THE WOODFORD STAGE.

Thirty-first Annual Prize in Oratory Won by Sidney S. Lowenthal—His Oration in Full.

The thirty-first annual prize contest for the Woodford medal was held in the Armory Friday evening, May 3. The contest proved to be one of the most interesting ever held. All the speakers showed that careful thought had been put upon their orations. The difference in the character of the topics treated gave added interest to the contest. The judges decided that the prize should be awarded Sidney S. Lowenthal.

The first speaker, Richard Oliver Walter, took as his subject "Leadership." He told in a clear, straightforward way the qualities of a leader and the ends for which he should aim. He spoke of the influence of the leaders of the world.

The second speaker was Sidney S. Lowenthal, who spoke on "Judaism—Its Meaning in the Twentieth Century." Mr. Lowenthal's oration was delivered in a forceful manner that left a deep impression on the minds of his hearers. The News prints his oration in full today.

Louis Charles Karpinski next spoke entertainingly on "The Southern Mountaineer." He portrayed, very cleverly, the primitive life of these Southerners.

"Democracy and Our Industrial Tendencies" was the subject of Manton Marble Wyvell's oration. His message, delivered in an earnest, convincing manner, was a plea for the individual workingman. He said it was for this generation to decide whether or not Trusts should be allowed to stamp out all traces of competition in this country.

The fifth speaker was James O'Malley, the subject of whose oration was "Gladstone and Disraeli." The long struggle for supremacy between these two great antagonists was reviewed briefly and their comparative merits were weighed in an impartial manner.

The last speaker of the evening, Marcus James Gilliam, took for his subject "Race to Race." Mr. Gilliam is the first negro to speak on the Woodford Stage. He spoke with exceptional feeling and genuineness, pleading not for social equality, but for opportunity to rise. Booker Washington and Paul Lawrence Dunbar are examples of what men the black race is capable of producing.

Professor J. H. Gilmore of Rochester University, Professor-elect Frank Fetter of Cornell, and George B. Davis of Ithaca, were the judges. In announcing the decision, Professor Gilmore spoke in the highest terms of the contest, and of the oratorical department of the University.

Sidney S. Lowenthal of Rochester, N. Y., is a member of the Andrew D. White club. He spoke on the '86 stage in his second year and won the '94 debate prize at the last contest. He was also a member of the team which debated with Columbia this year.

His oration, "Judaism—Its Meaning in the Twentieth Century," follows in full:

Throughout the summer of 1899 the attention of the civilized world was centered upon one ex-captain of the French Artillery, a certain Alfred Dreyfus, a Jew. He had been degraded, imprisoned, isolated in a fetid swamp,—and still he lived, and was being brought back for retrial. The Dreyfus affair is in many ways an epitome of the treatment Jews have received for many, many centuries. Degraded, persecuted, isolated, miracle though it be,—still they live. Persecution on religious grounds disappearing, a new theory has been invented to keep the Jew a scapegoat and an outcast. Race, now is the cry! He is a Semite, descendant not of Japhet but of Shem, and therefore incapable of assimilation into the body of a nation. They do not nationalize, say the Anti-Semites, do not make good citizens or patriots. They love not the land wherein they dwell; Jerusalem is their watchword. A race by themselves, "imperium in imperio," is the charge now made against the Jews and accepted widely even in this country.

What is the Jews' answer? Do they but sojourn here, praying the themselves no unworthy descendants of the Maccabees who two centuries before Christ threw off the yoke of Syria. In Alt-Neu Synagogue at Prague hangs an imperial Austrian standard, given in 1648 to commemorate the valiant Jews of the Ghetto who gave up their lives in defending the city from the onslaughts of the Swedes. And this, at a time when Jew-baiting was thought a duty, a Holy Vendetta revenging the Cross! "Not patriots," say you, Goldwin Smith? The Iron Cross and the Badge of the Legion of Honor decorate the breasts of thousands of brave Jews of France and Germany. In Berlin there live today five thousand survivors of the entry into Paris. The thousands of Jews who fought on both sides in our own Civil War and by courage and fidelity earned promotion to the highest ranks, as did Salomon in the North and Mordecai in the South, the two thousand Jewish volunteers in the late Spanish War, show how confidently a state may rely on its sons of Jewish faith in the hour of while for a new Moses to lead them back to Palestine and a Jewish state? To this question decisive of their status, an emphatic, No. The idea of a Jewish state is gone. Two thousand years ago under the iron heel of Rome, Judaism became denationalized, was left as it is today, a religion only. To cling longer to the hope of national reinstatement is miserable idolatry. During the centuries of wandering the Jews lost character as a race and today nothing save the genealogy and the religion "remain to the descendants of the husbandmen, who listened to the prophets and gathered before Jehovah in the courts of Zion." No longer are the Jews a separate people, a nation, either in fact, or in their own eyes.

To those still persecuted in Russia and Roumania beautiful indeed must appear the vine-clad hills of ancient Judea, glorious the task of rebuilding the Temple on Zion in the City, Holy of Holies. In their misery what other solace, in their despair what other hope! And even in England and America there are some in sympathy drawn to the poetic dream of their persecuted brethren. But with the first rays of freedom a marvelous transformation! Zionism fades away. Given the boon of citizenship how blessed they feel to accept its duties with its privileges! When allowed to claim a country, with their lives have they ever defended it, and shown danger.

Until the last century find me a country the Jews were allowed to love, to call their own, to pray for, to die for. Thank God, the days of persecution are going, one might almost say gone; and with them has gone the need, ay, the desire for a Jewish state. Recognized as citizens they are and ever will be loyal patriots. What Jew in America or England longs for Palestine or would leave his Fatherland save under compulsion! The high walls of the Ghetto forced the Jews into a separate people. Amidst the darkness and the dwarfed life within Judaism petrified into narrow formalism. In the sunshine of freedom and toleration Judaism divests itself of its ancient ritualism. The Talmud once the law of life is now a book for scholars. Not one Jew in a thousand ever traced from right to left its Hebraic symbols. In every country, so far as it is in their power, the Jews have thrown down the barriers that frown between themselves and their fellowmen. The Jews no longer compelled to be, no longer will be an "imperium in imperio." In Germany the Jew is a German, in England an Englishman, in America an American, differing no more from his neighbor who may be a Catholic than does the Catholic from his who may be a Protestant. At a time when it seemed impossible for a Papist to be an Englishman, or a Protestant to be a Frenchman, it seemed equally impossible for a Jew to be either an Englishman or a Frenchman. But state and church unity exists no more to tyrannize over the souls of men. Religions flaunt no separate banners and so to the American Jew the Stars and Stripes, the history of the Colonies and States, the trials and crises, the glories and ideals of our land are as sacred as to any descendant of Samuel Adams or Patrick Henry. Save in religion tell me how the Jewish citizen differs from any other American! Mr. Goldwin Smith's contention is disproved by the actualities before our eyes. Would only that here too there might arise a Lassalle or a Disraeli or a Gambetta, to add transcendent proof to the thousands that go unnoticed.

Give the Jew an examination; a rigid one. An hour's honest study! There is little justice in superlative praise or superlative condemnation. We have rid ourselves of prejudice, of untruth, let us now learn the truth. Prejudice still existing is due to ignorance, of the history of the Jews, of their religion, and particularly of their present thought and ideals. An ignorance not confined to the caricaturists of comic weeklies, in which many find the typical Jew, or to playwrights whose Jewish characters are stage buffoons reveling in flashy jewelry. Even to Carlyle Judaism was a religion of old clothes. Is the Jew of your knowledge still to be such a poor soul or remain the Judas, the Shylock, and the Fagin? Are Heine and Mendelssohn and Spinoza but names? And is it to be forgotten that Christ Himself was a Jew, yea, even unto the Crucifixion, and Mary who bore him a Jewess? Ah, what a famous list of Jews one might shout: prophets and scribes, poets and philosophers, scholars, musicians, generals, statesmen,—but it is not my purpose to glorify the Jews or boast their achievements, but to explain their position and demand their due.

My word to you is: the Jews are men in no wise differing from their fellow men save in religion. As men then should they be judged. Learn to know them as men, not merely as tradesmen. You may find in their breasts stir the same noble impulses, the same lofty aspirations, the same unselfish patriotism as in your own. If they appear to you as a crowd of traffickers, forget not that for centuries every avenue to higher occupations was barred and doubly locked by law and religion, by Emperor and Pope. Think you they voluntarily deserted the spiritual and intellectual mission of the fathers and willed to grovel their path through the seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries as usurers, the game of kings, as petty tradesmen, the sport of the rabble! Would they not all have turned Christians ages ago if they sought but riches and repose? Twenty centuries belie so base an imputation! Israel's mission is not to furnish hucksters for the world, important as be their function. Her mission was, and ever will be in the realm of the spiritual and moral. "Through light and darkness, victory and defeat, glory or shame the eyes of Judaism have ever rested on a goal which the ancient seers planted in

THE EASTERN TRIP.

Cornell Defeated by Princeton, Pennsylvania and Fordham—University of New York Beaten 26-6.

The first Eastern trip of the Cornell baseball team resulted in three defeats and only one victory. Princeton, Fordham and Pennsylvania won by good margins, and New York University was the one team to fall. On the trip Cornell made 39 runs against her opponents' 47.

The team was defeated by the score of 21 to 2 in the game with the Tigers on Wednesday, May 1. The Princeton men are phenomenal batters. They found Chase almost at will after the third inning. There were a number of costly errors and the outfield offered little support. Cornell found Underhill for but four scattered hits.

On Thursday, the team met its second defeat at the hands of Fordham College by a score of 7 to 4. Costly errors by Brown and Whinery lost the game. Cornell failed to hit McKenna until the seventh inning, while Fordham bunched hits several times. A home run by the Fordham pitcher with two men on bases was the feature of the game. The score:

On Friday New York University suffered a worse defeat than did Cornell at the hands of Princeton. In the seventh inning eight errors by New York and four hits by Cornell gave the latter four runs. Fast field work on Cornell's part made it almost impossible for New York to score. Captain Robertson made the longest home run hit ever recorded on Ohio Field, and also had a three-bagger to his credit. The game was called in the seventh inning to enable the Cornell team to catch a train for Philadelphia. The score:

The Pennsylvania game on Saturday was lost by a score of 13 to 7, before a crowd of 2,000 people. Cornell was outbatted by the Quakers and failed to bunch the hits that were made. In the eighth inning Pennsylvania made five runs, and settled the matter. Cornell outfielded her adversary, but toward the end of the game Pennsylvania took to knocking high flies, which brought the sun directly in the eyes of the Cornell fielders and effectually prevented any catches. Lyon pitched a steady game. The men believe that Pennsylvania can be defeated in the game which will shortly be played in Ithaca. The score:

the heights of a redeemed and perfected humanity." Israel's mission is peace. Her contribution to intellectual and industrial progress are by no means unimportant, but the true greatness of the Jews finds its root in their religious genius, and it is because of their religious mission that they derive unto this day the right and the duty to remain outside the dominant religion. The goal of Judaism is social justice, the brotherhood of man on earth, and not until this ideal is realized will the holy and glorious task of Judaism be ended.

In religion alone, then, do the Jews differ, in religion alone are they distinct. But their religion is no longer tribal and inherited; it is free and universal. No adversaries of Christianity, no enemies of its church; they recognize its incomparable service to the human race, the zeal and devotion of its millions of followers, and find lessons in its teachings. But their Monotheism the Jews dare not compromise. The guard of Monotheism, true for centuries unnumbered will never desert its post. Christ to the Jews can never be more than a prophet, a human ideal, product of their own ideals. In the past His teachings were not read in Synagogues. Degraded, hounded, burned, and murdered in Christ's name it would be scarcely human to suppose. But happy are the days fast approaching. Signs of growing friendship and respect manifest themselves on every side. The chasm which separated the mother from the daughter is narrowing. Mutual understanding is cultivated, mutual courtesies exchanged, Christian churches even welcome Jewish Rabbis in their pulpits, and thus, as another has said, "after eighteen centuries of persecution and distrust return the hospitality the first Apostles of Christ received in the ancient Synagogues of Israel."

The history of the Jews is the story of the man with the cloak. The icy North wind of persecution but compels them to draw tighter their ancient gaberdines, their particularism; in the sunshine of freedom and equality they throw them off to fulfill their duties in the life about them.

Another century it may take to gain full understanding and full recognition, but what are a hundred years to a deathless religion!

The annual contest of the Central Oratorical League will be held on May 17 at Bloomington, Indiana. At present the League is composed of six Universities: Illinois, Indiana, Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, West Virginia, and Cornell. It is highly probable that Pennsylvania will be admitted this year, and she may be represented in the coming contest. Each of the three previous contests of the league has been won by Ohio Wesleyan.

At a meeting of the Debate Council held Saturday morning S. S. Lowenthal, '01, was appointed Cornell's representative. Instructor Winans, with G. A. Oldham, '01, alternate, is selected as delegate to the business meeting of the League.

Class of '91 Reunion.

As already announced the class of '91 will hold its decennial reunion at the coming commencement. The aim of this reunion is to bring together all students who were at any time enrolled in the class of '91, and all those who received degrees, baccalaureate or advanced, in June, 1891. To this end communications were sent out to the 259 persons still living and included in the above; replies have been received thus far from 207, leaving 52 members not heard from.

The plan of the committee in charge is to prepare a banquet for the evening of June 19, and also a souvenir book giving a brief sketch of each member since leaving college.

The cooperation of every member is desired to find such members as have not been heard from, and to open correspondence with those not intending to come urging them to be present.

Any member knowing the circumstances connected with the death of deceased classmates is asked to communicate with the committee in order that fitting mention may be made in the reunion book.

In order to facilitate this work and make the reunion in every way a success, the News publishes the class directory, classified as requested by the committee.

CORNELL WEEK AT BUFFALO.

The suggestion has been made to the editors of the ALUMNI NEWS for a Cornell week at the Pan-American Exposition. Undoubtedly many Cornellians will visit the exposition and probably a large number of these could and would arrange to be there at the same time if a Cornell week were, in purely an informal way and of course without the cognizance or any action on the part of the exposition authorities, established. The Buffalo Alumni Association is, with the exception of New York, the strongest and most wide-awake association that we have, and we understand that many of its members favor this plan. The greatest difficulty, of course, would be to select a week which would be acceptable to the greatest number. In solving this problem it might be well to note that Cornell is scheduled for certain athletic events at the exposition. On May 17 we play a baseball game with Michigan, and on June 8 a game with the Carlisle Indians. On October 19 we play a football game with Carlisle. Cornell will probably be represented in other athletic contests at the exposition, but these three are distinctively Cornell events. It would add to the interest of a Cornell week if some distinctive Cornell event could be included in it, and a more widely spread interest would probably be created by an athletic event than by an event of any other nature. Moreover such an event would insure the presence of a large number of undergraduates. From the Ithaca standpoint, the week including October 19 would undoubtedly be the most acceptable time. We do not argue for the establishment of a Cornell week, but we suggest the idea, thinking that it may be worth taking into consideration.

REGATTA WEEK.

The many events which are scheduled to take place in Ithaca during the last week in May make that week a most excellent time for alumni to visit the University. The great attraction, of course, is the race on the afternoon of May 30 between the second 'Varsity crews of Columbia, Pennsylvania, and Cornell. But this is by no means the only attraction occurring in that week. Before the race on the afternoon of May 30, Princeton and Cornell will hold their annual track meet. The navy and track managements have arranged their programs so that the two events will not conflict in any way, the meet ending in time to allow the spectators to reach the observation train before it starts for the lake. On the evening of May 29, the musical clubs will give a concert, and immediately after the concert a navy ball will be held in the Armory. On June 6 a musical comedy, "The Governor General," will be presented. The parts for the performance have been assigned almost entirely to students, many of the principals and chorus being members of the Masque and Glee Club.

The race will be one of the greatest aquatic events of the season. The course, and the observation facilities are probably superior to those at Poughkeepsie, and the crews will be in no marked degree inferior. The presence of almost the entire student body will make the race even more of a distinctively collegiate event than are the races on the Hudson, which only a small proportion of the student body is able to witness. The mistake should not be made by our alumni of ridiculing any idea that our track team can do creditable work on the theory that it is still on the same low plane that it was even three or four years ago. Under the handling of a competent coach it has in the past two years shown marked improvement, and in some events it is very strong. The possibility of winning the meet is by no means entirely remote. The Masque has likewise improved wonderfully in the past two or three years, and anything that it does in connection with our musical clubs, which have always maintained a high standard, cannot fail to be enjoyable.

It is evident that Regatta Week, as it has come to be called, offers many inducements to alumni to visit the University. We are confident that if they can only be made to realize the excellence of the program which has been arranged partly for their benefit, they will flock here in great numbers, and it is in order to induce them to come that we call their attention at this early date to the events of the week.

The Senior Week Performance of the Masque.

The Masque will present "The Taming of the Shrew," as its Senior Week performance this year. Rehearsals are held weekly under the direction of Coach Hawn of New York. Besides this weekly rehearsal, there are two preliminary rehearsals directed by stage manager McClain.

The members of the caste are well fitted for the different parts. Members of the Sage Dramatic Club will take the female parts of the comedy. The caste in full follows:

Cornell Professor to Edit a New Magazine.

Professor Liberty H. Bailey will be the editor of a new magazine, to be published in the fall. Concerning the new venture, the title of which will be American Country Life, the New York Times Saturday Review says:

"It is a little curious that with the development of the so-called nature-books no attempt has been made in America to reach through a single high class periodical the lover of nature, as well as the suburban resident, the amateur farmer, the fruit grower, the florist, the landscape gardener, and the architect of rural homes. Such an attempt will now be made by Doubleday, Page & Co., by their new magazine which will make its appearance early in the autumn. And we are informed that an attempt will be made to reach the urbanite by making the publication as attractive to the eye as possible. We should say that there was plenty of room for just such a magazine, a magazine which shall invite the public generally to learn something about the various phases of country life in an entertaining and thoroughly artistic fashion."

A letter from the College of Charleston states that besides making hosts of friends during his stay in Charleston during the past winter, Dr. Wilder has delivered a number of most acceptable lectures. One on Agassiz was given before a joint meeting of the College and the Elliott Society of Science and Arts. Lectures were also given on the South Carolina spider before the Confederate College and again before the city school teachers.

The May number of University Records just issued consists of four parts: (1) The spring edition of the Register; (2) A pamphlet containing addresses at the opening of the Medical College in New York made by President Schurman, Professor Stimson, Governor Roosevelt, and President Low, of Columbia; (3) The annual announcement of the New York State Veterinary College; and (4) courses offered by the Sage School of Philosophy.

The Jones Summer School of Mathematics and the Languages.

This school is for two classes of pupils: 1.—Candidates for admission to Cornell University who wish a better preparation on the entrance requirements.

2.—Students who, by reason of illness, change of course, or other cause, have deficiencies to make up.

This school is entirely distinct from the Summer session of Cornell University, and the work of the University classes is not duplicated. Its classes meet in Barnes Hall.

INSTRUCTORS.—George W. Jones, A. M., Mathematics; Virgil Snyder, Ph.D., Mathematics; Clark S. Northup, Ph.D., English; Robert J. Kellogg, Ph.D., French and German; Elmer E. Bogart, A.B., Greek and Latin; Edith M. Bickham, A.B., Greek and Latin.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.—Instruction is given in all the subjects necessary for admission to the Freshman class in any course in Cornell University, and in the freshman mathematics.

TUITION FEES.—For the full term, regular classes, $30. For the half-term, $25. For periods less than half a term, $5 a week. For a single study half the regular rates. For special studies, special rates, as agreed on.

CALENDAR FOR 1901.—Instruction begins Friday, July 5, at 3 P. M., and ends Friday, Sept. 20.

New classes are formed Wednesday, August 14, at 9 A. M., for more rapid review, particularly in mathematics. These half-term classes are specially adapted to the needs of conditioned students.

For other information, letters may be addressed to PROFESSOR JONES, or to any of the instructors.

A critical examination merely tends to enhance the value of the gems we show.

Campus Meeting Arranged.

On Friday evening, May 10, the old custom of having the classes meet together on the Campus to promote college spirit is to be again carried out, and the plans indicate a very pleasant entertainment.

The four classes will meet at the Armory at 7:15, and will then march behind the Cadet band to the Campus in front of Lincoln Hall, where the men will form in classes in charge of their respective cheer leaders. In case of rain the meeting will be held in the Library Lecture Hall.

The meeting will open with a speech by Professor Woodruff, then the entire Glee Club and a special quartette will sing, and several men will deliver stunt speeches. Captain Robertson and Coach Jennings will make a few remarks and the meeting will close with a speech from Professor Crane. The sophomore class, which will attend in a body, will immediately, at the close of the meeting, march to the Ithaca Hotel to attend their banquet. The march is expected to rival the late "stunt" parade.

ANNUAL HANDICAP TRACK MEET

University Athletes Compete with Preparatory Schools—Three Records Broken.

The annual open handicap track meet was held on Percy Field Saturday afternoon, May 4. Besides the men from the University, several representatives from preparatory schools of the Interscholastic League participated. The schools represented were Auburn high school, Syracuse high school, Stiles' school, Cook Academy, Geneva high school, Ithaca high school, North Tonawanda high school, Masten Park and Buffalo Central high schools and Elmira Free Academy.

All of the events were well contested. Three University records were broken, namely the 220 yard dash, the 220 yard hurdle, and the mile run. Creditable performances were also made in the 100 yard dash and the broad jump.

The summary of events follows:

100 yard dash—F. M. Sears, '04, (scratch) first; C. D. Young, '02, (scratch) second; J. Walz, '04, (3 yards) third; time, 10 1-5 seconds.

120 yard hurdle—L. T. Ketchum, '04, (scratch) first; A. Walton, '02, (scratch) second; B. F. Longnecker, '03, (scratch) third; time, 16 4-5 seconds.

440 yard run—S. Taber, '03, (20 yards) first; W. G. Warren, '03, (10 yards) second; W. P. Lawson, '03, (15 yards) third; time, 52 seconds.

Mile run—B. A. Gallagher, '01, (scratch) first; R. S. Trott, '03, (scratch) second; W. B. Flanders, '02, (scratch) third; time, 4 minutes, 37 seconds, which breaks the University record by two seconds.

The 1902 Cornellian.

The Cornellian of this year's Junior class, which will probably be placed on sale about the middle of this month, is expected to surpass the annual published last year, chiefly in its increased size and in the increased number of illustrations. The book proper contains 400 pages, and in addition there are about fifty pages of advertising matter, in which, however, are a large number of "grinds" and illustrations. Some of the best half-tones in the book are, in fact, to be found among the advertisements.

The large size of the 1902 Cornellian will be better realized if a comparison is made. Exclusive of the advertising pages, the '99 Cornellian had 284 pages; the '00 book, 312 pages; the '01 book, 356 pages; the '02 book, 400 pages.

Realizing the necessity of an abundance of interesting illustrative matter in a book of statistics like the Cornellian, the editors have taken the utmost care to insert either a drawing or a photograph wherever there has been justification for one, and an attempt has been made also to insert no illustration that is not perfectly clear in reproduction. Variety, too, has been sought throughout. Notable among the illustrations are the full-page drawings by Straight, '01, Smith, '02, (artistic editor), and Evermann, '02; the large vignetted half-tones of the fraternity-houses, which greatly relieve the monotony of the pages on which the fraternity membership lists are printed; and the large number of pictures reproducing the spirit of the Cornell life of the present time.

The Cornellian is dedicated to Professor H. Morse Stephens, an admirable photogravure of whom appears as the frontispiece. The statistics department, the first main section of the book, contains 137 pages, comprising the lists of the instructing staff, arranged under their several faculties; the other University officers, including preachers and non-resident lecturers; the fellows, scholars and graduate students; and the "college honors" of the Seniors and Juniors at Ithaca and at the New York Medical College. Many drawings illustrate the various sections of this department, and there is also a four-page section at the beginning, giving half-tones of President Schurman and of the deans of the colleges. Immediately after the statistics come the "In Memoriam" pages, and a new department for the Cornellian,—that of "Sundry Views." The latter comprises eight pages, and gives twenty well chosen half-tones of scenery of the Campus, Ithaca, and places near Ithaca. Two of the "In Memoriam" pages are devoted to an especially good half-tone of the late Professor Moses Coit Tyler, and a tribute to his memory, written at Berlin in March, by Ambassador Andrew D. White.

The number of social organizations represented in the Cornellian this year is far beyond precedent. In the "Fraternity" department are represented 31 Greek Letter fraternities, five class societies, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi, and three other societies of an honorary nature. The department of "Clubs" has 27 pages devoted to the various banqueting, sectional, technical, and Sage societies. The department of "Debating Societies" has a group picture of the members of each of the five debate clubs of the University, groups of the intercollegiate debate team and of the '94 Memorial speakers for this year, and the customary statistics of the various public speaking contests. A page is devoted also to the Debate Council and Debate Union. Under the heading "Musical Clubs and Masque" are the lists of members of each of these organizations, and group pictures of the members, and also a group picture of the Masque cast in its recent Junior Week play. In each of these three groups, the names of the men are placed underneath, for purposes of reference. Under "Miscellaneous" are the pages for the various dance and other class committees, and a number of "stunt" pages, among which is a page containing seven photographs of the Campus parade of March 29.

With the department of "Athletics," comprising about fifty pages, the greatest care has been taken. Each of the four most important branches,—Navy, Football, Baseball and Track,—is begun by a page giving half-tones of the captain, manager, coach and Faculty adviser for that branch. Each has one or more stunt pages. Football, for instance, has four such pages; track has a page on which are ten separate photographs peculiar to that branch. Records are inserted as usual, and new records, inserted this year for the first time, are the Freshman crew record and a list of the former Varsity captains. For the first time also, every under-class team, as well as every Varsity team, has a group picture, and underneath each group the names are placed, for reference. Four pages are devoted to the Cross Country Club, four to the Fencers' Club, two to the Lacrosse Club, and one each to the Francis Single Scull Medal, the Hockey team, the Francis Boat Club, the wearers of the C, and the Sophomore rush team. Pages are devoted also to the Athletic Council.

One of the best features of the book appears in the Publications department. Here there are five pages, on which are reproduced photographs of the first page of the first numbers issued by the Cornellian, the Era, the Sun, the Crank and the Widow. These are all large, and can be plainly read. Following are group pictures of the editors of the various publications, and here, too, the names are placed beneath the group pictures.

The Literary department has nearly forty pages, well illustrated. It contains both prose and verse, and recounts, in literary style, some of the happenings of the present college year. There are a number of very excellent contributions from the alumni. Among the pieces that will attract attention are "That Old Drill Suit of Mine;" "The Automaton;" "Traumerei," by "F. A. N.;" "The Laws of the Jungle," by E. M. R.; "The Wife of the Founder;" "Ballade of the Senior," by J. O. Dresser, '01; and "The Fable of the Junior, the Town Girl, and the Point of View," by N. Gilbert Seymour, '97.

The last department of the book is that of "University Occurrences," in which, five pages, very closely printed, record in concise form the more important events of the year from March 26, 1900, to March 26, 1901. Passing notice is due the mechanical features. The type is exceptionally clear, and an attempt has been made to secure consistency as far as possible throughout. The paper is heavily enamelled, and is pure white in color, on which the intensely black ink is very effective. The regular edition is dark green buckram, with silk head-bands and fancy waste leaves. The cover design, stamped in gold, is large, and there is the customary gold stamping on the back. This edition will sell for $1.25. It will be sent to any address, post paid, on receipt of $1.70, by J. R. Patterson, business manager.

The edition de luxe is richly bound in the best quality of full Morocco leather, black in color. It will sell for $3.00, and must be ordered in advance.

President Schurman to the Civil Engineers.

President Schurman addressed the Association of Civil Engineers on Friday, May 3, on "The Profession of Civil Engineering."

There are three features of engineering, Dr. Schurman said, that especially impress one outside of the profession. The first of these is the progressive character of all branches of the profession. All great feats of engineering, such as the building of a bridge or a railroad, is continually moving on toward completion. The second feature that appeals to a layman is the fact that engineering is the chief characteristic of American civilization. European civilization can point to art galleries, cathedrals, and other enduring works of art, while in America, the Brooklyn bridge, the great railroads, and buildings many stories high are the greatest achievements of our civilization. The profession of engineering is peculiarly symbolic of the American mind. The third characteristic is that it is the profession of all others that has left its impress on the map of the world. The growth of the United States from 13 to 45 states has been due in great measure to the railroads, the expansion of Russia was brought about largely by the trans-Siberian road, and the growth of the British Empire can be largely attributed to the invention of steam ships.

President Schurman urged upon all engineers the necessity of beginning in humble positions upon leaving college. A practical knowledge of the rudiments of the profession will aid much toward making successful engineers.

Dr. Murray of the mathematical department has recently been appointed professor of mathematics at Dalhousie College, Halifax, Nova Scotia. It was at this college that President Schurman was formerly a professor. The withdrawal of Dr. Murray with that of Dr. Miller, who will also leave Cornell at the end of the present college year, will be a serious loss to the mathematical department of the University.

Professor Redfield to Leave.

Henry Stephen Redfield, professor of practice and procedure in the College of Law, has received a call to the professorship at Columbia University made vacant by the resignation of John R. Houston. The position offered is a very lucrative one and it is more than probable that he will accept it and enter upon his duties next September.

Professor Redfield was graduated from Amherst College in 1877, and subsequently received the degree of A. M. from the same institution. In 1879 he was admitted to the bar and entered into partnership with Judge George M. Diven of Elmira. He continued his law practice at Elmira until three years ago, when he accepted his appointment to Cornell.

The departure of Professor Redfield will be a great loss to Cornell. He is a thorough scholar and has rare capacity as a teacher. Columbia is to be congratulated upon securing his services.

An Endowment for a New Prize for Cornell Students.

The late J. B. Guilford, of Elmira, has bequeathed the sum of $3,000 to the University to endow an annual prize for the best essay submitted by an undergraduate in competition. Particulars regarding the competition are left to the University authorities, except that the testator stipulates that the winning essay must be voted by the judges worthy of receiving such a prize before it can be awarded. If no essay submitted is deemed worthy of the prize, it shall be awarded to the graduate student who is considered the best English writer.

Sage College Notes.

The Sage Dramatic club will give its final play of the year, on May 10 in Barnes Hall. "She Stoops to Conquer," by Oliver Goldsmith, will be rendered and will undoubtedly be the most elaborate production given this year. The cast will be as follows: Mrs. Hardcastle, Miss E. M. Everett, G. Mr. Hardcastle, Miss May Wise, '01; Miss Hardcastle, Miss B. P. Andrews, '04; Miss Neville, Miss E. H. Hirsch, '03; Dolly, Miss Hardcastle's maid, Miss B. E. Doubleday, '03; Mr. Marlowe, Miss Annette Austin, '01; Mr. Hastings, Miss Bertha M. Downes, '04; Tony Lumpkin, Miss Mary M. Crawford, '04; Diggory, Miss F. B. Corse, '02.

The basketball teams of Sage College played an exhibition game on Friday, May 3, for the benefit of the college crew. The champion 1902 team played a combination made up from the 1903 and 1904 teams. The proceeds of the game will be used to help purchase a new shell.

Miss Winifred C. Benedict, '02, has been appointed by the warden to take charge of the Sage College library for the remainder of the year.

Delta Gamma gave its annual dance in Sage Gymnasium on Saturday, May 4. Among the guests was Miss Harriet Dodge, '00.

On account of the little time remaining, Manager Blair has decided not to schedule a track meet for May 11, the date on which the team was to go to Syracuse. This leaves no meet after that of the coming Saturday, until the Intercollegiate meet on May 24. As the progress of the training has been considerably retarded by the bad weather, this long period of work should result in having the team in the best of condition for the Intercollegiate and the Princeton meets.

Arrangements have been perfected whereby the Francis Boat Club will row Syracuse University June 14 on Onondaga Lake. Owing to the objection of Syracuse, the Dauntless Boat Club will not be invited to enter. The Francis Club expects to begin practice for the race today.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the Amherst College track team will meet Syracuse University at Syracuse on May 11, the date for which the Syracuse-Cornell meet had previously been arranged.

Syracuse University secured 79 points against Rochester University's 25, in the dual track meet held at Syracuse last Saturday.

Change in Cross Country Management.

During the past term the Athletic Council has been attempting to bring about a harmonious settlement of the differences between the committee on general athletics and the Cornell Cross Country Club. At a meeting of the Athletic Council held April 22, the following resolutions were submitted by the Cross Country Club; "The Cross Country Club under existing circumstances deems it desirable to resign all control of intercollegiate cross country running."

The Athletic Council decided to assume absolute charge of intercollegiate cross country running and authorized the track management to appoint a temporary assistant manager to take charge of cross country affairs and to arrange next year's schedule. This was brought about as a result of a meeting held between members of the Council and representatives of the Cross Country Club. After a long and careful consideration of the interests at stake, certain resolutions were submitted to the Cross Country Club for approval. Several meetings of the Cross Country Club have been called but no final action on the resolutions has yet been taken by it.

The resolutions as submitted are as follows:

The Cross Country club of Cornell University hereby acknowledges the authority of the Athletic Council and agrees to place its racing team under the jurisdiction of the committee on General Athletics in accordance with the terms of the following agreement made between the Athletic Council and the Cross Country club.

1. The Cross Country team shall have a captain who is a member of that team and who is separate and distinct from the captain of the Athletic team.

2. The Cross Country team shall be chosen on a competitive basis by a committee of three, consisting of a representative of the Cross Country club, the captain of the Athletic team acting as the representative of the committee on General Athletics, and the trainer of the Athletic team.

3. The Cross Country teams shall have the same trainer as the Athletic team and the functions of said trainer shall be determined by the committee on General Athletics, acting with the captain of the Cross Country team.

4. There shall be a second assistant Manager of General Athletics who shall have charge of the Cross Country teams and shall make all arrangements for those teams subject to the approval of the manager of the athletic team and of the committee on General Athletics. Nominations for assistant manager of General Athletics in charge of the Cross Country teams may be made only by members of the Cross Country club. He shall be elected by the Athletic Council in accordance with the by-laws of the Council.

5. Cross Country running comprises all running of distances longer than two miles, except track running.

6. The Cross Country club hereby agrees to so charge its constitution as to make that instrument agree in all details with the by-laws and rules of the Athletic Council.

The parties to this agreement deem it desirable that the representatives from the Athletic Council to the Intercollegiate Cross Country association of America should be the assistant manager of the athletic team in charge of the Cross Country teams.
