Dedication Plans Made

President Hoover to Assist in Ceremony at War Memorial—Program to Be Broadcast

The dedication ceremonies at the War Memorial May 23 are to be broadcast over the basic red network of the National Broadcasting Company at noon, eastern standard time.

The voice of President Hoover, speaking either in the White House or at the presidential camp on the Rapidan River, Virginia, will be carried to Ithaca by telephone. His address will be the feature of the dedication.

Plans for the ceremonies, to be held on Spring Day, the fourteenth anniversary of the day a group of Cornellians first carried the American flag into action in France, are rapidly being completed by the dedication committee headed by Robert E. Treman '09.

Invitations have been extended to relatives of the war dead whose memories are honored in the new unit of the men's dormitory system. Announcements have also been sent to 6,251 contributors to the War Memorial fund.

Bishop George Ashton Oldham '02 of Albany will give the invocation. President Farrand will make the address of acceptance after the official presentation of the new structure. Judge Frank H. Hiscock '75, chairman of the Board of Trustees, will preside.

A guard of honor of the R.O.T.C., the band, and the Glee Club will take part in the ceremonies. Music of the chimes and a presidential salute of twenty-one guns are also scheduled. A commemorative volume, describing the Memorial, prepared by Woodford Patterson '95, secretary of the University, will be available.

The dedication will take place on the terrace of the Memorial. The structure is a group of four buildings, comprising a cloister, the Army and Navy towers, and McFaddin and Lyon Halls. Names of Cornellians who gave their lives in the war are inscribed on sixteen tablets set in the walls of the cloister. Building decorations consist of military insignia of all divisions of the American Expeditionary Force, carved on shields. Above each window arch of the cloister is a tablet bearing the name of one of the sixteen major offensive in which Cornell men participated.

Forty of the rooms in the two towers and in part of Lyon Hall have been dedicated by families of men who gave their lives or by class or fraternity groups to which they belonged.

Records show that 8,851 Cornell men and women were in military service. Of these 319 were decorated either by the United States or one of the allied nations, and 212 were cited for meritorious service.

SOCIETY OF ENGINEERS HOLDS ANNUAL DINNER

The Cornell Society of Engineers held its annual dinner at the Hotel Pennsylvania on April 30. The speakers included President Farrand, Dean Dexter S. Kimball, Floyd L. Carlisle '03, and James Lynah '05. John W. Ripley '93, president of the society, was toastmaster.

President Farrand reviewed the early beginnings of the College of Engineering, and the rise of other schools in competition with it. He referred to the development of the medical centre in New York and of other material developments of the University. He emphasized the point that it was now only right that the College of Engineering should have its turn.

Among the guests who sat at the speakers' table were Henry H. Westinghouse '75, Martin J. Insull '93, Ellis L. Phillips '95, Maxwell M. Upson '99. The attendance of three hundred made it one of the largest dinners the society has ever held.

BOOTHROYD JOINS EXPEDITION

Professor Samuel L. Boothroyd has been named one of a group of astronomers who will make an extended survey of meteors at Flagstaff, Ariz., in September. Headquarters will be at the Lowell Observatory, where the planet Pluto was discovered last year.

The expedition will be the first of its kind ever held in this country. Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard is the leader.

FARM SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED

The William H. Danforth scholarship, providing a cash stipend and eight weeks of agricultural study in St. Louis, Mo., and Shelby, Mich., has been awarded Bradley O. Gormel '32, Nunda. He is the fourth Cornell student to receive the award.

A New Major Study

Faculty Authorizes Expansion of Music Department—New Courses Will Be Added to Curriculum

Music as a major study will be introduced into the curriculum at the beginning of the academic year 1931-32. The Faculty recently authorized expansion of the Department of Music and authorized the creation of the major. The subject has been added to the list of upperclass study groups in the College of Arts and Science.

Certain work in applied music will be approved as a part of the curriculum for students majoring in this field. Maximum credit will be eight hours. Instruction is already provided in organ and piano, the former under Professor Harold D. Smith and the latter under Professor Andrew C. Haigh. The new program includes instruction in violin and voice.

Several new theoretical courses will also be offered, including work in original composition and in advanced counterpoint. Students in the University Orchestra and the Sage Chapel Choir will receive credit on a laboratory basis for rehearsals and performances. In connection with this work, courses in instrumentation and vocal theory and technique will be offered.

Development of the Department of Music has been rapid in the past few years. Professor Paul J. Weaver was appointed head of the department in 1929. Last year, Professor Otto Kinkeldey returned to take the newly-established chair of musicology.

In commenting on the place of music in cultural training, Professor Weaver said:

"In developing its facilities for students who wish to emphasize music in their training, the department is not unmindful of its usefulness to the student body in general. Music has a recognized place in all cultural training, a place of which American students have become increasingly conscious during the last decade; and one of the primary responsibilities of the music department at Cornell is the continued provision of courses adapted to the needs of the student who wishes to develop an intelligent interest in and an appreciation of music as a subject of general culture."

Facts, Fancies and Foibles

Earnings, Investments, Hobbies, Tastes in Smokes, and Cars, of 782 Cornellians Tabulated

The taste of the average Cornell graduate in smokes, hobbies, automobiles, boats, and radios, and other necessities and luxuries of life, his earnings and investments, have been determined and tabulated as a result of a recent questionnaire. Similar to the "popular elections" of undergraduate classes, but, unlike them, conducted with a serious purpose in view, this tabulation was undertaken by the Graduate Group, an association formed last year by sixteen of the leading alumni magazines of the country for the purpose of selling advertising.

In an endeavor to determine the buying power and habits of the average alumni magazine subscriber, the questionnaires were prepared and distributed, and although the total results of the entire effort are not ready, those from subscribers to The Cornell Alumni News have been received. These were sent to approximately 1200 Alumni News subscribers, of whom fifty-six percent replied. In order to make the list representative and not limited to any age or locality groupings, the Alumni News used the first 1400 names in the alphabetical subscription list and life subscribers, approximately one-fifth of the entire number, a fair and typical presentation. The answers, which were returned without signatures or identifications of any kind, were sent by the Alumni News to the office of the Graduate Group unopened, and there the statistics were compiled.

Of the respondents, 52 percent were engaged in business, with manufacturing leading, followed by banking and financing; 47 percent were in the professions, with engineering far ahead, teaching being a poor second, and the law third. The total average salary for all age groups proved to be $8,335.01, the average insurance carried, $34,231.23, and the average income from investments, $6,282.06. In the matter of income from all sources, out of 733 who replied to this question, 136 reported incomes under $3,000, 94 incomes of $25,000 and over, with the others falling in between, the largest single group, 174, reporting incomes from $5,000 to $10,000.

705 HAVE 1234 CARS

Automobile owners, to the number of 705, possessed among them 1234 cars, or 1.75 cars per person. There were 208 Fords, 171 Buicks, 102 Packards, 71 Chevrolets, with Nash and Cadillac tied for fifth place at 49 each. Interestingly enough, of the three Rolls Royces reported, two were owned by the youngest age group (35 years or under), the other by the second age group (36 to 55 years) and none by the older men. Goodyear Tires were the choice of the greatest number, with Firestone second.

R. C. A. was the favorite radio owned, Atwater Kent running next, 673 men possessing 791 instruments. Two airplanes only were owned, both by men in the youngest group. There were 127 horses, 75 owned by the middle group. There were 133 movie cameras, Ciné Kodak leading Bell and Howell.

Of 1577 stock and bond investments made by 576 men, common stocks led with 515, followed by preferred stocks with 262, public utility bonds with 191, and real estate bonds with 133.

Cunard led in the list of steamship lines used, with White Star a close second. Cook topped American Express in the matter of travel companies. New York Central and Pennsylvania, in that order, led the field of railroads used. Under the head of "travel intentions," the United States National Parks barely nosed out Continental Europe, with Canada a very close third.

The choice of hobbies varied with the age groups, the youngest group selecting, in this order, card playing, swimming, tennis, and golf; the middle group selecting card playing, golf, swimming, and tennis; and the oldest group chose golf, fishing, card playing, and swimming.

WHAT THEY SMOKE

Lucky Strike cigarettes led in all three of the age groups except the third, or oldest, where they were tied with Camels. In the final tabulation, the order was Lucky Strike, Camel, Old Gold, Chesterfield. Two hundred and forty-six pipe smokers listed 292 pipes, Dunhill pipes far in the lead with 139 over BBB in second place with 22. Edgeworth tobacco was the favorite, over Blue Boar and Prince Albert. Cigar Smokers showed an extremely wide diversity of taste, the largest vote, out of 280 polled, being given to Robert Burns with 38, Blackstone and Admiration following.

Five hundred and eleven owned their own homes to the average value of $29,288.06. Three hundred and eighty-three families reported 786 children, the boys outnumbering the girls 411 to 375. One hundred and fourteen of them went to private schools. Pianos were owned to the number of 463 with Steinway in the lead. The respondents purchased a total of 15,831 books a year.

AUGUSTE WINS WOODFORD

Gerardo Auguste '32, Cabimas, Venezuela, won the sixty-first annual Woodford Prize speaking content May 5 in Willard Straight Hall. His subject was "Dollar diplomacy and Latin America."

Class Letters Go Out

Over 40,000 Alumni Reached by Cornellian Council Representatives—Library and University Press Special Needs

The Cornellian Council is in the midst of its greatest activity of the year. Class representatives during the past week have addressed letters to their classmates urging participation in the Alumni Fund. Over 40,000 letters have been mailed to two groups of alumni.

The first group consists of those who are not members of the Cornellian Council. These have been asked to affiliate themselves with the organization which President Farrand has described as "indispensable to the success of Cornell." The second group consists of the 10,134 alumni who last year contributed to the Alumni Fund and thus made Cornell the leading university in the number of alumni fund contributors. This group has been asked to increase its gifts for the current year if possible, because of the emergency conditions which confront the University.

The Council has undertaken two new projects. Because of the pressing need for books in the Library, the Council has pledged $5,000 for five years to be expended for book funds. The University Press will become a reality as a result of another commitment of the Council. The Executive Committee has approved an appropriation of $5,000 a year for five years in order to definitely launch the University Press, while waiting gifts for its permanent endowment. It is hoped that many annual contributors to the Alumni Fund will increase their gifts this year in order to make possible the success of these two projects.

A brochure dedicated to President Farrand's ten years at Cornell has been mailed to all Alumni. It outlines Dr. Farrand's significant contribution to the welfare of Cornell during his administration and contains a tribute written by Dean Dexter S. Kimball.

FOUR JUNIORS and two sophomores were elected to the Board of Managers of Willard Straight Hall in elections held last week. Harry S. Jackson, Jr., Asbury Park, N. J., Milton C. Smith, El Paso, Texas, Bernhard L. Rodkinson, Cedarhurst, and Jose C. Martinez-Zorrilla, Ithaca, were named from the junior class, and Donald F. Hackstaff, Huntington, and William G. Mitchell, Washington, D. C., from the junior class. Charlotte A. Dowrie '34, Brooklyn, was elected to represent women students on the board. Three members of the board continue in office another year. They are Phyllis A. Dooley '32, Summit, N. J., John L. Niles '32, New York, and Miles R. Stevens '32, Lakewood, Ohio.

Ashbery Completes Year

*Field Secretary Makes Sixth and Last Trip
Covering in All Twenty-Four Clubs
—Successful Season*

Ray S. Ashbery '25, alumni field secretary of the University, returned to Ithaca last week to complete his sixth and last major trip of the year. 64 meetings have been held this year in 61 cities and Ashbery has visited most of the Cornell clubs in the north, south, and southwest. He went as far west as Omaha. In addition to talking to the Cornell clubs the field secretary has visited many places which expressed an interest in organization, and as a result seven new clubs have been organized.

On this last trip Ashbery visited twenty-four clubs. He started in Cincinnati, swung southwest to Texas, then over to New Orleans and Florida. On the return to Ithaca he made many stops along the Atlantic seaboard. The first half of this trip, ending with the meeting at Houston, has already been reported in these columns.

A meeting of the Cornell Club of New Orleans was held on April 6 at the home of Edward E. Soule '88. Twenty-three Cornellians gathered at this informal smoker to discuss Cornell problems with the field secretary and to hear the latest news from the campus. Brandt V. B. Dixon, one of the two surviving members of the class of '70, was the guest of honor and gave an interesting resume of his impressions of his visit to Ithaca for his sixtieth reunion last June. Before the smoker Mr. Soule gave a dinner party for Ashbery.

The following morning the field secretary sailed for Cuba, arriving in Havana on April 10. Ashbery was the guest of Laurence H. Daniel '24 and informal luncheons were held on Saturday and Sunday at the Havana Yacht Club.

The following week was spent in Florida where five meetings were held. On Monday evening, April 13, the field secretary was the guest of the Cornell Club of South Florida at their annual meeting held at the Columbus Hotel. Frank E. Gannett '98, Alumni Trustee and winter resident of Miami Beach, and Ervin B. Macy '79, one of the oldest living alumni, were the guests of honor. William T. Yale '97, president of the club, conducted a short business session at which officers were elected for the year: Charles H. Anderson '83, president; H. Willard Hubbell '18, vice president; Charles W. Ten Eyck '20, secretary-treasurer.

The second meeting of the Florida series was held the following night, April 14, at West Palm Beach, when Cornellians from that city gathered at the Tusawilla Club. The field secretary talked of outstanding changes on the campus, of plans under way for new buildings and of construction work under way. Adelbert L. Eastman '80 had the distinction of being the oldest alumnus at this meeting.

The Florida visits of the field secretary were concluded with the meetings at Tampa, Orlando, and Jacksonville, on the evenings of April 16, 17, and 18. The meeting at Tampa was held at the Forest Hills Country Club. George B. Howell '17, president of the club, presided. In Orlando Donald T. Ries '25 and Duncan T. McEwan '25 served as a committee on arrangements and a dinner was held at the University Club. Although no definite club organization was undertaken it was unanimously voted that the same committee should continue for the organization of future get-togethers. In Jacksonville Ellsworth L. Filby '17 was in charge of the meeting and a dinner was held at the Windsor Hotel.

On Monday, April 20, the alumni residing in Savannah assembled at a smoker at the Ogelthrope Club. Gordon Saussy '96, mayor of Savannah and president of the Cornell club, presided. As the numbers were small the field secretary was asked to lead an informal question and answer period.

In Charleston on April 21, Ashbery was the guest at a dinner party given by Alfred Huger '03. Following dinner there was a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce where the party was augmented by other Cornellians for a discussion of Cornell present and past.

The meeting in Raleigh was held on Wednesday evening, April 22, at Meredith College, of which Charles E. Brewer '00 is president. Twenty Cornellians were present and Ashbery was introduced by Rowland W. Leiby '15, president of the Cornell Club.

In Washington a smoker was held on April 23. Albert E. Conradis '23, president of the men's club, introduced the field secretary to the Washington alumni who had gathered at the University Club. The final meeting of the fifth week was held in Wilmington, with a luncheon at the du Pont Biltmore Hotel. Henry M. Taylor '15, president of the club, presided.

On Monday, April 27, Ashbery was the guest of the Cornell Club of Baltimore at a smoker at the Hotel Altamont. H. Mayhew White '23, president of the club, presided. On the following evening the Cornell Club of Philadelphia gave a buffet supper for Ashbery.

The final meeting of the trip was held in Bethlehem, at the Bethlehem Club, on April 29. Here Ashbery joined Professor Hermann Diederichs '97, Director of the Sibley School of Mechanical Engineering, who was the guest of honor at this meeting called by the alumni of Lehigh Valley. Professor Diederichs talked in general of Cornell topics and gave an illuminating description of the College of Engineering with a detailed report concerning the new building project.

At the Bethlehem meeting it was unanimously voted that a Cornell club should be organized. The following officers were elected to head up the newly formed Cornell Club of Lehigh Valley: Norman G. Reinicker '11, president; Edward E. Goodwillie '10, vice president; Milton D. Farr '25, secretary; and Oliver W. Holton '18, treasurer.

With the exception of a few day trips from Ithaca the program of traveling for the field secretary has been completed for the year. He will remain in Ithaca for the summer attached to the office of Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative.

ATHLETICS

QUAKERS WIN TRACK MEET

Six meet records, including John Paul Jones' twenty-year-old mark for the mile, were broken as Pennsylvania's track team defeated Cornell May 9 at Franklin Field, 92 to 43.

McKniff of Pennsylvania, in a thrilling duel with Coan of Pennsylvania, and Martin of Cornell, ran the mile in 4:17 6-10. Jones' mark, set in 1911, was 4:18 1-5. McKniff finished ten yards ahead of Coan, with Martin about five yards back in third place.

Captain Berlinger of Pennsylvania set two of the six records, clearing 13 feet 3 7-8 inches in the pole vault and tossing the javelin 193 feet 5 3-4 inches.

Clark of Cornell broke an eleven-year-old record by traveling over the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat, clipping 1-5 of a second from the record set by Smith of Cornell in 1920. Clark made the time in a trial heat. He was Cornell's only double winner, capturing also the 220-yard low hurdles.

Newkirk and Steel of Pennsylvania were the other record breakers. Newkirk cleared 6 feet 2 1-4 inches to win the high jump, and Steel ran the 440-yard run in 48 9-10 seconds.

Cornell won only four first places in the fifteen events. Ranney captured the two-mile run in 9:32 5-10 and Meinig the 220-yard dash.

Berlinger, with three first and a third place, scored sixteen points for Pennsylvania.

At Ithaca, the Cornell freshman track team defeated the Pennsylvania yearlings 81 to 54. The Red and White took first place in every track event, but won only one first in the field events and tied for another.

CREWS ROW DEAD HEAT

The 150-pound crew, Cornell's first in rowing history, raced to a dead heat with the University of Pennsylvania lightweights on the east shore Lake Cayuga course May 9.

The eights covered the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths in 7:39 2-5.

Coach James Wray, referee of the race, declared the dead heat after considerable discussion by the judges.

The Quakers started at a high beat and gained a short lead that it maintained until the three-quarter mile mark when Cornell began to pull up. The Ithacans were rowing at a slow beat, about four to the minute fewer than Pennsylvania.

In the last quarter mile, Cornell put on a spurt that carried the two shells to the finish line together, each hitting about 36. The Cornell shell lapped the Quaker boat throughout the race, and open water never showed.

Cornell will enter the American Henleys at Philadelphia later this month.

The boatings:

Cornell—Bow, Scharff; No. 2, Roos; No. 3, Van Tassel; No. 4, Peckham; No. 5, Bird; No. 6, McCollom; No. 7, Ogden; stroke, Delafeld; coxswain, Eberle.

WIN FIRST LEAGUE GAME

The baseball team won its first victory in Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League competition last week, defeating Princeton, 6 to 3, in the second game of a double-header on Hoy Field May 9. Princeton won the first game, 8 to 4. The second game went eleven innings.

Columbia defeated Cornell, 5 to 0, May 6 on Hoy Field for its second victory over the team this year. White, Columbia, pitcher, held the Red and White batters to five scattered hits.

Cornell's league record to date is one victory and five defeats. Two games with Yale and contests with Dartmouth and Pennsylvania at Ithaca remain on the league schedule for Cornell.

Cornell earned its victory over Princeton by an exciting eleventh-inning rally. Hatkoff doubled to right and scored on Moulton's single. Moulton went to third when Glazebrook threw wild trying to catch him off first base. George hit to Muldaur who threw wild trying to catch Moulton at the plate. Schultz and Maiorana went out, but Goodman was safe on Knell's error, George scoring on the play.

Going into the eighth inning two runs behind, Cornell gained a one-run lead by some spectacular playing, including a

PRESIDENT AT CONVOCATION

Upperclassmen Hear Dr. Farrand Say Cornell Justifies Founders' Intentions

President Farrand addressed upper-classmen last week at a convocation in Bailey Hall, the first in several years.

The President said that "the history of Cornell University has justified the intention of its founders and the attitude of those who have administered it. He maintained that the University is "the direct result of the conjunction" of the minds of Ezra Cornell, the founder, and Andrew D. White, the first president.

Speaking to seniors in particular, Dr. Farrand asked them not only to accept responsibilities in life but to undertake them in such a way as to prove that they have received training at Cornell which will make them good citizens and show that they have a "world point of view."

Referring to the beginnings of the University, the President said:

"Ezra Cornell," he said, "had in mind always to give a chance to all eager students, especially those financially handicapped. Andrew D. White agreed with this, but insisted that the highest standards and methods of instruction should always be maintained. The combination of ideas produced a university which was and always has been unique in some ways. In its early days it not only admitted the necessity for the 'classical' education of the New England universities which were in turn dependent for their curricula upon Oxford and Cambridge, but also saw the reasons and importance for a scientific training which would afford practical application of technical knowledge."

"Cornell was thus the first to recognize on a broad scale the equality of different phases of knowledge in its curriculum."

HARTMAN HEADS COUNCIL

Professor Church Dies

*Emeritus Professor of Civil Engineering
Served Cornell Forty Years —Noted Author*

Irving Porter Church, emeritus professor of civil engineering, died on May 8, after an illness of about two years.

Professor Church was born in Ansonia, Connecticut in 1851 the son of Dr. Samuel P. Church and Elizabeth Sterling Church. His early education was in the schools there and later in Newburgh, N. Y. whence he came to Cornell. Three years after his graduation 1873 he was appointed assistant professor of civil engineering. In 1891 he became associate professor and in 1892 full professor. Upon his retirement in 1916 he was made emeritus professor.

In 1881 Professor Church married Elizabeth P. Holley of Niagara Falls, N. Y. who died about 1900. Two daughters, Edith of Ithaca, and Elsie Church Atkinson of Wellesley, Mass. survive him.

Although of an unusually retiring nature, Professor Church endeared himself to many generations of students, and was not only recognized as an expert in civil engineering, but has been called "the father of mechanics." This appellation he received because of his book, "The Mechanics of Engineering," published first in three volumes and later as one work in 1890. This book is said to have revolutionized the subject of mechanics, and is still used as an authority.

Shortly after his retirement, in tribute to him as teacher and friend, the alumni of the College of Civil Engineering presented to the University a portrait of Professor Church, by the artist J. Campbell Phillips of New York, and the sum of $2500 in Liberty bonds, to form the Irving P. Church Fund, the income of which is used to purchase books for the library of the College.

In presenting the portrait, William D. Kelley '80 expressed the affection of the old students for Professor Church and their sense of his great services to the college and to engineering science during so many years.

A still greater tribute to Professor Church came in 1929 when he was awarded the Benjamin G. Lamme gold medal "for accomplishment in technical teaching and actual advancement of the art of technical training." This medal is given to outstanding men by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

CORNELL DRAMATIC CLUB GIVES THREE SHORT PLAYS

The Cornell Dramatic Club gave three Kermis plays last Saturday evening. These plays are the prize-winning efforts of agriculturalists inexperienced in the art of play-writing. The prizes are given by the Kermis Association of the New York State College of Agriculture.

The actors were members of the association, coached by Dorothy E. Evans '31 of Ithaca. All three dealt with country problems and were given rural settings.

The program for the week-end of May 15 and 16 consists of the 1931 Revue.

COLONEL RALPH H. ISHAM '12 lectured last week in Baker Hall on "Boswell's Papers," at the same time exhibiting a part of his collection to the audience. The lecture was intensely interesting, and comprised in addition to historical data many amusing anecdotes in connection with the subject.

REUNION FOR '24

Arrangements are well under way for the reunion of the class of 1924 from June 12 to June 14. This year's reunion is on the Dix Plan. The classes of 1923, 1925, and 1926 are also scheduled to return to Ithaca at the same time.

The committee announces that expenses for the '24 reunion will be kept at a minimum while no effort will be spared to include a maximum number of pleasure-provoking items in the program. Among these will be a ball game with one of the classes and a class dinner on Saturday evening.

Further information regarding the '24 reunion can be secured either from the alumni office or from Carl Wendell, Secretary of the Class, 505 Delaware, Buffalo, N. Y.

triple steal, in which Smith scored from third.

Maiorana walked, stole second, and scored on Goodman's single. Smith beat out a bunt. Handelman was safe when Morse failed to hold Muldauer's throw. With the bases loaded, Waud forced in a run by passing Kappler, Glazebrook relieved Waud, and Cornell immediately pulled the triple steal.

Princeton tied the score in its half of the eighth singles by Reinmund and Knell and Muldaur's sacrifice.

The first game saw Princeton bunch nine hits in two innings to score all its runs. Williams, who started on the mound for Cornell, was hit hard in the sixth and retired in favor of Whiskeman. A double by Ray, Knell's triple, singles by Muldaur and Parker, two passes, and a Cornell error gave Princeton five runs and a lead of 5-2. Three more runs came over in the eighth when Whiskeman passed one batter and gave up four singles.

Cornell rallied in the ninth to score two runs on a pass to Kappler, Hatkoff's single, an infield out, and Zahn's double.

Cornell and Columbia played an errorless ball game earlier in the week, but Cornell batters could not touch the offerings of White, sophomore hurler. Sereysky, Cornell pitcher, was reached for nine hits.

Columbia scored in the second on four hits, including a double by Bradley, and filled the bases, but Sereysky pulled out of the hole, only one run scoring. McLoughlin's double, Bradley's single, a sacrifice by Swettman, and a double steal produced two Columbia runs in the sixth, and the Lions added the fifth in the eighth on two singles and a sacrifice. ## THE WEEK ON THE CAMPUS

HARVARD made the front page week before last when the college paper protested against the omission, in the War Memorial Chapel, of the names of three Harvard men who died fighting for Germany. The contretemps gave the editors of the Harvard Crimson (and the Yale Daily News) the opportunity for a series of burning editorials which set the high-mindedness of the younger generation in pleasing contrast to the vindictive pusillanimity of their elders. The success (journalistic, at least) of the Harvard campaign sent our own editors eagerly to the records. It was discovered that Hans Wagner '12 died fighting for Germany. The Sun began a campaign to include Hans Wagner's name on the list of the dead engraved on the walls of the cloister. Some forty "leaders of the campus organizations and activities" petitioned the War Memorial Committee to make this addition.

THUS THE COMMITTEE, on the eve of the dedication of the building, finds itself in a nasty situation. Whoever started the war, however inequitable may be the Treaty of Versailles, whatever may be the truth about the Belgian atrocities, one fact remains a fact: the contributions to the War Memorial Fund were solicited on the understanding that we were commemorating those who died fighting in the common cause. We cannot very well alter that understanding without the consent of the donors. That consent would have to be unanimous, and you know perfectly well it wouldn't be. There are plenty of people, even very liberal people, who still think that we entered the war in a just cause, and that the aspirations of Teutonic pan-Germanism were unjust and highly ominous to our well-being. That is not to say that the German soldiers died any less nobly than did our own.

PRESIDENT FARRAND, whose words are ever emollient, antiseptic, astringent, and sweetly anodyne, replied to the committee that he could see no way to grant its request. However, "the question of erecting an appropriate memorial to any sons of Cornell who may have given their lives in another cause . . . is an idea with which in these days of hope for better international understanding I have much sympathy." And Robert E. Treman '09, chairman of the War Memorial Committee, whose lips drop as the honeycomb: honey and milk are under his tongue, approved highly of such a commemoration, and continued: "In order to start such a memorial, I am forwarding a contribution to the Comptroller of the University and will welcome subscriptions for this purpose, with the thought and hope that a suitable memorial may be offered to the University to commemorate those who gave their lives for Germany and the Central Powers." Thus, one would say, the protesting students are invited to show how far their generous enthusiasm is convertible into foot-pounds of energy, and how far into the static electricity of editorials and resolutions.

YOU MAY READ elsewhere of the establishment of Music as a department in which students in the College of Arts and Sciences may major for their degree. Music was an Upperclass Group in the Academies of Periclean Greece, but we are just getting around to it. Unfortunately, some students who proceed to their A.B. fail to understand our theory of liberal education. Music as a field of study is broad and deep; one who spends two years of specialization in this field must go broad and deep. His work in developing his voice or in learning an instrument is laboratory work, not the justification of a liberal education. But how can that be explained to the student who wrote bitterly to the Sun to complain of the absence of courses in saxophone playing in the College of Arts and Sciences?

PROFESSOR Harley E. Howe, Ph.D. '16 of the Department of Physics asked the students in the big course in Physics what they thought of the Honor System. He discovered that of the 400 present the majority did not exercise their responsibility to see that examinations are conducted fairly. By a vote of two to one they voted that instructor and students should share the responsibility of conducting the examination.

PROFESSOR Herbert H. Whetzel of the Department of Plant Pathology told the Rotary Club that in his courses he puts the student "on his own," requiring of him only that he learn the subject matter well enough to solve problems put to him in conference by the professor. He tries to teach students how to get facts and put them in logical sequence, and then how to be able to use the facts in solving problems. No attendance is taken in courses or laboratories. The students generally get good grades, Professor Whetzel notices, and they are always in good humor. "They never get sore at me."

THE CATALOGUE of the Cornell Wordsworth Collection, presented to the Library by Victor Emanuel '19, has just been published. It is the work of the collection's curator, Professor Leslie N. Broughton of the Department of English.

THE DEATH of Professor Irving P. Church '73 brought a pang to many an old Cornelian. Professor Church was the sort of person who seems more rare today than in the previous generation. He was recognized as of unassailable eminence in his profession; he was known even as "the Father of Mechanics." But specialization brought no sacrifice of other intellectual interest. He was always a faithful attendant at meetings of the French and German clubs, and his ability as a musician was unusual.

ANOTHER DEATH which is mourned far and wide is that of Mrs. Myra Robbins Crandall, widow of the late Charles L. Crandall '72, Professor of Railroad Engineering until his death in 1917. Mrs. Crandall was blind from the age of 18.

FATE played one of its most tragic ironies here last week. Within thirty-six hours of the time her husband had lectured here on cerebral hemorrhage, Mrs. Kate Dusser de Barenne died of that disease on the campus, where she was a guest. Her husband, Dr. Johannes G. Dusser de Barenne, is Sterling Professor of Physiology in Yale University.

THE SIXTH ANNUAL Hotel Ezra Cornell was held in Willard Straight Hall over the week-end. S. F. McGinn, of the Tangney-McGinn Hotel Company of Iowa, was the chief speaker at the banquet. Dean Albert R. Mann '04 of the College of Agriculture and Professor Howard B. Meek of the Department of Hotel Administration also spoke. A prize of $100 and a trip to Europe, offered by the Ahrens Publishing Co., was awarded to Edward D. Ramage '31 of Bloomington, Ill.

ETA KAPPA NU, electrical fraternity, joined with the College of Home Economics to put on the second annual electrical show, illustrating the practical applications of electricity in the home, and also displaying many strange and amusing electrical phenomena.

"IT ISSAID that a dog entered the class of Professor Frank Thilly, who is soon to come to Cornell, at Princeton last week. Professor Thilly asked the owner to remove the dog, and the student demurred at first. 'You know I have to draw the line somewhere,' Professor Thilly is reported to have said."—In the Ithaca Journal-News of May 8, 1906.

ALEXANDER SILVERMAN '05, who is head of the department of chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh, and consultant on glass, in September attended the International Union of Chemistry meetings in Belgium, as one of fifteen delegates appointed by the National Academy of Sciences and National Research Council. He is one of the first group of Fellows elected by the American Ceramic Society, of which he is vice-president this year. Last June his former pupils presented his portrait, painted by Ellis M. # He no longer flies alone!

Formerly a man a mile above the earth was shut off more completely than if he were in the heart of Africa or the depths of the frozen north.

Now the Western Electric radio telephone ends that isolation. The flier whose plane is equipped by Western Electric is always in touch with ground stations, and he flies with greater dispatch and greater safety.

This telephone for airplanes grew out of many years' experience in making telephones and other apparatus for the Bell System. It is one more example of Western Electric's skill in the art of voice reproduction.

WIN AT LACROSSE

The lacrosse team won its second game of the year May 9, defeating Hobart at Geneva, 4 to 1. Cornell kept the ball in Hobart territory throughout the game, Boschen scoring the first goal after ten minutes of play. Guthrie tallied near the close of the first half, after Hobart had been turned back in a couple of sallies at the Ithaca net. Ives' guarding was a feature of the game.

Winslow and Guthrie scored within a minute just after the start of the second half. Hobart's lone goal came in the last minute of play, when Bootay shot the ball past Ives.

TENNIS TEAM WINS

The tennis team defeated Syracuse, 9-0, on the Baker Courts May 9, its first victory in four team matches. The Ithacans lost only three sets in the nine individual matches, capturing six singles and three doubles.

FROSH NINE LOSES

The freshman baseball team lost to Cook Academy, 6-0, at Montour Falls May 9. Brown, Cook pitcher, allowed just two hits, while his teammates collected six off Maslow. Gaffney, Cornell right fielder, hit a two-base hit.

HIBBY AYER'S TALES

You have no doubt recently noticed that that good pair of shoes you bought last year is still with you and that that good suit you bought before the crash has been a life-saver and that those fine shirts you thought you paid too much for are the only ones you've got left.

If there is one thing that stands out on an equal basis with lack of money during a depression it is this:

There is no substitute for quality.

All the shirt manufacturers in the country would have to fail on the average of once a month to provide the shirts you think you are buying at marked down prices and we don't know of anybody who has enough money to pay $3.50 for a shirt to sell to you at $1.65.

All Hibby Ayer shirts are wearable. There are no short arms, small cuffs, collars that choke or materials that shrink and if the shirts you are buying fail you in any of these particulars, you will surely get "something for nothing" in eliminating these shortcomings by buying your shirts from

C.V.P. Young's new book How Men Lived $2<sup>50</sup>

The publishers say as follows: "A series of pictures of the social and physical activities of various people throughout history together with a highly suggestive commentary on present day conditions." A book worth adding to your library.

Macbeth Daylight Lamps

The lenses for these lamps were designed by H. P. Gage and based on the spectrum curve give almost pure sunlight. The 200 w. lamp in the bronze finish sell at $20.00 and in the green finish $15.00. The student size 60 w. sells at $9.75. The ordinary blue bulb lamp does not give this quality of light.

The Campus map is still selling. Use a magnifying glass on this small section and get an idea of what the map is like.
