Chestnut Hill, Mass., will be business manager.

Seventy members of the Junior and Senior Classes of The New York Hospital-Cornell School of Nursing visited the Campus by bus late last month for a strictly social week end. Jane Atwood, Social Counselor, and Rhoda Isaacson '54, social coordinator of WSGA, conducted a tour of the Campus and arranged the program here, which included dinner at several fraternities and the Cornell-Yale track meet. Professor Victoria Frederick, Counselor at the Nursing School, accompanied the girls and spoke on "Careers in Nursing" for the benefit of present undergraduates.

Cornell has certainly been getting its share of speakers on topics of vital current interest in the past month. Marshall MacDuffie, who is running a current serial in Collier's on his travels in the Soviet Union, spoke in the Moot Court Room of Myron Taylor Hall on his trip and experiences in Russia, and gave a packed house some first-hand views into the Russian mind. A few days earlier, Lloyd V. Berkner, president of Associated Universities, addressed IRE members and the Electrical Engineering Faculty on the recent advances in commercializing atomic power at Brookhaven Laboratory.

The Battle Of The Upper Campus

NO MATTER how many Farm & Home Weeks a person undergoes, there's always something new and different in each one; it's one of the interludes that make Campus life worth living. This year was certainly no exception. Full realization that the Week was here came when I walked down the hall in Olin and was accosted by four fuzzy-cheeked lads in blue corduroy FFA jackets who blurted, "Where's the hawgs?" Ag students are given extreme favor and released from the labors of study Tuesday. Some stay to help make the show a success, but many go screaming off in a cloud of smoke, attempting to make good an escape before the invading hordes descend. This year's Week was number forty-three, and one begins to wonder how the University's walls have not crumbled before the onslaught of forty-two others like this one. In all seriousness, Farm & Home Week has put Cornell on the agricultural and home-making map, and this year more than 18,000 visitors took in the exhibits, lectures, tours, and contests, and spent a good deal of their time examining the University's facilities and projects in Agriculture and Home Economics. Student activity in the Week was profuse. The Concert Band, Orpheus Chorus, Women's Glee Club, Cayuga's Waiters, University Orchestra, and A Cappella Chorus all chimed in at dinners and special concerts to keep their audiences' ears ringing. Students in Home Economics started Monday with a show, "Fashions Today," and repeated it daily. That it attracted such an audience is commendable, but by Friday people must have wondered if they weren't seeing fashions yesterday. Rice Debates and the Eastman Stage brought to light a good many agricultural problems in student speaking contests. Thursday was the most informal day of the program. Ag students held a panel and discussion period, led by Al Sebald '54 of Middletown, Ohio, and the football and track teams, for the benefit of pre-college men and women, slanted in the main toward bringing them to Cornell. Ag-Domecon Council followed in the evening with a country dance, round and square, at which Cornell's sixth queen of the year was crowned. This young lady has the distinction of being queen over more people than any of our other recent queens, which is more than the ordinary queen can say, to be sure!

The week end of March 20 turned out to be a midget houseparty when the Sophomore Cotillion was caught in the middle of the Law School Week End and the Barrister's Ball. The Cotillion featured two bands for the first time in its history and carried out the theme of "A Southern Plantation" in fine style. To start the evening, the Sophomore Council even managed to hurdle the barrier of non-professional alcohol dispensing and held a cocktail party at Chi Psi before the dance. The Law School built their week end, as usual, around the Barristers' Ball with music by Wally Thrill at Statler Hall. Both the Ball and the variety show which entertained the lawyers on Friday night were preceded by several cocktail parties.

Interfraternity Alumni Association awards for the past year were given to Delta Phi for the greatest per capita participation in extra-curricular activities, and to Sigma Alpha Mu for the greatest contribution to Campus life. Delta Phi averaged just over three activities per man. The Sigma Alpha Mu award was based on participation in Homecoming Week End, boxing exhibitions at veteran's hospitals, Faculty speaker programs, lighting displays, and the like. The annual award for the house with the highest academic average was to be made as soon as grades are compiled.

Farm & Home Week Queen—Freshman in Agriculture, Carmen Lovre is the daughter of Congressman Harold O. Lovre of South Dakota. She was selected by students of the Ag-Domecon Council and was crowned and presented a cup at the Farm & Home Week dance in Barton Hall by Director of Resident Instruction in Agriculture A. Wright Gibson '17, left. Calvin R. Nesbitt '54 of Albion (right) was chairman of the contest.

After a pre-St. Patrick's Day announcement that there would be no dragon on the Quad this year, the Architects did manage to liven up the day with a new twist, although many of us sorely missed our old fire-breathing friend with the half-keg of green dragon's milk on his back. The men with the T-square departed from tradition by conducting a Red-hunt from the statue of President White and the steps of White Hall. Although the demonstration was at times noisy, the investigators showed remarkably good taste in closely following ethics, procedures, and high standards of the professional men in the field. Some relapsed heretics could be seen bearing a standard, "I am a Parlor Pink," and these were soundly thrashed in words and music as the procession moved from White to the Straight to Goldwin Smith after ten o'clock classes. The only blot on our escutcheon in receiving such a magnificent demonstration of tact and restraint was the importing of South Sea dancers to perform in the sphere which formerly stood atop Rand Hall. Without this professional entertainment, it's doubtful that the relentless protectors of democracy could have drawn their large following.

Two students in Agriculture have developed a machine to answer New York State's potato-digging problems. David L. Call '54 and William I. Tucker '54 have developed a potato combine which digs both potatoes and rocks from the fields, separates the stones in a fast-moving stream of water, and sacks the gleaming tubers ready for market. Other potato diggers worked well in non-stony fields, but could not cope with the problem of rock separation in New York. Call and Tucker are at present working on reduction of size and weight of the device, and the knotty problem of preventing the machine from becoming entangled in the potato vines.

Among Cornell teams that travelled during the spring recess were the president and manager of the Debate Association, Hugh H. Schwartz '54 of White-stone and Peter K. Johnson '54 of Milwaukee, Wis., who is also captain of the polo team and 140-pound boxing champion of the University. They met teams of Western Reserve, Baldwin-Wallace, Notre Dame, Illinois, Loyola, Mundelein, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Wayne, discussing the question, "Resolved: That the United States should adopt a policy of free trade." In Racine Wis., Jay Schwartz '55 of that city joined Johnson, also of that State, in upholding the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved: That present methods of Congressional investigating committees should be deplored," against a team from Marquette University.

THE FACULTY

President and Mrs. Deane W. Malott have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith Malott, to Harold R. La Bonte, Jr., Law '55, son of Harold R. La Bonte '26 and Mrs. La Bonte of Ithaca. Miss Malott graduated in 1950 at University of Kansas; she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Mortar Board. La Bonte graduated at Yale in 1950. A late summer wedding in California is planned.

Alumni Trustee Walker L. Cisler '22 has been elected a director of Burroughs Corp., Detroit, Mich. He is president of Detroit Edison Co.

New men's dormitory at University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kans., has been named in memory of the late R. D. O'Leary, professor of English there for forty years and father of Dean Paul M. O'Leary, PhD '29, Arts & Sciences.

Dean S. C. Hollister, Engineering, and Professors John E. Perry and Paul H. Underwood '07, Civil Engineering, Emeritus, received life membership certificates in the American Society of Civil Engineers at a meeting in Statler Hall, March 18.

Members of the University counseling staff have two chapters in a new book, Student Personnel Work as Deeper Teaching, published by Harper, New York City. A chapter on "Student Participation in Campus Government" is by Dean of Men Frank C. Baldwin '22, Mark Barlow, Jr., Assistant to the Dean, Professor Isabelle J. Peard, PhD '51, Education, and former Dean of Women Lucille Allen. Another chapter on "Where and How Students Live" is by Mrs. Dorothy V. N. Brooks, Dean of Women.

Professors Roy C. Swan, Jr. '41, Physiology at the Medical College, is one of twenty-five doctors in the United States and Canada appointed Scholars in Medical Science by the John & Mary R. Markle Foundation. Professor Swan will receive $6,000 annually, beginning this year, for five years while he teaches and carries on research in physiology and internal medicine.

Professor Arthur A. Allen '08, Ornithology, Emeritus, has made what is probably the first recording of the voice of the whooping crane, second-rarest bird in the United States (the ivory-billed woodpecker is the rarest). He recorded the birds at the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge on the Gulf Coast of Texas, where the twenty-four birds known to exist spend their winters, migrating from summer nesting grounds in the far-northwest area of Canada. "The whooping crane is extremely wary, and flies away quickly when it spots intruders," Professor Allen said. "The birds also live scattered about, with each individual or pair having its own square mile or so of territory. Mrs. Allen [Elsa Guerdum '12] and I had to get within 150 yards of a pair and set up our equipment without their suspicion in order to make a successful recording. We managed to do this under cover of a heavy fog, and recorded their calls just as they took flight." Later, the Allens went to New Orleans, La., where they recorded the calls and low conversational notes of a captive pair of whooping cranes at Audubon Park. The voice of the whooping crane, described as a loud bugle-like note, will be added to the University's Library of Natural Sounds. March 18, Professor Allen gave an illustrated lecture on the curlew at a meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Westchester County at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville.

Appointment of Mrs. Leland J. Winne as head resident of Sage College has been announced by Mrs. Dorothy V. N. Brooks, Dean of Women. Housemother of Pi Beta Phi from 1941-45, Mrs. Winne was head resident of Cascadilla Hall from 1945-47 and of Risley Hall from 1947-52. Mrs. Edwin W. Riggs (Faith Winne) '42 is her daughter.

Professor Catherine J. Personius, Food & Nutrition, spoke at the dedication of a new wing of the school of home economics at Oregon State College, Corvallis, Ore., February 20.

Professor Dexter Perkins, American Civilization, has been elected to the board of trustees of the New York State Historical Association.

Board of International Relations of the American Library Association has appointed Felix Reichmann, Assistant Director of the University Library, to report for the official journal of the German Library Association on current activities in United States research libraries.

Professor Max Black, Philosophy, will teach a course on "The Philosophy of Science" at Harvard this summer.

Professor William A. Wimsatt '39, Zoology, is studying physiological changes that occur in hibernating bats. To simulate natural conditions, he and his assistants have turned the basement of Stimson Hall into a home for bats, placing them in dark dens which are kept at temperature from 40-42 degrees and at humidity of 92 per cent. Professor Wimsatt gathers bats from their caves in Ithaca gorges in winter and from colonies in the summer twilight.

Professor James G. Needham, PhD '98, Entomology, Emeritus, celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday, March 18, at his home at 6 Needham Place, Ithaca.

A daughter was born, March 23, to Professor Urie Bronfenbrenner, Psychology, and Mrs. Bronfenbrenner.

Professor Frank B. Morrison, Animal Husbandry, returned from Venezuela in February, after spending two months there checking agricultural conditions.

Professor Arthur J. Pratt '25, Vegetable Crops, was elected president of the Ithaca Cooperative Consumers Society, Inc. at the annual meeting, March 17. He succeeds Merrill N. Knapp '35.

Professor John W. Reps, MRP '47, Regional Planning, spoke on legislation affecting city planning boards before a meeting of the American Institute of Planners in Dayton, Ohio, March 12. Other speakers at the meeting were Frederick P. Clark '33, president of the Institute and chairman of the planning commission in Rye, and James M. Lister '33, planning director of the city planning commission in Cleveland, Ohio.

Professor Peter Debye, Chemistry, Emeritus, was honored at a dinner, March 15, in Statler Hall during a two-day Debye Seventieth Anniversary Symposium. He received a presentation copy of his collected works, which are being published this spring by Interscience Publishers, New York City, a commemorative volume from his native Maastricht, The Netherlands, and greetings from numerous scientific societies. Professor Debye was seventy March 24.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the American Dairy Association in Chicago, March 23, Professor Herrell F. DeGraff '37, Food Economics, offered this solution for getting rid of the growing milk surplus: "If one person in four in the nation drank just one more glass of milk a day, there would be no surplus." Professor DeGraff is pictured in a full-page color advertisement of the Association in Life magazine, March 29.

Richard P. Feynman, professor of Physics here from 1945-50, is the winner of the Albert Einstein Award of $15,000 and a gold medal. Announcement of the award was made, March 14, by J. Robert Oppenheimer of the Institute of Advanced Studies, Princeton, N.J. Feynman is now professor of theoretical physics at California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

Microfilm Research Reports

THESES for the PhD, reporting research of graduate students at the University, are now being filed with University Microfilms, Ann Arbor, Mich., from which anyone may order a copy at a nominal cost. A synopsis of each thesis will be published in Dissertation Abstracts, which is issued six times a year and subscribed to by most research libraries.

The Association of Research Libraries in 1952 adopted the program that was started by University Microfilms in 1938. Forty-three universities are now participating.

Teach at Michigan State

SIX ENGINEERING faculty members of Michigan State College at East Lansing are Cornellians. Professor Leonard C. Price '24 is head of mechanical engineering and Louis L. Otto '33 and Roland T. Hinkle, PhD '44, are professors in that department. Frank R. Theroux, MCE '25, is professor and Richard H. J. Pian, PhD '45, associate professor, of civil engineering. Joseph A. Strelzoff, PhD '34, is professor of electric engineering. All are members of the graduate faculty of the College.

NEWS OF THE ALUMNI

Addresses which appear in these pages are in New York State unless otherwise designated. Class columns headed by Class numerals and the names and addresses of the correspondents who write them are principally those of Classes which have purchased group subscriptions to the News for all members. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes about Cornellians of all Classes are welcomed for publication.

'96—Guy Gundaker, former president of Rotary International, was honored for his contributions to that organization at a joint meeting of the Philadelphia and New York City Rotary Clubs, held in Philadelphia, Pa., February 17. He writes that he hopes to attend Class Reunions this June. His address is 140 South Broad Street, Philadelphia 2, Pa.

'00 ME(EE)—George H. Young, 1900 Class secretary, and Mrs. Young had a novel celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary last June. It was a family party at the home of their son, John M. Young II '28, in Scarsdale. The guests of honor were surprised to hear a news broadcast of events taking place fifty years ago that day, including details of their own wedding, in New York City. Before they cut the anniversary wedding cake, they were led to tables set on the lawn by their own wedding party impersonated by their grandchildren, complete even to Mrs. Young's bridal gown worn by their granddaughter. Their children and their families presented them with an album of family pictures taken during the fifty years and completed with photographs of the surprise anniversary celebration. The Youngs live at 5 North Street, Binghamton.

'02—Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. has purchased a set of eleven oil paintings by Colonel Charles W. Furlong, AUS, ret., depicting scenes in Tierra-del-Fuego, at the southern tip of Argentina and Chile. He was the first American to explore the dense, sub-Antarctic jungle there. Included in the collection are paintings of members of the Ona tribe, a primitive people who still live the life of Stone Age men and who are now almost extinct. Colonel Furlong has also issued twelve records of Ona song and speech which are now in the Library of Congress. He is married to the former Eva Earll '95 and lives at Eight Gables, Cohasset, Mass.

'07 DVM—Dr. Bradford A. Hyatt married Mrs. Mildred R. Corbett, March 10, in East Orange, N.J., where they live at 50 South Munn Street.

'10 Roy Taylor
Old Fort Road
Bernardsville, N.J.

Having already reported in this column several 1910 members of the Hole-in-One Club, it now appears this talent is not confined exclusively to the East Coast. Art L. (Beany) Rose writes from his home, 19471

James Couzens Highway, Detroit 35, Mich., as follows: "I see by the ALUMNI NEWS that Jud Judson got a hole-in-one after many years of golfing, and that you think he may be the only 1910 man to get one. Not so! I'll bet there have been several. I got a hole-in-one in 1932 or '33, on the 195-yard, 12th hole at the Orchard Lake Country Club, located about 25 miles northwest of Detroit, of which I was a member at the time. It occurred in a tournament and my opponent, who had the honor, played a high spoon shot which stopped on the green about ten feet away from the pin. I played a one iron. The ball bounded on the green and bounced into the cup. My opponent then sank his ten-footer for a deuce. Rather unusual to get a deuce and lose the hole. I am sorry to advise that in spite of my hole-in-one, I was soundly beaten that day, but got my revenge the next year, when I beat the same man in the 36-hole semi-finals. Back in those days, holes-in-one were rarer than now, and I received considerable loot; cases of ginger ale, safety razors, shaving cream, etc.

"Though I have been playing golf since 1904, that is the only hole-in-one I have ever made, though I have seen two others made by other men."

From Carl H. Butman comes the following letter: "I never intended to be a short-skate, but having been only a year at Ithaca, I doubt if anyone in 1910, except some DTDs, remembers me. I was an affiliate from Dartmouth and then transferred to George Washington from here. As I kept shifting courses I never got a degree, but quit to write, at Smithsonian, War Dept., WPB, and magazines, etc. Was secretary of the first Radio Commission 1927-30, then opened an office as radio consultant. I represent some broadcasters and try to keep them out of trouble with the Federal Communications Commission. I also write. My son Robert H. is two degrees up on me, having them from Chapel Hill, N.C. He is now teaching at St. John's College, Annapolis, Md." A letter from Hal Edwards advises that although he cannot claim a hole-in-one for himself, during his many years of playing golf, that Mrs. Edwards made one on the 145-yard, 17th hole of the Creek Club, at Locust Valley, about 15 years ago. Whether Hal claims credit for this exploit, as an instructor or coach, is not known at this time; however it should entitle him to a family membership in the 1910 Hole-in-one Club.

Here is one man in the right job, for Samuel B. (Sam) Dicker (above) AB, LLB Harvard '23, a practicing lawyer, is and has been mayor of Rochester since 1939. He likes the job and they like him, something like former Mayor Rolfe of San Francisco. At Ithaca, it was prophesied he would always be known as a good scout and had the "marvelous ability of arguing on any subject whatever" so you can see how it all got started. He became junior statistician in Albany 2 years, senior ditto 2 years, then chief of Division of Labor Statistics until '20. About this time Sam decided on law, went to Cambridge, came out in '23 and was admitted to N.Y. State Bar, '24. Besides being a partner in Reilly, Dicker, McLouth and Lines, he is director, Rochester and Genesee Valley Railroad, treasurer, Rochester Elks Lodge No. 24, and elected and re-elected as city councilman since '36. In Rochester, which, with Cleveland, is known in the civic world as a very well administered city, the Council designates the mayor. They've given Sam the nod since '39, last time on Jan. 2, '54.

Mayor Dicker meets all celebrities, is a good handshaker, a good greeter and a very gracious after-dinner speaker; in short, a popular man. When one of his law partners and another, a political friend, were asked just the other day what makes him tick, they both said: "I don't know, he's just that way." The fact is, he likes people and is perhaps a Grover Whalen-Jimmy Walker combination along with other attributes that won him a ΦBK key 43 years ago and other honors ever since.

Raymond F. (Ray) Rope, Law, was admitted to N.Y. State Bar soon after Ithaca, but never practiced; the lure of life work with the Y.M.C.A. was too strong. He began his professional career at the "Y" in Buffalo, his home city; later in Hong Kong and after his return, organized the Chatauqua Co. Y, renewing old associations with Sam Nixon also Law. Then Ray went to Pittsburgh and in '49 assumed his present staff work on the National Council of Y.M.C.A., resides in Mt. Lebanon, a suburb. 3 daughters, one son, 8 grandchildren.

Our man Noon on the Coast is on a little vacation, but here is a little dope on Phillip W. (Phil) Allison, ME, 350 W. Lincoln St., Salem, Ore., who lived before Ithaca on Governors' Island, New York Harbor, because his father was a soldier and it was then as now, HQ for an army district. I was so impressed during Frosh Drawing because he knew all battleships by sight and could recite their armament and other statistics. Lots of us freshwater boys had never even seen the ocean. (It turns out that at the end of the second war, I could do the same thing, no connection, but Phil and I are out of it for good. They ain't talking any more.) Phil spent 2 years with N.Y. Shipbuilding and Cox & Stevens, 5 years as Asst. to Frank J. Sprague who received the Edison medal, highest award to Electrical Engineers, for his work on electric railway train control, which is what Phil worked on; then the Mexican border affair with 7th Inf., and the army in both wars and in between, retiring 1946 as Colonel, regular army since '20. U.S. Olympic team in '24, Fencing and Modern Pentathlon. One daughter and 2 grandsons. Pedro Cabrera, BSA, writes a nice note with his dues, from Managua, Nicaragua, Apartado 184, as did J. L. Bacon, retired. Address now is Box 165, Claremont, Calif. T. R. Rollo, D.C.E., Wyocena, Wis., inquires after the whereabouts of Leo Francis Giblin. At last count, there are 21 Classmates living or visiting in Florida, that I know of, including Halsey Miller, Herb Lafferty, Joe Ford and L. M. Slocum, visitors. They plan a dinner April 28, same date as in New York. Any other local dinners? '11 women lately have sent out 2 marathon letters to their membership; one by Martha Dick with lots of news and one by Stella Heilbrunn Marshak, Brooklyn H.S. teacher, on her trip all over Europe. Poetry too! Be sure to give a thought to that hard-working Bill Thorne. The time has come again.

W. H. (Pat) Fries, BSA, 220 Valley Road, Merion Station, Pa., captain of the '11 Lacrosse team, entered with '10, came out with '11, has many friends in our Class; was a fraternity brother of Lafayette Le Van (Blackie Daw) Porter (News Mar. 1); says his scrapbook shows the night Maude Adams played "What Every Woman . . ." was Dec. 17, 1908; on page 327 (News Mar. 1), a pix of Pres. Malott being greeted at Cornell Club of Albany, Ev. Hunt, Chairman. It seems Ev. and Fries were members of "Osiris Club." Good old Ev. We've gotta adopt Fries.

Ralph S. Crossman, CE, is at 95 Woolsey St., Huntington, L.I. Chas. Beavers did a tour of Mexico by motor, went both ways on a slow steamer. Says tequila is distilled lightning. Hal Cross, one of the nation's authorities on "the people's right to know," said in a speech in Baltimore Feb. 11, a 3-year campaign for freedom of information has halted "the trend toward secrecy" in government. "Reversal of the trend" must be the campaign's goal, he said.

'12 Men—It is seldom that news items concerning individual members of 1912 appear in these columns. This is attributed to the fact that editor Don Kerr admirably covers this feature in "The On-to-Ithaca Gazette," which all members receive from time to time. For the information and enlightenment of Ad Menjou and those Cornellians of other Classes who regretfully acknowledge that they are not eligible to receive the official publication of the Famous Class, and thus are not apprised of their friends in 1912, this report of the 42d annual dinner is rendered. This dinner was sponsored by the Metropolitan unincorporated subsidiary of the Famous Class at the Cornell Club on March 12th. It commemorated the combined anniversaries of the Blizzard of '88, Aunt Stella Miller, her public relations counsel, Pukey Pew and Paul the Pig, the Feast of St. Gregory the First, Girl Scouts Day, founded in 1912, United States Patent Office (1789), introduction of vaccination to the United States in 1799 by Professor Waterhouse of Harvard; first run of the Pacific Railroad east of Mississippi in 1849; and the establishment in 1914 of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. Continuous toasts were made to each, with the usual results. In spite of his absence in Florida, Dale Carson was unanimously re-elected president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer of the Metropolitan subsidiary. This honor is always conferred upon the incumbent, in recognition of his failure to perform his duties to the satisfaction of the members during the previous year. "Judge" Finch, of pleasant memory, was always re-elected on this theory, and over his protests, was always outvoted. Telegrams and letters were received from Dale Carson, Jic Clarke, Bert Meehan, Bob Austin, and Sarge O'Connor. Charlie Colman, the outstanding Alumni Fund raiser, was unable to leave Cleveland for the occasion. His letter of condolence was read to the gathering, in which he emphasized the necessity of the individual members of the Famous Class to continue to contribute to the financial needs of Cornell, even though as a Class it would not be expected to contribute $42,000 before June 15th. Charlie will be pleased if every member contributes something, even though a widow's mite, so that a large percentage of contributors will indicate a continued interest in Cornell. He also lamented the passing of Miss Miller, and stated that if she was still carrying on her works of mercy, if not charity, she would be 92 years old on March 12. Coming from such an official source, the assemblage was gratified to receive such an important announcement, although her age was disputed by some. The matter was referred to the research department, consisting of Skip Magnuson and Al Hess. In the absence of the treasurer, Dale Carson, his financial report was rendered, and though not approved, it was pleasing to note that the Metropolitan subsidiary was solvent. Through the generosity of some, the treasury was augmented by $41. After the business session was concluded, Lee Tschirky, the official, unsubsidized Class photographer, having flown from California for the event, exhibited his moving and still pictures of previous Reunions, including the "Dawn Barrage" of unpleasant memory to older alumni, "The Washboard Trio," always claimed by Jim Munns '14 to have been stolen by Crab, and "Cornell In All Seasons." In the opinion of his Classmates, Lee's pictures far excel the professional pictures furnished through the University. It is hoped that they will eventually find their way into the archives at Ithaca. Freddy Crowell, general sales manager of American Manufacturing Co., came over from Bryn Mawr, Pa., to help Lee carry the impedimenta, but didn't help much. Crab Magoun of Modjeski & Masters of Harrisburg, Pa., bridge designers and consultants, arrived with some samples, but they were mostly in his mouth. Joe Grossman, president of Ward LaFrance Trucking Corp., came from Elmira. For the information of Reunion chairmen of other Classes, the Ward LaFrance fire trucks which have always appeared at official Reunions of the Famous Class since 1937 through the generosity and kindness of Joe, are not available to other Classes. However, an unauthorized spokesman stated that if chairmen are mayors of cities or villages, or fire commissioners of fire districts which contemplate purchasing Ward LaFrance fire apparatus, their applications will be considered but are subject to approval of the executive committee of the Famous Class. Walt Rudolph, president of Savory Equipment Co., manufacturer of those automatic toasters used at Cornell, the Army, Navy, and other institutions, performed his usual good job of acting as receiver of taxes and accounted for enough. Don Kerr, renowned editor of the Gazette and secretary of the parent organization, was truly missed. He had planned to attend, but at the last moment had to keep an appointment for a hurry-up job at the Tompkins Hospital. It was happy news to hear that his troubles are over and that he is mending nicely. An elaborate scroll, bearing the felicitations of all present, was dispatched to him. In addition to those appearing in the photograph there were present Frank Cuccia, Carl Burger, and Oscar Segar. Frank Bond from North Adams, Mass., and Arries L. Johnson from Livermore Falls, Me. were the other members outside the Metropolitan area. Twenty others sent in their regrets.

—Walter R. Kuhn

'12 Women—Fourteen women of the Class of 1912 had a Reunion in New York City on Sunday, February 28. The occasion was a dinner party given by Janet Frisch Klein at her home, 101 Central Park West. For a number of years, Mrs. Klein has entertained the Class on the day after the Cornell Women's Club of New York luncheon. This year, in addition to the women, Mrs. Klein invited the husbands and families of those who could attend. Roy Strempel '13, George Thull, George Thull, Jr., Joseph Klein, and David Klein '41 were the men present. The list of Class members present were Elsa Guerdum Allen, Rose Williams Cohn, Marian Darville, Janet Frisch Klein, Martha Bovier Marchev, Marguerite McGuire, Florence Merrill, Lillie Shostac Peterson, Annie Bullivant Pfeiffer, Nina Smith, Margaret Thorp Stewart, Cynthia Seelye Strempel, Beulah Bailey Thull, and Margaret Connor Vosbury.—Margaret Thorp Stewart

Here we go with a new name at the head of this column. M. R. (Nei) Neifeld has been appointed our 1913 Class representative on the Cornell Alumni Fund, and it seems that now I will be struggling along with this 1913 column, endeavoring to take Nei's place as Class correspondent. As Class Alumni Fund representative, Nei is following in the illustrious footsteps of Spide (W. A.) Bridgeman, Jess Whyte, and Joe Strahan. It's a mighty tough assignment to follow that trio, but I am sure he will do a grand job.

And speaking of Nei Neifeld, I am going to continue right here doing just that. For years he has been writing about many, numerous, and sundry other 1913 Classmates, but nary a word about himself. I think you should know that Cornell '13 has just made Who's Who, as the newly published Who's

Who in the East carries a biographical sketch of Doc Neifeld. He is also listed in Who Knows and What; and in The Directory of American Scholars.

He went with Beneficial Management Corp., Newark, N.J., in 1926 as statistician and is now economist and vice-president of that company. He is considered one of the foremost authorities in the field of consumer credit, and on general business conditions and forecasts. He is the author of numerous books, The Personal Finance Business (1913), Cooperative Consumer Credit (1936), Personal Finance Comes of Age (1939), Neifeld's Guide to Installment Computations (1951), and his latest book, Trends in Consumer Finance, is now in the hands of the publishers.

He has two children, a daughter and a son, both married. His hobbies are highly diversified: golf, etchings, of which he has a fine collection, limited editions, and bridge. And, I think I should add, Class activities of Cornell, 1913. So much for Nei. That brings us up to date.

George Rockwell, our life secretary, reports that our next Class meeting will be on Saturday, June 12th, Reunion Week, in Ithaca. We will meet at the Statler Club at 10:00 a.m., and our group will attend the alumni luncheon together.

If you have not yet sent in your Class dues for 1954, do it now. Mail your $5.00 check to Donald P. Beardsley, our Class treasurer, c/o Drexel & Co., 1500 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa. This payment includes your subscription to the ALUMNI NEWS

Getting back to this new job for me on this column business. I have the general idea that this is the place to pass around news about the members of our Class of 1913. But to write up news, I have to receive some. You send it in to me at the above address and I'll put it out. If you won't write about yourself, tell me anything of interest about other Classmates (and I'll find out from them about you!) So, praise the Lord and pass the ammunition!

The increasing imminence of June is reflected by the use in letters of phrases like "See you in June" or "C.U. at Reunion." Art Shelton writes that he has Burt Brodt signed up. I have signed up Warren Scott and Quack Quackenbush, although they may not have heard of it yet; Warren couldn't miss the shindig, I'm sure, and Quack is duty bound to be here to keep an eye on Warren and me. George Kuhlke, who does business at Arma Corp., Roosevelt Field, Garden City, L.I., and lives at Brookville on said island, is one of the See-You-in-June tribe. Art Shelton got no end nostalgic. Harked back to a summer session when he, as a super, helped Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne film "Dear Old Girl." He remembers registering horror on the Phi Sigma Kappa steps after she was supposedly driven over the brink of Taughannock Falls in an old jalopy. I hadn't heard of that episode, had only heard of Pearl White and the streetcar that was run off the Stewart Ave. bridge into Fall Creek gorge. Says, "June can't come too soon for me."

June will mean retirement for Ced Guise, for many, many years professor of Forestry. Saw him the other day when I was on the Upper Campus doing Farm & Home Week and he took me to his office to show me a bronze plaque to Edward I. Tinkham '16 and Eugene J. Irish '13, Forestry majors, who were killed in our (the Great) World War. The plaque was formerly in the rooms of the Forestry Club, but was dispossessed in a rearrangement of rooms, and Ced is trying to find a proper home for it. This might be a good spot to tell Don Dewey's many friends that his last illness was a long one (about six months) and came from an infection that resulted in uremic poisoning. "He was bright and cheerful to the end (March 13, 1954) and never lost his sense of humor."

Leonard Treman was here for the Indoor Heptagonals; talked cross country with Johnny Hoffmire '16, who comes down from Buffalo to help officiate at all Ithaca Cornell track meets. Johnny and I act as inspectors on the turns. I am always panic stricken that I may have to call a foul some day. Johnny says he reads the 1914 notes. During the Heps we got frequent bulletins over the loud speaker on the progress of the crucial Penn basketball game. When we won by one point in overtime, I'm told that Clarence (Prince) Morse jumped and waved his arms like an undergrad. I may well have myself. Barton (Drill) Hall boasts this winter a new 20' x 30' American flag, given by Clarence in honor of our 40th Reunion.

Clarence has already given the University flags for Day Hall, Statler Hall, Barton Hall, Jack Moakley House, and the White Museum, and now has on order (it's too big to be a stock size) one for the new Teagle Sports Building! Clarence is an active member of our local Sons of the American Revolution, though his main love is the American Legion, on whose national committee for greeting distinguished guests he serves.

Hibby Ayer mentioned to me in Ithaca some little time ago that he was working on a new Cornell song. Now he writes Doc that it is finished and is called "Cornell Forever!" He thinks that I should just mention it casually, but that is a pretty hard thing to do when you consider that Hibby's "Cornell Victorious" is unquestionably the finest and most popular Cornell song that was original in both words and music. "Alma Mater" was written to an existing tune, of course, and I think the "Evening Song" was too. I have always chuckled a bit at the fact that everybody knows "Annie Lisle" as "Far Above Cayuga's Waters" even though there are literally hundreds of schools and colleges that have taken the tune for their hymns.

Edward H. (Dixie) Dix, Jr., assistant director of research of Aluminum Corp. of America, on March 17 received the Frank Newman Speller Award of the National Association of Corrosion Engineers, at the annual meeting of the Association in Kansas City, Mo. Of a total of over 60 scientific papers that Dixie has published, some 20 have been wholly devoted to corrosion. The theory of intergranular corrosion of heat-treated aluminum alloys, now generally accepted in the metallurgical field, was first proposed by him and his associates in 1928. Dixie is a member of all sorts of alphabetical societies, to whom he is always lecturing and from whom he is always getting awards, apparently. He has been with Alcoa since 1919 and one of his patents is the base of their Alclad products. His office is at Aluminum Research Lab., PO Box 772, New Kensington, Pa., and he lives in Oakmont, Pa. 1914 is pretty strong with Alcoa because we have Conrad F. (Dutch) Nagel, Jr., there, as well, and I think he is in research or development too. Dutch's address has shifted to 1501 Alcoa Building, Pittsburgh 19; lives at 732 St. James St., Pittsburgh 32, Pa.

Alex Keller writes me from Summit, N.J., re Henry (Pard) Tilden, as follows: "Recently wrote to my roommate of our Freshman year, with whom I have not corresponded for many a year. His reply says 'I am still practicing architecture, can't retire yet and probably never will as long as I can work. . . . I have a daughter, married, living outside of Boston and have joined the Ancient Order of Grandfathers. . . . Have never been back to Reunion. . . . have developed a yen to again see the Finger Lakes section and might be up that way at Reunion time . . . so I may see you in June and thank you for writing me.' Pard lives at Winter Haven, Fla."

Talking about the Cosmopolitan Club, it's hard to keep a finger on our leading cosmopolite, Hu Shih. First I hear him on the radio, as already reported here; then he pops up in Formosa, as reported by the New York Times of Feb. 24; then on March 14 I hear him again on CBS on a Columbia University affair! The Times story called him, "One of the leading intellectual figures among the 1,529 delegates now registered at the National Assembly here." Doc is still critical of the Kuomintang, especially of the obey-the-leader concept, the one-party system, and the issue of freedom, but was quoted as saying: "I felt it a moral obligation to be here. There are only two main political forces in the world today, Communist and anti-Communist. Only very foolish people like Nehru think there is a third force." Doc is working on a history of Chinese thought begun forty years ago and has two sons, one in Red China and the other in Nationalist Formosa. I think the first is the one my wife and I knew when he was a student here and active in the Cos Club; he was a perfectly lovely boy, in appearance and action.

Lake (J. Lakin) Baldrige was recently married to Mrs. McFeely Anderson at Christ Church, Warwick West, Bermuda. (Congratulations, Lake, and best wishes to Mrs. Baldrige.) They will be at Burnt House, Warwick West, until August when they will leave for eight weeks in Europe. On their return, the Baldridges will divide their time between Bermuda and 117 E. 72d St., New York City.

Bill (W.C.) Collyer strikes a nostalgic note: "On March 15th, I signed away my life to Uncle Sam and thought back on the days when we could get thoroughly wound up for a dollar in Ithaca, including a magnificent hangover. Ithaca in the middle teens was quite a spot. How did that jingle go we used to sing, 'We'll all go down to old Mike Dugan's'? (Bill, here is my recollection of how she went.)

"We'll all go down to old Mike Dugan's

Oh, what fun on a Saturday night

There you see the bouncing bedbugs

Shinny up the pole by the candlelight.

Fill your belly with the best of booze

Dance with any old biddy you choose

With a snap of the fingers and a crack of the back

We'll all go down to Dugan's shack.

Tra, la, la, la, la, la.

Bill adds, "Hope to get back to Reunion next year. Address: 350 Brannon St., San Francisco, Cal.

Notes of 1915's in the local sector (Cleveland, Ohio): Snooks (Frank) Hornickel is still in the coal line, Anchor Coal Co., Terminal Tower. Haven't seen Chick (C. O.) Benton lately, but understand he is still putting out a lot of paint. Doc (Earl) Monson continues to lend a helping hand in the secondary school activities of the Cornell Club of Cleveland. Art Watkins has been with the Cleveland Grain Co., Williamson Building, his entire business life. Haven't seen Shaf Lawrence or Joe Malone for some time.

Frank W. Pierce has recently retired as a director and executive assistant to the president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, after thirty years of distinguished service. Frank had been ill but we are happy to report that he attended a recent '16 Class dinner in New York City and is much better now. John Troup Moir has been for years one of the well-known figures in the life of the Hawaiian Islands, and recently retired as manager of Pioneer Mill Co. Jack is entitled to wear a silver eagle on his shoulders. He has been on safari in the Belgian Congo and in Tanganyika. He can be reached at Lahaina, Maui, Hawaii. Robert H. Rissinger is at 607 Zollinger Way, Meriden Station, Pa., CPA-ing with Griffith & Co. in the Girard Trust Building in Philadelphia. He is also director and treasurer of Paper Corp. of the United States, 630 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Bob is a bit of a Phoenix, having waited to take wing until he was fifty-six-years-old, and now he flies his own plane all over the United States. Joseph Rubinger, of 7402 Narrows Avenue, Brooklyn, took the MS at Michigan University, followed by further pedagogical activities at the Universities of Toulouse and Montpellier in France. He is secretary and treasurer of New York Scientific Supply Co., and reports that his daughter, Diane, is Cornell '55, at present at Geneva University, Switzerland, under the auspices of Smith College, so she has a wide choice of Alma Maters.

Dr. Henry H. Kessler has been sent as a one-man surveyor by the United Nations for a three month tour of India, Indonesia, and the Philippines in connection with its rehabilitation program. He conducts the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation in West Orange, N.J. Arthur F. Perry of Orange Park, Fla., operates a general contracting business there under his own name. He was a captain in the US Navy. Art has had a distinguished navy career, starting out in the heavy artillery in World War I, then being called into the Navy in World War II to operate huge installations in Florida, followed by like duty in Iceland working in liason with the British there constructing air fields, then to the Philippines on the staff of Admiral Kauffman.

Benjamin F. Sovocool is at 707 N. Cayuga Street, Ithaca, practicing law with his son, also a Cornell graduate. William A. McCandless of Waite Landing, Falmouth Foreside, Portland, Me., is in real estate and a director of P.H. & J.M. Brown Co., and active in many phases of conservation of animal life, and with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Stuart S. Caves of 57 Main Street, East Bloomfield, operates a lumber business under his own name and is on the town board, and is county commander of the American Legion, and director of the Ontario County Fair.

Frederick E. Lyford, 14 Soundview Avenue, White Plains, is a distinguished consulting engineer, being a former president of the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad, and also of Merritt, Chapman & Scott. His offices are at 205 East 42nd Street, New York City. He is an adviser to the New York Central Railroad, United States Steel, Jones & Laughlin, and other large interests. He reports that he has 4½ grandchildren, a variation of the "one in the oven" theme. Fred likes the '16 ALUMNI News idea very much. John S. Lewis is at 340 James Street, S. Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, in textiles there, general manager of Zimmerknit division of York Knitting Mills, Ltd., of Toronto, and president and director of Knox Unshrinkable Wools, Ltd.

William D. VanArnam comes up with some stimulating news and I quote: "My fourth son was born on December 18, 1953. He will be of the Class of '70 at Cornell. My third son is 20 months old, Class of '68. My first son, Bill, Jr. is Cornell '41 and my second son, Fritz, Cornell '44. In addition, I have a married daughter." After which, pardon me, while I catch my breath. Those of an inquisitive turn of mind can reach Bill at Oswegatchie, Waterford, Conn.

'17 BS—Harold J. Evans read the annual report and presided over a discussion group at a meeting of Soil Conservation Service district directors in Statler Hall, March 10-12. Evans is chairman of the New York State Soil Conservation Committee. He lives in Georgetown.

'17 ME—William J. Wheeler, 43 Bay Avenue, Douglastown, is president of The Maintenance Co., Inc., contracting industrial, elevator, and air conditioning engineers, New York City. His son, William J. Wheeler, Jr. '44, is general manager and assistant treasurer of the company.

'18 BChem—Lee H. Clark has been named president of Sharples Chemicals Inc., Philadelphia, Pa. From 1932-50, he was in charge of the company's plant in Wyandotte, Mich. He is married to the former Margaret Bellows, Grad '18, and lives at 923 Waverly Road, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

'19 Alpheus W. Smith 705 The Parkway Ithaca, N.Y.

He's president and director, Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, 3600 N. Second St., St. Louis 7, Mo. In addition, Joseph Fistere, Jr. checks in with his first grandson, Joseph F. Butler, a Christmas Eve present. Joe's home address: 26 Fair Oaks Drive, Ladue, St. Louis County.

Class veep and 35th Reunion chairman John C. Hollis, Society of Automotive Engineers, Inc., 29 W. 39th St., New York City 18, has been working since 1939 with the Man Marketing Clinic of New York. Way back then, this volunteer organization helped Johnny find the kind of job he wanted. The group meets every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the Remington Rand Building, 315 Fourth Ave. (Nineteener Albert M. Ross is executive veep of Remington Rand.) In connection with his MMC work, Johnny is a speechmaker. Recent talks include, "Engineering Your Personal Advancement," before the Engineering Forum Club of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; "You Can Chart Your Own Career," for the St. James Club; and "Advertising and Selling Will Work for You," the final lecture of the advertising and selling course of the Advertising Club of New York.

W. Morgan Kendall, 32 Argyle Park, Buffalo 9, is a veep of Niagara Share Corp., a closed type investment trust with net assets of $30,000,000. It is owned largely by members of a famous Cornell family, the Schoellkopfs. Morg reports twin granddaughters, aged 5; a third granddaughter, aged 2; and a grandson, aged 6 months.

Norman T. Newton, chairman, department of architectural sciences, Harvard University, is treasurer of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Eugene R., Jr., son of Eugene R. Smoley, 146 Brewster Road, Scarsdale, will enter Cornell as a Freshman next Fall.

George A. Spader, horticulturist, State University of New York's Agricultural & Technical Institute at Morrisville, has 3 daughters and 1 son, and is five times a grandfather. He's district deputy, Cortland-Madison Masonic District, Grand Lodge of New York. Each June, George serves as program director of the American Legion Empire Boys' State, held at Colgate University.

Samuel C. Whitman has moved his law office from Jamaica to 41 E. 42d St., New York City. He is a partner of the firm of Whitman & Boehner.

Let's see now, although it's still March as I write this, right after the 15th when we all went through Uncle Sam's Dry Cleaner, the column will not appear until about Easter time. So, Happy Egg Rolling to everyone! All our Classmates who were lucky enough to head South to warmer climes, or go on tropical cruises, have returned by now and are busy polishing up their golf clubs. This includes Ed Neu, who, after a three-week jaunt is back in Buffalo telling Paul Fitzpatrick all about it. Yep, the sun moves North. The vernal equinox is just about three weeks behind us, and by now the crocuses and daffodils are blooming in suburban dooryards. Spring is here! By the end of this month all the religious holidays will be over and you all will be able to attend the 1920 Spring Class dinner on Friday, April 30, to be held at the University Club, 1 West 54th Street, New York City. At this dinner we'll really start the ball rolling for our "35 in '55" Reunion. So, rise and shine 1920 and be there for the big doin's!

Whadyaknow? Two welcome letters arrived this month from Classmates! Remember Gene Durham? Well, he is now Rev. G. Eugene Durham, director of the Methodist Student Foundation at Northwestern, Evanston, Ill. Along with several other 1920-ites Gene and I "fit the battle" of Camp Lee way back in 1918-19. Why don't some of the rest of you who helped make the world safe for democracy get off your crutches long enough to drop me a line? What's with Paul B. Franklin and what's happen to Kay Mayer our first Class Prez? Like diamonds are to Lorelei Lee, news letters are a columnist's best friends, so let me hear from you. Not hearing from you makes me feel like I'm on an island with Joe DiMaggio and Marilyn Monroe, a feeling that I'm not needed. Here I am sitting and waiting for letters with the patience of Mrs. Judge Crater. Write me!

I don't know if this column sold him the idea, but nevertheless Hank Cundell has moved bag and baggage to 2501 Oakland Park Boulevard, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he is in the real estate business, trying to become the George Stanton of the "Gold Coast" of Florida. Need a lawyer? If so, don't go looking for Dick Spitzer at 30 Broad Street any more, for he is now located up at 535 Fifth Avenue, New York City. A. O. Degling, general manager of the engineering department, American Can Co., is now located at that new building, 100 Park Ave. '20 sure is getting some ritzy business addresses.

Emil Kline out in Cleveland doesn't know it yet, but he's going to be on my publicity committee for our 35th Reunion. Kirk M. Reid at 15907 Hazel Rd., E. Cleveland, Ohio, will give you a helping hand, I'm sure. Kirk, Jr., by the way, is Cornell '53 ME. And Emil, get a hold of C. Edwin Ackerly at 639 Penobscot Bldg., Detroit, Mich. He can get the 1920 Clan on the other side of Lake Erie lined up.

As of early this month, we have a top, on-the-spot liaison man for 1920 right in Ithaca. Wally Duncan, previously of RCA, WNEW, WPIX, and WOR Mutual, is now at the Cornell radio station, WHCU. Home address: Bundy Road, RD 3. Naturally, he's not there merely to promote our 35th Reunion, so if any of you contemplate advertising your products in and around up-per New York State, Wally's your man! And listen here Les Townsend, you've lived in Ithaca all your life, and we expect you to pitch in and lend a helping hand for our BIG 35 in '55! By now you should be able to play your golf game without wearing "longies" and ear muffs, so start getting in shape for our Spring Class dinner, at which time I'll "sink a few" with you. My doc advised me to play 36 holes a day, so tomorrow I'm going out and buy a harmonica. I'll be seein' you. "Abadoo!"

'21 George A. Boyd 80 Maiden Lane New York 38, N.Y.

When in 1942 I read that Leslie R. Severinghaus had been appointed headmaster of The Haverford School for boys at Haverford, Pa., I was conscious of a warm feeling that the right man had found the right place. Les always had that intangible something known as character. Not until now, however, have I realized how soon he put his Cosmopolitan Club experience to use.

From 1922-27, Les was head of the department of English at Peking Union medical college, under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation, at Peking, China. After a brief interval of teaching at a private school in Providence, R.I., he became head of the English department at The Haverford School in 1929, rising thence to the headmastership.

Last summer, Les journeyed 27,000 miles around the world by air. Although the actual flying time was less than five days, the trip took over two months. His outstanding impression was of the world refugee problem: three million Chinese on Formosa where he talked with Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek, another one-and-a-half million in Hong Kong, thousands upon thousands of Moslems in Pakistan who had fled from India, and of Hindus in India who had left Pakistan and the Arab-Israeli deadlock. Japan, the Philippines, French Indo-China, Singapore, the Malay States and Thailand were also visited, as well as Greece, Rome, Portugal, and England.

Right now, Les professes some anxiety about the possible outcome of the Geneva conference scheduled for April 26. He feels that the United States, under present circumstances, must maintain its position of no reconciliation with Communist China insofar as a seat in the UN is concerned. As we go to press, there is some thought that the conference may not take place.

While in Peking in 1924, Les married Emmavil Luce. Their older daughter, Elizabeth (Mrs. David Dingle) is a Cornell graduate, Class of '50. Margaret (Mrs. Russell S. Boles, Jr.) is Wellesley '52, while Sheldon R. Severinghaus is in II Form at Haverford School.

Speaking of travel, Allan H. Treman and Mrs. Treman have returned from a three-weeks' cruise in the West Indies, in the course of which they were constantly encountering Cornellians. These included Raoul Cowley, who has appeared in this column before. Seems as though all a '21 man has to do is to get in touch with Raoul, and Cuba is his.

James A. McConnell, executive vice-president of GLF since 1952 and with that Federation since 1922, has resigned to become administrator of the Commodity Stabilization Service of the US Department of Agriculture. This is the Department's crop control and price support agency. In the light of widely differing views as to what policies should be adopted, it looks as though Jim is on a hot spot.

Walter B. Townsend was discharged from the Army in 1943 after an attack of polio. During the last ten years he has been developing new muscles and at the same time promoting hill top estates near Riverside, Cal. Townsend thinks it easier for an adult to recover than a young person because there is more drive, but it is a long struggle. Before entering the service in 1942, he had been a college professor and lecturer. He does not expect to go back to teaching, but may do some private practice in the field of child psychology. Walt bought his land in 1939 before land values in California went up, so he has been able to keep his head above water even though disabled. Cornell visitors are welcome at Blue Mountain Rancho, one mile southeast of highway 99 at Colton.

'22 AB, '26 MD—Dr. Robert S. Ackerly practices medicine in Port Washington, where he lives at 1 Salem Lane. He writes that his son, Robert S. Ackerly, Jr. '51, is a graduate student at Colgate University and that his daughter, Janet, is a sophomore at College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio.

'22 AB—George Myers is Judge of the Albany City Court. He practices law at 100 State Street, Albany.

'22 Women—'22 in and around New York City had an unofficial, informal Reunion at the 57th annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York at the Essex House on Saturday, February 27. For the annual luncheon, Ruth Irish was toastmistress, Nathalie Cohen Davis was chairman and was assisted in the '22 Reunion by Marie Weigt Fletcher. They are all from New York City as are Mildred Eaton Perry, Ida Bershansky Price, and Grace Horowitz Tucker. Those from out of town were Grace Morris Race from Valhalla, Elizabeth Scott from Northport, Jean Errington Wright from Staten Island, Clara Loveland from Long Beach, and Gertrude Fisher Kinsey from Poughkeepsie. The New Jersey representatives were Helen Kinney Winkelman and Evelyn Miller Copeland from Cranford and Mildred Aeschbach McCormick from Cedar Grove. We think that Jean holds the record; she has seven grandchildren. We have the sad news that C. Fisher Ritchie, the husband of Elinor Close Ritchie, died last April. Elinor has moved from University City, Mo. to 604 East Seventh Avenue, Escondido, Cal., where Douglas Ritchie is a freshman at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, his father's alma mater.

Fifty-eight men, a new attendance record, turned out for the pre-Reunion dinner at the Cornell Club of New York on March 24. Of particular interest was the attendance of Classmates from places far removed from the metropolitan area. These included Fil Fillius from Washington, D. C., Abe Lincoln from Marion, Va., Jack Gephart from Harrisburg, Pa., Bob Hays, Cleveland, and Jack Todd, Chicago. Chick Norris, as toastmaster, and Carl Schraubstader at the piano, were outstanding as usual. Dick Cliggott '53, the Alumni Field Secretary, spoke informatively and amusingly. Joe Rooney was the lucky winner of a half-case of liquor donated by Sunny Sundstrom of Schenley. Also raffled off was a Cornell chair donated by Charlie Benisch, which was won by Turney Meigs. Fred Brokaw and his committee are to be congratulated for an outstanding job.

Last year only forty-six turned out for the pre-Reunion dinner. Let's hope the increase this year will be reflected in the attendance at the Reunion in June.

'24 BS—Allyn B. Wicks is coordinator, Milk and Food Divisions, H. P. Hood & Sons, Boston, Mass. Allyn lives in Wellesley Hills, Mass., and has one daughter, Pamela, who is attending Teachers Normal School. Allyn plays golf at the Wellesley Golf Club, and is a member of the Lake Placid and Boston Skating Clubs.

'24 EE—Laurance (Larry) H. Daniel was born in Havana, Cuba, and lives there at Baraquito 9. He is president of Laurence H. Daniel, Inc., and acts as a consultant for various insurance companies. He is a director of the Havana Yacht Club, and secretary of the Cuban Section of the American Water Works Association. Larry is vice-president of the Cornell Club of Cuba.

After one year at Cornell, Charles (Charlie) E. Saltzman attended the US Military Academy at West Point, where he was graduated with honors in 1925. He then attended Oxford University in England as a Rhodes Scholar, where he received the Masters degree in Arts in 1928. Charlie has three children, Charles, Cynthia, and Richard.

After serving as lieutenant colonel, colonel, and brigadier general, and deputy chief of staff of the Fifth Army and the Fifteenth Army Group, he became vice-president of the New York Stock Exchange. From 1947-49, on leave from the Stock Exchange, he served as Assistant Secretary of State. Charlie is now a general partner with Henry Sears & Co.

So far as civic and community activities are concerned, he is a member of the board of managers of the Seamen's Church Institute of N.Y., a member of the board of trustees of Barnard College and the Millbank Memorial Fund, and a member of the board of directors of the Foreign Policy Association. He belongs to the Union Club, University Club, Century Association, and the Lambs Club in New York, and the Army and Navy Club in Washington.

'24 ME—During the past 24 years, Roscoe H. (Rox) Fuller has been progressively sales manager, service manager, district manager, and branch manager in New York for the Heald Machine Co., Worcester, Mass. He is also technical adviser, tools division, War Production Board. Rox is a member of the Cornell Club of New York and of the Cornell Society of Engineers, and the Lackawanna Cornell Club of New Jersey. Rox has one son, Allen, who was graduated from the US Military Academy at West Point in 1950. Rox says his only real claim to distinction is "having married Barbara Trevor, Cornell '24, who continues to live with me in amity and understanding after 28 years."

'24 EE—John E. Ensor is a trustee of the Bunker Hill Congregational Church, Waterbury, Conn., where he lives at 59 Aurora Street. He is a general engineer for Westinghouse Electric Corp. John is a member of the Appalachian Mountain Club, and lists a "green thumb" among his hobbies. John has one daughter, Joan, who received the BS degree from the University of Connecticut in 1950.

Laurence W. (Larry) Corbett is manager of Garden Seed Sales and is a director of Northrup King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

Larry is president of the Cornell Club of Twin Cities. His home address is 2445 Sheridan Avenue South, Minneapolis. Larry has three daughters and a son. His oldest daughter, Helen, was graduated from Cornell in 1948 where she specialized in Home Economics.

Paul H. Fritzsche is a director of General Industries, Elyria, Ohio, and of Beaver Pipe Tools, Warren, Ohio. Paul has three children: Paul, who is a graduate of John Carroll College, Cleveland; Mary, a graduate of Barat College, Chicago; and Peter, who is attending Yale University. Paul's hobby is unique: he collects cook books and boasts of 2,000 volumes. Let's hope Paul practices what he reads in his library.

'24 Women—Carroll Griminger writes that she is still at the old stand at Moreton Farm, which for those of you who are not gardeners, is Joseph Harris Co. in Rochester, famous for Harris Seeds. Carroll is a popular speaker at club meetings where she shows slides and talks on gardening, but confides to us that these new club members "certainly get queer ideas about entertainment!" She is planning to attend Reunion in June.

Sally Beard lives in Cobleskill, but manages to teach a class at Pratt Institute library school. This is the third year that she has taught a course on working with young people in public libraries. For three summers she has taught book selection at New York State Teacher's College library school in Albany. She is a member of the board of both the New York State and American Library Association and recently spent two months editing "Booklist," a book appraisal periodical published by the American Library Association in Chicago. Sally says she is "scheming for Reunion in June."

Marjorie Probasco Brownell writes that she and her husband Claude '24 have been in the South with TVA for nearly twenty years where he has been project accountant on practically all of the TVA dams. For the past seven years they have lived in Elizabethton, Tenn., a small town in the Great Smoky Mountains. Since '48, Marjorie has been doing part-time landscape architecture with Ward-Howell Nurseries Inc., Bristol, Va. The Brownells have five children and two grandchildren. Their oldest boy, Stuart, graduated from Penn State in '48 and has been with the Navy ever since. He is now a lieutenant (j.g.) on the mine locator, USS Harkness. He has a three-year-old daughter. Virginia left Kansas State, where she was taking architecture, to join the Waves in 1950. She has been an instructor at Memphis, Tenn. and at Pensacola, Fla., and is now married and living on the Naval Air Station at Memphis. Barbara graduated from Kansas State in Jan. '53 with the BS in physical education and was one of 14 accepted (out of 350 applicants) to be trained as a physical therapist in the Army. She is now a 2nd Lt. in WMSC stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, Cal. Helen Marie who took a secretarial course and married an airman in '51 is living in Albany, Ga., and is the mother of a five-months-old baby. Robert, the youngest, will graduate from high school in May and is a seaman recruit in the Naval Reserve. He passed his examinations for NROTC and hopes to become an electronics officer.

CAMP OTTER

For boys 7 to 17

Every boy should have the experience of at least one summer at a good camp. Besides learning many new skills boys acquire more self reliance, self control, courtesy, poise, and other desirable qualities. They also have one continuous round of real fun.

Camp Otter in its 44th season has distinctive features:

1. Unusual location on its own small lake in Muskoka region of Ontario with its myriad of lakes for canoe trips.
2. 44 years experience in which Guide Bill Crewson has shared practically all of it, and Director Ortner 30 years.
3. A high type of boy from all parts of United States and many sons of Cornellians.
4. Carefully selected staff with one counselor to each five campers and camp physician.
5. Plenty of well-prepared food and a thrilling and varied program, including horseback riding.

Martha Wool Strahan and her husband, Henry '23, have been living in Poughkeepsie these many years and have recently built a home there on Cochran Hill. They have two daughters: Orril, who has been married for several years and has a most engaging son named Mike, and Eleanor, who is attending Antioch College.

Marge Pigott Carran has been terribly busy trying to care for an ill father, a mother who has had a nervous breakdown, her own home, her daughter in Cleveland, and probably at least a thousand other things. Marge is also a grandmother and other grandmothers get ready now with your snapshots and stories, for "Butch" is just about the most remarkable child ever. Looks as though Reunion will be full of the wonders of this new crop of future Cornellians.

Fanny French Perrine admits that after running their 600 acres of orchard, their lives nowadays are filled less and less with their own extra-curricular activities and more and more with the doings of their daughters and their grandchildren. David '22 has taken up photography and his favorite subjects are his two grandsons who are five and two-years-old. Anne, the mother of these boys, is a designer and artist. Her husband, Henry Bauer, is an architect. Mary, the younger daughter, graduated from Cornell in '51 and has done research at Harvard. She recently married Bob Johnson, a graduate of Wisconsin who got the Masters at Yale in '51 and is now working for the PhD at Caltech, where Mary is doing research in botany.—Florence Daly

'25 AB—Henry E. Abt, president of Brand Names Foundation, Inc., New York City, is national chairman of the Fathers Committee for the $1,300,000 student union building fund of Wells College, Aurora. His daughter, Barbara Abt (Mrs. William F. Hickling), graduated from Wells in 1949. Abt lives at 5 Vermont Avenue, White Plains.

'25 AB—Terry S. Hinkle is vice-president of Albany Associates, Inc., an insurance firm. He lives on Tudor Road, Albany.

'25 AB, '27 LLB—Martin Rosenblum was appointed by Governor Dewey last month to be a trustee of Orange County Community College at Middletown, where he lives at 141 Highland Avenue.

'29 BS—Charles A. Krieger (above) has been appointed assistant to the vice-president for industrial and public relations of Sharp & Dohme, division of Merck & Co., Inc., Philadelphia, Pa. He joined the company in 1934 and has been director of purchases there since 1952. He lives at 404 Westwood Lane, Wayne, Pa.

'29 CE—Appointment of Arch P. Smith, Jr. as manager of the Louisville, Ky. plant of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. was announced, February 12. Smith, who joined Du Pont in 1929, was formerly assistant manager of the plant. Address: 507 Tiffany Lake, Rollings Fields, Louisville, Ky.

'29 AB—Dr. Isidore Stein is a specialist in internal medicine and cardiology. He has three children and lives at 700 Avenue C, Brooklyn 18.

'31 BS—Richard L. Pollock, personnel director and editor for the Adding Machine Division, National Cash Register Co., Ithaca, was appointed to the board of directors of the American Association of Industrial Editors, March 12. He is also a director of the Upstate New York Council of Industrial Editors. Address: 517 North Tioga Street, Ithaca.

'33 CE—Edward E. Lipinski has organized Lee Foundation Co., foundation and concrete construction firm, Baltimore, Md., where he lives at 2815 Onyx Road.

'34 AB—Thomas J. Little III, 118 Meadow Lane, Grosse Point, Mich., joined the Detroit office of Time magazine as a salesman, March 8. He had been with Colliers since 1950.

'35, '36 CE—John L. Hammond (above) is manager of the new marine division of Sperry Gyroscope Co. to be located at Roosevelt Field. He has been with Sperry since 1940 as director of field service engineering and director of commercial sales. Address: 7 Murray Avenue, Port Washington.

'36 AB, '39 LLB—Thomas F. Newman, 435 Hawthorne Avenue, Yonkers 5, was named deputy superintendent of insurance in the State of New York Insurance Department last month by Governor Dewey. Since 1947, Newman has been secretary to the presiding justice of the Appellate Division, Second Department, New York State Supreme Court.

'36 AB—Mrs. Henry C. Evans (Jean-Marie Palmer), 707 Notre Dame Avenue, Lutherville, Md., has two daughters, ages eight and five. Her husband is a mechanical engineer for the State of Maryland.

Bob Facer reports that his company, Paragon Builders, has extended his territory beyond the seven counties he previously covered, to include Rochester as well. He writes, "I am quite disappointed that more of our Classmates are not cooperating with news items . . . Where are the Al Millers, Gillespie, Loomis, Falkey, Batten, Berg, Brennan, Carlson, Carter, Cockran, Coggs-shall, Kelly, Dalrymple, Dounce, and a few hundred others I would like to mention if space permitted?" That's a good question. Where are you?

Harvey R. Wellman sent us a nice letter. He is living at 8903 Kensington Parkway, North Chevy Chase, Md., with his wife, Helen, and their three children, two girls and a boy. Harvey distinguished himself at Cornell by being selected Rhodes Scholar from New York State in 1937. He writes, "After two years at Oxford where I obtained a law degree, I came back to Cornell for a law degree in 1939 and 1940 and then went to New York City to work for a law firm. Being disqualified for military service for medical reasons, I took a job in the Economic Warfare Department in Brazil, where I remained from November, 1942 to September, 1945, working on the blacklist and expropriation of enemy firms. In October of 1945, I was married to Helen Louise Tewell, daughter of a foreign service officer. I took the examination for the career foreign service and was sworn in by the President in December, 1945. We have served respectively in Havana, Mexico City, and the Department of State since 1950. I am currently officer-in-charge, Caribbean Affairs (Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic). We are expecting an assignment soon to another foreign port." Harv was recently promoted to class 3, well on his way up in the seven classes of the foreign service.

R. Selden Brewer
Alumni Office, Day Hall
Ithaca, N.Y.

Your regular correspondent, Selly Brewer, is basking in Mexico City as this is written, while we in Ithaca are digging out of a heavy spring snowstorm. The position of graduate manager of the Glee Club probably takes some work, but it certainly pays off in spring trips, and Selly is cashing in right now.

Word has reached Ithaca that Fred Sinon has finally succumbed to cupid and married Margaret Simonds of Fitchburg, Mass., February 12. He is with J. Wiss & Sons Co., Newark, N.J. Fred, always an avid aviator, is the holder of the Silver Star as the result of his operations with General Kreuger's Sixth Army at Leyte in the Philippines. During the fall of 1944, he commanded a picked group of specialists who flew Cub planes over Japanese troops and acted as liaison airmen for the Sixth Army. Close calls were common and one day Fred returned with 30 holes in his ship and had his earphones shot off his head. Another time his controls were shot away. Entering the Philippine campaign as a captain, Fred was advanced to a major on the battlefield.

Duane Clark and Beverly Benz Clark '42 have finished building their home at 9015 Walden Road, Silver Spring, Md., and have moved in. Another Classmate with a distinguished war record, Duane was a major with the 20th Corps that headed the Third Army's thrust across France to the Moselle River, smashed the anchored flank of the Siegfried Line, and ended fighting on meeting the Red Army in Enns, Austria.

All dog owners should certainly know of Professor James H. Baker, who is Director of the Cornell Research Laboratory for Diseases of Dogs. The Laboratory is on Snyder Hill and has two units: a laboratory with isolation units for controlled work in diseases, and a kennel where a disease-free Beagle dog colony is being raised. One of the findings of the Laboratory is the development of the first dual-purpose vaccine for animals, which, used properly, will protect dogs against both distemper and infectious hepatitis. As an evidence of the national interest in the Laboratory, all the work done there is supported by annual contributions from dog owners, dog clubs, veterinarians, and industry with interests in this field. Next time you are in Ithaca, look up Jim Baker and his Laboratory. You will find him one of the most interesting and congenial hosts on the Campus, and you will realize some of the reasons why he was elected "Veterinarian of the Year" in 1952.

'49 MD—Dr. Frederick H. Wentworth, 999½ North High Street, Columbus, Ohio, received the highest grade in the examinations to practice medicine conducted last December by the Ohio State Medical Board.

'50 Men—Received a nice letter from Bob Pfeifer the other day via the ALUMNI News office. This roundabout route was necessitated, he says, by not knowing my address among other things which included present occupation, family status, etc. So after bringing you up to date on Bob. I will also stick a few lines in regarding your correspondent, if only to give you an address to send your latest news items to. Bob has recently resigned as financial analyst with Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) to join the marketing management training program of General Electric Co. Since Bob, his wife, Nancy, and ten-month-old daughter, Carol, will be traveling extensively for awhile, their address will be: c/o Mr. W. H. Hess, Marketing Services Division, General Electric Co., 570 Lexington Ave., New York City. Now to Rodg Gigson, yours truly, ★ who is presently a 1st Lt. in the USAF. I am living at 375 Loring Rd. Levittown, with my wife Betty Lou, and ten-month-old son, Randy. After attending combat intelligence school at Lowry AFB, Denver, Colo., I was sent to Mitchel AFB and have been here ever since as, you guessed it, an adjutant and supply officer. Prior to service I spent two years as a special agent with Fire Association of Philadelphia. My tour of duty will be up this June, when once again I return to civilian pursuits. In my official capacity as secretary-chairman of the Class, I would like to remind you all to get behind the Alumni Fund Drive and give as much as you can to help keep Cornell strong and growing. A letter from Lt. Scott Hamilton, Jr. states that he too will soon be a gradu-★ ate from the photo-radar intelligence school at Lowry AFB in Denver. Scott is on the base soccer team with Lt. Carl Larrabee '51 and also belongs to the Colorado Mountain Club, where he has run across three former '50 Cornell Outing Club members: David C. Hart, Manfred M. Hein and Marilyn E. Hegerman. In addition to all this activity, Scott is a graduate student at University of Colorado. "Personal News" slips relate that John E. Owens of 106 Matthes Avenue, Richardson Park, Wilmington, Del., is an engineer with the textile dept. of Dupont Co.; that Elmer J. Guran of 964 Greenwood Avenue, Akron 20, Ohio, passed his State of Ohio architectural registration exams last fall and has opened an architectural office at the above address; and that William S. Asher and Mrs. Asher (Margaret Callahan) '51 of 44 Huntington Pk., Rochester 21, became the proud parents of Mary Louise last September 6th. A letter from the distaff side of the Ben Berner family (Phoebe Eisenbrown '51) tells us of the birth of Marcia Lynn last December 21st, who incidentally is the granddaughter of Robert W. Eisenbrown '16. Ben and Phoebe live at 3020 Market Street, Camp Hill, Pa. Ben is a salesman for Suttiff Chevrolet Co., in Harrisburg. Robert J. Entenman, back from service as a 1st Lt. in the Ordnance Corps, joined Hooker Electrochemical Co. of Niagara Falls as a chemical engineer last year and is now in their hetron plastic sales group. Bob is a member of the American Chemical Society and the University Club of Niagara Falls. Robert N. Whitman, 752 Garson Avenue, Rochester 9, is a design engineer with Eastman Kodak. Richard Clement has left Ainsworth Mfg. Co. to become an estimator at Wagner Brothers, a Detroit firm manufacturing electro-plating equipment. William E. Gubb and Mrs. Gubb (Meredith Nims) '48 sent along a note announcing the birth of their second daughter, Barbara Edith, on Dec. 27, 1953. Grandfather of the newest arrival is Arthur V. Nims '23. Rounding out this issue's news is a misplaced news release from American Broadcasting Co. Film Syndication announcing the appointment of John Callis last November 16th to their New York staff. John, who lives at 34 West Saddle River Road, Waldick, N.J., was previously employed as an account executive with Headley-Reed Co., and as an assistant employment manager at CBS.

—Rodger W. Gibson

'50 Women—James W. Loveland '51 and Mrs. Loveland (Carol Smith) have just moved to a new home at 33 Hoover Road, Rochester 17. Their daughter, Linda Susan, was born on October 12. Her grandparents are Chester B. Smith, LLB '21, and the late Mrs. Smith, and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Benjamin B. Loveland DVM '18. Audrey F. Raymond was married, November 26, to Ensign Parker K. Smith with Lorraine Vogel as maid of honor. Audrey is at home at 85 Finchley Road, Town of Hampstead, Montreal 29, Quebec, Canada, while Parker is at sea but expects to return to California soon. Janet E. Lippencott was married on January 30th of this year at Washington Cathedral in Washington, D.C. Her husband is Amodeo Lugo of Ponce, Puerto Rico, who is studying law at American University in Washington. Janet is employed by the Pan American Union and is the daughter of Charles D. Lippencott '24. Mrs. Ralph Williams '50 (Mary Adams) announced the birth of her second child, Frederick Christopher, on December 20th. They are living in New York City until June, when Cooley receives his medical degree. Their address is 1033 3d Ave. Apt. 1B, New York City 21. The stork also paid a visit to Mrs. Alvan R. Alley (Julia Palmer) on January 23d. The baby was named Stephan Clark Alley and joins the family at 227 Harding Road, Scotch Plains, N.J. His grandmother is Mrs. James Palmer (Martha Kinne) '24. A letter recently arrived from Minal Mehta Saran of Bombay, India. She writes that after leaving Cornell she studied journalism at Columbia University and then returned to India by way of Europe, traveling widely in England, Sweden, Holland, France, Switzerland, and Italy. In India, she joined the Bombay station of All India Radio as a programme assistant in charge of English programs and school broadcasts. After working there almost three years, she was married and now has a son and daughter. Her husband was in the United States between 1943 and 1948. He graduated from MIT as a mechanical engineer, worked for two years in various manufacturing firms, and then received the Masters degree from Iowa University. Their address is 46C Peddar Road, Bombay 26, India.

—Sue Woodward Spence

'51 AB—Paul Berman returned from Korea last November. He writes, "I received the ALUMNI NEWS every month while I was there and every issue was really appreciated. I'm getting used to civilian life once again and, as you know, the good things in life are easy to get used to." His address is 536 Warren Street, Hudson.

'51 MA; '52 AB—Mrs. Lelia A. Bradby teaches high school French and English in Aiken, S.C., where she lives at 1030 Barnwell Avenue. "Bob Miller, As He Takes Time Out for a Smoke on Odubiebnitaka Strasse" is our title for this picture of Bob, who is studying medicine at the University of Zurich's faculty of medicine in Switzerland. Bob requests any and all Cornellians over in his part of Europe to stop and see him. He promises to show them the sights. His address is 29 Viktoria Strasse. This news and picture came to me through Sam Cassel (he feels our column has been "sorrowfully lacking in photos" and I think he's got something). Sam's address is 171 W. 79th St., New York City 24.

Coming along with a good chunk of ★ news here is Jack Bradshaw, who writes me from Columbus, Ind. Jim Galusha, John Twiname, and Vinnie Giarusso, says Jack, are unhappily at Camp Polk, La., all 2nd louies. Jack Jaekel is in Signal Corps school at Fort Monmouth, N.J. Jerry John and Reggie Marchant are with Rebonie Electric Co. in Cleveland, Ohio. Dick Kirwan married Patsy Keld, Wells College '53, in Athens, Ohio, February 20. Jack himself has been acting as public information officer at Atterbury Air Force Base.

Even more news has reached me by ★ letter from Bill Fitzgerald. John K. Chadwick, he writes, is in Naval flight training: BTU-1-S, NAAS Whiting Field, Milton, Fla. (There must be a good number of '53 men who have been or are now at Milton from the various items I've received this year.) Sgt. George A. Hughes, ER 12354982, 8908 TSU-COC, TAG School, Class #61, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., is studying personnel management at the Army's expense. Lt. James A. Hale, Bill continues, is studying in Airborne School, Fort Benning, Ga. His address: 040210144, Co D ABN BN, 1st School Reg't. Also at Fort Benning is Lt. Cornelius C. Jones, MSC 04020125, CTC-BOQ 30 Inf. Reg't. John Pakan is also with the airborne. His address is US 51269772, 457th Airborne FA Bn., Hq. Btry, Fort Campbell, Ky. The address of assistant county agent in Lewis County, Joe Narrow is a little easier to type out than those above: Lowville, N.Y. Bill himself is doing extension service as assistant county agent in "the land of sunshine and pineapples": Box 321, Kamuela, Hawaii. (Jim Cirona, Bill would like your address.)

C. Peyton Rufe (Chalfont, Pa.) along ★ with Michael A. Davis and I. Marvin Cimmions is taking a basic officers' course at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Recently returned from four months ★ of operations (Rome, Paris, Athens, etc.) with the sixth fleet in the Mediterranean, Theodore T. Bauckman reports that he is now stationed in Newport, R.I., as electronics officer of the USS Mullany. Ted's address: 336 Dedham St., Newton Centre 59, Mass.

'53 Women: Mrs. D. Livingston
260 East Broad St.
Westfield, N.J.

There have been some misprints in previous issues. Jane Heitkamp is engaged to Lt. Chandler Cudlipp, Jr. '53; and Jean ★ Jensen is engaged to William D. Burt of the USAF. Have there been any others?

Catherine Austin was married to Lawrence N. Smith '53 on January 17. Her address is now PO Box 85, Leicester.

Enid Spangenberg was married in ★ the US Navy chapel in Balboa, Canal Zone, on March 17, to Ens. Murray "Boots" Miles '53. Boots' father, Rear Admiral Miles, is the Commandant of the Canal Zone. The tables are turned and they needed his father's consent to marry! They expect to be in Panama and Mexico for one month; then possibly back to the US. A shower was held for her in New York City a few days before she sailed for Panama. Present were Diane Miller, Rosalie McDermott '52, "Petie" Dwyer '52, Diane Elliot, Mrs. Dayton Livingston (Ann Smyers), Jean Jensen, and Helen Wallace.

Carol Ballagh married John R. Boeh- ★ ringer '53 on Sept. 12, 1953. They are stationed at Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N.J., (Jack is a 2nd Lt. in the Army) along with Richard Smith and his wife (Catherine Hodge) and Mark H. Stratton, all of whom are Cornellians.

Mrs. Arnold Becker (Roberta Pesner) and her husband have bought a new home: 8 Hillman Pl., Spring Valley. She has a new job as dietitian at Englewood Hospital in N.J. Her husband is practicing law in Spring Valley.

Diane Miller is training to be assistant buyer with Mercantile Stores Co. in New York City.

Mrs. Paul Ledig (Carol Comstock) and her husband are back from Peru and are living in Stanton, Conn. They have a daughter, 1½ years old.

It takes tons and tons of materials to fill the prescriptions that give strength and stamina to the steel you use

THE STEEL that's everywhere—in your automobile, in trains, machines, and buildings—is stronger and more enduring because it has been treated with special “vitamins and tonics.”

STEEL GETS ITS VITAMINS from the industry's “drugstores”—the plants where alloying metals are made. Here, prescriptions usually call for ingredients by the ton. Their huge “mixing bowls” are white-hot electric arc furnaces, in which temperatures reach over 3,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

These alloying metals are refined and concentrated forms of both rare and common metals. Among them are chromium, boron, silicon, tungsten, columbium, and vanadium. Individually, or together, they give steel durability, toughness, hardness, rust and corrosion resistance, and other special qualities. Chromium, for example, is the secret of making steel stainless.

VARYING COMBINATIONS of these and other alloys are added to every ton of molten steel produced today. Without them we wouldn't have the hundreds of different kinds of steel that do so much for all of us in so many ways.

MORE THAN 50 ALLOYS—The people of Union Carbide pioneered in the development and production of alloying metals. They produce more than 50 different alloys for steel and other metals that go into products that serve you.

STUDENTS AND STUDENT ADVISERS: Learn more about career opportunities with Union Carbide in ALLOYS, CARBONS, CHEMICALS, GASES, and PLASTICS. Write for booklet K-2.
